The officers and teachers of the M. E. Sunday school elected officers for this year are as follows: Superintendent, Dr. J. W. Laughlin; secretary, L. D. Thrasher; treasurer, J. H. McRobie; librarian, Ray Jones; teachers, Mrs. J. W. Laughlin, W. C. Jones, J. H. McRobie, Mrs. L. D. Thrasher, Miss Ella Laughlin and Miss Emma George; committee on Sunday school work, Mrs. J. W. Laughlin, Mr. L. D. Thrasher and Mrs. S. A. Laughlin.

Glad to see the Accident correspondent is still alive. Would like to know if it is the same one who told us about that wonderful pumpkin some time ago. M. A.

Pneumonia Can be Prevented.

This disease always results from a cold or an attack of the grip and may be prevented by the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. That remedy was extensively used during the epidemics of La Grippe of the past few years, and not a single case has ever been reported that did not recover or that resulted in pneumonia, which shows it to be a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has gained a world wide reputation for its cures of colds and grip. For sale by all druggists.

Danger Signals.

If you are broken down, nervous and weak, have indigestion, cold hands and feet palpitation of heart, aching of bones and muscles or can't sleep at night and always tired in the morning, buy 3 or 4 boxes of HERCULEANS and follow the directions, then tell your afflicted friends the result. There is no better alterative pill compounded. They will renovate and renew your whole system. Get them of your druggist or merchant or send 35 cents to the AHMISS HEALTH ALLIANCE, Mt. Lake Park, Md. 3 Boxes by mail $1.00 5-1 y.

Stops the Cough and Works off the Cold.

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 5 cents.

Some Reasons
Why You Should Insist on Having
EUREKA HARNESS OIL
Unequaled by any other.
Renders hard leather soft.
Especially prepared.
Keeps out water.
A heavy bodied oil.
HARNESS
An excellent preservative.
Reduces cost of your harness.
Never burns the leather; its
Efficiency is increased.
Secures best service.
Stitches kept from breaking.
OIL
Is sold in all
Localities
Manufactured by Standard Oil Company.

THE BALTIMORE AMERICAN.
ESTABLISHED 1773.
The Daily American.
Terms by Mail, Postage Prepaid:

Daily, One Month	$ .30
Daily and Sunday, One Month	.45
Daily, Three Months	.90
Daily and Sunday, Three Months	1.30
Daily, Six Months	1.50
Daily and Sunday, Six Months	2.25
Daily, One Year	3.00
Daily, with Sunday Edition, One Year	4.50
Sunday Edition, One Year	1.50

The Twice-a-Week American.
The Cheapest and Best Family Newspaper Published.
ONLY ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.
Six Months, 50 Cents.
THE TWICE-A-WEEK AMERICAN is published in two issues, Tuesday and Friday mornings, with the news of the week in compact shape. It also contains interesting special correspondence, entertaining romances, good poetry, local matter of general interest and fresh miscellany suitable for the home circle. A carefully edited Agricultural Department, and full and reliable Financial and Market Reports, are special features.
CHAS. C. FULTON & CO.
FELIS AGNUS, Manager and Pub'r.
AMERICAN OFFICE,
BALTIMORE, MD.

Illinois Central R. R.
PERSONALLY CONDUCTED EXCURSIONS TO CALIFORNIA
VIA NEW ORLEANS
AND THE SOUTHERN ROUTE.
VIA OMAHA
AND THE SCENIC ROUTE.
NEW THROUGH LINE OF
HOT SPRINGS, ARK.
BY WAY OF MEMPHIS.
E. A. RICHTER, T. P. A.
812 Park Building, Pittsburg, Pa.
A. H. HANSON, Gen. Pass. Agt., CHICAGO.

Rough, Red Hands
LILY CREAM
LOGAN DRUG COMPANY,
At your Druggist.

A Gallon of PURE LINSEED OIL mixed with a gallon of Hammar Paint $1.25
makes 2 gallons of the VERY BEST PAINT in the WORLD for $2.50, or Saves 25 per cent
of your paint bill. IS FAR MORE DURABLE than PURE WHITE LEAD and is ABSOLUTELY NOT POISONOUS. HAMMAR PAINT is made of the BEST OF PAINT MATERIALS—such as all good painters use, and is ground THICK, VERY THICK. No trouble to mix, any boy can do it. It is the COMMON SENSE OF HOUSE PAINT. No BETTER paint can be made at ANY cost, and is Guaranteed 5 years
NOT TO CRACK, BLISTER, PEEL or CHIP.
F. HAMMAR PAINT CO., St. Louis, Mo.
Sold and guaranteed by
J. W. LAUGHLIN,
DEER PARK, MD.
Estab. 1872

E. W. Grove
This signature is on every box of the genuine Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets
the remedy that cures a cold in one day

The Garrett County Bank
OAKLAND, MD.
Pays 3 Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.
Subscribed Capital, - $50,000.00
Liability of Stockholders, 100,000.00
Surplus Fund, - - 10,000.00
DIRECTORS:
DANIEL E. OFFUTT,
GILMOR S. HAMILL,
JOHN M. DAVIS,
GEORGE W. LEGGE,
JOHN T. MITCHELL,
JOHN M. FREELAND,
SCOTT T. JONES.
D. E. OFFUTT, President.
G. S. HAMILL, Vice-President.
S. T. JONES, Cashier.

Authorized Capital $32,000.
The First National Bank
OF OAKLAND, MD.
Now Open for Business
Offers to its patrons every advantage consistent with sound Banking, and which their balances, business and responsibility warrant.
3 per cent. Interest Paid on Time Deposits.
WE SOLICIT YOUR BUSINESS.
DIRECTORS.
Ed A. Browning, - Oakland, Md.
C. E. Ellithorp, - Bittinger, Md.
L. E. Friend, - Friendsville, Md.
Wm. Moody, - Bloomington, Md.
U. G. Palmer, - Hutton, Md.
R. A. Ravenscroft, Accident, Md.
E. E. Sollars, - Oakland, Md.
U. M. Stanton, - Grantsville, Md.
F. A. Thayer, - Oakland, Md.
M. N. Wilson, - Wilson, W. Va.
OFFICERS.
F. A. THAYER, - President.
M. N. WILSON, - Vice-President.
U. G. PALMER, - Cashier.
M. R. HAMILL, Assistant Cashier.

TURNBULL'S Furniture, Carpeting and Curtains.
Elegance, moderate cost and unequalled assortments are the characteristics of our stock. It represents the best of everything in CARPETING, FURNITURE and CURTAINS.
JOHN TURNBULL & CO., 16-18-20 W. Baltimore St., BALTIMORE, MD.

You Get the Profits
Under our plan of selling carriages, buggies, and harness, you get the profits. The jobber and retailer are cut out. By dealing direct with the manufacturer, you pay only the cost of making with a moderate profit added; and you take your choice from the biggest stock and fullest assortment. Our plan of
Selling Carriages Direct
insures satisfaction—your money back if you are dissatisfied. Our complete illustrated catalogue, showing many styles of high grade vehicles, harness, robes, blankets and horse equipments, with detailed descriptions of each, mailed free.
No. 3034—Buggy. Price, $38.30, with leather quarter top.
No. 340—Single Strap Buggy Harness. Price, $7.95.
THE COLUMBUS CARRIAGE AND HARNESS CO., Box 772, Columbus, Ohio.

THE SECOND NATIONAL BANK of CUMBERLAND, MD.
Designated United States Depository.
SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.
BOXES FREE TO CUSTOMERS.
This Bank Pays Three Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Capital	$100,000
Surplus and Other Undivided Profits	250,000
Liability of Shareholders	100,000
Additional Security to Depositors	$450,000

LLOYD LOWNDES, President.
D. ANNAN, Cashier.
DIRECTORS:
Lloyd Lowndes, O. C. Gephart,
James Clark, L. M. Shepherd,
John Sheridan, A. Hunter Boyd,
David W. Sloan.

Midget Harness Riveter.
Complete repair shop in one tool. Will not wear out. Punches the hole, drives and clinches at one operation. Every horse owner, liveryman, teamster will buy on sight. Does the work of any $25 machine. Complete outfit with big bog of rivets will be sent for
ONLY 50 CENTS.
Agents Wanted.
HANDY ADJUSTABLE LIFTER. Handiest article ever invented for lifting hot pans, stove lids, etc. 15c, postpaid.
S. T. WILSON & CO.,
Box 103. Wilson, W. Va.

I HAVE PURCHASED
THE OAKLAND COAL YARD
of Mr. D. L. Conneway and will continue the business. I will keep constantly on hand a large supply of
HARD AND SOFT
COAL,
KINDLING WOOD, Etc.
All orders will receive prompt attention. Leave orders with the weighmaster or at my residence, the Giessman Hotel.
35-2 GEO. GIESSMAN

Oakland Pharmacy
JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.
Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars
Cameras and Photo Supplies

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.
183½ acres coal land on Youghiogheny river, 7 miles north of Oakland.
The Andrews property in Oakland for sale.
House on 5th street, opposite the jail for sale.
A farm one mile from Oakland, containing 187⅝ acres; about 50 or 60 acres cleared and under cultivation; has been thoroughly limed. Balance of land well timbered. On this farm is one of the best dwelling houses in the county; also stables, wagon sheds, spring house and all necessary outbuildings; water within five feet of kitchen door. This property will be sold cheap.
New house containing eight rooms, cellar, etc., and 26⅛ acres of ground; barn, stable, and all other outbuildings, adjoining the town of Grantsville, Garrett county. This property is known as the Samuel J. Beachy property, and will be sold cheap.
A farm five miles from Oakland on the Aurora road, containing 200 acres, well watered, fenced, etc.; a good dwelling house, a new barn built last year cost $1,000, and all other necessary outbuildings. This property will be sold on easy terms.
A farm 2½ miles southwest of Oakland, containing ninety acres of ground, well watered and fenced; has been thoroughly limed, and is under a high state of cultivation. First-class dwelling house; new bank barn put up this year; stone spring house and all other necessary outbuildings. One hundred and twenty-five bearing fruit trees of choicest variety. This farm can be bought on easy terms.
A farm five and two-third miles north of Swanton, containing one hundred and ten acres of land, comparatively level, well watered and under fence; eighty acres cleared and under a high state of cultivation; twenty-five acres of good timber; an orchard which never fails to produce fruit, consisting of peaches, pears, plums and apple trees. The buildings on this farm consist of an elegant dwelling house, containing six rooms and a cellar; a bank barn 40x60 feet; a spring house and all necessary outbuildings. This farm can be bought for part cash and balance on time to suit purchaser.
A farm known as the "Swauger Mill Property," containing eighty-six acres of land, partly cleared and balance in hemlock timber. The buildings consist of a dwelling house, small storehouse, a water-power grist mill, stable and all other necessary outbuildings. Besides being well watered by a stream running from one end of the place to the other it has on it a lake, covering about seven acres, which has been stocked with 40,000 brook and rain bow trout. This property can be bought at a low figure, part cash and balance on time, to suit purchaser, at five per cent. interest.
I have also houses to rent and sell in the town of Oakland.
For further particulars apply to
JOHN T. SINCELL,
Real Estate and Insurance Agent,
OAKLAND, MD.

J. B. WILLIAMS CO.
FROSTBURG, MD.
Cheapest place to buy
MONUMENTS HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING
Send for prices
LAND FOR SALE!
I am now offering for sale in large or small quantities, 31,000 acres of a tract known as "Swanton," and better known as the "Anderson lands," situated in Garrett County, Md. This land is well timbered and underlaid with many valuable veins of mineral; also suitable for farming purposes and grazing.
All trespassing will be prosecuted to the utmost extent of the law.
Call on or address:
C. A. WILT, Agent.

GEO. FLACK SAN ARCHITECT,
Office 7 North Liberty St.
CUMBERLAND, MD.

NORMAN S. HEINDEL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
All business given prompt attention.
Office—Opera House,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

FRED A. THAYER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
OAKLAND, MD.
STATE'S ATTORNEY FOR GARRETT COUNTY.
Office in McComas's Building, Main St.
Will be assisted in all important cases by Benjamin A. Richmond of the Cumberland bar.

GILMOR S. HAMILL
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY
OFFICE ON ALDER STREET.
Particular attention given to Conveyancing, investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated. [e14-1y

JULIUS C. RENNINGER,
ATTORNEY & COUNSELLOR AT LAW
Office opposite Bank, OAKLAND, MD.
Will practice in the courts of Maryland and West Virginia.
Real estate and mercantile law given special attention. Collections and investments made for clients. 45—1yr

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia. '88 10 e

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas building, Second Street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work. 18-98-tf.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
Felty Building, Opposite Postoffice,
OAKLAND, MD
GAS ADMINISTERED. 50-97

DR. C. HINEBAUGH, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
OAKLAND, MD.
Office and residence, Alder St., west of post office.

DR. W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North 3rd Street.
Office in Shartzer's Block, Second Street.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Offers his services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Prompt attention paid to day or night calls.
Office at McComas' Sanitarium. 16-'99

DR. W. H. McCOMAS, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Office opposite Garrett County Bank.
Residence on Main Street, opposite Brown's Hotel.
Office hours, 8 to 10 a. m., 2 to 3 p. m., 8 to 9 p. m., from June to October and from October to June, 7 to 8.30 p. m.

DR. D. O. McKINLEY,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
SALISBURY, PENNA.
Will visit regularly through Garrett county, Md., and offers his services to those wishing Dental Treatment. Charges moderate
P. O. address, Elk Lick, Pa. 6 22 6

E. J. FRANTZ,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER,
Residence and P. O. Address,
SELBYSPORT, MD.

ANDREW J. HARNE,
AUCTIONEER.
Will sell real or personal property.
Residence Oakland, Garrett county, Md
Oakland, Md., Feb. 21st, 1887.

W. McCULLOH BROWN,
SURVEYOR AND ENGINEER,
LAND SURVEYS PROMPTLY MADE.
Particular attention given to TOWN surveying, and the use of the LEVEL in laying out new roads, streets, water works, drains, and GRADE LINES generally, including tram ways and railroad work. Comparative elevations taken quickly by aneroid barometer. Address, box 41, Oakland, Md. 48 26t*

JONAS C. BEACHY,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
Will sell Real or Personal Estate.
Residence and post office address, BITTINGER, MD. 51-1yr.

ALEX'R C. MASON,
PRACTICAL SURVEYOR,
OAKLAND, MD.
Long experience enables me to locate tracts and military lots promptly and accurately. Being thoroughly familiar with the beginning corners of the most important surveys both in Allegany and Garrett counties. Plats, descriptions and estimates furnished. 40-1yr.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R. TIME TABLE IN EFFECT NOV. 25, 1900.

The following time table on the B. & O. went into effect on Sunday, Nov. 25, 1900, Trains now leave Oakland as follows:

GOING WEST.

No. 7.—Daily	3.40 A. M
No. 3—Daily	7.37 A. M
No. 71—Daily except Sunday	9.21 A. M
No. 55—Daily	4.47 P. M
No. 1—Daily	10.05 P. M

GOING EAST.

No. 8—Daily	5.50 A. M
No. 2—Daily	6.58 A. M
No. 46—Express, daily	4.41 P. M
No. 72—Accom daily except Sun	2.26 P. M
No. 12—Daily	8.30 P. M
No. 4—Daily	12.37 A. M

F. D. UNDERWOOD, General Manager.
D. B. MARTIN,
Manager of Passenger Traffic.
D. M. MASON, Agent.

WEST VIRGINIA CENTRAL AND PITTSBURG RAILWAY CO.
IN EFFECT NOV 25, 1900.

SOUTHWARD No. 3 P. M.	SOUTHWARD No. 1 A. M.	STATIONS	NORTHWARD No. 2 NOON	NORTHWARD No. 4 P. M.
3 15†	7 00† lv	Cumberland ar	†12 00	†7 00
3 43	7 29	Rawlings	11 31	6 31
4 06	7 52	Keyser	11 08	6 09
4 16	8 05	Westernport	10 58	5 57
4 20	8 09	W. Va. C. June.	10 51	5 50
4 39	8 35	Shaw	10 28	5 22
5 00	9 00	Harrison	†10 06	†5 00
5 45*	9 50* ar	Elk Garden	*8 10	*4 10
5 41†	9 35† lv	Gorman	†9 35	4 30
5 47	9 42	Bayard	9 29	4 25
5 59	9 54	Dobbin	9 19	4 15
6 02	9 58	Henry	9 15	4 11
6 27	10 27	Thomas	8 48	3 47
6 55	10 55 ar	Davis	8 05	3 05
6 31	10 34 lv	Coketon	8 41	3 40
6 59	11 01	Hendricks	8 10	3 10
7 02	11 04	Hambleton	8 07	3 07
7 05	11 07	Bretz	8 03	3 03
7 08	11 10	Parsons	8 00	3 00
7 43	11 45	Kerens	7 25	2 39
8 00†	12 00† ar	Elkins	lv †7 10	†2 15
	NOON			P. M.
8 36*	12 45† ar	Beverly	lv*7 20	†1 40
9 05*	1 10† ar	Huttonsville	lv *6 30	†1 15
P. M.				P. M.
	3 15* ar	Bealington	lv	*11 40
	P. M.			A. M. A. M.

†Daily. *Daily except Sunday.

C. L. BRETZ, Gen. Manager. G. W. HARRISON, Gen. Pas. Agent

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 24. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, MARCH 7, 1901. NUMBER 52.

M'KINLEY INAUGURATED!

An Imposing Event at the National Capital.

ROOREVELT TAKES THE OATH.

Four More Years of Republican Rule. Military Pageant Was the Finest Ever Held in Washington—The Street Decorations Were More Than Usually Tasteful.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—President McKinley at 1:17 p. m., was sworn in to succeed himself as chief magistrate on a handsomely decorated stand at the east front of the capitol, in the presence of a surging multitude.

The dense undulating throng filled all the winding walks, the broad avenues and radiating streets, overflowing in thousands to the sweep of lawn, and even seeking tree tops for points of vantage. Quite as many women were in the throng as men.

It is estimated that 40,000 people were packed in this assemblage. But despite the crush, no word came of fainting women or serious accident to mar the festivities.

Just before 1 o'clock, a drizzling sleet with hail began to fall, and over the sea of heads went up countless umbrellas, some of them of fantastic color and patriotic hue. The sky turned from gray to black and the signs looked ominous. But the crowd held its ground unmindful of the lowering sky and slanting hail.

The President was greeted with cheer after cheer when he went upon the inaugural platform and bowed his acknowledgments.

It was 1 o'clock when the official party came through the main doorway of the capitol. The presidential party did not appear until all the invited guests had assembled and everything was in readiness to administer the oath. By this time the hail had turned into a steady, drizzling rain.

As President McKinley stepped out upon the portico a cheer went up which was echoed and re-echoed until the stand fairly trembled with the volume of sound. The President bowed his acknowledgments of the greeting. He put on his hat as he stepped into the open, and his overcoat was buttoned high up to keep off the beating drops. He moved across the portico and then, pausing at the top of the high marble stairs, again waved his salutations to the continued huzzas. With him was Chief Justice Fuller.

Through the lines of Senators and officials the President proceeded to the center of the pavilion, going forward to the railing and facing the assemblage, again and again bowing his acknowledgments to the tremendous chorus of 40,000 throats. Then he turned and shook hands with Vice President Roosevelt, while another cheer went up as the two central figures—McKinley and Roosevelt—stood out above the crowd.

The President and Chief Justice advanced to the center of the pavilion. The President removed his hat and raised his right hand. Faintly could be heard the words of the Chief Justice and the measured response of the President taking the oath. Then he turned again to the people, and, advancing to the railing of the pavilion, began his inaugural address. As he spoke the pent-up clouds gave out their full force, and the pelting rain came down in sheets, throwing a watery veil over the dripping multitudes. Under his pavilion the President was well protected, and there was no faltering in his address as the down-pour continued.

Mr. McKinley in his inaugural address told of the disappearance of the anxiety with regard to our currency and credit which existed in March, 1897, and of the substitution of industrial activity for business depression. He declared that the national verdict of 1896 had been executed, reviewed the war with Spain, to avert which he did all that in honor could be done, and he expressed the hope of the continuation of the present peace with all the world, and that future differences might be settled by arbitration. He spoke of his appreciation of the great responsibilities upon him, and asked for generous support in the performance of duties. He commented upon the disappearance of sectionalism and then launched into a discussion of the problems confronting the nation as follows:

"There are some national questions in the solution of which patriotism should exclude partizanship. Magnifying their difficulties will not take them off our hands nor facilitate their adjustment. Distrust of the capacity, integrity and high purposes of the American people will not be an inspiring theme for future political contests. Dark pictures and gloomy forebodings are worse than useless. These only becloud, they do not help to point the way of safety and honor. 'Hope maketh not ashamed.' The prophets of evil were not the builders of the republic, nor in its crisis since have they saved or served it. The faith of the fathers was a mighty force in its creation and the faith of their descendents has wrought its progress and furnished its defenders. They are obstructionists who despair and who would destroy confidence in the ability of our people to solve wisely and for civilization the mighty problems resting upon them. The American people, entrenched in freedom at home, take their love for it with them wherever they go, and they reject as mistaken and unworthy the doctrine that we lose our own liberties by securing the enduring foundation of liberty to others. Our institutions will not deteriorate by extension and our sense of justice will not abate under tropic suns in distant seas. As heretofore, so hereafter, will the nation demonstrate its fitness to administer any new estate which events devolve upon it, and in the fear of God will 'take occasion by the hand and make the bounds of freedom wider yet.' If there are those among us who would make our way more difficult, we must not be disheartened, but the more earnestly dedicate ourselves to the task upon which we have rightly entered. The path of progress is seldom smoothe. New things are often found hard to do. Our fathers found them so. We find them so. They are inconvenient. They cost us something. But are we not made better for the effort and sacrifice, and are not those we serve lifted up and blessed?

"We will be consoled, too, with the fact that opposition has confronted every onward movement of the republic from its opening hour until now, but without success. The republic has marched on and on, and its every step has exalted freedom and humanity. We are undergoing the same ordeal as did our predecessors nearly a century ago. We are following the course they blazed. They triumphed. Will their successors falter and plead organic impotency in the nation? Surely after 125 years of achievement for mankind we will not surrender our equality with other powers on matters fundamental and essential to nationality. With no such purpose was the nation created. In no such spirit has it developed its full and independent sovereignty. We adhere to the principles of equality among ourselves, and by no act of ours will we assign to ourselves a subordinate rank in the family of nations.

"My fellow citizens, the public events of the past four years have gone into history. They are too near to justify recital. Some of them were unforseen; many of them momentous and far-reaching in their consequences to ourselves and our relations with the rest of the world. The part which the United States bore so honorably in the thrilling scenes in China, while new to American life, has been in harmony with its true spirit and best traditions, and in dealing with the results its policy will be that of moderation and fairness.

"We face at this moment a most important question—that of the future relations of the United States and Cuba. With our near neighbors we must remain close friends. The declaration of the purposes of this government in the resolutions of April 20, 1898, must be made good. Ever since the evacuation of the island by the army of Spain the executive with all practicable speed has been assisting its people in the successive steps necessary to the establishment of a free and independent government prepared to assume and perform the obligations of international law which now rests upon the United States under the treaty of Paris. The convention elected by the people to frame a constitution is approaching the completion of its labors. The transfer of American control to the new government is of such great importance, involving an obligation resulting from our intervention and the treaty of peace, that I am glad to be advised by the recent act of Congress of the policy which the legislative branch of the government deems essential to the best interests of Cuba and the United States. The principles which led to our intervention require that the fundamental law upon which the government rests should be adapted to secure a government capable of performing the duties and discharging the functions of a separate nation, of observing its international obligations of protecting life and property, insuring order, safety and liberty, and conforming to the established and historical policy of the United States in its relation to Cuba.

"The peace which we are pledged to leave to the Cuban people must carry with it the guarantees of permanence. We become for the pacification of the island and we remain accountable to the Cubans, no less than to our own country and people for the reconstruction of Cuba as a free commonwealth on abiding foundation of right, justice, liberty and assured order. Our enfranchisement of the people will not be completed until free Cuba shall be a reality, not a name; a perfect entity, not a hasty experiment bearing within itself the elements of failure.

"While the treaty of peace with Spain was ratified on the 6th of February, 1899, and ratifications were exchanged nearly two years ago, the Congress has indicated no form of government for the Philippine islands. It has, however, provided an army to enable the executive to suppress insurrection, restore peace, give security to the inhabitants and establish the authority of the United States throughout the archipelago. It has authorized the organization of native troops as auxiliary to the regular force. It has been advised of the acts of the military and naval officers in the islands, of my action in appointing civil commissions, of the instructions with which they were charged, of their duties and powers, of their recommendations of of their several acts under executive commission, together with the very complete general information they have submitted. These reports fully set forth the conditions, past and present, in the islands, and the instructions clearly show the principles which will guide the executive until the Congress shall, as it is required to do by the treaty, determine 'the civil rights and political status of the native inhabitants.' The Congress having added the sanction of its authority to the powers already possessed and exercised by the executive under the constitution, thereby leaving 'with the executive the responsibility for the government of the Philippines, I shall continue the efforts already begun until order shall be restored throughout the islands, and as fast as conditions permit establish local governments, in the formation of which the full cooperation of the people has been already invited, and when established will encourage the people to administer them. The settled purpose, long ago proclaimed, to afford the inhabitants of the islands self-government as fast as they were ready for it will be pursued with earnestness and fidelity. Already something has been accomplished in this direction. The government's representatives, civil and military, are doing faithful and noble work in their mission of emancipation, and merit the aproval and support of their countrymen. The most liberal terms of amnesty have already been communicated to the insurgents and the doorway is open for those who have raised arms against the government for honorable submission to its authority. Our countrymen should not be deceived. We are not waging war againt the inhabitants of the Philippine Islands.

"A portion of them are making war against the United States. By far the greater part of the inhabitants recognize American sovereignty and welcome it as a guaranty of order and of security for life, property, liberty, freedom of conscience and the pursuit of happiness. To them full protection will be given. They shall not be abandoned. We will not leave the destiny of the loyal millions in the islands to the disloyal thousands who are in rebellion against the United States. Order under civil institutions will come as soon as those who now break the peace shall keep it. Force will not be used when those who make war against us shall make it no more. May it end without further bloodshed and there be ushered in the reign of peace to be made permanent by a government of liberty under law."

Before the ceremony of taking the oath of office and the inaugural address, the President, having been escorted from the White House by Grand Marshal Green, staff, veterans of the civil war, and two bands, including the Rough Rider band, went to the President's room adjoining the Senate lobby and signed the last bills passed by Congress. Senator Hanna and Representatives McRae and Cannon rode with the President on their journey from the White House, and the cabinet, Admiral Dewey and General Miles and Secretary Cortelyou occupied other carriages.

Theodore Roosevelt, of New York, was inducted into the office of Vice-President of the United States in the Senate chamber. The solemn oath was administered by Senator William F. Frye, of Maine, president pro tempore of the United States Senate.

Blind Chaplain Milburn opened the first session of the Senate of the Fifty-seventh Congress with prayer. Vice-President Roosevelt then delivered his address. As he concluded he was applauded both on the floor and in the galleries. The Vice-President then called upon the secretary to read the President's proclamation calling the Senate into extra session. This finished, the Senators-elect were called forward to be sworn in.

The procession from the capitol was practically in the same order as the trip from the White House, except that the contingent of war veterans who acted as the guard of honor in the first parade were omitted in the return. The weather which had been exceedingly bad for about two hours improved slightly soon after the parade started, but rain drizzled intermittently during the afternoon.

President McKinley, in spite of the predictions that he would cut out the return trip of the parade, on account of the weather, followed the Ohio troop in his open carriage with a cloud of steam rising from the glossy coats of the four horses. Behind him in the next carriage came Vice President Roosevelt. Both he and the President were greeted with enthusiasm all along the line of the parade.

At 8 o'clock p. m. the inaugural ball began at the pension building, at which Mrs. McKinley suddenly became ill. An aerial display of fireworks on the grounds south of the Executive Mansion was another attraction.

Cabinet Officers Renominated.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The President to-day sent the following nominations to the Senate:

John Hay, of the District of Columbia, to be secretary of state; Lyman J. Gage, of Illinois, to be secretary of the treasury; Elihu Root, of New York, to be secretary of war; John W. Griggs, of New Jersey, to be attorney general; Charles Emory Smith, of Pennsylvania, to be postmaster general; John D. Long, of Massachusetts, to be secretary of the navy; Ethan A. Hitchcock, of Missouri, to be secretary of the interior; James Wilson, of Iowa, to be secretary of agriculture.

The Senate confirmed all the cabinet nominations. Attorney General Griggs will not hold office long, as he is desirous of retiring to his lucrative law practice. However, he will probably retain his office until the President is able to choose his successor.

Mr. McKinley also issued to-day a new commission to Mr. George B. Cortelyou, secretary to the President.

Merit System for B. & O.

The higher officials of the Baltimoro and Ohio railroad have sent out a statement from Baltimore that hereafter all promotions of men will be strictly upon merit. In so far as it is possible the civil service idea will prevail, the oldest man being given the next position above him in case of a vacancy. If he is not capable of filling the post the next highest man will be taken. The road does not intend to cripple its system by adhering blindly to the civil service idea, but where the candidate is capable he will take his turn at promotions. This is considered a safe weeding process.

The Oakland Normal.

The Oakland Normal will open on April 8th and continue for a term of ten weeks. All wishing a thorough normal training are cordially invited to attend. Special attention will be given to the common school classes and theory and practice of teaching. Any wishing to study Latin or the higher branches can do so. We are going to procure the services of a competent assistant and together expect to make this one of the best normals in the county. Tuition—$6 for first grade, $5 for second grade. Good boarding can be obtained at $2.50 per week and upwards.

For further particulars address

51-3t. A. C. DEWITT, Hoyes, Md.

Prisoners Break Jail at Cumberland.

Nine prisoners escaped from the Allegany county jail early Tuesday morning. Frank Francis was the ring leader in the escape and with him went John W. Osbourn, Charles Oberley, Daniel Crothers and Walter Dryer, four young bandits charged with hold-up and larceny, and two of them with murderous assault on a police officer; Frank Young, Edward Jenks and James Heckman, charged with larceny, and Wm. Stanley.

The escape was boldly planned and carried out. Francis picked the lock on his cell door and once freeing himself released his confederates by picking the locks of their cells. He used a piece of an iron band from an old bucket. All of the 29 prisoners were given a chance to escape, but they refused to leave.

AT THE INAUGURATION.

Josh Wink Explains America and American Institutions to an Intelligent but Inqusitive Foreigner.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—A Foreigner of Unusual Inteiligence accosted me this morning. I was standing partially on his toes and partially on Pennsylvania avenue, with one elbow pushing his watch into his internal economy, which threatened serious results, unless his digestion was good.

"I beg pardon," said the Intelligent Foreigner, "but how soon will the President come along?"

"Ask me an easy one," I replied, with a sweet smile, as I shifted to his other foot, and pulled an umbrella handle out of my eye.

"Where do the common people stand today?"

"We have no common people in this country, except during the national campaigns."

"Ah, then, none but the nobility are in this vast crowd?"

"Nobility?"

"Yes; are they all decorated?"

"How?"

"Why? Do you not see how many orders they have pinned on their breasts?"

"Those aren't orders. They're badges."

"Badges?"

"Yes."

"But why are they worn?"

"Because the people want them."

"What do they signify?"

"Nothing."

"Ah, you Americans are a wonderful people. You wear decorations which mean nothing, and—

At this point we were interrupted by a gruff voice:

"Here! Youse guys quit shovin' an' make less noise, or I'll run yez in!"

"Who is that," whispered the Intelligent Foreigner, "the President?"

"No; that's a policeman."

"Does he own the streets, and must the people obey him?"

"Yes."

"But I thought this was a free country."

"It is."

"Yet—"

But the parade reached us, and the I. F. paused to see it.

"Why are so many soldiers in line? Why do they carry guns? Is a revolution feared?"

"No; they carry guns because they look well in the pictures."

"I thought perhaps they knew they would meet a policeman."

"Maybe."

"Oh, there he is! There is the President!"

"Not much. That's a drum major."

"I beg your pardon."

"Beg his."

"How do they inaugurate your President?"

"Swear him in."

"But, do they not crown him, or kneel to him?"

"Not unless they want a postoffice."

"Then why do they have so many soldiers?"

"Why does a kite have a tail?"

"Why do so many others march?"

"Can't stand on the sidewalk."

"Then America is divided into two classes—those who—

"Those who hold office and those who want it."

"What does a man do when he fails to be elected President?

"Starts a paper."

"Ah, your America is a peculiar country. A man loses an office—he starts a paper; smash a saloon—start a paper; get a divorce, lost a prize fight, kill a man—"

"Go on the stage."

"Why do all the people shout?"

"The President is going by."

"But we cannot see him. Why do they shout?"

"Maybe that's why."

"Ah, America is—"

"Yes; America is a peculiar country, and if you don't like it, you may go home and write a book about it, or stay here and make a fortune, or marry an heiress, and spend one already made. But if you have any more questions, you send them to the query editor."

Then I got off his toes and started away, followed by a faint:

"But why?—"

JOSH WINK.

A Much Wanted Thief.

J. A. Graham, the self-confessed horse thief in jail at Keyser, has been identified as a much wanted man from Metz, Marion county, West Virginia. It is said that he has stolen horses all over the State, but had so far evaded arrest. A picture sent from Metz is an exact likeness of Graham and he admits he is the man wanted.

TO CURE LAGRIPPE IN TWO DAY

Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE TABLETS. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature on every box. 25c.

Widening Tunnels.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad company is making extensive repairs on nearly all the tunnels along the line. The work of widening the Kingwood tunnel will be completed in a few weeks. Mr. M. J. Corrigan, general inspector and superintendent of tunnels, will begin about April 1 to widen Hitchcock's tunnel, about half way up the seventeen mile grade, on the Pittsburg division. The tunnel, which is now twenty-five feet wide, will be made thirty feet, the standard width for double track tunnels. It will also be made higher to insure perfect safety to a car or engine of any height. When the arch is completed the tunnel will be twenty-seven feet high, making it one of the highest on the Baltimore and Ohio system. Mr. Corrigan will put a large force of men to work about the middle of April, tearing out the timbered arch at the west end of Doe Gully tunnel and put in a brick arch 100 feet long. When the work is completed, the tunnel will be a little over 1,800 feet long. It is perfectly straight and can be seen through from one end to the other. The widening of the tunnels is necessitated by the recent increase in traffic and on account of using larger and wider cars and engines than were used when the tunnels were built.

Married at Midnight.

On last Sunday night before the Rev. L. A. Thirlkeld could seek repose from the labors of the day, he was unexpectedly called upon to marry a couple who had driven from Grant county, West Virginia, to Keyser City. The groom presented a license obtained in Cumberland, and the tired pastor had to take them to the Maryland side of the Potomac river in order to use the legal paper. The young man offered the clergyman every inducement to tie the knot, and made room for him in the buggy, alongside of the bride, and in this way they drove to the railroad bridge. Across the track, spanning the turbulent waters, the preacher led the "wedding march," and under the shelter of "Queen's Point," with only the song of the river and the peeping moon to lend poetry to the ceremony, the minister joined these two souls for the journey of life. From intimations dropped by the groom the pastor suspects that a warm reception awaits the couple when they return to their home. However, the size of the happy husband and the legal age of both, will leave only the unconventional method of the marriage to be discussed. The fee, of course, will supplement any deficiency in the pastor's Sunday night church collection, and in this fact he finds his consolation.—Keyser Echo.

Tried to Kill His Teacher.

Prof. Thomas Becket, a prominent school teacher of Tom's Creek, near Huntington, W. Va., had a narrow escape with his life from a fractious pupil last week, who endeavored to cut his instructor in a vital point and did inflict numerous abrasions about his arms and body. Had it not been for the assistance rendered by other scholars Becket's chances would have been slim. Burn Tomson, the vicious youth, is but 14 years of age, but is powerfully built. He had been unruly and had as a punishment for the offense, been refused permission to leave the school room during recess. When he started to go anyhow the teacher attempted to stop him, and then Tomson pulled the knife he had secreted in his trousers and the fight began, which proved to be a terrible contest.

West Virginia's Hermit.

Dr. Allsup, West Virginia's noted hermit, was last week taken to the insane asylum at Weston. He came from Virginia to Morgantown in 1879, and would never reveal his identity. He lived on an island in the Monongahela river near there, until he killed a man and went to the penitentiary for life. Afterwards he was pardoned upon evidence tending to show self-defense. He came back to Morgantown from the penitentiary and for 20 years has lived under some hanging rocks over-looking the river. He is a man of extraordinary intelligence and evidently is of patrician birth, but the story of his early life is a sealed book. On the subject of herbs he is unbalanced, but on other matters he appears to be rational. He was committed to the asylum at the instance of the humane society.

Call For Your Letters.

Mrs. Eliza White, Mrs. Olive B. Wright, Miss Mary Baldwin, Mr. Geo. S. Bowers, Mr. Asbury Wolf, Mr. Harry Saylor, Mr. James Mayer, Mr. Chas. Hedger, Mr. J. S. Hardesty, Mr. Spencer Hardesty, Mr. James Gores, Mr. James Gorley.

E REPUBLICAN.

W. H. SINCELL, Publisher.

OAKLAND, : GARRETT CO., MD

From Fiddle to Violin

By Wright A. Patterson.

ALL sorts of stories were going the rounds of the little coterie of newspaper men congregated in the parlors of the Chicago Press club, until finally Opie Read told one of his southern yarns in which the inevitable negro musician figured.

"That story reminds me of the fact that I have at my house a fiddle belonging to you," said a member of the party, addressing Bolling Arthur Johnson, the lecturer. "It must be a remarkable fiddle, for a gentleman who was at the house the other evening, and who is a judge of such things, offered me $300 for it. I thought I might have done you a good turn by selling it."

"I would have come out just about $300 looser if you had done so," replied Johnson.

"Let's have the lie," said Read.

"There is only one good liar in the crowd, and I am not the man," replied Johnson. "But if you want to hear the true story of that fiddle I will tell it to you.

"When I was a small boy a good many years ago, so many that, like the ladies, I seldom tell of them, I lived on a farm near Galesburg, in this state. Like in all rural communities at that time the important character of the district was the fiddler, Charlie Bruner. He was a remarkably good fiddler at that, and was unusually popular among the small boys for the reason that he made it a point to give them an outing in town each New Year's day. I bought that fiddle when on one of these excursions with Bruner.

"During the previous summer and fall I had made $10 by working on the home farm and others, and had carefully saved it to spend when Bruner should take the boys to town. Every boy in the community knew of the ten dollars and was anxious to help spend it.

"One New Year's morning Bruner called around with a big sled, into which he could crowd some 20 of us, and the sled was well filled. What space was not occupied by boys was filled with straw and heavy fur robes, and we started for town. On the way into town every boy in the sled wanted to know about the ten dollars and offered advice as to what I should spend it for. That it should buy a shotgun was the final and unanimous verdict, with the exception of myself, and I scarcely knew what I wanted, but as I said nothing the boys took it for granted that I would buy the shotgun.

IT MIGHT BE A PRETTY GOOD FIDDLE.

"Once in town Bruner took us to the hotel for dinner, as was his custom, and when the meal was over the boys began to intimate that it was time to spend the ten dollars. But as I had earned the money by myself I rather wanted to spend it in the same way, and besides the shotgun idea was not entirely to my liking. I wanted a gun, but I wanted a fiddle worse, and then, too, I knew that Bruner would be disappointed if I did not get a fiddle, and I wished to please him.

"After a time I succeeded in getting away from the other boys and got out by myself. One of the first places that I found was a pawnshop with two or three fiddles hanging in the window. The place was presided over by a fatherly appearing genius who looked for all the world like William Cullen Bryant. He was the only junk dealer I have ever seen who was tall, had blue eyes and snowy white beard and hair like unto that of a patriarch. I told him I wanted to buy a fiddle, and asked him if he had one he could sell for ten dollars with a red-lined box included in the bargain. I particularized about the box, for to me that was the important part.

"He said he had, and I told him I would take it if the box was all right. From under the cheap pine counter he produced a box that seemed to me a marvel of perfection. It proved to be only a cheap pine box painted, but it was lined with the brightest of red felt and caught my eye instantly. I did not realize until afterward that I did not see the fiddle he was selling me, but he slipped it into the box under the counter, closed the lid with a snap and I paid my ten dollars and walked out.

"I got back to the sled without any of the boys seeing me, and deposited my fiddle under the hay in the front end. I did not know what to say to them boys, and wanted to put off the explanation as long as possible. For that reason I kept out of sight until we were ready to start for home and then climbed up onto the seat beside Bruner so as not to have to talk.

"'Did you get it?' asked Bruner in a whisper as soon as we left the stable yard.

"'Yes. It's under the hay down there,' I replied, pointing to the front of the sled at our feet.

"There was so much to talk about that the boys did not think to ask about the shotgun, and I thought I was going to get home without their knowing of the fiddle until we stopped at a little cross-roads grocery called Shanghai to warm up. Then Bruner's curiosity got the best of him and he simply had to see that fiddle. He brought it in from the sled and opened the box beside the stove.

"Such a looking fiddle as that was you never saw. There were no strings on it, no keys, no tail-piece, nothing but the bare frame, and that looked sadly out of tune. I was about heartbroken and the boys were mad because I had not bought the shotgun, so I got no consolation from them. But Bruner said not to mind it, as it might be a pretty good fiddle if it was fixed up a little and he had the necessary fixings.

"It was nearly midnight when he landed me at home, but he was so anxious to try the fiddle that he told me to go to bed and he would be back just as soon as he could put his team away and get the parts that the fiddle needed to put it in shape for playing. It was not more than half an hour before he was back at the house again, and a little later he had the old instrument strung up and going in good shape. I was surprised at the music he got out of it, and was very much pleased with my bargain when he pronounced it 'a pretty fair sort of a fiddle after all.'

"I never had a great amount of use for a violin, never playing one except for my own amusement, but I hung onto that old instrument through the financial trials of many years. That I never pawned it is due probably to the fact that one can get practically nothing on a violin from a junk dealer. I do not suppose that it had cost the man of whom I got it more than the price of a meal or two at the most.

"As I say, I hung onto that old fiddle, and it remained nothing more than a fiddle until 1894. It was sadly out of repair at that time, the strings were gone and it lacked a key or two, and as I looked it over one day I thought I would have it fixed up and get a little amusement for myself and annoyance for the neighbors out of it again. With that purpose in view I one day took it down to John Bowman; he then had a musical repair shop on State street near VanBuren, and asked him to fix it up as best he could. He unwrapped it and, without saying a word to me, picked up one of the tools on his work bench and began cutting the top off.

"'What are you doing there?' I asked, rather amazed at the treatment the poor old thing was receiving.

"'Do you want to sell this?' he asked in reply.

"'No,' I said, 'I want it fixed up so I can play it, but you don't have to cut it to pieces to fix it, do you?'

"'I don't believe you know what you have here, but if I am not mistaken you have one of Mathias Neuner's instruments, and I want to see the inscription that should be under here,' and he continued his operation until the lid was off.

"'No, the inscription is not here,' he said when the top was off, 'but it is a Neuner violin just the same. The inscription is up in the neck, where it does not belong. If you want to sell this I will give you $500 for it,' he added.

"No money could have bought it then. The old fiddle that I had purchased long years before in a country pawnshop for ten dollars—the first ten dollars I ever earned—had suddenly changed into a violin of great price—a musical treasure over which great artists rave.

"Before I left the shop Bowman gave me the history of that violin, and afterward found the inscription which proved the truth of his story up on the neck of the instrument, where, as he said, it did not belong. Mathias Neuner was a violin maker of Mittenwald, Germany, in the latter part of the eighteenth and the early part of the nineteenth century. In the year 1806 he turned out but six violins, all of a special pattern. But three of those could be accounted for, and they were held at fancy prices by connoisseurs in musical instruments. I had the fourth one.

"When the inscription was finally found it read 'Mathias Neuner, eigenacher (violin maker), Mittenwald, 1806.'

"Since then I have been offered $600 for the instrument and the man who offered $300 for it evidently knew what it was and was trying to strike a good bargain."

One Stop an Organist Forgot.

Some years ago an organist now prominent in New York was living in Minneapolis, and held the position of organist in one of the largest churches in that city. The organ was new, up-to-date in every way, and after the evening service it gradually grew to be the custom for the congregation to linger in the church, and persons from other churches to drop in while the organist played his sweetest music, sometimes forgetting in his love for his art how quickly the moments flew. This was gall and wormwood to the sexton, crabbed and disagreeable, who longed to lock up and go home.

One night his feelings got the best of him, and coming close to the instrument so that the organist could not fail to hear, he exclaimed: "It is a strange thing that the trustees of this church, after spending almost a year over organ specifications, what stops they should have and what they should leave out, never thought anything about the nine o'clock stop."—N. Y. Press.

NEW TIME SYSTEM URGED.

The New Century May See a Big Change Introduced in the Calendar.

The new century will bring about many changes, but perhaps none of such everyday importance as the proposed new method of time-keeping. One of the most practical results will be that noon at Greenwich will be 12 o'clock all over the world. At present each day is spread over 48 (and in some instances 55) hours in different places. With the new system it will have its beginning and end within 24 hours all over the globe. The hours on our watches and clocks, too, will run from 1 to 24, says the Chicago Chronicle.

The waggish reply, "A quarter past 13," made by the policeman in the "Bab Ballads," will become the correct way of indicating "A quarter past one." But, after all, this will only be an enlargement of what was actually begun as far back as 1886, when the time for all through trains on the Canadian Pacific railroad was first reckoned in hours running from 1 to 2.

The fixing of a universal prime meridian will do away with the ambiguity which, as railways and telegraphs become multiplied, lead to such confusing complications in social and commercial affairs, to errors in chronology, to litigation in connection with succession to property, insurance matters, contracts, etc. The present variations of time are readily demonstrated by selecting points in four regions about 90 degrees apart—for instance, Japan, Arabia, Newfoundland and Alaska. On Sunday at midnight in Japan it is noon in Newfoundland.

Variation of time forms the pivotal point of the play "Around the World in Eighty Days," in which the traveler who wagered at his London club that he could go around the world and be back at the club in 80 days so nearly lost his bet. He had forgotten this difference of a day and thought that he had completed his journey 24 hours too late.

Does anyone ask: "What is going to straighten this out and bring about order out of existng chaos?" The answer is by simply putting into operation the results of the deliberations of the international meridian conference, which met Washington at the invitation of President Arthur in October, 1884, expressly to establish a prime meridian and a universal day.

The following resolution was adopted by congress:

"This universal day is to be a mean solar day; is to begin for all the world at the moment of mean midnight of the initial meridian, coinciding with the beginning of the civil day and date of that meridian, and is to be counted from zero up to 24 hours.

"The conference expresses the hope that as soon as practicable the astronomical and nautical days will be arranged everywhere to begin at mean midnight.

"The conference expresses the hope that the technical studies designed to regulate and extend the application of the decimal system to the division of angular space and of time shall be resumed, so as to admit the extension of this application to all cases in which it presents real advantages."

Coming down to our own day, what else is the sand glass, which a few years ago was in common use in kitchens to show the cook when the eggs were boiled? And is not the modern clock based on the same principles? In the clepsydra the water is the motor; the perforation, the escapement; while the sinking of the shell or bowl is the index of the completion of a definite period.

A curious use of the clepsydra in Greece was for limiting the length of speeches in the courts. In important cases an additional amount of time was allowed and each side was permitted 50 gallons of water, necessitating the use of unusually large amphorae. When a speaker was interrupted to save the time being charged against him he would order the official to "stop the water." This practice might be revived with profit.

The system of time-keeping in Rome divided the day and night into four watches, which were determined roughly by observing the courses of the sun and stars. Noon was announced publicly by an official, who from the senate watched for the appearance of the sun at a certain point.

Among the Montagnais Indians a crude form of sun dial is used in hunting to let the squaws, who follow their lords and masters, know whether they may take it easy or hurry up, for they might fare badly if they lagged behind when their husbands were ready for supper. And so the men when hunting erect in the snow a stick at some well-known place and draw the exact line of the stick's shadow in the snow before going on.

One Day for Bathing in Mexico.

Only one country in the world has a national bathing day, and that is Mexico. The day is the 14th of June, and in the 24 hours so nominated every one in the republic, from President Diaz down to the commonest servant, is expected to take a good wash. Unnumbered thousands allow no water to touch their persons except on this occasion, known as St. John's day.—Chicago Chronicle, Cold Weather in Alaska.

The weather bureau station at Eagle, Alaska, has now been in operation for somewhat over a year. The lowest temperature observed during that period was 68 degrees below zero, in January of 1900.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Will Make It Run.

Hetty Green is trying to learn to operate an automobile. If she fails, says the Chicago Times-Herald, it will be the first time she ever got up against anything that she couldn't run.

THE SAVAGE SERIS.

Mexican Indians Who Are Too Dull of Comprehension to Learn Anything.

"The Seri Indians," said Prof. W. J. Magee, who has recently returned to Washington from an ethnological expedition into Mexico, "are in the scale of civilization a few degrees above the Cocopah Indians, whom we set out to visit; they do make their own bows and arrows and boats and show some cleverness in primitive navigating, but they still lack the knife instinct."

This commentary, says a Washington paper, called forth a question as to the meaning of the "knife instinct." The ordinary man in a civilized community, the professor explained, is so familiar with the knife and its purposes that its use has become practically automatic. At the table he cuts his food with his knife without going through any conscious mental process. It is as natural for him to do this as it is to take his drink from a cup or other vessel for holding liquor. If he wishes to open a package tied with twine in a hard knot or to whittle a bit of stick or to split an apple into two parts, down goes his hand instinctively into his pocket for his knife, and he can be talking or thinking about other things while he uses the knife for cutting.

Not so the Seri Indian. If he obtains a knife in barter he thrusts it into his belt as he has seen the Mexican frontiersman do, but in a meaningless way. It is a matter of imitation and not reasoning with him, for he has no idea of the common uses to which the Mexican puts the knife. If a deer crossed his path while his knife was in his girdle and with the aid of his dogs he were able to capture and kill it it would never occur to him to use his knife for cutting up the carcass. He would tear it, like a wild beast. If he kills a pony for food and hangs a quarter near his door to be eaten as needed he will bite into the meat and pull it apart with his teeth and nails, striping the sinews and tendons gradually till nothing but the bones are left. To cut the flesh away would be the last thing to occur to his mind and the most difficult thing for him to accomplish. Civilized man, with whom the knife habit, pursued from early childhood, presently merges into instinct, can have no idea of what it means to be without this rudimentary training. It is as hard for him to understand as it is for a person who has never been without the normal complement of faculties to understand the feeling of one born deaf and dumb and blind. The knife instinct is a sort of milestone on the road to civilization—one of the means by which we may measure the progress of any primitive people.

Speaking of the condition of the Seris as regards bloodthirst, Prof. Magee says that it still remains very deplorable and the visitors must not only be prepared, but visibly prepared, for trouble at any hour of the day or night. The one question on which the Seris' treatment of him hangs is that of opportunity. It makes no difference whether he be a Caucasian or a mixed-blood, a Yankee or a Mexican, or even a member of another tribe of Indians; the sole consideration is that he is an alien, wherever or whenever found. If the alien is well-equipped with means of protection, so that it is plainly inexpedient to attack him boldly, he will escape trouble as long as his vigilance remains acute. The night, which would naturally be considered the most dangerous time for the stranger, is really his safest time, for by doing careful watch duty by turns a party of visitors can avert an attack. But in the daylight there is apt to be a perilous sense of security and it is then that it behooves every alien to be individually on his guard. The Seris seem to have none of the sense of hospitality or honor which marks many Indians of a higher type. They have some notion of loyalty to each other, but the rest of the world is always fair game.

Another thing differentiates the Seris from the Indian tribes conventionally familiar to newspaper readers, namely, their treatment of their dead. As far as is known, they have no respect for the bodies of their warriors, leaving these unburied wherever they happen to fall, but the funeral of a woman is an occasion for great pomp and ceremony. There may be some relation between this and the fact that the Seris, like most other Indians, trace descent through the maternal line. Indeed, in the Seri tongue the women have no word signifying "father," though they have one for "mother." Men only can speak of their fathers. The reason for this distinction is not manifest.

British Paternalism.

That the British empire looks after its children the world over is well illustrated by the fact that the crown agents for the colonies are inviting tenders for the supply of four sailing ships, or three steamers, to carry Indian emigrants from Calcutta to Fiji. It is the annual trip of coolies to the Fiji colony, there to work in the plantations. The paternal Indian government takes complete charge of the affair. The coolies are recruited up country, brought to Calcutta and placed in charge of the officer of emigrants for a fortnight or so, in order that weaklings and those developing disease may be weeded out. Then they are shipped to Fiji or Demerara or other West Indian colonies in government controlled ships and indented to the planters for five years, the government fixing the rate of wages, the hours of labor and the conditions of life.—N. Y. Times.

His Sage Way.

Askington—How is it that Jack Swift is so popular with the ladies?

Teller—Oh! He has a way of insinuating to every girl that when he is with her he is always afraid he will say more than he intends to.—Puck.

WOMAN IN POLITICS.

A Twentieth Century Argument by the President of the Woman's Republican Association.

Long before the twentieth century shall have passed women very generally will have found out that civil government is the most comprehensive form of human association, and therefore the most effective human agency for protecting human rights and promoting human happiness.

Women will know that the ordinary instincts of maternity and the higher intellectual and spiritual purposes of motherhood may be hindered or may be helped by the caprices of rulers and the will of governments, and that according to the measure of woman's concern for her child and for her family and for her own development she should desire to be put in the most influential relation to government.

The fathers, brothers, husbands and sons of women will then scorn or pity the men of to-day, who base their estimate of woman's value to the government on her supposed physical weakness, her claimed mental inferiority and the supposed limitations of her femininity.

A hundred years from now government will have emerged from the dominance of materialities; the dream of doctrinaries that the golden rule should reign in law as it now does in morals will then be realized; the full stature of manhood shall have been so far attained that the incident of sex will not differentiate the exercise of political activities and the discharge of political duties.

Woman's present relation to government—"politics" is government in action—is a practical contradiction of the declarations of constitutional liberty. Woman is taxed, but not represented; she is governed without her consent.

Many women so keenly feel the humiliation of their political status that they submit to the oppressions of a man-made government simply because they must. They obey it under protest. They choose to have no politics until they have their "rights." Other women, through selfishness or ignorance, hug their personal comforts to their hearts. They either do not care for others' good or do not know how politics touch the home and the woman and the child in it.

MRS. J. ELLEN FOSTER.
(President Woman's National Republican Association.)

Other women believe that ours is the best government under the sun—that American manhood is of the highest type yet developed; that American standards for woman, though not ideal, are the noblest yet produced; that under this government and in the civilization of which it is a part woman possesses wider opportunity for personal development and for pure and happy family life than in any other land.

The best women, those of widest information and deepest study, serve the government as best they can under the limitations which men put upon them. They do not one whit resign their claim to larger opportunity and higher service; they are conscious of the injustice of their present relation to politics; they believe that at the close of the twentieth century these distorted views of political ethics relating to women will have passed away, and that the republic shall then be established on the sure foundations of equal justice to all.

For myself I beg to say that, keenly as I feel the injustice which the limitations of my political status impose, I'd rather be a woman citizen of the United States in the twentieth century—though disfranchised—than be a queen under any other flag.—J. Ellen Foster, in Chicago Times-Herald.

How to Serve Turkey Salad.

In making turkey salad from what is left from dinner avoid serving it too dry. Moisten with a little broth water or thinned-out salad dressing. Cut the meat in uniform sizes, using an equal quantity of celery cut into strips. Mix and mask with mayonnaise.

A Queer New Combination.

Three tablespoonfuls of freshly made Japan tea with a pinch of nutmeg is the latest suggestion in the way of additions to apple pie. The combination is said to produce an "indescribable flavor."

Woman of It.

Husband (at the opera)—Why didn't you bring your opera-glasses?

Wife—I did, but I can't use them.

Husband—What's wrong with them?

Wife—Nothing; but I forgot to wear my rings.—Chicago Daily News.

GETTYSBURG HEROINE.

Monument to Be Erected in Memory of Jennie Wade, Who Gave Her Life for Soldiers.

The Women's Relief Corps of Iowa has decided to erect a monument in Gettysburg, Pa., to honor the memory of Jennie Wade, the heroine of the battle of Gettysburg. For the past 37 years this little grave has been unmarked, save for a small stone. The monument wil probably be erected in the spring, and will be dedicated July 3, 1891, the thirty-eighth anniversary of the battle.

Jennie Wade was, at the time of the famous battle, only 20 years of age, and many of her old friends who are still living here recall her as a noble and generous-hearted girl. The first and second days of the battle she spent in carrying water to the soldiers on the firing line and helping to care for the sick and wounded.

JENNIE WADE AND HER GRAVE.

Early in the morning of July 3, 1863, she was busy in the kitchen getting wood to heat the old-fashioned brick oven to bake bread for the soldiers. While thus employed she was called to the kitchen door, and as she went there was the whirr of a bullet from a sharpshooter's rifle and the brave girl dropped dead, shot through the heart.

On the evening of the same day, while the smoke of the battle still hung over Gettysburg, she was buried by the soldiers she had so ably assisted. Her coffin was one that had been perpared for a confederate colonel who had also died that day.

Every year on Memorial day her grave is decorated with flowers and American flags.

THE BEST COSMETIC.

It Is Said to Be Very Hot Water Judiciously Applied with a Woolen Cloth.

"There is no cosmetic equal to hot water and a woolen rag," says a bright, rosy matron of 50, who for many years has used no other. "Every night and morning I give my face a thorough washing with a piece of white flannel in hot water. Once in a great while I use soap, but not often, as I have found the hot water, persistently used, very satisfactory. If the skin has not been exposed to a great amount of dust the water may be merely sopped upon the face at night, as once a day is often enough for the scrub. After the hot bath dash on a liberal quantity of cold water with the hands, until the skin fairly glows. This is the cheapest and most wonderful cosmetic known. A month of such treatment will transform any complexion. My skin is much fairer and rosier than when I was 20. I had naturally a poor complexion, coarse and muddy. I tried many remedies, but they were unsatisfactory, until one day an old lady whose skin I always had admired for its youthful appearance gave me her recipe. I tried it faithfully, and before long saw with delight that my complexion was clearing."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Popping Corn at Twilight.

Corn popping at twilight at the big fireplace in the hall, over the furnace fire or the comfortable kitchen range is one of the unfailing delights of a winter afternoon. With a stock of well-dried popcorn, a long handled popper, a new, bright tin pan, a salt shaker, and, if liked, a dish of melted butter, not alone the younglings, but children of a larger growth, will find abundant occupation and gustatorial delight.

Nice Way to Serve Pork.

An appetizing way of serving pork is to boil a small leg for an hour, remove the skin and surround with sage and onion stuffing. Roast for an hour and a half to two hours, basting constantly, and during the last half hour dredge it with two ounces of finely powdered crumbs mixed with a tablespoon of powdered sage. Serve with good rich gravy and plenty of apple sauce.

Serving a Cabbage Salad.

Cabbage salad as an accompaniment to a fish or oyster course is sometimes served in lemon cups. The lemons are cut in two, the contents removed and the cabbage replaced. On the top of each cup just before sending to the table put a little mayonnaise with a powdering of finely-cut red and green peppers.

How to Make Turkey Pie.

Turkey pie is made in a similar way to chicken pie. First boil the turkey in the form of a stew then put into a deep baking dish, cover with rich paste, leave vent holes for the steam to escape and bake. The stew must be hot when put into the baking dish, so that it will cook evenly in the oven.

A Good Deal Alike.

Trying to conduct a large business without capital is a good deal like trying to sharpen a lead pencil with a pair of scissors.—Chicago Daily News.

It's Quite Common, Too.

"What is 'youthful enthusiasm,' pa?"

"Thinking that you know more than your father, my son."—Brooklyn Life.

PHOEBE AND HER FATHER.

A Little One's Divinely-Inspired Faith and Love Snatches a Brand from the Burning.

Phoebe Gray was a dear little girl only five years old. Her tender loving ways had many times kept her father from saloons and bad company. It seemed to him sometimes when her arm was about his neck, as if an angel were guarding him. He never spoke crossly to Phoebe even in his worst fits of drunkenness, and if he got into a rage, as he sometimes did when his poor, heart-broken wife tried to talk with him about his bad habits, his anger died out when his dear child, lifting her tearful eyes and frightened face, would say: "O, father, don't, please, talk so to mother." When she was but a few months old he would often stay at home evenings just for the pleasure of holding her in his arms, carrying her about or rocking her to sleep in the cradle. It was wonderful to see what power this tender little thing had over a strong man who had become a slave of a maddening vice. As Phoebe grew her influence over her father increased. She had so many winning ways — was so sweet and gentle and loving that her presence always softened him and made him wish that he was a better man; it was in the gentle sweetness of her character and her forgetfulness of self and love for her father that her power lay. She was always winning, never repulsing him, and if her face grew sorrowful sometimes, and her sweet blue eyes filled with tears at the sight of her father as he came staggering home the change did not make him angry; it half sobered him with the pain he felt at the grief of his little one. But his long indulgence in drinking had made his fiery thirst so strong that after awhile even Phoebe's influence failed to keep him away from the saloon, and very sad and lonely were many of her evenings while he was away. One night a storm came up; the wind blew and the rain fell heavily. A neighboring clock struck nine, and as the sound died away the wind came with a noise rushing along the street, rattling the shutters and driving the rain upon the windows. "Oh dear," said Phoebe, starting up from the floor where she had been lying with her head on an old piece of carpet, "I wish father was home," and then she sat and listened to the dreary wind and rain. "He'll get so wet, and the wind will blow him about." The poor child knew how weak he was after he had been drinking, and she felt sure he would never be able to stand up against the fierce wind that was blowing. "O, dear, mother," she cried, starting up and going toward the window: "He'll get drowned, he will. I must go for him." "You go for him!" Mrs. Gray might well look astonished. "Somebody must go for him, he'll be drowned," said Phoebe, in distress.

AT LAST REACHING THE SALOON DOOR.

"Oh, no, dear, there's no danger of that," answered Mrs. Gray, trying to pacify her child. "Don't be afraid. He'll not go into the street while it rains so hard." "Are you sure of it, mother?" asked Phoebe. "Yes, very sure." But Phoebe's heart was not at rest. "I'll just look out and see if he's coming," she said, after a little while, and then she went to the door, as she had so often done before, night after night, to watch for her father's return. "I'll look out just for a little minute," answered Phoebe, lifting the latch. As she did so a gust of wind and rain swept into her face and almost blinded her. "Oh, how it rains," she cried, shutting the door quickly. But she held it closed for a moment or two. The thought of her father out in such a storm made her open it again, and this time she bravely faced the wind and rain and looked along the pavement as far as the next corner, where a street lamp threw down its circle of light. "Oh, there he is," she cried, and then shutting the door behind her, ran toward the gas lamp, against which she thought she saw a man standing. But it was only the shadow of the lamp she had seen, and her heart sank in painful disappointment. Down upon her bare head and thin clothes the heavy rain fell, and the wind blew against her so hard that she could scarcely keep her feet.

If Phoebe had thought only of herself she would have run back home. But love for her father made her forget self. She stood close to the lamp post on the corner and looked up and down the two streets that crossed each other, hoping to catch sight of her father. But no one was to be seen; far down one of the streets a red light shone from a saloon window.

"Maybe he's there," she said to herself, and off she ran toward the light as fast as she could go. Sometimes the wind and rain dashed so hard in her face that she had to stop to get her breath, but she kept on, and at last reaching the saloon door, pushed it open and went in. A sight to startle the crowd of noisy, half-intoxicated men was that vision of a little child, only five years old, drenched with the rain that was pouring in streams from her garments, coming in so suddenly upon them. There was no weakness nor fear in her face, but a searching, anxious look that ran eagerly through the group of men. "Oh, father," leaped from her lips as one of the company started forward, and catching her in his arms, hugged her wildly to his bosom and ran with her out into the street.

If Mr. Gray's mind was confused and his body weak from drink when Phoebe came in, his mind was clear and his body strong in an instant, and when he bore her forth in his arms, strange to say, he was a sober man.

"My poor baby," he sobbed, as a few moments afterward he laid her in her mother's arms, and kissing her passionately, burst into tears. "My poor baby, it's the last time." And it was the last time. Phoebe's love had conquered. What persuasion, conscience, suffering, shame, could not do, the love of a little child had thus wrought. Oh, love is very strong. Startled and touched by her sudden appearance and disappearance in the arms of her father, the little company of men who had been drinking in the barroom went out, one after another and sought their homes.

Said one of them, as he came in fully an hour earlier than he was in the habit of doing, and met the surprised look of his wife, who sat wearily sewing when she should have been at rest, sewing because she must earn to make up for what he spent for drink: "Jane, I saw a sight just now that I hope I shall never see again." "What was it?" asked the tired woman. "A little thing not as old as our Jenny, all drenched with rain—just think what a night it is—looking for her father in a saloon. it made the tears come into my eyes when her poor drunken father caught her up in his arms, and ran out with her held tightly to his bosom. I think it must have sobered him instantly; and one thing it settled; our Jennie shall never search for her father in a saloon any night, fair or foul. I'll stop now while I have a little strength left."

And he kept his word. Another of the men present when little Phoebe appeared was so affected by the scene that he, too, stepped out of the dangerous path which his feet were treading, and by God's grace, which he prayed for, walked henceforth in the safer way of sobriety.—National Advocate.

SOCIALISTS BAR OUT ALCOHOL.

Most Hopeful Sign for the Future of a Political Party of Continental Europe.

The Berlin correspondent of the Christian World gives as one of the most hopeful signs for the future of the social democratic party on the continent, says the Union Signal, the stand which its leaders are taking against the habitual use of alcohol by workmen, who form the majority of the party. It is a striking fact that the present campaign is headed by Germans and Belgians, in countries where drink has been the greatest curse. The socialist leaders in Germany are educating their adherents by circulating among them pamphlets describing the physical and mental diseases produced by alcohol, great emphasis being placed upon the scientific fact that the children are almost certain to suffer from the blight of a drunken parentage. This wise and intelligent action on the part of socialism will not only gain the respectful attention and sympathy of all right minded persons, but it will prove a strong factor in the defensive movement that is now spreading throughout Germany against further tolerance of the degeneracy caused by the old-time drinking customs.

ITEMS.

Why should it be taken for granted that the private soldier will drink, anyway? Successful young men in other lines do not.—Chicago Record.

The temperance people of Massachusetts have won a great victory in the municipal elections, reducing by 8,000 Boston's majority for license and making many additions to the no-license column in the 300 or more towns.

The management of the Peru (Ind.) Steel Casting company have resolved to make total abstinence a condition of employment and, in calling for men, notice is served that imbibers of spirituous, vinous and malt liquors need not apply.

Members of the Glee and Mandolin clubs of the University of Chicago must pay 50 cents every time they wish to smoke during concerts or the intermissions this year. The faculty has drawn up rules regulating the music clubs, and one of them prohibits the use of tobacco while on tour.

No Beer on the Docks.

A press dispatch from Ashtabula, O., says: "Notices have been posted at all Lake Erie harbors forbidding the use of liquor on any of the docks. All who violate the order will be discharged. For many years, in fact ever since ore handling became an industry, it has been a custom among many of the dock laborers to take their beer in the middle of the forenoon and again in the middle of the afternoon in working hours."

ALWAYS HATED EVIL

Chicago Philanthropist Who Acquired a Fortune Honestly.

Some Facts About Dr. Pearsons Who Is Dispensing His Money to Needy Colleges and Schools Before His Death.

Dr. D. K. Pearsons, the aged millionaire of Chicago, who is giving away his large fortune, is not a physician, as his title might imply. It came to him in the annual dispensation of college honors. He was a shrewd, sharp business man during his active life. The architect of his own fortunes, he made his money in Chicago by taking advantage of opportunities during its years of rapid development. He was a real estate expert, and a great deal of his property was accumulated by judicious investments in that line.

Twenty-three years ago Dr. Pearsons was just beginning to attract attention. He was already a man of wealth, but the general public knew little about him. One day, however, when Chicago had become very much disgusted by boodling and other scandals in the city government, an era of reform was ushered in and Dr. Pearsons was elected a member of the so-called reform common council. He was tall and straight, with the blackest of hair and the sharpest of eyes, which he devoted to scanning every cranny of the city hall and every phase of public affairs. He saw a grab in every ordinance introduced into the council until he proved it to be honest. He became known as the great objector and the watchdog of the treasury. Professional aldermen and other ward politicians hated him like poison and he reciprocated the sentiment.

One day it was found that Chicago did not have money enough in its treasury to pay the interest on its bonds. Money must be raised or the city would default in its obligations. Dr. Pearsons arose in the council chamber to make this suggestion:

"We don't want to go down east to borrow money with which to pay our interest. We can raise all the money we need from our common people right here in the city. Let us issue a popular loan and invite everybody to take a little of it until we have borrowed $600,000."

DR. D. K. PEARSONS.
(Chicago Philanthropist Deeply Interested in Education.)

So this was done. The loan was not advertised through the banks of the city, but was passed over the counter of the treasurer's office, and the greater part of it was taken by those who had only a few hundred dollars to invest and usually put their money in savings banks. In a few days the loan was entirely taken and there were hundreds of investors. The popular loan was a great success.

One day, says the New York Sun, Dr. Pearsons met a newspaper reporter of a thrifty turn who had saved $600 and invested it in the popular loan. "Mr. Jones," said Dr. Pearsons, "I see you have put a nice little sum in the loan. I am glad you have saved so much money. I like thrift. I wish I saw more evidence of it in all the newspaper reporters that come to me for news. I advise you to go right ahead saving your dollars; and if you will come to me when you have $200 or $300 to spare I will tell you how to invest it safely so as to yield an excellent return; and if you think my advice worth anything to you when you wish to invest money you may have it."

This incident was characteristic of the man. He has always been a friend to everybody whom he thought tried to do right. He has hated evil doers with more bitterness and vigor of denunciation than is often seen; but he would lend a helping hand to the worthy, and was particularly interested in ambitious young fellows who were beginning their career. But no humbug could impose upon him. No tramp could have his money unless he worked for it. While he was a member of Chicago's council he punctured every sham and shady bill he saw; and now he is giving his fortune to help eductaion in many parts of the country. So in his old age he is crowning with benefactions his long career of hard work, honorable dealing and honest public service.

Deer Barks Like a Dog.

Adjt. Gen. Corbin has received word from the commanding officer at Dapidan, Mindanao, P. I., that he has in his possession a male black deer or species native to that island whose peculiarity it is to bark and bay like a hound. Authority is requested for the transportation, with a view to its being placed in the zoological park at Washington. The necessary authority will be given, but it is not believed the deer will be able to survive the long ocean journey from his home and the great climate change.

HE WASN'T WORRYING.

A Commercial Traveler Who Didn't Have Any Preference on the Road.

"Having traveled for so many years," he said to the drummer who boasted of having been on the road for 18 years, "I suppose you have come to think some one car in a train is the safest?"

"The idea has never occurred to me," was the reply, says the Chicago Daily News.

"That's curious. I thought all men who traveled had a preference for a certain car. I know a Chicago man who always takes the first sleeper, and a Philadelphian who wants a right-hand seat in the middle car, or else he won't take that train."

"I have never heard of such instances before."

"But you must realize that there is danger?" persisted the questioner.

"Oh, yes; but I never think of it. I get a seat opposite a staving-looking woman, if possible, do my best to render myself agreeable, and leave the accident business to Providence and the train dispatcher. My line rather protects me, anyhow."

"And what line of goods are you traveling for, may I ask?"

"Cardboard for Bible covers and prepared food for infants. I shall wait until I go into groceries or hardware before looking for the safest car on the train."

Progress in Medicine.

Medical science grows apace with civilization and among the leading remedies, one that combines all the results of scientific study up to the present time and is put up in convenient and economical form, easy to take, easy to carry, is the famous Cascarets. Five years ago marked the time of the sale of the first box. Last year the sale reached the enormous total of over six million boxes. In this hustling, every day, busy life of ours people need just this kind of a medicine to stimulate their bowels and keep them regular. Cascarets act on the liver just enough to help nature without causing that awful sick, weakening feeling that usually follows the taking of Calomel and violent purges. Readers who have never tested the merits of Cascarets should give them a good trial.

A Bad Blunder.

Mr. Kip (angrily)—That's a nice thing you say about my business in your paper this week.

Editor—What?

"Read it."

Editor (reading): "If you want to have a fit, wear Kip's shoes—Geerusalem—stop the press!"—Ohio State Journal.

There Is a Class of People

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

His Most Useful Book.

First Passenger—What book has helped you most in life?

Second Passenger—The city directory.

"The city directory?"

"Yes; I'm a bill collector."—Syracuse Herald.

A Remedy for the Grippe.

Physicians recommend KEMP'S BALSAM for patients afflicted with the grippe, as it is especially adapted for the throat and lungs. Don't wait for the first symptoms, but get a bottle to-day and keep it on hand for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the grippe brings on pneumonia. KEMP'S BALSAM prevents this by keeping the cough loose and the lungs free from inflammation. All druggists, 25c and 50c.

A Distinction.

When a man is bilious he admits it, and takes pills; but a woman begins to talk about life being a struggle and the wretchedness of her environment.—Atchison Globe.

An Innovation.

The Louisville & Nashville R. R. together with its connecting lines has inaugurated the Florida Limited, which is a daily, solid train, wide vestibuled, steam heated, gas lighted, with dining car service for meals en route to Thomasville, Ga., Jacksonville and St. Augustine, Fla. The sleeper leaving Cincinnati at 11:15 a. m. is attached at Nashville, running via Birmingham and Montgomery, Plant System to Jacksonville, and Florida East Coast to St. Augustine, arriving at the latter city at 7:30 the next evening. Mr. C. L. Stone, General Passenger Agent, Louisville & Nashville R. R., Louisville, Ky., will answer all inquiries concerning this train and furnish printed matter concerning it.

"Poverty's no crime," said Job's comforter. "Maybe not," replied the poor man, "but it seems to be punishable by hard labor for life."—Philadelphia Record.

A Demand from France.

When Mr. Herbert Nash was the United States Vice-Consul at Nice in France, he wrote: "Please to send me some of your Lotion for a friend, who finds great relief in its application for weak eyes." This is one of many demands for Palmer's Lotion, the wonderful healer, which is always gladly recommended by the millions who have used it and whom it has never failed to cure. Palmer's Lotion Soap possesses all the medicinal properties of the Lotion and may sometimes be used in its stead. If your druggist don't have them, send to Solon Palmer, 374 Pearl Street, New York, for samples of Palmer's Lotion and Lotion Soap.

To be a well-balanced man, with ability to resist petty annoyances, is a greater accomplishment than to be governor of your state.—Atchison Globe.

Career and Character of Abraham Lincoln.

An address by Joseph Choate, Ambassador to Great Britain, on the career and character of Abraham Lincoln—his early life—his early struggles with the world—his character as developed in the later years of his life and his administration, which placed his name so high on the world's roll of honor and fame, has been published by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway and may be had by sending six (6) cents in postage to F. A. Miller, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Mr. Gallagher—"Rumors fly, don't they, Missis Flannigan?" Mrs. Flannigan—"Indade they do; awnly this week wan left me widout payin' his rint."—Ohio State Journal.

The Grip of Pneumonia may be warded off with Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Pike's Toothache Drops Cure in one minute.

Some young men seem to be surprised that everybody doesn't stop dancing when they enter the ballroom.—Somerville Journal.

It doesn't pay to be obstinate. Neither is it wise to attempt to take all the advice offered.—Washington Post.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

Use every man after his desert, and who should 'scape whipping?—Shakespeare.

Dessert for To-Day.

You need not worry about it if you have Burnham's Hasty Jellycon in the cupboard. Only necessary to dissolve in hot water and stand away to cool to secure the most delicious jelly. Absolutely pure, fine sugar and fruit flavors. Flavors: Lemon, orange, raspberry, strawberry, wild cherry, peach, also unflavored "calfsfoot" and coffee jelly. Your grocer

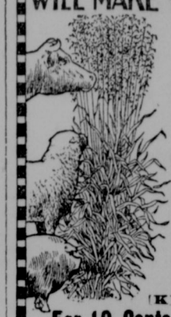
DO YOU COUGH
DON'T DELAY
TAKE KEMP'S BALSAM
THE BEST COUGH CURE

It Cures Coughs Colds, Croup, Sore Throat, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Price, 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

PILES Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles. It absorbs the tumors, allays the Itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Prepared for Piles and Itching of the private parts. At druggists or by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents and $1.00. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., CLEVELAND, OHIO

No Smoke House. Smoke meat with KRAUSERS' LIQUID EXTRACT OF SMOKE. Made from hickory wood. Gives delicious flavor. Cheaper, cleaner than old way. Send for circular. E. Krauser & Bro., Milton, Pa.

SALZER'S SEEDS WILL MAKE YOU RICH



BROMUS INERMIS Greatest Perennial Grass of the Century. Nothing like it on earth to-day that we know of, and we have scoured the world over to find it. Its equal. Grows where all others kill and will not come up from excessive drouth and lack of sufficient moisture. Grows when all others winter kill and freeze out. 3 to 5 tons of magnificent hay per acre and lots of fine pasturage besides.

$1.20 and up Barrel. Largest potato and vegetable grower. Choicest, rarest, heaviest yielding stock. Catalogue Tells.

For 10 Cents and this Notice our big catalogue will be mailed you free, together with 10 sample packages of the 80 b. Spelt, Speltzer, the 40c Spring Wheat, the Billion Dollar Grass with its 12 tons of hay per acre, the Peacat—a startling food, the Victoria Rape Marvel, the astonishing 250 bushel per acre, Oats, etc., in all 10 packages fully worth $10 to get a start for 10c in stamps. Send to-day.

JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO., LA CROSSE, WIS.

RHEUMATISM Van Buren's Rheumatic Compound is the only positive cure. Past experience speaks for itself. Depot 828 S. California Ave., Chicago.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

Sleep for Skin-Tortured Babies
And Rest for Tired Mothers

In a Warm Bath with
Cuticura SOAP

And a single anointing with CUTICURA, purest of emollients and greatest of skin cures. This is the purest, sweetest, most speedy, permanent, and economical treatment for torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, crusted, and pimply skin and scalp humors, rashes, irritations, and chafings, with loss of hair, of infants and children, and is sure to succeed when all other remedies fail.

Millions of Mothers Use Cuticura Soap

Assisted by CUTICURA OINTMENT, the great skin cure, for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin of infants and children, for rashes, itchings, and chafings, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and healing red, rough, and sore hands, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Millions of Women use CUTICURA SOAP in the form of baths for annoying irritations, inflammations, and excoriations, for too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and for many sanative antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, especially mothers. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used these great skin purifiers and beautifiers to use any others, especially for preserving and purifying the skin, scalp, and hair of infants and children. CUTICURA SOAP combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients and the most refreshing of flower odors. No other medicated soap is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, viz., TWENTY-FIVE CENTS, the BEST skin and complexion soap and the BEST toilet and baby soap in the world.

Cuticura Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor, Consisting of CUTICURA SOAP (25c.), to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle, CUTICURA OINTMENT (50c.), to instantly allay itching, inflammation, and irritation, and soothe and heal, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT (50c.), to cool and cleanse the blood. A SINGLE SET, costing but $1.25, is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring, and humiliating skin, scalp, and blood humors, with loss of hair, when all else fails. Sold throughout the world.

THE SET, $1.25

DON'T GET WET! TOWER'S FISH BRAND Oiled Clothing BLACK OR YELLOW
WILL KEEP YOU DRY
NOTHING ELSE WILL
TAKE NO SUSTITUTE. FREE CATALOGUE. SHOWING FULL LINE OF GARMENTS AND HATS.
A. J. TOWER CO. BOSTON. MASS.

For full explanation of the most ATTRACTIVE and PROFITABLE PROPOSITION ever offered to AGENTS. Address P. O. Box 1501. New York City, N. Y.

I Can Sell Your Farm for cash no matter where located. Send description and selling price, and learn my wonderfully successful plan. W. M. Ostrander, 1218 Filbert St., Phila, Pa.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY; gives quick relief and cures worst cases. Book of testimonials and 10 days' treatment Free. Dr. H. H. GREEN'S SONS, Box D, Atlanta, Ga.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

THE REPUBLICAN.

W. H. SINCELL, Editor and Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

THE REPUBLICAN is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year	$ 1.25
One copy six months	.75
One copy three months	.40
One copy one month	.15
Single copies	.05

ADVERTISING RATES.

First insertion for square of ten nonpareil lines, $1; each additional insertion after first, 50 cents per square of ten nonpareil lines.

REMITTANCES:

Remittances made by money order, bank draft, registered letter or express order will be at our risk; if made otherwise, at the risk of the sender. Address,

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, MARCH 7, 1901.

Political Announcements

The following rates for publishing political announcements in these columns have been fixed and will be charged to those who desire to make their wishes known to the voters of Garrett county. These charges are payable in advance of the first publication of notices:

For State Senator, $10; County Treasurer, $5; Sheriff, $5; Members of the House of Delegates, $5; County Commissioner, $5.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER.

At the solicitation of friends I announce myself as a candidate for the nomination for County Treasurer, subject to the Republican Nominating Convention, and most respectfully solicit the assistance and influence of all Republicans. Should I be nominated and elected I promise to give personal attention to the duties of the office.

JAS. W. WHITE,
District No. 14. Oakland.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the nomination of Sheriff for Garrett county, subject to the decision of the Republican Nominating Convention, and solicit the support of Republicans throughout the county.

Dist. No. 7. ANDREW SHARTZER.

Newspaper Frauds.

"Non-partisan" papers, edited by partisans, are the most patent humbugs of the age. In commenting upon public matters they start out non-partisan, but wind up partisan. They are simply frauds. A partisan paper is the more to be admired. It sacrafices patronage for principle. It is more honest, for it does not play for both sides, and does not pretend to be anything than partisan. There is nothing antagonistic to honesty in being partisan, and there is every inducement to dishonesty in being non-partisan or independent. The most despicable object is a partisan who pretends to conduct a non-partisan or independent paper, and then by his acts endorses every principle and policy which his party espouses.—Westminster (Md.) Advocate.

The President's Inaugural.

President McKinley's inaugural address is an ornate oration rather than a practical State paper. The latter is rarely expected at an inauguration, and it would be unreasonable to look for it when the Chief Magistrate has been re-elected and takes the oath for a second term. His policy, which includes the policy of the party which elected him, is too well known to require repetition in detail. As an oration the President's inaugural is admirable. It is polished, forcible and skillful in expression. His contrast of the conditions on March 4, 1897, when he became President, with those of to-day is particularly striking. In the light of such a summing-up, every word of which is true, it is not difficult to understand why the people again entrusted him with power.

With regard to that part of the administration's policy which has provoked the bitterest opposition—the management of the Philippines—the President is very happy. After declaring that the American people are following in the footsteps of their predecessors nearly a century ago, he says: "They triumphed. Will their successors falter and plead organic impotency in the nation?" This is the Philippine question in a nutshell. The United States is either a nation or it is not. If it is, it has all the powers which belong to a nation, among them the right to acquire territory and govern it for the best interests of the country and the inhabitants of the new territory. The President reiterates his purpose to extend the blessings of liberty and self-government to the Filipinos as rapidly as the latter can be fitted for them.

That portion of his address which will cause the greatest anxiety in his allusion to the Chinese policy of the United States. It is rather vague. While, as he says, the part borne by the United States in China has been creditable, there is a feeling of uneasiness about the future which is more likely to increase than to diminish. Dispatches from Pekin inform us that "the foreign ministers have demanded the death of twelve additional high officials and the punishment of ninety provincial mandarins." While it is is generally understood that this bloody business is abhorrent to the administration, there is no way of showing this so clearly as withdrawing entirely from the European concert, and leaving the powers to work out their selfish purposes without the apparent countenance of America. The public is just beginning to take in the enormity of the Chinese scandal. Only recently has the pulpit begun to thunder against it, but as the facts fix themselves in the minds of the clergy they will be found, as usual, denouncing atrocities and defending the oppressed, be they Chinese or any other race.

The President dwells at some length on the relations with Cuba. While the act of Congress imposing terms on the Cubans was a palpable disregard of the obligations of the United States which must be deplored, it is probable that the Cubans, after some demur, will end the controversy by accepting our demands. In their helpless condition it is difficult to perceive how they can do otherwise, and the closer they are brought under the protection of this country the better it will be for them.

The Fifty-Sixth Congress.

There are two ways of judging the work of Congress. It may be measured by the expectations of political prejudice, which is quite a common way, or the record of its actual achievements may be made the basis of criticism. By the former process the last session of the Fifty-sixth Congress has been a saturnalia of wild schemes and reckless expenditure. Imagination ran riot in predicting what it would do, and those trustworthy forecasts must be made good at the expense of justice and truth. It is strange that partisanship should still hope to derive any advantage from this threadbare device. It has been so often exposed, and there has been so little evidence of its influence on public sentiment, that the truth would seem to be desirable even on political grounds.

In reality the last session of the present Congress has been conservative. The cry of a billion-dollar Congress has no significance unless the money was foolishly appropriated. It is not the amount of money, but the purposes for which it is appropriated, that should subject a Congress to adverse criticism. If the needs of the country require heavy appropriations it is idiotic to blame Congress for making them. Some extravagant things were, doubtless, done by the Fifty-sixth Congress, just as they are done by all Congresses, but the aggregate of such legislation was small. The most extravagant measure was the River and Harbor Bill, which cannot be justly chargeable to the majority, because it was advocated with equal pertinacity by both political parties. It must also be said of this measure that it is honest and impersonal, and the money appropriated by it will be expended to enlarge the commercial facilities of the country.

Congress was obliged to make large appropriations because of the recent extraordinary growth of the country and its temporary military needs, but it may be said without fear of contradiction that there have been few sessions so absolutely free from taint or even suspicion. Gigantic schemes for emptying the treasury were before Congress, but they were defeated, and that body is not to be judged by the measures which it declined to pass, but by those which it actually did pass. There were measures before it, probably, which it ought to have passed, but were not of sufficient importance to occasion remark or comment. We think, therefore, that the Fifty-sixth Congress has left a record which will compare very favorably with those of its predecessors.

The Old Ring At Annapolis.

The old Gorman-Rasin Ring is again enthroned at Annapolis, and Mr. Gorman is present in person directing the operations of the General Assembly and the Executive Department with all the arrogance of the days before the people rebuked him in 1895 and again in 1897. No one would imagine for an instant that the people of Maryland had ever, by an overwhelming majority, turned Mr. Gorman and his crowd of political conspirators out neck and heels, and placed the seal of disapproval on their acts during the generation they controlled the city and State. Through the misguided folly of the people they were allowed a temporary return to power in 1899, but unmindful of the past, they have fallen back into their old ways, and now their political arrogance and overweening pride of power are as great as ever before. Like the Bourbons, they never remember and they never learn, and forgetful of the popular rebukes they received in '95 and '97, they have taken up their old course and are attempting to carry out the affairs in their former high-handed and ruthless way.

With the spectacle presented to them at Annapolis, not only this month and during the last session, are the people of Maryland ready to submit to such a desecration and practical disregard of their most sacred rights? Are they ready to see the men who were chosen to represent them at the State House for one purpose disregard their most solemn obligations and pass measures which are intended to impair the inherent rights of the citizens of the State? Are they ready to acquiesce in silence while an attempt is being made to juggle the laws so that the Gorman-Rasin ring may return to power, without let or hindrance from the people, for an indefinite period of time? Are they ready to permit a return to the old days when public sentiment was defied by these men, when elections were a farce, when life and property were unsafe from their rapacious demands, when tools and henchmen, without decent character or common honesty, were placed in high offices to do the behest of the ring? Are they ready to endure the attempt of Mr. Gorman and his sycophants to pass laws, the plain and open intent of which is to allow them to manipulate affairs in such a manner that legislation hereafter will be under their control as in the old days? Are they ready to see corporate franchises sold for private gain, and corporations and individuals plugged and blackmailed for the profit and enrichment of a few unscrupulous men? Are they ready to aid, by their silence, the effort to enable these men to return to their old methods, when they were able to protect gamblers and policy dealers, when crime was openly condoned by the officers chosen through a polluted ballot box and prostituted election officers?

Are they ready, in a word, to condone the effort of these men to return to the old methods, by means of partisan legislation, so that it will again be said, and that without fear of contradiction, that the city of Baltimore, and through it the State, are ruled by and in the interests of the criminal classes, as was the case for twenty-five years before 1896?

That is what Mr. Gorman and his crowd are trying to accomplish at Annapolis at the present time. Are the people of Maryland willing to see it done?

Advertising "All the Time."

There are some business men who recognize the value of newspaper advertising, but who do not consider it necessary to advertise all the time. A New York merchant has told the editor of Information (an advertising periodical) that according to his experience "new readers for advertising are made every day by the changing conditions of life—by its births, sicknesses and deaths: that all the persons who are interested in an article can never be reached in a given time, and that to become a successful advertiser one must advertise day by day, year in and year out."

Death of Mr. Alfred S. Mitchell.

Mr. Alfred S. Mitchell, a prominent and highly respected citizen of Listonburg, Somerset county, Pa., died at that place on Thursday, February 28th, after two weeks' illness, of pneumonia, aged 77 years, 2 months and 24 days. Mr. Mitchell was born and reared in Listonburg township. The following relatives survive him: His aged wife and four children, Miss Laura and Jesse, of Listonburg, John T. and Edwin L., of Oakland, and one brother, David Mitchell.

Interment was made at Petersburg on Saturday last, the remains being followed to their last resting place by a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends.

Guilty of Contempt.

Mr. James C. Fredlock, manager and former proprietor of the Piedmont Feed and Ice company, of Piedmont, was adjudged guilty of contempt of the Ohio county circuit court last Saturday at Wheeling by Judge Harvey. The case has been in court for some time. The contempt consists in Fredlock's bringing action in the Mineral county circuit court against the West Virginia Loan Company of Wheeling after the chancery case of that company vs. Mary L. McMechen had been brought and was pending in the Ohio county court. Mr. Fredlock, who is down south, is fined $50 and costs and the Mineral county suit is ordered stayed until the termination of the Ohio county suit. An attachment of the body of Mr. Fredlock will probably be directed to Sheriff J. Frank Dixon, of Keyser, and he will be held until the performance of the things required of him in Judge Marvey's order.

Pinehurst and Southern Pines, N. C.—Improved New Through Pullman Service via Seaboard Air Line Railway.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway is now operating through drawing-room sleeping cars from New York to Southern Pines and Washington to Pinehurst, N. C. These famous health and pleasure resorts are model New England towns nestled among the pine-clad sand hills of North Carolina, only eighteen hours from New York City. The finest and largest hotels in the State, with numerous private cottages and first-class boarding houses. Every variety of out door sports, with the finest eighteen hole golf links in the South. Trains leave New York, 23rd Street Station, Pennsylvania railroad, 1210 a. m. and 12.55 p. m., and Washington 8.35 a. m. and 6.55 p. m. For information and tickets address Chas. L. Longsdorf, New England Passenger Agent, 306 Washington street, Boston, Mass.; J. C. Horton, Eastern Passenger Agent, 1206 Broadway, New York; W. M. McConnell, General Agent, 1434 New York avenue, Washington, D. C., or R. E. L. Bunch, General Passenger Agent, Portsmouth, Va.

$1,500,000 Coal Deal Closed.

Maj. H. D. Bulkley, comptroller of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, has closed an option on 20,000 acres of coal land in West Virginia, along the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, for Baltimore and Philadelphia capitalists. The purchase price was $1,500,000.

AN EXPOSITION BOOKLET.

Another Beautiful Production From the Bureau of Publicity of the Pan-American at Buffalo.

Here comes another of the beautiful booklets from the Bureau of Publicity of the Pan-American Exposition Buffalo, N. Y. It consists of 16 pages and a cover in light green. The unique feature of it is the miniature reproduction of the famous poster, "The Spirit of Niagara," which has had a most remarkable demand. The envelope in which the poster booklet is mailed also bears a reproduction of this artistic work. The booklet is a popular picture book, the first page having an engraving of the magnificent Electric Tower, which is 391 feet high, and which will form the glorious center-piece of the great Exposition. On the same page is a miniature of one of the torch bearers which will adorn the wings of the Electric Tower, and beside it a picture of Niagara Falls. The second page shows a picture of the Electricity Building and five other small illustrations of the uses of electricity. The third page shows the splendid group of buildings erected by the National Government and which will contain the Government exhibits, also five miniature illustrations, one of them showing the life-saving station, where exhibitions will be given daily by a picked crew of ten men, during the Exposition. The fourth page is devoted to the wonderful displays of government ordnance: the fifth to the Machinery and Transportation Building and four other illustrations of modern machines and vehicles. The centre of the booklet shows a birdseye view of the Exposition, and gives one some idea of the great extent of the enterprise upon which about $10,000,000 is being expended. The grounds contain 350 acres, being half a mile wide and a mile and a quarter long. Other pages show horticulture, graphic arts and mines, manufactures and liberal arts, the Music Temple, the Plaza and its beautiful surroundings, the Stadium or athletic field, the agricultural, live stock and ethnology features, and a few of the 30 or 40 ingenious and novel exhibits which promise to make the Midway the most wonderful that has ever been prepared for Exposition visitors. The last page shows a ground plan of the Exposition, whereon the location of different buildings is indicated. The railroads will make low rates from all parts of the country during the Exposition, which opens May 1 and continues six months, and the people of Buffalo are preparing to entertain comfortably the millions who will attend. Anyone desiring a copy of this booklet may have it free by addressing the Pan-American Bureau of Publicity.

Dwelling and Contents Destroyed by Fire.

On February 28th the dwelling house of Mr. Allen Garlitz, three miles north of Swanton, this county, was totally destroyed by fire. The fire was discovered about noon by Mrs. Gaslitz, who was the only member of the family at home at the time. She saved what she could from the lower floor, but most of their clothing, bedding and furniture went up in smoke. The house was a two-story frame, with lean-to kitchen, the stove pipe from the kitchen stove passing out through the roof, and the fire evidently had its origin from this pipe. The loss, near one thousand dollars, falls heavily upon Mr. Garlitz, who had no insurance. He will rebuild at once on the old site.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN.

It's Easy To Take

Thin, pale, anæmic girls need a fatty food to enrich their blood, give color to their cheeks and restore their health and strength. It is safe to say that they nearly all reject fat with their food.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA

is exactly what they require; it not only gives them the important element (cod-liver oil) in a palatable and easily digested form, but also the hypophosphites which are so valuable in nervous disorders that usually accompany anæmia.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is a fatty food that is more easily digested than any other form of fat. A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health. You can get it in this way.

We have known persons to gain a pound a day while taking it.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

Died.

GAUER.—Mrs. Hannah Gauer, wife of James Gauer, died last Friday at 11:45 o'clock a. m., of cancer of the breast, aged 40 years, 6 months and 12 days. Mrs. Gauer had been a sufferer for over a year, having been first taken sick in Semtember, 1899. She had been a member of the Lutheran church for twenty-five years. Besides her husband she leaves three children, Etta May, William Henry and Francis Howard, and two brothers and four sisters. Funeral services were conducted at the residence on Sunday by Rev. Asbury Mick, of the M. E. church. Interment in Odd-Fellows' cemetery.

PUBLIC SALE
—OF VALUABLE—
REAL ESTATE
In Oakland, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a power contained in a mortgage from John Shartzer and wife to George Clauson, bearing date the 8th day of May, 1896, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 28, folio 256, one of the land records of Garrett county, Maryland, the undersigned, as attorney named in the mortgage, default having been made in the said mortgage, will offer at public sale, in front of the postoffice in Oakland, Maryland, on

Thursday, March 28, 1901,

at 10 o'clock a. m., all that lot of land known as the

Opera House Lot,

on the corner of Main, or Second, and Green streets in Oakland, Maryland, fronting thirty six feet on Second street and one hundred and fifty feet deep, being the same property which was conveyed to John Shortzer by Louisa Bartlett by deed recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 22, folio 467, &c., one of the land records of Garrett county.

The said lot is known as the

"Shartzer Opera House Property,"

and is improved by a three-story frame building covered with iron, said building being 36 by 100 feet and is used as an

Opera House

and also for STORE ROOMS, OFFICES, etc., with a blacksmith shop in the back of the lot. It is one of the most valuable properties in Oakland.

Terms of Sale:—Cash on the day of sale.

D. JAMES BLACKISTON,
Attorney named in the Mortgage.

Mortgagee's Sale
—OF A—
VALUABLE FARM
Situate near Oakland, Md.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage from John Shartzer et ux., dated December 18th, 1896, and duly recorded among the land records of Garrett county, Maryland, the undersigned, the attorney named in said mortgage to make sale thereunder, default having been made in covenants of said mortgage, will sell by public auction in front of the postoffice in the town of Oakland, Md., on

THURSDAY,

28th day of March, 1901,

at 10.30 o'clock a. m., all that tract or parcel of land lying and situated about four and one-half miles south of Oakland, in Garrett county, Maryland, and known as the

"Kelley Farm"

and formerly as "ROBERT'S INHERITANCE," containing

Six Hundred and Fifty Acres,

more or less. It being a part of the tract known as

"Small Meadows,"

and the same which was conveyed to the said John Shartzer by E. H. Sincell et ux, by deed dated July 3rd, 1895, and recorded in Liber No. 28, folio 577, one of the land records of Garrett county, Maryland. The improvements consist of a comfortable barn and all necessary outbuildings. This estate is conveniently located, is easy of access and is one of the most desirable farms in Garrett county. It will be sold either as a whole or in parcels as may seem most advantageous.

Frame Dwelling House,

Terms of Sale:—Cash on day of sale

J. W. THOMAS,
Attorney named in Mortgage.

Trustee's Sale
—OF VALUABLE—
REAL ESTATE

Under and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in Equity, bearing date the 25th day of February, 1901, and passed in a cause wherein Elizabeth C. Thompson and others are plaintiffs and Emma D. Hudson and others are defendants, said cause being No. 1090 Equity in said Court, the undersigned trustee named in said decree will, on

Saturday, March 23, 1901,

at the hour of 3 o'clock p. m. of said day, in front of the First National Bank in the town of Oakland, Md., offer for sale at public auction the following described real estate, situated in the town of Mountain Lake Park, Garrett county aforesaid, and on the plat of the said Mountain Lake Park is known as

Lots Nos. 83, 90 and 93.

These lots are improved by a COMMOIOUS FRAME DWELLING HOUSE, with necessary outbuildings, are delightfully situated near the new Auditorium and is the same property that was formerly occupied by the late Rev. John Thompson as his summer home.

Terms of Sale:—As prescribed by the decree, cash on day of sale or upon the ratification thereof.

FRED. A. THAYER,
51tds Trustee.

$500 REWARD!

The Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company will pay $500 as a reward for the arrest and conviction of the party or parties who set fire to and burned the barn of Nimrod Glotfelty on the night of January 25th, 1901.

WILLIAM W. FRAZEE, Sec'y,
49—tf Accident, Md.

EXECUTOR'S NOTICE.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber, of Garrett county, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters Testamentary on the personal estate of late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber on or before the 20th day of July next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

HENRY FEIK,

Given under my hand this 10th day of January, 1901.

JACOB FEIK, Executor.
45 3 Accident, Md.

ROAD PETITION.

This is to give notice that thirty days after the publication of this notice the undersigned will petition the County Commissioners of Garrett county to re-locate the road leading from White's to the Beckman road, said location to leave road at east end of William White's lane and running through the lands of Wm. White, Charles Yager and Andrew Helbig to intersect road at top of Yager's hill, a distance of about ¼ mile, the object being to make a better grade.

W. S. FRIEND,
G. B. M. FRIEND,
47 5t W. H. SMOUSE.

ROAD PETITION.

This is to give notice that thirty days after the first publication of this notice, the undersigned will petition the County Commissioners of Garrett county to relocate the road leading from Birt Warnick's farm to the National Road, said location to leave the National Road at a point near U. M. Stanton's barn and running through the lands of U. M. Stanton and Birt Warnick to intersect the old road near Gnagy's water trough, a distance of about 1¼ miles, the object being to make an easier grade and get away from the railroad.

JACOB GNAGY,
RALPH ENGLE,
45 5t ROSS COMPTON.

EXECUTORS' NOTICE.

This is to give notice, That the Subscriber, of Somerset county, Penna., hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

JOHN J. BRENNEMAN,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 5th day of May next; they may otherwise by law be excluded fromall benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 9th day of February, 1901.

MARY J. BRENNEMAN,
MANASSEH J. BRENNEMAN,
Executors.
Bittinger, Md. 49-3t

ORDER NISI.

Edward E. Sollars, late Treasurer, v. John D. Skiles.

No. 94 Trials to December Term, 1897. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 12th day of February, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, that the sales of the real estate mentioned in these proceedings made by the County Commissioners of Garrett county, be and the same are hereby ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 15th day of March, 1901; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 15th day of March, 1901.

The report states the amount of sales to be $397.00.

DAVID W. SLOAN.

True copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

ORDER NISI.

Catherine Hoenshell and husband vs. Susan House et al.

No. 1051 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 27th day of February, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that the sale of the property mentioned in these proceedings, made and reported by Frederick A. Thayer, trustee, appointed by a decree of this Court to make said sale, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 22nd day of March next; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county aforesaid once in each of three successive weeks before the 22nd day of March next.

The report states the amount of sale to be $1,150.00.

E. Z. TOWER,
Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., Md.
True Copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

ORDER NISI.

Clavin Anderson v. Arthur P. Amick and George W. W. Amick.

In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland. No. 1074 Equity.

Ordered this 11th day of February, in the year 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, sitting in equity, that the sale of the property mentioned in these proceedings made and reported by James W. Thomas and Edward H. Sincell, trustees, be ratied and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 15th day of March, 1901; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some newspaper printed in Garrett County, once a week for three successive weeks before the 15th day of March next.

The report states the amount of sale to be $4500.00.

True copy—Test: E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

CORPORATION ELECTION NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given to the qualified voters of the town of Oakland that an election will be held at the Council Chamber in the town of Oakland on from 8 o'clock a. m. to 6 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of electing three persons to serve as members of the Town Council for the term of two years each.

Monday, March 11, 1901,

By order of the Council,

J. C. DUNHAM,
Clerk to Council.

COMMISSIONERS' MEETING.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.
OAKLAND, MD., Feb. 28, 1901.

The Board of County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on

Monday, March 18, 1901,

for the purpose of transacting all routine business.

Persons having accounts for the 1901 Levy are requested to file same for approval.

By order of the Board,

A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

Notice of Dissolution of Co-partnership

This is to give notice that the co partnership heretofore exisiting between the undersigned, carrying the business of logging, has this day day been dissolved by mutual consent.

L. A. HARVEY,
H. W. HARNEY.

Mt. Lake Park, Feb. 23, 1901. 51 3*

pgs. 545 6

missing

...Ed-

...h Good
Salia-
...ot Be

...g a line on King Edward
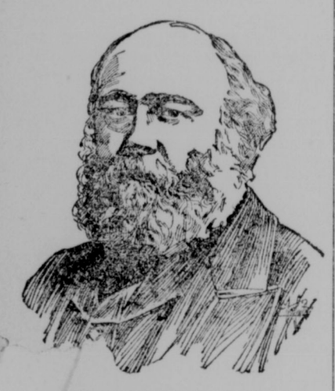
...nce public life,
...osition to speak
...as is possible on
...e q... ...been interviewed.
It is a s... find an agreement among the ... authorities that no one is likely to influence the king so much in public matters as the countess of Warwick. The common impression has been that their friendship had waned, but it is stated that the king entertains the highest respect for the countess of Warwick's ability and sagacity; that he frequently consults her on difficulties he encounters in guiding his public conduct; in fact, that there is no one for whose judgment he entertains a higher opinion.

This really shows his discernment, says the New York World, for there is no woman of her rank and few others before the English public with more brains, energy or liberality of view than the countess. In fact, she is strongly inclined to radicalism, or, as she probably would call it, tory democracy.

Of late years the countess has applied herself to all manner of good work, especially directed toward bettering the condition of that most neglected and backward class of the English community, the agricultural laborer and small farmer.

The work she has been doing for Warwickshire and adjoining counties has been imitated by the king's direction in Norfolk with considerable success, but, lacking, as it does, the guiding hand of a woman both of intellect and good feeling, it cannot compare with what the countess has effected within her own sphere.

Premier Salisbury's absence from



MARQUIS OF SALISBURY.
...ish Premier Said to Be at Outs with King Edward VII.)

...is post at Queen Victoria's bedside during her last hours has been made the subject of a semiofficial explanation. The explanation is that the prince of Wales excused the premier from going, owing to the latter's indifferent health. But Lord Salisbury's health is now notoriously better than for some years, and anyone who observed him the other day in the house of lords could see that he was quite hale, alert and vigorous. He was by far the least affected by the sad occurrence of any speaker in either house during the vote of condolence proceedings.

It is also interesting to recall that when Lord Salisbury was summoned to London from Hatfield house when the queen's condition was grave it was stated on his behalf in the press "under no circumstances is Lord Salisbury going to Osborne house"—a form of announcement which has strong significance in view of the rumors now current in the best informed circles respecting his reltaions with the king.

A privy councilor present at the proclamation council states, in reply to inquiries, that the king and Lord Salisbury only saluted each other most perfunctorily, and that the duke of Devonshire (the lord president of the council) was the intermediary between the king and the council throughout the ceremonial. This has given rise to the impression that when Lord Salisbury retires the king will be able to persuade the duke of Devonshire to take the premiership, something the queen failed to do on two occasions.

The Times, too, has gone out of its way to tell the king that Lord Salisbury is the only possible prime minister, evidently fearing that a rupture will take place immediately, thus adding to the general confusion and trouble of the cabinet and country. But it is unlikely a change can be delayed long.

There is no doubt that the cause of the estrangement is, as stated before, Lord Salisbury spoke seriously to the prince of Wales about his mode of ...e and adjured him to surround himself no longer by the most lax, frivolous and brainless set in English society.

Where Quail Are Numerous.

Quail are destroying the crops of ...e Colorado farmers and have been ...eclared a nuisance by various town ...d county boards.

Ladysmith Siege Hardships.

During the siege of Ladysmith 4,000 horses of the cavalry brigade were converted into soup or sausage in a single month.

Made the Indian Real Mad.

Senator Stewart the other day related the story of an adventure with a big Indian when he was prospecting for gold. The Indian asked the future senator for a ride in a high wagon, and he was told to climb in. In less than a minute Stewart saw poor Lo signaling to another Indian behind a rock, who was sighting a gun at Stewart.

"I guess they needed my wagon and my mule and maybe my scalp in their business. My only chance was to grab that Indian around the waist and hold him in front of me. You bet I did that, and at the same time yelled at my mule. That critter had some sense, and in a few minutes we were out of range. But it was a close shave.'

As the senator stopped the curious man in the party asked him what he did with the Indian.

"Why, I broke his gun, threw him out of the wagon, and then kicked him along on his hands and knees until I think he got real mad."—Washington Correspondence Pittsburgh Dispatch.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Fixed.

Judge—Now, my boy, you are on your oath. Do you understand what that means?

Witness—Why—er—I don't jest—er—reckon—"

"Do you know what you are expected to tell?"

"Oh, yes; the lawyer that hired me wrote it all down so that I could learn it by heart."—Philadelphia Press.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

Hope Springs Eternal.

A little New Zealand girl wrote to ask Mark Twain if his real name was Clemens. She knew better, she said, because Clemens was the man who sold patent medicine. She hoped not, for she liked the name of Mark. Why, Mark Antony was in the Bible!

Her letter delighted its recipient.

"As Mark Antony has got into the Bible," Mr. Clemens characteristically remarked in telling about it, "I'm not without hopes myself."—Youth's Companion.

Lane's Family Medicine.

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

A Vermont Wonder.

A report is published from Vermont that the electric light plant of a town in the Green mountain state was frozen up the other night. When it comes to freezing up electricity Vermont beats the record. Up to date nothing equally startling has been heard of, unless the story told by Bob Burdette be excepted. Bob used to describe a wonderful section out west where everything was petrified—even the law of gravitation. And Vermont could not surpass that.—Troy Times.

The Spirit of the Drug

Cures disease. Hoxsie's Croup Cure possesses this subtle power for the cure and prevention of Croup, Pneumonia, Diphtheria and Bronchitis. Sold by druggists or mailed postpaid on receipt of 50 cents. A. P. Hoxsie, Buffalo, N. Y.

The woman who is in the habit of telling her troubles makes more calls than she receives.—Town Topics.

Coughing Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam will stop the Cough at once. Go to your druggist to-day and get a sample bottle free. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents. Go at once; delays are dangerous.

Evil fastens on us only because it finds affinity in us.—Ram's Horn.

Piso's Cure is the best medicine we ever used for all affections of the throat and lungs.—Wm. O. Endsley, Vanburen, Ind., Feb. 10, 1900.

The perfection of art is to conceal art.—Quintilian.

Dyspepsia is the bane of the human system. Protect yourself against its ravages by the use of Beeman's Pepsin Gum.

Taking it year in and year out, the easiest way to get money is to earn it.—Puck.

All goods are alike to PUTNAM FADELESS DYES, as they color all fibers at one boiling. Sold by all druggists.

When a fool opens his mouth you can see right through him.—Chicago Daily News.

Uncle Sam uses the best of everything. Uncle Sam uses Carter's Ink. He knows.

Pity is akin to love, but most men call it a poor relation.—Town Topics.

"I hurl the lie back in your teeth!" he cried. Which was quite appropriate, for they, too, were false.—Philadelphia North American.

"Some folks," said Uncle Eben, "is like persimmons. If you strikes 'em right dey's fine, but if you 'sturbs 'em when dey ain't ready foh you dah ain' nuffin mo' disagreeable."—Washington Star.

"Yes, Weary, I'd take that brine treatment on one condition." "What's that, Dusty?" "They'd have to guarantee that it would give me a perpetual thirst."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

In South America.—Tourist—"So revolutions are not as popular as they were?" Native—"No, the taint of professionalism crept in and the people gradually turned to other sports."—Detroit Journal.

"Yes, she wouldn't speak to the editor when she met him." "Had he offended her?" "I should say he had. His society reporter called her one of last century's buds."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mother—"Now, dear, why don't you run and give grandpa a kiss?" Child (somewhat nonplussed by grandpapa's mustache and beard)—"I don't see any place for it, mamma!"—Punch.

Venus (in surprise)—"And you have no use for poets? Why, dear?" Cupid (fiercely)—"The brutes! Ninety-nine times out of a hundred they make me rhyme with 'stupid.'"—Town Topics.

If you are just a hand, don't try to be a boss. You are being paid for entirely different work. If you had more ability than the boss, you would be the boss, and the boss would be holding your job.—Atchison Globe.

"That man Deadbeat is the meanest fellow I know." "Why?" "To-day he paid me back a loan I've been trying to get for two years and he had the nerve to ask me how much I proposed to throw off for cash."—Ohio State Journal.

Always Caught.

If a young man goes into a jewelry store to look at ladies' rings, the worst gossip in town is sure to step in and catch him at it.—Atchison Globe.

To Mothers of Large Families.

In this workaday world few women are so placed that physical exertion is not constantly demanded of them in their daily life.

Mrs. Pinkham makes a special appeal to mothers of large families whose work is never done, and many of whom suffer, and suffer for lack of intelligent aid.

To women, young or old, rich or poor, Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., extends her invitation of free advice. Oh, women! do not let your lives be sacrificed when a word from Mrs. Pinkham, at the first approach of weakness, may fill your future years with healthy joy.

MRS. CARRIE BELLEVILLE.

"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was not able to do my housework. I suffered terribly at time of menstruation. Several doctors told me they could do nothing for me. Thanks to Mrs. Pinkham's advice and medicine I am now well, and can do the work for eight in the family.

"I would recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers with large families."—MRS. CARRIE BELLEVILLE, Ludington, Mich.

In 3 or 4 Years an Independence Is Assured

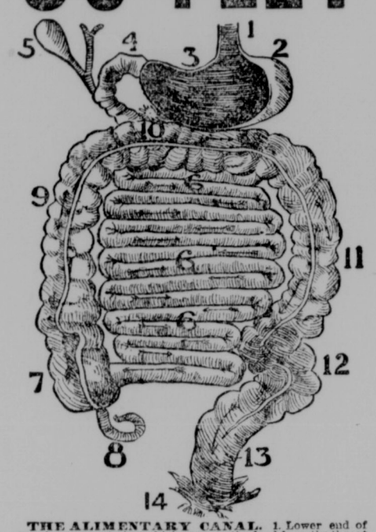
FARMS WESTERN CANADA FREE

If you take up your homes in Western Canada, the land of plenty. Illustrated pamphlets, giving experiences of farmers who have become wealthy in growing wheat, reports of delegates, etc., and full information as to reduced railway rates can be had on application to the Superintendent of Immigration, Department of Interior, Ottawa, Canada, or address the Undersigned, who will mail you atlases, pamphlets, etc., free of cost. F. PEDLEY, Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada; or to M. V. McINNES, No. 2 Merrill Blk., Detroit, Mich.; E. T. HOLMES, Room 6, Big Four Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

PILES ANAKESIS gives instant relief and POSITIVELY CURES PILES. For free sample address "ANAKESIS," Tribune building, New York.

"Oh, my," giggled the Lady of Uncertain Age, "I am so afraid to go on the streets alone, now that the kidnapers are so bold." "You needn't worry. They only steal people in their first childhood," was the reassuring statement of the Bald Party with the Ingrowing Sneer on his face.—Baltimore American.

30 FEET OF BOWELS



THE ALIMENTARY CANAL. 1. Lower end of esophagus (meat-pipe) which conveys the food from the throat to the stomach; 2. Cardiac end of stomach; 3. Pyloric end of stomach; 4. Duodenum; 5. Gall bladder; 6, 6, 6. Small intestines; 7. Cæcum; 8. Vermiform appendix; 9. Ascending colon; 10. Transverse colon; 11. Descending colon; 12. Sigmoid flexure; 13. Rectum; 14. Anus. The duodenum is continuous with the small intestines. The small intestine empties into the large intestine or colon at the cæcum. The arrows indicate the direction which the contents of the bowels must take in passing through the alimentary canal.

are packed away in your insides and must be kept clean, in order and doing business.

It's a long way, with many turns and pitfalls to catch the refuse and clog the channel if not most carefully cleaned out every day.

When this long canal is blockaded, look out for trouble—furred tongue, bad breath, belching of gases, yellow spots, pimples and boils, headaches, spitting up of food after eating—an all-around disgusting nuisance.

Violent calomel purges or griping salts are dangerous to use for cleaning out the bowels. They force out the obstruction by causing violent spasms of the bowels, but they leave the intestines weak and even less able to keep up regular movements than before, and make a larger dose necessary next time.

Then you have the pill habit, which kills more people than the morphine and whiskey habits combined.

The only safe, gentle but certain bowel cleansers are sweet, fragrant CASCARETS, because they don't force out the fœcal matter with violence, but act as a tonic on the whole 30 feet of bowel wall, strengthen the muscles and restore healthy, natural action. Buy and try them! (Look out for imitations and substitutes or you can't get results. Cascarets are never sold in bulk. Look for the trade-mark, the long-tailed "C" on the box.) You will find that in an entirely natural way your bowels will be promptly and permanently

Made CLEAN and STRONG by Cascarets

LIVER TONIC

BEST FOR THE BOWELS

10c. 25c. 50c.

ALL DRUGGISTS.

NEVER SOLD IN BULK.

CURE all bowel troubles, appendicitis, biliousness, bad breath, bad blood, wind on the stomach, bloated bowels, foul mouth, headache, indigestion, pimples, pains after eating, liver trouble, sallow complexion and dizziness. When your bowels don't move regularly you are getting sick. Constipation kills more people than all other diseases together. It is a starter for the chronic ailments and long years of suffering that come afterwards. No matter what ails you, start taking CASCARETS to-day, for you will never get well and be well all the time until you put your bowels right. Take our advice; start with CASCARETS to-day, under an absolute guarantee to cure or money refunded.

GUARANTEED TO CURE: Five years ago the first box of CASCARETS was sold. Now it is over six million boxes a year, greater than any similar medicine in the world. This is absolute proof of great merit, and our best testimonial. We have faith and will sell CASCARETS absolutely guaranteed to cure or money refunded. Go buy today, two 50c boxes, give them a fair, honest trial, as per simple directions, and if you are not satisfied, after using one 50c box, return the unused 50c box and the empty box to us by mail, or the druggist from whom you purchased it, and get your money back for both boxes. Take our advice—no matter what ails you—start today. Health will quickly follow and you will bless the day you first started the use of CASCARETS. Book free by mail. Address: STERLING REMEDY CO., NEW YORK or CHICAGO.

WHEN WRINKLES COME.

Departing HEALTH and BEAUTY Called Back by

Dr. Greene's Nervura

DR. GREENE'S NERVURA Makes Health and Happiness

YOUR mirror will tell you the bitter truth.

Healthy women look younger than their age, but you look far too old for your years.

Time deals lightly with the woman in good health, but the wasting hand of sickness and disease spares neither your youthful looks, beauty, nor complexion.

The Creator has endowed every woman with beauty, and every woman in good health is beautiful and comely to look upon. A clear, fresh, wholesome look is the result of the possession of good health, and no woman can be beautiful and attractive without good health. The dull, dead, gnawing pain, the sense of nervousness, weakness, oppression, and discouragement, the tired, listless, languid feeling, the shooting pains, the aching head, the pain in the back, all these are symptoms of a disordered system, and all these are beauty-killers, producers of dull leaden complexions, unnatural flushings, dark circles under the eyes, humors, eruptions, blackheads, lustreless eyes, and other disfigurements which divest women of their natural gift of beauty.

Why be homely when you can be beautiful and attractive?

Get good health and with it those looks and attributes which attract, please, and fascinate. It is within your power to do so, for it is within every woman's power to be well and strong, and hence look her best, if she will use Dr. Greene's Nervura to give her strong, vigorous nerves, pure, rich blood, a clear complexion, and thus restore the energies and vitality of sound and perfect health.

Good health means youthful good looks to every woman, and it behooves women to restore and maintain their health by taking that greatest and best of all health restoratives, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It will build up the health, cleanse and purify the complexion, restore brilliancy to the eye, make rich, red blood and strong, steady, and vigorous nerves. Dr. Greene's Nervura will make you look and feel young and restore your energies, vivacity, and enjoyment of life.

MRS. KATE AUSTIN, 40 Jenny Lind Ave., Somerville, Mass., says:

"I had a pain in my side for seventeen years. I also suffered with terrible backache and headache; such an awful headache, and I had not a bit of appetite. I cried with pain from womb trouble, and was as pale as a ghost. I was terribly nervous. I could not sleep for a long time, and had rheumatism in my shoulder and arm. I suffered everything; nobody but God knows how I suffered. I weighed 128 pounds. A friend recommended Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and I commenced to take it. I was so weak and run down that the first bottle did not do me much good, but I kept on, and the second bottle did me good and I began to gain. After taking the Nervura I never had a pain in my side, nor any headache, and I sleep well and have a good appetite. I don't believe there is any medicine in the world so good as Dr. Greene's Nervura. It did me good right off and I have had no return of my womb trouble. I had leucorrhœa, but since taking Nervura that has disappeared. I feel strong, and last summer was able to do the work for fourteen in a family, and I weigh 163 pounds. I was so weak before, nobody knows how I worked, but I had to work for my children. I sent two bottles of Nervura to my brother in Nova Scotia, and it did him lots of good. I recommend Dr. Greene's Nervura to every one."

Ill Health Destroys Beauty and Happiness. DR. GREENE'S NERVURA Makes You Well and Restores Your Good Looks.

Women have absolute confidence in Dr. Greene's Nervura, more so than in any other remedy, because it is purely vegetable and a famous regular physician prepares it, which is a guarantee that it is perfectly adapted to cure. As an additional assurance of cure, Dr. Greene, 35 W. 14th St., New York City, gives you the privilege of consulting him without charge or cost, either by calling or writing about your case.

Deer Park.

Roy Thrasher is visiting friends in Washington, D. C.

C. S. Laughlin was an Oakland visitor Thursday.

Walter Flanigan, of Cumberland, was in town last week.

Miss Mayme Grimm returned to Cumberland Saturday.

Bailiff George Marley made a short visit to Washington, D. C. last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Morrison have moved from this place to Clarksburg, W. Va.

Miss Kathryne Lohm, who has been visiting Grafton friends the past two weeks, returned home Tuesday.

Rev. G. I. Uhler, of Oakland, will hold services in the Lutheran church Sunday morning and evening. All are invited.

Mr. A. Freeland is visiting relatives and friends at Mt. Lake Park.

Misses Margaret and Daisy Grimm spent Thursday with Oakland friends.

W. H. Chadderton is spending this week with friends in Washington.

Miss Mary Baldwin is visiting friends in Mt. Lake Park.

Charles Wright, of Altamont, spent Sunday with his sister, Mrs. F. H. Reis.

W. R. Thrasher spent Sunday with Oakland friends.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Cole, of Huntingdon, Pa., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. Hoge.

Mr. John Hoye, who has been spending the winter with Deer Park relatives, has returned to his home in Garrett, Pa.

Messrs. W. S. Cormany, W. Savedge and Robert Marville, of near Friendsville, spent Sunday with Deer Park relatives.

C. R. Jones, who has been attending the West Virginia Conference Seminary at Buckhannon, returned home Friday.

Rev. J. S. Harvey delivered an excellent sermon on missions, in the M. E. church Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Speicher spent Monday with Oakland friends.

This is spring, gentle (?) spring, with a vengeance.

Epworth League Sunday evening at 6:30. Addresses by Dr. J. W. Laughlin, W. C. Jones and others. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Mr. James Browning of this place, and Miss Georgia Casey, of Rowlesburg, were married in Oakland last Wednesday, and are "at home" to their friends in the Garrett apartment house. May they have a pleasant and prosperous journey through life.

Col. Henry Sisk, who has been quite ill for some time, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Walter Flanigan, is able to be out again.

The members of the Junior League are requested to meet at the M. E. church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the purpose of reorganization.

Bloomington.

Prof. Browning, of Oakland, School Examiner for Garrett county, visited our school one day last week.

Mr. Bertram Sigler, of the Conference Seminary, Buckhannon, W. Va., spent his vacation between the end of the winter term and the beginning of the spring term here, the guest of Miss Lattakemp.

Mr. Bernard Brydon returned home Monday from a short visit to his brother, Mr. Lonie Brydon, of Simpson, W. Va.

Mrs. Henry Barnard, of Chestnut Grove, is convalescing from a siege of quincy.

Little Ansie Connelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Connelly, is lying very ill with pneumonia, following an attack of she grip.

Mr. Charles Brendlin moved on last Saturday to the new house recently erected by Mr. John Miller. Mrs. John Collins will occupy the house vacated by Mr. Brendlin.

Mr. Charles Buzzard, a young man well known here where he recently worked and boarded, was found in his boarding house at Savage last week suffering from small pox. Last Monday night he was removed to the pump house of the Piedmont Water Works and placed under strict quarantine. His boarding house was also quarantined, and everything is being done to prevent the spread of the disease.

Mr. William Fichnell, of near Barnum, killed a young wild cat on last Thursday night that measured four feet in length. His dogs treed the cat about 8 o'clock in the evening in a tree near his house.

Legality of Supplemental Code.

Lawyer A. J. Long, at Hagerstown, counsel in a case on trial in which a woman is accused of securing liquor for a minor, contended that the Act of 1900 legalized the supplement to the code. Judge Stake ruled against him and Mr. Long took exceptions with a view of having the Court of Appeals pass upon the question. The court ruled that the Act of 1900 did not legalize the supplement because there was a provision in the act which stipulated that if tnere was a conflict between the supplement and the act the act should be taken.

Stops the Cough and Works off the Cold.

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 5 cents.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN.

Mountain Lake Park.

Services will be held in the M. E. church Sunday, March 10th, as follows: Class-meeting, 10:30 a. m.; Sunday school, 2:30 p. m., and preaching, 7:30 p. m., by the pastor, Rev. J. S. Harvey. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Superintendent Rudisill went to Washington, D. C., Monday, to attend a meeting of the directors of Mountain Lake Park Association, held on Tuesday.

Wednesday morning the thermometer registered six degrees below zero, the coldest morning of the winter thus far.

Mr. and Mrs. Sperry returned Saturday night from a ten days' trip to Florida.

Mesdames Cassel and McQuay are now in Florida, attending one of Dr. Davidson's Chautauquas.

Building operations will open up as soon as the present snow is off the ground.

Mr. John N. Michael and wife, who have been in Washington City for several months, returned to the Park last week.

A store room, 22x40, with wareroom 12x40, in central part of the Park, is for sale or rent. Apply to or address Jas. A. Hayden, Mt. Lake Park, Md.

Our enterprising merchant, Mr. P. T. Garthright, has just unloaded two cars, one of corn and the other of oats.

Mr. M. M. Schrock has contracts to erect two cottages, one in the Park and the other in Loch Lynn.

Loch Lynn Heights.

The planing mill is running on full time, with plenty of orders "on the hook."

Our debating society has assumed large proportions. On last Thursday night the large hall proved inadequate for the accommodation of the audience. The question for debate was: "Resolved, That riches are a greater hindrance to success than poverty." The affirmative was sustained by Prof. Ralston and Messrs. King and Harvey, while Messrs. Rathbun, Hayden and Hansen had the negative. The affirmative gained the decision, but it was surmised by some that one or more of the judges got a little "mixed." If any one has a burning question which they desire to have settled for all time, just send it in to the Loch Lynn Debating Society. Inclose 2-cent stamp to insure answer.

The B. & O. steam plow is expected any day to commence the work of grading for the two side tracks, each one mile in length, extending east and west from this station.

Work on the pipe line, which was stopped by the late snow and cold snap, will be resumed as soon as the weather will permit, with an increased force of workmen. Superintendent Landon expects to have from 30 to 50 men at work within a couple of weeks.

Rev. Fisher preached an able sermon Sunday evening, in the United Brethren church, to a large congregation. The discourse was especially addressed to young women. Rev. Fisher is very popular on his circuit.

Wallman.

Mrs. J. K. Scharf was visiting her sister, Mrs. John Bartley, at Bayard last Thursday.

E. E. Clark went to Cumberland Sunday.

Mr. George Wolf was visiting his family at Keyser Sunday.

Mrs. John Spence has gone to Oakland to attend the funeral of a relative.

Mrs. Cook was visiting her son here last week.

Mac. Curry is visiting his sister, Mrs. V. Seymour.

An immense ice gorge came down the Potomac and passed through here about three o'clock Monday morning. The water was very high and it was something worth seeing, but with the exception of the night watchman and and a few other men nobody saw it. The bridge was slightly damaged.

Mr. Williams, of Philadelphia, was here a couple of days last week.

J. W. Faw spent Sunday in Douglas, the guest of his brother.

Misses Maud and Helen Sollars were in town Saturday.

Mr. Harmon Savage and his book keeper, of Dobbin, were Sunday visitors.

SHORTY.

Hoyes.

Our roads are almost impassable. This morning (Tuesday) the thermometer registered 10 below zero.

Mr. and Mrs. Arch Speicher, of near Oakland, were visiting Mrs. Speicher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Dewitt, on last Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. D. A. Friend delivered an excellent sermon last Sunday morning.

The entertainment given here on last Friday evening by Mr. Daniel Dewitt and others was well attended. They rendered excellent music, both vocal and instrumental. They will also give entertainments at Flatwoods and Gay Run.

Arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Friend on Saturday, February 24, little twin daughters.

Mrs. Mollie Bishop's condition is somewhat improved at this writing.

Misses Sadie, Freda and Ethel Dewitt spent last Sunday with Earl and Auburn Smith.

The Garrett County Telephone Company held a meeting at this place on Monday and transacted important business.

Mrs. Charles Friend, of Sang Run, is quite ill. Dr. Webb Ravenscroft is her attending physician.

Seaboard Air Line Railway, Mileage Tickets Reduced.

One thousand mile tickets, good over the whole system of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, including the State of Florida, are sold at $25.00, previously sold in Florida at $30.00, and are honored between Washington and Richmond, and by the Baltimore Steam Packet Company between Baltimore and Portsmouth, over "Bay Line."

There's no reflection so dainty, no light so charming as the mellow glow that comes from

CORDOVA Wax Candles

Prepared in many color tints to harmonize with surroundings in dining room, drawing room, bed room or hall. Sold everywhere. Made by STANDARD OIL CO.

ROAD PETITION.

Notice is hereby given that thirty days after the publication of this notice application will be made to the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County for the appointment of reviewers to locate a new public county road leading from William Coddington's gate to run on the north side of Bear Creek to the covered bridge on Selbysport road through the lands of William Coddington, R. T. Frazee and William Steele, a distance of seventy-five rods.

SILAS TEATS,
G. KOLB,
WILLIAM STEELE,
46 W. E. FRIEND.

THE BALTIMORE AMERICAN.

ESTABLISHED 1773.

The Daily American.

Terms by Mail, Postage Prepaid:

Daily, One Month	$ .30
Daily and Sunday, One Month	.45
Daily, Three Months	.90
Daily and Sunday, Three Months	1.30
Daily, Six Months	1.50
Daily and Sunday, Six Months	2.25
Daily, One Year	3.00
Daily, with Sunday Edition, One Year	4.50
Sunday Edition, One Year	1.50

The Twice-a-Week American.

The Cheapest and Best Family Newspaper Published.

ONLY ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

Six Months, 50 Cents.

THE TWICE-A-WEEK AMERICAN is published in two issues, Tuesday and Friday mornings, with the news of the week in compact shape. It also contains interesting special correspondence, entertaining romances, good poetry, local matter of general interest and fresh miscellany suitable for the home circle. A carefully edited Agricultural Department, and full and reliable Financial and Market Reports, are special features.

CHAS. C. FULTON & CO.

FELIS AGNUS, Manager and Pub'r.

AMERICAN OFFICE,
BALTIMORE, MD.

Illinois Central R. R.

PERSONALLY CONDUCTED EXCURSIONS TO

CALIFORNIA

VIA NEW ORLEANS

AND THE SOUTHERN ROUTE.

VIA OMAHA

AND THE SCENIC ROUTE

NEW THROUGH LINE OF

HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

BY WAY OF MEMPHIS.

E. A. RICHTER, T. P. A.
812 Park Building, Pittsburg, Pa.

A. H. HANSON, Gen. Pass. Agt., CHICAGO.

What it Cures

COUGHS, BRONCHITIS, HOARSENESS, COLDS, LOSS OF VOICE, SORENESS, LARYNGITIS, TICKLING.

PINE AND TERPIN COUGH SYRUP

is the new remedy that is astounding the medical world with the rapidity and permanency of its cures—it never fails—one dose relieves while a few more cures—price, 25 cents a bottle.

LOGAN DRUG COMPANY,
At all Druggists. WHEELING, W. VA.

C. H. Grove

This signature is on every box of the genuine Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets the remedy that cures a cold in one day

The Garrett County Bank

OAKLAND, MD.

Pays 3 Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Subscribed Capital, - $50,000.00
Liability of Stockholders, 100,000.00
Surplus Fund, - - 10,000.00

DIRECTORS:

DANIEL E. OFFUTT,
GILMOR S. HAMILL,
JOHN M. DAVIS,
GEORGE W. LEGGE,
JOHN T. MITCHELL,
JOHN M. FREELAND,
SCOTT T. JONES.

D. E. OFFUTT, President.
G. S. HAMILL, Vice-President.
S. T. JONES, Cashier.

Authorized Capital $32,000.

The First National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MD.

Now Open for Business

Offers to its patrons every advantage consistent with sound Banking, and which their balances, business and responsibility warrant.

3 per cent. Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

WE SOLICIT YOUR BUSINESS.

DIRECTORS.

Ed A. Browning,	Oakland, Md.
C. E. Ellithorp,	Bittinger, Md.
L. E. Friend,	Friendsville, Md.
Wm. Moody,	Bloomington, Md.
U. G. Palmer,	Hutton, Md.
R. A. Ravenscroft,	Accident, Md.
E. E. Sollars,	Oakland, Md.
U. M. Stanton,	Grantsville, Md.
F. A. Thayer,	Oakland, Md.
M. N. Wilson,	Wilson, W. Va.

OFFICERS.

F. A. THAYER, - President.
M. N. WILSON, - Vice President.
U. G. PALMER, - Cashier.
M. R. HAMILL, Assistant Cashier.

TURNBULL'S Furniture, Carpeting and Curtains.

Elegance, moderate cost and unequalled assortments are the characteristics of our stock. It represents the best of everything in CARPETING, FURNITURE and CURTAINS.

JOHN TURNBULL & CO., 16-18-20 W. Baltimore St., BALTIMORE, MD.

You Get the Profits

Under our plan of selling carriages, buggies, and harness, you get the profits. The jobber and retailer are cut out. By dealing direct with the manufacturer, you pay only the cost of making with a moderate profit added; and you take your choice from the biggest stock and fullest assortment. Our plan of

Selling Carriages Direct

insures satisfaction—your money back if you are dissatisfied. Our complete illustrated catalogue, showing many styles of high grade vehicles, harness, robes, blankets and horse equipments, with detailed descriptions of each, mailed free.

THE COLUMBUS CARRIAGE AND HARNESS CO.,
Box 772, Columbus, Ohio.

No. 3034—Buggy. Price, $38.30, with leather quarter top.

No. 240—Single Strap Buggy Harness. Price, $7.95.

THE SECOND NATIONAL BANK of CUMBERLAND, MD.

Designated United States Depository.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.
BOXES FREE TO CUSTOMERS.

This Bank Pays Three Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Capital	$100,000
Surplus and Other Undivided Profits	250,000
Liability of Shareholders	100,000
Additional Security to Depositors	$450,000

LLOYD LOWNDES, President.
D. ANNAN, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Lloyd Lowndes, O. C. Gephart,
James Clark, L. M. Shepherd,
John Sheridan, A. Hunter Boyd,
David W. Sloan.

Midget Harness Riveter.

Complete repair shop in one tool. Will not wear out. Punches the hole, drives and clinches at one operation. Every horse owner, liveryman, teamster will buy on sight. Does the work of any $25 machine. Complete outfit with big bog of rivets will be sent for

ONLY 50 CENTS.

Agents Wanted.

HANDY ADJUSTABLE LIFTER. Handiest article ever invented for lifting hot pans, stove lids, etc. 15c, postpaid.

S. T. WILSON & CO.,
Box 103. Wilson, W. Va.

I HAVE PURCHASED

THE OAKLAND COAL YARD

of Mr. D. L. Conneway and will continue the business. I will keep constantly on hand a large supply of

HARD AND SOFT

COAL,

KINDLING WOOD, Etc.

All orders will receive prompt attention. Leave orders with the weighmaster or at my residence, the Giessman Hotel.

35-2 GEO. GIESSMAN

Oakland Pharmacy

JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.

Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars Cameras and Photo Supplies

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.

135½ acres coal land on Youghlogheny river, 7 miles north of Oakland.

The Andrews property in Oakland for sale. House on 5th street, opposite the jail for sale.

A farm one mile from Oakland, containing 187½ acres; about 50 or 60 acres cleared and under cultivation; has been thoroughly limed. Balance of land well timbered. On this farm is one of the best dwelling houses in the county; also stables, wagon sheds, spring house and all necessary outbuildings; water within five feet of kitchen door. This property will be sold cheap.

New house containing eight rooms, cellar, etc., and 26½ acres of ground; barn, stable, and all other outbuildings, adjoining the town of Grantsville, Garrett county. This property is known as the Samuel J. Beachy property, and will be sold cheap.

A farm five miles from Oakland on the Aurora road, containing 200 acres, well watered, fenced, etc.; a good dwelling house, a new barn built last year cost $1,000, and all other necessary outbuildings. This property will be sold on easy terms.

A farm 2½ miles southwest of Oakland, containing ninety acres of ground, well watered and fenced; has been thoroughly limed, and is under a high state of cultivation. First-class dwelling house; new bank barn put up this year; stone spring house and all other necessary outbuildings. One hundred and twenty-five bearing fruit trees of choicest variety. This farm can be bought on easy terms.

A farm five and two-third miles north of Swanton, containing one hundred and ten acres of land, comparatively level, well watered and under fence; eighty acres cleared and under a high state of cultivation; twenty-five acres of good timber; an orchard which never fails to produce fruit, consisting of peaches, pears, plums and apple trees. The buildings on this farm consist of an elegant dwelling house, containing six rooms and a cellar; a bank barn 40x60 feet; a spring house and all necessary outbuildings. This farm can be bought for part cash and balance on time to suit purchaser.

A farm known as the "Swanger Mill Property," containing eighty-six acres of land, partly cleared and balance in hemlock timber. The buildings consist of a dwelling house, small storehouse, a water-power grist mill, stable and all other necessary outbuildings. Besides being well watered by a stream running from one end of the place to the other it has on it a lake, covering about seven acres, which has been stocked with 40,000 brook and rain bow trout. This property can be bought at a low figure, part cash and balance on time, to suit purchaser, at five per cent. interest.

I have also houses to rent and sell in the town of Oakland.

For further particulars apply to

JOHN T. SINCELL,
Real Estate and Insurance Agent,
OAKLAND, MD.

J. B. WILLIAMS CO.

FROSTBURG, MD.

Cheapest place to buy

MONUMENTS HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING

Send for prices

LAND FOR SALE!

I am now offering for sale in large or small quantities, 31,000 acres of a tract known as "Swanton," and better known as the "Anderson lands," situated in Garrett County, Md. This land is well timbered and underlaid with many valuable veins of mineral; also suitable for farming purposes and grazing.

All trespassing will be prosecuted to the ullest extent of the law.

Call on or address:

C. A. WILT, Agent.

GL

M

Office

CUME

NORMAN S. H ATT
All business give. Office—Opera Hou OA

FRED A. THAYER, ATTORNE

STATE'S ATTORNEY COUNTY
Office in McComas's Build Will be assisted in all imp Benjamin A. Richmond of t bar.

GILMOR S. HAMILL
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY
OFFICE ON ALDER STREET.
Particular attention given to Conveyancing, investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated. fe14-1y

JULIUS C. RENNINGER,
ATTORNEY & COUNSELLOR AT LAW
Office opposite Bank, OAKLAND, MD.
Will practice in the courts of Maryland and West Virginia.
Real estate and mercantile law given special attention. Collections and investments made for clients. 46—1yr

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND,
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia. '88 10 6

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas building, Second Street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work. 18-98-tf.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
Felty Building, Opposite Postoffice,
OAKLAND, MD
GAS ADMINISTERED. 50-97

M. C. HINEBAUGH, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Office and residence, Alder St., west of post office.

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North 3rd Street.
Office in Shartzer's Block, Second Street.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Prompt attention paid to day or night calls.
Office at McComas' Sanitarium. 16-'99

H. W. McCOMAS, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Office opposite Garrett County Bank.
Residence on Main Street, opposite Brown's Hotel.
Office hours, 8 to 10 a. m., 2 to 3 p. m., 8 to p. m., from June to October and from October to June, 7 to 8.30 p. m.

DR. D. O. McKINLEY,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
SALISBURY, PENNA.
Will visit regularly through Garrett county Md., and offers his services to those wishing Dental Treatment. Charges moderate
P. O. address, Elk Lick, Pa. 6'22 6m

E. J. FRANTZ,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER,
Residence and P. O. Address,
SELBYSPORT, MD.

ANDREW J. HARNE,
AUCTIONEER.
Will sell real or personal property.
Residence Oakland, Garrett county, Md
Oakland, Md., Feb. 21st, 1887.

W. McCULLOH BROWN,
SURVEYOR AND ENGINEER,
LAND SURVEYS PROMPTLY MADE.
Particular attention given to TOWN surveying, and the use of the LEVEL in laying out new roads, streets, water works, drains, and GRADE LINES generally, including tram ways and railroad work. Comparative elevations taken quickly by anerold barometer. Address, box 41, Oakland, Md. 48 26t*

JONAS C. BEACHY,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
Will sell Real or Personal Estate.
Residence and post office address, BITTINGER, MD. 51-1yr.

ALEX'R C. MASON,
PRACTICAL SURVEYOR,
OAKLAND, MD.
Long experience enables me to locate tracts and military lots promptly and accurately. Being thoroughly familiar with the beginning corners of the most important surveys both in Allegany and Garrett counties. Plats, descriptions and estimates furnished.
40-1yr.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R. TIME TABLE IN EFFECT NOV. 25, 1900.

The following time table on the B. & O. went into effect on Sunday, Nov. 25, 1900. Trains now leave Oakland as follows:

GOING WEST.

No. 7.—	Daily	3.40 A. M
No. 3—	Daily	7.37 A. M
No. 71—	Daily except Sunday	9.21 A. M
No. 55—	Daily	4.47 P. M
No. 1—	Daily	10.05 P. M

GOING EAST.

No. 8—	Daily	5.50 A. M
No. 2—	Daily	6.53 A. M
No. 46—	Express, daily	4.41 P. M
No. 72—	Accom daily except Sun	2.26 P. M
No. 12—	Daily	8.30 P. M
No. 4—	Daily	12.37 A. M

F. D. UNDERWOOD, General Manager.
D. B. MARTIN,
Manager of Passenger Traffic.
D. M. MASON, Agent.

WEST VIRGINIA CENTRAL AND PITTSBURG RAILWAY CO.
IN EFFECT NOV 25, 1900.

SOUTHWARD No. 3 P. M.	SOUTHWARD No. 1 A. M.	STATIONS	NORTHWARD No. 2 NOON	NORTHWARD No. 4 P. M.
3 15†	7 00† lv	Cumberland ar	†12 00	†7 00
3 43	7 29	Rawlings	11 31	6 31
4 06	7 52	Keyser	11 08	6 08
4 16	8 05	Westernport	10 58	5 57
4 20	8 09	W. Va. C. Junc.	10 51	5 50
4 39	8 35	Shaw	10 28	5 22
5 00	9 00	Harrison	†10 06	†5 00
5 45*	9 50* ar	Elk Garden	*8 10	*4 10
5 41†	9 35† lv	Gorman	†9 35	4 30
5 47	9 42	Bayard	9 29	4 25*
5 59	9 54	Dobbin	9 19	4 15
6 02	9 58	Henry	9 15	4 11
6 27	10 27	Thomas	8 48	3 47
6 55	10 55 ar	Davis	8 05	3 05
6 31	10 34 lv	Coketon	8 41	3 40
6 39	11 01	Hendricks	8 10	3 10
7 02	11 04	Hambleton	8 07	†3 07
7 05	11 07	Bretz	8 03	3 03
7 08	11 10	Parsons	8 00	3 00
7 43	11 45	Kerens	7 25	2 29
8 00†	12 00† ar	Elkins	lv †7 10	†2 15
NOON				P. M.
8 36*	12 45† ar	Beverly	lv*7 20	†1 40
9 05*	1 10† ar	Huttonsville	lv *6 30	†1 15
P. M.				P. M.
	3 15* ar	Bealington	lv	*11 40
	P. M.			A. M. A. M.

†Daily. *Daily except Sunday.

C. L. BRETZ, Gen. Manager. G. W. HARRISON, Gen. Pas. Agent

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 25. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, MARCH 14, 1901. NUMBER 1.

M'COMAS RIDDLES ELECTION BILL.

Democratic Measure a Device for Fraud.

The Senator from Maryland Points Out Clearly the Meaning of the Proposed Amendments to the Best Election Law Maryland Ever Had, and Exposes the Hypocrisy of Governor Smith in His Message to the Lawmakers.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Senator McComas was asked tonight if he had examined the Election Bill and what he thought about it. He replied he had just finished the examination of it, and continued:

"The bill was concealed from the public until the legislature met. Already the newspapers and citizens, by interviews, have denounced its many defects. The old ring, which carried elections by fraud for 20 years, has regained courage. This bill defies public opinion. Without success, it tries to avoid the prohibitions of the Constitution. It will arouse every free man who prizes the freedom won in 1895.

"The Reform League election law of 1896 was a charter of freedom. The Democratic machine has not yet learned how to cheat this law. Governor Smith excuses his call for this extraordinary session by uttering several false pretenses.

"I regret to say it, but Governor Smith would admit these to be false pretenses, I think. His primary object was to disfranchise illiterates—white and black. He did not say so in his call, nor in his message to the legislature.

"The object of this bill is to disfranchise illiterates, but it does more. It makes bribery safe, and more effective. It encourages fraud in a variety of forms. Section 15, as amended, favors the use of repeaters at elections. The present law hinders repeaters. The only result of the change is to help them commit such crime at the polls.

"Mr. Poe's affidavit section to retain citizenship retarded the growth of Montgomery and Prince George's counties, largely reduced their taxable basis, and drove out bona fide and valuable citizens who had built and lived in their homes. Now it will disfranchise our volunteer soldiers in the Philippines; it would disfranchise our volunteer sailors had they not returned home, and Admiral Schley, if now residing in his native State, would be disfranchised while absent on his present cruise. The pretense is that it excludes wandering negroes, who are imagined to be 2,000 or 20,000.

"Compare the registry before and after this disfranchisement by affidavit. You will find it does not affect 200 colored people. It has driven away many hundred citizens, and deterred others from building their homes in the State.

"In section 49 it is provided that ballots four days before election shall be subject to the inspection of candidates or their agent. This provision is stricken out in this bill. Why? Can anyone assign a good motive?

"Section 50 of the law provides a clear, simple, uniform method for a ballot. The amended section authorizes 24 different forms and arrangements for ballots, as the caprice of the partisan supervisors may lead them. If you couple this provision with section 52, it is plain that the purpose is to enable the partisan supervisors—two Democrats overruling one Republican—to adopt expedients to hinder disfavored citizens and to help favored citizens.

"The worst section is the amended section 54. It takes away from the Police Commissioners of Baltimore and sheriffs of the counties the obligation to deliver all the voting machinery to the judges of election. Remember, the supervisors are the only board which contains two Democrats and one Republican, and that in Prince George's county, last election, the machinery for election was not delivered to the judges in the Vansville district, and thereby 100 majority was cut off from the Republicans. Supervisors are thus tempted to carry the elections in every close county in the State for the majority party; and the only penalty is a fine ranging from one dollar to a thousand dollars. In Carroll county a majority of the supervisors might fail to deliver ballot boxes and pencils and books to the election officers in the Taneytown district. That county is close. Taneytown is largely Republican. The failure of election there would make Carroll surely Democratic. The election officials would gladly pay the supervisors' fine, and the ring would give him a good office for distinguished and meritorious service at the election.

"Instead of expending several hundred thousand dollars in electing Governor Smith, it would have been practicable under this perilous provision to carry enough counties to elect Governor Smith and the legislature by the expenditure of $10,000 in paying the fine of corrupt partisan supervisors in a dozen counties. Should this section remain, the Democrats need not spend more than $20,000 in bribery of their Democratic supervisors to carry a legislature.

"This is bribery, made easy in the only machinery of our election laws, which is still partisan. I hope our State Senators, who are making a noble fight to save something for honest elections, may restore the old section or put in a penalty to send such supervisor to the penitentiary. A man who would commit such a crime as robbing a county of its suffrage deserves death, not a small fine. Since he cannot be hanged, he should be in peril of ten years in the penitentiary. No honest Democrat can defend the scheme successfully. There are numerous amendments making our election law afford loopholes for fraud. These instanced, all make the best law the worst.

"I will not go further. Each omission from the present law takes away a safeguard; each addition opens the door to some fraud or crime against fair elections. Each change is bad. The climax is in concealment from the candidate or his agent of the form of the ballot and the opportunity to a partisan majority of supervisors to mingle the names to help defraud and to defeat honest voters, and the strong temptation to partisan supervisors to sell the whole election, risking only a slight fine.

"In the Senate our majority is ample to offer amendments and debate them thoroughly, and at such length that the conscience of the public may be aroused. I hope they may prolong the debate until the people understand this bill. If such a bill as this be passed, the courts will not be appealed to in vain. Then the people will have a clear-cut issue, and the choice between the fair elections of the last five years and a generation of fraudulent elections which preceded. The Democrats will need to practice all the frauds this bad law affords them to overcome the new revolt of good citizens of all parties, who will again combine to overthrow this conspiracy and defeat the ring conspirators."

Democracy Doomed.

From the Snow Hill Advocate.

POCOMOKE CITY, MD., Mch. 6, 1901.

I am not a politician and have no use for extreme partisan methods. It has been my observation since early manhood that when a party resorts to radical measures to perpetuate its power its day of ascendancy is near at hand. I, therefore do not hesitate to predict, although "not a prophet or the son of a prophet," that the Democratic party of Maryland is now digging its political grave.

The old charm and confidence inspired in our souls by the magic of these "champions of the plain people" has taken flight to a climate more congenial to the abettors and instigators of the twentieth century Democracy of the John Walter Smith type that is now plotting to rob us of the highest gift of our great Republic, and left us free to see and know men by their works.

If our Democratic friends would only put their ears to the ground and catch the subtle murmers of loathing and disgust entertained by the voters who for years placed them in power, trusting on, hoping on, and only reaping the fruits of broken pledges they would not be so self-deceiving.

Here, as in other places, we have men who have the highest claims to the full enjoyment of citizenship. Men of modest means, who have labored long and arduously to gain a competency; men who have raised large families of sober and industrious boys and girls; men who are as zealous for the welfare of their country as any man can be; men who have sealed their right to participate in the affairs of their country by braving the perils of war in defense of their homes and liberty, freely giving their youth and blood for the inheritance that is theirs by right of constitutional law; men whose sons are today nobly and fearlessly responding to their country's call in far away and unhealthy climates; and these men, and their children (for in many cases boys had to be kept from school to work for the support of their mothers and younger sisters and brothers) are to be deprived of their votes! And for what? Simply to enable a few discredited politicians to gain their unworthy ends and thereby hold us up to the world, in derision and scorn, as men unfit to have a voice in our own government.

If the simple ability to READ is to be the criterion for citizenship for this land, then all the labors of the philosophers and teachings of Christianity have been for naught!

If honor, the possession of sound sense, virtue, sobriety, industry and patriotism are to be relegated to the realm of the damned, and man's fitness to participate in the advantages of our free institutions are to be restricted to his ability to master the various combinations of the alphabet, then it were infinitely better if no gun had spoken for liberty at Bunker Hill, that Jefferson had never penned the Declaration of Independence; that the thirteen Colonies had not adopted the Constitution!

We have tasted of the fruits of these noble things, we love our birth right, and we are loth to let them part from us, and it behooves those in high places to remember, that we are the "salt of the earth?"

The most inaccurate and insulting part of all this proceeding. Mr. Editor, is the assertion, that "all the illiterate voters sell their franchise." A more slanderous, more unkind and inhuman lie was never uttered.

Among the list of crimes given in the book of instructions for Judges and Clerks of Registrations and Elections, prepared by the Hon. Isador Raynor, Gov. Smith's Attorney General, the most careful search fails to find the "crime of illiteracy" given as a ground for disfranchisement, but now, at the dictation of the past master in political debauchery, Arthur Pue Gorman, the poor unfortunate who was not "born in the purple" nor whose early childhood was free from the daily career of self-support, must be denied the one privilege that makes all men equal in a free land, be marked unclean and set off from his friends and neighbors in a discredited group with the perjurer, the rapest and the thief! And for what end? Why this humiliating outrage?

The best legislation given to us for years in Maryland was by a Republican administration, and we have not forgotten it. If we have ever been represented in the National Government more ably, or if Maryland has ever fared better at the hands of the National Government than she is today, we fail to recall the time.

The Democratic "bosses" are "up a tree" and have no possible chance of winning the State and county elections, this fall, or the spring election in Baltimore under the present laws, and in their desparation they are only too willing to stigmatize and criminalize the poor man, the unfortunate working man, if by so doing they can get control of the State government and send A. P. Gorman to the U. S. Senate.

Hoping to disfranchise enough negro voters to make them safe in the majority for years to come, they have no care for the poor white man. They claim he sells his vote any how, and by disfranchising him they are saved the expense of paying him on election day—the one person above all others that they professed, in years gone by, to love so well. We are glad, Governor Smith, that you have let us know the real light in which you regard the poor working man; that you have not been so artful in your dodging this time as to conceal the fact that to be uneducated is to be a criminal in your judgement and only fit to be placed with the untutored negro in a set by themselves and labeled "unfit for citizenship." You and your party are doomed.

CONSERVATIVE.

Furnish Their Own Music.

T. E. Shillingberg, of Gormania, W. Va., book keeper for the large Hoffman tannery located there, has quite an orchestra in his household. His two daughters play violins, his son the big bass fiddle, and Tom, himself, is also a fiddler. They play a good grade of music, and his daughter, who is only 16 years of age, is quite a violinist and leads the orchestra.

The Oakland Normal.

The Oakland Normal will open on April 8th and continue for a term of ten weeks. All wishing a thorough normal training are cordially invited to attend. Special attention will be given to the common school branches and theory and practice of teaching. Any wishing to study Latin or the higher branches can do so. We have secured the services of a competent assistant and together expect to make this one of the best normals in the county. Tuition—$6 for first grade, $5 for second grade. Good boarding can be obtained at $2.50 per week and upwards.

For further particulars address

51-3t. A. W. DEWITT, Hoyes, Md.

TO CURE LAGRIPPE IN TWO DAY

Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE TABLETS. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature on every box. 25c.

DEATH OF JOHN WRIGHT.

At One Time a Prominent Citizen of Garrett County.

To the Editor of The Republican.

I notice in the newspapers the death of Mr. John Wright, in Salisbury, Pa., on the 1st day of March, 1901, in his 93rd year, after a prolonged illness, mostly the result of extreme age. He was by some years the oldest person of his town. It would seem proper and advisable that something should be written and published on the Maryland side of the line of one so noted for all that is great, true and virtuous, especially as he was a prominent citizen of what is now Garrett county for many years of the most active part of his life.

He was the oldest son of James Wright, born on a farm on the eastern slope of Negro mountain, on the Pennsylvania side of the old "Province Line." The place was known as "Pack-house." Suppose from the fact that it was near the old Braddock road, over which in olden times all useful articles, large and small, were carried on pack-hores with their enormous saddles. This place was not far from the historic battle ground of the Indian and Negro, where the latter slew the former. Hence the name Negro mountain.

Old Mr. James Wright had a number of sons and daughters, but the subject of this little tribute was the most prominent. He stepped over the line in early life and was quite a prominent and useful citizen there for many years, especially during the flush years of the old Nationai road. He was then quite conspicuous in business affairs. He and family lived in Grantsville a number of years. And just here recollections tell me that we were then adjoining neighbors, a little over 45 years ago. He lived at different other places in old Allegany county, once for awhile on the old Brown farm, which was immediately on the State line: from there he moved to Salisbury, only two miles distant, where he resided and was much respected for the whole residue of his prolonged life.

He leaves his widow Rebecca, whom he married in New Jersey, where he lived for a time in early life. They had an even dozen of children, most of them surviving—four sons and eight daughters—only one left in Garrett county, she the wife of Alfred Yeast, a grandson of one of Allegany's early pioneers. Two well-doing daughters have lived for a number of years in the far away State of California. Though far apart from precious parents they often contribute to the comforts and satisfactions of the two left behind.

It can be and deserves to be said of John Wright that he was an excellent citizen and most worthy man in all the relations of a good and useful life, never offensive or aggressive, always smooth and polite in manners and ways; in fine, a gentleman of the olden time type. For many years a devout and worthy member of the German Baptist (Dunkard) church, to which he was a credit and it a comfort to him. He will be much missed by many people and in many places.

The writer knew him long years ago in "high youth" and with mingled feelings of sorrow and pleasure he offers this poor tribute to his memory and for the comforts and satisfactions of the many he left behind near and dear to him.

AN OLD FRIEND.

March 9, 1901.

A Wedding That Is To Be.

The marriage of Miss Eleanor Bennett McConnor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. McConnor, to Mr. Norman Swope Heindel, of Oakland, will take place Wednesday afternoon, March 20, at the residence of the bride's parents, 22 East Preston street, Baltimore. Rev. C. Ernest Smith, rector of St. Michael and All Angels' Protestant Episcopal church, will perform the ceremony.

The bride will be given away by her father. She will wear a gown of biscuit-colored lansdowne, trimmed with Arabian lace, and will carry lillies of the valley.

Miss McConnor is well known in musical and social circles, having been for several years the soprano soloist of the First Independent Christ's church. She is a sister of Mrs. Otto Simon, of Washington, and related to the Kent and Hadley families, of England. Mr. Heindel is a son of the late Rev. William Heindel, a grandson of the Hon. John Swope and nephew of Judge Clabaugh, of the Supreme Court, District of Columbia. He is a graduate of the Law School of Columbia College and a member of the Baltimore Country Club.

The young couple will reside in Oakland after returning from a wedding journey to New York and Lakewood, N. J.

MR. RENNINGER'S PAPER

Read Before the Oakland Club Tuesday Evening of This Week.

At a largely attended meeting of the Oakland Club held Tuesday evening in the Club rooms, Mr. Julius C. Renninger, chairman of the Committee on Conventions, etc., read the following paper:

To the Members of Oakland Club:

Upon assuming the duties of the Committee on Conventions, your committee's first step was to ascertain as near as possible what organizations were likely to be prevailed upon to hold their meetings and conventions at Oakland. We endeavored to secure a list of religious, ministerial, fraternal, social, labor, commercial and political organizations which held annual meetings within the State, to learn the date and time and the probable length of their meetings. Organizations of various kinds generally vote at their meetings where assembled upon some place named for their next meetings for the following year. Conventions usually consist of delegates elected from certain sections and places to represent their society, lodge, local party, etc. Oakland and Garrett county usually have representatives at these conventions and it is through these delegates your committee desires to invite them to select Oakland as the place for holding their meetings and conventions. Other organizations where direct invitations would come with propriety from your committee we desire to extend to them our town for the holding of their conventions. Ministerial associations, religious societies, fraternal organizations, political parties, social bodies, trade and commercial unions or professional associations assemble in convention from time to time and from place to place within the State. There can be no reason why Oakland should not obtain and have these conventions. Our town, situated on the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio railrood, swept by the breezes 2800 feet above the level of the sea, surrounded by magnificent scenery, infused by pure, exhilerating air, with its excellent hotel facilities, is an ideal place for holding conventions. It has been the pleasure of your committee to place the adaptability and the desirability of Oakland for conventions in the most favorable light, to the end that these bodies and organizations may assemble in convention here. We learn that many conventions are held in the cities during the summer. In the heated season especially should Oakland be an acceptable and pleasant place for the holding of conventions. It is the object and purpose of the committee to have Oakland known as the "City of Conventions." We believe that when we have once secured some organizations to meet in conventions here the road will be paved to easily secure others. The meeting of conventions brings many strangers to town, it thereby tends to advertise Oakland and the county, it makes new and better opportunities for the people and in main assists financially and otherwise.

Anything that tends to advance a community necessarily results in giving an impetus to the progress and growth of that community. This "consummation devoutly to be wished" requires effort and persistency, and your committee with the cooperation of the members of the Club and the citizens of the town hope to materially accomplish something in this direction.

It is with pleasure that your committee reports a State convention to be held here by the Junior Order of United Ametican Mechanics of Maryland, which will meet in Oakland on April 16, 17 and 18. It is supposed that between two hundred and three hundred delegates will be in attendance at this convention, coming from all parts of the State. Your committee offers the suggestion that the members of the Club and the citizens of the town should on the above mentioned dates display in liberal profusion the National and State flags. The American flag being emblematic of American liberty and patriotism, one of the principles of this organization. We further recommend that the Club display from one of its windows a large flag as a welcome to the attending delegates and visiting strangers. We know that when the delegates return to their respective homes they will remember the welcome, kindness and hospitality of our people, which is one of the characteristics of our town.

The Maryland State Bar Association will probably meet at Deer Park in July next. In which event they may be prevailed upon to spend a day in Oakland. The Bankers Association, which meets annually at different places in this State, may be induced to meet in Oakland next year. Steps will be taken at the proper time to have them meet here, and we hope that at some future time we can report their decision to meet at Oakland. The Ministerial Association of the Episcopal church, "the Arch-Deaconry of Cumberland, Maryland," will meet in semi-annual session at Oakland in next June.

Your committee recommends that the secretary of the Club furnish to the chairman of this committee copies of the "Guide to Oakland" to be sent by him to such organizations as he may see proper.

In conclusion, your committee wishes to state that they feel much gratified both as to the bright outlook and the encouragement which they have received.

Call For Your Letters.

Mrs. Jane R. Bowman, Mrs. Margaret Collinge, Mrs. Ella West, Miss Maggie Phillips, Rev. H. E. Friend, Mr. Ira Sisler, Mr. H. D. Strawser, Mr. Israel Spiker, Chas. Morem & Sons.

THE WEBER ESTABLISHMENT.

A Correspondent of "Florists Exchange" Visits it on a Trip West.

The current issue of Florists Exchange, published in New York City in the interests of floriculture, contains an article on the flower growing and propagating establishment of Messrs. H. Weber & Sons, near Oakland. The paper also has a very fine half tone engraving of Mr. Henry Weber, Sr., which we would like to reproduce but the lines are too fine for the grade of paper used by us. We will therefore be content in giving below the article contributed to the Exchange:

Saturday morning, February 23, in company Wm. Weber, the Cincinnati delegation started for Oakland, Md., which was reached after about eight hours' ride from Baltimore. Oakland is situated on the top of the Alleghanies, 2,800 feet above the sea level, and is in a sort of a basin, which has an area of about 25 square miles.

On arrival we were driven in a sleigh to the Weber establishment, which contains 65,000 square feet of glass. Mr. Weber tells me they will add 10,000 feet more the coming summer. The first house we entered was 240 feet long by 28 feet wide. Half of this house is planted to Norway, which is a fine grower and a fine producer, free from disease, and a perfect calyx. The balance of the house is planted with roses, principally Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, which Mr. Weber tells me does better with him than Bride or Bridesmaid. I notice that the firm uses the model carnation support principally, although the Dorner Method was also seen. Hector is the scarlet carnation here; it seems to be a good producer. Egypt is their new crimson; it appears to be prolific, has a good strong stem, a fine calyx, and is a strong grower, like Norway. As a crimson it is a beauty.

We now come to the Geneviye Lord. This variety needs no introduction. I can only add, as I have always said it is a grand carnation. But the house that makes the greatest show is the one devoted to Mrs. Thomas W. Lawson. Just now the plants are coming into full crop, and present a beautiful sight.

The propagating house, where all these prize winners are produced, is 240 feet in length, and at present is a very interesting spot. The material used to root the cuttings is a sandy loam of a very fine soft texture, and the roots seem to revel in it. All through you can see the little feeders reaching out for their food, and Mr. Weber tells me not 1 per cent. of the cuttings is lost. Certainly such cuttings as are here seen cannot but give satisfaction.

Quite a line of bedding plants, such as cannas, coleus, geraniums and begonias, is grown, also callas and smilax.

The seedling house was well stripped of flowers, so we did not see any of the really new things with which the firm will surprise us later. Three boilers for heating this establishment are used, of 100, 125 and 20 horse power respectively. They are all tubular. At the time of our visit the thermometer stood at 12 degrees above zero. As we did not arrive at Oakland until after four o'clock in the afternoon, it was dark by the time we had finished our tour of inspection, but a much pleasanter surprise was in store for us, that of the meeting of Mr. Weber's family. They have recently moved into their handsome new residence, which by the way was planned by Mr. Weber's daughters, and is surely a work of art. We were entertained at dinner, after which the balance of the evening was spent in listening to instrumental and vocal music rendered by the Misses Weber and Miss Agnes Bullard.

Our party consisted of George Bayer, of Toledo, O.; E. A. Nelson, of Indianapolis, Ind.; R. Witterstætter, W. K. Partridge, Wm. Jackson and E. G. Gillett. Upon arriving home we found that they had been having quite a spell of winter that had diminished the coal pile considerably.

Grantsville Normal.

The Grantsville Normal will be in April 8, 1901, and continue ten weeks. Thorough instructions will be given in all branches to be studied by students. A competent assistant will be employed if necessary. Tuition, $5 and $6.

J. S. GNEGY,
1 3t* Oakland, Md.

Proposed Furniture Factory.

Subscription books for the capital stock of the proposed furniture factory for Oakland have been opened at the furniture store of Messrs. D. E. Bolden & Co. in Oakland. So far about $9000 have been subscribed. The shares are $10 each.

The promoters of the enterprise are desirious of getting as many persons interested as possible and as soon as sufficient capital has been secured the charter will be drawn and a board of managers and other officers elected.

It is proposed to utilize the Oakland planing mill plant for the factory. This can be readily done with but little additional expense in the way of machinery to that already in the building.

Should the enterprise be successful it will give employment to a number of men all year around.

Stops the Cough and Works off the Cold.

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 5 cents.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN.

THE REPUBLICAN.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Publisher.

OAKLAND, : GARRETT CO., MD

SLEEP, BLESSED SLEEP.

Sleep, blessed sleep, with soothing, soft caress,
Whose gentle touch doth benefit and bless
The restless mortals tired of work and play,
Which cap with weariness the toilsome day.
Death's loved twin brother, calm and helpful sleep,
Soother of sorrow for the ones who weep.

How kindly are his ministrations made,
By dreams which lead to many a quiet glade
Where murmuring waters sing the soul to rest
In realms devoted to the truly blest;
Who thus transported from the daytime ills
Go without effort where this angel wills.

Beneath his touch the pauper dreams of wealth,
The invalid of full and boundless health,
The disappointed student of success,
The friendless of devoted helpfulness
Received from those who in his waking hour
But emphasize their selfish use of power.

So sleep for all these toilers doth suffice,
His hand leads on through many a paradise
Where all things hoped for but delayed are found
In lands of calm, where earth is holy ground,
Where small ills vanish, and rude skies that stormed
By sleep's soft magic are to peace transformed.

And when at last all those who toil and weep
Are called by Death unto that longer sleep
Which hath no waking at the touch of morn,
They shall obey, not as do souls forlorn,
But as those who, acquaint with journeys brief,
Accept the longer one with glad relief;
For they who sleep with calmly fluttering breath
Are but probationers of kindly Death,
And they who fold white hands and no more weep
Are crowned with rest in an eternal sleep.

I. EDGAR JONES.

THE LAST GIFT

By John Albee.

IT WAS nothing—only a few apricots on a common plate—that Ambrose Martin gave his wife one late summer evening, but it was his dearest gift to her, and to purchase them he went out of their little apartments for the last time. He had been sick for two years—"the happiest years of my life," he often said. In them he had learned to know and love his wife more than ever before. In health and prosperity neither was aware of the depth of the smooth stream of their lives. But when ill-health began to weaken his strength and at length deprive him of his position and one by one of all his resources, so that he was compelled to move from cheap to cheaper rooms, a great light of love began to illumine his life. It drew the husband and wife closer together. Although unused to labor, the wife now became the breadwinner. Having arranged everything for his comfort during the day, she departed for her labors. Here, with a heavy heart, she went through the duties of the day, for she was constantly haunted by the fear that at any time she might return and find her husband dead. He was in that critical stage of his disease when this was likely to happen. Her heart almost ceased beating when, punctually at four o'clock in the afternoon, she opened the door of their rooms.

Hitherto she had found him in his accustomed place, propped upon a lounge, a small table by his side, on which were a few books, a musical score and a photograph of his wife. He had been an organist; music was his passion; in it he lived and found the intellectual and spiritual food of his being. His chief comfort now was in reading music, realizing as far as his enfeebled powers allowed him its tone and its moanings. For a long time past he had heard no music, save the street organs, whose jangled strains too often reminded him of his own broken and miserable fortune. At four o'clock in the afternoon this mood and all other melancholy reflections passed away, and the meeting of the husband and wife was like that of long parted lovers, when joy is mingled with tears, and the remainder of the day they were happy; they forgot their distress and the approaching doom. All the organist's passion for his art was now concentrated into a sublime and purified affection. They spoke not of this life, which held so little and so brief a good for them, but their thoughts and their conversation were turned toward the future, the eternal. It was already so near to one of them that the other vision was made real. A few more partings, a few more meetings and the world would be left behind. Until then they solaced each other with those fond attentions which usually accompany the days of courtship. How much a little served that devoted pair, and what compensations came into their lives only those know who love through all suffering and in every misfortune. The least trifles made the day bright; they arranged and rearranged their two rooms, each time with some new device to make them more fresh and attractive or more comfortable and convenient. There was an air of refinement which lingers long and is latest to be lost in the home of those who have known better days. They made a few flowers bought of the street vender, half alive, live a week by careful nursing; and then the green leaves, if by chance there were any, would be kept fresh even longer. The table was spread as neatly as if they had nothing else to think of. It is true, there were no dainties to place upon it, only the simplest fare care and economy could plan and select. The rent of the rooms exhausted the larger portion of their resources. Then there were medicines and the occasional visit of a physician to be provided for. So, one by one, the trifles which had constituted their luxuries were curtailed. The last thing to be given up was fresh fruit, almost the only article for which the invalid retained a relish.

PAINFULLY HE STRUGGLED DOWN THE STAIRS.

AS SHE OPENED THE DOOR SHE INSTANTLY RECOGNIZED THE LOVING DEVICE.

But of late their diminished and precarious income had forced them to face the stern necessities of their situation and reduce to the last point every item of their expenditures. Ambrose often remonstrated whenever Margaret brought home to him a delicious peach or a single pear, not knowing that she had walked the weary miles to and from her work in order to have the car fare whereby she could purchase the dainty for her husband.

Never since his marriage had Ambrose failed to remember his wife's birthday. He had so few opportunities now of showing his affection by tangible tokens that it was with real distress he saw the day approach, and realized the impossibility of making his usual gift. It was already August, and her birthday was the 12th. With the morbid persistency of an invalid he had revolved various futile plans in his mind until he had grown feverish, and it was with unusual anxiety that his wife left him on the morning of her birthday, which she had herself forgotten. After she had gone it occurred to him how fond Margaret was of fruit, although she seldom tasted that which she brought to him. The small silver coin, long treasured, the last remnant of his earnings, would buy a little, enough at least to show he remembered the day. Although he had not been out of his room for many months he felt a new vigor inspired within him by his loving purpose.

Painfully he struggled down the stairs and into the street he managed to walk, with frequent pauses for breath, to the nearest fruit store. Recalling Margaret's singular fondness for apricots he prices them. His silver piece would buy but few of fine quality, so he took them in preference to more of an inferior kind. Getting slowly back to his room he arranged the apricots on a plate in the center of a small table and walked toward the door to view the effect. They were so few! He looked at them distressfully, and a bitterly renewed sense of his poverty and helplessness overcame him and the tears ran down his cheeks. But suddenly a lively thought came into his heavy heart. He would multiply them, work a miracle, to the eye, at least. On the wall opposite the door hung a long, narrow mirror; he pushed the table in front of it and placed the dish of fruit so that its reflection, its double, could be immediately seen by his wife as she entered the room. Taking a few green leaves from a vase, he skillfully arranged them among the fruit. Then he seated himself near the table where he could watch Margaret's face as she opened the door and caught the first sight of his gift. Impatiently now he awaited her return. Several times he thought he heard her footsteps on the landing, and his heart beat faster as he pictured to himself her surprise and her pleasure.

At last she came, and as she opened the door she instantly recognized the loving device. In the feverish brightness of his eye, in the flush of his wan cheek, in his eager, strained attitude as he sat there, leaning a little forward with his hands nervously clasped together. She saw all it had cost him. Then another miracle was wrought—she saw nothing, all had vanished; for one brief moment all mortal barriers disappeared; she seemed to stand in the very presence of the spirit of the man who had won and always kept her heart. She threw herself upon the bosom of her husband, and in their mingled tears there came a vision of an eternity of devotion and love.

ARTIST SANS ARMS

Wonderful Work Done by Bartram Hiles, an English Painter.

Earns His Living by Painting with His Teeth—Technique of His Work Is Equal to That of Most of His Colleagues.

How strong the artistic instinct in a man must be to survive what would seem to be insuperable disadvantages is illustrated in the case of Bartram Hiles, a young painter of Bristol, England, who lost both his arms several years ago and now paints by holding the brush between his lips.

Young Hiles lost both arms when a boy of eight years, and then he had already made a beginning in art by studying drawing. The loss of his arms was supposed, of course, to put an end to anything further in this line. But it didn't.

When Hiles recovered from the horrible injury he thought of nothing but drawing and how to resume it. There was only one way, and that seemed nearly impossible. It was by holding the brush in his mouth.

Inconceivable as it may appear to anyone appreciating the manual dexterity which the ordinary artist, or, rather, the artist who works by ordinary means, is compelled to exercise. Hiles acquired such control over the muscles of his mouth that in two years after he began to work in this way his work took a prize at a local exhibition.

When he was 16 Mr. Hiles exhibited a water color at the British Fine Arts academy which elicited much admiration, though the fact that the painter was without hands was not known by those who saw the picture. So far as his present work goes the technique is in every way the equal of that of men who work with two hands.

In fact, Mr. Hiles in no way acknowledges that he is handicapped by his physical misfortunes. He is wrapped up in his work and is bright, cheerful and happy—neither expecting, nor even admitting, that his case calls for sympathy. He seems absolutely to have found a substitute for his hands in working with the brush, mixing the colors skillfully and laying them on deftly.

THE ARMLESS ARTIST.
(Bartram Hiles Paints Beautiful Pictures with His Mouth.)

In past times Mr. Hiles has made no reference to his lack of arms when offering his work for exhibition, and hanging committees have not been aware of his misfortune. He simply stands on the merits of his work—happily excellent ground for him to stand on—and asks no odds. He is a jolly young man, who has paying engagements for his products, not the least lucrative of which are designs for patterns in wall papers and carpets.

As an encouraging example of what may be accomplished by a man of determination, industry and pluck in the face of obstacles, Mr. Hiles gives to the world much that is as valuable as his artistic genius. The young fellows with all their limbs and faculties who idle listlessly about because they "don't know what to do" may here find a lesson which ought to set them speedily to work.

Mr. Hiles' work is now carried on in a little alcove in the south nave of the Crystal Palace, London, where he is surrounded by sketches, designs and artistic drawings, all products of his own art. He works as long every day as the light lasts and then betakes himself to exercise, for he is handsome and an athlete.

In the array of productions by himself and the other artists working here, Mr. Hiles' work stands out by reason of a certain breeziness or atmosphere which is not altogether lost even in the reproduction, as the sketches accompanying this article will show. His best effects, where tints have been employed, have been secured by the use of water colors. It is doubtful whether he will ever excel in oil, the heavy pressure of that sort of work being perhaps too much for one compelled to secure results by such means as Mr. Hiles is forced to adopt.

Mr. Hiles has several other accomplishments not generally set down in behalf of an armless man. For instance, he is an expert swimmer, which fact seems almost as strange as does his remarkable gift of art. He is a regular and skillful whist player, but in this requires the assistance of another person to cut, shuffle and deal the cards. In his walks he wears a large military cape, under which the physical defect is not noticeable, and anyone meeting him casually in the street and not knowing who he is would as little suspect that he had lost his arms as he would that he is one of the rising young artists of England, who works with his brush between his teeth.

PUNGENT PARAGRAPHS.

"You went right in bodily, did you?" "Yes, after looking in." "And you started ahead, and asked the old man for his daughter?" "Well, no, I didn't." "Why not?" "He wasn't there."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Husband (returning from his first ascent in a balloon)—"Just think of it, Alice, I ascended 25,000 feet in the air." Young Wife—"And you brought back nothing for me!"—Fliegende Blaetter.

They Don't Speak Now.—Ida—"I want to have some pictures taken. Can you recommend a photographer?" Ada—"Flashem! I've heard that he has a way of making the homeliest look absolutely handsome."—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

Blackburn—"Judge Snyder made a rule some time ago that all women should remove their hats in his court, but I see that the order is not enforced." Whitehead—"No; the women folks appealed to the judge's wife, and she rendered a dissenting opinion."—Denver News.

Mrs. Greene—"That was a fine article your husband wrote about 'The Smoke Nuisance.' Mr. Greene says it is the best thing that has appeared on the subject." Mrs. Gray—"Yes? I suppose it ought to be. My husband smoked no less than ten cigars while writing it."—Boston Transcript.

Explained.—O'Hoolahan—"Oi hear it took Riley's funeral half an hour to pass a given p'int. Phat is a 'given p'int,' anyway?" O'Callahan—"Whoy, a saloon is a given p'int, fer instance." O'Hoolahan—"Oh! a saloon, is it? B'gorrah, it's a wonder they iver got past it at all, at all!"—Brooklyn Eagle.

A Testimonial.—Jones—"You remember what a miserable memory I used to have? Well, Dr. Bolus gave me a prescription that has done me a world of good." Smith—"Something to take before meals, was it?" Jones—"Well, I don't recall just what the directions were, but it's a splendid cure."—Philadelphia Press.

PETER THE WILD BOY.

He Was Caught in a Tree in a German Forest in 1725 and Taken to England.

Peter, the Wild Boy, who was brought to England, was found in 1725, in the woods of Hamelin, 28 miles from Hanover, walking on his hands and feet, climbing up trees like a squirrel, and feeding upon grass and moss of trees.

Being presented to the king while at dinner, his majesty made him taste of all the dishes that were served up at the table, and, in order to bring him by degrees to human diet, commanded that he should have such provisions as he might like best. He was at that time judged to be about 12 or 13 years old.

Afterward he made his escape into the same woods, but was again caught on a tree, which was obliged to be first sawed down.

He was brought to England in April, 1726, and again introduced into the presence of his majesty and many of the nobility. He could not speak, and scarce seemed to have any idea of things.

However, it was observed that he took most notice of his majesty, and of the princess, giving him her glove, which he tried to put on his own hand, and seemed much pleased, as he was with a gold watch which was held to tick at his ear.

At first he appeared uneasy to wear any clothes, and he could not be brought to lie upon a bed, but sat in a corner of the room; whence it is conjectured that he used to sleep on a tree for security against wild beasts. However, he walked upright, and even sat for his picture.

MUCH OF LITTLE.

A Queer Sign That May Be Seen Not Many Miles from London.

The stranger in any city half a hundred years old, if he knew anything of the city's history, would learn from many of the signs that the second and third generations had succeeded to the business of father and grandfather. It is especially true of New York. The New York Times mentions some peculiar signs, and relates the following, which we take to be true, although we do not vouch for it:

A Londoner, who had strolled about the streets of the city with a New Yorker who called his attention to some of the signs of sons, agreed that in this respect New York was very like London, but in neither city was there any such sign as he saw in one of the old English towns a few hours' run from the world's metropolis. The sign reads:

JOHN LITTLEJOHN'S SONS AND LITTLE (LITTLE LITTLEJOHN, DOO-LITTLE LITTLEJOHN AND JOHN LITTLE).

According to the Londoner, the first Littlejohn and Little were partners, the former gave his first son his partner's family name, and Little gave his boy his partner's Christian name. Littlejohn's second son was named, for his mother's family, Doolittle. The three sons succeeded to their fathers' business, hence the sign is entirely correct, and the Londoner was right in saying that the successors had no intention of being "funny" when they had their sign written as it appears.

Told the Time by Taste.

A strange clock was made during the last century for a French nobleman. The dial was horizontal, and the figures, being hollow, were filled with different sweets of spices. Thus, running his finger along the hand, by tasting, the owner could tell the hour without a light.

APPRENTICE AND MASTER.

Apprenticeships Were an Important Institution in France During Fourteenth Century.

Apprenticeship was an important institution of France in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, and was regulated with the utmost care, as will be seen by the following account of "An Idler in Old France:"

By the rules of the book the master was held responsible for his apprentice; and under a wise and kindly roof, the lad who was learning to be a master workman and a ruler in his little world might lead a happy and profitable life.

Often he did so, and when the day came that he might claim his freedom he chose to remain the paid servant, friend and fellow worker of the master who had sheltered him from boyhood and taught him all his craft, rather than to seek a fortune less assured elsewhere.

During the years of his apprenticeship the patron, or master, was to feed, clothe and shelter him, in the homely wording of the clockmaker's rule, to cherish him "beneath his roof, at his board, and by his hearth." Nay, it was strictly enjoined upon the master to treat his apprentice "as his own son," and in some trades he was bidden to remember that his responsibility did not end on the threshold of the workshop, that the "soul and morals" of the little stranger had claims on his solicitude.

In a day when the streets of Paris were more or less dangerous after dark for everybody, the master was instructed to be careful on what errand he dispatched the youngster; and the pastry-cook, whose apprentices were often sent to cry cakes and creams upon the public ways, were continually warned to prevent the lads from falling among evil company.

It seems certain that, as far as the Middle Ages are concerned, the rules, precepts and admonitions were not only framed with good sense and care, but were very rigidly enforced upon all masters who had youths and lads in their employ.

High and low in the society of that day the rod and birch were flourished with small discrimination and less nicety; and if the tutors of little princes had leave to whip them freely, apprentices could not expect to come off too lightly at a master's hand.

Two Seats for One Man.

A fat patron of the drama in New York found all of the chairs uncomfortably small. Accordingly he agreed with the manager of his favorite theater to engage two seats for the Saturday matinee regularly. This proposition was accepted and the money has been regularly paid ever since. One large chair was provided near the stage in place of two seats of the regular size. As the lessee, as he might be called, is usually to be found in his seat at every matinee, the arrangement has proved profitable.—Chicago Record.

Parallax of Sirius.

Sir David Gill, royal astronomer at the Cape of Good Hope, has recently announced the result of a new and very accurate determination of the parallax of Sirius, the brightest star, now visible in the southeast early every evening. Its light, traveling at the rate of 186,330 miles per second, requires more than eight and one-half years to reach the earth. If the light of the star were to be extinguished now—this instant—it would continue to shine on for eight and a half years more. Then, and not till then, would it disappear.—Science.

Difficulty Easy to Overcome.

"But are you able to support a wife?" asked the old gentleman.

"Well," replied the youth, "you know it is said that two can live almost as cheaply as one in such circumstances."

"Ye-es; I've heard that stated," admitted the old gentleman, doubtfully.

"So it occurred to me," went on the youth, cheerfully, "that you would not begrudge the slight extra cost that will be entailed as a result of this addition to your family."—Chicago Post.

In Boston.

In Boston I encountered a parrot one day.

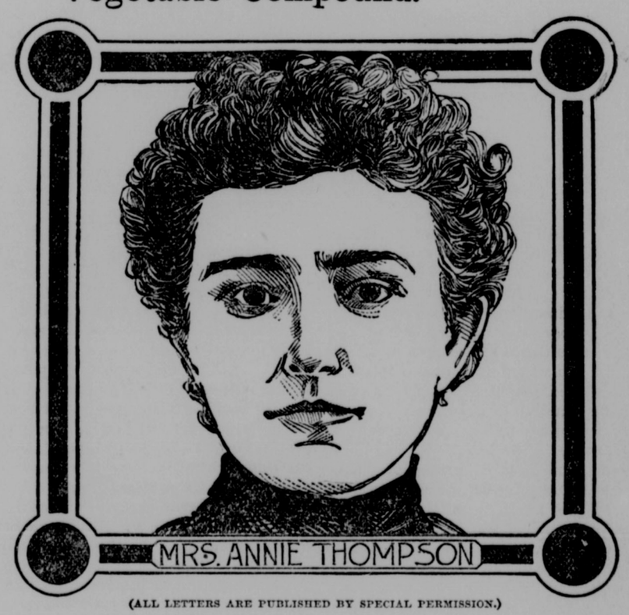
"Polly wants a cracker!" I observed, thinking nothing.

"Your language is extremely anomalous!" replied the bird, severely. "Polly is colonial, while cracker, in the sense of biscuit, is distinctly post-bellum. Moreover, I am not conscious of wanting a cracker. I wouldn't mind a plate of pork-and, however!"

The fowl's scholarly dignity was what impressed me particularly.—Detroit Journal.

THANKFUL TO MRS. PINKHAM

Letters Proving Positively that there is No Medicine for Woman's Ills Equal to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.



(ALL LETTERS ARE PUBLISHED BY SPECIAL PERMISSION.)

"I cannot say enough in regard to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has done me more good than all the doctors. I have been troubled with female weakness in its worst form for about ten years. I had leucorrhoea and was so weak that I could not do my housework.

I also had falling of the womb and inflammation of the womb and ovaries, and at menstrual periods I suffered terribly. At times my back would ache very hard. I could not lift anything or do any heavy work; was not able to stand on my feet long at a time. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for doctors but they did me no good. My husband's sister wrote what the Vegetable Compound had done for her, and wanted me to try it, but I did not then think it would do me any good. After a time, I concluded to try it, and I can truly say it does all that is claimed for it. Ten bottles of the Vegetable Compound and seven packages of Sanative Wash have made a new woman of me, I have had no womb trouble since taking the fifth bottle. I weigh more than I have in years; can do all my own housework, sleep well, have a good appetite, and now feel that life is worth living. I owe all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I feel that it has saved my life and would not be without it for anything. I am always glad to recommend it to all my sex, for I know if they will follow Mrs. Pinkham's directions, they will be cured."

Gratefully yours, MRS. ANNIE THOMPSON, South Hot Springs, Ark.

CHANGE OF LIFE.

"I was taken sick five years ago with 'The Grippe,' and had a relapse and was given up by the doctor and my friends. Change of Life began to work on me. I flowed very badly until a year ago, then my stomach and lungs got so bad, I suffered terribly; the blood went up in my lungs and stomach, and I vomited it up. I could not eat scarcely anything. I cannot tell what I suffered with my head. My husband got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and before I had taken half of it I began to improve, and to-day I am another woman. Mrs. Pinkham's medicine has saved my life. I cannot praise it enough."

M. A. DENSON, Millport, N.Y.

PROFUSE PERIODS.

"I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound about 3 months ago, and cannot express the wonderful good it has done me. Menstruations were so profuse as to leave me very weak for some time after. Was also troubled with leucorrhoea, tired feeling, bearing down sensation, pain across the back and thighs. I felt as though there was a heavy weight in my stomach all the time. I have taken two bottles of the medicine, and now have better health than I have had for four years."

MRS. LIZZIE DICKSON HODGE, Avalon, Ohio.

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find that the above testimonial letters are not genuine, or were published before obtaining the writer's special permission. LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO.

THE NOAH'S ARK.

If I could creep inside my ark
Some night when it is still and dark,
Then I could listen and find out,
What all the animals talk about.

The elephant may think, for one,
He'd like an orange or a bun;
The cow may wish that she were let
To roam awhile in grasses wet.

Perhaps the lion in his mind
Considers that I am not kind;
Perhaps the tiger wants to eat
A little bit of real meat.

Maybe they want more light and air,
It must be hot and crowded there;
But then, they never speak, and so
How in the world am I to know?
—M. C. Gillington, in Cassell's Little Folks.

MAKING A RAG DOLL.

How Little Mary Learned to Put One Together for Herself and Others for Her Chums.

"Oh! mamma," said little Mary Darst, "Won't you make me a rag doll? One like you told me about the other day, that you used to play with? Won't you?"

"Why, Mary, your dolls are much nicer than I can make. We did not have such wonderful dolls when I was a child. We did not know anything about 'bisque beauties,' with white teeth and long, curly hair."

"I know, mamma, mine are nice, but I do want to see one such as you played with, when you were a girl. I don't see, though, why they didn't make these pretty ones then, so you could have had one.

MARY'S RAG BABY.

"But then, if you will make me a rag one, I will play like it is the very one you had, and then I will put my nice ones all away and 'tend like there weren't any nice ones for awhile; and then I will feel like you did."

So Mrs. Darst made her the doll.

Mary laughed heartily when it was done, but seemed to think more of it than of all the rest. So here it is:

A straight piece of muslin about three inches wide and four inches long sewed together at the ends. Gather at the top and draw together tightly, and stitch it fast. Then stuff this with cotton, or wool, or sawdust, or whatever you like. With a pen and ink mark on the muslin, eyes, nose and a mouth.

Make the arms without hands and the legs without feet; make a straight body, and when it is all sewed together it will look very funny, at least Mary thought so.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

ICE CAVES IN MAINE.

Some of Them Are Picturesque and Impressive and Well Worthy of a Thorough Visit.

Being a rock state, Maine abounds in caves, of which the outside world knows very little. It is true there are no caverns like the Mammoth cave in Kentucky or the Luray caverns in Virginia, but some of them are very picturesque and awe-inspiring. The Greenwood ice caves are sufficiently interesting to be better known than they are.

These natural curiosities are about a dozen in number, Walley's cave being the largest. It is a double-storied cavern, the lower chamber being some 400 or 500 feet in length and about 12 feet in width. The exit is at the top of the mountain. The upper chamber is very much smaller, and is connected with the first by a passage large enough for half a dozen to pass abreast.

One of the caves is shaped like a well, and is from 20 to 30 feet in depth. There are regular steps, which wind around the sides to the bottom. Here are two chambers running in opposite directions, one of which leads nearly to Observation rock. It is called Snake passage, and to pass through it one is obliged to crawl on hands and knees.

The other chamber leads into a cavern which is large and somewhat triangular, having several chambers, one of which connects with Well cave. The walls of this chamber rise upward 75 feet or more.

In some of the caves ice may be seen all the year round, and torch-light produces a beautiful effect upon the glassy ice and the cavern walls.

There are two great rifts in the mountain, one running northerly and the other in the opposite direction. These are great curiosities and attract the attention of all who visit the caves.

Amphitheater cave is really a great depression in the mountain, overlooked by Table rock, the highest of a series of rocks or ledges that convey the impression of rows of benches. Altogether the caves are well worthy of a visit.—Golden Days.

Dogs Taxed by Weight.

In Hamburg dogs are taxed by weight, the heavier the dog the larger the tax that has to be paid for it.

JACK JOUETT'S RIDE.

The Thrilling Story of a Brave Young Innkeeper's Warning to Thomas Jefferson.

Paul Revere was not the only man who rode long and hard to warn patriots that the British were coming, in the days when the present entente between England and America was a thing undreamed of. Worthy to rank with it was the adventure of Jack Jouett, a young Charlottesville innkeeper, who rode 30 miles to save Thomas Jefferson from capture. The story is told in St. Nicholas by R. T. W. Duke, Jr.

Jack shrewdly guessed that Tarleton would follow the highway into the main road that led by the country seats, the homes of the gentry. Jack knew a shorter route, an old disused road that would lead him to the river, thence to Monticello and then to Charlottesville—not a pleasant road to ride or drive, though as picturesque a route as one often sees; for on either side grew great pine trees here, and massive oaks there, while dogwood and sassafras and sumac filled in spaces. The road had once been a buffalo track and then an Indian trail, then a wagon road for awhile; but as no one worked it or changed the grade, it rapidly washed into a succession of red gullies and became well-nigh impassable. So it had been abandoned many years and nature had covered up the scars made by the animals and man, and only in a few places could one have known that it had ever been used as a highway. Broom sedge grew wherever there was an open space; ferns of a hundred varieties clustered in every hollow where water ran; and the wild bramble ran riot everywhere in the shade. Into this old road Jack pushed his horse, and soon was dashing at full speed over hill and dale. It was a dangerous ride, even at a slow gait. Deep gullies lay concealed under treacherously smiling wild flowers. Groundhog holes offered pitfalls liable to break the leg of his steed; overhanging limbs swept him in the face, and the wild brier ever and anon caught him in a painful and harassing embrace. His face bore for many years the scars left on his face by this brier, which, you know, climbs up trees and seems to throw itself from one to another. But Jack had no time to consider these things. He knew that in a few hours the enemy would be in Charlottesville and make the governor and legislature prisoner, unless he could give them timely warning. His mare was sure of foot, sound of wind, and no other fox hunter ever got the brush when Jack and she were in the hunt.

So away he went, touching her lightly with the spur now and then, but oftener cheering her in the race with a merry whistle or encouraging word. He had 30 miles to make. He could have as easily made 50 on a good road as 30 through this wilderness. At one point the disused road entered a field in sight of the highway along which Tarleton's legion was passing, and a few stragglers saw Jack when he dashed into the open. They followed him with loud shouts and a pistol shot or two, but when he dashed into the woods they abandoned the pursuit. Once his bay mare fell, her foot having caught in a mass of brush and brier and half-rotten logs; but up she scrambled, and away she went, as if she knew that the fate of a commonwealth depended upon her. In two hours Jack rode his 30 miles and paused in the ford just opposite the little hamlet of Milton, two miles from Monticello. Only a mouthful of water did he allow his gallant bay to sip, and then he dashed up the river bank and on through the streets of the village, stopping not at anxious hails of men and women, but merely shouting: "The British are coming! The British are coming!" In ten minutes he drew rein in front of a quaint brick house on top of the now famous mountain. "He was a sight, too," the darkies said. His face was torn and bleeding from the wild brier thorns, his gay blue suit covered with mud and dirt, his mare covered with sweat and foam and panting as if her heart would burst through her sides. Down from the porch in front of which Jack had halted came a tall, thin man, dressed in a suit of nankene, lace at his wrists and shirt front, and with a little sword-cane in his hand. This man had clear, sparkling blue eyes; a thin skin under which the blood almost seemed starting. His hair was thin and curly and covered with white powder. For a moment he did not recognize the rider. Then, as he drew nearer: "Why, Mr. Jouett," he said, "what brings you here, and with your good horse so well-nigh spent?"

JOUETT AND JEFFERSON.

Jack could only gasp: "The British, governor! Tarleton and his men passed Cuckoo tavern at six o'clock this morning."

THE WAY OF SUCCESS.

Story of a Ship's Captain as to How He Gained a Position of Responsibility.

"Will you reach land to-morrow, captain?" asked a passenger on board the Alaska, after a long and searching look through his field glasses. "Yes, about the midde of the afternoon," replied the captain, who was having a merry chatter with his youngest passenger, a winsome little maid. "You are a jolly captain," observed the passenger. "Why should I not be? I have a good ship—none better sails the seas; a good crew. God's free air and sunshine in abundance and plenty to eat and drink."

"But you are particular what your drink shall be. I observe you never accept an invitation to drink a glass of wine with anyone." "No. I draw the line against all strong drinks." "Have you scruples against them?"

"Well, I suppose so. I know they would have no scruples against me, should I indulge. I suppose I might to-day be only an ordinary sailor before the mast, drinking and swearing, were it not for the advice of a good old sea captain, with whom I sailed when I first took to the sea. I began to take my wrong grog with the rest, till one day he called me in his cabin and advised me to give it up. He said: 'If anything in the world will keep you down, grog will. If you wish to be ordered about, kicked about, and despised by everybody, drink grog, but if you wish to rise, if you wish to be a smart, clever, healthy sailor boy, and one that every girl loves to look at and to know and respect, leave grog alone. If you wish to be trusted by your captain and officers, if you wish to rise in your profession, leave grog alone!' I did, and am very glad. Grog is a dangerous thing on shipboard. I know for a fact that most of the accidents at sea are caused by drink. Spirituous liquors are more dangerous than gunpowder. Cool heads and steady hands are needed by those who manage a sailboat, a yacht or command a ship."

"LEAVE GROG ALONE."

"ARSENICAL WALK."

Peculiar Affliction of Men Who Drink Much Beer Which Is Made of Glucose.

Newest of all gaits is the "arsenical walk," which may be acquired, says George A. De Lesing, a chemist, by the drinking of beer made from glucose. Dr. De Lesing is a member of the Society of Chemical Industry, New York city, at a meeting of which, a few days ago, Prof. Langmuir announced that he had found traces of arsenic in American beers. There was an indignant protest from the chemists interested in the manufacture of glucose and of the "simple elixir of malt and hops."

De Lesing says that during his residence in London last year he observed the strange, halting gait of the English beer drinkers, and he has also seen it in New York city breweries, where the employes are permitted to have as much beer as they wish to drink. The chemist has not made a test of American beers, as Prof. Langmuir says he has done, but he thinks it likely that many of the cheaper kinds contain enough arsenic to be deleterious to health.

"The arsenic accumulates in the system," said Dr. De Lesing the other day, "and the victim suffers from neuritis. The skin of the soles of the feet becomes hard and scales. The muscles of the lower limbs become hardened and as a result cause that peculiar gait which has become common with Englishmen who drink beer in large quantities."—Chicago Record.

ITEMS.

If thou wouldst be true to thyself avoid "vice" and "strong drink."—National Advocate.

The license committee of the Chicago council has recommended an ordinance prohibiting the establishment of saloons within 200 feet of a church or school.

Stringent anti-cigarette bills have been introduced in the legislature of Minnesota and Illinois during the past week, while Wisconsin has passed the Overbeck bill with very little opposition.

Gov. McMillan of Tennessee, in his inaugural message, not only advocated the reenactment of the anti-cigarette law, but recommended that the "age of consent" be raised from 16 years and one day, as it now stands, to 18 years, giving his reasons therefor in a clear and logical manner.

AFTER THE CANTEEN—WHAT?

Suggestive and Important Letter by Army Chaplain—Further Work for Temperance People.

Now that the army canteen has been abolished, the question is as to what will be the effect, and how the new order of things will be received by the soldiers. These questions have presented themselves to Rev. Orville J. Nave, post chaplain, U. S. A., at Fort McPherson, Ga., who writes to the Union Signal, making numerous suggestions. The points which he makes will strongly commend themselves to all temperance people. His letter is as follows:

"Dear Editors: I desire to submit a matter for the careful consideration of your readers. We temperance people are largely responsible for the agitation against the army canteen. Its abolition wil radically change the conditions of service. Dividends from the sale of beer have become a recognized necessity in company administration. One of the chief arguments in favor of continuing the canteen has been that it improves the ration of the soldier, and conduces to his contentment and comfort. In other words, it demonstrates the inadequacy of the ration now provided by law for the many different conditions and circumstances of service. To deprive company commanders of this resource without providing equally well from otner sources will work incalculable hardships upon the soldiers, sow discontent, and increase desertion and drunkenness, the latter as a reaction on account of increased distress being inflicted in the name of temperance. Unless something is done to make good the loss that will be sustained, the canteen will be restored.

"The soldier asks for bread, a better ration. The canteen has given it, poisoned by the viper of drink. Officers justly demand: 'What shall we do? We worked out a scheme that answered the purpose well, according to our views; what will you give us in return? We must take care of our men.' I suggest the following:

"1. A safe estimate of the ration value of the saloon dividend to each company is $50 per month, or about 1½ cents per day to each soldier. The people should ask congress to appropriate that sum to be turned over to company commanders, to be administered in the same manner as other company funds are administered, and as the canteen dividends are administered.

"2. The British government systematically encourages total abstinence in its army. The American government has never expressed any appreciation of total abstinence as a desirable virtue in the soldier. Now that the canteen may be abolished, a very desirable result, a step forward should be taken by the American people, and a premium placed upon total abstinence from the use of all alcoholic drink. To secure it would insure more efficient discharge of the delicate duties of the soldier, especially in our new possessions and in Cuba. It would reduce invalidism, save valuable lives, reduce pensions, and return the soldier to civil life with double honor, and it would elevate the charcter of the service. Therefore, substantial efforts, it seems to me, should be made to promote this end and induce as many soldiers as possible to abstain. (1) Total abstinence societies should be encouraged, as is done in the British army. (2) Honorable mention might be made monthly on muster and pay rolls. (3) Suitable marks of distinction might be devised for total abstainers to wear on duty. (4) Preferential eligibility, other things being equal, to desirable positions, including places where extra compensation is allowed. (5) Preferential eligibility, after discharge, to government positions in the various services. (6) Special mention in discharge papers. (7) To all soldiers who have a record free from conviction of military or other courts, while in service, to be paid a bounty of $50, at the time of their discharge.

"Good soldiers are underpaid. High character is now required. A different soldier is now in demand from what was required hitherto. No difference in pay is provided for a good soldier, who always and under all circumstances does his duty faithfully and well, from that given to the man who is the disturbing element in the command, and who cannot be depended upon. We need some premium on character in our army. A prize at the end of enlistment, along with decided preferences during service, in the form of special mention, which would be a handsome testimonial on returning home, in the shape of an artistic diploma, worthy his endeavor, and of preferential eligibility to government positions on account and as a reward of his life of total abstinence, along with a special bounty of $50, would save thousands of young men from going wrong in their country's service. The little it would cost the government would bring returns in compound ratio in comparison with the money spent on obscure creeks and other public expenditures lavishly made. At least so it seems to me.

"Yours truly, Orville J. Nave, Post Chaplain, U. S. Army, Fort McPherson, Ga."

More Expensive Than Navy.

The German navy costs each inhabitant of the empire less than 2½ marks a year, while the amount spent by each for alcohol and tobacco is between 50 and 60, or 24 times as much. The amount spent a year for beer, wine, whisky and tobacco is 3,000,000,000 marks.—Union Signal.

Nearly 500 saloons have gone out of business in Cleveland, O., within the last six months, according to the report of the city treasurer.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB.

Head of the Great Billion Dollar Steel Combination.

Story of His Life Reads Like a Romance—Less Than 20 Years Ago Was Working for a Pittance of $2.50 a Week.

Charles M. Schwab, the man who has been selected through the influence of Andrew Carnegie for the president of the new steel trust, has, like his rival for that position, Mr. Frick, risen from the ranks of labor. Mr. Schwab is a native of Pennsylvania, and is 39 years old. He was graduated from St. Francis college at Loretto, Pa., when he was 17, and at once entered the employ of the Edgar Thompson Steel company. He became chief engineer and vastly improved the mechanical works of the plant. In 1887 Mr. Carnegie made him superintendent of the Homestead steel works, and in 1892 he became general superintendent of the Edgar Thompson plant also. He has a marked ability for controlling men, is courteous, and can be easily approached by any of the laborers over whom he is placed. His wealth is large.

And this is his story of how he rose from an obscure clerk to his present position, as outlined in the periodical Success:

"In the first place I stood on my own feet—always relied on myself. It is really a detriment to have anyone behind you. When you depend on yourself you know that it is only on your own merit that you succeed. Then you discover your latent powers, awake to your manhood and are on your mettle to do your uttermost. It is a very good motto to depend on yourself. I am a great believer in self-reliant manliness, which is manhood in its noblest form.

"There was one thing that I discovered very early—that it was well to make myself indispensable instead of looking continually at the clock. Employers appreciate to the full men who may be trusted to do their work as if they were working for themselves.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB.
(Prospective President of the Billion Dollar Steel Trust.)

"We do everything in our power to make the men realize their importance in our company. My employers, Mr. Carnegie and his managers, realized mine, and I in turn follow their example.

"When I first went to work for Mr. Carnegie it was necessary for me to be up to the top notch to give satisfaction. I worked faster than I otherwise would have done, and to my impetuous, hustling overseer I attribute the impetus I acquired. My whole object in life was to show him my worth and prove it. I thought and dreamed of nothing else but the steel works. In consequence I became his assistant. I attribute my first great success to hard and active work. I found that those who were quickest were those who were promoted.

"A college education is not indispensable for a business man—a college man is usually in dreamland most of the time.

"To understand his business a man must start at the bottom and work himself up.

"A man to be successful must have a good general knowledge.

"I appreciated this fact so much that I never neglected opportunities to study. In my own home I rigged up a laboratory and spent many hours at chemistry.

"No man can rest on his laurels who hopes for advancement.

"Achievement is possible to a man who does something besides his mere duty that attracts the attention of his superiors to him.

"An employer picks out his assistants from the best informed.

"Always be sure of your facts—you lessen the esteem of your employers if you are not.

"I never encourage those who are not susceptible to encouragement.

"A man must be up to date and wide awake."

These Girls Mean Business.

The Business Girls' association in New Jersey has started a temperance movement which includes a pledge "not to accept as a husband any man who is not a total abstainer from intoxicating liquor, and not to marry any man to save him." The basis of their principle is that when the drinking man can be made to feel that he is a "dreg" in the matrimonial market it will be a long step toward sobriety, and when he can be brought to realize that no woman considers him sufficiently worth saving to marry him for this purpose he may conclude to make himself a little more valuable. Success to the Business Girls' association. It evidently means business.

JUROR AND WITNESS.

Justice Brewer Thinks They Have Some Rights Which Trial Lawyers Should Respect.

Justice David G. Brewer, of the United States supreme court, arraigned the jury and witness systems of the United States in a recent lecture on "Responsibility of Citizenship" before Yale students. He said:

"It is one of the duties of American citizenship that we are called to serve as jurymen. How many cases of sickness the jury call reveals! Men do not like to serve as jurors, and I don't blame them. The jury system as it is at present administered is little more than a relic of a semi-barbaric age.

"The juror is treated little better than a criminal. He is locked up at night and is given little more pay than a day laborer. He is compelled to listen to the wrangle of lawyers. I hope that the time will come when the juror will be treated like a gentleman and when he will receive the pay of a business man. I also hope that the jury system of conviction will give way in which the concurrence of a reasonable number of jurors shall determine the verdict.

DAVID G. BREWER.
(Associated Justice of the United States Supreme Court.)

"It is one of the duties of American citizenship to perform the duties of a witness when summoned into court, although under the present system the witness is treated like a liar and is browbeaten by opposing lawyers. But the juror and the witness should strive for their own elevation, and should perform their duties of citizenship in these respects when called on to do so.

"It has been said that prohibitory laws are the most certain incentives of perjury known. Both witnesses and jurors are parleying with conscience, and their attitudes spring from objection to the law. I do not mean to say that some of them may be unwise. I don't mean to say that sometimes the people may be made good by statutes or ordinances, but I do wish to say that when a city passes an ordinance it is the duty of its residents to uphold it."

PHILANDER CHASE KNOX.

Mentioned for Attorney General of the United States to Succeed Mr. Griggs, Resigned.

Philander Chase Knox, who is prominently mentioned as a probable successor of Attorney General Griggs in President McKinley's cabinet, is a prominent lawyer of Pittsburgh and well known to the Pennsylvania bar at large, of whose association he was president in 1897. He is in the prime of his intellectual vigor at 58. He would go to Washington clear of having held any office but one, and that one appropriate to his profession. Soon after his admission to the bar in 1875 Mr. Knox was appointed United States district attorney, and from that post he resigned after only one year's tenure for the purpose of devoting himself to the cultivation of his private practice. Mr. Knox is well known in Pennsylvania as an intimate and cherished friend of the president. He is a graduate with the '72 class of Mount Union college, Ohio. He served as president of the Duquesne club of Pittsburgh for three years, and is also a member of the Pittsburgh club, the Americus, the Pittsburgh Golf and Country clubs, and likewise of the Union League club of New York, the Lawyers' club of that city and the Lawyers' club of Philadelphia.

PHILANDER CHASE KNOX.
(Pittsburgh Lawyer Who May Be Appointed Attorney General.)

Fine Bachelor Apartment.

Six wealthy clubmen in New York have paid $160,000 for a site on East Forty-ninth street, on which they will erect a $250,000 apartment house for themselves and their bachelor friends. An automobile entrance and elaborate quarters for horseless vehicles are to be one of the features.

It Cannot Be Explained.

Before going any further a lecturer on sociology wants to hear a reasonable explanation of why a man has 20 pockets and a woman none at all.

THE REPUBLICAN.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Editor and Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

THE REPUBLICAN is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year	$ 1.25
One copy six months	.75
One copy three months	.40
One copy one month	.15
Single copies	.05

ADVERTISING RATES.

First insertion for square of ten nonpareil lines, $1; each additional insertion after first, 50 cents per square of ten nonpareil lines.

REMITTANCES:

Remittances made by money order, bank draft, registered letter or express order will be at our risk; if made otherwise, at the risk of the sender. Address,

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, MARCH 14, 1901.

Political Announcements

The following rates for publishing political announcements in these columns have been fixed and will be charged to those who desire to make their wishes known to the voters of Garrett county. These charges are payable in advance of the first publication of notices:

For State Senator, $10; County Treasurer, $5; Sheriff, $5; Members of the House of Delegates, $5; County Commissioner, $5.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER.

At the solicitation of friends I announce myself as a candidate for the nomination for County Treasurer, subject to the Republican Nominating Convention, and most respectfully solicit the assistance and influence of all Republicans. Should I be nominated and elected I promise to give personal attention to the duties of the office.

JAS. W. WHITE,
District No. 14. Oakland.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the nomination of Sheriff for Garrett county, subject to the decision of the Republican Nominating Convention, and solicit the support of Republicans throughout the county.

Dist. No. 7. ANDREW SHARTZER.

Newspaper Frauds.

"Non-partisan" papers, edited by partisans, are the most patent humbugs of the age. In commenting upon public matters they start out non-partisan, but wind up partisan. They are simply frauds. A partisan paper is the more to be admired. It sacrafices patronage for principle. It is more honest, for it does not play for both sides, and does not pretend to be anything than partisan. There is nothing antagonistic to honesty in being partisan, and there is every inducement to dishonesty in being non-partisan or independent. The most despicable object is a partisan who pretends to conduct a non-partisan or independent paper, and then by his acts endorses every principle and policy which his party espouses.—Westminster (Md.) Advocate.

A New Volume.

With this issue of THE REPUBLICAN we begin another year, the twenty-fifth.

THE alarming illness of Ex-President Benjamin Harrison, causes a feeling of great regret throughout the entire country. It is hoped that he will be speedily restored to good health. As President of the United States he administered the affairs of the country in an intelligent, upright and concientious manner that has brought him the respect and esteem of his fellow citizens irrespective of party.

THE ring bosses have been succeeding pretty well in roping in the unruly members of the legislature by one means or another, in order to secure the passage of the disfranchisement law. The only one so far heard from who has made a failure, is Col. "Slick Vic" Baughman, of Frederick county. Mr. Buckey, from there, declines to wear the yoke of the ring about his neck, and speaks out against this disfranchisement iniquity. "Vic" has such a strong hold with the "Old Man," however, that his failure to to bring up a solid delegation will not interfere with his nomination for the governorship on the Democratic ticket.

THE hopelessness of the struggle to save the people their rights is only too apparent. The Democrats have determined to rush through the Legislature, the measure they made the caucus swallow. It is useless for the people to resist because it is recognized that the ring has its ruthless hold upon the affairs of the State, and will work its purpose in spite of all that can be done. The only way to meet the difficulties is to overthrow the ring at the first opportunity. It is most significant that the Democrats are by no means a unit for the measure. Some even refuse to vote for it, and many realize that to support it means political death. The law is unconstitutional and defective. It was pretended that the Democrats desired to pass a law to prevent bribery. But this law that they would pass leaves the door open for bribery in a greater degree than ever before. It is so flagrantly defective that the bribery cry of the Democrats is recognized as a subterfuge to attain an ultimate object. The object is to deprive as many voters as possible of their right to vote, first, to send A. P. Gorman to the Senate and then to allow the ring to have control of the machinery so it will be possible for it to suppress expressions of the majority of the voters and to manipulate the returns to continue it in power.

Indecent Haste.

From Tuesday's Baltimore News.

The election bill now pending is designed to make a permanent change in the qualifications necessary for the exercise of the right of suffrage in Maryland. No honest man can pretend to deny that the purpose of the bill is the practical disfranchisement of illiterates, and no honest man can deny that such disfranchisement is in violation of the purpose of the Constitution of the State of Maryland. To make the change honestly, it ought to be brought about by an amendment of the Constitution. The plan by which it is to be effected—if effected at all—is the enactment of a disfranchising law, through a strict party vote in the Senate, without a single vote to spare, the Legislature being called in extra session for the purpose, and the issue having never been before the people at all when the Legislature was elected.

This is bad enough, and repellent enough to all notions of fair play and responsible politics. But the managers in charge of the Democratic members of the General Assembly are not content with this. For some reason, doubtless considered sufficient by them, they have felt that there would be an advantage in rushing the bill through in the shortest possible time. Accordingly, they do not balk at demanding the previous question and ordering a vote in the House of Delegates before the minority have been given a semblance of chance adequately to present their objections. Of course, the more the bill is discussed, the more thoroughly does its unwarrantable character become manifest; yet it would seem to require a phenomenal degree of brazenness to pass, practically without debate, a bill of fundamental importance in the vital matter of the suffrage. So outrageous was the proposition that seven Democrats besides the five who voted against the bill—twelve Democrats in all—voted against the application of the gag yesterday. The indecent haste with which the bill is being put through is in perfect harmony with the false pretenses upon which the whole scheme is based.

Passing Paragraphs.

Written for The Republican.

When you are hard up you are apt to stay down. This joke has no feathers on it.

Don't wait for better times; one day is as good as another to jump in and saw wood.

There are no special paths to success; everything that needs to be done and is well done is a success.

The true measure of success is not mere dollars and cents, nor yet pride of place and power; but has the thing done helped the world along in the smallest of its needs.

It is one thing to win a place in the world, but it is another thing to prove your right to keep it. Are you a pillar in society? You should be very careful as to what you are holding up.

The devil and the doctors have a hard time of it. They are both overworked in looking after the ills and evils of mankind. Are you doing anything to help give them a rest?

Whatever you do don't sneer at humanity—every human being is a manifestation of your possible self. We are different patterns but all cut from the same piece.

Affairs in Kansas give female suffrage a black eye:

When lovely woman gets a vote
She'll rule the whole creation;
And every man supremely blest (?)
Will have a Mrs. Nation.

And hatchets then will fly around,—
No laws be longer needed;
While wicked man will sneak along
By women all unheeded.

It is a hard world, sisters, a very hard world; but hysterical assaults upon the world's wickedness will accomplish no permanent good, rather, if anything, bring additional harm.

Municipal corruption begins at the fireside, and woman-kind have a controlling hand—conciously or unconsciously—in the unfortunate state of affairs. The insatiate vanity of woman, her love of place and power for the surface value of "show" has led and still leads many men to do doubtful things.

Then, again the dear sisters are not consistent in their efforts at reform. They will vote with great enthusiasm for a resolution to suppress vice—and then at home will say to husband, son or brother, don't you take any open part in the movement, you will get the ill will of so many people and hurt you in your business, or they will do you some harm.

JACKSON.

Home-Seekers Excursions.

On the first and third Tuesdays of each month the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway will sell round-trip excursion tickets from Chicago, Milwaukee and other points on its line to a great many points in South Dakota, North Dakota and other Western and Northwestern States at about one fare. Take a trip west and see the wonderful crops and what an amount of good land can be purchased for little money. Further information as to rates, routes, prices of farm lands, etc., may be obtained by addresssng W. S. Howell, General Eastern Passenger Agent, 381 Broadway, New York, or John R. Pott, District Passenger Agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

THE HUNTER'S CABIN.

There's a lonely hunter's cabin
Where the wild deer roam at will,
And the evening shadows gather
O'er a grave upon the hill;
Where the hunter sleeping soundly
Hears the luring cries no more,
While the night wind whispers sadly
At the open cabin door.

Oh, the royal life of freedom
That the hunter called his own
Is passing with the glories
That will never more be known;
For the grasping hand of commerce
With its greedy lust for gain
Will leave the daring hunter
But a pitiful domain.

Sept. 27, 1900. JACKSON.

NOTE.—The above lines were written in an old cabin on Long Ridge mountain, Grant county, W. Va. The cabin was built by Wm. Kitzmiller, deceased, a well known hunter and guide, late of Wilson, W. Va.

Wallman.

Mrs E. E. Clark and daughter Miss Flossie spent Saturday in Cumberland.

Misses Bessie and Mollie Souders, of Schell, were Wallman visitors on Thursday.

Daisy Whorrel, of Oakland, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. John Spence, of this place.

Mrs. R. Curry and daughter Della were visiting Mrs. V. Seymour last week.

The Bayard school closed last week with an entertainment which was quite a success. Among those who attended from Wallman were Elizabeth and George Scharf and W. J. Faw. They report having a splendid time.

Mrs. Vernon Seymour, who has been visiting her mother at Dille, returned Monday.

Misses Bessie Nethkin and Laura Bartley were Wallman visitors Sunday.

Miss Fannie Wolf, of Bloomington, and Mr. Roby, of Oakland, were visiting Bert Wolf Sunday.

Effie Arnold and Bessie Seymour spent Sunday at Bradshaw.

Miss Bessie Littman will close her school Friday and return home the same day. There will not be a public entertainment owing to the smallness of the school.

Some of the men here have begun to celebrate St. Patrick's Day. We think they had better wait a little longer or they wont know when the day really is here.

Owing to the scarceness of news in our town you will not hear from "Shorty" for awhile. Wishing much success to THE REPUBLICAN, I will now say farewell.

SHORTY.

The Inter-State Trust and Guaranty Co.

Mr. Daniel E. Offutt went down to Cumberland on Tuesday of last week, where he participated in the organization of the Inter-State Trust and Guaranty Company which was incorporated under the Act of the Maryland Legislature at its session last winter. Its home office is in Cumberland, but it being the only company of its kind within a hundred miles of that city, its location would seem to be an exceptionally advantageous one for this business. Its charter powers are of the broadest possible kind, enabling it to receive deposits, loan money on mortgages, stocks, bonds, paper of all kinds; to discount notes, to deal in real and personal property of every kind; to become surety on all kinds of bonds; to act as trustee, executor or receiver and generally to do all other kinds of business as fully as the trust companies in the larger cities.

The incorporators are Daniel E. Offutt, Dr. R. A. Ravenscroft and Eli McMillan, of Garrett county; Chas. J. Harrison, of Somerset, and Samuel J. Edwards, C. L. Bretz, DeWarren H. Reynolds, A. H. Amick, Benjamin A. Richmond, David P. Miller and Wm. A. Morgart, of Cumberland. The present issue of stock is limited to $50,000, but under its charter the company has power to increase the capital to not more than $250,000. When the $50,000 of stock is subscribed and $25,000 of the same is paid in, the stockholders will elect a board of directors, not less than ten nor more than fifteen in number, to manage the affairs of the company.

The enterprise is in the hands of wide-awake, careful and conservative men, who are among the most substantial citizens of Allegany and Garrett counties, and will undoubtedly succeed. With such a surrounding field as Oakland, Somerset, Bedford, Piedmont, Keyser, Romney, Moorefield, Davis, Hagerstown, Martinsburg, together with Cumberland, George's Creek and Allegany county to furnish it with business, its success seems already assured.

Seriously Injured.

Luther Brown went into the country on last Friday to assist in bringing in a load of straw to town. The straw stack was frozen solid and to loosen it a pole was driven into it to which a rope and a pair of horses were attached. After tugging at it for a few moments the rope broke or slipped and in rebounding the pole struck Mr. Brown above the eye, fracturing his skull and rendering him unconscious. He was brought to town and attended by one of our physicians. His injury is quite serious and as a result he is yet confined to his bed.

An Open Letter to the Tax Payers of Garrett County.

Gentlemen:—The undersigned who has been your servant in the capacity of County Treasurer for the past ten months feels that it is his duty to lay before you a matter in which we all have a mutual interest.

Upon making an examination of the books in my office I find that there is still outstanding in uncollected taxes the sum of $6,991.43. Every cent of this amount is collectible and I believe it will be paid over to me without pursuing a course which is distasteful to me as well as it will be to yourselves. I do not intend to put anyone to a single cent of expense in making these collections if it can be avoided and in view of this statement I think every tax payer in the county who is now in arrears should make an effort to settle at the earliest possible moment. The office is open every day and as next week a great many of you will be in Oakland attending court please make it convenient to call and square off accounts.

Those who have already settled their taxes I desire to thank most sincerely.

W. M. LOHR,
County Treasurer.

Dismissed and the County Pays the Bill.

Monday afternoon Justice Gonder had before him Wallace Junkins, of Blaine, charged with disturbing the public peace. The charge had been preferred by Doyle Burton, deputy sheriff. A large number of witnesses were summoned to appear and they had a very rough experience in coming across the country to Oakland as Monday was a very inclement day.

After hearing the State's witnesses Justice Gonder refused to proceed further with the case and dismissed Mr. Junkins, there being not the slightest evidence of an infraction of the law on his part.

The costs in this case, which fall upon the county, are quite heavy.

We understand that Sheriff Oester has dismissed Mr. Burton as one of his deputies, he having, as we are informed, been appointed to the position upon the representation to the sheriff of his ability in criminal matters.

Pinehurst and Southern Pines, N. C.—Improved New Through Pullman Service via Seaboard Air Line Railway.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway is now operating through drawing-room sleeping cars from New York to Southern Pines and Washington to Pinehurst, N. C. These famous health and pleasure resorts are model New England towns nestled among the pine-clad sand hills of North Carolina, only eighteen hours from New York City. The finest and largest hotels in the State, with numerous private cottages and first-class boarding houses. Every variety of out door sports, with the finest eighteen hole golf links in the South. Trains leave New York, 23rd Street Station, Pennsylvania railroad, 1210 a. m. and 12.55 p. m., and Washington 8.35 a. m. and 6.55 p. m. For information and tickets address Chas. L. Longsdorf, New England Passenger Agent, 306 Washington street, Boston, Mass.; J. C. Horton, Eastern Passenger Agent, 1206 Broadway, New York; W. M. McConnell, General Agent, 1434 New York avenue, Washington, D. C., or R. E. L. Bunch, General Passenger Agent, Portsmouth, Va.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN.

Help... Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA

will generally correct this difficulty.

If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

PUBLIC SALE

—OF VALUABLE—

REAL ESTATE

In Oakland, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a power contained in a mortgage from John Shartzer and wife to George Clauson, bearing date the 8th day of May, 1896, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 29, folio 256, one of the land records of Garrett county, Maryland, the undersigned, as attorney named in the mortgage, default having been made in the said mortgage, will offer at public sale, in front of the postoffice in Oakland, Maryland, on

Thursday, March 28, 1901,

at 10 o'clock a. m., all that lot of land known as the

Opera House Lot,

on the corner of Main, or Second, and Green streets in Oakland, Maryland, fronting thirty six feet on Second street and one hundred and fifty feet deep, being the same property which was conveyed to John Shortzer by Louisa Bartlett by deed recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 22, folio 467, &c., one of the land records of Garrett county.

The said lot is known as the

"Shartzer Opera House Property,"

and is improved by a three-story frame building covered with iron, said building being 36 by 100 feet and is used as an

Opera House

and also for STORE ROOMS, OFFICES, etc., with a blacksmith shop in the back of the lot. It is one of the most valuable properties in Oakland.

Terms of Sale:—Cash on the day of sale.

D. JAMES BLACKISTON,
Attorney named in the Mortgage.

Mortgagee's Sale

—OF A—

VALUABLE FARM

Situate near Oakland, Md.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage from John Shartzer et ux., dated December 18th, 1896, and duly recorded among the land records of Garrett county, Maryland, the undersigned, the attorney named in said mortgage to make sale thereunder, default having been made in covenants of said mortgage, will sell by public auction in front of the postoffice in the town of Oakland, Md., on

THURSDAY,

28th day of March, 1901,

at 10.30 o'clock a. m., all that tract or parcel of land lying and situated about four and one-half miles south of Oakland, in Garrett county, Maryland, and known as the

"Kelley Farm"

and formerly as "ROBERT'S INHERITANCE," containing

Six Hundred and Fifty Acres,

more or less. It being a part of the tract known as

"Small Meadows,"

and the same which was conveyed to the said John Shartzer by E. H. Sincell et ux. by deed dated July 3rd, 1895, and recorded in Liber No. 28, folio 577, one of the land records of Garrett county, Maryland. The improvements consist of a comfortable

Frame Dwelling House,

barn and all necessary outbuildings. This estate is conveniently located, is easy of access and is one of the most desirable farms in Garrett county. It will be sold either as a whole or in parcels as may seem most advantageous.

Terms of Sale:—Cash on day of sale

J. W. THOMAS,
Attorney named in Mortgage.

Trustee's Sale

—OF VALUABLE—

REAL ESTATE

Under and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in Equity, bearing date the 25th day of February, 1901, and passed in a cause wherein Elizabeth C. Thompson and others are plaintiffs and Emma D. Hudson and others are defendants, said cause being No. 1090 Equity in said Court, the undersigned trustee named in said decree will, on

Saturday, March 23, 1901,

at the hour of 3 o'clock p. m. of said day, in front of the First National Bank in the town of Oakland, Md., offer for sale at public auction the following described real estate, situated in the town of Mountain Lake Park, Garrett county aforesaid, and on the plat of the said Mountain Lake Park is known as

Lots Nos. 83, 90 and 93.

These lots are improved by a COMMODIOUS FRAME DWELLING HOUSE, with necessary outbuildings, are delightfully situated near the new Auditorium and is the same property that was formerly occupied by the late Rev. John Thompson as his summer home.

Terms of Sale:—As prescribed by the decree, cash on day of sale or upon the ratification thereof.

FRED. A. THAYER,
5ltds Trustee.

COMMISSIONERS' MEETING.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., Feb. 28, 1901.

The Board of County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on

Monday, March 18, 1901,

for the purpose of transacting all routine business.

Persons having accounts for the 1901 Levy are requested to file same for approval.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

Notice of Dissolution of Co-partnership

This is to give notice that the co partnership heretofore exisiting between the undersigned, carrying the business of logging, has this day day been dissolved by mutual consent.

L. A. HARVEY,
H. W. HARNEY.

Mt. Lake Park, Feb. 23, 1901. 51 3t

$500 REWARD!

The Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company will pay $500 as a reward for the arrest and conviction of the party or parties who set fire to and burned the barn of Nimrod Glotfelty on the night of January 25th, 1901.

WILLIAM W. FRAZEE, Sec'y,
49—tf Accident, Md.

ROAD PETITION.

This is to give notice that thirty days after the publication of this notice the undersigned will petition the County Commissioners of Garrett county to re-locate the road leading from White's to the Beckman road, said location to leave road at east end of William White's lane and running through the lands of Wm. White, Charles Yager and Andrew Helbig to intersect road at top of Yager's hill, a distance of about ¼ mile, the object being to make a better grade.

W. S. FRIEND,
G. B. M. FRIEND,
47 5t W. H. SMOUSE.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

This is to give notice, That the subscribers, of Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 14th day of September next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

HENRY WARNICK,

Given under my hand this 12th day of March, 1901.

T. P. WARNICK, Administrator.
Bloomington, Md.

EXECUTORS' NOTICE.

This is to give notice, That the Subscriber, of Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

JOHN J. BRENNEMAN,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 5th day of May next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 9th day of February, 1901.

MARY J. BRENNEMAN,
MANASSEH J. BRENNEMAN,
Executors.

Bittinger, Md. 49-5t

ORDER NISI.

Edward E. Sollars, late Treasurer, v. John D. Skiles.

No. 94 Trials to December Term, 1897. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 12th day of February, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, that the sales of the real estate mentioned in these proceedings made by the County Commissioners of Garrett county, be and the same are hereby ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 15th day of March, 1901; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 15th day of March, 1901.

The report states the amount of sales to be $397.00.

DAVID W. SLOAN.

True copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

ORDER NISI.

Catherine Hoenshell and husband vs. Susan House et al.

No. 1051 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 27th day of February, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that the sale of the property mentioned in these proceedings, made and reported by Frederick A. Thayer, trustee, appointed by a decree of this Court to make said sale, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 22nd day of March next; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county aforesaid once in each of three successive weeks before the 22nd day of March next.

The report states the amount of sale to be $1,150.00.

E. Z. TOWER,
Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., Md.

True Copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

ORDER NISI.

Clavin Anderson v. Arthur P. Amick and George W. W. Amick.

In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland. No. 1074 Equity.

Ordered this 11th day of February, in the year 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, sitting in equity, that the sale of the property mentioned in these proceedings made and reported by James W. Thomas and Edward H. Sincell, trustees, be ratied and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 15th day of March, 1901; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some newspaper printed in Garrett County, once a week for three successive weeks before the 15th day of March next.

The report states the amount of sale to be $4500.00.

True copy—Test: E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

The Portraits of Our Presidents

With Biographical Sketches

BY

General Charles H. Grosvenor.

Title page designed by Tiffany.

This Inaugural year, when the public mind is aroused over Presidential questions, is a fitting time to issue General Grosvenor's book. Its sale is already tremendous, and will perhaps exceed that of General Grant's Personal Memoirs.

Every patriotic American desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and the other Chief Executives of the Nation. Everybody desires to read what General Grosvenor, the staunch old Republican leader in Congress, will say of that staunch old Democrat, Andrew Jackson, the Father of the Democratic party. General Grosvenor has thrown into his sketch all the fire and energy of his nature. The biography of Thomas Jefferson is grand. The biography of Lincoln is as beautiful as a sunrise over the hilltops. General Grosvenor has personally known all the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published, written from his own personal observation of these great men. General Grosvenor has served in Congress for nearly twenty years, and he has served his country in war and in Congress for nearly forty years. The book contains twenty-four large Photogravure Etchings as fine as Steel Plates, printed by hand, on heavy plate paper made especially to order. These 24 Photogravure Etchings are in different tints, and are well worth $2 each. These Portraits are made from the Paintings endorsed by the family and near relatives of the Presidents. Two years' time and a fortune have been expended in securing these reproductions. The complete book is well worth $50, but the price has been placed so low that the most humble American citizen can own it. The biographical sketches are printed in large open type in two colors; the work is so beautiful that when people see it they want it. The advance sale is very large. President McKinley was the first subscriber. There is one edition known as The President Edition de Grand Luxe, initial letters hand painted, Portraits hand colored, title page hand illuminated, registered and numbered; subscription price $250. Orders and applications for territory are coming in rapidly. A high class man or woman of good social standing can soon make a small fortune taking orders in this community. Send references and apply for terms quick, as the territory will all be assigned soon.

Address THE CONTINENTAL PRESS,
CORCORAN BUILDING,
Opposite United States Treasury,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

LOCAL AND OTHERWISE

Incidents and Events at Home and Nearby —Personal Mention, Etc.

Court Monday.

D. E. Bolden, Esq., was in Cumberland on business yesterday.

The frame for the addition to the Oakland Pharmacy is up and being put under roof.

Capt. R. H. Gorden of the Cumberland bar, spent yesterday in Oakland on business.

Fifty styles 10, 15 and 20 cent Torschon lace at Sincell & Co.'s for 5c per yard.

Misses Sallie and Nellie Jarboe, who spent a week in Baltimore and Washington, returned home Friday.

Mr. W. H. Wright, of Altamont, was in Oakland Saturday last and made this office a brief visit.

Dr. S. M. Hardman, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, Grafton, W. Va. Spectacles and artificial eyes fitted.

In spring cleaning woman must turn the house upside down, but man is content with merely raising the roof.

A parochial residence is to be erected for Rev. Thomas S. Stanton, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church, Lonaconing, to cost $5000.

J. H. McRobie, of Deer Park, who is now operating Pleasant Rest, one of our sister town's summer boarding houses, was in Oakland Monday.

Why send away for your vehicles when you can save money by buying from Naylor. He buys in large quantities; hence can give you low prices.

Miss Margaret Sincell returned Sunday afternoon from an extended visit to relatives and friends in Baltimore, Washington and in Frederick county, Md.

Senator Ravenscroft, of Accident, came up to Oakland Saturday morning from Annapolis and spent the day here, returning east the same evening.

If you want a vehicle of any kind at a low price and good terms buy now from A. D. Naylor, who has just received two full cars of vehicles and one car of machinery. 1 3t*

Mrs. D. Y. Morris and grandson Byrne Thomas, of Kingwood, who spent ten days in Oakland as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Benj. H. Sincell, returned home Tuesday morning.

During Court we invite those attending its session to make this office their headquarters. Copies of all the leading daily papers will be at their disposal. The office will be open all day and until ten o'clock at night.

If you want a first-class grain drill for a little money see Naylor. He has three kinds on hand. If you want a disc drill, disc harrow, he has them. If you want wood frame, steel frame or wheel harrow he has them, too. Corn planters, etc. I sell the Wynrd plow—no better made. 1 3t*

Deacon Brown, of the Kingwood Argus, is remaining silent these days on matrimonial matters. For a time it was thought that a Morgantown minister might have to tie the knot for the Deacon, but he fooled 'em.—Morgantown Dominion.

It is said there are four $1,000 counterfeit bills in circulation in West Virginia. Newspaper men should be careful when taking subscriptions to closely scrutinize every $1,000 bill that comes into the office.—Morgantown Dominion. Ditto in Maryland.

The roads have become seas of mud as they do every winter and as they will continue to do until some system of good road making is put into practice in this county. However, the thoroughfares were good much longer this season than usual and it is only recently that they have become bad.

Mrs. C. E. VanDeusen, of Kilbourn, Wis., was afflicted with stomach trouble and constipation for a long time. She says, "I have tried many preparations but none have done me the good that Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have." These Tablets are for sale at all druggists. Price 25 cents. Samples free.

Prof. S. C. Smith, the Oakland music man, has completed arrangements with several of the leading piano manufacturing establishments of the country by which he will be in a position within a short time to have on hand pianos of every make and price. He expects to secure a suitable room in which the goods will be open to inspection. He will carry such makes as Everett, Harvard, Knabe and others.

Prof. J. S. Gnegy, who taught the Bloomington school during the past winter, was in Oakland yesterday making preparations to take charge of the Grantsville Normal which will begin on Monday, April 8th. Prof. Gnegy stands among the foremost of our public instructors and is wide-awake to the needs of the teacher as well as the pupil of our schools. See announcement of his school in another column.

Mrs. Kate T. Crane is east buying spring stock for the Ladies' Bazaar.

Joseph Bowser of near Deer Park, was a business visitor to this office Monday.

The man who gathers the collection in a church may be said to have a passing interest in religious matters.

Miss Alice Cleveland, who taught as assistant at Bloomington this winter, returned home Tuesday afternoon.

Bring your buckwheat, wheat, rye, oats and corn, if you want cash or trade. The Felty Roller Mill, Oakland, Md. 27-26t

Cliff White, who is in charge of the electric lighting plant at Philippi, W. Va., spent Sunday with his father in Oakland.

Abe Lawton, engaged at Terra Alta in electrical work, came down to Oakland yesterday afternoon, returning to work this morning.

Mr. Daniel B. Laymen, one of the few Republicans of District No. 9, was in Oakland Tuesday on business and while here made THE REPUBLICAN a pleasant visit.

The offer of Mr. Carnegie of $25,000 for a public library at Cumberland will be submitted to the people, who will decide by vote whether or not the offer shall be accepted.

The milliners are getting ready for their spring openings and they will place hats and other articles before their customers that will set them crazy. The articles of feminine adornment get prettier every year.

Pneumonia has claimed more victims this winter than has smallpox. It is the only malady which physicians are not very able to cope with. It takes a strong constitution to withstand the ravages of this dread enemy of man.

Miss Mae Evy, of Keyser, who was one of the assistant teachers in the Oakland school, returned to her home yesterday afternoon. Miss Evy was held in high esteem by her scholars, nearly all of whom were at the train to bid her good-bye.

County Treasurer Lohr submits to the tax payers an open letter published elsewhere in these columns today. Mr. Lohr makes a good showing in the amount of taxes yet uncollected. He has conducted his office in a businesslike manner and is highly esteemed by our citizens.

The public schools of the county closed on Tuesday of this week after a term of five months. The scholars of the Oakland school will give an entertainment in the opera house here shortly, the proceeds to be used in purchasing a bell for the school building.

The hats this spring are to be fearfully and wonderfully made. They are masses and gobs of ribbons, flowers and furbelows of every description and some are beyond the feeble efforts of words to paint them. When our charming members of the fair sex don them the stuff will be off with all the bachelors in town.

Dr. Paul Osterhout, of Bocos del Toro, Columbia, S. A., who is in Oakland visiting his brother-in-law, Mr. Harry J. Frear, was recently appointed foreign inspector in the United States Marine Hospital Service, and will be assigned to duty on April 1st at Bocos, his home. Dr. Osterhout will remain in Oakland some days yet before his return South.

The newspaper is only one of the business agencies of the city. It can do much in combining and unifying the effort for advancing industrial and commercial prosperity, but not all that is necessary. It is only when all the business agencies pull together that great communities move irresistibly forward to the attainment of beneficent improvement.

"Wanted, a friend who will recognize me when I am compelled to wear patched pants; who will take my hand as I am sliding down hill, instead of giving me a kick to hasten my descent; who will come to me when I am sick; who will pull of his coat and fight for me when the odds are two to one; who will talk of me behind my back as he talks to my face." Such a friend is wanted by many, many thousands throughout the whole world.—Ex.

It has been suggested that a prize be offered for the Maryland country newspaper which has not printed the following paragraph: 'There is hardly a married man except a printer, who does not carry in his pocket the picture of an attractive young woman who is not his wife or his sister. Yes, and we violate no confidence when we say that her name is Miss Annie Wilkes Williams, of Philadelphia, and that her picture ornaments the silver dollars which all of us use whenever we can get them."

Lutheran services will be held Sunday morning and evening at the usual hours.

Good flour and plenty of it at the Felty Roller Mill. We grind everything in the grain line. 27-26t

Hon. R. T. Browning and Editor James M. Litzinger went to Baltimore and Annapolis Monday.

Mrs. E. S. Kerler, mother of Attorney Norman S. Heindel, has been quite ill with the grip.

Mr. John Close, of near Mountain Lake Park, fell from a load of hay last Friday and sustained a severe injury to his leg.

Mrs. Scott and Laura Matthews, of the Baltimore Store, have been in Baltimore and the east for a week making their spring purchases.

Faylor has the finest line of vehicles in Western Maryland, including a nice line of family carriages, runabouts, buggies, etc. 1 3t*

The Washington papers are loud in their demands for a change in the date for inauguration day. They say that many thousands of people suffered greatly there on account of the weather.

No more whiskey can be shipped by express over the B. & O. The firms of this line of business have been notified that no more whiskey will be received by the express company and it must all be sent by freight.

Headache often results from a disordered condition of the stomach and constipation of the bowels. A dose or two of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will correct these disorders and cure the headache. Sold by all druggists.

Mr. and Mrs. "Cheap John" Michaels arrived in Oakland from Baltimore Friday evening and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Brown until Tuesday when they went to housekeeping in the P. Hamill house on Second street.

A woman named Heck, wife of one of the coal miners employed at the Offutt mine, was assaulted by some unknown man one day this week by being knocked senseless, after which the house was robbed of about $35 in cash. There is no clue as to the perpetrator of the outrage.

Robins and blue birds, sure harbingers of Spring, have made their appearance. While we have had some very rough weather thus far during March the indications now are that we will have more pleasant weather which will be a delight to the farmers and others who follow outdoor work for a livelihood.

The streams in the vicinity of Oakland and in other sections of the county have been greatly swollen on account of the heavy rains which have fallen during the past week or ten days. Although a great volume of water has passed down the various courses no damage of any moment has been done.

An old lady wanting her daughter to take a course in music, took her to town, says an exchange and after consulting a number of professors, returned home much discouraged and reported to her husband the result of her expedition as follows: "The first professor says Almira sings too much with her borax. If she keeps on she will have digestion of the lungs; said she ought to try the abnominable breathing. The next teacher told her that she ought to sing with her diagram and not smother her voice in the sarcophagus. The next poked a looking glass down her throat and said the pollyglottis were in a bad way. I never knew that Almira had so many things the matter with her, and I am afraid to let her sing any more."

By announcement elsewhere in this issue it will be seen that Prof. R. R. Sanner, principal of the Accident Normal, will have associated with him as assistant instructor Prof. George B. Frazee, of District No. 2. Prof. Sanner has devoted almost his entire life to the cause of education and is so well known to the people of the whole county that for us to say a word in his praise would be superfluous. Prof. Frazee, now in the prime of life, is a wide awake, progressive and earnest teacher. The success of the school, however, will depend largely upon the patronage accorded it, which we have no doubt will be satisfactory to both pupils and instructors as we understand quite a number have already made arrangements to go to Accident from this section.

A Big Sale of Flowers.

Messrs. H. Weber & Sons, the Oakland florists, have already sold to different sections of the country 50,000 plants of their new carnation, the Norway. The blooms from the Norway have been exhibited in nearly every city of the country during the past year and in almost every instance first prizes were carried off by its growers. The plants are sold at upwards of $75 per thousand.

Garrett Normal School Teachers.

The Garrett county school board granted the following privileges to teach normal schools in the county: Oakland, Prof. A. W. DeWitt; Accident, Prof. R. R. Sanner; Grantsville, Prof. J. S. Gnegy.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN.

THE TOWN ELECTION.

The Insurgent Democrats Elect Two of the Three Councilmen.

Monday the voters of Oakland were called upon to elect three members of the town council to serve for a term of two years. The Democrats nominated three candidates on Saturday evening at a meeting held in the council chamber, the nominees being Jas. D. Hamill, Edwin L. Mitchell and Dr. E. H. Bartlett, all of them pronounced members of the Hamill wing of the party in this county. The Republicans met at Sturgiss's Hall the same evening and nominated Messrs. D. E. Bolden, Samuel Lawton and James O. Cleveland, all of whom are representative citizens.

Monday, the day of election, a stiff fight was put up by the regular organization in the Democratic party against one or two of the candidates on the Democratic ticket, but the odds being against them two of the ticket were elected, Messrs. Mitchell and Hamill. The only Republican elected was Mr. D. E. Bolden, who has already served one term and is well qualified for the position.

The vote in detail follows:

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

D. E. Bolden	115
Samuel Lawton	52
James O. Cleveland	82

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

E. H. Bartlett	57
E. L. Mitchell	96
J. D. Hamill	87

The council, with the new members elected, will now stand five Democrats, they being Messrs. Thomas Little, A. W. Helbig, James A. Delawder, Edwin L. Mitchell and James D. Hamill, and one Republican, Mr. D. E. Bolden.

Points for Letter Writers.

Third Assistant Postmaster-General Madden will prepare for popular distribution a pamphlet containing in a compact form all necessary information regarding postal rates and the modus operandi of the mails. In the Postal Appropriation bill this year Mr. Madden had inserted an item of $10,000 for the purpose of furnishing these pamphlets for general circulation and this sum will, it is said, pay for the printing of two or three million copies. They will be especially useful in districts where rural free delivery is established.

Notice.

Books are now open at the furniture store of D. E. Bolden & Co., Oakland, to receive subscriptions to the Oakland Furniture Company. Shares of stock will be $10 each.

D. E. BOLDEN,
JOHN AULT,
CHAS. E. OEFUTT.

Maple Sugar.

The season for making maple sugar has almost arrived. Those of our citizens who own sugar camps have been busy for several days getting their keelers and the evaporating pans in condition to handle the product. Weather conditions and the degree of energy displayed by the husbandman in gathering the crop alone regulate the supply. If the weather be balmy and dry the crop will be large; if cold and wet the reverse will be true.

Notice.

This is to give notice to the public that Nannie Victoria Bowser, aged about 15 years, adopted by me, has left her home and that I will not be responsible for any debts she may contract in my name. Persons are also warned against harboring her.

JOSEPH BOWSER,
1 3t* Deer Park, Md.

Danger Signals.

If you are broken down, nervous and weak, have indigestion, cold hands and feet palpitation of heart, aching of bones and muscles or can't sleep at night and always tired in the morning, buy 3 or 4 boxes of HERCULEANS and follow the directions, then tell your afflicted friends the result. There is no better alterative pill compounded. They will renovate and renew your whole system. Get them of your druggist or merchant or send 35 cents to the AHMISS HEALTH ALLIANCE, Mt. Lake Park, Md. 3 Boxes by mail $1.00 5-1 y.

Seaboard Air Line Railway to Pinehurst, N. C. Camden, S. C., and all Florida Points.

The FLORIDA AND METROPOLITAN LIMITED and FLORIDA AND ATLANTA FAST MAIL are the finest and fastest trains operated between New York and the famous health resorts of the Carolinas and Florida.

PINEHURST, N. C., is a model New England town, nestled among the pineclad sand hills of the Old North State, and only eighteen hours from New York, via SEABOARD AIR LINE RAILWAY. It is one of the healthiest and most enjoyable winter resorts in America, with the finest and most palatial hotels and best eighteen hole golf links in the South. Through sleeping cars from Washington, D. C. Passengers from north thereof can take through car by passing from New York Sleeper to Washington and Pinehurst Sleeping Car at Washington.

CAMDEN, S. C., is one of the nearest resorts for northern tourists where they are secure from the cold climate of Northern winters. Besides its fame as a healthful and attractive winter resort, the historic interests connected with the town and locality are most quaint and interesting.

THE HEALTH AND PLEASURE RESORTS OF FLORIDA are too well known to need more than a passing allusion. There you find the most luxurious hotels and most attractive and popular winter resorts in America.

The SEABOARD AIR LINE RAILWAY is positively the shortest and quickest route operating solid vestibuled limited trains, with Pullman's latest improved service, including Dining, Observation and Pullman Compartment Cars, between New York and Florida.

For information and tickets call on or address Chas. L. Longsdorf, New England Passenger Agent, 306 Washington street, Boston, Mass.; J. C. Horton, Eastern Passenger Agent, 1206 Broadway, New York; W. M. McConnell, General Agent, 1434 New York ave., Washington, D. C., or R. E. L. Bunch, General Passenger Agent, Portsmouth, Va.

COURT MONDAY.

Judge Stake, of Hagerstown, Will Convene the Circuit Court Here Next Week.

Yesterday morning it was rumored that both Judges Stake and Sloan were too ill to come to Oakland Monday to convene the March term of the Circuit Court and as Judge Boyd has but recently recovered from a severe attack of illness and now engaged in the Court of Appeals at Annapolis which precludes his attendance upon Court here the editor of THE REPUBLICAN sent a telegram to Judge Boyd asking if Court would be convened here Monday and in reply His Honor sent the following from Annapolis yesterday afternoon:

STATE HOUSE,
ANNAPOLIS, MD., March 13, 1901.
Benjamin H. Sincell,
Oakland, Md.

Judge Stake will hold Court next week. Will adjourn until June for cases not ready. Criminal business should be disposed of and other cases which are ready.

A. HUNTER BOYD.

WANTED!

A young married man 25 to 30 years of age, who is qualified as a farmer, to take charge of a small farm near Oakland. Must be honest, sober and industrious. Address P. O. Box 41, Oakland, Md.

Seaboard Air Line Railway. Mileage Tickets Reduced.

One thousand mile tickets, good over the whole system of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, including the State of Florida, are sold at $25.00, previously sold in Florida at $30.00, and are honored between Washington and Richmond, and by the Baltimore Steam Packet Company between Baltimore and Portsmouth, over "Bay Line."

The Five Toasts.

Five prominent gentlemen of foreign birth chanced to meet in Los Angeles; one a Russian, one an American, one a Frenchman, one a Turk, the other an Englishman. The gentlemen became bosom friends, and finally a champagne supper was proposed. Each was to give a toast to his native country, the one giving the best being at no expense for the wine.

Here are the toasts given:

Frenchman—"Here's to the cock of France, whose feathers were never picked."

Turk—"Here's to the moon of Turkey, whose wings were never clipped."

Russian—"Here's to the stars and bars of Russia that were never pulled down."

American—"Here's to the stars and stripes of the United States of America, that have never trailed in defeat."

Englishman—"Ere's to the rompin' roarin' lion of Great Britain, that tore down the stars and bars of Russia, clipped the wings of Turkey, picked the feathers of France, and ran like 'ell from the stars and stripes of the United States of America."

Accident
Normal Academy
Opens April 8th.
Continues in Session Ten Weeks.

The objects of this school will be:

1st. To produce efficiency in the branches taught in the Public Schools, and to give such instruction in the higher branches as will be required to enter higher institutions of learning.

2nd. To prepare teachers for the Public Schools, giving special instruction in the Theory and Practice of teaching to all wishing to engage in that work.

Special attention will be given to classes in Book-keeping, Business Laws, Correspondence and Psychology.

Tuition, $6.00 for Teachers, one-half payable in advance, balance middle of term; others, $5 00.

It is or object to make the school a success. We therefore solicit the influence of all friends of education.

Good boarding at very low rates.

For further information apply to

R. R. SANNER or GEORGE B. FRAZEE.

Real Estate NOTICES!

For Rent--

House on Water Street, Oakland.
The Whitehead Cottage, Mt. Lake Park.
Thorn Cottage, near Oakland.
Offices in Ravenscroft Building, Oakland.

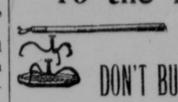
For Sale--

Three Houses in Oakland.
Thorn Cottage, near Oakland.
Lots at Loch Lynn Heights.
Hotel Property, Deer Park.
Farms in the County.

Apply to

JULIUS C. RENNINGER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
1 3t OAKLAND, MD.

To the Ladies!



DON'T BURN YOUR HANDS

turning pies and lifting from a hot oven. Have a bail on each dish while baking, with handle independent. Fits any dish. Four bails and handle by mail 25c. Agents wanted.

QUEEN CITY NOVELTY CO.,
Oakland.
Dealers write for wholesale prices.

NOTICE.

The undersigned will have his office open at Gorman but two days of each week, viz.; Tuesday and Friday, unless something of importance requires his presence, when attention will be given to all business coming before him.

WM. A. HARVEY,
Justice of the Peace 8th District.

CHAS. L. PETTIS & CO
CASH
Produce Buyers,
Dressed Poultry, Game, Furs,
Eggs and Butter,
204 DUANE STREET,
NEW YORK.
Write for Our Present Paying Prices.

The Light of the World
—OR—
Our Saviour in Art

cost nearly $100,000 to publish. Contains nearly one hundred full page engravings copied direct from the World's Greatest Paintings of our Saviour and His Mother. Contains History of Painting, Biography of Painter, and the Galleries in Europe where the Original Painting may be seen. The most beautiful publication ever issued. The strongest hearts weep at the sight of these wonderful pictures of Jesus and His Mother. Everybody says they are grand, sublime, matchless, magnificent, beautiful, inspiring and uplifting. The sale is unprecedented. The presses are running day and night to fill the orders. Twelve car loads of paper were required for the last edition. Small fortunes are being made by the thrifty with this marvelous work. Contains also a Child's story beautifully written to fit each picture. This wonderful book, matchless in its purity and beauty, appeals to every mother's heart and in every Christian home, where there are children it sells itself. A Christian man or woman can soon clear one thousand dollars ($1,000) taking orders in this community. Others are doing this. Why not you? We are advertising in nearly ten thousand newspapers in this country, Canada, England and Austria. Shipping books to every English-speaking country in the world. We shall promote our best workers to positions of State Managers, Correspondents and Office Assistants. We also own and publish large Photo-gravure Etchings of the great Paintings in the galleries of Europe. One or more of these Etchings can be sold in every home. By carrying the books and the engravings our success will be tremendous. Mrs. Waite, of Worcester, Mass., has sold nearly four thousand dollars worth of books there. Mrs. Sackett has sold nearly two thousand dollars worth of books in New York. Both of these ladies answered our advertisements, and had never sold a book before. Took 14 orders first two days—H. Colwell. Took 5 orders first day; 24 orders first week, clearing over $50—Hattie Lemwell. Thousands of others like above. It is printed on velvet finished paper; bound in Cardinal Red, Green and Gold and adorned with Golden Roses and Lillies. Write quickly for terms as the territory is going rapidly. When you prove your success, we will promote you to the position of Manager and Correspondent under yearly contract.

We shall soon move into our new and elegant structure to be occupied solely by us, and to be known as the Light of the World Building.

Address THE BRITISH-AMERICAN CO.,
CORCORAN BUILDING,
Opposite United States Treasury.
WASHINGTON, D. C.

Cure That Cold

And it can be done for 25 cents—a dose or two and relief is instant—a few doses more and the cure is complete.

Pine and Terpin Cough Syrup

Is a new remedy—contains new drugs and new chemicals—a trial will convince anyone of its merit—it cures where all else fails.

LOGAN DRUG COMPANY,
WHEELING, W. VA.

Notice to Trespassers.

All persons are hereby warned not to trespass upon the lands of the undersigned situated in Election District No. 13 of Garrett county, comprising Military Lots Nos. 122, 126, 127, 130, 131, 132, 135, 155, 156, 157, 158, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146, 147, 148, 151, 156, 162, 163 and 650 acres of Bank Territory and also the tract of land called "Senior and Junior." All persons found trespassing either for the purpose of hunting or fishing will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

JAS. H. WILSON,
DANIEL R. HARVEY,
DANIEL WILSON,
J. T. HARVEY.

A Gallon of PURE LINSEED OIL mixed with a gallon of

Hammar Paint $1.25

makes 2 gallons of the VERY BEST PAINT in the WORLD for $2.50, or

Saves 25 per cent

of your paint bill. IS FAR MORE DURABLE than PURE WHITE LEAD and IS ABSOLUTELY NOT POISONOUS. HAMMAR PAINT is made of the BEST OF PAINT MATERIALS—such as all good painters use, and is ground THICK, VERY THICK. No trouble to mix, any boy can do it. It is the COMMON SENSE OF HOUSE PAINT. NO BETTER paint can be made at ANY cost, and is

Guaranteed 5 years

NOT TO CRACK, BLISTER, PEEL or CHIP.
F. HAMMAR PAINT CO., St. Louis, Mo.
Sold and guaranteed by

J. W. LAUGHLIN,
DEER PARK, MD.

INTO THE VAST FOREVER.

What may we carry to the vast forever?
The mystic stair
Admits not gold, nor whatsoever
Of pomp or pride we wear—
These pass not there.

Nor may we take within the sacred portal
Our books and art.
Into the life immortal
No idol of the heart;
With these we part.

We may not carry to the land supernal
Our boasted creeds.
These drop and disappear like blossoms,
And all our deeds
Are poor as weeds.

But character and conscience shall attend us,
The genial flow
Of sympathizing hearts, and sense stupendous
Of happiness or woe
Shall with us go.

For charity's fair form has ever parted
The pearly door
For all the sanctified and holy-hearted
It spreads the golden floor,
For evermore!

Upward from the vast forever
Naked we come.
Lord, clothe us with Thy robe, that we may never
Be put to fear or shame,
Who own Thy name.

Ask we the Pleiades or grand Orion
To lend a ray?
While journeying to the hill of Zion
Thou art the light, the way,
Nor need we stray.

From Thee the glory of the life eternal
Forever beams!
With Thee our days shall glide in joy supreme Beyond these fading dreams
These failing streams.
—E. A. Adams, in Washington Star.

"Weeds of Society."

The Story of Snipey and Kipper.

SNIPEY and Kipper stood in the dock, with a don't-care-a-fig-for-anybody air.

"What's the charge against these fellows?" inquired the magistrate.

"Drunk and disorderly, your worship, and assaulting the police."

There was no defense.

"Any previous convictions?" asked his worship, with a sour look at the two youths of promise.

Kipper thrust his hands deep into his pockets; Snipey, somewhat older, watched the dockkeeper with an anxious eye. There were previous convictions.

"That will do!" said his worship severely. "You are evidently incorrigible. Such fellows are the weeds of society. It's a pity you cannot be—er—plucked out. You will be removed to the house of correction for three months." * * *

A raw-footed and broken detachment of a British infantry regiment was stumbling gamely along a dreary ravine in the interior of China. The regiment helped make up a relief force which was hurrying to the rescue of a missionary station. Two smart companies had mustered into the gray light of early morning and had set out to reconnoiter in the hills. Through a childlike faith in the efficiency of the information supplied by a so-called intelligence department, the major commanding the detachment had got hopelessly out of his reckoning. The intelligence department of the Chinese had misled them, and by the late afternoon the British had fallen into an ambush. From the rocky ridges flanking the ravine the Chinese showed now and then the gleam of a scimitar to their prey. Little puffs of smoke appeared more frequently still, and were sometimes followed by sickening little "plops," when the bullet met flesh and bone in the valley. The dead lay sprinkled in the wake of the British in dabs of scarlet, as if they were playing a weird game of hare-and-hounds with death.

The end of their endurance came when the shadows of the rapidly approaching night closed upon them. The word to halt was given and obeyed, although its mellow note killed all hope. Rations of flour and water were passed round, and, with the sentries posted, the little body of British soldiers sat or lay at ease, rifle in hand, waiting for night and—death.

Two hours passed; then the commanding officer was startled from a doze by a hoarse whisper:

"Majer! majer!"

"Hallo!" he snapped. "Who the devil is that?"

"Me, majer—Privit 'Arrison. I've bin a-talkin' the persition over with a mate—friend, beggin' yer pard'n, sir—o' mine, an' we thinks theers a charnce o' savin' the detachment."

There were a few expletives in the darkness.

"Who told the privates the detachment wanted any saving?"

Then there was a sound like a suppressed chuckle, and the whisper reasserted itself. By and by the expletives melted into answering whispers, then followed silence.

Ten minutes after there slipped into the silence the rustle of gently moving men.

"Snipey, ole man!"

"Kipper!"

Two hands groped ridiculously in the inky night until they found each other. A few answering cracks from the hills were followed by the hum of wasted ammunition.

"Majer said as it was a five-ter-one charnce," replied Snipey, with something of importance creeping into his tone.

"Wot else did 'e say, mate, when yer axed 'im?"

"Say? Why, a bloomin' 'air-lifters at fust, as it's 'is nature to. Then says I, 'Me an' my pal, majer, reckons as these pigtails wun't want ter tackle in the darkness, a-cause they might get cut up a bit; so they'll wait an' pot us comferable in the mornin',' 'Right y'are, old chap,' says 'e. Then I says, 'But if we tried to do a guy, majer, ole pal, they'd smell a rat, an' be down on us like a lot o' winter sparrers on a midden.' 'Considerable powers o' penetration,' 'e says. 'Then,' says I, 'majer, here's our plan. Let one or two stop behind an' keep a-firin' from different places, an' they'll think we're all 'ere; then the rest o' the detachment can creep off foxy.' The majer swears, an' says it wos a five-to-one chance. Then 'e thinks a bit. Then 'e says 'e'll try it. Then I volunteers for you an' me to stop, a-cause it wos us wot formerlated the invention. 'Couple of scaps afore you joined, eh?' 'e says.' 'Certn'y, majer,' I says, soothin'-like. Then I feels summat a-foolin' about me in the darkness, an' when I grabbed it I found it wos the majer's hand."

"Snipey," said Kipper reproachfully, "you're a blisterin' liar!"

"That's the kernel of it, mate. It's true about the hand, though, Kip."

Crack, crack! Unceasingly the pitiless rifles told the lurking Chinese that their British pigeons were safe in the nest below.

"Kipper!"

"Ole pal!"

"We gorrer remember one thing. There must be no bloomin' surrenderin'."

"Not a bit o' surrenderin'." There was a decided quaver in the tone now.

"There wun't be no takin' prisoners! We've took a great responserbility on fer the regiment. There's a lot 'o clarse about the regiment, Kip, an' we ain't a-goin' to disgrace it. See?"

"Snipey!"

"Kipper, ole man!" There was the same funny grouping of hands in the dark, the same tight lingering grip when they found each other.

Crack, crack!

"Curse this rifle!" said Snipey. "How she bumps!"

It was nearly 4 o'clock when Kipper spoke again. The blackness was diluted a little over the eastern ridge.

"Snipey," he said, with a weary little sob, "I'm a-gettin' ill!" Then after a pause: "Snipey, d'yer remember what that Crucified Chap said when 'Ee got tired—when 'E wos weary o' waitin', I mean?"

"Don't give yer neck, mate!"

"Him wot the mish'nary told us about when we wos kids," went on Kipper, pathetically. "Wot was it?"

Snipey sighed.

"I know, chummy. I was just a-thinking of it meself. "Ow long, O Lord, 'ow long?'"

"That's it!" said Kipper, through his chattering teeth. 'Ow long, O Lord—"

The eastern sky was a golden sea. The rocky ridges and hills beneath seemed blacker than ever, and from that black smudge on the glory of the dawn came half a dozen little puffs of flame, and Kipper's rifle clattered down upon the rocks. Snipey groped about in the gloom, and found his comrade on his knees, gasping and spitting mouthfuls of warm liquid.

"Wot yer doin', Kip?" he said, anxiously.

He stood for a minute, still as the rocks around, then stumbled forward with a sobbing cry of rage and misery. In the dim light he saw Kipper lying on his side, trying in vain to raise himself upon his elbow.

"Kipper!" he whispered softly, falling on his knees beside his chum.

Kipper groaned, and pressed his hand to his right breast.

"Through—the lungs!" he said, in an awed whisper, between the fits of coughing that wrenched him. Snipey pressed his hand, with a sob.

"For the regiment, Snipey!" He raised himself on his elbow, and his chum flung an arm around his neck to support him. There's a bit o' clarse about—the—reg—"

A fresh fit of coughing brought intense agony; after it was over his head fell back.

Snipey pulled out his handkerchief to wipe the blood from the dead lips. It was a miniature copy of the British flag. He remembered how the handkerchiefs had taken the fancy of the soldiers just before they left England, and how the regiment had bought up the whole stock.

He stared stolidly at the quiet face for a minute, them spread the little flag over it.

When Snipey turned once more to face the east the day had broken gloriously. His rifle was empty, and he slipped a fresh cartridge into the breech. Then, with a sudden thought, he fetched Kipper's rifle and loaded that, too.

When the Chinese closed round in the growing light they found their pot-shot prey had flown. A solitary British soldier, with hands and chin resting on the muzzle of his gun, stood awaiting their vengance.

The weapon sprang to the aching shoulder, and one yellow foe lay a corpse. With the report of Kipper's gun another pressed his hand to a mortal wound, and the affair was finished.

But that morning, in the messtents of the rescued regiment, the story of how a couple of weeds had been plucked from tne garden of society was told with misty eyes and glowing hearts.—Chicago Herald.

The Next Thing to It.

"Do your worst!" she whispered, hoarsely.

His heart failed him.

"Do your worst!"

The fateful words rang in his ears, and he was just as anxious as his wife to get rid of the company who had called, but he concluded at the last moment to do only his worst but one.

Accordingly he played, but did not sing.—Tit-Bits.

Simply Paralyzed.

Chief Crazy Snake refuses to talk, but perhaps he will, says the Chicago Record, when he has sobered up.

THE HOUSEHOLD

CARRIAGES FOR BABY.

His Lordship of the Nursery Is Setting a Shocking Example of Rank Extravagance.

Nothing is too good for his infantile highness of 1901, in proof of which it will be necessary to mention the splendor and number of carriages alone. In the old days when babies were supposed to make up for simple living by high thinking one stout, perambulator upholstered in serviceable reps, painted a weather-proof color, hooded with oiled cloth and about as agile in its movements and graceful in its gait as a wheelbarrow, was handed on from generation to generation, and by no means did every baby in the block claim the proud privilege of keeping his own turnout.

The rule of to-day is one baby, one carriage; sometimes there are exquisite double-seated equipages of satin and lace and rattan, for cheerful, worldly-minded twins.

PRETTY MORNING EQUIPAGE.

It has never yet been discovered what sort of vengeance a baby could mete out to the parents who failed on the carriage question, because those devoted servitors nearly always anticipated the infantile scorn and disgust by procuring a brilliant, cozy, up-to-date trap for park and pavement use well in advance of the first outing, and so eager are the parents to please that the baby carriage trade is increasing every year. There is a woman in New York who makes a living by upholstering these charming conveniences, by supplying pillows for the occupant's comfort, by draping canopies and making down, silk, satin, wool and fur robes for the fat, pink, lolling little lords and ladies.

Every well-to-do bairn keeps at least two carriages. One for summer and one for winter use. The former is made on the American, the latter on the English pattern, and the very latest devices for comfort and convenience in these two types of vehicles was displayed by the assortment that greeted Miss Cornelia Stuyvesant Vanderbilt's appearance last August.

Among her christening gifts were no less than ten beautiful little carriages. There were smart little wheel chairs for use when she grows a bit bigger, and a most luxurious cradle carriage, all of pure white wicker and in the form of a swan on wheels. The interior of this carriage is upholstered in white silk, the coverlid is of swan's-down and in his beak the stately wicker bird holds the ends of white satin ribbons that extend from the silk and lace draped canopy.

Another very picturesque carriage for this little lady's use had a body of wicker woven into a shell and appropriately lined with pink silk, and her winter chariot from London had a shallow oval black body and black wheels picked out in bright cherry lines. On both sides of the body the owner's entwined initials are painted, and inside the furnishings are done in cherry satin. The seat and cushion can be shifted so that the small occupant can sit erect or lie at length, and the hood of varnished leather can be so drawn up that the whole of the interior is covered. The front half of the carriage top, when the day is fine, folds down flat and inconspicuously in front, while the rear half fixed in its place is built of varnished leather, upheld by iron supports painted cherry red, and in the sides and back of the rear hood plate-glass squares are set to afford the baby light and a fine view.

This winter a yet more interesting little carriage has been brought out by the manufacturers. It is a wee hansom cab complete, with a handle in the back at the top, whence the nursemaid propels it along, and the juvenile proprietor of one of these quaint traps has pronounced it in broken English to be the snuggest thing he has yet tried. Mothers who believe in the efficacy of fresh air for their babies will promptly indorse a new carriage for very little babies. It is a delicate, graceful basket body on wheels. There is a mechanism in the rear by which the carriage is wound up, and when the nurse has established herself under a a tree she sets the mechanism in action and the body of the carriage sways very gently back and forth until the occupant is lulled to sleep.—Fanny Enders, in Chicago Record.

Prepared to Carve.

The man who was dining with the family for the first time began the conversation.

"Wasn't that the dinner bell that just rung?" the stranger asked.

"Yes," replied the old friend of the family.

"Then where's the host going? I just saw him pass down the hall with his overcoat on."

"That wasn't an overcoat; it was a mackintosh. We are going to have roast duck."—Philadelphia Press.

BRUSHING THE SKIN.

Eminent Medical and Dermatological Authorities Call Friction an Aid to Beauty.

The skin should be thoroughly cleansed once a day. Have the room warm, and the water only a few degrees cooler. Stay in the bath five minutes, keeping yourself either under water or pouring wet all the time. But it is after you leave the tub that the really important part of the bath begins.

Dry yourself thoroughly with two towels, then take a stiff flesh brush and try with all your might to rub your skin off. A cocoanut fiber brush is the best, and to get at your back it is a good plan to have a cocoanut fiber mat hung against the wall to rub yourself against. Keep up this friction for at least ten minutes. You could not invest the same amount of time more usefully. There is nothing like this to relieve the internal organs from undue heat and congestion of the blood, and to free the lungs from oppression. Moreover, it actually increases the size of the muscles and makes them firmer by causing the blood to circulate more vigorously in them. As to its effect upon the elasticity and beauty of the skin itself, that will be obvious enough at a glance. It is the brush that furnishes the only true bloom of youth. But the morning bath and rubbing down alone are not sufficient. If during the day you get into a perspiration, do not allow the moisture to dry on the skin. Never come in from a walk or horseback ride or a row and sit down as you are. Go to your room, take off everything and use the brush. It may seem inconvenient at first, but when it is done you will rejoice and soon it will become a matter of course to you.

This friction after exercise is of great importance; so much so that it may be affirmed that three-fourths of the benefit of any exercise is lost without it. If you foresee that it will be impossible, after your exercise, to take a rub down, then it will often be better to choose the rub down than the exercise.—St. Louis Republic.

WANTED TO TELL NEWS.

Pace, Jester to Queen Elizabeth, Gave His August Mistress a Severe Home Thrust.

A southern woman, lying upon her deathbed, was diligently cared for by a former slave, a typical Virginia negress. The minister came, prayed, talked and went away again, and as the old slave returned to her post of duty the sufferer said: "Aunty, I have just made a sad discovery. I am a great sinner, and I never knew it until now." She was very nervous over this, so that the nurse answered in her most soothing manner: "There, there, Missie! Laws, I knowed it all the time." This reminds a writer of another story told long, long ago agout Pace, the jester to Queen Elizabeth. That post was not a pleasant one, and Pace, who was, like most court and other jesters, inclined to be personal, at last had to be forbidden the royal presence. After he had been for some time absent a few of his friends entreated the queen to take him again into her favor and engaged that thereafter his discourse should be more guarded. But the very first time the queen saw Pace matters were as bad as ever. "Ah, now, Pace," said Elizabeth, graciously, "come, we shall hear our faults." "No, madame," replied the jester, guardedly, "I never talk of what is discoursed by all the world."

QUEEN AND JESTER.

HOW TO USE GLYCERIN.

Unless Mixed with an Equal Part of Water It Is Absolutely Injurious to the Skin.

Since so many people use pure glycerin for the skin a word of caution seems necessary.

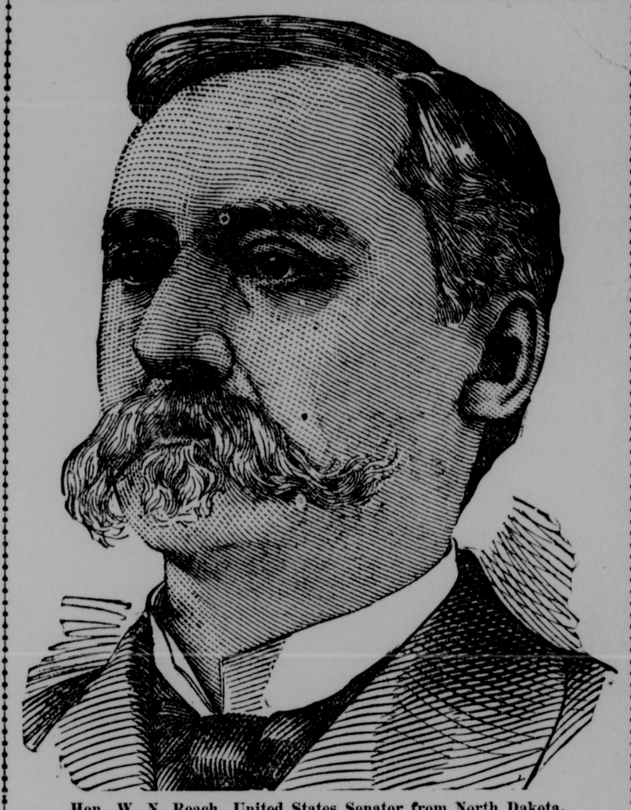
If you apply a little glycerin to the tip of the tongue you will find that, although it has a pleasant sweet taste, the first sensation that is felt is one of pain and burning. This is caused by the fact that glycerin has a strong affinity for water, and that it absorbs all the moisture from the surface which it touches, thus drying up and parching the nerves.

Ignorant of this fact, nurses and mothers have applied pure glycerin to the chafed skin of infants, producing often great pain. The glycerin ought to have been first mixed with an equal bulk of water. This being done, it may be applied to the most tender surfaces without producing injury, and, as it does not dry up, virtually maintains the part in a constantly moist condition, excluding the air and promoting the health process.

Rose water is most frequently used, and benzoin is an excellent addition.—Philadelphia Press.

A UNITED STATES SENATOR

Says Pe-ru-na, the Catarrh Cure, Gives Strength and Appetite.



Hon. W. N. Roach, United States Senator from North Dakota.

Hon. W. N. Roach, United States Senator from North Dakota, personally endorses Peruna, the great catarrh cure and tonic. In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Company, at Columbus, Ohio, written from Washington, D. C., Senator Roach says:

"Persuaded by a friend I have used Peruna as a tonic, and I am glad to testify that it has greatly helped me in strength, vigor and appetite. I have been advised by friends that it is remarkably efficacious as a cure for the almost universal complaint of catarrh."—W. N. Roach, Larimore, North Dakota.

No other remedy can take the place of Peruna.

Mr. E. J Makinson, Contractor and Builder.

Mr. Ed. J. Makinson, contractor and builder, 610 Grand Block, Wabash Street, St. Paul, Minn., says: "Many doctor bills can be saved by the use of Peruna. I have all my friends taking Peruna, and I have heard nothing but praise from them. Last fall I had a bad cough. I took four bottles of Peruna and it cured me. I am inclined towards consumption, as all my family have died with it. I weigh 185 pounds, and I believe it is Peruna that has given me such good health."—J. Makinson.

As a result of the changeable climate, catarrh has become one of the most prevalent and universal diseases known to man. Nearly one-third of the people of the United States are afflicted with catarrh in some of its many phases and stages. Add to this the fact that catarrh rapidly tends to become fixed or chronic, also the further fact that it is capable of producing a great many other diseases, and we begin to realize the true nature of this dread disease.

So formidable has catarrh become that in every city or town of any size numerous doctors are to be found who make the treatment of catarrh a specialty. Of course a great deal of good is accomplished in this way, but as yet a comparatively small number of the people can avail themselves of this treatment because of the great expense necessarily attached to it.

To all such people Dr. Hartman's remedy, Peruna, comes as a great boon. Not only is it more successful in curing catarrh than the treatment of the catarrh specialists, but it is within the reach of every person in this land. Peruna can be bought at any drug store, and is a remedy without equal for catarrh in all forms, coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption, and all climatic diseases of winter.

Peruna is not a guess, nor an experiment; it is an absolute, scientific certainty. Peruna cures catarrh wherever located. Peruna has no substitutes—no rivals. Insist upon having Peruna. Let no one persuade you that some other remedy will do nearly as well. There is no other systemic remedy for catarrh but Peruna.

Byron J. Kirkhuff, Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

Mr. Byron J. Kirkhuff, attorney, counsellor at law, writes from 691 Gates avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., the following: "I have used your Peruna for catarrh and find its curative powers all you recommend. It cured me of a very bad attack and though I suffered for years I feel entirely relieved, and if it will benefit others, I gladly give it my endorsement."—B. J. Kirkhuff.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, president of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup

Cures a Cough or Cold at once. Conquers Croup, Whooping-Cough, Hoarseness, Bronchitis, Grippe and Consumption. Mothers praise it. Doctors prescribe it. Quick, sure results. Get only Dr. Bull's! Price, 25 cents. Dr. Bull's Pills cure Constipation. Fifty pills, 10 cts. Trial box, 5 cts.

DON'T GET WET! TOWER'S FISH BRAND Oiled Clothing BLACK OR YELLOW WILL KEEP YOU DRY NOTHING ELSE WILL TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE. FREE CATALOGUE, SHOWING FULL LINE OF GARMENTS AND HATS. A. J. TOWER CO. BOSTON. MASS.

150 KINDS For 16 Cents

Last year we started out for 300,000 new customers. We received 270,000. We now have on our books 1,110,000 names. We wish 290,000 more in 1901, making 1,500,000 full, hence this unprecedented offer for 16 cents postpaid of 20 kinds of rarest luscious radishes.
12 magnificent earliest melons,
16 sorts glorious tomatoes,
25 peerless lettuce varieties,
12 splendid beet sorts,
65 gorgeously beautiful flower seeds
In all 150 kinds, sure to delight and please and captivate your hearts, together with our great illustrated Plant and Seed Catalog, telling all about Billion Dollar Grass, Pecos, Teosinte, Bromus, Spelta, Onion Seed at 60c., etc., all for 16 cents stamps and this notice. Catalog positively worth $100 to any planter of garden and farm seeds.
JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO. (X) La Crosse, Wis.

In 3 or 4 Years an Independence Is Assured

FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

If you take up your homes in Western Canada, the land of plenty. Illustrated pamphlets, giving experiences of farmers who have become wealthy in growing wheat, reports of delegates, etc., and full information as to reduced railway rates can be had on application to the Superintendent of Immigration, Department of Interior, Ottawa, Canada, or address the Undersigned, who will mail you atlases, pamphlets, etc., free of cost. F. PEDLEY, Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada; or to M. V. McINNES, No. 2 Merrill Blk., Detroit, Mich.; E. T. HOLMES, Room 6, Big Four Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

FISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS 25 CTS

To-Day's Dessert.

In making it ready Burnham's Hasty Jellycon will be highly appreciated; nothing to do but dissolve it in hot water and set away to cool. The flavors are: orange, lemon, strawberry, raspberry, peach, wild cherry and unflavored "calfsfoot" for making wine and coffee jellies. Get a package to-day at your grocer's.

RHEUMATISM Van Buren's Rheumatic Compound is the only positive cure. Past experience speaks for itself. Depot 53 S. California Ave., Chicago.

PATENTS
EXPERT SERVICE. CHARGES MODERATE.
D. W. GOULD, LL. M.,
Atlantic Building WASHINGTON, D. C.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY; gives quick relief and cures worst cases. Book of testimonials and 10 days' treatment Free. Dr. H. H. GREEN'S SONS, Box D, Atlanta, Ga.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS.

STATE AID FOR ROADS.

How Improvement of Highways Has Been Carried On Under It in Connecticut.

The annual report of State Highway Commissioner James H. Macdonald for the calendar year 1900 was presented recently. It is a voluminous and important document, reviewing the various aspects of highway improvements in Connecticut under the state aid act.

In speaking of the present state highway law the commissioner says:

"The policy of the state has been almost universally accepted as a wise one by the towns. The present law has been accepted by 39 towns which have never before participated in state aid, making a total of 153 towns which have applied for state assistance under this law. The fact demonstrates that the law of 1899 is the most popular under which we have worked. This is principally due to the liberal assistance by the state and the wise provision in the law allowing the commissioner to meet the conditions by which the town is surrounded. Almost all of the objections offered by the towns in regard to former laws are removed under the present law. It will be impossible, however, to draft any law that will be entirely free from objection, for it is impossible to build any law that cannot be improved in some respects.

PIKE NEAR BRISTOL, PA.
(From a Picture Taken Two Days After a Rainstorm.)

"The present law, governing as it does the whole of the action of the state and town on a liberal plan of financial assistance, and broadening the policy of the state in the method of construction, and also keeping well within control of the state the whole movement, has enlarged the field of work for the commissioner and has reduced somewhat the jurisdiction of the towns accepting state aid; but so far every change from the laws of 1895 and 1897 has been very much more beneficial to the towns and around the whole movement safeguards that has already demonstrated its worth.

"It has never been the policy of the state to be unpleasantly arbitrary in her dealings with the towns, although at the outset of the movement it was difficult to have all towns understand this. As the work has progressed the towns have been brought into a full knowledge of the attitude of the state.

"It was at first thought by many people of our state that when the roads through the villages were improved the interest would die out, and that a vote for the improvement of others would not be had. On the contrary, the desire for a general improvement of the roads in all towns in which we have constructed roads is increasing rather than diminishing, which fact speaks well for the future of the good roads movement.

"I have many times improved four, five and six sections on a main highway with an appropriation of $1,000, and while each section would not extend over many lineal feet of road the sections selected are places that had been for years a weak spot on the road, and would have been improved long ago had the town been financially able to so do. It stands to reason that if a road having five or six bad places at different points on a road six miles long, and these bad sections can be removed for $1,000, thereby reclaiming and making a good road of the five or six miles, it is money well invested. As a matter of fact, the largest return for the money invested is the improvement of these sectional pieces of road throughout the state."

Commissioner Macdonald makes this protest against the old drag scraper: "I have seen thousands of dollars wasted with this old time practice of putting the washings from the road back on the road. The road scraper properly used is a great assistance to our country roads and a saving of a large amount of money and time if it is intelligently used. The old drag scraper system is a back number and should remain so. It is the lack of knowledge of how to use a road scraper and not the road scraper that is to be condemned. It would be better in the use of the road scraper when the sand washings are found in the gutter to lift up the blade and let the washings lie where the rain left them, and go on and drop the blade only into good material, and thus leave the road in a passable condition, instead of eight inches deep, as I have often seen it with worn out road scrapers."

The commissioner does not think it wise to attempt to build a macadam system throughout the state. The policy of the state has been not to extend the building of macadam beyond its natural growth. Under the present system the towns have latitude in selecting such kinds of roads as they desire.

In addition to the work that has been done during the last two years under this appropriation there were remaining 33 towns to be finished the first year of the appropriation, which represented 20 miles.

The amount of money that will be used in the appropriations on the part of the state and towns during the last two years will be $467,550.

The total number of miles that will be finished with the appropriation under the contracts let for the last two years is 1,900.

THE DAIRYMAN'S HOG.

It Should Be of the Best Breed Because the Scrub Does Not Pay the Cost of Production.

Every dairyman, as I have said before, should study and know as much about raising hogs as he does about making butter and cheese, for feeding his skim milk to poorly bred hogs is a great loss to him. The old scrub cow, the dash churn and the razor-back hog should be a thing of the past. Dairymen, discard the scrub hog! You cannot afford to keep him when the margin is so small as at present. He is not the poor man's friend and is the rich man's enemy. He requires more feed and makes less pork than a high-grade or pure-bred hog. Here again consider the cost of production. If you are hard to convince, buy a thoroughbred pig and place him with a lot of common ones of equal age; give same feed and care, and in a short time the weights will convince you, to say nothing of the superior symmetry of form and finish which so please the buyer's eye and bring more money. We admit that the razor-back hog, the scrub cow and the dash churn served well and long and still have many backers who stand by them, and will always be standing there as immovable as Lot's wife.

What breed of hogs should the dairyman raise to make the most money out of them? I will say I do not consider that there is much difference between the Berkshire and the Poland-China. The experiment stations have at different times fed an equal number of each breed, and the experiments showed that there was practically no difference in the food requirements for a given gain. —Elias Gallup, in Farmers' Review.

HORTICULTURAL NOTES.

Willows and larches are better set in the fall, as they push into leaf so quickly in the spring. To be successful in spring, set them very early, just as soon as the frost goes.

A strong root of bleeding heart potted and placed in a window in winter, will be sure to give you flowers, and its large, rosy, pink blooms are charming to look on.

Where space is limited, use arbor vitae for a hedge. It forms a complete one, while growing tall without spreading. Hemlock and Norway spruce require more ground room.

Sweet pepper bush is a native shrub found growing in low ground, but which does well in any ordinary garden situation. In early August it bears a profusion of spikes of sweet-scented white flowers.

Japanese irises are vastly superior to any flags known before the introduction of these. It is not uncommon for the flowers to measure six inches in diameter. The Japs prefer a quite damp place to grow in.

A variety of the sword fern, known as the Boston fern, is in much demand for indoor use. All of the family to which it belongs are useful in the same way, not objecting to the air of dwellings.

There are favorite willows for basket-making, such as the Forbyana and Purpurea, because of their flexibility, but those who make baskets use many kinds, some of stout growth and some of slender growth.—Prairie Farmer.

If house plants are started free of insects, they are rarely much troubled with them in winter, but vigilance must be exercised to keep them clean, as their well-doing is greatly dependent on this.

STONE DAIRY HOUSE.

Its Construction Is So Simple That It Can Be Built Without Any Outside Help Whatever.

Utilize the loose stones by the making of a dairy house, as shown. The one portrayed has but one room, the rear being used as an ice room. Locate it remote from cesspools or outbuildings containing stock under as much shade as possible. Windows and door should have screens in summer. A long table will be needed, besides shelves; the floor may be of earth, brick or stone. If a stream of water can be conducted into the house the labor will be greatly reduced.—Mrs. A. C. McPherson, in Farm and Home.

STONE DAIRY HOUSE.

Too much glass in a henhouse causes frosted combs during cold nights.

Where the Thieves Were.

The wife of a well-known and very popular member of the house of representatives was telling a story on him the other day, which was much appreciated.

The gentleman came in rather late the other night after a convivial time. He was tired and sleepy, and scarcely struck the bed before he was in a profound slumber. Toward morning the good wife became alarmed by unusual noises, and immediately visions of plunder and violence disturbed her imagination. She shook her spouse with vigor and cried: "Jim, wake up; wake up!" He gave an extra snort and snore, and turned over. She shook him again, screaming: "Jim, you must get up; there are thieves in the house!"

Arousing himself for a moment, he said: "Oh, no, my dear; there are no thieves in the house; they are all in the senate."—Baltimore Sun.

The Prince Declined.

When the prince of Wales was about to visit Niagara Falls Blondin had a rival, one Farini, who was a character. He issued an advertisement urging that the prince make his initial entrance to the great and glorious United States in a striking manner. Accordingly he proposed that he should wheel the prince in a wheelbarrow over a tight rope across the gorge to the United States—an entrance that would be unparalleled! Then the notice added: "Should any accident happen to his highness whereby he should happen to be precipitated to the gulf below (of which, I assure you, there is little danger) the money taken from the spectators shall be refunded."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

What He Got.

Towne—Our friend Underthum tells me he's got a fine situation. How much does he get, do you know?

Browne—Oh, about $2 a week.

"You don't mean it! It must be a fine situation to command such a princely salary."

"I didn't say that was his salary. That's what his wife allows him."—Philadelphia Press.

A Remedy for the Grippe.

Physicians recommend KEMP'S BALSAM for patients afflicted with the grippe, as it is especially adapted for the throat and lungs. Don't wait for the first symptoms, but get a bottle to-day and keep it on hand for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the grippe brings on pneumonia. KEMP'S BALSAM prevents this by keeping the cough loose and the lungs free from inflammation. All druggists, 25c and 50c.

In Mourning.

Butcher—Leg o' mutton? Yes'm.

Mrs. De Rigeur—And let it be off a black sheep, if you please. We're in mourning, you know.—Philadelphia Record.

There Is a Class of People

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

The thinner the wine of wisdom the faster it will run out.—Ram's Horn.

Where Danger Lurked.

A little girl from Memphis who has spent her life in the city went out to visit her grandparents, living in the country, during the holidays, and, as usually happens in such cases, the little city lady displayed her ignorance.

The little girl, soon after her arrival in the country, manifested great apprehension of being hooked by the cows about the place. One day her mother told her to go to a neighbor's home and carry a message. The little girl started, but at the gate she encountered a cow, one of the muley species.

In great excitement she ran back to her mother, crying: "Oh, mamma, there's a cow down there!"

The mother looked out of the window and saw the meek-looking bovine.

"Why, daughter, that's a muley cow. She hasn't any horns and can't hook you."

"But, mamma," exclaimed the child, "she hasn't any horns, but she might hook me with her pompadour!"—Memphis Scimitar.

Not He.—"I must confess I'm rather superstitious." "Well, I'm not. I wouldn't be that way." "You wouldn't, eh?" "No it's a sure sign that you're going to have bad luck when you begin to get superstitious."—Philadelphia Press.

The only thoroughgoing woman I ever heard of was the one who, having divorced her husband, changed her religion, in order that she might have done with him both in this world and the next.—Ally Sloper.

Bill Collector.—Lawyer—"What is your business?" Bankrupt—"Well, I suppose I might be called a bill collector." Lawyer—"A bill collector?" Bankrupt—"Yes. At least, I have a large collection of unpaid bills."—Somerville Journal.

Any young man who is desirous of occupation may find it by trying to please a woman; but no sane man will ever attempt to satisfy her. If you buy her furs, she wants feathers; if you spend your money on her you are extravagant; if you do not, you are mean; if you are jealous, you are a brute; while if you are not, you don't love her.—Ally Sloper.

Fine

The skin and flesh feel like the fit of a new soft glove when

St. Jacobs Oil

has driven out

Soreness and Stiffness

from cold.

PATENTS without fee unless successful. Send description; FREE opinion. MILO B. STEVENS & CO., Estab. 1864. Div. 3, 817—14th Street, WASHINGTON, D. C. Branch offices: Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit.

GREGORY SEEDS Forty years of fair dealing. New catalogue free. J. J. H. Gregory & Son, Marblehead, Mass.

OIL STOCKS.—Wanted—Agent to Sell dividend-paying California Oil Stocks. A quick seller. Big profits. Address JOHN SHARP, 541 South Flower Street, LOS ANGELES, CALIF.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases of of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Unlike Anybody Else.

Obstinacy, like most other qualities, has many forms of manifesting itself.

"I do think," said one of the group of nephews who were discussing "Uncle Chauncey's" peculiarities, "he's the contrariest man alive."

"What new light have you had on the subject?" asked one of the others.

"Well, he's so contrary," was the rejoinder, "that if he sees a newspaper advertisement headed: 'Don't read this!' he doesn't read it!"—Youth's Companion.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

Change of Name.

Mrs. Greene—I suppose the Chitlings are awfully stuck up since they got that money from Mrs. Chitling's uncle?

Mrs. Gray—Not so much as one might have supposed; but I notice that when they have mincemeat on the table they call it croquettes; it used to be plain hash.—Boston Transcript.

Beating All Records.

Whenever the American people find a thing of merit, absolute genuine merit, they appreciate it and never hesitate to make liberal use of it. It is merit that counts for the enormous sale of Cascarets—over six million boxes last year. It is the best bowel and liver regulator in the world and sells at prices that suit everybody—10c, 25c and 50c a box, put up in tablet form, and every tablet stamped "C. C. C." There is no waste. Cascarets are easy to take and are sold by the makers under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if Cascarets do not prove satisfactory. A 50c box is enough for a whole month's treatment for the worst case. Every sufferer is urged to give Cascarets an immediate trial.

After the Consultation.

Patient—Now, doctor, what's the matter with me, anyway?

The Head Consulting Physician—My dear sir, do you suppose that if we knew what was the matter with you, we would have decided to hold a post-mortem?—Harper's Bazar.

Coughing Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam will stop the Cough at once. Go to your druggist to-day and get a sample bottle free. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents. Go at once: delays are dangerous.

That's Why.—"How can you go with Fred Squandret, Laura? He's such a spendthrift." "What if he is? He spends it nearly all on me."—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

A dyspeptic is never on good terms with himself. Something is always wrong. Get it right by chewing Beeman's Pepsin Gum.

More.—The Devotee — "Paderewski is more than a mere pianist." The Philistine —"You bet he is! Why, the duffer must be worth near a million!"—Indianapolis Press.

Thirty minutes is all the time required to dye with PUTNAM FADELESS DYES. Sold by all druggists.

There is one serious objection to establishing communication with Mars. It will inevitably bring on more dialect stories.—The Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

Cheap Rates to California.

February 12th and each Tuesday thereafter, until and including April 30th, Special Low Rate Colonist Tickets will be sold via the Southern Pacific's Company's "Ogden" and "Sunset" Routes to all points in California. The rate will be: From Chicago $30.00, from St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans $27.50, from Omaha, Kansas City, etc., $25.00. Corresponding low rates from all other points east and north.

For particulars and detailed information pertaining to the Southern Pacific Company's Routes, and these special rates to California, call upon or address

W. G. Neimyer, G. W. A., S. P. Co., 238 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.

W. H. Connor, C. A., S. P. Co., Chamber of Commerce Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio.

G. G. Herring, C. A., S. P. Co., 711 Park Bldg., Pittsburg, Pa.

L. E. Townsley, C. A., S. P. Co., 421 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

C. C. Cary, C. A., S. P. Co., 208 Sheidley Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Mostly Bluster—The man who is waging war on the modern prize fight is a regular Don Quixote." "You think so?" "Of course; he's only fighting windmills."—Philadelphia Press.

An Innovation.

The Louisville & Nashville R. R. together with its connecting lines has inaugurated the Florida Limited, which is a daily, solid train, wide vestibuled, steam heated, gas lighted, with dining car service for meals en route to Thomasville, Ga., Jacksonville and St. Augustine, Fla. The sleeper leaving Cincinnati at 11:15 a. m. is attached at Nashville, running via Birmingham and Montgomery, Plant System to Jacksonville, and Florida East Coast to St. Augustine, arriving at the latter city at 7:30 the next evening. Mr. C. L. Stone, General Passenger Agent, Louisville & Nashville R. R., Louisville, Ky., will answer all inquiries concerning this train and furnish printed matter concerning it.

He Looked It.—Fond Father — "Now, when I was a boy I didn't have the advantages you have." Smart Offspring—"And you look it, too, guv'nor." — Ohio State Journal.

A Long, Long Time.

This expression is especially forceful when it relates to the period of a person's illness, and it then has a very dreary sound. When Mrs. A. A. Bailey was living at 858 Bolton Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, she wrote: "My daughter has been troubled with Granulated Sore Eyelids for four or five years. She has now begun to use your Lotion and her eyes are better than for a long, long time." This wonderful remedy if used faithfully will not only relieve, but cure. If your druggist does not keep it, take no substitute, but send to Solon Palmer, 374 Pearl Street, New York, for samples of Palmer's Lotion and Lotion Soap.

When you forget there are others you are nearing a burned bridge. — Atchison Globe.

Hoxsie's Croup Cure,

the life saver of children, cures and prevents Croup, Membranous Croup, Diphtheria, Pneumonia and Whooping Cough. No opium. 50 cents.

No man ever became great and good except through many and great mistakes.—Gladstone.

Lane's Family Medicine.

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

ABSOLUTE SECURITY.

Genuine

Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Must Bear Signature of

Brent Good

See Fac-Simile Wrapper Below.

Very small and as easy to take as sugar.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

FOR HEADACHE.
FOR DIZZINESS.
FOR BILIOUSNESS.
FOR TORPID LIVER.
FOR CONSTIPATION.
FOR SALLOW SKIN.
FOR THE COMPLEXION

Price 25 Cents | GENUINE MUST HAVE SIGNATURE. Purely Vegetable. Brent Good

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

DO YOU COUGH DON'T DELAY TAKE KEMP'S BALSAM THE BEST COUGH CURE

It Cures Coughs Colds, Croup, Sore Throat, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Price, 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

A. N. K.—C 1884

No Smoke House. Smoke meat with KRAUSERS' LIQUID EXTRACT OF SMOKE. Made from hickory wood. Gives delicious flavor. Cheaper, cleaner than old way. Send for circular. E. Krauser & Bro., Milton, Pa.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children

Bears The Signature Of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

The Kind You Have Always Bought

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Puffs under the eyes; red nose; pimple-blotched, greasy face don't mean hard drinking always as much as it shows that there is BILE IN THE BLOOD. It is true, drinking and over-eating overloads the stomach, but failure to assist nature in regularly disposing of the partially digested lumps of food that are dumped into the bowels and allowed to rot there, is what causes all the trouble. CASCARETS will help nature help you, and will keep the system from filling with poisons, will clean out the sores that tell of the system's rottenness. Bloated by bile the figure becomes unshapely, the breath foul, eyes and skin yellow; in fact the whole body kind of fills up with filth. Every time you neglect to help nature you lay the foundation for just such troubles. CASCARETS will carry the poisons out of the system and will regulate you naturally and easily and without gripe or pain. Start to-night—one tablet—keep it up for a week and help the liver clean up the bowels, and you will feel right, your blood will be rich, face look clean, eyes bright. Get a 50c box of CASCARETS, take as directed. If you are not cured or satisfied you get your money back. Bile bloat is quickly and permanently

CURED BY Cascarets LIVER TONIC

BEST FOR THE BOWELS

10c. 25c. 50c.

NEVER SOLD IN BULK.

ALL DRUGGISTS.

CURE all bowel troubles, appendicitis, biliousness, bad breath, bad blood, wind on the stomach, bloated bowels, foul mouth, headache, indigestion, pimples, pains after eating, liver trouble, sallow complexion and dizziness. When your bowels don't move regularly you are getting sick. Constipation kills more people than all other diseases together. It is a starter for the chronic ailments and long years of suffering that come afterwards. No matter what ails you, start taking CASCARETS to-day, for you will never get well and be well all the time until you put your bowels right. Take our advice; start with CASCARETS to-day, under an absolute guarantee to cure or money refunded. 438

GUARANTEED TO CURE: Five years ago the first box of CASCARETS was sold. Now it is over six million boxes a year, greater than any similar medicine in the world. This is absolute proof of great merit, and our best testimonial. We have faith and will sell CASCARETS absolutely guaranteed to cure or money refunded. Go buy today, two 50c boxes, give them a fair, honest trial, as per simple directions, and if you are not satisfied, after using one 50c box, return the unused 50c box and the empty box to us by mail, or the druggist from whom you purchased it, and get your money back for both boxes. Take our advice—no matter what ails you—start to-day. Health will quickly follow and you will bless the day you first started the use of CASCARETS. Book free by mail. Address: STERLING REMEDY CO., NEW YORK or CHICAGO.

Barritt.

As we have not seen a letter in your paper yet from our little town we would be glad if you will print a small one for us.

We have been having plenty of rain and snow. Everyone is wishing for spring.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mason and little son Herbert went to Bayard Sunday to visit friends.

Clay Maloney is laid up with a sore hand.

Samuel Moreland is working for J. B. Bosely.

Mr. Swilk is working on the Bayard tannery.

Charles Decker is going to put a saw mill on Daniel Eggers' tract of land. We wish him success.

We are sorry to state that Mrs. Lukes is not improving in health.

We have some brave men in our town. A few weeks ago a young man came through the town and broke in one of our neighbor's doors with a rock, while the man of the house was lying sick. But we'll venture to say he won't try the same door again. Never fool with a man who has the grip.

Accident.

Another blizzard ending with indications for rain.

E. F. Fuller, of Cumberland, representing the McCormick Harvester Company, was in this community a few days last week looking up the interests of his company.

Mr. John Winters, of Frostburg, is circulating among our farmers and purchasing their fat cattle.

U. S. Mail Superintendent of Washington was in town parts of Monday and Tuesday arranging for the carrying of the mail between this place and Friendsville, beginning July 1, 1901, this route not having been let on a bid.

Miss Georg, of Keyser, is visiting at the "Central."

Our schools closed today (Tuesday) with the exception of an entertainment, which will be given on Saturday night of this week. Extensive arrangements are being made for the same.

Mr. H. J. Speicher, of the firm of Speicher Bros., has been appointed traveler for the Milwaukee Harvester Company.

Mrs. Austin Speicher, who has been confined to her room and bed for sevseveral months past, is up and around again.

Senator Ravenscroft is in Annapolis at this writing.

Miss Sallie Frazee, of Selbysport, who ably filled the position of assistant teacher in our school the past two winters, leaves for home tomorrow. We are sorry to see her go from our midst.

We do not know what has become of the pumpkin correspondent, but presume he has gone with the ground hog, and no doubt will return when pumpkins come again.

Mr. Aaron Boyer raised the frame for his new barn today. Hoffman Bros. are the builders.

Ryan's Glade.

I have not seen anything in your valuable columns for some time from this place.

We are all still living under McKinley prosperity.

The time for sugar making is now here. A jolly time it is, too. The people are well prepared for making sugar.

Mr. Isaac Moon is attending W. E. Harvey's sugar camp this season.

Mr. Isaac Thompson is busily engaged sawing lumber for the people of this community.

Elmer Harvey was at Short Run Sunday.

Rev. Bolten, of this charge, held a quarterly meeting at Blaine Sunday.

Hello! Mr. and Mrs. John Steyer are rejoicing over the arrival of a new daughter.

The Epworth League is prospering under the presidential care of George Steyer and others.

One of T. K. Harvey's cattle got fast in the manger and was severely hurt.

Allen Moon is working for Isaac Thompson.

Rumor says a wedding soon.

Deal & Co. have an order for 140,000 feet of 8x14 to cut 14 feet long.

One of our patriots, J. W. White, is summoned on the jury.

There is need of a new school house at Bear Range before another winter.

ZERO.

Mountain Lake Park.

E. W. Williams and wife, of Clarksburg, W. Va., were visitors at the Park yesterday and rented two cottages for next summer—one for himself and the other for Mrs. Williams' mother.

Miss K. R. Thomas, of Zanesville, Ohio, has rented J. H. Enlow's cottage, now in course of erection.

Messrs. Echard are very much improving their livery stables.

Our merchants are all busy.

T. J. Harris and men are putting up the frame of Frank Arnold's new house.

The interior of the old Auditorium is being remodeled.

The B. & O. section men are putting in a side track at the south end of F street for the steam shovel which will be here in a day or two to commence work on the third track to be put in at this place.

The frame of Harvey Cuppett's new house is up.

Deer Park.

W. B. Griffin was an Oakland visitor Tuesday.

Mr. A. Freeland is visiting friends in Terra Alta and Hutton.

R. Rafter, of Blaine, was in town Sunday.

Messrs. Isaac Cormany and Frank Browning were visiting friends in Swanton Sunday.

Miss Blanche Enlow, of Altamont, is visiting her sister, Mrs. John Speicher.

Roy Thrasher, who has been visiting Washington friends, returned home Friday.

J. H. McRobie was an Oakland visitor Monday.

Miss Bessie Wise spent Sunday with Loch Lynn friends.

Mr. Joseph White, of Oakland, was in town last week.

Mrs. L. Lohm is visiting Grafton friends.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wright, of Altamont, were in town Wednesday.

Messrs. Joseph Lashorn and A. C. George were Swanton visitors Tuesday.

Mrs. Michael Garrett spent Friday with Oakland friends.

A. H. Lohm, of Grafton, spent Sunday with Deer Park friends.

W. B. Miller was a Mountain Lake Park visitor Monday.

"Jack" Enlow, of near Oakland, was in town Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Harvey, who have been visiting friends in Gans, Pa., returned home last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Griffin spent Wednesday with Oakland friends.

Miss Sada Laughlin and cousin, Miss Ella Laughlin, are visiting relatives and friends in Flemington, W. Va.

W. C. Jones was an Oakland visitor last Wednesday.

Mr. Taylor, of Altamont, has been appointed foreman in J. Morrison's place and will move his family into the Flanigan house.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert West, of Barnum, will move into the residence next to the postoffice shortly.

Mrs. Entler and daughter Miss Margarite, of Washington, D. C., are visiting relatives in town.

Mr. S. C. Hoye is on the sick list this week.

Quite a number of our young people attended the protracted meeting at Painter Tuesday evening.

Prof. W. E. Beeghly has charge of the devotional meeting of the Epworth League Sunday evening. A welcome for all. 6.30 o'clock.

The Sunday services in the M. E. church are: Sunday school 10 a. m.; class meeting, 11 a. m.; song service, 2 p. m.; Junior League, 3 p. m.; Epworth League, 6.30 p. m., and preaching by the pastor, Rev. J. S. Harvey, at 7.30 p. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

At the reorganization of the Junior League last Sunday afternoon the following officers were elected: President, Ray Jones; first vice president and superintendent, Emma George; assistant superintendent, Mrs. Sue Dawson; second vice president, May Browning; third vice president, Vada Thrasher; fourth vice president, May Jones; secretary, Amelia Thrasher; treasurer, Nora Specht; blackboard drawings, Job Cormany and Howard Thrasher; lookout committee, Edna Elliott, Lulu Marley, Grace Walters, Margaret Cormany, Helen Laughlin, Bennie Long; organist, Sada Laughlin; choirster, Ella Laughlin.

Bloomington.

School closed Tuesday noon after a session of five months. Prof. Gnegy and his assistant, Miss Cleveland, of Oakland, left for their homes on train No. 55.

The protracted meeting in the M. E. church, after a most successful period of nine weeks, came to a close on last Sunday evening.

A loaded four-foot car broke loose from its hitching when about half way down the Hampshire plane last Tuesday and descended with lightning speed, keeping the track until it reached the bottom, when it made a leap estimated at 150 feet, landing in the middle of the Potomac river. It cleared the tracks of the West Va. Central Ry. In its flight it cut the wires of the telegraph and telephone service and caused considerable inconvenience and delay in sending messages.

The small pox scare at Savage has about abated. No new cases have broken out since the isolation of Buzzard. The quarantine will be raised on the boarding house the latter part of this week if no further trouble occurs.

Work at all the mines in this vicinity has been very brisk during this week.

Mrs. William Brown is visiting relatives in Johnstown, Pa.

Mr. Samuel Hartman, formerly of near Oakland, but the past year a resident of this place, moved his family to Piedmont on last Tuesday.

Mrs. Anna Wright, of Jane Lew, W. Va., and Mrs. Charles Sluss, of Luke, were in town Tuesday visiting relatives and friends.

The infant boy of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Poland is much better and hopes of its recovery are entertained.

Mrs. Thomas Murphy, of Dry Fork, near Floyd, died on last Wednesday night of pneumonia. She leaves a husband and two small children. Rev. Howard, of this place, preached the funeral sermon on Sunday. We understand pneumonia is very prevalent along Dry Fork as four or five other cases are reported.

Mr. George Warnick received a car load of feed this week and the farmers were here in numbers taking advantage of the cheap prices.

The remains of the infant of Mr. and Mrs. Leach, of Gobbler's Knob, were buried in the graveyard at this place on last Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Jessie Harris, accompanied by her little daughter, returned last week from a visit to relatives near Frankville.

Squire Moody is able to attend to business, after going through a stubborn attack of the grip.

Mr. G. C. Pattison was in Cumberland this week on business.

John Miller, the merchant, has had his delivery wagon painted black. It looks like a "Black Mariah."

Dry Run.

I begin by wishing success to the editor and his readers of the new century.

We are having regular March weather. We are greeted with showers, sunshine, ice and mud.

Our school is progressing nicely under the management of Miss Nellie Browning. A good average is reported for a small school—16 pupils enrolled. The weekly average all winter has been 11 4-5. Our school continues till March 26th on account of time lost first term.

At this writing we are glad to state that Mrs. John Murphy and daughter, Miss Grace, who have been confined to their beds with la grippe and pneumonia fever are improving slowly.

Mr. Alonzo Harrison and new bride is visiting his father near this place. They will return to Barnum, W. Va. this week, their future home. The happy couple have the best wishes of the community for their future lives.

Mrs. McClellen Fazenbaker and little son Clyde, of Bloomington, have been visiting Mr. John Murphy, her father for the past week.

The Black Hawk's school closed closed last Wednesday, March 6th, on account of sickness and the average being low.

Mrs. Clara Murphy, (nee Clara Meyers) departed from this world on March 6th, 1901, aged 23 years, 7 months and 19 days. She leaves a husband and two children, a father, mother and two brothers to mourn her loss. The funeral took place on Saturday. It was largely attended by friends and relatives from Frostburg, Lonaconing and other places. Rev. Howard, of Bloomington officiated. Friends and relatives have the sympathy of the community.

Illinois Central R. R.

PERSONALLY CONDUCTED EXCURSIONS TO

CALIFORNIA

VIA NEW ORLEANS

AND THE SOUTHERN ROUTE.

VIA OMAHA

AND THE SCENIC ROUTE

NEW THROUGH LINE OF

HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

BY WAY OF MEMPHIS.

E. A. RICHTER, T. P. A.

812 Park Building, Pittsburg, Pa.

A. H. HANSON, Gen. Pass. Agt., CHICAGO.

$900 YEARLY to Christian man or woman to look after our growing business in this and adjoining counties, to act as Manager and Correspondent; work can be done at your home. Enclose self-addressed stamped envelope for particulrs to U. A. KNIGHT, General Manager, Corcoran Building, opposite United States Treasury, Washington, D. C.

The Garrett County Bank

OAKLAND, MD.

Pays 3 Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Subscribed Capital, - $50,000.00
Liability of Stockholders, 100,000.00
Surplus Fund, - - 10,000.00

DIRECTORS:

DANIEL E. OFFUTT,
GILMOR S. HAMILL,
JOHN M. DAVIS,
GEORGE W. LEGGE,
JOHN T. MITCHELL,
JOHN M. FREELAND,
SCOTT T. JONES.

D. E. OFFUTT, President.
G. S. HAMILL, Vice-President.
S. T. JONES, Cashier.

Authorized Capital $32,000.

The First National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MD.

Now Open for Business

Offers to its patrons every advantage consistent with sound Banking, and which their balances, business and responsibility warrant.

3 per cent. Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

WE SOLICIT YOUR BUSINESS.

DIRECTORS.

Ed A. Browning, - Oakland, Md.
C. E. Ellithorp, - Bittinger, Md.
L. E. Friend, - Friendsville, Md.
Wm. Moody, - Bloomington, Md.
U. G. Palmer, - Hutton, Md.
R. A. Ravenscroft, Accident, Md.
E. E. Sollars, - Oakland, Md.
U. M. Stanton, - Grantsville, Md.
F. A. Thayer, - Oakland, Md.
M. N. Wilson, - Wilson, W. Va.

OFFICERS.

F. A. THAYER, - President.
M. N. WILSON, - Vice-President.
U. G. PALMER, - Cashier.
M. R. HAMILL, Assistant Cashier.

TURNBULL'S Furniture, Carpeting and Curtains.

Elegance, moderate cost and unequalled assortments are the characteristics of our stock. It represents the best of everything in CARPETING, FURNITURE and CURTAINS.

JOHN TURNBULL & CO., 16-18-20 W. Baltimore St., BALTIMORE, MD.

You Get the Profits

Under our plan of selling carriages, buggies, and harness, you get the profits. The jobber and retailer are cut out. By dealing direct with the manufacturer, you pay only the cost of making with a moderate profit added; and you take your choice from the biggest stock and fullest assortment. Our plan of

Selling Carriages Direct

insures satisfaction—your money back if you are dissatisfied. Our complete illustrated catalogue, showing many styles of high grade vehicles, harness, robes, blankets and horse equipments, with detailed descriptions of each, mailed free.

No. 3034—Buggy. Price, $38.30, with leather quarter top.

No. 340—Single Strap Buggy Harness. Price, $7.95.

THE COLUMBUS CARRIAGE AND HARNESS CO., Box 772, Columbus, Ohio.

THE SECOND NATIONAL BANK of CUMBERLAND, MD.

Designated United States Depository.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS. BOXES FREE TO CUSTOMERS.

This Bank Pays Three Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Capital $100,000
Surplus and Other Undivided Profits .. 250,000
Liability of Shareholders 100,000
Additional Security to Depositors .. $450,000

LLOYD LOWNDES, President.
D. ANNAN, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Lloyd Lowndes, O. C. Gephart,
James Clark, L. M. Shepherd,
John Sheridan, A. Hunter Boyd,
David W. Sloan.

Midget Harness Riveter.

Complete repair shop in one tool. Will not wear out. Punches the hole, drives and clinches at one operation. Every horse owner, liveryman, teamster will buy on sight. Does the work of any $25 machine. Complete outfit with big bog of rivets will be sent for

ONLY 50 CENTS.

Agents Wanted.

HANDY ADJUSTABLE LIFTER. Handiest article ever invented for lifting hot pans, stove lids, etc. 15c, postpaid.

S. T. WILSON & CO., Box 103. Wilson, W. Va.

I HAVE PURCHASED THE OAKLAND COAL YARD of Mr. D. L. Conneway and will continue the business. I will keep constantly on hand a large supply of

HARD AND SOFT

COAL,

KINDLING WOOD, Etc.

All orders will receive prompt attention. Leave orders with the weighmaster or at my residence, the Giessman Hotel.

35-2 GEO. GIESSMAN

Oakland Pharmacy

JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.

Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars Cameras and Photo Supplies

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.

183½ acres coal land on Youghiogheny river, 7 miles north of Oakland.

The Andrews property in Oakland for sale. House on 5th street, opposite the jail for sale.

A farm one mile from Oakland, containing 187⅝ acres; about 50 or 60 acres cleared and under cultivation; has been thoroughly limed. Balance of land well timbered. On this farm is one of the best dwelling houses in the county; also stables, wagon sheds, spring house and all necessary outbuildings; water within five feet of kitchen door. This property will be sold cheap.

New house containing eight rooms, cellar, etc., and 26⅝ acres of ground; barn, stable, and all other outbuildings, adjoining the town of Grantsville, Garrett county. This property is known as the Samuel J. Beachy property, and will be sold cheap.

A farm five miles from Oakland on the Aurora road, containing 200 acres, well watered, fenced, etc.; a good dwelling house, a new barn built last year cost $1,000, and all other necessary outbuildings. This property will be sold on easy terms.

A farm 2½ miles southwest of Oakland, containing ninety acres of ground, well watered and fenced; has been thoroughly limed, and is under a high state of cultivation. First-class dwelling house; new bank barn put up this year; stone spring house and all other necessary outbuildings. One hundred and twenty-five bearing fruit trees of choicest variety. This farm can be bought on easy terms.

A farm five and two-third miles north of Swanton, containing one hundred and ten acres of land, comparatively level, well watered and under fence; eighty acres cleared and under a high state of cultivation; twenty-five acres of good timber; an orchard which never fails to produce fruit, consisting of peaches, pears, plums and apple trees. The buildings on this farm consist of an elegant dwelling house, containing six rooms and a cellar; a bank barn 40x60 feet; a spring house and all necessary outbuildings. This farm can be bought for part cash and balance on time to suit purchaser.

A farm known as the "Swanger Mill Property," containing eighty-six acres of land, partly cleared and balance in hemlock timber. The buildings consist of a dwelling house, small storehouse, a water-power grist mill, stable and all other necessary outbuildings. Besides being well watered by a stream running from one end of the place to the other it has on it a lake, covering about seven acres, which has been stocked with 40,000 brook and rain bow trout. This property can be bought at a low figure, part cash and balance on time, to suit purchaser, at five per cent. interest.

I have also houses to rent and sell in the town of Oakland.

For further particulars apply to

JOHN T. SINCELL,
Real Estate and Insurance Agent,
OAKLAND, MD.

J. B. WILLIAMS CO.
FROSTBURG, MD.

Cheapest place to buy

MONUMENTS HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING

Send for prices

LAND FOR SALE!

I am now offering for sale in large or small quantities, 31,000 acres of a tract known as "Swanton," and better known as the "Anderson lands," situated in Garrett County, Md. This land is well timbered and underlaid with many valuable veins of mineral; also suitable for farming purposes and grazing.

All trespassing will be prosecuted to the ullest extent of the law.

Call on or address:

C. A. WILT, Agent.

GEO. FLACK SANSBURY, ARCHITECT,

Office 7 North Liberty St.

CUMBERLAND, MD.

NORMAN S. HEINDEL, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
All business given prompt attention.
Office—Opera House, OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

FRED A. THAYER, ATTORNEY AT LAW, OAKLAND, MD.
STATE'S ATTORNEY FOR GARRETT COUNTY.
Office in McComas's Building, Main St.
Will be assisted in all important cases by Benjamin A. Richmond of the Cumberland bar.

GILMOR S. HAMILL, ATTORNEY AT LAW AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY
OFFICE ON ALDER STREET.
Particular attention given to Conveyancing, investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated. 1614-1y

JULIUS C. RENNINGER, ATTORNEY & COUNSELLOR AT LAW.
Office opposite Bank, OAKLAND, MD.
Will practice in the courts of Maryland and West Virginia.
Real estate and mercantile law given special attention. Collections and investments made for clients. 45—1yr

EDWARD H. SINCELL, ATTORNEY AT LAW, OAKLAND, MARYLAND,
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia. '88 10 6

DR. R. F. BARTLETT, DENTIST.
Office in McComas building, Second Street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work. 18-98-tf.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST, Felty Building, Opposite Postoffice, OAKLAND, MD
GAS ADMINISTERED. 50-97

DR. C. HINEBAUGH, M. D., PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, OAKLAND, MD.
Office and residence, Alder St., west of post office.

DR. W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M. D., PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North 3rd Street.
Office in Shartzer's Block, Second Street.

DR. J. E. LEGGE, PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Prompt attention paid to day or night calls.
Office at McComas' Sanitarium. 16-'99

DR. H. W. McCOMAS M. D., PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, OAKLAND, MD.
Office opposite Garrett County Bank.
Residence on Main Street, opposite Brown's Hotel.
Office hours, 8 to 10 a. m., 2 to 3 p. m., 8 to p. m., from June to October and from October to June, 7 to 8.30 p. m.

DR. D. O. McKINLEY, RESIDENT DENTIST, SALISBURY, PENNA.
Will visit regularly through Garrett county Md., and offers his services to those wishing Dental Treatment. Charges moderate
P. O. address, Elk Lick, Pa. 9 22 6m

E. J. FRANTZ, LICENSED AUCTIONEER,
Residence and P. O. Address, SELBYSPORT, MD.

ANDREW J. HARNE, AUCTIONEER.
Will sell real or personal property.
Residence Oakland, Garrett county, Md
Oakland, Md., Feb. 21st, 1887.

W. McCULLOH BROWN, SURVEYOR AND ENGINEER, LAND SURVEYS PROMPTLY MADE.
Particular attention given to TOWN surveying, and the use of the LEVEL in laying out new roads, streets, water works, drains, and GRADE LINES generally, including tram ways and railroad work. Comparative elevations taken quickly by aneroid barometer. Address, box 41, Oakland, Md. 48 26t*

JONAS C. BEACHY, LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
Will sell Real or Personal Estate.
Residence and post office address, BITTINGER, MD. 51-1yr.

ALEX'R C. MASON, PRACTICAL SURVEYOR, OAKLAND, MD.
Long experience enables me to locate tracts and military lots promptly and accurately. Being thoroughly familiar with the beginning corners of the most important surveys both in Allegany and Garrett counties. Plats, descriptions and estimates furnished. 40-1yr.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R. TIME TABLE IN EFFECT NOV. 25, 1900.

The following time table on the B. & O. went into effect on Sunday, Nov. 25, 1900. Trains now leave Oakland as follows:

GOING WEST.

No. 7.—Daily		2.40 A. M
No. 3—Daily		7.37 A. M
No. 71—Daily except Sunday		9.21 A. M
No. 55—Daily		4.47 P. M
No. 1—Daily		10.45 P. M

GOING EAST.

No. 8—Daily		5.50 A. M
No. 2—Daily		6.53 A. M
No. 46—Express, daily		4.41 P. M
No. 72—Accom daily except Sun		2.26 P. M
No. 12—Daily		8.30 P. M
No. 4—Daily		12.37 A. M

F. D. UNDERWOOD, General Manager
D. B. MARTIN, Manager of Passenger Traffic.
D. M. MASON, Agent.

WEST VIRGINIA CENTRAL AND PITTSBURG RAILWAY CO. IN EFFECT NOV 25, 1900.

SOUTHWARD No. 3	SOUTHWARD No. 1	STATIONS	NORTHWARD No. 2	NORTHWARD No. 4
P. M.	A. M.		NOON	P. M.
3 15†	7 00† lv	Cumberland ar	†12 00	†7 00
3 45	7 29	Rawlings	11 31	6 31
4 06	7 52	Keyser	11 08	6 09
4 16	8 05	Westernport	10 58	5 57
4 20	8 09	W. Va. C. June.	10 51	5 50
4 39	8 35	Shaw	10 28	5 22
5 00	9 00	Harrison	†10 06	†5 00
5 45*	9 50* ar	Elk Garden	*9 16	*4 10
5 41†	9 35† lv	Gorman	†9 35	4 32
5 47	9 42	Bayard	9 29	4 25
5 59	9 54	Dobbin	9 19	4 15
6 02	9 58	Henry	9 15	4 11
6 27	10 27	Thomas	8 48	3 47
6 55	10 55 ar	Davis	8 05	3 05
6 33	10 34 lv	Coketon	8 41	3 40
6 59	11 01	Hendricks	8 10	3 10
7 02	11 04	Hambleton	8 07	3 07
7 05	11 07	Bretz	8 03	3 03
7 08	11 10	Parsons	8 00	3 00
7 43	11 45	Kerens	7 25	2 29
8 00†	12 00† ar	Elkins	lv †7 10	†2 15
	NOON
8 36*	12 45† ar	Beverly	lv*†7 20	†1 40
9 05*	1 10† ar	Huttonsville	lv *6 30	†1 15
P. M.				P. M.
	3 15* ar	Realington	lv	*11 40
	P. M.			A. M. A. M.

†Daily. *Daily except Sunday.

C. L. ERETZ, Gen. Manager. G. W. HARRISON, Gen. Pas. Agent

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 25. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, MARCH 21, 1901. NUMBER 2.

EXPLAINS HIS VOTE.

In a Speech Delivered in the Maryland Senate Last Thursday

Senator Ravenscroft Tells Why He Will Not Support the Measure Disfranchising Forty Thousand Citizens of the State. One of the Best Speeches of the Session.

MR. PRESIDENT:—Unanimous co-operation of the majority members of this body, in solidly opposing every proposed amendment to this bill, which was intended to give more facility and more intelligent understanding to the voter, and to prevent fraud and corruption by election officials, indicates the determination of the representatives of the Democratic party under the party lash to pass this bill. The whole proceeding, commencing with the call of this special session, has been revolutionary, unwarrantable and a discredit to this proud old State. Liberty of conscience and the unobstructed right of franchise have been always claimed as cardinal doctrines and heritages of Maryland citizens. This legislation is in defiance of all the proud boasts of our past history. The claims upon which it is based are false and unworthy of the consideration of a honorable body like this. The pretext that the bill is intended to prevent bribery is a sham and a declaration which it is doubtful any Senator on this floor believes. The press and the public of this State know that this pretext is false. Forty thousand unfortunate voters who are intended to be affected by this law, and who cannot read and write, know already by communication with their neighbors of the purpose of this law and what will be its ultimate results. They know that by indirection and by an evasive process they are to be deprived of the constitutional right which the fundamental law of the State has guaranteed them. They know that they are to be placed in the same category as felons, unpardoned criminals, unnaturalized foreigners and mental imbeciles, and they know that this is being done by force of political dictation from a few ambitious men, who when they have attained, if they shall attain, the end of their personal, selfish, political ambition, will not turn back to shed tears of sympathy or to write epitaphs of glory over the tombs of political oblivion to which some, if not many, of the members of this Legislature will shortly be consigned.

They know that they are placed by this proposed law, and by the pretences made by its champions, before the public with the finger of scorn and infamy and degradation pointed at them and are held up for public view as degraded beings who alone are the subjects of bribery and corruption at elections.

This bill, if enacted into law, will take away the right of franchise from hundreds of our veteran soldiers, many of whom are crippled and burdened with disease, because of their arduous service on behalf of the preservation of the Union and the honor of our national flag. Think of it, my fellow Senators, what an infamous outrage this disfranchisement will perpetrate upon the rights of many of our nation's heroes.

The magnitude, the beauty and grandeur of our country today is due to the unflinching patriotism of these heroic men.

When their country called them into active service, at a time when an awful crisis was pending in this Union, when the dark clouds of secession were hovering over and about us, threatening, as they were, to break down the Union, no man thought to ask them if they could read or write, nor did any man think even for a moment of making inquiry as to their efficiency, manhood and patriotism because of a lack of education. It was not and should not have been done, for they were able to render and did render their country exemplary service upon its battlefields. They have received the plaudits and commendation of a grateful people, from the close of the great civil war up until today, and even now the American heart throbs with emotion and gratitude toward these our veterans. Thus it has been, thus it is, and thus it should be as long as the citizens of this Republic breathe the atmosphere of freemen.

But, oh, what an awful wrong, what a glaring injustice and base ingratitude will be shown toward many of these heroes by legislation of this character! It is unfair, unpatriotic and certainly un-American.

Their misfortunes in illiteracy and lack of learning, no matter how respectable, prosperous or law-abiding they may have been, and may be still, are to be turned into a crucifixtion of their moral righteousness as well as used as an instrument to disfranchise them and exclude them from a voice in the making of laws, which they must obey, and the levying of taxes, which they must help to pay. They know, and we all know, Mr. President, that this law will not obstruct or hinder the bribery and corruption of those who, less honest, less reputable citizens, are able to read and write. Aye, Mr. President, they know, and the whole public will know, that this law, if passed as now proposed in this bill without further amendment, throws wide open the door for unlimited and systematic bribery and places the very machinery for that purpose in the hands of the election officials and in the hands of the party workers of the political party now in control in this State. The unfortunates who are to be effected by this law, as well as the whole State, know that this question has never been presented as an issue to be passed upon at a general election, nor has it been submitted for the calm consideration of a constitutional convention. We are told through the press that his Excellency, the Governor, justifies the call for this session on the ground that it comes by appeal from the people. We have not been advised who are the great people making this appeal other than a few choice spirits in the Democratic party, who under the whip and spur of party management were called and driven into conferences and instructed, many of them against their will and against their conscience, to have appeals and representations made to the Governor to justify him in issuing this call. But, Mr. President, the great body of the people have been heard from in another direction, the metropolitan press of Baltimore city, which certainly seems to, and generally does, voice the popular sentiment, has almost without exception denounced this measure and warned this Legislature of the retribution which will follow and of the vengeance of public condemnation which will be the penalty which must be paid in the near future to those of us who, as public servants, dare abridge the sacred right of franchise. Citizens in public meeting, to the responsive applause of thousands of indignant hearers, have denounced this bill and appealed to this body to stay its mad career in revolution. The illiterate people, in excited groups about the country stores, the village blacksmith shops, upon the farms and in the factories and upon the street corners in the city and in their homes, in their places of social intercourse and even in their churches where they go to worship, have with suppressed excitement and either with abated breath or wildly extravagant declarations protested, criticised and condemned what is about to be done in this Senate today. The wounds of humiliation, of degradation and of infamy which are to be placed on this people, will not be healed during the lifetime of any member of this Senate. The children and the children's children of these citizens who are to be wronged, betrayed and politically crucified, will mark the name and the ambition and business and social aspirations of every one of us who goes upon this record as the one betrayer of the interests of the unfortunate masses. More than this, Mr. President, if the courts should decide, as we are convinced that they must and will decide, that this law is unconstitutional, in what darkened retreat, away from public gaze and sneering criticism and away from the pointing of the finger of pity and scorn, will such of the honorable members of this body as may have, in violation of conscience and judgment, been seduced by party expediency and fidelity, hide themselves away from a storm which will ever be a recurrent one when they have any ambition for future public honors or official recognition. Mr. President, the minority members of this body sought to go upon the record made by this measure, according to their best judgments and the dictates of their conscience, as to their obedience to the constitution and laws of the State; to their oath of office and their duty and obligation to the whole people of the State, irrespective of party or social condition. They will stand proudly upon the record they are now making and will go confidently back to the people of the State feeling profoundly assured of the most absolute and overwhelming vindication and approval. Principle and public duty, a purpose to protect those who are at this hour helpless to defend themselves, and a purpose to maintain the honor, dignity and proud reputation of this old State without any motive of partisanship or party dictation, have been the incentives and the controlling purpose of the members on this side of the House. When the people shall again assemble in convention and at the polls the protest they will enter against the passage of this act will be so loud and strong that it will reverberate throughout the limits of this land. Handicap, manacle and obstruct the illiterate as you may; defraud, deceive and betray them to your utmost, pervert the election machinery to the utmost of the ability of those who manipulate it, for the purpose of fraud, bribery and intimidation, still yet, Mr. President, the sovereign voice of the independence, liberty-loving and fair-minded people of Maryland will sweep from power the party which made possible the opportunity to arbitrarily disfranchise and defraud a large body of our citizens against their constitutional rights. The Legislature which meets here next January will hasten to undo this gigantic wrong and his Excellency the Governor will sign or veto, according to his then construction of what is the voice of the people, a bill which if signed will be another monument marking the pathway of progress, liberty and equal rights in this old commonwealth. There are some Senators on this floor who will come back bearing the garlands of public approval, with the material in their hands to help build that monument. There are some of you, perhaps, who will come back under a changed conviction as to the divine authority of party expediency as formulated by men who have not been chosen by the voting public as the leaders of any party, and you will either help, as converted sinners, to build that monument or you will sit in sullen protest, nursing your own remorse and grieving over your own misfortunes and the misfortune of your party, and you will see this monument being builded and regret that you did not yourselves at this session help to lay its corner stone. The day of its dedication will mark a new and brighter era in the history of this State, and it will be planted over the tomb of political bossism, intolerance and fraud in elections in the State.

Mr. President, in conclusion let me say we shall leave the consideration of this measure, when it shall have been finally settled, with the happy and comforting coviction that we have done our full duty, not to any party or class but to the whole people of this State. We have obeyed the constitution as we saw it. We have fulfilled our official oaths as we construed them. We have protested, appealed, importuned the majority here, not to give us any partisan advantage, but to be fair, honest and undiscriminating as to the rights of every citizen of the State. We have warned the majority of the gathering storm, which is inevitable, and which soon must break. Having performed this duty and having exhausted all our resources to the end of saving the State from discredit and disgrace and a large body of its people from injustice and degredation, we must now leave the responsibility to rest upon the conscience and judgment of every man in this Senate when he casts his final vote.

Your very partisanship should not let you, at such a crisis, leave to your political rivals the necessity of raising the legend which you have cast down. Trust the people! Responsibility elevates the race. Priviliges debarred, rights denied, authority withdrawn, tends to cast down, dwarf and belittle any people. This measure is intended to and will obstruct the inevitable progress of human liberty in the State of Maryland. I will not vote for any measure that has for its object either directly or indirectly the taking away from the people the right of franchise.

SENATOR RAVENSCROFT'S SPEECH

Delivered in the Maryland Senate on Wednesday Last Against the Election Bill.

MR. PRESIDENT:—Considering this measure as a whole and giving the most liberal construction and excuses for its introduction, for the motive which may have prompted it, I am constrained to insist that the gravest consideration to the people of this State and to the members of this Senate is involved in the results and probabilities which are likely to follow from its passage. Until the call of his Excellency the Governor, preceded by some suggestion in the press that an emergency demanded remedial legislation, it must be conceded that the almost universal sentiment of the press approved and commended the most excellent election law of 1896. Opposition to this pending measure is justly founded upon the fact that, while it is pretended to diminish the opportunity for bribery in elections, as a matter of fact to any man skilled in practical politics it is clearly apparent that the facilities for successful bribery are enormously increased in favor of the political party having charge of the election machine in the State. The real object of the bill, frankly conceded by the Democratic press and in individual intercourse by the Democratic leaders and politicians, is the disfranchisement of illiterate voters. The Democratic party has not the courage to make this issue apparent upon the face of this bill, hoping to escape the obstruction of constitutional law. Every device possible to conceal the practical intent intended to be executed by the law has been ingeniously covered by cunning phraseology with a view to make the law pass muster in the courts. The provisions of the bill itself were concealed from the public and the press until after the meeting of this Legislature, and now this Senate is asked without free and full opportunity to weigh all the conditions and results which will follow such legislation to rush this measure through without mature deliberation. If fairness and honesty are intended by this bill, why authorize the supervisors of election to exclude from the public full knowledge in advance of the groupings and order in which the candidates' names will be placed on the ballot? Why invest irresponsible messengers instead of the policemen of Baltimore and the sheriffs of the counties, who are sworn officers of the law and subject to its penalties, with the custody and delivery of the ballot boxes, to the judges of election? Why not require the present legal identification of the voter by his signature, recorded at the time of registration, or have knowledge of the fact that he is an illiterate by reason of that record? Why exclude from candidates and public advertisement a frank and fair notice in advance of the election of the exact arrangement of the ballot before the day of election? Experience has proven under the simplest forms of ballot that men of even more than moderate intelligence are frequently embarrassed in attempting to vote other than a straight party ticket. If your law intends to prevent bribery by the scheme now proposed it assumes practically that the illiterate and unfortunates are the only class that are bribed and purchased at elections. Mr. President, the Democratic party has posed and masqueraded for years in this State as the champion and defender of the rights of the plain people. It now displays its cloven foot, and through this proposed legislation puts a discount upon misfortune, a degradation upon the worthy man, who, coming from humble origin and meagre fortune or coming as an adopted citizen of this country without knowledge of language or letters, and humiliates the more fortunate sons and relatives of unfortunate parents who cannot read and write by tearing away from them their constitutional right of franchise. Is this Senate prepared to stand for the principle of taxation without representation, or is it prepared to excuse the non-voter from the burden of general taxation? Is it prepared to excuse the illiterate from obedience to the laws, criminal and civil, in the making of which he is to have no voice if this bill becomes a law? If not, then the declaration of rights of this State, our constitution and our pretext of championship of individual liberty are frauds and a false pretence upon our people. Will each individual Senator in this body assume the responsibility of answering first to his conscience, secondly to his constitutional oath and thirdly to his constituents, and justify himself before God and man in voting for the passage of this bill? My brother Senators, for one I stand here as the champion of the plain people. The more fortunate classes can take care of themselves. There is now threatening in the near future a revolution by the ballot of the masses of the people against the autocracy of corporate greed and political combination of ambitious bosses. I warn you that the day of reckoning is not far distant, when the thunders of malediction and the tidal wave of political oblivion will overwhelm the men who attempt to stand in the way of the great tide and the power of the ballot in the hands of the plain but honest voter, who will not be driven by political machines nor party bosses. There are gentlemen on this floor who must realize, if they are not blind, by the experience of the past six years that they are going to their political graves as a sacrifice to the ambition of a few men who will not be able to save them and who probably would not if they could after they have defiantly or subserviently loaned themselves to the revolutionary proceedings in which this Legislature is now engaged. When the day of disaster and defeat shall come the forces which are now driving some gentlemen unwillingly and reluctantly to their political destruction will be powerless to save or console, and the very instruments which are now sought to be used to perpetuate the power of a few men will be turned, wielded in the hands of a strong and gigantic majority, against those who have sought to make it a means of renewed political power and personal advantage. If this bill is an emergency requirement now, why was it not so one year ago? If it is righteous and just, why not submit it to the voice of the people at the next general election as the basis of a constitutional amendment? Failing to do this, the supporters of this measure must rest under a fear that they would not be vindicated by a popular vote of the free men of this State who have under the constitution and without question heretofore had the right of franchise and have been compelled to pay their taxes and obey the laws.

STATE SENATOR R. A. RAVENSCROFT.

MR. LOWNDES TALKS.

The Ex-Governor Has Something to Say About the Extra Session.

Ex-Governor Lowndes, speaking of the proposed disfranchisement law which the extra session of the Maryland legislature is expected to enact, says:

"During the campaign of 1899 I said that if the Democratic party was successful it would make a change in the election laws looking to the disfranchisement of many of our colored people; the Democrats claimed that if the Republicans continued in power, negro domination would prevail. The independent Democratic voter, who for years had been fighting the ring was told that the ring was defeated in 1895 and could never come to life again, and therefore if he did not help now to save the party negro supremacy would have full sway in Maryland. By the aid of some Republicans, some of whom the Democrats now seek to disfranchise, who for various reasons refused to support the Republican candidates and by the votes of some independent Democrats, the State was lost to the Republicans and the Democrats came back to power. An extra session of the General Assembly will convene this week, called for the purpose of changing the election laws, and providing for the taking of a new census. I do not know, the public does not know, what changes the Democratic party proposes to make. From the talk of the leaders and from their party press, we are led to believe that many Republicans who voted with the Democrats in 1899 have cast their votes for the last time, and that the independent voters will never again have a potential voice in deciding the results of an election law in this state. The same men who controlled and directed the Democratic party for the 20 years preceeding 1895 are now at the head and front of the movement for an extra session, and for the passage of laws to disfranchise the illiterates. Bearing in mind the fraudulent methods resorted to, to carry, or rather to count, an election in times past, any legislation suggested by them as effecting the methods of election, will be naturally viewed with suspicion. The present election law is as fair a one as can well be devised; both parties are represented, not as formerly, under the old Democratic law, merely nominally so, but the minority party now has a representative of its own selection. The probabilities are that those who relied so much on the count, rather than upon the cast of the ballots in times past, will see to it in the enactment of a law that their former successful practices may be repeated. Whenever the will of the people has been throttled by legislation of the character proposed, there has always been a revulsion of sentiment, and the same will follow in this State.

"The taxpayers will see a cost of $100,000 added to the expenses of the State; his taxes increased; his fellow citizen disfranchised and the independent voter eliminated."

Died.

BROWN.—Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, widow of the late Hanson Brown, died at her home at Avilton, this county, on Sunday afternoon, after an illness of about ten days, of pneumonia, aged 72 years. She was interred by the side of her husband in the old Blocher cemetery on the old Bradford road about six miles west of Frostburg. Her husband, who was a prominent farmer, died in 1881. They had eleven children—five sons and six daughters—all living except two of the sons. She was a daughter of the late John Blocher, very well known in his day in old Allegany county. She leaves several brothers, Hon. George W. Blocher being one. Her sisters have all been dead some years. The deceased was a woman of great energy and courage. Withal she possessed a kind and generous nature. Her friendship was in store for all who were worthy, consequently she was much liked.

Notice.

This is to give notice that my wife, Alice L. Hardesty, has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation and that I will not be responsible for any debts she may contract in my name.

2-3t* HOMER L. HARDESTY,
Deer Park, Md.

Seaboard Air Line Railway, Mileage Tickets Reduced.

One thousand mile tickets, good over the whole system of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, including the State of Florida, are sold at $25.00, previously sold in Florida at $30.00, and are honored between Washington and Richmond, and by the Baltimore Steam Packet Company between Baltimore and Portsmouth, over "Bay Line."

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN.

GARRETT COUNTY COURT.

William R. Offutt Admitted to the Bar. Scott T. Jones Foreman of the Grand Jury—The Term Will Be Short.

The March term of the Circuit Court for Garrett county commenced Monday with Chief Judge Boyd on the bench. William R. Offutt, son of D. E. Offutt, was admitted to the bar, having previously passed the examination and been admitted as a practitioner in the Court of Appeals of Maryland.

Scott T. Jones, cashier of the Garrett County Bank, was appointed foreman of the grand jury, and the following named persons were drawn to serve as grand jurors: S. C. Smith, J. L. Richter, Truman Pysell, John Close, W. D. Collier, Jonas Weitzell, John D. Ashenfelter, Ed. Hall, R. C. Townshend, George W. Blamble, W. J. Barnard, J. L. Echard, R. W. Morehead, J. M. White, Jonas Bittinger, U. G. Palmer, Ira J. Durst, Columbus Paugh, F. M. Conneway, Joseph W. Cogley, Thomas Harne, Howard M. Miller. Judge Boyd delivered the usual charge to the grand jury and then called over the several dockets and made proper entries. There are thirty-four cases on the original docket. Six of these were entered settled. There were fourteen cases on the appeal docket. Two of them were entered settled, four marked for trial and seven postponed until June next. There are sixty-four trials; four were dismissed, three stetted, seven marked for trial, one continued and the others postponed until June, when a speceial term will be held to try them.

Julius Rogers pleaded guilty to selling liquor without license and was fined $50 and costs in each case. Four other cases against the same party for the same offense were dismissed by the State upon payment of costs by the traverser.

Mary Wilt pleaded guilty to an indictment for larceny. Sentence was suspended until March, 1902.

Judge Boyd left Monday afternoon to attend the Court of Appeals.

There are very few persons in attendance and the term will be very short.

Judge Stake came up from Hagerstown Monday evening and was on the bench Tuesday. The appeal docket was taken up and quickly disposed of as follows:

A. M. Frazee vs. S. P. Specht, dismissed for non-payment of costs; Hamill—Semmes.

John McRobie vs. Cuppett & Feather. Three cases; all dismissed for non-payment of costs; Renninger—Hamill.

The trial docket was taken up.

No. 31, E. E. McCloskey vs. G. A. Shirer. Demurrer to replication was argued and submitted. Held sub curia.

Nos. 45, 55 and 56, Mary Hammond et al. vs. C. Spangler, A. C. Butler and Zack Sybert, respectively; demurrer to plea of defense on equitable grounds argued and submitted.

The greater portion of yesterday was taken up with the replevin case of Helferstay vs. Reynolds. The plaintiff purchased the Reynolds saloon on Railroad street in Oakland from trustees who had been appointed to sell the real estate of the late Bernard Reynolds. After the sale John Reynolds, the tenant of the property, removed his bar and bar appliances to another building which he had secured. Helferstay replevied the bar and fixtures, claiming they passed to him as part of the realty. The case was tried before the Court and a verdict rendered for the defendant, who proved that he had purchased the articles in controversy with his own money. Semmes and Hamill for plaintiff, Williams for defendant.

State vs. Jacob Hoffman for selling liquor without license; two indictments; plea of guilty in one case and sentenced to jail for twenty days. The other case dismissed.

State vs. Harry Saylor; highway robbery; trial before the Court; guilty; Thayer—Sincell.

The Oakland Normal.

The Oakland Normal will open on April 8th and continue for a term of ten weeks. All wishing a thorough normal training are cordially invited to attend. Special attention will be given to the common school branches and theory and practice of teaching. Any wishing to study Latin or the higher branches can do so. We have secured the services of a competent assistant and together expect to make this one of the best normals in the county. Tuition—$6 for first grade, $5 for second grade. Good boarding can be obtained at $2.50 per week and upwards.

For further particulars address
52-3t. A. W. DEWITT, Hoyes, Md.

If you want a vehicle of any kind at a low price and good terms buy now from A. D. Naylor, who has just received two full cars of vehicles and one car of machinery. 1-3t*

An Unconditional Surrender

By WELLESLEY PAIN.

SCENE—A dimly-lit conservatory attached to the house of Mrs. James Manley. In the center is a group of palms and ferns, hiding a doorway in the middle of the back of the stage. The time is 11:30 p. m. during a dance.

Characters—James Manley; Capt. Arthur Norman, of the King's Own Yeomanry, lately returned from the front; Muriel Wilton.

Arthur Norman (walks on L. as the curtain rises. He appears to be looking for some one, but, as a matter of fact, he has come there for a smoke and wishes to make quite sure that he is alone before sitting down. He takes out his cigarette case, and is about to open it when James Manley walks on quickly from the back. He stops suddenly on seeing Arthur Norman. Then—

Manley—My dear Norman, where have you been to? I've been looking for you everyhere, and—

Norman—And in the supper-room? Did you go there?

Manley—Well—no. I thought supper wasn't in your line—I mean your ilness was—

Norman—Oh—er—bother the illness. I'm all right—and I never lost my appetite, either. It's only you people who live in London that can't eat. But what have you been looking for me for? To bring me a cigar (holding out his hand). Thanks — er — it's awfully thoughtful of you, old man. Come—out with it.

Manley—My dear Norman, you didn't come here to smoke cigars, and you know it. (With mock gravity.) This is a serious matter, sir. Out of the goodness of her heart my wife invites you for a dance, and you spend your time smoking! Don't you know you're the lion of the evening—the returned hero—the envy of the men and the pride of all the girls, the people's idol, the—?

Norman (who is obviously pleased by the compliment but pretends not to be)—Shut up, old man, shut up. I'm getting sick of that sort of thing—I am, really. My wrist still aches from that hand-shaking business as we came up from the station—absurd rot. Why on earth should a couple of million people—absolute strangers—want to shake hands with me?

Manley—I don't know—perhaps some of 'em wanted to shake hands with another fellow, but, not being able to get near enoupgh to him, thought you'd do instead. But we're wasting valuable time. Come and dance.

Norman—Me dance? Thanks, but you know I don't dance; not in my line.

Manley—Why not? Soldiers do dance sometimes, you know.

Norman—But you'll excuse me, won't you?

Manley—Well, if you won't dance, come and see and be seen. Come and show yourself. What's the good of my wife having a lion of the evening if the lion goes and hides himself in (looking around the place)—er—in the jungle? Come out, Mr. Lion, in the open, and we'll soon do for you.

Norman—There—that's it — that's what you brought me here for—in order that I might be induced to propose to some pretty girl whose enthusiasm for soldiers—er—is—er—

Manley—Don't you make any mistake, my dear Norman. The girls are not all so enthusiastic over you bronzed heroes as you think.

Norman—You say that because you're not a bronzed hero—you're only married. Time will prove whether you are a hero or a martyr.

Manley—Skittles!

Norman—It's a fact.

Manley—Well, you're not a proper sort of hero or you wouldn't talk like that. Your true hero thinks all women perfect. He accepts their adulation with becoming modesty, and in due course marries the best of them.

Norman—Well, I do not think all women are perfect, and their adulation is an annoyance. I haven't met a woman since I've been back who hasn't fallen in love with me. You may say that's conceit—

Manley—I do.

Norman—But it's true.

Manley—Not a bit of it. All the women aren't in love with you soldiers. Some of them are perhaps taken in with the novelty of the thing, and think that a soldier is the perfect type of man—but I shouldn't say they're in love.

Norman—I tell you, my dear Manley, that if I hadn't checked them in time five women would have proposed to me—at different times—last week.

Manley—Well, supposing you have a change. I'll introduce you to a nice little woman—well, she's only a girl—who will not only not be in love with you, but will not have the faintest intention of schooling herself to love you. Extraordinary, isn't it. You haven't met Muriel Wilston, have you?—a friend of my wife's.

Norman—Yes, I know her—nice girl—pretty girl; but somehow—there's something—

Manley (laughing)—Everyone says that about Muriel. She isn't quite the conventional sort of girl, that's all.

Norman—Seemed to me rather rude at times—a trifle too school-girlish—but still—she's interesting—very interesting, and there—

Manley (looking off left)—And there she is (they both look in the same direction). When she's quite finished talking to that nice young man with the long hair I'll capture her for you.

Norman—No—er—don't—thanks.

Manley—But you said she was was interesting. Norman, this is a bad sign. You should never be afraid of meeting the enemy in the open, you know. I'll guarantee that Muriel won't fall in love with you, so don't alarm yourself; in fact, you'll find her a splendid cure for that pride of yours, Norman—the pride that makes you think all women are head over ears in— Wait half a—(runs off L).

Norman—No—don't go. I'll come and dance. I'll—oh hang, he's bringing her back.

(Enter Manley, with Muriel Wilton. She is a pretty little woman, with a charming girlish manner.)

Manley (to Muriel)—I think you've met Capt. Norman before, Muriel?

Norman (awkwardly)—Miss Wilton has had the pleas—I mean I have had the pleasure — er — the pleasure—(They bow, smiling).

Manley (to Muriel)—Do you think you can amuse a wounded warrior, Muriel, until I come back to take him off your hands. He doesn't dance because he's wounded—that's what he says—but it's only an excuse for laziness.

Muriel—I am sure Capt. Norman couldn't be lazy. A man who has done—(Manley and Norman exchange meaning glances)—er—who has done—a six-mile walk by himself this afternoon doesn't deserve to be called lazy. (Manley goes out, Norman looks rather gloomy.)

Manley—I retire—conquered. (Exit L. Muriel and Norman sit down.)

Norman—I didn't see you during my walk this afternoon, Miss Wilton.

Muriel—No! Well, you see, I was learning to ride a bicycle. Of course I ought to have learnt years ago—when it was fashionable—but I wouldn't begin then.

Norman—Just because you didn't want to do the conventional thing, eh?

Muriel—I don't know. I am afraid I never stopped to think about it. I haven't thought about anything except the bicycle since I had it. I can't—it takes up all my time—

Norman—But how was it you didn't overtake me this afternoon if you were riding?

Muriel—Excuse me. I didn't say I was riding. I said I was learning to ride. That's quite different, and makes you very tired.

Norman—I'm sorry you didn't catch me up. I might have helped you.

Muriel—Thanks. I did nearly catch you up once, and I rang my bell hard—so hard, in fact, that I had to get off my machine to do it properly; but you didn't look round. You were deep in thought—

Norman—Yes, I was. You know in Splogerton, where I live, there was such a crush when our fellows came home that they couldn't march, and they asked me to devise some scheme for keeping the women—the people—back when the next contingent arrives. I was thinking out a plan this afternoon.

Muriel—Are the women such a terrible nuisance, then?

Norman—Well—er—yes—er—so impulsive, you know. Break up the ranks. All that sort of thing.

Muriel—Poor women! I'm glad I'm not like that.

Norman—It isn't right, you know.

Muriel—No. I can understand that a man who has—er—received a kiss from a woman without asking for it, might—er—mistake the impulse of the moment for—er—something else. That would be a pity.

Norman—Don't you think it usually is—er—something else when soldiers are concerned?

Muriel—Most decidedly not. Soldiers mustn't run away with that idea. Women are grateful and enthusiastic, and rather hysterical. That's all. They are certainly not in love with the soldiers they rave over.

Norman—You don't think so?

Muriel—Sure of it.

Norman (getting a trifle nearer Muriel, and speaking in a lower tone)—Is it possible, Miss Wilton, that the enthusiasm we have heard so much about is not real?

Muriel—Not all of it. I've no doubt some of it is. If you have a brother—or—a—husband, you naturally feel glad to see him back safe and sound; but then I haven't a brother—or a husband—in the army—I mean I haven't a brother—and, of course, you know—(their eyes meet, and she blushes furiously).

Norman—Yes, it must be nice to have some one looking out for you—when you come back—some one who really cares—some one—

Muriel—But I thought you had a sister, Capt. Norman?

Norman—Oh, but sisters don't count—they look out for some one else's brothers, I suppose.

Muriel—That's not fair on the sisters.

Norman—Oh, but they do.

Muriel—Well, the next time there's a war, and you go out, I'll look out for you when you come back.

Norman—You will? That's good of you to say that.

Muriel—Is it? From what I've heard, I thought that—

Norman—Yes?

Muriel—I—er—hardly know—I mean that (looking on the ground) I was told there were others who—er—looked out for you this time, and I thought p'raps—

Norman—I'm going to ask you to do something. You've told me you're not in love with soldiers. I want you—to try and be in love with one of them—who is—ever so much—in love—with you. (He draws her near him and kisses her.)

Muriel (in a low whisper)—I said—that—because Mr. Manley told me you thought every woman was in love with you. (Looking up and speaking coolly.) He was all wrong, wasn't he? You don't want—anyone else.

Norman—Muriel!

Muriel—I'm so glad.

Norman—But why did you tell me you weren't in love with soldiers?

Muriel (with a smile)—Because—I was only in love with—one of them.

(They embrace and the curtain falls slowly).—Madame.

FUNNY FOLKS

A Husband's Guile.

She—After dinner, John, I want to have a good, long, serious talk with you.

He—Look here, darling, would you mind writing it all down? Tell you what! Make it a dialogue; you can easily put in my part, too, you know.

She—But, John—

He—Oh, don't pretend, dear! You have a gift that way. And I'll read it down at the office in the morning.—Brooklyn Life.

Corroborative Evidence.

"I see that a Chicago scientist has discovered that salt will prolong life."

"Yes, and I saw somewhere the other day a statement that there are statistics which prove women to be longer lived than men. This bears out the salt theory."

"I don't see how."

"Look at the way women eat pickles."—Chicago Times-Herald.

A Brasswood Corners "Blase."

"They say," observed the grocer as he carefully wrapped up half a dozen herrings, "that Lige Barclow blacks his boots every Sunday."

"Yes," replied Uncle Grouty, "he's a perfect roo, a reg'lar Lothario. I tell ye, so many of our young men fallin' into the enervatin' vortex of fashion don't argue very well fer the perpetuity of the race."—Judge.

Of Paramount Importance.

"Supposing," he said, "that we really could get to communicating with Mars, what, in your opinion, is the first thing we ought to say to the people on that planet?"

"Well," he replied, "we might ask them if they have solved the servant girl problem, and, if so, how."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Like One Once.

"That fellow is a bird," said the admiring stranger as he looked after the fresh young man.

"Not now," replied the native, "but there was a time when your description might have been justified."

"When was that?"

"The night we tarred and feathered him about a year ago."—Chicago Post.

Then He Dodges.

Who says I cannot meet my bills?
Of libels that's the worst!
Why, sirs, I meet them every day—
Unless I see them first.
—Philadelphia Press.

GIRL LOVE AGAIN.

"He says I sing more beautifully than any girl he knows. What do you think of that?"

"I think he should extend his acquaintance."—Boston Globe.

Promised Immunity.

I find a dainty, scented note from Grace
Within my morning mail. It runs like this:
"Stolen, last night, from its abiding place
Upon two lips, a rather hurried kiss!
To owner known is he who dared to steal;
Yea, long in her affections he has basked.
So, if no later than this evening he'll Return the same, there'll be no questions asked."
—Detroit Free Press.

Amateur Theatricals.

Mrs. Montauk (at amateur theatricals)—I should enjoy amateur theatricals more if the actors had a little more self-assurance.

Mr. Montauk—Yes; that seems to be monopolized by the people who solicit you to buy the tickets. — Brooklyn Eagle.

Convenient Memory.

"Old Grabb says he always remembers the poor," remarked Mrs. Goodart.

"Yes," replied Mr. Goodart, "but he can't remember more than one thing at once. When he remembers the poor he forgets his pocketbook, and vice versa."—Philadelphia Press.

The Wise Observer.

"I have noticed," remarked the Observer of Events and Things, "that the more a girl thinks of a young man the longer she takes to fix her hair when he calls; and the more the young man thinks of the girl the more the girl's hair needs fixing."—Yonkers Statesman.

Family Pride.

"I suppose you take a great deal of pride in your business."

"No," answered Mr. Cumrox. "I used to take pride in my business, but ma and the girls don't approve of it. The only thing we take pride in now is my daughter's husband's pedigree."—Washington Star.

Extent of His Experience.

"Have you ever had your horoscope cast?" the Boston girl asked.

"No," said the man from St. Louis, "but I had my vermiform appendix cut out."—Chicago Times-Herald.

For His Relief.

"I cannot stand your indifference," he said.

"Have a chair," she replied.—Philadelphia North American.

Completely Lost.

"I have just been reading an interesting story of two men who were lost in the snow while shooting in Scotland," said the beautiful Miss Hickins. "Were you ever lost, Mr. Tubbs?"

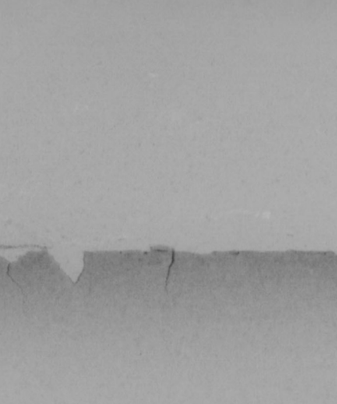
"Once."

"When?"

"When I first saw you I was lost in admiration, and I may add that I have not since been found."

The banns have been twice called.—Tit-Bits.

A GOOD EXPLANATION.



He—It seems to me your mother does not intend to return to her home again!

She—You see, dear, she cannot stand riding backwards!—Heitere Welt.

Reward.

Life is a conflict; battle well while here—
You'll get your pension in some calmer sphere.
—Detroit Free Press.

Faith Shattered.

She—Do you believe that everything in this world is worked out according to a prearranged plan?

He—No. I put $500 into a mining scheme several years ago because friends gave me a chance to get in on the ground floor, and I guess it's never going to work out at all.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Method in His Madness.

Dumley—Well, say, the boss must be gittin' nutty. Of course, you knowed I was after one of them there consulships. Well, he said they was only one open, and he couldn't get me that because I couldn't speak the language.

Cumley—That so? Where was it?

Dumley—Somewhere in England.—Philadelphia Press.

A Question of Honor.

"Young man," said the young lad's father, "you have boasted several times that you possess an honored name."

"Yes, sir," replied the suitor, haughtily.

"Well, may I inquire what bank it will be honored at, and for how much?"—Tit-Bits.

Miss Cayenne's Candor.

"What did you think of that farewell speech of mine?" said the orator.

"Well," answered Miss Cayenne, "to be candid, I couldn't quite make up my mind whether it ought to be referred to as a swan song, or as merely one of the customary cackles."—Washington Star.

Lights Out at Eleven.

Parent (severely)—You sat up with young Spooner until a most indecorous hour last night, Matilda.

Matilda—But I love him! He is the light of my life!

Parent (testily)—But you know my rule! He is a light that must be put out at 11 o'clock.—Tit-Bits.

All Kinds and Conditions.

Oh, it takes a lot o' people foh to make dis worl' go roun',
An' dar ain' much use complainin' 'bout de task dat you has foun'.
Some folks in orter-mo-beels kin go ridin' when it's fair,
An' some mus' haul de rocks an' keep de roadway in repair.
—Washington Star.

GETTING BACK AT HIM.

Old Gotrox—I couldn't listen to it! Why, my daughter would starve!

Impecunious Suitor—If I thought you would allow that, sir, I would at once abandon all thought of entering your family.—Chicago Chronicle.

The Interview.

He said to her no foolish words
That he would fain recall;
For she, in truth, talked on so fast
He got no chance at all.
—Chicago Record.

Rather a Foot.

Mrs. Browne—I don't see how you can read your husband's letters at all, he writes such a peculiar hand.

Mrs. Malaprop—His chiropody is queer, but I'm used to it.—Philadelphia Press.

BEST SPRING MEDICINE.

The Palm Given to Dr. Greene's Nervura.

That Grand Jury, the People, Have So Decided.

Used by Hundreds of Thousands in Spring as a Blood Medicine.

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is indeed "the World's Great Spring Medicine." It has come to be recognized by almost everybody as the best possible spring medicine to take, and hundreds of thousands of our people use it during the trying spring months, to tone up anew the relaxed nerves, and re-invigorate and enrich the blood.

A spring medicine is a necessity if one wishes to keep in perfect health and vigor during the changes from winter to summer. This grand spring tonic, this perfect spring medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, is exactly what the system needs at this season. It not only purifies, but makes rich, red blood; it not only strengthens and invigorates the nervous system, but re-energizes and revitalizes the nerves by feeding them with renewed nerve force and power. It is not only an aid to digestion, but it creates a regular, natural and healthy action of the bowels, liver, kidneys, which in the spring are always sluggish and inactive.

In fact, it is just what people need to make them well and keep them well during these months, so threatening to the health of all, and when it is considered that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is made entirely from pure, health-giving vegetable remedies, and that people give it more testimonials of cure than any other remedy on earth, no one can doubt that it is the very best spring remedy for everybody to use.

Mr. Gustave Lelbach, of 337 First St., Jersey City, N. J., says:—

"I was troubled with sick headaches, and could not sleep on account of the pains in my head. I was suffering night and day with dyspepsia, could not eat anything, my stomach would sour so. I had to starve myself to have any case. I had to give up work at last, I was so nervous and miserable, and I was falling away in flesh so that my friends hardly knew me. I tried several remedies, but without avail. At last someone recommended Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I tried one bottle and began to improve. I started in to eat all right; then I picked up my health; my headaches disappeared, and my weakness and sour stomach went away. I used three bottles, and could sleep all night with ease; I used six bottles, and felt like a new man. I can now do a hard day's work without any trouble, and I am as happy as a bird in spring. I was so miserable, always suffering, always in pain, but now I am like a new man."

Use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy this spring, for it is the discovery and prescription of a well-known physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th St., New York City, who is responsible for its beneficial action, and who can be consulted free of charge, personally or by letter.

RICH ORE IN PIKE'S PEAK.

Mining Company Well Paid for Boring Nine Hundred Feet Into Mountain.

The first strike of any importance ever made on Pike's peak is the one just discovered in the tunnel of the Oil Creek Mining company of Cincinnati. The mountain has been prospected for years and is supposed by many to be the starting point of the rich leads found in Cripple Creek, but surface work has never disclosed any ore. By running a tunnel into the very heart of the mountain, however, the Oil Creek company has opened a three-foot vein of $80 ore and pockets carrying fabulous values. The tunnel is now in 900 feet under Pike's peak. Work was begun in March, 1896. At the time there was no ore in sight, and nothing but a theory to warrant the expenditure of money. George H. Bohrer, president of the German national bank of Cincinnati, is also president of the Oil Creek Mining company, George Kreis is secretary and J. R. Pictou is treasurer.

The utmost secrecy is maintained by the interested parties.

His Stock in Trade.

"Can't you afford to wear better clothes than those?" asked the sympathetic woman of the street beggar, as she eyed his tattered garments.

"No, ma'am, I really can't," was the mendicant's reply; "these togs is what I beg in."—Yonkers Statesman.

Passed the Age Limit.

Miss Oldgirle—Oh, did you say I was a croquette or a coquette?

Mr. Sourdrop—A croquette

"What a strange mistake! Whatever made you say 'croquette?'"

"Because they don't make croquettes out of spring chickens."—Baltimore American.

The Very Latest.

Customer—Here's a piece of goods that should make nice trousers, but the stripes don't appear to be straight. They're curved, aren't they?

Tailor—Yes, they curve outward, you notice. That cloth is designed especially for bow-legged gents.—Philadelphia Press.

How It Was Done.

Freshleigh—Pray, how did you become ossified?

Ossified Man—In my youth I was nice and soft like you; when I grew up and realized what a cruel world this is, I became hardened.—Ohio State Journal.

Clinging Gowns.

Mrs. Church—Did you say your husband liked these clinging gowns?

Mrs. Gotham—Yes; he likes one to cling to me about four seasons.—Yonkers Statesman.

The Fiances.

She—What did papa say when you asked him, Bertie?

Bertie—He said: "This is so sudden!"—Puck.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY,

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the city of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of One Hundred Dollars for each and every case of catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. GLEASON, [Seal] Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

"There's a lesson in that would-be western epicure who died after eating six pigs' feet." "What is it?" "That four feet are enough for any pig."—Philadelphia Times.

There Is No Death

from Croup, Pneumonia and Diphtheria, if Hoxsie's Croup Cure is used promptly. No opium to stupefy the brain. No ipecac to nauseate the stomach. Sold by druggists. 50 cents. A. P. Hoxsie, m'f'r, Buffalo, N. Y.

Jack—"Did Miss Withers make him wait for an answer?" Arthur—"Yes; it was 15 minutes before they could bring her to."—Town Topics.

Coughing Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam will stop the Cough at once. Go to your druggist to-day and get a sample bottle free. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents. Go at once: delays are dangerous.

"So the poet is financially embarrassed?" "I should say so. Why, he actually has to eat breakfast foods for dinner."—Philadelphia Record.

A Remedy for the Grippe.

Physicians recommend KEMP'S BALSAM for patients afflicted with the grippe, as it is especially adapted for the throat and lungs. Don't wait for the first symptoms, but get a bottle to-day and keep it on hand for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the grippe brings on pneumonia. KEMP'S BALSAM prevents this by keeping the cough loose and the lungs free from inflammation. All druggists, 25c and 50c.

The man who is wedded to his art usually has Poverty for his mother-in-law.—Town Topics.

There Is a Class of People

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

Genius can only breathe free in an atmosphere of freedom.—John Stuart Mill.

It is easy to recover from another man's adversity.—Ram's Horn.

HELP FOR WOMEN

WHO ARE ALWAYS TIRED.

"I do not feel very well, I am so tired all the time. I do not know what is the matter with me."

You hear these words every day; as often as you meet your friends just so often are these words repeated. More than likely you speak the same significant words yourself, and no doubt you do feel far from well most of the time.

Mrs. Ella Rice, of Chelsea, Wis., whose portrait we publish, writes that she suffered for two years with bearing-down pains, headache, backache, and had all kinds of miserable feelings, all of which was caused by falling and inflammation of the womb, and after doctoring with physicians and numerous medicines she was entirely cured by

MRS. ELLA RICE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you are troubled with pains, fainting spells, depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere, headache, backache, and always tired, please remember that there is an absolute remedy which will relieve you of your suffering as it did Mrs. Rice. Proof is monumental that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the greatest medicine for suffering women. No other medicine has made the cures that it has, and no other woman has helped so many women by direct advice as has Mrs. Pinkham; her experience is greater than that of any living person. If you are sick, write and get her advice; her address is Lynn, Mass.

DO YOU COUGH
DON'T DELAY
TAKE KEMP'S
BALSAM
THE BEST COUGH CURE

It Cures Coughs Colds, Croup, Sore Throat, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Price, 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY; gives quick relief and cures worst cases. Book of testimonials and 10 days' treatment Free. Dr. H. H. GREEN'S SONS, Box D, Atlanta, Ga.

25 CTS. FISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

pgs. 3 & 4

missing

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

LOCAL AND OTHERWISE

Incidents and Events at Home and Nearby —Personal Mention, Etc.

"Nick" Boyer has gone to Fairmont to work.

Dr. C. J. Fazenbaker, of Swanton, was in the city Tuesday of this week.

Fifty styles 10, 15 and 20 cent Torschon lace at Sincell & Co.'s for 5c per yard.

George Crim has charge of the Opera House barber shop since the former proprietor sold out.

Mrs. Frank Byers, of Savage, W. Va., with her three children, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Flowers, of this place.

Bring your buckwheat, wheat, rye, oats and corn, if you want cash or trade. The Felty Roller Mill, Oakland, Md. 27-26t

Fred. Kemp, Esq., of near Accident, was visiting his sister, Mrs. Andrew Shartzer, near town, a few days this week and also attending court.

Messrs. John H. Cuppett and J. George Kolb, of Friendsville, who were in Oakland Monday and Tuesday attending court, returned home Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. E. H. Bartlett, who is now at Elkins and suffering with an attack of typhoid fever, was in an improved condition yesterday. His mother is at his bedside constantly, having gone over to Elkins the 2nd inst. to nurse him.

If you want a first- drill for a little money see Naylor. He has three kinds on hand. If you want a disc drill, disc harrow, he has them. If you want wood frame, steel frame or wheel harrow he has them, too. Corn planters, etc. I sell the Wynrd plow—no better made. 1 3t*

Mr. Notley B. Browning, of near Terra Alta, a member of the Browning family of this county, was in Oakland recently on business. Mr. Browning has retired from active business and lives quite comfortably upon his farm near the above place.

Mr. D. E. Bolden was the successful bidder for the erection of the proposed Catholic church in Oakland, but it is not yet definitely decided whether to erect the church upon the plans drawn by the architect or to make the building less expensive. Mr. Bolden's bid was nearly $15,000 for the entire work.

Mrs. Lou Thayer Waters returned from her western trip last Friday morning after spending several weeks with her brother, Walter E. Thayer, and his family, about forty miles in the country from the railroad station, Carlsbad, New Mexico. While Mrs. Waters is delighted with her trip she prefers Maryland as a place of residence.

Monday afternoon this office was visited by Misses Sadie Durst and Minerva Custer, of near New Germany, who came to Oakland that day to take the train for Buckhannon, W. Va., where they will enter the Seminary. The ladies were quite interested in the working of the many intricacies of the printing business as explained by the gallant foreman of the office, Mr. Perry E. Kimmell.

The grand jury submitted its report to the Court yesterday afternoon and was discharged from further service. The report contains a number of recommendations of merit and is quite a departure from the usual grand jury report in that it sets before the public the mineral wealth of the county and the substantial prosperity which our people are enjoying. The report was drafted by Messrs. Scott T. Jones and U. G. Palmer and is published elsewhere in this issue.

Robert Moorehead, of near Bloomington, whose house was wrecked a short time ago by a car leaving the railroad and coming into contact with it, is a member of the present grand jury. Mr. Moorehead made this office a brief visit on Monday afternoon and informs us that the railroad company has rebuilt his dwelling, and that he is now better housed than before the accident occurred. He is employed as a miner in the Hampshire Hill mines near Bloomington.

The following concerning the life of a farmer is true in every particular statement: The farmer doesn't have to solicit patronage from anyone. He doesn't have to enter into competition and strife with any of his neighbors, like a merchant; he doesn't have to wrangle for a living like a lawyer; he doesn't have to depend on his collections reluctantly doled out, as editors do; in fact he can be the most independent man on God's green earth if he manages his business in a businesslike way. He has more time and opportunity for cultivating his mind; he has fewer allurements for corrupting his morals; and his occupation is more conductive to the highest development of his physical powers than any other.

Austin Brown, Esq., made a business trip to Piedmont Monday.

Dr. S. M. Hardman, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, Grafton, W. Va. Spectacles and artificial eyes fitted.

Mesdames Jonn A. Wagner and Lucy McRobie, of near Swanton, paid this office a brief visit Monday.

Why send away for your vehicles when you can save money by buying from Naylor. He buys in large quantities; hence can give you low prices.

Ross Compton, Esq., ex-County Treasurer, of Grantsville, spent a few days in Oakland this week on court business.

Faylor has the finest line of vehicles in Western Maryland, including a nice line of family carriages, runabouts, buggies, etc. 1 3t*

"Cheap John" Michaels has opened his stock of candies, fancy goods, etc., in the room recently occupied by Samuel Lawton on Second street.

Mr. George W. Ward and daughter Miss Margaret returned from Uniontown, Pa., Tuesday where the interment of Mrs. Ward's remains was made Sunday.

Thomas Rafferty, Esq., of Cumberland, who is reported to have purchased the Central Hotel property in Oakland, was here yesterday making arrangements to have the necessary repairs made to the house.

The sale of the lands of the late Hiram Duckworth, which were advertised by Messrs. Fred. A. Thayer and Taylor Morrison, trustees, to take place on Monday in Oakland, was withdrawn owing to an insufficiency of bids.

Mrs. C. E. VanDeusen, of Kilbourn, Wis., was afflicted with stomach trouble and constipation for a long time. She says, "I have tried many preparations but none have done me the good that Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have." These Tablets are for sale at all druggists. Price 25 cents. Samples free.

Henry Moreland, aged 70 years, of Gormania, W. Va., and Mrs. Sarah Moses, aged 50 years, were married at the bride's home at Hambleton, W. Va. The Mountain Beauties band, composed of the seven Craver sisters, of Hendricks, serenaded the couple.

We are grateful to our friends for every item of news they favor us with. That is the way we get the happenings—our friends relate them to us. We are very much like other people in this respect at least—we must hear the news before we become conversant with it and can put it into print. Tell us the news.

Mr. Eli McMillan, of Accident, who spent the winter in Washington with his daughter, Mrs. Annie Glotfelty, arrived in Oakland Monday afternoon and remained here a few days when he went to his former home at Accident to spend a few weeks with friends, after which he will visit in various portions of Pennsylvania during the coming summer, expecting to return to Washington in the fall.

Many box cars and gondola cars for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad are being painted red. This is an innovation, and the red cars attract considerable attention along the line. The former standard colors of the Baltimore & Ohio are being changed all around. The royal blue is past on this end of the road, and has been supplanted by a brownish, black or drab color on all the standaad coaches.

Every farmer will do well to give his son a piece of land to cultivate, with the understanding that the returns, let it be much or little shall go to the boy. Encourage your children. Give the girl a half dozen good laying hens and in a short while she will be able to dress herself nicely. Many a boy has left home and been ruined simply because his hard-fisted father would not let him have something to call his own.

Mr. Charles Brown, of Grantsville, Md., was a business visitor in Salisbury on Tuesday. While in conversation with Mr. Brown we learned that he is doing business in Grantsville as a real estate and mineral right agent. He thinks the Salisbury railroad extension will open great business opportunities along the Casselman valley in Garrett county, and he says if the people of Grantsville take advantage of the opportunity they now have have, the old town will be converted from the dull, sleepy place it now is into a live and energetic business community. We think there is much truth in what Mr. Brown said, and it is now up to Grantsville to decide whether she will improve and grow or continue to progress crawfish fashion, which is backward. We have some faith in our old native town yet, and we believe Mr. Brown is the Moses to lead her out of the wilderness. His efforts in behalf of the old town should be appreciated and encouraged.—Salisbury Star.

Mr. Parley Deberry, of Terra Alta, was in the city Monday on business.

Good flour and plenty of it at the Felty Roller Mill. We grind everything in the grain line. 27-26t

"Muck" Nethkin returned from Denver, Col., Monday morning, where he had been for some weeks in search of employment.

Merchant John E. Gnagey, of Accident, came up to Oakland Tuesday and remained here a day or two on business before the court.

Rev. J. E. Kidwell, son of W. A. Kidwell, Esq., of near Mountain Lake Park, was in Oakland Monday on his way to Greene county, Ohio, where he has been tendered a call to preach.

Headache often results from a disordered condition of the stomach and constipation of the bowels. A dose or two of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will correct these disorders and cure the headache. Sold by all druggists.

To escape appearing before the grand jury as witnesses against alleged law violators a number of our young men and even mere boys made it convenient to visit friends in nearby West Virginia towns until court adjourns.

Town Councilman James A. Delawder tripped over a loose board in the platform near 'Squire Gonder's residence Tuesday noon and was thrown with violence to the ground. He sustained a badly bruised forhead and nose.

Nimrod Glotfelty, Esq., of near Accident, whose barn and farming utensils as well as nearly all his live stock was consumed by fire some weeks ago, was in Oakland yesterday purchasing wagons and other implements to take the place of those burned.

Mrs. Catharine McKenzie, wife of Jere. McKenzie, of near Avilton, Garrett county, Md., died on Thursday of last week at the ripe age of 85 years, 9 months and 12 days. The funeral services were held the day following, at the Roman Catholic church in that vicinity.—Salisbury Star.

What a howl would go up if newspapers were to criticise the individual as freely as many people criticise the newspaper! Every issue of a live and reputable newspaper is a mantle of charity. If an editor could get out a cold fact edition some day, and then get up a tree and watch the result, whew! what a picnic it would be.

It is greatly feared that the wheat of this section is badly frozen out owing to the extreme cold weather which prevailed at the beginning of the winter when there was no snow covering the ground to protect it. In many places the fields present a forlorn appearance, being brown in color instead of the deep rich green.

A man might do without his county paper a year and thereby save a dollar and a half, but if he is a man of ordinary ability he is nearly sure to lose a hundred times that much by not knowing what is going on in his own neighborhood and his own county. He misses the advertisement of sales, of bargains and of business propositions of which he might take advantage, but worse than his financial loss is the loss of general information that should always be possessed by himself and family.—Ex.

Now that a little good weather is with us there is no hindrance to property owners fixing up their platforms. In many instances the walks are dangerous to life and limb in daylight and at night one has to exert constant vigilance to keep from treading into holes or on broken planks which in either case would probably result seriously. Can't the ordinance be enforced against platforms out of repair Messrs. Councilmen? The streets also should have some attention now. Don't wait until summer is upon us and after the rank weeds have overgrown everything. Now is the time to act.

We have received from the author, Rev. T. J. Stanton, of Lonaconing, two bound volumes of his work entitled "A Century of Growth, or the Church in Western Maryland," treating upon the founding and growth of the Catholic church in Allegany and Garrett counties. The books are printed in large, clear type upon a fine grade of paper and contain a large number of half-tone engravings, the frontispiece being that of His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons. To the Protestant as well as the Catholic the books are of an interesting nature. Father Stanton's subject is one not readily handled, but its pages show with what aptitude he has adapted himself.

State Senator Ravenscroft, of Accident, who returned to his home from Annapolis Saturday morning, came up to Oakland Sunday evening and left for the State's Capital the same night in order to be present at the Monday evening session of the Legislature. While the Republican members of the Legislature are comparatively few they have been getting in some hard blows on their opponents. Messrs. Wilson and Finzell, members of the House, have both been aggressive and have spoken with no uncertain sound upon the iniquities about to be imposed upon the citizens of the State by Mr. Gorman's governor and his legislature.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Procter, of Cincinnati, came to Oakland and remained here yesterday until the afternoon when they went on east.

A letter received in Oakland this morning from Dr. Henry W. McComas contains the information that he is now at Nassau, Bahama Islands, traveling in company with Mr. Watson of Fairmont.

Prof. A. L. Lee, of Altamont, recently the principal of the Selbysport public school, has been appointed principal of the Normal to be conducted at Selbysport this spring. The school will open on April 8th and will continue for a term of ten weeks. Mr. Lee is well qualified as an instructor and will no doubt make a success of the school. See his announcement elsewhere in this paper.

Following the suggestion contained in Mr. Renninger's paper which was read on last Tuesday night before the Oakland Club our citizens should display the American flag very generously upon the occasion of the meeting of the State Council Jr. Order United American Mechanics here next month. It is not too soon now to gather your flags up and see that they are in the proper condition.

Judge Elias Merrill, who was here last week attending a session of the Orphans' Court, exhibited at this office a very flattering letter showing the assay of minerals taken from the silver mine in which he is interested. Work in the mine has been delayed during the winter owing to the unsettled condition of the weather but as soon as spring opens an engine and other machinery will be installed at the shaft and the work resumed in earnest.

Notice.

This is to give notice to the public that Nannie Victoria Bowser, aged about 15 years, adopted by me, has left her home and that I will not be responsible for any debts she may contract in my name. Persons are also warned against harboring her.

JOSEPH BOWSER,
Deer Park, Md.
1 3t*

Spring Opening!

Wednesday and Thursday, March 27 and 28.

Millinery, Fancy Goods, Hosiery, Notions, Ladies' and Children's Fine Shoes.

American Lady Corsets

in the Straight Front and various new shapes.

MRS. M. L. SCOTT,
Baltimore Store.

Financial Statement.

Annual report of the receipts and disbursements of the Corporation of Oakland for the year ending March 31st, 1901:

RECEIPTS.

Bal. in hand Treas. March 31, 1900	$18 21
Late Collector Hinebaugh, taxes, 1896	31 41
Same, taxes, 1897	278 59
Same, taxes, 1898	44 14
J. M. Crim, collector, taxes, 1899	945 26
Same, collector, taxes, 1900	2,790 78
Licenses from all sources	1,285 00
Garrett county levy	600 00
Fines by police magistrate, &c	30 00
Judgment case, Hyde vs. Council	24 10
Rent town scales	30 00
Total	$6,077 49

DISBURSEMENTS.

Election expenses	$13 60
Electric lights	1,549 10
Printing	53 71
Fire department rent, &c	65 00
Collectors' commissions and assessments	101 66
Int. coupons and int. on drafts	552 55
Police protection	809 01
Paid on previous indebtedness	1,440 98
Streets, lumber, paving, &c	578 93
Clerk and councilmen's salary	186 00
Mayor's salary	50 00
Town lockup, chairs, coal and repairs	41 84
Fee bills and costs	34 11
Blacksmithing	12 10
Treasurer	25 00
		$5,513 59
Bal. in hands of Treasurer		$563 90

LIABILITIES.

Bonded indebtedness to April 1, 1901	$13,000 00
Int. due on same to April 1, 1901	200 00
Outstanding unpaid drafts	641 32
Total	$13,841 32

ASSETS.

Unpaid taxes for 1897-98	$503 43
Unpaid taxes for 1899-90	1,579 85
Unpaid platform bills	436 79
Bal. in hands of Treasurer	563 90
		$3,083 97
Net indebtedness		$10,757 35
By real estate		$800 00
By fire engine		800 00

JOHN W. HART, Mayor.
Test: J. C. DUNHAM, Clerk.

ORDER NISI.

Thomas B. Wiley, late Treasurer of Garrett County, vs. Sylvester Rinard.

No. 77 Miscellaneous Docket, March Term, 1901. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 18th day of March, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Md., that the sale of the real estate mentioned in these proceedings made and reported by Thomas B. Wiley, late Treasurer of Garrett county, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 19th day of April, next; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 19th day of April next.

The report states the amount of sale to be $53.60.

A. HUNTER BOYD.

True copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

WILLIAM R. OFFUTT,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
OFFICE UPSTAIRS IN RAVENSCROFT BUILD'G.

Loans negotiated and Collections promptly made.

Practices in Courts of Maryland, West Virginia and Court of Appeals of Maryland.

Accident
Normal Academy
Opens April 8th.
Continues in Session Ten Weeks.

The objects of this school will be:

1st. To produce efficiency in the branches taught in the Public Schools, and to give such instruction in the higher branches as will be required to enter higher institutions of learning.

2nd. To prepare teachers for the Public Schools, giving special instruction in the Theory and Practice of teaching to all wishing to engage in that work.

Special attention will be given to classes in Book-keeping, Business Laws, Correspondence and Psychology.

Tuition, $6.00 for Teachers, one-half payable in advance, balance middle of term; others, $5 00.

It is or object to make the school a success. We therefore solicit the influence of all friends of education.

Good boarding at very low rates.

For further information apply to

R. R. SANNER or
GEORGE B. FRAZEE.

The Portraits of Our Presidents
With Biographical Sketches
BY
General Charles H. Grosvenor.

Title page designed by Tiffany.

This Inaugural year, when the public mind is aroused over Presidential questions, is a fitting time to issue General Grosvenor's book. Its sale is already tremendous, and will perhaps exceed that of General Grant's Personal Memoirs.

Every patriotic American desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and the other Chief Executives of the Nation. Everybody desires to read what General Grosvenor, the staunch old Republican leader in Congress, will say of that staunch old Democrat, Andrew Jackson, the Father of the Democratic party. General Grosvenor has thrown into his sketch all the fire and energy of his nature. The biography of Thomas Jefferson is grand. The biography of Lincoln is as beautiful as a sunrise over the hilltops. General Grosvenor has personally known all the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published, written from his own personal observation of these great men. General Grosvenor has served in Congress for nearly twenty years, and he has served his country in war and in Congress for nearly forty years. The book contains twenty-four large Photogravure Etchings as fine as Steel Plates, printed by hand, on heavy plate paper made especially to order. These 24 Photogravure Etchings are in different tints, and are well worth $2 each. These Portraits are made from the Paintings endorsed by the family and near relatives of the Presidents. Two years' time and a fortune have been expended in securing these reproductions. The complete book is well worth $50, but the price has been placed so low that the most humble American citizen can own it. The biographical sketches are printed in large open type in two colors; the work is so beautiful that when people see it they want it. The advance sale is very large. President McKinley was the first subscriber. There is one edition known as The President Edition de Grand Luxe, initial letters hand painted, Portraits hand colored, title page hand illuminated, registered and numbered; subscription price $250. Orders and applications for territory are coming in rapidly. A high class man or woman of good social standing can soon make a small fortune taking orders in this community. Send references and apply for terms quick, as the territory will all be assigned soon.

Address THE CONTINENTAL PRESS,
CORCORAN BUILDING,
Opposite United States Treasury,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

This is to give notice, That the subscribers, of Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 14th day of September next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

HENRY WARNICK,

Given under my hand this 12th day of March, 1901.

T. P. WARNICK, Administrator,
Bloomington, Md.

COMMISSIONERS' MEETING.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., March 21, 1901.

The Board of County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on

Monday, April 8, 1901,

as required by law, for the purpose of making the 1901 Levy. All persons having accounts for same are requested to file them on or before above date.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

PUBLIC SALE
—OF VALUABLE—
REAL ESTATE
In Oakland, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a power contained in a mortgage from John Shartzer and wife to George Clauson, bearing date the 8th day of May, 1896, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 29, folio 256, one of the land records of Garrett county, Maryland, the undersigned, as attorney named in the mortgage, default having been made in the said mortgage, will offer at public sale, in front of the postoffice in Oakland, Maryland, on

Thursday, March 28, 1901,

at 10 o'clock a. m., all that lot of land known as the

Opera House Lot,

on the corner of Main, or Second, and Green streets in Oakland, Maryland, fronting thirty six feet on Second street and one hundred and fifty feet deep, being the same property which was conveyed to John Shortzer by Louisa Bartlett by deed recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 22, folio 467, &c., one of the land records of Garrett county.

The said lot is known as the

"Shartzer Opera House Property,"

and is improved by a three-story frame building covered with iron, said building being 36 by 100 feet and is used as an

Opera House

and also for STORE ROOMS, OFFICES, etc., with a blacksmith shop in the back of the lot. It is one of the most valuable properties in Oakland.

Terms of Sale:—Cash on the day of sale.

D. JAMES BLACKISTON,
Attorney named in the Mortgage.

Mortgagee's Sale
—OF A—
VALUABLE FARM
Situate near Oakland, Md.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage from John Shartzer et ux., dated December 18th, 1896, and duly recorded among the land records of Garrett county, Maryland, the undersigned, the attorney named in said mortgage to make sale thereunder, default having been made in covenants of said mortgage, will sell by public auction in front of the postoffice in the town of Oakland, Md., on

THURSDAY,
28th day of March, 1901,

at 10:30 o'clock a. m., all that tract or parcel of land lying and situated about four and one-half miles south of Oakland, in Garrett county, Maryland, and known as the

"Kelley Farm"

and formerly as "ROBERT'S INHERITANCE," containing

Six Hundred and Fifty Acres,

more or less. It being a part of the tract known as

"Small Meadows,"

and the same which was conveyed to the said John Shartzer by E. H. Sincell et ux. by deed dated July 3rd, 1895, and recorded in Liber No. 28, folio 577, one of the land records of Garrett county, Maryland. The improvements consist of a comfortable

Frame Dwelling House,

barn and all necessary outbuildings. This estate is conveniently located, is easy of access and is one of the most desirable farms in Garrett county. It will be sold either as a whole or in parcels as may seem most advantageous.

Terms of Sale:—Cash on day of sale

J. W. THOMAS,
Attorney named in Mortgage.

Trustee's Sale
—OF VALUABLE—
REAL ESTATE

Under and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in Equity, bearing date the 25th day of February, 1901, and passed in a cause wherein Elizabeth C. Thompson and others are plaintiffs and Emma D. Hudson and others are defendants, said cause being No. 1 90 Equity in said Court, the undersigned trustee named in said decree will, on

Saturday, March 23, 1901,

at the hour of 3 o'clock p. m. of said day, in front of the First National Bank in the town of Oakland, Md., offer for sale at public auction the following described real estate, situated in the town of Mountain Lake Park, Garrett county aforesaid, and on the plat of the said Mountain Lake Park is known as

Lots Nos. 83, 90 and 93.

These lots are improved by a COMMODIOUS FRAME DWELLING HOUSE, with necessary outbuildings, are delightfully situated near the new Auditorium and is the same property that was formerly occupied by the late Rev. John Thompson as his summer home.

Terms of Sale:—As prescribed by the decree, cash on day of sale or upon the ratification thereof.

FRED. A. THAYER,
Trustee.
51tds

ORDER NISI.

Catherine Hoenshell and husband vs. Susan House et al.

No. 1051 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 27th day of February, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that the sale of the property mentioned in these proceedings, made and reported by Frederick A. Thayer, trustee, appointed by a decree of this Court to make said sale, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 22nd day of March next; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county aforesaid once in each of three successive weeks before the 22nd day of March next.

The report states the amount of sale to be $1,150.00.

E. Z. TOWER,
Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., Md.
True Copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

$500 REWARD!

The Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company will pay $500 as a reward for the arrest and conviction of the party or parties who set fire to and burned the barn of Nimrod Glotfelty on the night of January 25th, 1901.

WILLIAM W. FRAZEE, Sec'y,
49—tf Accident, Md.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

LOCAL AND OTHERWISE

Incidents and Events at Home and Nearby —Personal Mention, Etc.

"Nick" Boyer has gone to Fairmont to work.

Dr. C. J. Fazenbaker, of Swanton, was in the city Tuesday of this week.

Fifty styles 10, 15 and 20 cent Torschon lace at Sincell & Co.'s for 5c per yard.

George Crim has charge of the Opera House barber shop since the former proprietor sold out.

Mrs. Frank Byers, of Savage, W. Va., with her three children, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Flowers, of this place.

Bring your buckwheat, wheat, rye, oats and corn, if you want cash or trade. The Felty Roller Mill, Oakland, Md. 27-26t

Fred. Kemp, Esq., of near Accident, was visiting his sister, Mrs. Andrew Shartzer, near town, a few days this week and also attending court.

Messrs. John H. Cuppett and J. George Kolb, of Friendsville, who were in Oakland Monday and Tuesday attending court, returned home Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. E. H. Bartlett, who is now at Elkins and suffering with an attack of typhoid fever, was in an improved condition yesterday. His mother is at his bedside constantly, having gone over to Elkins the 2nd inst. to nurse him.

If you want a first- drill for a little money see Naylor. He has three kinds on hand. If you want a disc drill, disc harrow, he has them. If you want wood frame, steel frame or wheel harrow he has them, too. Corn planters, etc. I sell the Wynrd plow—no better made. 1 3t*

Mr. Notley B. Browning, of near Terra Alta, a member of the Browning family of this county, was in Oakland recently on business. Mr. Browning has retired from active business and lives quite comfortably upon his farm near the above place.

Mr. D. E. Bolden was the successful bidder for the erection of the proposed Catholic church in Oakland, but it is not yet definitely decided whether to erect the church upon the plans drawn by the architect or to make the building less expensive. Mr. Bolden's bid was nearly $15,000 for the entire work.

Mrs. Lou Thayer Waters returned from her western trip last Friday morning after spending several weeks with her brother, Walter E. Thayer, and his family, about forty miles in the country from the railroad station, Carlsbad, New Mexico. While Mrs. Waters is delighted with her trip she prefers Maryland as a place of residence.

Monday afternoon this office was visited by Misses Sadie Durst and Minerva Custer, of near New Germany, who came to Oakland that day to take the train for Buckhannon, W. Va., where they will enter the Seminary. The ladies were quite interested in the working of the many intricacies of the printing business as explained by the gallant foreman of the office, Mr. Perry E. Kimmell.

The grand jury submitted its report to the Court yesterday afternoon and was discharged from further service. The report contains a number of recommendations of merit and is quite a departure from the usual grand jury report in that it sets before the public the mineral wealth of the county and the substantial prosperity which our people are enjoying. The report was drafted by Messrs. Scott T. Jones and U. G. Palmer and is published elsewhere in this issue.

Robert Moorehead, of near Bloomington, whose house was wrecked a short time ago by a car leaving the railroad and coming into contact with it, is a member of the present grand jury. Mr. Moorehead made this office a brief visit on Monday afternoon and informs us that the railroad company has rebuilt his dwelling, and that he is now better housed than before the accident occurred. He is employed as a miner in the Hampshire Hill mines near Bloomington.

The following concerning the life of a farmer is true in every particular statement: The farmer doesn't have to solicit patronage from anyone. He doesn't have to enter into competition and strife with any of his neighbors, like a merchant; he doesn't have to wrangle for a living like a lawyer; he doesn't have to depend on his collections reluctantly doled out, as editors do; in fact he can be the most independent man on God's green earth if he manages his business in a businesslike way. He has more time and opportunity for cultivating his mind; he has fewer allurements for corrupting his morals; and his occupation is more conductive to the highest development of his physical powers than any other.

Austin Brown, Esq., made a business trip to Piedmont Monday.

Dr. S. M. Hardman, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, Grafton, W. Va. Spectacles and artificial eyes fitted.

Mesdames Jonn A. Wagner and Lucy McRobie, of near Swanton, paid this office a brief visit Monday.

Why send away for your vehicles when you can save money by buying from Naylor. He buys in large quantities; hence can give you low prices.

Ross Compton, Esq., ex-County Treasurer, of Grantsville, spent a few days in Oakland this week on court business.

Faylor has the finest line of vehicles in Western Maryland, including a nice line of family carriages, runabouts, buggies, etc. 1 3t*

"Cheap John" Michaels has opened his stock of candies, fancy goods, etc., in the room recently occupied by Samuel Lawton on Second street.

Mr. George W. Ward and daughter Miss Margaret returned from Uniontown, Pa., Tuesday where the interment of Mrs. Ward's remains was made Sunday.

Thomas Rafferty, Esq., of Cumberland, who is reported to have purchased the Central Hotel property in Oakland, was here yesterday making arrangements to have the necessary repairs made to the house.

The sale of the lands of the late Hiram Duckworth, which were advertised by Messrs. Fred. A. Thayer and Taylor Morrison, trustees, to take place on Monday in Oakland, was withdrawn owing to an insufficiency of bids.

Mrs. C. E. VanDeusen, of Kilbourn, Wis., was afflicted with stomach trouble and constipation for a long time. She says, "I have tried many preparations but none have done me the good that Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have." These Tablets are for sale at all druggists. Price 25 cents. Samples free.

Henry Moreland, aged 70 years, of Gormania, W. Va., and Mrs. Sarah Moses, aged 50 years, were married at the bride's home at Hambleton, W. Va. The Mountain Beauties band, composed of the seven Craver sisters, of Hendricks, serenaded the couple.

We are grateful to our friends for every item of news they favor us with. That is the way we get the happenings—our friends relate them to us. We are very much like other people in this respect at least—we must hear the news before we become conversant with it and can put it into print. Tell us the news.

Mr. Eli McMillan, of Accident, who spent the winter in Washington with his daughter, Mrs. Annie Glotfelty, arrived in Oakland Monday afternoon and remained here a few days when he went to his former home at Accident to spend a few weeks with friends, after which he will visit in various portions of Pennsylvania during the coming summer, expecting to return to Washington in the fall.

Many box cars and gondola cars for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad are being painted red. This is an innovation, and the red cars attract considerable attention along the line. The former standard colors of the Baltimore & Ohio are being changed all around. The royal blue is past on this end of the road, and has been supplanted by a brownish, black or drab color on all the standaad coaches.

Every farmer will do well to give his son a piece of land to cultivate, with the understanding that the returns, let it be much or little shall go to the boy. Encourage your children. Give the girl a half dozen good laying hens and in a short while she will be able to dress herself nicely. Many a boy has left home and been ruined simply because his hard-fisted father would not let him have something to call his own.

Mr. Charles Brown, of Grantsville, Md., was a business visitor in Salisbury on Tuesday. While in conversation with Mr. Brown we learned that he is doing business in Grantsville as a real estate and mineral right agent. He thinks the Salisbury railroad extension will open great business opportunities along the Casselman valley in Garrett county, and he says if the people of Grantsville take advantage of the opportunity they now have have, the old town will be converted from the dull, sleepy place it now is into a live and energetic business community. We think there is much truth in what Mr. Brown said, and it is now up to Grantsville to decide whether she will improve and grow or continue to progress crawfish fashion, which is backward. We have some faith in our old native town yet, and we believe Mr. Brown is the Moses to lead her out of the wilderness. His efforts in behalf of the old town should be appreciated and encouraged.—Salisbury Star.

Mr. Parley Deberry, of Terra Alta, was in the city Monday on business.

Good flour and plenty of it at the Felty Roller Mill. We grind everything in the grain line. 27-26t

"Muck" Nethkin returned from Denver, Col., Monday morning, where he had been for some weeks in search of employment.

Merchant John E. Gnagey, of Accident, came up to Oakland Tuesday and remained here a day or two on business before the court.

Rev. J. E. Kidwell, son of W. A. Kidwell, Esq., of near Mountain Lake Park, was in Oakland Monday on his way to Greene county, Ohio, where he has been tendered a call to preach.

Headache often results from a disordered condition of the stomach and constipation of the bowels. A dose or two of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will correct these disorders and cure the headache. Sold by all druggists.

To escape appearing before the grand jury as witnesses against alleged law violators a number of our young men and even mere boys made it convenient to visit friends in nearby West Virginia towns until court adjourns.

Town Councilman James A. Delawder tripped over a loose board in the platform near 'Squire Gonder's residence Tuesday noon and was thrown with violence to the ground. He sustained a badly bruised forhead and nose.

Nimrod Glotfelty, Esq., of near Accident, whose barn and farming utensils as well as nearly all his live stock was consumed by fire some weeks ago, was in Oakland yesterday purchasing wagons and other implements to take the place of those burned.

Mrs. Catharine McKenzie, wife of Jere. McKenzie, of near Avilton, Garrett county, Md., died on Thursday of last week at the ripe age of 85 years, 9 months and 12 days. The funeral services were held the day following, at the Roman Catholic church in that vicinity.—Salisbury Star.

What a howl would go up if newspapers were to criticise the individual as freely as many people criticise the newspaper! Every issue of a live and reputable newspaper is a mantle of charity. If an editor could get out a cold fact edition some day, and then get up a tree and watch the result, whew! what a picnic it would be.

It is greatly feared that the wheat of this section is badly frozen out owing to the extreme cold weather which prevailed at the beginning of the winter when there was no snow covering the ground to protect it. In many places the fields present a forlorn appearance, being brown in color instead of the deep rich green.

A man might do without his county paper a year and thereby save a dollar and a half, but if he is a man of ordinary ability he is nearly sure to lose a hundred times that much by not knowing what is going on in his own neighborhood and his own county. He misses the advertisement of sales, of bargains and of business propositions of which he might take advantage, but worse than his financial loss is the loss of general information that should always be possessed by himself and family.—Ex.

Now that a little good weather is with us there is no hindrance to property owners fixing up their platforms. In many instances the walks are dangerous to life and limb in daylight and at night one has to exert constant vigilance to keep from treading into holes or on broken planks which in either case would probably result seriously. Can't the ordinance be enforced against platforms out of repair Messrs. Councilmen? The streets also should have some attention now. Don't wait until summer is upon us and after the rank weeds have overgrown everything. Now is the time to act.

We have received from the author, Rev. T. J. Stanton, of Lonaconing, two bound volumes of his work entitled "A Century of Growth, or the Church in Western Maryland," treating upon the founding and growth of the Catholic church in Allegany and Garrett counties. The books are printed in large, clear type upon a fine grade of paper and contain a large number of half-tone engravings, the frontispiece being that of His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons. To the Protestant as well as the Catholic the books are of an interesting nature. Father Stanton's subject is one not readily handled, but its pages show with what aptitude he has adapted himself.

State Senator Ravenscroft, of Accident, who returned to his home from Annapolis Saturday morning, came up to Oakland Sunday evening and left for the State's Capital the same night in order to be present at the Monday evening session of the Legislature. While the Republican members of the Legislature are comparatively few they have been getting in some hard blows on their opponents. Messrs. Wilson and Finzell, members of the House, have both been aggressive and have spoken with no uncertain sound upon the iniquities about to be imposed upon the citizens of the State by Mr. Gorman's governor and his legislature.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Procter, of Cincinnati, came to Oakland and remained here yesterday until the afternoon when they went on east.

A letter received in Oakland this morning from Dr. Henry W. McComas contains the information that he is now at Nassau, Bahama Islands, traveling in company with Mr. Watson of Fairmont.

Prof. A. L. Lee, of Altamont, recently the principal of the Selbysport public school, has been appointed principal of the Normal to be conducted at Selbysport this spring. The school will open on April 8th and will continue for a term of ten weeks. Mr. Lee is well qualified as an instructor and will no doubt make a success of the school. See his announcement elsewhere in this paper.

Following the suggestion contained in Mr. Renninger's paper which was read on last Tuesday night before the Oakland Club our citizens should display the American flag very generously upon the occasion of the meeting of the State Council Jr. Order United American Mechanics here next month. It is not too soon now to gather your flags up and see that they are in the proper condition.

Judge Elias Merrill, who was here last week attending a session of the Orphans' Court, exhibited at this office a very flattering letter showing the assay of minerals taken from the silver mine in which he is interested. Work in the mine has been delayed during the winter owing to the unsettled condition of the weather but as soon as spring opens an engine and other machinery will be installed at the shaft and the work resumed in earnest.

Notice.

This is to give notice to the public that Nannie Victoria Bowser, aged about 15 years, adopted by me, has left her home and that I will not be responsible for any debts she may contract in my name. Persons are also warned against harboring her.

JOSEPH BOWSER,
1 3t* Deer Park, Md.

Spring Opening!

Wednesday and Thursday, March 27 and 28.

Millinery, Fancy Goods, Hosiery, Notions, Ladies' and Children's Fine Shoes.

American Lady Corsets

in the Straight Front and various new shapes.

MRS. M. L. SCOTT,
Baltimore Store.

Financial Statement.

Annual report of the receipts and disbursements of the Corporation of Oakland for the year ending March 31st, 1901:

RECEIPTS.

Bal. in hand Treas. March 31, 1900	$18 21
Late Collector Hinebaugh, taxes, 1896	31 41
Same, taxes, 1897	278 59
Same, taxes, 1898	44 14
J. M. Crim, collector, taxes, 1899	945 26
Same, collector, taxes, 1900	2,790 78
Licenses from all sources	1,285 00
Garrett county levy	600 00
Fines by police magistrate, &c	30 00
Judgment case, Hyde vs. Council	24 10
Rent town scales	30 00
Total	$6,077 49

DISBURSEMENTS.

Election expenses	$13 60
Electric lights	1,549 10
Printing	53 71
Fire department rent, &c	65 00
Collectors' commissions and assessments	101 66
Int. coupons and int. on drafts	552 55
Police protection	809 01
Paid on previous indebtedness	1,440 98
Streets, lumber, paving, &c	578 93
Clerk and councilmen's salary	186 00
Mayor's salary	50 00
Town lockup, chairs, coal and repairs	41 84
Fee bills and costs	34 11
Blacksmithing	12 10
Treasurer	25 00
	$5,515 59
Bal. in hands of Treasurer	$563 90

LIABILITIES.

Bonded indebtedness to April 1, 1901	$13,000 00
Int. due on same to April 1, 1901	200 00
Outstanding unpaid drafts	641 32
Total	$13,841 32

ASSETS.

Unpaid taxes for 1897-98	$503 43
Unpaid taxes for 1899-90	1,579 85
Unpaid platform bills	496 79
Bal. in hands of Treasurer	563 90
	$3,083 97
Net indebtedness	$10,757 35
By real estate	$800 00
By fire engine	800 00

JOHN W. HART, Mayor.
Test: J. C. DUNHAM, Clerk.

ORDER NISI.

Thomas B. Wiley, late Treasurer of Garrett County, vs. Sylvester Rinard.

No. 77 Miscellaneous Docket, March Term, 1901. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 18th day of March, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Md., that the sale of the real estate mentioned in these proceedings made and reported by Thomas B. Wiley, late Treasurer of Garrett county, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 19th day of April, next; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 19th day of April next.

The report states the amount of sale to be $53.00.

A. HUNTER BOYD.

True copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

WILLIAM R. OFFUTT,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
OFFICE UPSTAIRS IN RAVENSCROFT BUILD'G.

Loans negotiated and Collections promptly made.
Practices in Courts of Maryland, West Virginia and Court of Appeals of Maryland.

Accident

Normal Academy

Opens April 8th.

Continues in Session Ten Weeks.

The objects of this school will be:

1st. To produce efficiency in the branches taught in the Public Schools, and to give such instruction in the higher branches as will be required to enter higher institutions of learning.

2nd. To prepare teachers for the Public Schools, giving special instruction in the Theory and Practice of teaching to all wishing to engage in that work.

Special attention will be given to classes in Book-keeping, Business Laws, Correspondence and Psychology.

Tuition, $6.00 for Teachers, one-half payable in advance, balance middle of term; others, $5 00.

It is or object to make the school a success. We therefore solicit the influence of all friends of education.

Good boarding at very low rates.

For further information apply to

R. R. SANNER or
GEORGE B. FRAZEE.

The Portraits of Our Presidents

With Biographical Sketches

BY

General Charles H. Grosvenor.

Title page designed by Tiffany.

This Inaugural year, when the public mind is aroused over Presidential questions, is a fitting time to issue General Grosvenor's book. Its sale is already tremendous, and will perhaps exceed that of General Grant's Personal Memoirs.

Every patriotic American desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and the other Chief Executives of the Nation. Everybody desires to read what General Grosvenor, the staunch old Republican leader in Congress, will say of that staunch old Democrat, Andrew Jackson, the Father of the Democratic party. General Grosvenor has thrown into his sketch all the fire and energy of his nature. The biography of Thomas Jefferson is grand. The biography of Lincoln is as beautiful as a sunrise over the hilltops. General Grosvenor has personally known all the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published, written from his own personal observation of these great men. General Grosvenor has served in Congress for nearly twenty years, and he has served his country in war and in Congress for nearly forty years. The book contains twenty-four large Photogravure Etchings as fine as Steel Plates, printed by hand, on heavy plate paper made especially to order. These 24 Photogravure Etchings are in different tints, and are well worth $2 each. These Portraits are made from the Paintings endorsed by the family and near relatives of the Presidents. Two years' time and a fortune have been expended in securing these reproductions. The complete book is well worth $50, but the price has been placed so low that the most humble American citizen can own it. The biographical sketches are printed in large open type in two colors; the work is so beautiful that when people see it they want it. The advance sale is very large. President McKinley was the first subscriber. There is one edition known as The President Edition de Grand Luxe, initial letters hand painted, Portraits hand colored, title page hand illuminated, registered and numbered; subscription price $250. Orders and applications for territory are coming in rapidly. A high class man or woman of good social standing can soon make a small fortune taking orders in this community. Send references and apply for terms quick, as the territory will all be assigned soon.

Address THE CONTINENTAL PRESS,
CORCORAN BUILDING,
Opposite United States Treasury,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

This is to give notice, That the subscribers, of Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

HENRY WARNICK,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 14th day of September next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 12th day of March, 1901.

T. P. WARNICK, Administrator.
Bloomington, Md.

COMMISSIONERS' MEETING.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.
OAKLAND, MD., March 21, 1901.

The Board of County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on

Monday, April 8, 1901,

as required by law, for the purpose of making the 1901 Levy. All persons having accounts for same are requested to file them on or before above date.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

PUBLIC SALE

OF VALUABLE

REAL ESTATE

In Oakland, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a power contained in a mortgage from John Shartzer and wife to George Clauson, bearing date the 8th day of May, 1896, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 29, folio 256, one of the land records of Garrett county, Maryland, the undersigned, as attorney named in the mortgage, default having been made in the said mortgage, will offer at public sale, in front of the postoffice in Oakland, Maryland, on

Thursday, March 28, 1901,

at 10 o'clock a. m., all that lot of land known as the

Opera House Lot,

on the corner of Main, or Second, and Green streets in Oakland, Maryland, fronting thirty six feet on Second street and one hundred and fifty feet deep, being the same property which was conveyed to John Shortzer by Louisa Bartlett by deed recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 22, folio 467, &c., one of the land records of Garrett county.

The said lot is known as the

"Shartzer Opera House Property,"

and is improved by a three-story frame building covered with iron, said building being 36 by 100 feet and is used as an

Opera House

and also for STORE ROOMS, OFFICES, etc., with a blacksmith shop in the back of the lot. It is one of the most valuable properties in Oakland.

Terms of Sale:—Cash on the day of sale.

D. JAMES BLACKISTON,
Attorney named in the Mortgage.

Mortgagee's Sale

OF A

VALUABLE FARM

Situate near Oakland, Md.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage from John Shartzer et ux., dated December 18th, 1896, and duly recorded among the land records of Garrett county, Maryland, the undersigned, the attorney named in said mortgage to make sale thereunder, default having been made in covenants of said mortgage, will sell by public auction in front of the postoffice in the town of Oakland, Md., on

THURSDAY,
28th day of March, 1901,

at 10.30 o'clock a. m., all that tract or parcel of land lying and situated about four and one-half miles south of Oakland, in Garrett county, Maryland, and known as the

"Kelley Farm"

and formerly as "ROBERT'S INHERITANCE," containing

Six Hundred and Fifty Acres,

more or less. It being a part of the tract known as

"Small Meadows,"

and the same which was conveyed to the said John Shartzer by E. H. Sincell et ux. by deed dated July 3rd, 1895, and recorded in Liber No. 28, folio 577, one of the land records of Garrett county, Maryland. The improvements consist of a comfortable

Frame Dwelling House,

barn and all necessary outbuildings. This estate is conveniently located, is easy of access and is one of the most desirable farms in Garrett county. It will be sold either as a whole or in parcels as may seem most advantageous.

Terms of Sale:—Cash on day of sale

J. W. THOMAS,
Attorney named in Mortgage.

Trustee's Sale

OF VALUABLE

REAL ESTATE

Under and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in Equity, bearing date the 25th day of February, 1901, and passed in a cause wherein Elizabeth C. Thompson and others are plaintiffs and Emma D. Hudson and others are defendants, said cause being No. 1090 Equity in said Court, the undersigned trustee named in said decree will, on

Saturday, March 23, 1901,

at the hour of 3 o'clock p. m. of said day, in front of the First National Bank in the town of Oakland, Md., offer for sale at public auction the following described real estate, situated in the town of Mountain Lake Park, Garrett county aforesaid, and on the plat of the said Mountain Lake Park is known as

Lots Nos. 83, 90 and 93.

These lots are improved by a COMMODIOUS FRAME DWELLING HOUSE, with necessary outbuildings, are delightfully situated near the new Auditorium and is the same property that was formerly occupied by the late Rev. John Thompson as his summer home.

Terms of Sale:—As prescribed by the decree, cash on day of sale or upon the ratification thereof.

FRED. A. THAYER,
5 1tds Trustee.

ORDER NISI.

Catherine Hoenshell and husband vs. Susan House et al.

No. 1051 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 27th day of February, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that the sale of the property mentioned in these proceedings, made and reported by Frederick A. Thayer, trustee, appointed by a decree of this Court to make said sale, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 22nd day of March next; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county aforesaid once in each of three successive weeks before the 22nd day of March next.

The report states the amount of sale to be $1,150.00.

E. Z. TOWER,
Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., Md.
True Copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

$500 REWARD!

The Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company will pay $500 as a reward for the arrest and conviction of the party or parties who set fire to and burned the barn of Nimrod Glotfelty on the night of January 25th, 1901.

WILLIAM W. FRAZEE, Sec'y.
49—tf Accident, Md.

THE REPUBLICAN.

BENJ. H. SINCELL. Publisher.

OAKLAND, : GARRETT CO., MD

A STORM.

Athwart the sky a grucsome fleet of murky clouds is sailing;
Among the leafless boughs the wind is ominously wailing.
Low-lying in the western skies,
The moon, a silver shallop plies.
Beneath, a crimson thread is spun—
The parting glory of the sun.

Dark grows the sky and darker yet, while evening shades descending,
Obscure the landscape and I feel the chill of storms impending.
Borne on the ever-strengthening breeze
I hear the soughing of the trees;
And sounding from the rocky roar.
The angry ocean's sullen roar.

With curtains drawn and bolted door, I mock the tempest's raving;
Tho' all without is cold and dark, sweet peace my soul is laving.
I hear the fusillade of leaves,
Hurled upward to my cottage eaves;
Then loud against the lattice pane,
The fury of the driving rain.

Serene I lay me down to sleep—lulled by the ocean's surges;
The sounds that are my lullabys may be another's dirges.
Tho' Death and Peril walk abroad,
I fear them not, but trust in God.
I care not for the Storm King's wrath,
Safe sheltered by my cottage hearth.
—Geoffrey Jeffries, in Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

A Few Remarks on LANGUAGE

THE stock tender, who was considered "somethin' uv a dood" and had a pronounced taste for hair and leather bijouterie, had been occupied most of the afternoon putting the finishing touches to a scarf-holder which he had carved out of a blue poker chip in quite a delicate filigree. He was seriously annoyed when it slipped from his fingers and broke. At least the old bull whacker surmised that he was from the nature of the expressions that he used.

"It 'pears to tickle you to death," he said, savagely, turning on the old man, after a long interval of silence.

"I'd know why you should assoom that, Henry," said the old bull whacker, with mild seriousness. "Did I whoop an' holler? Did I slap my knee? Did I say anythin' at all, or so much as crack a smile?"

"No," admitted the stock tender, "you didn't, but I know derned well you was tickled to death jest the samme. That was the agrervatin' part of it. Why didn't you say sunthin'?"

"You seemed like you wuz pluggin' along tol'rable well by yourself 'thout any of my help. I reckon you wanted the sweet solus of addressin' your remarks to me personally, but I never was no hand to 'tend horses an' I don't want to have the stage delayed on account of the agent havin' to rustle around for a live boy to take your place. You know as well as I do, Henry, that you couldn't attend to your onrus dooties as chambermaid an' valett loaded down with your responserbilerties an' four or five 38-caliber balls. That ud be expectin' too much of you."

"CHINNIN' HER A PIECE AS I COME OVER THE TRAIL."

"You hain't got no idee, I don't reckon, what I'd be doin' to pass the time while you was pumpin' them thirty-eights into me, have you?" inquired the stock tender, sarcastically.

"We won't pursoo the subjec', Henry," said the old bull whacker, "I own up free that I hain't none sorry for this little accident, an' I'll tell you why. As they conclooded down to the Pizen Oak lyceum last week, there's a heap more pleasure in anticerpation than what there is in reerlization, an' I've be'n settin' here watchin' the reflections of your golden dreams on your face as you wuz a whittlin' away at that chip an' thinkin' how tickled she would be when you give it to her. I could have told you that she'd fool you up a mess at the presentation, but I reckoned I'd let you get all the glad you could before the showdown, but I wuz chinnin' her a piece as I come over the trail yistiddy."

"You was?" asked the stock tender, frowning.

"Like I was her daddy, Henry, jest like I was her daddy—that's all. There ain't no need for you to git askeered. I might have said a few things to her that a person that didn't know me would allow wuz amrus sorter, but I didn't strickly mean them thataway, an' I don't b'lieve she took 'em thataway. She'd prob'ly have got hostile if she had an' if she thinks as much of you as you think she does. Anyway, I wuz tellin' her about that game you wuz in with Bronk Stevens an' Pasadena at Rosebud an' I reckoned from what she said she wuzn't none in favor of a boy that gambled to excess. I've got an idee that I'd bead her a pair of moccasins or croshay a tidy for her if I wanted to make myself solid 'stid of packin' chips as affeeshun's offrin'."

"If I thought you'd be'n backcappin' me, I'd strangle you with your whiskers," said the stock tender. "Honest Injun, did she say anythin' about me?"

"I promused not to tell," replied the old bull whacker. "But I said that I wuz goin' to give you a heap of good talk, an' I'll keep my word. The nex' time yo hain't got nothin' else to do get a bucket of rain water an' a chunk of castile soap an' clean up your harnesses. Quit gamblin' excep' in moderation an' when the moon is right—an' quit cussin'—not but that I like to hear you cuss when you're in good voice an' suthin' inspirin' happens. I think you've got a nacheral gift an' it's be'en cultivated some, but it never does no good to cuss.

"What was you sayin' to them lead oxen when they hawed out of the trail as you come along?" inquired the stock tender. "You don't need to tell me because you wasn't more'n three miles off, an' I could hear you."

"I ain't givin' you this on my own say-so. I got it from a man with side whiskers that comes out from Iowa to renovate his lungs, which was wore some. He called me his friend the first clatter out of the box, an' he told me that cussin' was vishus an' didn't do no good, and that there wuz a law agin it in Iowa, besides it bein' wrong on general princerples. I guess he must ha' known what he was talkin' about. You can't never tell what some of these legislatures in the states are likely to spring on a free people. I studied over it a heap, an' I conclood that a man can jest as well as not talk United States without trimmin's if he oncet gets into the habit of it. I reckon he could quit before it got too strong for him if he found it was injurin' his health."

"Why don't you try it, then?" said the stock tender.

"I thought you had some glimmerin's of horse sense," answered the old bull whacker. "I hain't freightin' with a locomotive along a standard-gauge track; I'm directin' bulls, an' I have to give 'em their instructions in language they can understand along stretches of gumbo. If I didn't have no regard for the feelin's of dumb beasts I might make half time by sockin' the buckskin to 'em every jump in the road, but I ain't that kind of a man, an' a animal needs his hide to keep the flies off."

"If it wasn't for that you'd quit, I s'pose," said the stock tender.

"Mebbe I would an' then again mebbe I wouldn't," replied the old bull whacker.

"I did oncet an' I didn't enjoy it. That was when I was ranchin' down on Box Elder, an' my sister's son Dick come out to stay with me. I was onto the fac' that there was a pre-joodice aginst the use of vigorus talk back in the east before I met the man with the side whiskers, although I had sorter forgot it. My sister reminded me of it when she wrote an' said that she would worry about the kid, because she knew that we indulged in coarseness out west an' she'd hate right smart to see Dick get coarse. I wrote back to her an' give myself a good character, an' it seemed like she took considerable stock in it an' impressed it on the kid.

"After awhile Dick come along an' interdooced himself. He wuz a nice-lookin' kid about 20, an' he had be'n studyin' tooth butcherin' at Saint Looey. He ast me about what church privileges we had right off, an' I was grieved to inform him that we wuz short an' he wuz grieved to hear it. He wuz a quiet kid an' didn't say much. Sometimes I used to think he had suthin' on his mind the way he acted. We didn't get very sosherble, he not havin' much to say an' me bein' the same way."

The stock tender snorted.

"Well, when I had anythin' to say I most ginerally went away down the gulch apiece an' said it. I wore a trail there, I sure did. If it wuzn't convenient to leave the shack when things was goin' wrong I kep' my mouth shut an' felt uncomfortable, an' things went along that-a-way for about a month, an' the kid seemed to be gettin' more uneasy all the time, an' I didn't press him hard to stay when he talked about cuttin' his visit short.

"Finerly one evenin' at supper time he upset some hot coffee in his lap, an' after squirmin' around a spell an' remarkin' how it hurt him he got up an' went outdoors an' I seen him streakin' fer the barn. He wuz gone about five minits, an' when he came back he looked as if he wuz feelin' good. I didn't say nothin', but a day or two after that he wuz milkin' in the corral an' a mean one-horned cow I had kicked him galley west, with the milk on top of him. I symperthized with him an' said it wuz too bad, an' he agreed with me in his mild way. Then he said he believed he would go to the house.

"I follered him that time, havin' my suspicions, an' when I stopped at the door an' listened I found that they hadn't be'n misplaced no ways. What you said awhile back, Henry, wuz honey an' merlasses to what that kid was sayin' about that cow. After that little incerdent we got to know each other better, an' our conversation wuz more general an' free. I liked him furst-rate, an' he wuz the best poker player I ever went up against."

"Say," said the stock tender, looking up suddenly, "I want you to tell me just what she said to you an' what you said to her."—Chicago Daily Record.

A Distinction.

Mrs. Lowerton—But the rich enjoy so many luxuries!

Lowerton—Some do; others merely have them.—Puck.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

Some scientists assert that the purest air in cities is found about 25 feet above the street surface.

Of the 11,000,000 yen (silver dollars) which the Japanese state railways took in in the season of 1898-99, 8,000,000 were for passenger traffic.

A ton of Atlantic water yields, after evaporation, 81 pounds of salt; of the Pacific, 79; of the Arctic and Antarctic, 85, and of the Dead sea, 187.

A German engineer has built an engine for a flying machine whose total weight, including that of fastenings, is only five pounds. Nevertheless, it is seven horse power.

Oysters, after they have been brought away from the sea, know by instinct the exact hour when the tide is rising and approaching their beds, and so, of their own accord, open their shells to receive their food from the sea, as if they were still at home.

There are several species of fish, reptiles and insects which never sleep during their stay in this world. Among fish it is now positively known that pike, salmon and goldfish never sleep at all. Also that there are several others of the fish family that never sleep more than a few minutes during a month. There are dozens of species of flies which never indulge in slumber, and from three to five species of serpents which the naturalists have never yet been able to catch napping.

One of the largest lobsters ever caught in the vicinity of Calais, Me., or in any other place, as far as known, was recently captured off Grand Manan. The monster weighed 25 pounds, measuring 42 inches from tip to tip, having claws 20 inches long by seven wide. The age of this giant lobster is, of course, only conjectured. Up to two or three years of age it is easy enough to determine, but after that it becomes more difficult. It is believed its age must have been at least 50 years.

One hundred and sixty miles an hour is the speed aimed at by a new electric railway company in Germany under the direct patronage of the emperor. Cars with accommodations for 50 persons each are now being built and will be tried on a 30-kilometer track. It is intended to use electricity only for the express passenger service, as for freight and local traffic steam is expected to remain the power for a long time.

PREHISTORIC BODIES FOUND.

Recent Exhumations of Human Remains That May Be of Scientific Value.

A large number of neolithic flint implements have recently been found in the neighborhood of Unterisling, near Ratisbon, and according to Prof. Steinmetz they are of such great historical importance that they will probably serve to upset existing theories.

Another very interesting discovery was made not long ago in Alsace, where an immense axhead, more than a foot long and four inches broad, was found. It is apparently composed of light gray and clear green jade, and was discovered in the vicinity of Drusenheim. The most remarkable thing about it is that in the middle of one of the broad sides of the axhead is the representation of a human form, skillfully chased and still clearly visible.

The figure is 15 centimeters long and seven broad, and the lines are from one-half to one centimeter deep, says the London Standard. The face is large and long, with clearly perceptible eyes, nose, mouth and chin, but without ears or hair. The arms and hands are extended as if in prayer. There are parallel lines crossed by others, similar to those on the neolithic burial urns found near the left bank of the Rhine, now preserved at Worms, and described by Herr Mehlic in his work on "The Ligurian Question."

The figure now discovered is believed to be meant to represent some Phallic deity from Egypt or Phoenicia. An essay on this axhead and the other discoveries mentioned above will shortly be published by Herr Mehlic.

The Queen's Indian Subjects.

One of the most significant consequences of Queen Victoria's death has been the remarkable demonstration of personal grief by the natives of India. Mohammedans, Hindus and other sects displayed as much zeal in this respect as the official Christian congregations. This feeling was more noticeable in the large centers of Mohammedan population, because great masses of the people had assembled to take part in the ceremonies on the festival of Id, and in every case, apparently, the Mullahs recited prayers for the queen in the presence of thousands of worshipers. The orthodox Hindoo leaders directed special worship to be held in the most sacred temples and shrines.—N. Y. Sun.

A Feline Slap.

Tess—It's quite likely that my uncle will leave me quite a fortune. He's dying, you know.

Jess—Oh, isn't that distressing?

"Er—yes, I do feel sorry for the poor old—"

"Nonsense! I was sympathizing with you, dear. To think that all this wealth should come to you when it's almost too late to do you any good."—Philadelphia Press.

She Worried.

Nippe—My wife worried all last week for fear I should die.

Tuck—Were you sick?

"No, but my life insurance policy ran out and it was several days before I got it renewed."—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

Plenty of Time.

He—And now, darling, when do you think we would better announce our engagement?

She—Oh, there is no hurry, dear. Any time within the next 24 hours.—Harper's Bazar.

Cheap Rates to California.

February 12th and each Tuesday thereafter, until and including April 30th, Special Low Rate Colonist Tickets will be sold via the Southern Pacific's Company's "Ogden" and "Sunset" Routes to all points in California. The rate will be: From Chicago $30.00, from St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans $27.50, from Omaha, Kansas City, etc., $25.00. Corresponding low rates from all other points east and north.

For particulars and detailed information pertaining to the Southern Pacific Company's Routes, and these special rates to California, call upon or address

W. G. Neimyer, G. W. A., S. P. Co., 238 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.

W. H. Connor, C. A., S. P. Co., Chamber of Commerce Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio.

G. G. Herring, C. A., S. P. Co., 711 Park Bldg., Pittsburg, Pa.

L. E. Townsley, C. A., S. P. Co., 421 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

C. C. Cary, C. A., S. P. Co., 208 Sheidley Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

The Lottery of Marriage.

An Atchison girl boasted a few years ago that two men were so anxious to marry her that she drew straws to see which she should take. She drew the wrong straw.—Atchison Globe.

Ancient and Modern Proverbs.

From the Brooklyn Standard Union.

"He who knows not, and knows not that he knows not, is a fool; avoid him. He who knows not, and knows that he knows not, is simple; teach him. He who knows and knows not that he knows, is asleep; wake him. But he who knows and knows that he knows, is a wise man; follow him."—From the Arabian Proverbs.

"He who travels by the New York Central knows that he rides over smooth and level tracks, in luxurious trains, at great speed, through the most delightful country, and at a cost of but two cents per mile. This man is of sound judgment. Follow his example, and you will be happy."—An American Proverb.

Men do not begin to save money until they have married, and women do not begin till they have given up all hope of marrying.—Atchison Globe.

Another Proof That It Pays.

What pays? Why, advertising in this paper. A letter from the makers of Cascarets calls attention to the fact that within five years the sales have grown from nothing to six million boxes last year. This goes to show if you have an article of real merit like Cascarets, advertise it properly and liberally and let all the people know about it, it is sure to bring big results. Readers who have never tried this famous remedy are urged to try it, because in this busy, every day life of ours, we all need something now and then to help nature and there is no better medicine in the world than Cascarets to stimulate the liver and bowels gently and naturally into healthy action.

Out of His Line.—"Ah, Littleton! The very man for the emergency. I have a grave problem to submit to you." "A grave problem to me? Why, I'm no undertaker."—Boston Courier.

An Innovation.

The Louisville & Nashville R. R. together with its connecting lines has inaugurated the Florida Limited, which is a daily, solid train, wide vestibuled, steam heated, gas lighted, with dining car service for meals en route to Thomasville, Ga., Jacksonville and St. Augustine, Fla. The sleeper leaving Cincinnati at 11:15 a. m. is attached at Nashville, running via Birmingham and Montgomery, Plant System to Jacksonville, and Florida East Coast to St. Augustine, arriving at the latter city at 7:30 the next evening. Mr. C. L. Stone, General Passenger Agent, Louisville & Nashville R. R., Louisville, Ky., will answer all inquiries concerning this train and furnish printed matter concerning it.

"Lots of people who are waiting for an opportunity," observed Irving Tonne, the philosopher, "would have to have an introduction to one if it should come to them."—Indianapolis News.

Ten Years Late.

Many people would not have waited so long before trying a good article, but when Mr. Francis Lee was doing business as a druggist at Clinton, Iowa, he wrote: "Your Lotion is doing wonderful things here. One small bottle has cured one party of Tetter who had not been free of it for ten years." One would suppose that this wonderful remedy which had then been on the market nearly thirty years, would have been recommended sooner by some enterprising druggist. If your druggist doesn't have it, send to Solon Palmer, 374 Pearl Street, New York, for samples of Palmer's Lotion and Lotion Soap.

Riches have wings, but poverty has spurs.—Chicago Daily News.

The easiest note to write is the hardest to pay.—Atchison Globe.

How She Floored Him.

A fresh young man had a large chunk of conceit removed from his cranium during the past week. The one who removed it was a pretty young Dublin girl who is in Albany for a few weeks' visit while awaiting the establishment of her father's home in the west. One evening last week she was visiting at a friend's house when the fresh young man dropped in. He was charmed with her ways and wit, and worked hard all evening to create an impression. He was flattering himself on his success until the end, which occurred as he left her at the door of her temporary home. Before saying good-night she thanked him heartily for his kindness in accompanying her home.

"Oh, don't mention it," gurgled the young man in his nicest way.

"Indeed, I won't. I'm as much ashamed of it as you are," was the startling reply.

The fresh young man is worrying about what she really meant.—Albany Journal.

Hewitt—"That man has made a great deal of trouble in the world." Jewett—"I shouldn't guess it; he looks like a peaceable fellow." Hewitt—"Well, it's a fact; he's a clergyman, and he's married a good many people."—Town Topics.

"We had the first trouble at our house this morning," said the newly married man. "No gas?" suggested the old bachelor. "Worse than that. I undertook to correct the English of our German cook and my wife will hereafter have to get the meals."—Indianapolis News.

Dooley—"What's the matter wid ye anyhow, Mick—all tattered an' torrun an' bitten an' scratched all over?" Mick—"Ay, an' me own dog done it! I went home sober last noight, an' the baste didn't know me!"—Punch.

Mrs. Henpeck—"I'm often sorry I didn't marry that army officer when I had the chance." Henpeck—"I'm sorry, too, my dear. Perhaps he'd have been able to stand you, having been used to hazing in his younger days."—Town Topics.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is an infallible medicine for coughs and colds.—N. W. Samuel, Ocean Grove, N. J., Feb. 17, 1900.

Don't grumble because to-day is bad. Remember that to-morrow is quite likely to be worse.—N. Y. Herald.

The great public schools of the large cities use Carter's Ink exclusively. It is the best and costs no more than the poorest. Get it.

The best safe for a man's money is a prudent wife.—Chicago Daily News.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES do not spot, streak or give your goods an unevenly dyed appearance. Sold by all druggists.

Lane's Family Medicine.

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

Courtship may be termed a beau knot that marriage pulls into a hard knot, and, occasionally, a very hard knot.—N. Y. Herald.

Drugs have their uses, but don't store them in your stomach. Beeman's Pepsin Gum aids the natural forces to perform their functions.

A coward encounters a great many dangers that don't exist.—Chicago Daily News.

Fortify Feeble Lungs Against Winter with Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Pike's Toothache Drops Cure in one minute.

He (on the train)—"Are you afraid of tunnels?" She—"Not when I'm with you."—Town Topics.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

Any fool can run the universe; the wise man is he who can run his own house.—Ram's Horn.

"SALZER'S SEEDS WILL MAKE YOU RICH"

This is a daring statement, but Salzer's seeds bear it out every time.

Combination Corn. Greatest corn on earth. Will positively revolutionize corn growing.

Billion Dollar Grass. Greatest marvel of the age, 12 tons of hay per acre. First crop six weeks after sowing.

What Is It? Catalogue tells.

FOR 10c. STAMPS and this NOTICE we mail big seed catalog, 10 Grain Samples including above, also Spelta (80 bu. per A.) Oats, (250 bushel per A.) Rape, Barley, (173 bu. per A.) Peas, etc. Worth $10, to get a start.

John A. Salzer Seed Co. La Crosse, Wis.

A Quick Dessert.

Get a package of Burnham's Hasty Jellycon at your grocer's, dissolve it in a pint of boiling water and let it cool. The result is a delicious and healthful dessert. The flavors are: lemon, orange, raspberry, strawberry, peach, wild cherry and the unflavored "calfsfoot" for wine and coffee jelly. All grocers sell it.

READERS OF THIS PAPER DESIRING TO BUY ANYTHING ADVERTISED IN ITS COLUMNS SHOULD INSIST UPON HAVING WHAT THEY ASK FOR, REFUSING ALL SUBSTITUTES OR IMITATIONS.

A. N. K.—C 1855

RHEUMATISM Van Buren's Rheumatic Compound is the only positive cure. Past experience speaks for itself. Depot 83 S. California Ave., Chicago.

ITCHING Burning Scaly HUMORS

Complete External and Internal Treatment

Cuticura

THE SET $1.25

Consisting of CUTICURA SOAP to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales, and soften the thickened cuticle, CUTICURA OINTMENT to instantly allay itching, irritation, and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT to cool and cleanse the blood, and expel humor germs. A SINGLE SET is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring skin, scalp, and blood humors, rashes, itchings, and irritations, with loss of hair, when the best physicians, and all other remedies fail.

WONDERFUL CURE OF PSORIASIS.

As a sufferer for thirty years from the worst form of Psoriasis, finally cured by Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, I wish to tell you my experience, that others may benefit by it. I was so grievously afflicted that the matter that exuded from my pores after the scales had peeled off, would cause my underclothing to actually gum to my body. After remaining in one position, sitting or lying down, for an hour or two, the flesh on my elbows and knees would split, so thick and hard would the crusty scales become. The humiliation I experienced, to say nothing of physical agony, was something frightful. The detached scales would fairly rain from my coat sleeves. I have read none of your testimonials that appear to represent a case so bad as mine. But as to the cure. I commenced bathing in hot Cuticura Soap suds night and morning, applied the Cuticura Ointment, and then wrapped myself in a sheet. In two weeks my skin was almost blood red in color, but smooth and without scales. Patches of natural colored skin began to appear, and in less than a month I was cured. I am now passed forty years of age and have skin as soft and smooth as a baby's. Hoping that others may benefit by my experience, and regretting that sensitiveness forbids me from disclosing my name, I am yours gratefully,

J. H. M., Boston, Mass., Sept. 30, 1900.

Millions of People Use Cuticura Soap

Assisted by Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and healing red, rough, and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings, and chafings, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Millions of Women use CUTICURA SOAP in the form of baths for annoying irritations, inflammations, and excoriations, or too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and for many sanative antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, and especially mothers. CUTICURA SOAP combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients, and the most refreshing of flower odors. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used these great skin purifiers and beautifiers to use any others, especially for preserving and purifying the skin, scalp, and hair of infants and children. No other medicated soap is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines in ONE SOAP AT ONE PRICE, the BEST skin and complexion soap, and the BEST toilet and baby soap in the world. Sold by all druggists.

A WASTED LIFE.

Sad Story of Lizzie Finley—Spends Nearly Nine Years in Jail for Drunkenness.

Pitiful indeed is the story told of Lizzie Finley, of New Haven, Conn. Once pretty and beloved, 16 years ago she took to drink, and since she started downward she has passed eight and three-quarter years in jail for drunkenness.

Think of it! Convicted 117 times of intoxication she will have passed 3,200 days in jail for her offenses when the penalty inflicted for her last offense shall have been rounded out.

There is no denying the fact that this woman, whom the police call the "star drunkard" of the city, has been attractive. Traces of refinement and beauty still linger in the dissipated face, and there is that in her rancorous voice which reminds one that sometime in the past she might have been listened to with love by husband and little ones.

Sixteen years since she began to drink, and here she was up again for the 117th time! The record was enough to make one shudder and to awaken the pity of the most hardened for this poor besotted creature.

In the majority of cases the sentences had been for from 30 to 60 days, but often and often judgment had been suspended to give her a chance to reform, but, like "Jane Cakebread," she never reformed and her case seems hopeless.

On being liberated from jail scarcely 48 hours would go by before she was drunk again, and the records of the police department show scarcely a month in many years when this woman was out of jail that did not find her again under arrest.

LIZZIE FINLEY, THE "STAR DRUNKARD."

"Yes, it's 16 years now since I began my life of dissipation," said Lizzie Finley, musingly.

"And yet I was not always a bad woman. Once I was happy. Once I had friends who were respected, a mother who loved me, a husband who made for me a home. Once I had children who played about my knees, the same as many another mother is rejoicing over to-day. But, my, my, that seems so long ago—so long ago!"

And the great tear-drops welled up in the eyes of the unfortunate woman, showing that somewhere, down deep in that abandoned nature of hers, there were yet well-springs of feeling which were stirred as memory's chords were swept by reminiscences of other days.

"I was raised in old England. My parents were working people, and my home life was happy. My grandfather was a brewer by occupation and drank moderately. So did my father; but I do not think I inherited my present appetite from them. It is rather a product of artificial growth; but of that I will tell you later.

"When a young girl I married an Englishman. We set up a home and lived happily together. He was a cabinetmaker by trade and a clever workman, and our home was all that we could desire. I never drank in all those days.

"By-and-by baby came to us. My heart went out to the little boy with all a mother's love. I watched over his infancy with jealous care, and year by year I saw him grow up into a sturdy lad. He is living now, somewhere, God only knows where. It has been long years since I have seen him.

"But there came a change in my life. My husband was seized with consumption and died. I then decided to come to America. I did so about 18 years ago, bringing my boy with me. I was not bad-looking, and I had good health and was able to work, and in this new world I set about establishing a new home. I was then 32 years old.

"Up to that age I had never known what it was to go off on a spree. I did not even drink in moderation. At my father's house when a girl the beer mug was common upon our family table, but we girls were never allowed to drink. I was one of a family of 15 children.

"But troubles came to me, deep and plenteous. I lost my husband. From a home of my own I was forced by circumstances to go out to service. For awhile I maintained my womanly integrity, but, fond of sociability, I fell in with a crowd of women who led me astray. These women knew I usually had money by me, and they cultivated my acquaintanceship and I, liking their lively and social ways, was an easy dupe.

"I spent my money on them and under their guidance began to drink. Not whisky, mind you, for at first I couldn't stand that. A little sip of it would fly to my head and drive me wild. I began on beer. Tell me that beer won't make a person drunk!

"I want to tell you—and I know what I am talking about — it's one of the worst promoters of drunkenness. It brought me where I am to-day, a pauper, a vagrant, a woman without a home, thrust into the street to live or to starve; a mother without her children, a wife without a husband, a woman without a character!

"Early in my career my fines and costs were paid by the people for whom I worked, but when I became so far gone that people had no use for me I began to realize the truth of a text I had once heard that the wages of sin is death.

"I am to-day a wreck of what I once was. I am beyond all hope of reform. I shall get another long sentence in jail to-morrow. I shall serve it. I shall be released, get drunk again and probably again, and at last die a drunkard, with no one to care for me; another poor unfortunate; and those who know me will simply say: 'It's only Liz Finley gone to her death.'

"I'm nearly 50 now, but I feel as though I had lived a century. But there, I have told you my story."

The police records covering Lizzie Finley's criminal career cover long entries in at least five big volumes on file at the central office, and from them an Evening World man was permitted to make the following entries.

In an ordinary case of drunkenness the costs in the city court are from $5 to $7—a fair average is $6. Prisoners in working out costs at the county jail are allowed $1 per day to apply on their fine, so that in each case of drunk against this unfortunate woman a fine of not less than $6 on an average and sometimes more would be included in her sentence, which would add at least six days to each case, or about 500 days in all.—N. Y. World.

WOMEN AND LIQUOR.

Strong Presentation of the Pesent Situation by Mrs. Lake of Catholic Total Abstinence Society.

[At the National Catholic Total Abstinence convention Mrs. Lake, the able and eloquent vice president of that organization, called attention to the increase of the drinking habit among women. Her statements have been severely criticised and she felt called upon to issue the following declaration, which is worthy of a careful reading. We give the substance of her paper.—Union Signal.]

Judging from the criticism that I have seen concerning the matter, the chief offense lies in that statement of Dr. Cyrus Edson, who claimed the drink habit was prevalent among society women—"its treatment almost as common as that for coughs and colds among the Four Hundred."

There is a trite saying that "'Tis only the wounded bird that flutters," therefore I take it that that portion of society which seems most indignant is most culpable. There are society women who are leaders in everything that is pure, lofty, refined, intellectual, against whom no such charge could lie. But there are others, and what was said concerning them and the drink habit—whisky teas, punch bowl receptions, afternoon poker games with strong drink, refreshments, etc.—is true. Every word is true. And as we go down the scale of the social ladder we find similar customs duplicated in quantity if not in quality.

I am asked: "Are the above conditions prevalent among a majority of women?" I should say emphatically, No! Thank God! But they are sufficiently prevalent to be alarming. As we are now reaping the harvest of past habits, so as the habit increases will we in the days to come see more of the evil results, unless the cause is checked.

Another course of life-destroying practice was laid bare when one of the greatest specialists on neurotics of the century said: "If you would stop drunkenness, begin at the cradle, in your nurseries." I would go a step further and say, begin before the conception of a new life. Though a child may not inherit the direct appetite for alcohol, yet it is true that a weak, characterless moral pervert will be the child of any mother who poisons her body and debases her character by drinking egg-nog, cocktails, brandy or beer while she is forming the character and building up the structure of the child God has given her the privilege of bearing.

Then in almost every walk of life our young women are surrounded by such conditions that the wonder is that more of them have not the curse of alcoholic appetite fastened upon them.

In that part of the social world where hand-painted china or cut-glass punch bowl is ever present at social functions, who is chosen to serve its wine or brandied contents? Why, the prettiest, brightest, most winsome girl the hostess can find. Then when the young girl entertains her own friends the practice taught by her elders is carried out, resulting oftimes in a maudlin condition of hostess and guests. After-theater suppers, with champagne as a beverage, have sent many a young woman home in an intoxicated condition. Beer gardens are thronged with people of both sexes. Go to some of these, my critics, and see our future mothers, now in their teens, filling and drinking glass after glass of beer in company with those of the opposite sex. Then ask yourself, first, is it any wonder that men's respect and reverence for womankind is lessening daily; and secondly, how or where will this end? And why wonder at woman's yielding to the subtle, insidious influence of alcohol? Has she not brain tissues, nerve centers and flesh fiber as well as her brother? And if practice becomes a habit, and habit vice with him, why not with her? She is different only in so far as her depth of piety and glorious womanhood keeps her where God places her, on a higher pedestal than her brother man.

AN OPEN QUESTION.

Young Tommy had a mind of a scientific bent;
At least, he thought he had, and he liked to sit and plan
The wonderful machines that some time he would invent,
When he'd grown to be a world-renowned and scientific man.

Yet he couldn't drive a nail without hammering his thumb,
And he wouldn't mend the gate when the hinge was coming off;
Indeed, when work was mentioned he was greatly overcome,
And was sure to be afflicted with a very trying cough.

His sister, Maud Miranda, had aspirations high—
She often said she meant to be a lady of the land,
For she liked to live in luxury; and then she'd sit and sigh
Because her pretty cottage home was not a mansion grand.

But she couldn't make attractive her cozy corner room,
Where disorder reigned supreme, so untidy were her ways;
And she'd turn her back in scorn on a duster or a broom,
While her bureau-drawers—such sights, I hope, don't often meet your gaze!

Did Tommy and his sister ever make their visions real?
Now, my clever boys and girls, you may answer if you will.
He wins the true success who has a high ideal;
But does sitting down and dreaming one single aim fulfill?

Successful, earnest work is never done by idle hands,
A lady's gentle breeding no sloven ever knows;
Ah, my clever boys and girls! the youngest understands
That never can a weed become a fair and fragrant rose.

—Anna M. Pratt, in Golden Days.

A WONDERFUL CHILD.

Little Florence Miller Has Been Her Father's Bookkeeper Ever Since She Was a Baby.

Since she reached the age of four years Florence Monte Miller has been bookkeeper for her father, Fremont Miller, of Bloomington, Ill. She is now six years of age.

Little Florence began to exhibit her extraordinary powers before she was three years of age. At those baby years she startled the community by the wonderful beauty and accuracy of her drawings—both color and pencil work; that she would develop into a phenomenal artist became the current conviction. Her abilities in other directions, however, were equally amazing; she would pick up the newspapers or almost any book and read them easily and correctly. By the age of four years she was writing stories. Not infant jargon, by any means, but sparkling little stories with the most fascinating touches of plot and rhetoric. At this time, also, her mind seemed to turn to figures. She picked up everything herself, and could not be persuaded to leave the work, of which she was so fond.

FLORENCE KEEPING BOOKS.

At the age of six years Florence was allowed to enter the Lincoln school. She had scarcely been in a week before she had been promoted to the second room, and her promotion to the A class, third room, was allowed after an attendance of exactly one month.

Florence is now only a little past six years old. She is again ahead of her class, and ready to step into the fourth room after attending a single term.

Cats on Ocean Steamers.

Every large ocean liner carries from six to ten cats, these being apportioned to various parts of the ship, as well as appearing on the vessel's books for rations. Particular employes are detailed to feed these cats daily, and when in port one man attends to them. There is promotion for pussy on board ship. Ordinarily, unsociable cats are kept in the hold, in the steerage, in the forecastle, but a cat that is amiable and clever is given the run of the first or second-class saloons. When at sea the cats attend to the mice and rats, but after all can do little more than scare them out of the parts of the ship frequented by passengers. In port the ship is visited by a professional rat catcher, who frequently captures 500 of these pests. The cats always accompany the rat catcher, and pick up the stragglers.

The Babe in the Woods.

A four-year-old girl wandered away from home near the Bonanza mine, Oregon, recently, and was lost in the mountain 48 hours. When recovered she was quite unharmed. She told of having seen a big black dog with two puppies, which she tried to catch, "but they ran away after their mamma." The "dog" was a bear, and the "puppies" were her cubs.

CHILDREN IN SPAIN.

They Are Set Out in the Street in Queer Looking Baskets to Take Care of Themselves.

In the Spanish city of Seville there are no kindergartens or other places where the busy mother can leave her little children to be cared for while she does the housework or helps her husband in his little shop. The baby is left to care for itself and does so very well—that is, the baby who has not learned to walk yet.

It is placed in a wicker-woven arrangement which looks like a basket turned upside down, and is just high enough so the baby's feet will touch the ground. He is then set out in the street to take care of himself. He cannot turn over, so he at least remains in an upright position. The basket is very light, so he often works his way up the street and far away from home. He will get into the middle of the street, so that the donkeys who take the places of horses and wagons there must go around him. This they always do, and it looks queer to see a long line of donkeys going out of their way to go around a baby in the narrow streets of the old Spanish town.

TAKING CARE OF HIMSELF.

BOARDED WITH IDOL.

Three Shipwrecked Sailors Lived High on the Offerings to an East Indian Deity.

Capt. Murray, a Port Royal bar pilot, who has followed the sea since boyhood and visited nearly every section of the habitable globe, is full of interesting reminiscences of happenings in distant lands in which he participated. The old pilot is fond of relating an incident which occurred near Calcutta, India. The vessel which he commanded, a fine clipper ship, was wrecked in a typhoon in the Bay of Bengal and all hands, save himself and two companions who succeeded in reaching shore in the ship's gig, were lost.

The three exhausted men immediately sought food and shelter, and while thus employed came upon an immense wooden image, which they correctly surmised to be an Indian idol. Night was upon them and the tired men bivouacked near by, and their attention was soon attracted by the appearance of a score of low-caste Hindoos, each of whom carried in his hands a savory dish which he placed before the inanimate god. After each native had deposited his offering with profuse signs and words they departed, and when the hungry sailors were satisfied that their strange visitors had retreated for the night they greedily devoured the bounteous repast intended for the idol. Murray and his companions remained in the neighborhood for several days, subsisting nightly on the offerings brought by the Hindoos as a tribute to their god and remaining concealed in the daytime.

One night about ten days after their shipwreck two natives suddenly surprised the three men while they were in the very act of making their usual meal and a fight ensued. The natives proved no match for the resolute and well-armed Americans and soon beat an ignominious retreat, leaving the latter complete masters of the situation. The captain and his companions, fearing that the natives would soon return in force and massacre them, made their way to Calcutta, where they secured passage in a homeward bound vessel.

Some 15 years subsequently Pilot Murray recognized in Capt. Cole, of the ship Kirkum, which called here for a cargo, one of his old companions in the exciting encounter in far-off India. The recognition was mutual, and the two men were delighted to renew their acquaintance after half a generation. —Columbia (S. C.) State.

He Had Just Stepped Out.

The boys who run elevators in hotels and great office buildings come into contact with all manner and conditions of men, and even if naturally dull they soon become bright. The better a judge of human nature, the better the employe is the rule. Here is an instance of tact that could hardly be surpassed. A lady came bustling along to an elevator just as it was going up, and said, with charming innocence: "I want to see a man whose name I do not know, and I do not know, either, what office he is employed in.'" A less experienced elevator boy might have laughed outright at this speech, but this one never cracked a smile. "I am well acquainted with the gentleman you refer to," was his instant reply, "and he has just gone out." The lady thanked him, and walked away seemingly very well satisfied with the information she had received.

Girls as Public Messengers.

In London there is difficulty in getting enough boys to serve as messengers, so the experiment is being made of employing girls. Some of the messenger girls are demure damsels of 17 summers and are said to be quicker than the boys in delivering messages and answering calls. It will be interesting to watch the development of the experiment.

AN ELECTRIC DIET.

Interesting Possibilities for Improving All Kinds and Conditions of Animal Life.

The notion of fattening pigs by electricity is at all events novel, and if the inventor of the process be not disappointed the idea will yet be applied to other animals, and even to human beings. To Dr. W. J. Herdman, of the medical faculty of the University of Michigan, the world owes this discovery, which is to the effect that the galvanic current promotes the growth of tissue—that is to say, the increase of flesh. It had previously been ascertained that plants develop more rapidly under the electric stimulus, and there was no obvious reason why animals should not be equally responsive to it.

Hence the idea of Dr. Herdman, which promises well, though its application cannot as yet be said to have passed beyond the experimental stage.

The doctor, for the sake of convenience, began his experiments with guinea pigs, half a dozen of which he put in each of two cages, taking care that they should all be of exactly the same age, so as to make the conditions of the trial as free from flaw as possible. Around one of the cages he strung several wires, through which a current of electricity was kept passing night and day, while nothing of the kind was done with the other cage. Meanwhile, for a stated period, the animals in both cages were fed with a precisely equal quantity of provender of the same kind, so that there should be no advantage in this respect on either side. As a result it was found that the guinea pigs that lived in an electric environment gained in weight during a measured time ten per cent. more than those of the non-electric cage.

Dr. Herdman is confident that ordinary pigs, if subjected to similar treatment, would exhibit like results. He proposes to build suitably wired pens, and to furnish the growing swine with regular supplies of electricity, much in the same way as was done with the guinea pigs.

Nobody can say what may be the final influence of this new discovery upon the packing trade, or whether the "electric bacon" of the future may not command a special price in the market. The imagination extends the application of Dr. Herdman's discovery to almost any lengths. Why may not the day come when every cow in her stall shall have her private wire? And if electricity is good for pigs, it may serve to fatten babies, or even grown persons who are desirous of increasing their avoirdupois, and thus most interesting possibilities for the improvement of the human physique are opened up.—Saturday Evening Post.

IMPROVED LIFE RAFT.

It Is Self-Inflating and Can Be Folded Into a Small Compass When Not in Use.

This invention relates to a self-inflating little raft, which is capable of being folded into small compass when not in use, and which inflates immediately when taken out of its rack,

SELF-INFLATING RAFT.

without waiting until it strikes the water. The raft is intended for the use of several persons, if necessary, and can also be utilized for carrying supplies. To accomplish its inflation a chemical compartment is provided with a quantity of any suitable sodium or potassium, which will be attacked by an acid, so as to evolve a sufficient quantity of gas for the expansion of the air-tight ring. In order to provide the raft with means for giving a day and night signal, the central mast is hollow and contains a quantity of calcium carbide, which forms an illuminating gas as soon as submitted to the action of the water. As the tube is provided with burners at either end, it makes no difference which side up the raft falls. For day signalling a flag is lashed to the mast. The netting in the center is tightly strung and will support several persons, being suspended above the water level to keep the passengers as dry as possible under the circumstances.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Tobacco Culture in Greece.

Encouraged by the success with which Kavaila tobacco has been grown in Greece, the Hellenic government has decided to devote special attention to the extension of tobacco culture in that country. Large quantities of seed will be procured from Trebizond, Havana and Maryland, and experts will be engaged to teach Greek agriculturists the best methods of cultivation.

CHANNEL EXCAVATOR.

Dredging Apparatus Which Is Intended to Make Building of Deep Water Ways Easy.

The dredging of a deep-water channel for large ships by any of the several methods now in use is a laborious task in spite of all the improved machinery designed for the purpose, but Maurice J. O'Connor, of Drunshambo, Ireland, believes he has invented an apparatus which will do this work more economically and thoroughly than it can be accomplished by any of the old methods. He has taken out patents on the invention in 18 different countries. The apparatus consists of a pair of large steel cylinders, with elongated lips projecting from the central portion which are adapted to engage the earth as the cylinders are drawn toward each other, scooping the earth into the rear portion of the cylinders. The arrangement is such that the vessel can be floated to any required position and then drawn apart to the required distance and sunk to the river bed. The controlling apparatus on the ship above then begins to tighten the chains, causing the cylinders to be forced toward each other, which presses the scoops into the earth and causes a layer of the material of any desired thickness to slide into the cylinders. When the latter are filled they are tilted backward until the opening is at the top. Then the water in the end compartment is forced out by injecting air and the vessel rises to the surface, to be transported to the dumping ground. — Chicago Daily News.

IMPROVED DREDGING MACHINE.

WONDERFUL NEW CAMERA.

Rumor Has It That with It Fair Photographs Have Been Taken Through a Mile of Fog.

To speak of photography in a fog sounds like a cutting from a comic paper rather than a serious scientific fact; but it is a scientific fact, none the less, and the man who is conducting investigations in this peculiar line of photography is the shrewd, energetic ruler of the German empire.

Quite recently the kaiser has been steaming about in the Baltic on his yacht, ostensibly on pleasure bent, but in reality with a far different object. He was accompanied by two men whose skill with the camera and whose knowledge of its construction are unequaled, and the result of that little trip will be the beginning of important developments in connection with the navy and merchant service of Germany, if not of other countries.

By means of a specially constructed camera the kaiser's friends succeeded in obtaining clear and distinct photographs of vessels, and of the coast line, when those objects were a mile off and both the photographer and the photograph were enveloped in a thick fog. This wonderful result was obtained with an exposure of two seconds only.

The necessary complement to the camera is an apparatus that will enable the operator to develop his picture in a few seconds so that it can be thrown on a screen. The perfection of this apparatus is now engaging the attention of the two scientific men, the expenses being paid by the German government.

Merchant vessels in a fog could take their bearings in a similar way, and they would find it more effective than sirens in preventing collisions.—Chicago American.

Sources of Silk Supply.

The world's product of silk is 38,328,828 pounds annually. Of this enormous output western Europe produces 8,829,075 pounds, the Levant and central Asia 3,933,007 pounds, and the far east, which includes China, Japan and most of India, 25,506,828 pounds. China is still, as it always has been, the chief producer of silk, yielding nearly one-third of the entire product. The leading countries in this industry are China, with 12,026,093 pounds; Japan, with 7,960,530 pounds, and Italy, with 6,814,070 pounds. Since 1897 the increase in the silk product has been nearly one-third, the yield for that year having been 14,769,000 pounds, as against 38,328,828 pounds in 1899.

The First Truss Bridge.

It is impossible to say when the first bridge was built, so shrouded in antiquity is the date. But the first metal truss bridge, the erection of which marks the beginning of modern methods of construction, was put up no longer ago than 1840. Almost all of the great bridges of the world have been built within the last quarter of a century. In 1863 a bridge was thrown across the Ohio river with a span of 320 feet, then unprecedented. At the present time the limit of a single span has been extended to 1,710 feet in actual construction, while others of nearly 3,000 feet have been designed by able builders and undoubtedly will be erected.

Per Capita Grain Products.

It has been figured out that the United States produce 2,220 pounds of grain for each inhabitant; England 360 pounds.

HELPED TO SAVE MARYLAND.

Famous Old Home Gaurd of Frederick, Its Flag and Color-Bearer.

From the Washington Post.

A great many people who witnessed the recent inaugural parade noticed with the Maryland League of Clubs a man carrying a tattered and faded old American flag, and there were many inquires as to its significance. The man who carried the flag was Mr. Francis T. Hopwood of Frederick, Md., and the flag itself was presented to the Frederick Home Guard by the ladies of that city 40 years ago.

On May 1, 1861, Gov. Thomas N. Hicks of Maryland commissioned Mr. James Hopwood, father of the man who carried the flag in the inaugural parade, an ensign of the Brengal Home Guard of Frederick City, and authorized him to enlist recruits. More than 300 of the citizens of Frederick and the surrounding country were enrolled. Among them was Mr. John T. Schley, father of Admiral Winfield Scott Schley. The ladies of the city made the flag and presented it to the Guards.

The guardsmen, armed with old flint-lock muskets, guarded the barracks and other Government property in Frederick City, as well as the railroad bridges in the neighborhood. When the Maryland Legislature met in Frederick for the purpose of passing an act of secession, the Home Guard prevented the body from going into secret session, and eventually arrested a number of the members. To the Home Guard there belongs at least a share of the credit that Maryland did not go out of the Union.

The flag waved often in Frederick City during the days of the Civil war. On several occasions when it was run up to welcome what were supposed to be Union troops it had to be hastily taken down and concealed when the approaching forces proved to be Confederates. The people of Frederick regard the old flag proudly as being one of the proofs that they remained loyal to the Union at the time when to be a Unionist required more than ordinary courage.

Accident.

Spring with its muddy roads has arrived.

Farmers are preparing for spring plowing.

The entertainment given by the public school last Saturday night was largely attended.

German school opened Monday of this week.

Among those attending court this week from this section are Messrs. J. L. Richter, John P. Speicher, George Georg, John E. Gnagey, Jos. Groer and Wesley Schroyer.

Senator Ravenscroft spent Saturday and Sunday with his family, returning to Annapolis.

A meeting of the directors of the Garrett County Fire Insurance and Protective Association was held here on Saturday for the purpose of settlement with Nimrod Glotfelty for the loss of his barn.

Mr. J. S. Hartzell, of Addison, Pa., was in town Tuesday of this week.

Our citizens are much pleased over the action of the school board in naming such an able instructor as Prof. R. R. Sanner for the Accident normal. Without a doubt Accident will have the best normal in the county, and especially so with such energetic and able instructors as Profs. Sanner and Frazee. This is an ideal place for a normal school because it is centrally located, thereby being more convenient to a greater number of teachers than elsewhere in the county. Boarding can be had at low rates. A number of places are making preparations to that end. Accident can furnish a number of attractive as well as convenient boarding places.

Mr. W. E. Beeghly, of Deer Park, spent several days at home and at Selbysport last week.

Jonas A. Spiker lost a valuable horse last week.

Short Run.

But few sugar trees tapped in this section yet.

Our school will close on the 20th.

We are glad to report that Mr. Alex. R. Wilson, who was hurt by a trail of logs three weeks ago, is slowly improving though not able to be up yet.

Mr. D. Wilson has had the misfortune to lose another calf. This time by black-leg. This makes nine altogether.

T. R. McRobie caught a large catamount Saturday night.

Mr. George Junkins is visiting the people of this place.

Mr. Jas. H. Wilson was visiting Ryans Glade Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. D. R. Harvey was visiting Baltimore and Washington the first week in March. He took in the Inauguration and reports a good time.

Messrs. J. H. Rafter and P. A. Shultz were visiting D. Wilson Sunday.

Grantsville Normal.

The Grantsville Normal will begin April 8, 1901, and continue ten weeks. Thorough instructions will be given in all branches to be studied by students. A competent assistant will be employed if necessary. Tuitien, $5 and $6.

J. S. GNEGY,
Oakland, Md.

1 3t*

Deer Park.

H. H. Hardman, of Alma, W. Va., was in town last week.

Miss Nannie Rhodeheaver spent Sunday with Swanton friends.

Mrs. Entler visited Oakland friends last week.

Rev. Fisher, of Loch Lynn, will preach in the Union church Sunday evening. A cordial welcome is extended to all.

Mr. and Mrs. John Felty, of Oakland, spent Sunday with Deer Park friends.

Hon. A. F. George, of Swanton, was in town Saturday.

Bailiff Morley is on the sick list this week.

Mr. H. Laughlin, of Grafton, spent Sunday with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Laughlin.

Mr. Wm. Wright, of Altamont, was in town last Wednesday.

Miss Georgia Hoye was visiting friends in Oakland Tuesday.

P. J. Garrett was visiting Cumberland friends Tuesday.

Prof. W. E. Beeghly returned Saturday from a three days' visit to his home in Accident.

Misses Blanche and Effa Enlow, who have been visiting their sister, Mrs. John Speicher, returned to their home near Oakland, Saturday.

H. F. Naturnich, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, was a guest of the Freeland House last week.

Clarence Lashorn returned Saturday from a week's visit to Keyser friends.

Mr. Charles Moore will have charge of the devotional meeting of the Epworth League Sunday evening. All are invited. 6.30 p. m.

Miss Bertha Friend spent Monday with Oakland friends.

Mr. Joseph Marville, of Blaine, was in town several days last week.

Miss Bessie Paugh was visiting friends in Mt. Lake Park Monday.

Fletcher Rhodeheaver was visiting Swanton friends last week.

Miss Ethel Ritzell, of Keyser, who has been visiting Mrs. Jos. Lashorn, returned home Monday.

Walter Flanigan, of Cumberland, was in town Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Reis and Miss Grace Morley spent Sunday with Altamont friends.

Mr. Joseph Lashorn is in Swanton this week.

Miss Margaret Browning, who has been the assistant in the Deer Park school, returned to her home in Oakland Sunday. Miss Browning is an excellent teacher and has made many friends during her stay in this place.

Carol, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Miller, who had her hands so badly burned some weeks ago, is improving slowly.

Messrs. Fridell, of Pittsburg, and Bohr, of Cumberland, were guests at the Lashorn House last week.

Mr. George Morley, Sr., is having some decided improvements made on his residence on High street.

Rumor says we are to have an Easter wedding.

Miss Josephine Grimm gave a taffy party to a number of friends Saturday evening. All say they had a "sweet" time.

Mrs. L. Lohm was called to Grafton Tuesday by a telegram announcing the serious ill of her son, H. H. Lohm.

The quarterly conference of the M. E. church will be held in this place March 30th and 31st.

School opened up again Monday morning after a vacation of three days. Seventy-one pupils are enrolled. Prof. W. E. Beeghly and Miss Minnie Stemple are the teachers in charge.

M. A.

Sunnyside.

Mrs. John G. Knauer has been very ill for more than two weeks. At this writing she seems somewhat better. Dr. J. Gilbert Selby, of Eglon, is her attending physician. The doctor has been very successful and has a large practice.

Mrs. George W. Ward died at the Woltermer Institute, Nevada, Mo., whither she had gone some months ago for treatment.

Miss Monia Williams, sister of Mrs. Ed. Sanders, of near this place, died on the 16th inst. of pneumonia. Interment on Monday, the 18th, at Union chapel, Rev. Fisher officiating. The family return heartfelt thanks to friends and neighbors for their kindness during the illness of the loved one.

Mr. Frank Arnold wears two stovepipe hats and trouser legs in boot tops—a bouncing girl baby. He thinks the baby will not be disfranchised just yet.

The postmaster of this place is still licking postage stamps at one and two cents each. However, extra licks cost more.

Prof. J. S. Gnegy spent a short time at this place. Welcome, professor; come again.

Gorman seems to be "gettin' there."

Some one, or probably a small combine, in this immediate community has been busily engaged in efforts to attend to the affairs of others in various ways by spewing out of their filthy mouths, as it were, regardless of truth, slurring and slanderous communications, writing filthy rot, penciling ignominious drawings on the blackboard in the school house, showing utter disregard to all appearance of respectability to self or others, by writing on paper the most damnable, low-down blackguardism conceivable only by the most degraded minds, showing a plain case of Sam Jones' starving the man and feeding the dog, then turning the dog out, letting it run at large, to do its degraded work with pencil and paper, placing it in a conspicuous place in the public school building, then we imagine walk away licking its chops, with a diabolical grin of satisfaction, saying, "well done, faithful puppy. We've done all we can to degrade ourselves and the entire community so far as in us lies. We'll take a rest till we can get some more 'I heard' and 'they say.'" Now bear in mind that some day you will bark up the wrong tree, and why not? "He that soweth filth shall reap corruption and condemnation."

YOU KNOW.

Mountain Lake Park.

Mr. Rudisill next week, will visit the Baltimore Conference at Hagerstown and the Central Pennsylvania Conference at Chambersburg, Pa., circulating Park literature.

C. W. Hopkins has returned from his visit to Cincinnati, O.

Mrs. Judge Haymond, of Fairmont, has rented Miss McClark's house for next summer.

E. W. L. Mayers, deceased, of Fairmont, and who during his life was a summer visitor at the Park, was a member of the National Union. Last week his widow received a check from the Union for $5,000. This will be good news to the members of the National Union Counsels in Oakland and the Park.

"They will never again spend a summer at Mountain Lake Park." We have occasionally heard such talk. Possibly you have. Well, we looked the matter up and found the people were located just where we expected—in the graveyard.

Thos. Everetts has rented the Wm. Thayer cottage for the summer and will move into it in a few days.

The tabernacle is having a new roof put on it, cedar shingles being used.

Rev. A. Mick was a visitor at the Park last Thursday. Our people are anxious that he shall preach for us in the near future.

Rev. Dr. Mills, of New York City, is to preach the opening sermon June 2, at 11 a. m. Saturday night, June 1st, a 20th Century Rally is to take place. A platform meeting will be held. Short addresses by Revs. Arbuthnot, Mick and Jones. Dr. Mills is one of the best pulpit orators in the country.

Rev. L. A. Rudisill preached in the Methodist church at Terra Alta Sabbath last, at 11 a. m.

Alex. Bradford, of Philippi, was a visitor at this place last week. He was surprised at the many new houses erected since his last visit to the Park.

The framing lumber for a four room house has been ordered and will be placed on the ground in a few days.

TO CURE LAGRIPPE IN TWO DAY

Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE TABLETS. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature on every box. 25c.

Stops the Cough and Works off the Cold.

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 5 cents.

Healthy Mothers

Few mothers are healthy, because their duties are so exacting. The anxiety of pregnancy, the shock of childbirth, and the care of young children, are severe trials on any woman. But with Wine of Cardui within her grasp, every mother—every woman in the land—can pay the debt of personal health she owes her loved ones. Do you want robust health with all its privileges and pleasures? Wine of Cardui will give it to you.

WINE of CARDUI

strengthens the female organs and invigorates weakened functions. For every female ill or weakness it is the best medicine made. Ask your druggist for $1.00 bottle Wine of Cardui, and take no substitute under any circumstances.

Mrs. Edwin Cross, Gormer, Mich.: "When I commenced using Wine of Cardui I was hardly able to walk across the house. Two weeks after I walked half a mile and picked strawberries. When my other child was born I suffered with labor pains 24 hours, and had to raise him on a bottle because I had no milk. After using the Wine during pregnancy this time, I gave birth last month to a baby girl, and was in labor only two hours, with but little pain, and I have plenty of milk. For this great improvement in my health I thank God and Wine of Cardui."

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, "The Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

$900 YEARLY to Christian man or woman to look after our growing business in this and adjoining counties, to act as Manager and Correspondent; work can be done at your home. Enclose self-addressed stamped envelope for particulrs to U. A. KNIGHT, General Manager, Corcoran Building, opposite United States Treasury, Washington, D. C.

The Garrett County Bank

OAKLAND, MD.

Pays 3 Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Subscribed Capital, - $50,000.00
Liability of Stockholders, 100,000.00
Surplus Fund, - - 10,000.00

DIRECTORS:

DANIEL E. OFFUTT,
GILMOR S. HAMILL,
JOHN M. DAVIS,
GEORGE W. LEGGE,
JOHN T. MITCHELL,
JOHN M. FREELAND,
SCOTT T. JONES.

D. E. OFFUTT, President.
G. S. HAMILL, Vice-President.
S. T. JONES, Cashier.

Authorized Capital $32,000.

The First National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MD.

Now Open for Business

Offers to its patrons every advantage consistent with sound Banking, and which their balances, business and responsibility warrant.

3 per cent. Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

WE SOLICIT YOUR BUSINESS.

DIRECTORS.

Ed A. Browning, - Oakland, Md.
C. E. Ellithorp, - Bittinger, Md.
L. E. Friend, - Friendsville, Md.
Wm. Moody, - Bloomington, Md.
U. G. Palmer, - Hutton, Md.
R. A. Ravenscroft, Accident, Md.
E. E. Sollars, - Oakland, Md.
U. M. Stanton, - Grantsville, Md.
F. A. Thayer, - Oakland, Md.
M. N. Wilson, - Wilson, W. Va.

OFFICERS.

F. A. THAYER, - President.
M. N. WILSON, - Vice-President.
U. G. PALMER, - Cashier.
M. R. HAMILL, Assistant Cashier.

TURNBULL'S Furniture, Carpeting and Curtains.

Elegance, moderate cost and unequalled assortments are the characteristics of our stock. It represents the best of everything in CARPETING, FURNITURE and CURTAINS.

JOHN TURNBULL & CO., 16-18-20 W. Baltimore St., BALTIMORE, MD.

You Get the Profits

Under our plan of selling carriages, buggies, and harness, you get the profits. The jobber and retailer are cut out. By dealing direct with the manufacturer, you pay only the cost of making with a moderate profit added; and you take your choice from the biggest stock and fullest assortment. Our plan of

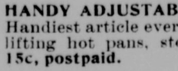
Selling Carriages Direct

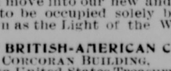
insures satisfaction—your money back if you are dissatisfied. Our complete illustrated catalogue, showing many styles of high grade vehicles, harness, robes, blankets and horse equipments, with detailed descriptions of each, mailed free.

THE COLUMBUS CARRIAGE AND HARNESS CO., Box 772, Columbus, Ohio.

No. 3054—Buggy. Price, $38.30, with leather quarter top.



No. 248—Single Strap Buggy Harness. Price, $7.95.



THE SECOND NATIONAL BANK of CUMBERLAND, MD.

Designated United States Depository.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.
BOXES FREE TO CUSTOMERS.

This Bank Pays Three Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Capital.....$100,000
Surplus and Other Undivided Profits..250,000
Liability of Shareholders.....100,000

Additional Security to Depositors...$450,000

LLOYD LOWNDES, President.
D. ANNAN, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Lloyd Lowndes, O. C. Gephart,
James Clark, L. M. Shepherd,
John Sheridan, A. Hunter Boyd,
David W. Sloan.

Midget Harness Riveter.

Complete repair shop in one tool. Will not wear out. Punches the hole, drives and clinches at one operation. Every horse owner, liveryman, teamster will buy on sight. Does the work of any $25 machine. Complete outfit with big bog of rivets will be sent for

ONLY 50 CENTS.

Agents Wanted.

HANDY ADJUSTABLE LIFTER. Handiest article ever invented for lifting hot pans, stove lids, etc. 15c, postpaid.

S. T. WILSON & CO.,
Box 103. Wilson, W. Va.

I HAVE PURCHASED

THE OAKLAND COAL YARD

of Mr. D. L. Conneway and will continue the business. I will keep constantly on hand a large supply of

HARD AND SOFT

COAL,

KINDLING WOOD, Etc.

All orders will receive prompt attention. Leave orders with the weighmaster or at my residence, the Giessman Hotel.

35-2 GEO. GIESSMAN

Oakland Pharmacy

JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.

Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars Cameras and Photo Supplies

The Light of the World

—OR—

Our Saviour in Art

cost nearly $100,000 to publish. Contains nearly one hundred full-page engravings copied direct from the World's Greatest Paintings of our Saviour and His Mother. Contains History of Painting, Biography of Painter, and the Galleries in Europe where the Original Painting may be seen. The most beautiful publication ever issued. The strongest hearts weep at the sight of these wonderful pictures of Jesus and His Mother. Everybody says they are grand, sublime, matchless, magnificent, beautiful, inspiring and uplifting. The sale is unprecedented. The presses are running day and night to fill the orders. Twelve car loads of paper were required for the last edition. Small fortunes are being made by the thrifty with this marvelous work. Contains also a Child's story beautifully written to fit each picture. This wonderful book, matchless in its purity and beauty, appeals to every mother's heart and in every Christian home, where there are children it sells itself. A Christian man or woman can soon clear one thousand dollars ($1,000) taking orders in this community. Others are doing this. Why not you? We are advertising in nearly ten thousand newspapers in this country, Canada, England and Austria. Shipping books to every English-speaking country in the world. We shall promote our best workers to positions of State Managers, Correspondents and Office Assistants. We also own and publish large Photo-gravure Etchings of the great Paintings in the galleries of Europe. One or more of these Etchings can be sold in every home. By carrying the books and the engravings your success will be tremendous. Mrs. Waite, of Worcester, Mass., has sold nearly four thousand dollars worth of books there. Mrs. Sackett has sold nearly two thousand dollars worth of books in New York. Both of these ladies answered our advertisements, and had never sold a book before. Took 14 orders first two days—H. Colwell. Took 5 orders first day; 23 orders first week, clearing over $50—Hattie Lemwell. Thousands of others like above. It is printed on velvet finished paper; bound in Cardinal Red, Green and Gold and adorned with Golden Roses and Lilies. Write quickly for terms as the territory is going rapidly. When you prove your success, we will promote you to the position of Manager and Correspondent under yearly contract.

We shall soon move into our new and elegant structure to be occupied solely by us, and to be known as the Light of the World Building.

Address THE BRITISH-AMERICAN CO., CORCORAN BUILDING, Opposite United States Treasury, WASHINGTON, D. C.

J. B. WILLIAMS CO.

FROSTBURG, MD.

Cheapest place to buy

MONUMENTS HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING

Send for prices

Cure That Cold

And it can be done for 25 cents—a dose or two and relief is instant—a few doses more and the cure is complete.

Pine and Terpin Cough Syrup

Is a new remedy—contains new drugs and new chemicals—a trial will convince anyone of its merit—it cures where all else fails.

LOGAN DRUG COMPANY,
At all Druggists. WHEELING, W. VA.

GEO. FLACK SANSBURY, ARCHITECT,

Office 7 North Liberty St.

CUMBERLAND, MD.

NORMAN S. HEINDEL, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
All business given prompt attention.
Office—Opera House, OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

FRED A. THAYER, ATTORNEY AT LAW, OAKLAND, MD.
STATE'S ATTORNEY FOR GARRETT COUNTY.
Office in McComas's Building, Main St. Will be assisted in all important cases by Benjamin A. Richmond of the Cumberland bar.

GILMOR S. HAMILL, ATTORNEY AT LAW AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY
OFFICE ON ALDER STREET.
Particular attention given to Conveyancing, investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated. fe14-1y

JULIUS C. RENNINGER, ATTORNEY & COUNSELLOR AT LAW.
Office opposite Bank, OAKLAND, MD.
Will practice in the courts of Maryland and West Virginia.
Real estate and mercantile law given special attention. Collections and investments made for clients. 45—1yr

EDWARD H. SINCELL, ATTORNEY AT LAW, OAKLAND, MARYLAND,
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia. '88 10 6

DR. R. F. BARTLETT, DENTIST.
Office in McComas building, Second Street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work. 18-98-tf.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST, Felty Building, Opposite Postoffice, OAKLAND, MD
GAS ADMINISTERED. 50-97

DR. C. HINEBAUGH, M. D., PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, OAKLAND, MD.
Office and residence, Alder St., west of post office.

DR. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M. D., PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North 3rd Street.
Office in Shartzer's Block, Second Street.

DR. J. E. LEGGE, PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Prompt attention paid to day or night calls.
Office at McComas' Sanitarium. 16-'99

DR. H. W. McCOMAS, M. D., PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, OAKLAND, MD.
Office opposite Garrett County Bank.
Residence on Main Street, opposite Brown's Hotel.
Office hours, 8 to 10 a. m., 2 to 3 p. m., 8 to p. m., from June to October and from October to June, 7 to 8.30 p. m.

DR. D. O. McKINLEY, RESIDENT DENTIST, SALISBURY, PENNA.
Will visit regularly through Garrett county, Md., and offers his services to those wishing Dental Treatment. Charges moderate
P. O. address, Elk Lick, Pa. 6 22 6m

E. J. FRANTZ, LICENSED AUCTIONEER,
Residence and P. O. Address, SELBYSPORT, MD.

ANDREW J. HARNE, AUCTIONEER.
Will sell real or personal property.
Residence Oakland, Garrett county, Md.
Oakland, Md., Feb. 21st, 1887.

W. McCULLOH BROWN, SURVEYOR AND ENGINEER, LAND SURVEYS PROMPTLY MADE.
Particular attention given to TOWN surveying, and the use of the LEVEL in laying out new roads, streets, water works, drains, and GRADE LINES generally, including tram ways and railroad work. Comparative elevations taken quickly by aneroid barometer. Address, box 41, Oakland, Md. 48 26t*

JONAS C. BEACHY, LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
Will sell Real or Personal Estate.
Residence and post office address, BITTINGER, MD. 51-1yr.

ALEX'R C. MASON, PRACTICAL SURVEYOR, OAKLAND, MD.
Long experience enables me to locate tracts and military lots promptly and accurately. Being thoroughly familiar with the beginning corners of the most important surveys both in Allegany and Garrett counties. Plats, descriptions and estimates furnished. 40-1yr.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R. TIME TABLE IN EFFECT NOV. 25, 1900.

The following time table on the B. & O. went into effect on Sunday, Nov. 25, 1900. Trains now leave Oakland as follows:

GOING WEST.

No. 7.—Daily		2.40 A. M
No. 3—Daily		7.37 A. M
No. 71—Daily except Sunday		9.21 A. M
No. 55—Daily		4.47 P. M
No. 1—Daily		10.05 P. M

GOING EAST.

No. 8—Daily		5.50 A. M
No. 2—Daily		6.53 A. M
No. 46—Express, daily		4.41 P. M
No. 72—Accom daily except Sun		2.26 P. M
No. 12—Daily		8.30 P. M
No. 4—Daily		12.37 A. M

F. D. UNDERWOOD, General Manager.
D. B. MARTIN, Manager of Passenger Traffic.
D. M. MASON, Agent.

WEST VIRGINIA CENTRAL AND PITTSBURG RAILWAY CO. IN EFFECT NOV 25, 1900.

SOUTHWARD No. 3 P. M.	No. 1 A. M.	STATIONS	NORTHWARD NOON No. 2	No. 4 P. M.
3 15†	7 00† lv	Cumberland ar	†12 00	†7 00
3 43	7 29	Rawlings	11 31	6 31
4 06	7 52	Keyser	11 08	6 09
4 16	8 05	Westernport	10 58	5 57
4 20	8 09	W. Va. C. June.	10 51	5 50
4 39	8 35	Shaw	10 28	5 22
5 00	9 00	Harrison	†10 06	†5 00
5 45*	9 50* ar	Elk Garden	*8 10	*4 10
5 41†	9 35† lv	Gorman	†9 35	4 30
5 47	9 42	Bayard	9 29	4 25
5 59	9 54	Dobbin	9 19	4 15
6 02	9 58	Henry	9 15	4 11
6 37	10 27	Thomas	8 48	3 47
6 55	10 55 ar	Davis	8 05	3 05
6 31	10 34 lv	Coketon	8 41	3 40
6 39	11 01	Hendricks	8 10	3 10
7 02	11 04	Hambleton	8 07	3 07
7 05	11 07	Bretz	8 03	3 03
7 08	11 10	Parsons	8 00	3 00
7 41	11 45	Kerens	7 25	2 29
8 00†	12 00† ar	Elkins	lv †7 10	†2 15
NOON
8 36*	12 45† ar	Beverly	lv*7 20	†1 40
9 05*	1 10† ar	Huttonsville	lv *6 30	†1 15
P. M.				P. M.
	3 15* ar	Bealington	lv	*11 40
	P. M.			A. M. A. M.

†Daily. *Daily except Sunday.

C. L. BRETZ, Gen. Manager. G. W. HARRISON, Gen. Pas. Agent

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 25. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, MARCH 28, 1901. NUMBER 3.

ASSEMBLYMAN FINZEL

Delivers a Ringing Speech in the House

AGAINST THE ELECTION BILL.

He Reviews the Fall of Carthage and Hannibal and Deducts Therefore the Consequences Which Are Sure to Follow in Maryland.

MR. SPEAKER AND MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE OF DELEGATES:—When the pampered Praetorian Guards knocked down at auction to the highest bidder the once mighty Roman Empire letters had taken the place of love of country, education had exchanged liberty for luxury, freedom for tyranny and Roman citizenship for license, plunder and debauchery.

The unlettered founders of the greatest republic in history were in their graves, and their silken-robed, wine-guzzling and effeminate successors, lolling in the laps of harlots and mistresses, amused their idle hours writing sonnets to immorality and polished verses to vice.

Senators whose wisdom and soldiers whose courage had made the then known world respect the humblest individual who could legally exclaim "I am a Roman citizen," were succeeded by licentious and lettered Patricians, whose villas were frescoed with the obscene productions of depraved genius. Sculpture and painting, architecture and personal adornment were designed, devoted to and had no other inspiration than the bestial gratification of the senses.

The highest effort of art and the most lauded inspiration of the muses were the productions of the obscene in fresco or in verse. Sunk in the exquisite debauchery of educated immorality, emasculated of that better part of manhood, which teaches without schools of letters, the creatures whom God has created in His own likeness and endowed with an intelligence superior to all other living animals—the lessons of virtue, temperance, moderation, industry and courage; the degenerated and lettered Roman fell to rise no more before the sword of the conquering and undebauched barbarian of the Rhine.

But, Mr. Speaker, in the more pussiant days of the Roman Republic, when its warriors were unconquerable and its legislators famous for statesmanship and the rugged eloquence of intelligent and far-seeing politicians, an African black shook their fabric of greatness from its center to its circumference, with such fear of his arms that in the Senate itself their greatest tribune never concluded one of his matchless orations on any subject without exclaiming "Delenda est Carthage!"—Carthage must be destroyed. "And why must Carthage be destroyed?" asked the opposition of that day, and the answer came from the ancient democracy, "Because it is the city of Hannibal, the black man who crossed the Alps and defeated, by his superior strategy in the art of war, the greatest of our generals."

So Carthage was destroyed for this reason and because it was a rival to Rome through the genius of Hannibal. In destroying Carthage and Hannibal Rome succeeded for a time in being sole mistress of the world, but Hannibal and Carthage by this destruction were made as immortal as their conquerors. If, then, history teaches us any one thing more impressively than another it is the futility of seeking temporary advantage or aggrandizement by the unwise exercise of the power we are possessed to destroy that which would redound more greatly to our honor, happiness and perpetuity to preserve.

The Roman excuse for the destruction of Carthage that it was a rival and preferred alliances other than Roman was just as illogical and absurd as are the master motives which inspire this bill. How puerile, impolitic and unstatesmanlike is this Democratic party of Maryland, which in the dawn of the twentieth century takes for its model the narrow-minded Puritan of New England and repudiates the chivalrous cavalier and liberal far-seeing founders who made the very name of Maryland famous throughout the world more than a century before Virginia gave birth to Washington.

The Toleration Act of 1647, Mr. Speaker, was the first rift in the clouds of persecution, which enveloped the whole civilized world. It was immeasurably greater in effect than the so-called Magna-Charter wrung from the fears of King John by the Barons of Runeymede because, while the latter only provided for the body of the nobles, the Maryland Act enfranchised the soul of the people. While the Puritan of New England was making senility a crime worthy of death at the stake, exceeding even Indian barbarity towards the old and the helpless, Maryland, with the sunlight of God making luminous the minds of her sons and her founders, proclaimed civil and religious liberty within the confines of her domain and invited the persecuted and the oppressed to the shelter of her bosom.

The glorious heritage, the fathers of the Revolution, made the common property of all in the Declaration of Independence, drafted by Jefferson, the Virginian, and signed by Carroll, of Carrollton, the richest Rebel and the first citizen of Maryland. In that immortal document there is no religious test, there is no property test, there if no education test, but in the most unqualified manner in which language is capable of expressing thought or intention, civil and religious liberty is guaranteed to all. Without these two pillars, civil and religious liberty, there is no citizenship; no legal equality, inherited by birth-right or conferred. There can be no abridgement of citizenship.

Next to the throne of the Eternal God the highest tribunal of man since the foundation of the world has been the arbitrament of battle for the settlement of conflicting issues. To this terrible, alternative and earthly tribunal was submitted the status of the black man in this Republic, and the result was declared over the unshrouded corpses of more than a million dead and amidst the blazing fires, which consumed more than a billion of wealth, that the black man in this Republic should henceforth enjoy with his white brother the blessings, rights and privileges of civil and religious liberty.

The assembled statesmanship of a mighty nation subsequently conferred upon him unabridged citizenship. For over one hundred years the white men of the Republic alone had the inalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. No statesman and no legislature ever attempted or succeeded in abridging these privileges. No educational test was ever enacted by the Congress of the United States or the legislature of any State in the Union subjecting the white citizen to such tests before he had the privilege to exercise the franchise. And for more than thirty years, since the close of the Civil war, both black and white in every State in the Union were exempted from any abridgement of their citizenship in the shape of an educational test. The Carolinas have enacted legislation disfranchising the unlettered citizen, and it is no secret, but openly proclaimed that this disfranchisement was solely meant for the black citizen. Owing to the preponderance of the illiterate black commoner and the few illiterate white commoners in these two States, the Bryan party saw the temporary advantage of destroying Carthage and Hannibal. And now Maryland is asked to imitate them and adopt this undemocratic policy.

But, Mr. Speaker, leaving out for the time being the immoral features of such an infamous proposition as the disfranchisement of the "plain people," as Mr. Bryan calls them, white or black, let me call the attention of the House of Delegates to the different conditions existing in this State.

I hold in my hands the tabulated census of illiterate voters in the State of Maryland; the total number of illiterates is 44,923, of which number 26,616 are colored and 18,307 are white. Now you will perceive that as the total registered vote is 281,589 these returns show that nearly one out of each six voters in the State of Maryland is illiterate. This bill then proposes to disfranchise one-sixth of the citizens of this State, and nearly one-half this one-sixth are white, native and to the manor born. Why, Mr. Speaker, in my county of Garrett there are 352 white illiterate voters and but 12 illiterate colored citizens. And while on this topic or portion of my remarks I desire to have read at the clerk's desk the following table of illiterate voters, as per the census returns of illiterates, to which I have referred. I will not detain you with having this read now, however, but proceed with my argument.

Of the 300 or more illiterate whites in my county many of them are among its heavy tax payers. Would you disfranchise a tax payer? If so, where is our boasted shibboleth which set fire to the Faggots of the Revolution—"no taxation without representation?" Will you tax a white citizen and deny him the right and privilege of voting or having any voice in the manner in which the tax you make him pay shall be expended? The educated criminal on his restoration to citizenship after release from the penitentiary can vote as to the manner in which an honest man's taxes shall be expended, but the law-abiding, honest man himself is denied by the provisions of this bill any say in the matter if he is an illiterate. The educated gutter-snipes of our cities, who have a smattering of education rammed down their throats at the school house on the same street in which they are born and lived, can vote away the taxes of honest men, who, on the farm, the mine, the forest or on the waters, far distant from any school house, have had to toil since early boyhood, denied the privileges of the education which the city rounder and pet politician has had forced on him for nothing. Is this Democratic? Is this reason, equity or justice? What now becomes of the eternally reiterated Democratic shibboleth of a government by the people, for the people and of the people?

Mr. Speaker, I know the majority of the white and black illiterate voters in my constituency. They are about evenly divided politically; but I desire to proclaim on this floor that both God and nature have qualified them for citizenship—if honesty, industry and God-fearing lives are qualifications, and I am proud to assert that they are—and such qualifications better fit the exercise the franchise then the smattering of education imbibed by the rounders and healers of the large cities of this or other States. Some of these illiterates in my consistency went out with guns on their shoulders in their boyhood to save this Republic. Now, full of years and suffering from the wounds and hardships endured that their country might live, the State of Maryland—no, not the gallant, the liberty-loving State of Maryland, but a faction of politicians in the Democratic party—propose to disfranchise them and place them on the level of the black slaves whose liberty they fought for. What an atrocious proposition! What unheard of ingratitude! Thousands of white citizens toiling early and late on the farm, in the mines, in the forest and on the waters, the bays, the inlets, the rivers of our States, sturdy, honest and brave Marylanders, fearing God and working for a poor enough living for themselves and little ones, are to be disfranchised and reduced to the condition of the Hellots in the Spartan Republic by this proposed legislation of the Democratic party of Maryland. And why? We all know why, Mr. Speaker. It is that 18,000 white men may be figuratively throttled to kill off 26,000 negroes, to the end that a certain well known and sufficiently honored leader in your party may be elected by the next legislature to the Senate of the United States. To gratify this man's ambition you would emasculate the manhood of 18,000 white and 26,000 black citizens of Maryland. And you expect to succeed? You may indeed pass this unrighteous measure, but mark my prediction, the manhood of Maryland will repudiate you at the polls as you were repudiated in November last. Your scheme will fail. God, justice and humanity are arrayed against your nefarious undertaking. Talk not to me or the other intelligent citizens of Maryland your sophistries on educational qualifiacations. God has implanted in the breasts of mankind hearts that feel and in their heads brains that think. Before letters were in use and before printing was invented the hearts and heads of illiterate men commanded armies, swayed the multitude and steered the bark of State safely and well. Kings and princes, nobles and knights, statesmen and politicians existed before letters and before the printing press. The multitude, Mr. Bryan's "plain people," also lived, cared for their parents, loved their young, toiled for their living and shared the common intelligence born of God. It requires no education to be good, honest, law-abiding and patriotic. Loving one's parents, children, country and God, men born and raised in our State and in our times have demonstrated that intelligence which qualifies them for the exercise of the franchise you would deprive them of. They knew when their country was in danger and flocked to its standard. Even the black man, whom you are especially after, has the natural intelligence to select the political party of his friends. If illiteracy is ignorance, how comes it that as you must yourselves acknowledge the black man selects the right party for his support when he votes the Republican ticket? In what State of the Union is there a Republican party proposition to disfranchise the colored voter or the white illiterate voter? Not one. This natural intelligence, Mr. Speaker, is God's gift to man to be expanded or improved or polished, if you will, by letters and education. Now, as to the education, the schools do not possess the monopoly. There is education for mankind other than that acquired at schools. And an education too that developes the natural intelligence. Contact with one's fellows and the struggle for bread sharpens and brightens the intellect. What American youth of voting age does not know that it is a State's prison offence to rob or steal? If illiterate it may well be asked, How does he know it? How does he know he is the son of his mother? How does he know enough to be a christian, a Democrat or a Republican? How did he become an expert fisherman, sailor or farmer? Now, Mr. Speaker, he has never been to school, and yet this typical illiterate man is a sound Democrat or Republican, well versed in partisan politics; he is an expert and skillful fisherman, sailor, farmer or mechanic. How did he acquire these accomplishments? In the same manner precisely as the child learns how to walk, to talk, to love and know its parents, to be obedient, respectful, virtuous and industrious. In fact, to know good from evil. The illiterate voter, like the child, has informed himself by contact with the world and the verbal information he has received and has thus broadened his natural intelligence. He knows which party to vote for, as the principles of the rival parties are known to him just as well as the best fishing ground and how to ply his vocation satisfactorily whatever that vocation may be. He has memory and the things told him he remembers. His experience and labor at whatever business he is engaged in have taught him practically, not theoretically, and to live he has had to master the details and perfect himself to his vocation. Can you call this man ignorant because he is illiterate? What are letters, Mr. Speaker, but a system, a plan of imparting knowledge and information theoretically, so to speak? If the unlettered man is informed that the Constitution of the United States and the State of Maryland guarantees him life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, does he not know, feel and realize the importance of the information as well as if he had read it in a book? If the stump orator tells him that the Democratic party seeks his disfranchisement, that it stands for the free and unlimited coinage of silver, that its leaders have induced the Governor to summon this extra session, at a large expense to the tax payers of the State, for the purposes explained, does he not know these things as well as if he had read them in the Baltimore or Annapolis newspapers!

Assemblyman Finzel, of Garrett County.

In view, Mr. Speaker, of the number and eloquence of the stump orator of both and of all the political parties who go up and down the land cavorting during every campaign, I ask if it is possible to find a white man or a black man within the confines of this or any other State in the Union who is in ignorance of the issues at stake as explained from the point of view of the illustrious politicians of both and of all the parties?

It may be alleged against the illiterate voter that he is liable to be misinformed and deceived or that his memory is not capable of retaining the information imparted to him. As to the first of these possibilities affecting the illiterate voter I need only recall to the Delegates their individual experiences with the illiterate voter—the Democratic spell-binder who has tried to capture the negro voter or the Republican canvasser who has tried to hoodwink a Democratic illiterate voter. But, Mr. Speaker, besides the absurdity implied in any effort to cajole or deceive the illiterate voter on the issues at stake, how much better off would he be, or rather better equipped, to resist the sophistries of the orators or writers of either party by being able to read?

When we contemplate the oceans of literature distributed gratuitously by the campaign committees of the respective parties, and when we further realize the able efforts of the campaign editors of campaign sheets, we must, as honest men and in all conscience, admit that the voter who is more liable to be taken off his feet and deceived is the educated and not the illiterate citizen.

It is the most true, and every man realizes it as he goes through the world either in politics or business or trade, the superficially educated individual is, as a rule, inferior in intelligence, depth and experience to the practically educated illiterate. And nowhere do we find this better illustrated than among the negroes of the South.

I do not undervalue letters, Mr. Speaker, but many an individual has turned into a frivolous, trifling and utterly unreliable citizen by a little learning, who might otherwise be a contented, honest and industrious toiler.

The cities of the country are crowded with examples or illustrations of the fact—

"A little learning is a dangerous thing."

What I desire to convey is not an argument in disparagement of letters nor a defense of illiteracy, but a demonstration of a well-known truth that illiteracy is not ignorance where natural intelligence in man is not deficient or below the average and education is powerless to impart knowledge, common sense or intellecual superiority to those whose natural intelligence is deficient and whose common sense is below par. I value letters. I have been an educational instructor in the schools for over nine years and have had some experience along the line of my remark, which has convinced me that of all blatherskites the most irrepressible and the most intolerable is the so-called educated ass, who, posing as a free-born American citizen, would impose conditions for his equally free-born neighbor of a nature as offensive as they are senseless and inadequate as a test of either patriotism, intelligence or manhood.

This proposed law, Mr. Speaker, is undemocratic, un-Jeffersonian and un-Jacksonian inasmuch as it seeks to degrade an equal fellow citizen—our peer in every legal sense—below that dignity and privilege which is the birthright inheritance of the native born and which is conferred upon the aspiring, worthy and liberty loving of other lands who elect to throw in their lot with ours. To be consistent, if you pass this measure, you should not hesitate to also enact legislation relieving from all taxation the disfranchised citizens of the State, for "taxation without representation" in the primer of American education "is tyranny."

Were I inspired by the hope of partisan advantage I would remain discreetly silent while you enacted this most iniquitous measure, for there is no doubt in the mind of any reasonable man in Maryland that the enactment into law of this bill will result disastrously to the party involved.

You will no longer be able to hide your defeat behind the ubiquitious negro and the Republican party will fight you, white man for white man, with the unviolated constitution on our side and with the consistent record of a government by the people, for the people and of the whole people.

The passage of this law, Mr. Speaker, will direct the eyes of the whole country to Maryland, and not only our own but foreign countries will be the witnesses of our shame and retrogression. Maryland will be irreparably injured in this backward step, and the capital and prosperity we were surely wooing to our shores by the manifestation of our progress which we were continuously giving—and not the least of which was the wheeling of the State into line with the advancing Republican column in November last—will now abandon us and seek investment and outlet elsewhere.

These are the motives which move me, Mr. Speaker, to protest with all the emphasis of my soul against the enactment of this measure and the disfranchisement of honest, law-abiding and God-fearing citizens, whose misfortune (and not whose fault) you would punish by reducing them to the condition of Hellots in the land of their birth, a land nurtured by the blood of their fathers in the establishment of liberty and preserved by themselves and their sons against domestic and foreign foes.

When the sunlight of heaven flashed upon the naked steel of the gallant negro soldiers, who with their white comrades mounted to the assault of San Juan hill, neither Shafter nor Roosevelt nor even "Fighting Joe" Wheeler halted the column to pick out the illiterates. All were equal in the face of death, and cheering and charging side by side with Old Glory kissing the breeze, the blue uniforms of black men and white men were seen through the cannon smoke ascending step by step the heights upon whose summit Freedom stood ready to laurel the brave and embrace the regenerated and emancipated Gem of the Antilles.

MR. FINZEL'S BILL.

Prohibiting the Collection of Taxes from Those Who Become Disqualified from Voting Under the New Law.

Assemblyman Patrick E. Finzel scored a point on the Democrats in the Maryland Legislature on last Thursday by introducing into the House a bill prohibiting the collection of taxes from those who are disqualified from voting by the new election law passed at the present session. The bill was referred to the committee on legislation where no doubt it will be smothered. The text of the proposed measure follows:

An Act to prohibit all residents of the State of Maryland, who are disfranchised by the election passed at the extraordinary sessions, in the year nineteen hundred and one, from paying State and county taxes.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That all persons who are residents of the State of Maryland, who are disfranchised and are unable to vote at the next general election to be held in the State of Maryland in the month of November, in the year nineteen hundred and one, shall be prohibited from paying State and county taxes.

SEC. 2. Any person or persons who shall try to collect either or both State and county taxes from persons who are disfranchised, shall be subject to a fine of five hundred dollars for each and every offense.

SEC. 3. The Supervisors of Election shall furnish the collector of taxes a list of all persons who were disfranchised at the November election in the year 1901, and it shall be unlawful for the collector to collect taxes from the people so disfranchised.

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

The Oakland Normal.

The Oakland Normal will open on April 8th and continue for a term of ten weeks. All wishing a thorough normal training are cordially invited to attend. Special attention will be given to the common school branches and theory and practice of teaching. Any wishing to study Latin or the higher branches can do so. We have secured the services of a competent assistant and together expect to make this one of the best normals in the county. Tuition—$6 for first grade, $5 for second grade. Good boarding can be obtained at $2.50 per week and upwards.

For further particulars address

52-3t. A. W. DEWITT, Hoyes, Md.

If you want a vehicle of any kind at a low price and good terms buy now from A. D. Naylor, who has just received two full cars of vehicles and one car of machinery. 1 3t*

THE NEGRO PROBLEM.

SECOND PAPER.

In the further discussion of this matter I want to say, first of all, I do not agree with those who represent the moral condition of the race as being worse now than during slavery time. That it is easy enough so to represent the case, I admit. But it must be remembered that while today the whole race stands exposed to view, and that now the public verdict is made upon the basis of the entire colored population, in the ante-bellum days but a comparatively few individuals of the race were brought to public view and these in almost all cases the very best of their color—those chosen on account of superior talents, comliness, virtue and honesty to serve in places of prominence and trust, as coachmen, body-servants, seamstresses, chambermaids, cooks, etc. On these exceptional few the public made up its case when passing judgment on the race's conditions. The common heard of Negro bondmen was rarely seen by any save the owner and his intimate neighbor. Who shall say that that common here possessed a purer morality in the days of bondage than does the average Negro of today? Indeed, is it not the fact that they were rated about as other chattels? In a vast majority of cases their moral condition did not in the slightest degree enter into the calculation. And is it at all likely that, looked upon as they were in the main—as chattels and so treated—they could attain and preserve a high, or even comparative, excellency of character? Certainly not. Even the matter of mating between the sexes was not, as a rule, left to free choice, but was dictated or directed by the owner, with an eye to what would be best in the field or in the market. That there were fewer cases of violence, proportionately, may be true; but who will undertake to say what would have been the case if the race had not been restrained and disciplined as they were as slaves? As a rule, they were shut in much as horses and cattle.

Another thing I want to call special attention to: How comes the Negro to be as base as he is today? Is it all his own choosing? his own doing? Nay, verily. How much liquor is manufactured by the black race? And what is the color of the average saloon keeper? Who makes and sells the deadly pistol? How many of these deadly things would the race have in hand if they themselves to be manufacturer and merchant of the goods? And I am not at all certain that there is not outside agency in prompting the beastly passion that leads to the crime that is so commonly dealt with by Judge Lynch. If any reader of these lines does not fully understand me at this point let him ascertain my mind through the channel of private correspondence.

We are shocked by the deep degradation which from time to time is uncovered in the slum quarters of our larger cities. But we all know that slum element to be very largely the product of peculiar environment of a vicious public sentiment touching the treatment of certain laboring classes. Low wages and high temptation to wrong-doing have more to do in creating slums than any and all things. This we know well to be the case. The very same conditions are active in degrading the Negro in this country today. Rough treatment, course food and stinted wages—these are enough to degrade any race. Why, the single matter of compelling the Negro toiler to eat his food in a separate and too often unsavory place is enough, one should say, to make him a harte of the race that puts the indignity upon him. It does not help matters to say "he is used to it—he expects nothing else." No doubt this is true; but does he feel satisfied with the treatment? And I will not undertake to say how this matter is to be set right. Certainly there is wrong in it, and it breeds mischief. It will be for those who insist that the two races must jointly work out the Negro's destiny to find mitigation for the galling yoke put about the black man's neck through the social ostricism which everywhere meets him. In the field and at the ballot box, equally; in the dining room and in the parlor, distinction. It will not work.

But the reader will say, Is this solving the problem? Remember, I disclaimed ability so to do from the start. Yet if these things that I have called attention to were not or were otherwise, could not something be done, yea must be done, toward the desired solution? And if privilege is granted me I shall seek in a third and final letter to point to a practicable, righteous and effectual solution of the whole race difficulty.

J. B. SHOUP.

Damon and Pythias

By Louise Holland.

(Copyright, 1901, by the Authors' Syndicate.)

EVERY morning, rain or shine, heat or cold, you might see her as she passed down the street. One thin, withered hand clasped the handle of a very dilapidated satchel, in which were stored her wares; for she was a peddler in her own small way; and from house to house she went, sometimes to find a purchaser for her hand-knit tidies, crocheted edging and slipper patterns, but oftener to receive the chilling information that "We never buy of no peddlers; mistress ain't to home."

And at the end of the day, as she would turn into the dark street, and climb the rickety stairs leading to her poor little room, life looked very hard to her—God seemed almost to have forgotten some of His children; but, as she opened her door, and from the wall would smile down on her "her Tom," her wild boy who had always loved and cared for "mother"—who she knew would come back to her some day, hope once again would fill her heart, and her childlike faith in the Father would return.

And then she would draw from her bosom and kiss the little gold cross he gave her the day he went away. "Keep it, mother, always; perhaps some day you'll know," he whispered; then he kissed her good-by. The officers took him away, and she had never seen him again.

Late, one cold, rainy afternoon, she rang the bell of a homelike little cottage on a street that was strange to her. The door was opened by the lady of the house herself, who, on noting the tired, worn face, the thin-clad figure and wet shoes, asked the little woman in, though a desire to purchase her wares was not the motive that prompted the action.

She opened her satchel and displayed her goods. As she spread them out before her, two little boys, evidently twins, came running into the room. The little woman looked up—"My Tom! My Teddy!" she cried, holding out her arms to the little fellows; then, seeing how startled they were, and the mother's wondering glance: "I beg your pardon, ma'am," she said, "but, oh, how alike, how alike!"

"Do you think so?" returned the mother; "everyone says but for their height no one would realize they were twins; but my husband was a twin, and he and his brother, he says, were exactly like our boys."

"And, madam, I am the mother of twin boys, and at the age of these little ones, they were as like as two peas."

"How strange; tell me about them, please," said the sweet-faced woman, seeing that love and sympathy were more needed than money.

"If you wouldn't think me intruding—I never have anyone to talk to now, and sometimes my heart grows so full, it seems as if it must overflow to some one."

"John and I were married the summer I was 18. John was considerably older than I. In all the country round he went by the name of 'Lucky John,' and we were as happy as could be, but for one thing—no children came to us. The neighbors' boys and girls were growing up about us, but in our home the years came and went, with never a little child to comfort our hearts or brighten our home.

"John never said much, but I knew how he felt; and the day my boys came—I can never forget it—we had been married then 15 years—John had business that kept him in town all day, and when he came home old Auntie Brown met him at the door.

"'Never min' yer hosses, Lucky John; they's suthin' in this yer house we want yer ter pass yer jedgment on,' and in came John. He gave one look at the two tiny bundles lying in the old wooden cradle that had held him when he was a baby, and then he took me in his arms and cried.

"Well, I can't begin to tell you what fine babies they were—how they grew and throve, so strong both of them, and smart—they couldn't be brighter. And, as they grew older, such store as they set by one another. John always said we should have called them Damon and Pythias; but we named them after their two grandfathers—Theodore and Thomas.

"Teddy was the apple of his father's eye. We expected great things of him; yet, somehow, though I loved and did for both my boys all a mother could do, Tommy, who was always in trouble, was wild and reckless, and, as he grew to manhood, some said fast (though I never could believe it). Tommy was mother's boy, and, if he did do what wasn't exactly right sometimes, it was because that big heart of his ran away with him; and, somehow, the more trouble he got into, the more I loved him—he seemed to need more love.

"Well, neither boy took to farming. This was a disappointment to father, I could see, though he made no complaint; so in the bank, where he was a large stockholder, father found positions for them both, side by side, at the same desk. Teddy, we knew, would do well, and Tom—well, we were glad the brothers were together. Teddy would help to keep Tom steady. It was the second summer they were there. Teddy was working very hard (he always cared too much for money, I thought, though John never seemed to see it), and Tom was doing pretty well. There had been a little trouble once or twice. John never told me all about it, but he had made things all right, and Tom kept his place—when, one night, some one drove up to the door, and I heard Tom's voice calling 'Mother' (father was sick in bed at the time). So I ran out to see what was the matter; and there, with an officer each side of him, stood Tom.

"'Mother,' he said, 'a lot of money has been taken from the bank (don't tell father); and I am arrested for the theft.' Then, reaching out his hands to me—the irons on them—and, oh, I thought my heart would break at the sight. "Mother," he cried, "do you believe me guilty?" and I looked into his face, where there was only truth and sorrow. "No, Tom, no! " I cried; "but tell me who did it."

"I can't, don't ask me, don't ask," he said, with such a look of pain on his face as I shall never forget. "Only believe me innocent; and, here, mother, is a little gold cross I got for your birthday; keep it always, and perhaps some day you'll know." And he kissed me good-by. And the voice of the little woman broke in a sob, and the eyes of the young mother were wet with the quick dew of sympathy.

On the same day the prison gates closed upon our boy the gates of Heaven opened to his father, and Teddy and I were left alone in the world.

"Though I grieved for Tom and father, we lived happily and comfortably till the day Teddy brought home a wife; a cold, proud, ill-tempered woman. She never liked me; I was too plain and old-fashioned for her, though I gave her the reins and tried my best to feel cheerful in being driven first this way and then that, though sometimes it was hard for me to tell Teddy how unhappy I was. But ever since Tom went away, he had seemed so worried and anxious I hadn't the heart to trouble him.

"One evening he came home completely worn out. The moment the doctor saw him he looked pretty serious. Before he left, he said to Alice, Teddy's wife: "I hope your husband's affairs are in good order; the disease is of a malignant type, and I can give no hope for his recovery."

"Teddy heard him, and gave me one frightened glance; then, turning to his wife and said: 'Would you leave mother and I alone a little while; there's something I want to tell her;' and, as the door closed upon her, and I knelt down and clasped him in my arms, all the months and years he had seemed to be growing from me were bridged over—Teddy was still my boy.

"For a little time he held me close; neither spoke, and I was almost beginning to think he had forgotten what he wanted to tell me, when he said: 'Mother, I can't go out of the world with my crime on another man's head. I took the money they accused Tom of taking, I should be where he is now. Tom knew it; he wouldn't tell; once I thought I'd be brave and confess all, but Tom said: 'No; I've always been the black sheep, and another black mark to the score won't hurt like one against your name—father couldn't stand that;' and, like a coward, I let him go. He's been punished for my crime; but if he has suffered one-hundredth part what I have all these years, I pity him, I pity him! Oh! mother, speak to me; say you forgive me, for I was crying: 'My poor Tom; my poor Tom!' And then I kissed Teddy, and said: 'I do forgive you, dear; and God will, too, for He has seen your suffering;' and then Teddy fell back on the pillows and smiled, and I was left alone. * * *

"After the funeral I took the train for the town where Tom was, with a heart half sad, half glad. It was hard to lose Teddy, to know he had not been the boy I had always believed him; but to have Tom home again—well, I couldn't be his mother and not feel glad. So I went to the prison, and asked for Tom. 'Isn't he with you?' the superintendent said; 'he was pardoned some time ago.' 'Pardoned!' I answered; 'he never should have been sentenced; but where is he?' 'I supposed he'd gone home. Henry,' he said, to a young man at the desk, 'tell the warden to send No. 17 to me.' And in a few minutes No. 17 came in; and, when I saw him, I couldn't keep the tears back for pity, and the thought of my Tom looking just like him. And the superintendent said: 'There, there, my dear lady, we'll find your boy if we can. Russell, you and Tom Haines were friends; can you tell us his whereabouts?' 'No, sir; all he said to me was: "Good-by, old man; I'm going to change my name and start in again."' 'Did he ever say to you he was guilty?' 'No, sir; he stuck to it he wasn't; but it's my opinion he knew who was, and wouldn't tell; for he was a fine fellow, even if he was a jail bird.'

"'No, madam; I wish I could; but if you ever find him, tell him how glad old Russell was that he always believed him innocent." * * * * *

"For years I've hoped and looked and waited for him. I go from town to town. By selling my small wares I manage to keep soul and body together. Every night I pray for my boy's return; every morning I waken with the hope that to-day I may find him. And, now I must go. You have heard my story, and I thank you. Perhaps my boy may be waiting for me now; perhaps—and this is the cross Tom gave me," she said, holding out the small emblem in trembling hands.

"No, mother; he's found you," and she turned to be clasped in the arms of the man who had entered unseen while the twins circled round them crying and shouting: 'Is she our really grandma, papa; our really grandma!'"

Held Prisoner by His Trousers.

A passenger on the elevated road in Brooklyn had the slack of his trousers leg caught in a closing side door as he was standing with his back to it. The side doors are only opened from the outside, with keys kept at the Brooklyn bridge. The passenger was therefore obliged to go way beyond his station until a bridge man and a key could be found.

WOMAN AND HOME

POPULAR CLUB WOMEN.

Mrs. Fairbanks, Wife of the Senior Senator from Indiana, Slated for High Honors.

Not many women in the midst of official society life find time to attend to philanthropic matters, but Mrs. Fairbanks, wife of the senator from Indiana, excels in interest and work along the lines of socialology and philanthropy.

"I believe," said Mrs. Fairbanks, "in such work, especially among youths and children, and think that to diffuse truth and intelligence in early life will prevent crime in later years."

Mrs. Fairbanks was appointed by Gov. Hovey, and was the first woman in Indiana to hold a position on the board of state charities. The duties of this office required visiting all penal, correction and educational institutions, also looking into all reformatory matters, as well as blind asylums and other charities in the state. This great work was cheerfully and efficiently attended to in Indiana, and as soon as Mrs. Fairbanks arrived in Washington last fall she was called upon by the board of trustees of the National Junior Republic to take the presidency of the Woman's league, connected with that institution, and situated between Washington and Baltimore. This philanthropic work is entered into by both cities and is a special effort for children, whose lives are blighted at birth by poverty and crime.

At first Mrs. Fairbanks refused to enter into this work, owing to pressure of social and other philanthropic matters, but the management, knowing her peculiar fitness, pressed her to visit the buildings on the farm at Annapolis Junction, which she did, witnessing these little waifs governing themselves after the plan of the George Junior Republic, which allows the "citizens," as the inmates are called, to elect their own president, judges and other officers, holding weekly "courts." Mrs. Fairbanks was so impressed with the value of the work that she withdrew her refusal, and now her elegant residence is thrown open for the meetings of the board of Woman's League of National Junior Republic, over which she presides. Thus the house so often open in entertaining dignitaries of this and other lands is also open to philanthropic interests.

MRS. CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS.

Mrs. Fairbanks is also a member of the governing board of the General Federation of Women's clubs. She was born in Ohio, and both she and her husband are graduates of the Ohio Wesleyan university, being students at the same time. They were married in Ohio, going, however, directly to Indiana to reside. Being also much interested in literature, Mrs. Fairbanks, soon after her marriage, founded a literary society, still a successful organization in Indianapolis. A round of dinners, teas and receptions are now being given, and must, owing to Senator Fairbanks' official position, be entered into by his busy wife.

Mrs. Fairbanks has been urged by a large number of the chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution to allow her name to be placed in nomination for president general of that organization, and has consented to do so.

How to Clean Oil Paintings.

Oil paintings may be cleaned by dividing a sound, raw potato, having previously removed the skin, and applying the flat, cut side to the surface of the picture. As the soaplike froth accumulates use a very soft piece of sponge and a little tepid water to remove it. The superfluous moisture will be readily absorbed by the careful application of a piece of chamois leather. As the potato gets dirtier cut off a thin slice and use again.

Kitchen Work Made Easy.

When commencing to cook dinner, you will save much time and labor by placing all the things likely to be wanted on the kitchen table. At the same time it is not well to accumulate too many articles. Clear as you proceed. You will thus always have a clear kitchen. The plates and dishes should be placed in a screen before the fire as soon as the cooking begins. Hot plates are indispensable to the enjoyment of a good dinner.

Dainty Lemon Sandwiches.

Cream thoroughly one cup of butter and work gradually into it the hard boiled yolks of two eggs rubbed to a paste, with one raw yolk, one-fourth of a teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of French mustard, or one-quarter of a teaspoon of dry, two tablespoons of strained lemon juice, and one-half teaspoon of freshly grated rind. Beat and work all together well and spread on thin slices of white bread.

STORY OF A DOOR BELL.

The Men All Like It Just Because It Is a Libel on a Good Wife's Thoughtfulness.

"Does our door bell ring?" from the head of the house.

"I'm afraid not," meekly answered the other half.

"There it is 'Afraid not.' Do you pretend to understand the use and purposes of a door bell? Do you think that I had it put in for decorative purposes? Do you regard yourself as capable to differentiate between utility and ornamentation, giving each its relative value?"

"DOES OUR DOOR BELL RING?"

"I don't understand, dear."

"Nobody suspected you of understanding. Jones called here the other evening to talk over a real estate deal that could have cleared me a neat little sum. Couldn't get in, of course. Bell didn't ring. Went away mad. Brown was here to give me a tip on stocks. It turned out right, and might have made us rich. Bell didn't ring. I would like to make respectful inquiry as to why I was not informed that we are practically fortified against the rest of the world? Am I not of sufficient importance to be consulted when there are liable to be millions at stake?"

"But I got some stuff at the drug store that they said would make the thing work."

"I'll warrant. That's the woman of it. You'd consult a druggist if the chimney smoked. What do we have electricians for? Why are we making such giant strides in science? Simply that some woman may ask some baker why her clock is slow, or call on a druggist to fix an electric door bell. Hereafter restrain yourself sufficiently to tell me when the bell is off. I will know what to do."—Detroit Free Press.

FREEZING ICE CREAM.

Although It Is a Simple Process, Very Few Housekeepers Know How to Do It Right.

There is a Boston legend that ice-cream was first made by a famous colored cook of Boston, which is so often repeated that it is a pity to recall the fact that the French made sweet dishes congealed with ice as long ago as the age of Cardinal Richelieu, who was himself a famous bon vivant and the inventor of the salad mayonnaise. The success of an ice cream depends upon its being properly frozen. A cream that is congealed until it is as hard as an icicle is as much a failure as one half frozen. The process must be such as to make a creamy but perfectly compact mass. It is easy to freeze cream in a few minutes by using an extra amount of salt. This will produce a coarse grained, icy cream that is anything but palatable. Use about three pints of coarse rock salt to 12 quarts of ice, crushed fine, for a gallon freezer. Put in a layer of ice, then sprinkle in the salt and pack in another layer of fine ice. Continue packing the ice and salt and pressing it with a blunt, wedgelike piece of wood. A wooden spoon does very well. Put the liquid cream into the can, cover it up and turn the freezer for about three or four minutes. At the end of this time remove the cover of the can and with a sharp edged knife scrape the side of the can and the bottom. Mix the hard frozen layer of cream thus scraped off with the thin cream in the center. Upon the thorough mixing of the frozen cream with the liquid cream in the center the rapid successful freezing of the cream depends. Close up the can and turn the freezer again for two or three minutes and repeat the scraping of the sides of the can and mixture of the cream. After turning the cream again and mixing it, it should be thick enough to close up and pack away. Let it remain packed away for at least two hours before it is served.—N. Y. Tribune.

She Made It Quite Clear.

In a suburb of Philadelphia lives an old German couple named Skimmekopf. The husband, Fritz, has two dogs, of which he is very fond. One is a pup, while the other is quite old; but, as sometimes occurs with dogs of different breeds, the old dog is much smaller than the six-months-old puppy. "Dere vas somedings funny apoud dem dog alreatty," said Fritz, who was showing them to a friend the other day. "Dat leedlest dog vas de piggest." Mrs. Skimmekopf, realizing that her husband had not made the point quite clear, thought she had better come to his assistance. "You must excuse mine husband," she said. "De English languidch he knows not goot. Vot he means is dat de youngest dog vas de oldest."

How to Clean Bright Tin.

The best thing to clean bright tin with is oil and rotten stone. This removes all kinds of stain. They should be polished off with clean wash leather.

There Is a Class of People

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

Married in Haste.

They tell this story in Lee county, Ga., of a negro who applied to a justice of the peace to marry him. He had no money and offered a string of fish as the fee. After a year had passed the justice met the man and said: "Well, William, how do you like married life?" "Well, suh," was the reply, "I wish ter de Lawd I'd eat dem fish."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Career and Character of Abraham Lincoln.

An address by Joseph Choate, Ambassador to Great Britain, on the career and character of Abraham Lincoln—his early life—his early struggles with the world—his character as developed in the later years of his life and his administration, which placed his name so high on the world's roll of honor and fame, has been published by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway and may be had by sending six (6) cents in postage to F. A. Miller, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Late Realization.—"I now realize," said the pig, as they loaded him in the wagon bound for the butcher's, "I now realize that over-eating tends to shorten life."—Indianapolis Press.

Lane's Family Medicine.

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

Some people's idea of knowledge is the art of finding out things which they have no business to know.—Chicago Daily News.

Carter's Ink

has the largest sale of any ink in the world, because it is the best ink that can be made.

All worthless people are not lazy.—Atchison Globe.

I do not believe Piso's Cure for Consumption has an equal for coughs and colds.—John F. Boyer, Trinity Springs, Ind., Feb. 15, 1900.

Sawing wood is the better exercise, but golf is more popular.—Atchison Globe.

THE WORLD'S BEST KNOWN TRAIN.

The Empire State Express—What It Does Daily and How It Does It.

"There is only one train in the country that exceeds fifty miles an hour in speed for 100 miles run, and that is the Empire State Express."—Public Ledger, Philadelphia.

The Ledger might have added that this great train averages fifty-three and one-third miles per hour for the entire distance from New York to Buffalo, 440 miles, including four stops and twenty-eight slowdowns; that it does this each business day of the year. The attention which the Empire State Express has attracted in every country of the world has proved one of the greatest advertisements for American machinery and American methods that has ever been put forth, and that the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company is entitled to the thanks of not only the entire State of New York, but of every person in the United States from one end of the land to the other for placing before the world an object lesson without an equal.—From the Syracuse Post-Standard.

Competition.

In spite of the fact that she is not an American heiress, Queen Wilhelmina has succeeded in marrying a duke.—Detroit Free Press.

Hoxsie's Croup Cure.

The life saver of children, for Croup, Coughs, Colds and Diphtheria. No opium to stupefy. No ipecac to cause nausea. Sold by druggists, or mailed postpaid, on receipt of 50 cents. A. P. Hoxsie, Buffalo, N. Y.

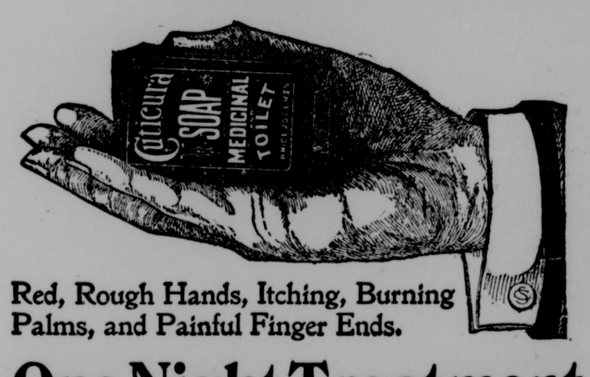
Fortune fails him who fears.—Ram's Horn.

In 3 or 4 Years an Independence Is Assured

If you take up your homes in Western Canada, the land of plenty. Illustrated pamphlets, giving experiences of farmers who have become wealthy in growing wheat, reports of delegates, etc., and full information as to reduced railway rates can be had on application to the Superintendent of Immigration, Department of Interior, Ottawa, Canada, or address the Undersigned, who will mail you atlases, pamphlets, etc., free of cost. F. PEDLEY, Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada; or to M. V. McINNES, No. 2 Merrill Blk., Detroit, Mich.; E. T. HOLMES, Room 6, Big Four Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

For full explanation of the most ATTRACTIVE and PROFITABLE PROPOSITION ever offered to AGENTS. Address P. O. Box 1501, New York City, N. Y.

Sore Hands



Red, Rough Hands, Itching, Burning Palms, and Painful Finger Ends.

One Night Treatment

Soak the hands on retiring in a strong, hot, creamy lather of CUTICURA SOAP. Dry, and anoint freely with CUTICURA, the great skin cure and purest of emollients. Wear, during the night, old, loose kid gloves, with the finger ends cut off and air holes cut in the palms. For red, rough, chapped hands, dry, fissured, itching, feverish palms, with shapeless nails and painful finger ends, this treatment is simply wonderful, and points to a speedy cure of the most distressing cases when physicians and all else fail.

Cured by Cuticura

I WAS troubled with hands so sore that when I put them in water the pain would near set me crazy, the skin would peel off, and the flesh would get hard and break, then the blood would flow from at least fifty places on each hand. Words never can tell the suffering I endured for three years.

I tried at least eight doctors, but my hands were worse than when I commenced doctoring. I tried every old Granny remedy that was ever thought of without one cent's worth of good and could not even get relief.

I would feel so badly mornings when I got up, to think that I had to go to work and stand pain for eight or nine hours, that I often felt like giving up my job, which was in the bottling works of Mr. E. L. Kerns, the leading bottler of Trenton, N. J., who will vouch for the truth of my sufferings.

Before I could start to work, I would have to wrap each finger on both hands, and then wear gloves, which I hated to do, for when I came to take them off, it would take two hours and the flesh would break and bleed. Some of my friends who had seen my hands would say, "If they had such hands they would have them amputated"; others would say "they would never work," and more would turn away in disgust. But thanks to Cuticura, the greatest of skin cures, it ended all my sufferings.

Just to think, after doctoring three years, and spending dollar after dollar during that time, Cuticura cured me. It has now been two years since I used it and I do not know what sore hands are. I never lost a day's work while I was using it or since, and I have been working at the same business, and in acids, etc.

THOS. A. CLANCY, 310 Montgomery St., Trenton, N. J.

Cuticura Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor. Consisting of CUTICURA SOAP (25c.), to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales, and soften the thickened cuticle, CUTICURA Ointment (50c.), to instantly allay itching, inflammation, and irritation, and soothe and heal, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT (50c.), to cool and cleanse the blood. The Set $1.25 A SINGLE SET, is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring, and humiliating skin, scalp, and blood humors, with loss of hair, when all else fails. Sold throughout the world. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Sole Props., Boston, U. S. A.

Millions of Women Use Cuticura Soap

Assisted by Cuticura Ointment for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and soothing red, rough, and sore hands, in the form of baths for annoying irritations, inflammations, and chafings, or too free or offensive perspiration in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and for many sanative antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, and especially mothers, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used it to use any other, especially for preserving and purifying the skin, scalp, and hair of infants and children. CUTICURA SOAP combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients, and the most refreshing of flower odors. No other medicated soap ever compounded is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery. Thus it combines in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, viz., TWENTY-FIVE CENTS, the BEST skin and complexion soap, the BEST toilet and BEST baby soap in the world.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

AN EVENING AT CURLAND'S.

It Came to an Abrupt and Sensational End—A Father Finds His Son.

Curland's hotel has had an extra cleaning and is brilliantly lighted, for it is Saturday evening and the men from the lumbering camps have received their month's wages. Curland himself is in high glee and is giving commands to his bartender.

"We will make a big pull this night. Is everything ready? Whew! won't the money flow? But you just keep an eye on that gang from Mayre's. They are a desperate set and it won't answer to let them get the start of us."

"Good evening, Tom. Brought your violin? You're the man."

The music soon draws a crowd, the majority of whom are rough-looking men. A few show that they have known "better days." Apparently the toughest of all are the ones known as "Mayre's men." Mayre, their boss, is one whom all fear. Tall, of commanding appearance, he is a born leader of men, and those from his camp have imbued that wild, reckless spirit which dominates their master.

"Say," exclaims one, "Mayre, you're lucky, you're taking all of the money."

"No, he isn't. He is dishonest," comes from a man who belongs to another gang.

"Hold still, Harold Sard; what are you doing?"

Drinks are had. Down go the cards. There is quarreling over cards and pool. What cares Curland? He is reaping a harvest.

A storm has arisen and it is nearly

"MEN, WILL YOU HAVE A STORY?"

nine before the stage arrives from the nearest station.

"Passenger to-night," shouts the obliging stage driver. Curland, remarkable for his graciousness, welcomes the newcomer.

An old, feeble man is he, with a staring, wandering look.

"Appears a little out," remarks the stage driver on entering. "Wonder what he is doing up here."

The old man sits by the stove and with a forlorn, despondent gaze his eyes keep roaming about from one to another.

"Mister, have a drink." The offer, though frequently given, is refused.

Somehow this doesn't please Curland. He is not in the habit of having anyone about who does not drink. From the stage driver he has learned that the old man seems to have plenty of money and he is determined to have some of it. When drinks are again put up he insists that the stranger shall have a treat.

Slowly the old man walks toward the bar. "Men, will you have a story?" says he.

"Yes, yes; story," comes from the excited crowd.

"He is crazy!" "Crazy as a loon!" "Look at his eyes!" are the various remarks.

With outstretched hand the stranger leans forward and gazes at the crowd. Instantly they are silenced at the strange scene and the stranger tale.

"Years ago," says he, "I was a wealthy man of influence in a far-away state. A wife and son composed my family. We were proud of the boy, who was exceedingly bright and at the time of the opening of my story was preparing for college. That year I was elected mayor of the town, which had been called a 'temperance town,' but when the vote was taken as to whether we should have saloons or not I wanted to be popular, so broke the tie and the saloons were opened. Six months later checks were presented for payment, forged by my son when gambling under the influence of liquor. Angry and excited, I drove him from our home. Weary with sorrow, the mother lived only a few years and died moaning for her boy. Since then I have traveled from state to state searching for my son."

With eager, excited tones the old man again breaks the silence. "Have you seen him? Do you know Casper Mayre?"

"Father! father!"

The hushed group are startled. The old man is grasped by strong arms, for the son is found.

"Don't you know me, father? I am your son."

"No, no!" said the old man; "my boy is young. You are not my son."

"Boys, he is my father, but he is crazy, and I made him so. Who will help me take him to the camp? No, Curland. No more liquor to-night. I have had all I ever intend to have."

With sobered speech the men follow the father and son as they pass out into the night. The sparkle of the wine in the glass, the clink of the coin on the card table, has lost its fascination for the time. One by one they separate. Some to go home to loved ones still watching and praying for the prodigal son, others to wander up and down the quiet streets thinking as they have not for many a day of the old folks far away in some country home or perhaps even farther away in the heavenly home.

The lights are out in the hotel. Curland's trade will decrease, for Casper Mayre's influence will be used in a better way.—Alice Irene Nichols, in Union Signal.

FABRICATED WINES.

London Mail Declares That Never Before Were They So Numerous or Villainous.

The London Mail says: To-day is the day of the wine fakir. Never before in the history of the trade have his devices been so numerous and his concoctions so villainous. Never before, too, have his profits been more satisfactory. So long as there is a demand for full-blooded Burgundies and clarets, at, say, six shillings a dozen, that demand will be supplied.

There is a vast difference between fabricated and adulterated wine. The latter is generally pretty easy to deal with. Fabricated wine is far more difficult of detection.

Here we have a concoction of a more or less chemical nature, which is designed with the express idea of closely imitating the genuine wine, both in color, bouquet and taste. One favorite fabrication consists of 90 per cent. of water, 5½ per cent. of alcohol and 4½ per cent. of tannin. The two latter ingredients are obtained from the cheapest form of imported raisins.

Very frequently these raisins consist of squeezed grape husks which have already done genuine service in some French wine press. They cost next to nothing to import, are refermented here in England and their juice is eked out with the acid of tartaric acid and molasses. Consequently the maker is enabled to sell his concoction at the ridiculously low price of about one shilling two pence per gallon, and at the same time to make an excellent profit upon the transaction. Much of this beverage first sees the light in or near London.

The retailer sells it again at about two shillings sixpence per gallon; or, if bottled and beautifully sealed and cobwebbed, at the considerably enhanced price of, say, sixpence per pint bottle—"Our famous six shilling claret."

A particularly pungent revelation of the beauties of certain British light wines was afforded the food preservatives committee by Prof. W. H. Morfield. This scientist, who is consulting sanitary adviser to her majesty's office of works, stated that he commonly found salicylic acid in these vintages. Salicylic acid, added he, for the benefit of his nonscientific hearers, was a slightly acrid, irritating substance which was much in demand among the afflicted people as a corn solvent.

A fabricated sherry which can be sold at a good profit for one shilling a bottle is prepared from cider—and more obnoxious things. Champagne, which is also better left untouched, is prepared by the wily fabricator.

TEMPERANCE ITEMS.

Whoso would be a man must steer clear of the dramshop.—National Advocate.

Motto for a temperance society: "Glass upside down with care."—Chicago News.

The Swift Packing company has succeeded in driving slot machines from all places in the vicinity of their plant at St. Joseph, Mo.

Illinois has more distilleries than any other state in the union. It pays one-fourth of the total internal revenue collected in the United States on the manufacture of liquors.

At its very best the army is not the kind of a training school a mother would choose for her boy; but with abolition of the army saloon many of its worst dangers are removed.—Union Signal.

Drunkenness is said to be on the increase in the City of Mexico, where almost every grocery store nowadays has a bar as an annex, and where liquors are sold to minors without let or hindrance. Most of the intoxicants sold in the grocery store are adulterated with injurious ingredients.

Reform at Rahway, N. J.

The city council in Rahway, N. J., recently increased the cost of a druggist's liquor license from $25 to $250, the same amount that saloons pay, on proof being furnished to them that the druggists were in many cases doing a regular retail liquor business. As a measure of reprisal, the druggists demanded the strict enforcement of the law prohibiting the sale of liquor on Sunday. The mayor espoused their cause and, as a result, Rahway—except for the drug stores—was made dry on Sundays.—Mida's Criterion.

Medicated Wine.

A prosecution has been instituted at Liverpool against British wines which contain too high a percentage of salicylic acid. It is stated that a firm which had a large stock of a "preserved" wine, on having it condemned in court, simply altered the labels and sold the lot as a patent medicated wine, being legally entitled to do so, as the drug was present to an extent well above the lowest limit allowed for the so-called medicated wines.

Liquors to Island Possessions.

There were 56 times as much liquor exported to Porto Rico in 1899 as in 1898; 58 times as much to the Philippine islands, and 1,000 times as much as the average to the Philippines for the last ten years.—Union Signal.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS.

FILLING AN ICEHOUSE.

If You Have Never Done It, It Will Pay You to Read This Article Over Carefully.

The sketch shows a cross section of our own ice house, with boards nailed horizontally on the inside of the poles. From 12 to 15 inches should be left between the ice cakes and the walls. Locate the ice house where good, natural drainage may be secured. Tile may be laid, as indicated at A, to secure more adequate drainage if needed. Cut the cakes so as to break joints, say 18x36 inches, or 15x30, as conditions may require. It will be impossible to make the cakes fit together perfectly, no matter how expert the saw manipulator may be. On this account, we put in one layer, fit closely as possible, then shave over the upper surface of all the cakes with a carpenter's adze. The shavings of ice are swept into the crevices between cakes. When freezing cold, a little water is sprinkled over the whole surface to cement the layer solidly together.

PROPERLY PACKED ICE.

As each layer is completed, the sawdust should be filled in around the sides, level with the top, and solidly tamped down. Allow no sawdust to remain on top of the various layers until the ice house is filled. The cut shows the sixth layer in and ready for the sawdust. Ice is preserved by being packed away from the air. As hot weather comes on the ice will settle some. Be sure to keep the sawdust tamped down around the sides frequently during early summer, and see that no airholes form. When the ice is all packed in, cover with 10 to 15 inches of sawdust. Leave the gables open more or less to allow free circulation of air over the ice. I hope that this description, with sketch, of our own successful harvesting and storing of ice in a cheap pole-frame ice house, will encourage many farmers to decide to have some ice next season. And may they thoroughly enjoy, for the first time, the cooling benefits which accrue to the fortunate possessors of the congealed fluid.—J. H. Brown, in Rural New Yorker.

THE RABBIT IN TRADE.

Millions of Pounds of Meat and of Skins Exported Annually from Australia to Europe.

Rabbits are small things, but, like microbes and measles, they play havoc with men and things when they get thick and spread over large areas. They literally eat up things. New South Wales, Australia, once had nearly 100,000,000 sheep. That colony now has less than 50,000,000. The droughts of the country have been bad enough, but the rabbits have been the worst pest which ever afflicted the land of the New South Welshmen. The area really devastated by bunny is more than 100,000,000 acres. In one year there have been killed over 26,000,000 rabbits, and their skins paid for by the government under the "rabbit destruction act." Probably twice as many died on the grassless plains, by poison or from starvation or thirst in their own warrens within the fenced-in area or out upon the bare, broad earth from which they ate every vestige of grass or leaf which fed them and the hapless sheep of the western backolocks along the Darling river and its contiguous territory. London is opening a frozen-rabbit market for the colonies. There were imported into Great Britain last year more than 40,000,000 pounds of frozen rabbits and more than 10,000,000 rabbit skins for fur and spin users. This is some compensation, but not enough for the loss of 50,000,000 sheep in one colony—fully 30,000,000 of the loss being due directly to the devastation of rabbits—and the financial wreck of the banks of the country in 1892 when financial institutions closed their doors with liabilities at more than $40,000,000. The Australian rabbit is becoming the commercial competitor of the Australian sheep, both for the grass on the ranch and for the consumptive market of the frozen meat trade. Australia ships as much of one as the other.—National Provisioner.

Eggs in the Early Spring.

Eggs have brought good prices this winter, and they give more profit in proportion to the cost of the materials entering into their composition than any other animal product on farms. If the flock is large and but few eggs are secured, it may be due either to too much grain, a lack of animal food or to having too many hens for the space occupied. It is a mistake to keep more fowls than can be accommodated, simply to wait for the warm weather of spring for them to begin laying. Cut out all the unprofitable members of the flock.

DEALING WITH CRIMES IN CANADA.

From the Chicago-Times Herald on January 18th, 1901.

"The citizens of the Dominion of Canada have just cause to be proud of their record as law-abiding people. The annual report of the criminal statistics of the Dominion, which has a population of over 6,000,000, shows that there were only twenty-five indictments for murder in 1899, of which only two were left without final action. Eleven of those indicted were hanged, nine acquitted and three confined as insane.

"Canada is a country of vast proportions. Its people are scattered over a wide stretch of territory, making police surveillance particularly difficult and in many districts impossible. Yet a city like New York or Chicago alone furnishes a far greater criminal list every year than the whole vast stretch of territory from Quebec to Vancouver.

"The Canadians ascribe their immunity from crime to the promptness with which punishment is meted out to offenders. When a man is caught red-handed in the act of robbing another he is not released on straw bail by some justice of the peace from the slums, to go out and repeat the offense. Sharp and sure justice is meted out to criminals of all kinds, the result being that when the guardians of the public peace succeed in bringing a thug to the bar they are seldom called upon to hunt him a second time.

"Furthermore there are few court delays in Canada when a criminal is brought to book. They have no Dreyer cases over there. There are no methods whereby Canadian criminals can have the proceedings stayed from month to month and from year to year or after being convicted, appeal from one court to another until witnesses die of old age or opportunities for corruption can be found.

"Nor does this swift method of treating with wrong-doers in Canada leave the innocent unable to properly defend themselves. They have all the opportunities and privileges that our own laws extend to them. The extent to shield the guilty is lacking—that is all."

The above taken from the editorial column of the Times-Herald gives some idea of the immunity from crime that exists in Canada, and this is one of the many inducements held out for Americans to settle in the district known as Western Canada. The season of 1901 will see a few sections of the country opened up for settlement. They are attractive in every respect. It is understood that one of the best Indian Reserves in the famous Valley of the Saskatchewan will be opened up this year, and an invitation is extended to those desiring homes to make inquiries. The price of the land is said to be nominal. Besides these lands, the several railway companies have lands to sell; also the Government. For particulars write to the Agent of the Government, whose advertisement appears elsewhere.

A Twenty-Five-Dollar Family.

A strong sense of the fitness of things must have possessed a colored woman who recently applied for the place of cook in a Washington household. The home was exceptionally well supplied with rich furniture and bric-a-brac, and evidently the woman thought her work should be in keeping with this elegance.

"What is your name?" asked the family.

"Evangeline, thank you," came in reply from the dusky applicant.

"Evangeline, then, tell me, are you a good cook?"

"It's just like this: You see, I can do ten-dollar cooking, $15 cooking, $20 cooking; but—"

There was an undue emphasis on the "but," and Evangeline glanced admiringly about the house.

"It seems to me," she went on, finally, "you folks wouldn't be satisfied with any other than my $25 kind."

The family was taken aback, but managed to recover itself in time to say it might get along with about seventeen-dollar-and-thirty-five cents cooking for a few months, at any rate.—Washington Star.

A new clerk in Atchison, according to the Globe, is attracting a great deal of favorable comment. Investigation reveals the fact that his popularity is due to his habit of laughing at the jokes of customers.

From labor, health, from health contentment springs.—Beattie.

Stability wins.—Ram's Horn.

Suicidal.—"I hear a lot of the rich young men in town have organized a suicide club." "Yes. They're killing themselves with late hours and high living."—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

Poor Fellow.—Lena—"I don't know what to make of Harry Harmless." Alma—"Well, if you were to do as a good many of the girls have done, you'd make a fool of him."—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

Proved It.—"What do you think, Clarice went out and sang at an entertainment in a private insane asylum." "Did she say whether they showed their insanity much?" "Oh, yes; they encored her three times."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Mistress—"There is only one possible objection to the place. The children will keep you busy cooking; they are great eaters." The New Cook—"Don't let that worry you, ma'am. They won't be after I have begun to do the cooking."—Boston Transcript.

Hints on Fashion.—Mr. Goodleigh—"Sister Gabbleigh, you don't know how much you are missing by not attending church regularly." Miss Gabbleigh—"I don't miss so much as you think. I have subscribed for two fashion magazines."—Baltimore Sun.

The Department Store of the Future.—"Who are those solid-looking men going up in the express elevator?" "They are capitalists. We have a marked down sale of railways to-day on the twenty-fourth floor in the second annex back."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Easy.—"Ah! yes," sighed the lovelorn youth, "I'm passionately in love with Miss Van Fickel. I wonder if I will ever succeed in winning her affections." "Why not?" replied his cousin Helen. "I know at least half a dozen other men who have."—Philadelphia Press.

An Atchison man who had a good job, was always looking for something to do on the side, in order that he might make extra money. He neglected his main work for the side line, and was discharged. There is a suggestion in this for lots of people.—Atchison Globe.

WOMEN OF THE UNITED STATES

Regard Peruna as Their Shield Against Catarrh, Coughs, Colds, Grip and Catarrhal Diseases.

MRS. BELVA A. LOCKWOOD, LATE CANDIDATE FOR THE PRESIDENCY.

Mrs. Belva Lockwood, the eminent barrister, of Washington, D. C., is the only woman who has ever been a candidate for the President of the United States. She is the best known woman in America. As the pioneer of her sex in the legal profession she has gathered fame and fortune. In a letter to The Peruna Medicine Company, she says:

"I have used your Peruna both for myself and my mother, Mrs. Hannah J. Bennett, now in her 88th year, and I find it an invaluable remedy for cold, catarrh, hay fever and kindred diseases; also a good tonic for feeble and old people, or those run down, and with nerves unstrung."—Belva A. Lockwood.

Mrs. T. Pelton.

Mrs. T. Pelton, 562 St. Anthony avenue, St. Paul, Minn., writes:

"Peruna has done wonders for me. It has cured my headache and palpitation of the heart; has built up my whole system. I cheerfully recommend Peruna to all sufferers afflicted with catarrh. My mother is never without Peruna. When one is tired and generally out of sorts, if Peruna is taken it immediately removes that tired feeling."

Peruna cures catarrh by removing the cause, inflamed mucous membranes.

Dr. Hartman, the compounder of Peruna, once said, in a lecture to women:

"A great number of women consult me every year. I often have occasion to say to these patients, 'I fear you have catarrh, madam.' They will generally reply, 'Oh, no, I never had catarrh. My nose is perfectly clear and my breath is not bad. I am not troubled with coughing or spitting or any other disagreeable symptoms of catarrh.' But, my dear madam, you may have catarrh all the same. Catarrh is not always located in the head. You may have catarrh of the lungs, or stomach, or liver, or kidneys, and especially you may have catarrh of the pelvic organs."

Mrs. Julia C. Brown, of Pecatonica, Ills., says: "I have used Peruna in my home for the past four years and am thoroughly convinced that it is a reliable family remedy." Julia C. Brown.

The doctor went on to say: "I have been preaching this doctrine for the last forty years, but there are vast multitudes of women who have never heard it yet. Catarrh may attack any organ of the body. Women are especially liable to catarrh of the pelvic organs. There are one hundred cases of catarrh of the pelvic organs to one of catarrh of the head. Most people think, because they have not catarrh of the head, they have not catarrh at all. This is a great mistake and is the cause of many cases of sickness and death."

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 & $3.50 SHOES UNION MADE.

The real worth of W. L. Douglas $3.00 and $3.50 shoes compared with other makes is $4.00 to $5.00.

Our $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price. We make and sell more $3.00 and $3.50 shoes than any other two manufacturers in the United States.

THE REASON more W. L. Douglas $3 and $3.50 shoes are sold than any other make is because THEY ARE THE BEST. Your dealer should keep them; we give one dealer exclusive sale in each town.

Take no substitute! Insist on having W. L. Douglas shoes with name and price stamped on bottom. If your dealer will not get them for you, send direct to factory, enclosing price and 25c. extra for carriage. State kind of leather, size, and width, plain or cap toe. Our shoes will reach you anywhere. Write for catalogue showing new Spring styles.

We use Fast Color Eyelets in all our shoes. W. L. Douglas Shoe Co., Brockton, Mass.

SALZER'S SEEDS WILL MAKE YOU RICH!

Billion $ Grass. Marvelous grass, wonderful grass, fit for all soil, every condition, every state in the Union. Will yield 12 tons of rich hay and lots and lots of pasture besides. "What is it?" It's the heaviest yielding grass this side of the stars; will make you rich. First crop 6 weeks after sowing. Everybody is asking: "What is it?" Catalogue tells.

Combination Corn. Greatest golden yellow dent corn of the age. Seed dirt cheap. Will make you rich to plant. Will revolutionize corn growing.

Spelt, Rape and Peaoat. Three perfect foods. Spelt yields 80 bu. of grain and 4 tons of hay per acre; Rape 25 tons green food and Peaoat 8 tons of perfect food per acre.

Bromus Inermis. Greatest permanent grass of the country. Nothing like it on earth to-day and we have secured the world for its equal. 6 to 7 tons of hay per acre.

Vegetable Seeds Largest growers. Onion seed 60c lb.

For 10c Stamps and this Notice, we mail big Illustrated Seed Catalog and 10 grain samples, including above, also Speltz (80 bu. per A.), Oats (250 bu. per A.), Rape, Barley (175 bu. per A.), Peaoat, etc. worth $10 for a start.

[K] JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO. LA CROSSE, WIS.

No Smoke House. Smoke meat with KRAUSERS' LIQUID EXTRACT OF SMOKE. Made from hickory wood. Gives delicious flavor. Cheaper, cleaner than old way. Send for circular. E. Krauser & Bro., Milton, Pa.

Jellycon Desserts.

Are so much easier to prepare than the old-fashioned gelatine. With Burnham's Hasty Jellycon there is nothing to do but dissolve it in boiling water and set away to cool. It is already sweetened and flavored. Get a package to-day at your grocer's. The flavors are: Orange, lemon, strawberry, raspberry, peach, wild cherry and unflavored "calfsfoot" for making wine and coffee jellies.

DON'T GET WET! TOWER'S TRADE FISH BRAND

Oiled Clothing BLACK OR YELLOW

WILL KEEP YOU DRY

NOTHING ELSE WILL

TAKE NO SUSTITUTE. FREE CATALOGUE, SHOWING FULL LINE OF GARMENTS AND HATS.

A. J. TOWER CO. BOSTON. MASS.

PILES Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles. It absorbs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Prepared for Piles and Itching of the private parts. At druggists or by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents and $1.00. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., CLEVELAND, OHIO.

PILES ANAKESIS gives instant relief and POSITIVELY CURES PILES. For free sample address "ANAKESIS," Tribune building, New York.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY; gives quick relief and cures worst cases. Book of testimonials and 10 days' treatment Free. Dr. H. H. GREEN'S SONS, Box D, Atlanta, Ga.

RHEUMATISM Van Buren's Rheumatic Compound is the only positive cure. Past experience speaks for itself. Depot 88 S. California Ave., Chicago.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

THE REPUBLICAN.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Editor and Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

THE REPUBLICAN is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year	$ 1.25
One copy six months	.75
One copy three months	.40
One copy one month	.15
Single copies	.05

ADVERTISING RATES.

First insertion for square of ten nonpareil lines, $1; each additional insertion after first, 0 cents per square of ten nonpareil lines.

REMITTANCES:

Remittances made by money order, bank draft, registered letter or express order will be at our risk; if made otherwise, at the risk of the sender. Address,

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, MARCH 28, 1901.

Political Announcements

The following rates for publishing political announcements in these columns have been fixed and will be charged to those who desire to make their wishes known to the voters of Garrett county. These charges are payable in advance of the first publication of notices:

For State Senator, $10; County Treasurer, $5; Sheriff, $5; Members of the House of Delegates, $5; County Commissioner, $5.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER.

At the solicitation of friends I announce myself as a candidate for the nomination for County Treasurer, subject to the Republican Nominating Convention, and most respectfully solicit the assistance and influence of all Republicans. Should I be nominated and elected I promise to give personal attention to the duties of the office.

JAS. W. WHITE.
District No. 14. Oakland.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the nomination of Sheriff for Garrett county, subject to the decision of the Republican Nominating Convention, and solicit the support of Republicans throughout the county.
Dist. No. 7. ANDREW SHARTZER.

Newspaper Frauds.

"Non-partisan" papers, edited by partisans, are the most patent humbugs of the age. In commenting upon public matters they start out non-partisan, but wind up partisan. They are simply frauds. A partisan paper is the more to be admired. It sacrifices patronage for principle. It is more honest, for it does not play for both sides, and does not pretend to be anything than partisan. There is nothing antagonistic to honesty in being partisan, and there is every inducement to dishonesty in being non-partisan or independent. The most despicable object is a partisan who pretends to conduct a non-partisan or independent paper, and then by his acts endorses every principle and policy which his party espouses.—Westminster (Md.) Advocate.

IT WILL be a matter of general felicitation when the Gormanized-Governor-John-Walter-Smith-ring-reconstructed-Democratic-postage-stamp-stationery-boss-ridden-disfranchising-extra-session-unconstitutional-law-making-legislature of Maryland shall have adjourned sine die. For the good name of Maryland may its like never meet at the State Capital again!

SENATOR MCCOMAS has denied a fake interview in which he was quoted as declaring the Gorman disfranchisement law in Maryland to be constitutional. The interview obtained wide circulation among the Gormanite journals of Maryland. They are welcome to the fleeting comfort they obtained from the delusion that the constitutionality of indirect disfranchisement was conceded by a leading Maryland Republican.

WHILE the Democratic party may have been animated entirely by patriotic motives in disfranchising the voters of the State, it is more in consonance with the probabilities to belief that the movement was entirely for the purpose of returning Mr. Gorman to the United States Senate. This project cannot be classed as a patriotic move and patriots cannot welcome it with any great degree of pleasure. The Democratic ring is entirely responsible for the deplorable condition and the people of the State will remember it. The Democrats say that bribery and corruption was possible under the old election law. If it was the Democrats were successful in carrying the election and the bribery that was committed must have been committed by them. When such people become reformers the reformation should be viewed ascant by all good men. It is well enough to speak of living by hopes, but when hopes of purity and fairness in elections must be tied to the Democratic gang, the prospect is not very inviting and gives opportunity for reasonable men to question the outcome. In every State except Maryland where there had been an educational qualification attached to the right of franchise, there has been a constitutional amendment providing for the same. But the plans of the Democratic ring would not allow a constitutional amendment or an opportunity for the people to pass on the question, so the measure has been jammed through a subservient legislature, signed by a ring governor, and is put upon the statute books to stand as the record of the work of the serfs of the Gorman ring.

Garrett County to the Fore.

In this issue of THE REPUBLICAN we publish a speech delivered in the Maryland House of Delegates by Assemblyman Finzel against the passage of the law disfranchising the illiterates. The effort on Mr. Finzel's part was a strong plea against the great injustice done many of the best citizens of Maryland, but the Democratic bosses cracked their whips and the puppets of the Legislature fell into line and crowded the bill through, thus blotting the good name of Maryland with an evil which will retard the growth and work to the disadvantage of every section of the State until the law is wiped from the statute books.

Contrary to Jefferson's Principles.

From the New York World.

Maryland's new election law, just passed by an extra session of her legislature called for the purpose, is intended to disfranchise about 44,000 voters, of whom 26,000 are believed to be negroes and 18,000 whites. The avowed object of ex-Senator Gorman and the Democratic leaders who have jammed it through, in the teeth of not a little opposition from independent fair-minded Democrats, is to make the State surely Democratic.

The new law provides a reading qualification for voters; prescribes a ballot without party emblems, so that a man who cannot read will not be able to tell for which party's candidate he is voting; forbids election officers to give any assistance whatever to illiterate voters; appoints county boards of supervisors with authority to arrange names on the ballot in any order they please, and differently in different counties if they see fit, and provide for a new State enumeration of voters, on the alleged ground that the Federal census was padded in the negro counties.

The expectation is that under the new election law the State will certainly go Democratic next fall and return Mr. Gorman to the Senate. But the balance of the illiteracy is not heavily against the negroes of Maryland, and the Republicans are already organizing to teach them to read. As the negroes are eager to learn the new law may in the end do more to further popular education than to promote the supremacy of the Democratic party and the senatorial ambition of Mr. Gorman.

Whatever happens Maryland has not honored Democratic principles by passing laws aimed to deny equal rights to equal citizens. Whether they are contrary to the Constitution is for the Federal Supreme Court to decide, but that they are contrary to Jeffersonian principles is as certain as it is deplorable.

CORKSCREW PHILOSOPHY.

The bettering of society should be your highest aim.

The rights of citizenship implies that you will do your part as a citizen.

The indifference of the righteous maketh a multitude of sinners, and smirk-faced complacency helpeth the iniquitious.

The follies of the rich sappeth the understanding, and the feet of the envious run to their own undoing.

Suffering bringeth much wisdom, and the thorns of affliction putteth forth blossoms of joy.

He is rich beyond price who has nothing to lose, and the vanities of life taketh no hold upon him.

The hands of the diligent maketh the glory of nations, but the ways of the slothful bringeth decay.

Trouble strengtheneth the heart of a man and his soul rejoiceth to overcome many difficulties.

The babbling of many women vexeth the soul of wisdom; their understanding is as a net dragged in the waters of the dead sea.

She howleth for female suffrage and claimeth undue regard; but, verily, Adam will remember his first undoing and keep a stiff upper lip for his safety.

She plucketh hairs from the head of Experience and maketh uneasy the slumbers of men. She hearkens not to the voice of counsel, and her feet runneth after strange desires.

The heart of man is as putty to her fingers, and she leadeth him like apes to the pits of sheol. She flingeth his wisdom to the winds and boweth his back with unceasing toil. Verily, he grindeth for her pleasure and vain is his reward.

My son, consider the ways of Mrs. Nation and the glory of her husband. He is lifted up by the yellow journals and rejoiceth in the wife of his bosom. Her hatchet is greater than the law, and she shedeth lustre upon the cause of woman.

JACKSON.

Vertical Writing Dismissed.

Through the recommendation of Superintendent Andrews of the Pittsburg schools vertical writing will not be taught any more in any of the rooms or grades. Upon investigation it was found that the majority of business men favored the natural, or slant, writing. Then, too, objections were made to the vertical writing because it did not develop individuality in students' penmanship and is not rapid enough for business purposes.

GORMAN MAY STRIKE A SNAG.

Senate May Refuse to Seat Him if Elected as Result of Disfranchisement.

According to a special to the Baltimore American from Washington if Mr. Gorman is elected next winter to the United States Senate from Maryland as the result of the disfranchisement law just enacted at Annapolis he will find grave difficulty in obtaining his seat. This is plain from the comments made on the new law by Senator Burrows of Michigan. The significance of his statements lies in the fact that Mr. Burrows will be chairman of the committee on privileges and elections and that this committee will pass on Mr. Gorman's credentials when they are presented in the Senate. "The Maryland law will very probably compel Congress to take action on the disfranchisement laws," said Mr. Burrows. "It cannot be denied that there has been in the past some indulgence and toleration of the efforts of certain States in the South to avoid negro domination. But in Maryland we have the case of a great State disfranchising 50,000 citizens in order to give one political party the control of the legislature of the State.

There is no fear in Maryland of negro domination. That is not the excuse for the law. Certain Democrats seek to control the State, and to accomplish this purpose a sufficient number of the opposite party are to be disfranchised. It is nothing more than this.

"At present the question is presenting three interesting phases: The effect disfranchisement has on the basis of representation in the lower house; the propriety of accepting Senators in Congress who have been elected after a large number of voters have been disfranchised, so that the legislatures would be favorable to some men, and the public policy of permitting political parties to disfranchise a large number of their opponents to maintain their dominant position in the States. These are no longer sectional questions."

A West Virginia Author.

Mr. Oren F. Morton, who lived here and at Mountain Lake Park a few years ago and is still known to our people, has recently published a book entitled "Under the Cottonwoods," a story of life on a praire homestead. Mr. Morton spent much of his boyhood in the northwest and was educated there. His book describes a phase of pioneer life which he has witnessed for himself but which is fast passing away. Any kind of pioneer life is romantic and interesting, and the story of the settlement of the northwest is no exception. The book is not a history but a story with a romance interwoven with it and those who read "Under the Cottonwoods" are pleased and interested almost without any exception whatever. The author receives many words of unsolicited commendation and among his press reviews is one from a well known public man who has lived in Nebraska almost ever since it was admitted as a territory. He has a national reputation and no better authority could be found. He says: "The book is correct and accurate in every particular and should be placed in every school library in his State." The same author will shortly bring out a story of West Virginia life entitled "Winning or Losing." This is also arousing much interest, and as Garrett is so similar to the adjacent counties of West Virginia it should meet with a good reception here.

"Under the Cottonwoods" may be had of Jos. E. Harned at Oakland Pharmacy.

Webers' Flowers.

The Public Ledger of Philadelphia of March 21st, gave an account of the Inter-State Horticultural Society's meeting held in that city and commented at length upon the display of flowers exhibited by Messrs. H. Weber & Sons, of Oakland, as follows:

The silver medal offered for the best vase of carnation blooms of any one variety, new or old, was awarded to the "Mrs. Henry W. Lawson," the $30,000 carnation, exhibited by Messrs. Henry Weber & Sons, of Oakland, Md.

None of the carnations exhibited was regarded as having earned the certificate of merit or silver medal offered by the Horticultural Society for the best vase of twenty-five carnations of a new variety, in the colors specified, the entries, while quite admirable in their way, not being considered better than existing varieties of the same color. The "Norway," a new white carnation, shown by Henry Weber & Sons, came nearer fulfilling the requisite conditions than, perhaps, any other. In some respects, indeed, it is better than existing varieties, but not wholly so. It has very fine qualities, however, and in time will doubtless improve.

Among the new varieties shown, besides the "Norway," were one of white, one of light pink, two of scarlet and two of crimson.

Miss Lord to be Married.

Cards have been issued for the marriage of Miss Genevieve, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles King Lord, of Baltimore, and Archibald Marshall Bell, of Pittsburg. The ceremony will be performed on Thursday afternoon, April 11, at 12.30 o'clock, in Christ Protestant Episcopal church, Baltimore, by Rev. Edward C. Niver.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN

WILL ADJOURN THURSDAY.

Extra Session of Maryland Legislature Drawing to an End.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., March 26.—The General Assembly today decided to finally adjourn the special session Thursday, March 28, at noon. The sewerage bill, which creates a perpetual sewerage commission in Baltimore city and provides for a bond issue of $12,000,000, passed the Senate today, and will pass the House before the final adjournment. The enactment of the sewerage bill is the price paid by ex-Senator Gorman to Mayor Hayes for aid which secured the passage of the election bill.

The House amended the primary election bill passed by the Senate by adding a provision that a majority of the party voters should have to sign a petition in order to get a legalized primary in Baltimore or a county if the State central committee ruled against it.

Senator Bryan declares that the House has practically killed the primary election bill and intimates that he will not vote for it when it comes to the Senate.

A corrupt practices act was passed in the Senate today by a unanimous vote. It is generally understood that it will be killed in the House.

The bill gerrymandering the wards of Baltimore city was passed to its third and final reading in the Senate after a brief but emphatic protest on the part of the Republicans.

Republicans, when there were but eight Democratic Senators in the chamber, caught the Democrats napping and adjourned the Senate until tomorrow.

Governor Smith signed the census bill today at 2 o'clock.

Artistic Publications Issued by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad—Guide to Washington.

The Passenger Department of the Baltimore & Ohio R. R. have issued a Guide to Washington, which in many respects excells all other guides published, both in artistic appearance and careful description of points of interest in the Capital City. The front cover of the book is embellished with a handsome steel engraved portrait of the "Stuart" Washington. The reverse cover bears an American flag in the grasp of an eagle. Theinpages contain recent photographs of all of the Government Buildings with correct information concerning them, together with other interesting features of the city, and the very latest map. Copies will be sold at the principle Ticket Offices of the Baltimore & Ohio R. R. for ten (10) cents cash, or will be mailed to any address on receipt of (15) cents in stamps on application to the undersigned.

"Reasons Why."

"Reasons Why" is a forty-two page phamphlet giving in condensed form the important facts concerning the Baltimore & Ohio R. R. It is an argument setting forth the claims of the railroad for public consideration. This artistic booklet contains many half-tones and drawings illustrating the history, scenic charms, the development and progress of the railroad, and the superior service afforded to patrons. Single copies can be obtained of Ticket agents, or will be mailed to any address on receipt of two (2) cents in postage stamps on application to the undersigned.

2-4t D. B. MARTIN,
Manager Passenger Traffic,
Baltimore & Ohio R. R.
Baltimore, Md.

Rheumatism.

Nobody knows all about it; and nothing, now known, will always cure it.

Doctors try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, when they think it is caused by imperfect digestion of food. You can do the same.

It may or may not be caused by the failure of stomach and bowels to do their work. If it is, you will cure it; if not, you will do no harm.

The way to cure a disease is to stop its cause, and help the body get back to its habit of health.

When Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil does that, it cures; when it don't, it don't cure. It never does harm.

The genuine has this picture on it, take no other.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

SCOTT & BOWNE,
Chemists,
409 Pearl St., N. Y

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

Saylor Given Eight Years.

Last Thursday afternoon after this paper had gone to press Judge Stake sentenced Harry Saylor to serve a term of eight years in the Maryland penitentiary. Saylor had been found guilty Wednesday evening of assaulting and robbing an old man on the Mountain Lake Park road, the deed having been committed several months ago, after which Saylor fled to Homestead, Pa., where he was employed in an iron mill. Here he was arrested and brought to Oakland and committed to jail for trial. The jail officials had considerable trouble with him during his incarceration prior to his trial. After an attempt had been made by him to escape by digging a hole in the wall of the jail he was put into one of the cages and kept there almost constantly until his trial and conviction. Thursday night he became very violent and succeeded in breaking to pieces his cot and all other furniture in his cell, besides tearing to shreds the blankets and bed clothing. He was taken to the penitentiary Friday morning by Deputy Sheriffs Silas O. Wiley and Chas. H. Liston. An account of the manner in which he was delivered to the penal institute in Baltimore is told elsewhere in this paper.

He Voted No.

The Baltimore Sun of the 19th inst. says:

The name of Senator Ravenscroft, of Garrett county, was omitted from the list of those who voted against the Election bill upon its final passage. In point of fact, Senator Ravenscroft not only voted against the, but made an extended and able argument against it.

Notice.

I will be at Accident within a few days and desire to make settlement with all who are indebted to me. All accounts must be closed at once, otherwise I will be compelled to proceed by law to collect the same.

ELI MCMILLAN.

Pinehurst and Southern Pines, N. C.—Improved New Through Pullman Service via Seaboard Air Line Railway.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway is now operating through drawing-room sleeping cars from New York to Southern Pines and Washington to Pinehurst, N. C. These famous health and pleasure resorts are model New England towns nestled among the pine-clad sand hills of North Carolina, only eighteen hours from New York City. The finest and largest hotels in the State, with numerous private cottages and first-class boarding houses. Every variety of out door sports, with the finest eighteen hole golf links in the South. Trains leave New York, 23rd Street Station, Pennsylvania railroad, 12.10 a. m. and 12.55 p. m., and Washington 8.35 a. m. and 6.55 p. m. For information and tickets address Chas. L. Longsdorf, New England Passenger Agent, 306 Washington street, Boston, Mass.; J. C. Horton, Eastern Passenger Agent, 1206 Broadway, New York; W. M. McConnell, General Agent, 1434 New York avenue, Washington, D. C., or R. E. L. Bunch, General Passenger Agent, Portsmouth, Va.

Selbysport Normal.

The Selbysport Normal will begin April 8, 1901, and continue for ten weeks.

Thorough instructions will be given in all the common school branches. Tuition $5. Good boarding can be secured for $2.50 per week.

For further information apply to
A. L. LEE, Principal.
2 3t* Altamont, Md

Things to Think About.

It pays to buy the best, whether you buy a suit of clothes, a horse, a house and lot or get yourself a wife. If you have the toothache you won't go to Naylor's to get it pulled. Why? Because you think Dr. Robinson understands the business better. These thoughts apply to all work that you want done. House-cleaning time is here and you will want some rooms papered. Now you have to pay your money for paper and for having it put on and paper is something that you have to look at every day and of course you want it put on right, clean and neat, and you don't want your house turned upside down for a week to get it done. These are facts. If they are right, see King, the painter and paper hanger, and you will get the neatest job and the quickest service. 3-3t

Sales Advertised.

Mr. D. Lindley Sloan, of Cumberland, as attorney, will offer at public auction on April 20th, 100 acres of land situated in Election District No. 1, near Beckman Postoffice.

Sheriff Oester advertises at sheriff's sale a valuable lot in the town of Deer Park, the sale to take place in front of the court house on April 19th.

Bird S. Robinson and Randolph Barton, receivers, will offer at public auction on the premises on April 19th the Loch Lynn Hotel.

Home-Seekers Excursions.

On the first and third Tuesdays of each month the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway will sell round-trip excursion tickets from Chicago, Milwaukee and other points on its line to a great many points in South Dakota, North Dakota and other Western and Northwestern States at about one fare. Take a trip west and see the wonderful crops and what an amount of good land can be purchased for little money. Further information as to rates, routes, prices of farm lands, etc., may be obtained by addresssng W. S. Howell, General Eastern Passenger Agent, 381 Broadway, New York, or John R. Pott, District Passenger Agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

Notice.

Books are now open at the furniture store of D. E. Bolden & Co., Oakland, to receive subscriptions to the Oakland Furniture Company. Shares of stock will be $10 each.

D. E. BOLDEN,
JOHN AULT,
CHAS. E. OFFUTT.

Receivers' Sale

—Valuable—

Hotel Property!

On APRIL 19, 1901,

The Loch Lynn Heights Hotel,

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.,

Will be Sold on the Premises at Auction.

The hotel is situated on a beautiful hill near the station of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad between Oakland, Maryland, and the famous Deer Park Hotel.

The Loch Lynn Heights Hotel contains more than 100 rooms, is in good repair, and its situation affords one of the most impressive views in the Allegheny Mountains.

It is situated within one half mile of the Mountain Lake Chautauqua, and affords a fine opportunity for a most successful summer hotel.

SALE ON PREMISES

AT 12 O'CLOCK M., APRIL 19th, 1901.

TERMS:—One-third cash; balance in six and twelve months, with interest.

Lien reserved to secure deferred payments. Private offers before day of sale will be considered.

Address

BIRD M. ROBINSON,
RANDOLPH BARTON,
Receivers of the Baltimore Building and Load Association of Baltimore City.
FIDELITY BUILDING,
Baltimore, Maryland.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

This is to give notice, That the subscribers, of Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

HENRY WARNICK,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 14th day of September next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 12th day of March, 1901.

T. P. WARNICK, Administrator,
Bloomington, Md.

COMMISSIONERS' MEETING.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., March 21, 1901.

The Board of County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on

Monday, April 8, 1901,

as required by law, for the purpose of making the 1901 Levy. All persons having accounts for same are requested to file them on or before above date.

By order of the Board.

A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

EXECUTORS' NOTICE.

This is to give notice, That the Subscriber, of Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

ANNIE M. WARD,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 3rd day of October next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 21st day of March, 1901.

GEORGE W. WARD, Executor,
Sunnyside, Md.

ORDER NISI.

Elizabeth C. Thompson et al. vs. Emma D. Hudson et al.

No. 1030 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 26th day of March, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that the sale made and reported by Frederick A. Thayer, trustee, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the nineteenth day of April next; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county aforesaid once in each of three successive weeks before the 19th day of April next.

The report states the amount of sale to be $2,500.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Sheriff's License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to all persons or bodies, corporate or politic, who may be required to take out license, that they must obtain the same on or before

THE FIRST DAY OF MAY, 1901.

According to the provisions of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland every person or persons doing business for gain or profit except the maker, grower or manufacturer, are hereby notified that they must take out a license.

A. J. OESTER,
Sheriff of Garrett County.

Sheriff's Sale

OF VALUABLE

REAL ESTATE

In Deer Park, Md.

Under and by virtue of a writ of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, at the suit of M. V. Pringley vs. Samuel W. Friend and F. C. Brownlug, the same being No. 6 Judicials to March term, 1901, of said Court, and to the undersigned sheriff directed, I will sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, in front of the Court House door, in Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, on the 19th Day of April, 1901,

FRIDAY,

at the hour of 11 o'clock a. m. of day, all that lot, piece or parcel of land situate, lying and being in the town of Deer Park, Garrett county, Maryland, which was conveyed to the said Samuel W. Friend by Lucy Perry by deed recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 38, folio 390, and is known as

LOT NO. 2

and contained within the following metes and bounds, courses and distances, to-wit: Beginning for the same at the end of the 3rd line of Lot No. 3 and running thence North 30 degrees East 118 feet, South 60½ degrees East 92 feet, South 30 degrees West 118 feet, North 60½ degrees West 90 feet to the beginning.

Terms of Sale:—Cash on the day of sale.

A. J. OESTER, Sheriff.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

LOCAL AND OTHERWISE

Incidents and Events at Home and Nearby —Personal Mention, Etc.

Justice E. J. Hamill, of Blaine, was in the city a day or two last week.

Don't be in too big a hurry to make garden. There's many a snow storm between winter and spring.

A Chinaman was in Oakland Monday looking for a place in which to conduct a laundry.

Naylor has the finest line of vehicles in Western Maryland, including a nice line of family carriages, runabouts, buggies, etc. 1 3t*

Mrs. and Mrs. W. L. Boughner, of Fairmont, were in Oakland visiting Mr. and King Delawder a few days last week.

Miss Nancy Hamill, of Wilson, W. Va., passed through Oakland Monday afternoon for Fairmont, where she entered the State Normal for the summer term.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad company has 150 Italian laborers grading for a third track on the Cranberry grade between Amblersburg and Terra Alta.

Attorneys Julius C. Renninger and Chas. D. Smith were at Kingwood Tuesday attending court. Mr. Smith was admitted to practice before the bar upon the occasion of his visit.

Headache often results from a disordered condition of the stomach and constipation of the bowels. A dose or two of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will correct these disorders and cure the headache. Sold by all druggists.

The West Virginia State Educational Association will hold its next session, July 1st, 2nd and 3d, at Mt. Lake Park. The management of the Park expects to book other conventions, some for June.

Sunday morning in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Wesley Davis, who was here on a visit to his aged mother, preached a strong sermon to St. Mark's Ev. Lutheran congregation.

Messrs. Bolden and West have moved their bowling alley to the rear of their lot adjoining the Garrett County Bank in order to make room for the erection of their new building, operations upon which will be begun shortly.

Judge Stake discharged the petit jury on Thursday afternoon last until the special term of court to be convened in June, and on Friday noon adjourned court until June when all unfinished cases will be taken up and disposed of.

Thomas Minnicks, of this county, died at Sylvan Retreat, Cumberland, on last Thursday in an epileptic spasm. His home was in District No. 9 and he was admitted to the hospital in December, 1899, at the age of eighteen years. He was a pay patient.

Mrs. C. E. VanDeusen, of Kilbourn, Wis., was afflicted with stomach trouble and constipation for a long time. She says, "I have tried many preparations but none have done me the good that Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have." These Tablets are for sale at all druggists. Price 25 cents. Samples free.

Dr. E. H. Bartlett went over to Elkins on Friday last to visit his son Edward, who has been and is still quite ill with an attack of typhoid fever. Mrs. J. L. Pollock, of Philadelphia, the doctor's daughter, also visited Elkins on Friday, returning to Oakland Tuesday.

One way to keep the streets clean all the time is to put the prisoners who are in jail to work on them. There are many hoboes and tramps around who might be gobbled up and put to work. This would serve two useful purposes. It would clean the streets and rid the town of this most undesirable element. Tramps will not stay where they are forced to work.

The Oakland office of the Garrett County Telephone Company will shortly be removed from the Naylor building on Liberty street to the Ravenscroft building on Second street where a young lady will be placed in charge. The proposed location is more central than the present one and the increase in business expected by the company will more than compensate them in making the change.

A corps of engineers are locating a third track for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company on the 17 mile grade, beginning at the east end of Hitchcock's tunnel. This track will be constructed on the north side of the present tracks, and will require some heavy fills. Already over five miles of this grade have three tracks, and part of the way, four. It seems to be the intention of completing the third track to Piedmont. This is made necessary by the heavy freight traffic, and to give passenger trains the right of way without detaining freights and helping engines.

Howard W. Smouse, of Fairmont, was in town Monday on business.

Fifty styles 10, 15 and 20 cent Torschon lace at Sincell & Co.'s for 5c per yard.

Good flour and plenty of it at the Felty Roller Mill. We grind everything in the grain line. 27-26t

Mr. William T. White, of Terra Alta, was in Oakland Friday last on business.

Why send away for your vehicles when you can save money by buying from Naylor. He buys in large quantities; hence can give you low prices.

Harry Davis is having a new front built to his millinery store on Oak street. The improvement will be a good one.

Mr. and Mrs. King Delawder and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Boughner, the latter of Fairmont, W. Va., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Delawder, near McHenry.

The promoters of the electric railway to be built from Cumberland to Lonaconing, have but a few days left in which to deposit the guarantee of $5,000 and secure the franchise.

Dixon & Kelso will sell you the famous Oliver Chilled Plow cheaper than ever. All kinds of reapers constantly on hand. Good spring-tooth harrows also for sale cheap. Two cars phosphate to arrive about April 1st. 3 2t*

Invitations are out for the Easter dance to be given at the Glades hotel on the night of April 10th by the Bachelors' Club of Oakland. A large number of invitations were sent to people residing out of town.

Mr. B. F. Laughlin, of Deer Park, has gone to Flemington to visit his brother who is engaged in railroad work at that point. He will return to Oakland at the beginning of the Normal school term to assist Prof. DeWitt as instructor.

March 16th the end of the ground hog's sway over the winter ended. The little animal has scored a victory this year even if he has failed many times in the past. He prevented spring from coming for six weeks after the second of February.

The teachers of the Accident Normal School have already secured three prominent lecturers who will at different times appear before the public during the school term. Indications at the present appear to be in favor of Accident being the "Mecca" for normal school students.

J. S. Gnegy, principal of the Grantsville normal, has been visiting in Grantsville and vicinity the past few days looking up the interest of the normal there. He has arranged boarding for all students desiring to board in town. Students will be directed to said boarding places by Mr. Bittinger, the postmaster.

Dick Sharpes, son of Rev. Sharpes, at one time a pastor of the Oakland Methodist church, came to Oakland from his home at Buckhannon, W. Va., to visit friends for a few days before returning to Denver, Col., where he has been a resident for several months made necessary by the condition of his health.

Advertisements are being placed in various towns calling for recruits in the classes of enlisted men for the engineering service for the U. S. The men are eligible for rank from privates to sergeent majors and receive from eighteen to forty dollars a month pay. For information those who waut to join must apply at the office of the U. S. engineers in Pittsburg.

Samuel B. Lee, Esq., one of the substantial citizens of Terra Alta, has decided to cast his lot with the people of Garrett county and one day last week purchased one-half of the Promised Land farm, near Hutton, from its owner, Rev. J. M. Davis, for which $4,000 was paid by Mr. Lee. He is a progressive citizen, wide awake to the needs of education and agricultural interests and a strong Republican.

The B. & O. has issued the handsomest souvenir of Washington we have ever seen. It gives illustrations of many of the public buildings and many bits of interesting history of the capital city. It gives visitors many points of valuable information that will be very necessary to have while in the city. It is really a valuable guide to Washington. With it is a booklet giving some of the remarkable history of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. It is the most interesting road in the world. It was the first railroad in America. It was the first to obtain a charter and the only existing road bearing without change its original charter name. It was the first road to be operated for passengers and freight. It was the first road to use locomotive power. A hundred other points are given that everyone should know about its history.

Merchant W. A. Smith, of Hoyes, was in town Saturday and Sunday.

We regret to note the illness of the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Fraley.

Dr. S. M. Hardman, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, Grafton, W. Va. Spectacles and artificial eyes fitted.

The trust has raised the price of window glass twenty-five per cent. It gives builders a pane.

Bring your buckwheat, wheat, rye, oats and corn, if you want cash or trade. The Felty Roller Mill, Oakland, Md. 27-26t

Mrs. Kate T. Crane and her mother, Mrs. S. L. Townshend, returned from Baltimore and other eastern cities Monday afternoon.

The sugar season will shortly be ended and it will wind up as one of the shortest seasons ever known. Very little sugar has been made on this account.

Major J. M. Burns, of the Morgantown University, a summer resident of Mountain Lake Park, was in Oakland a day or two this week on business.

Our merchants are preparing for a brisk trade that they know must begin soon now. A great many spring goods are already in and there are many tempting things being displayed.

The discordant notes of the frogs were heard for the first time last Saturday night. According to the old saying that snakes and frogs make their appearance after the first thunder storm, they are ahead of time.

If you want a first-class grain drill for a little money see Naylor. He has three kinds on hand. If you want a disc drill, disc harrow, he has them. If you want wood frame, steel frame or wheel harrow he has them, too. Corn planters, etc. I sell the Wynrd plow—no better made. 1 3t*

Complaint is made that there are too many night prowlers about town. Some inquiry shows that there are comparatively few but that is too many. The police look after them so closely that they have little opportunity to do mischief.

Spring seems to have arrived in all of its glory. The weather feels like it and house-cleaning has been started but the surest sign of all is to see the groups of boys playing marbles. When they start in dead earnest at this game it may be relied upon as a certainty that spring is here.

John C. Graham, one of the greatest business men of the country, says: "The most successful advertisers the world over pin themselves to the newspapers as being the best method. The newspapers go into the homes at all times and in all weathers; travelers read them and so do stay-at-homes, while to the latter all outdoor advertising must be lost. This is one great advantage newspaper advertising has over all other kinds—the certainty that it will be seen and read by the general public."

The North Glade club contemplates some extensive improvements at their club house grounds on North Glade run, in Garrett county. One of the most prominent is a 40x60 addition to the already commodious club house and three summer cottages on the grounds nearby. The club now owns about 1600 acres of land through which run several of the best trout streams in the county. They have a large lake on North Glade run covering 25 acres of land and this is stocked with brook trout. The club is composed of wealthy people from Western cities and many of them will visit at Oakland during the season.

This office has in preparation for distribution to the business men of Oakland several thousand small slips setting forth the advantages offered by this community as a summer resort. These slips are to be inserted in letters sent out by our merchants, etc., to their correspondents in remote and close-by cities. The slips are being prepared in conformity with a suggestion adopted by the Oakland Club at a meeting held recently. Aside from being almost an inexpensive way of advertising the town and bringing to public notice our great natural advantages as a summer and health resort it may interest some people to know that the Club is making an effort to help the town.

Big Price for a Book.

Mr. Scott T. Jones has a three column newspaper clipping giving an account of the sale, and a description of the book, written by his cousin, Hon. Webster Davis, on the Boer War. The price Mr. Davis received for the manuscript was $180,000. Mr. Davis went to South Africa several months prior to the election last fall and upon his return he delivered several addresses throughout the country upon the condition of things in the Boer Republic. Later he resigned from the Federal position held by him and affiliated with the Democratic party.

Notice.

This is to give notice that my wife, Alice L. Hardesty, has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation and that I will not be responsible for any debts she may contract in my name.

2-3t* HOMER L. HARDESTY, Deer Park, Md.

AGAIN THE STATE'S GUEST.

Harry Saylor Taken to the Penitentiary in Chains.

"That is the first time a prisoner was ever brought here with both his hands and legs cuffed," said Warden Weyler, of the penitentiary, yesterday as two deputy sheriffs from Garrett county entered with Harry Saylor. They knew the convict was desperate and they took no chances of his getting away.

Deputy Sheriff C. H. Liston is an old man and Saylor was handcuffed to him. In addition both of Saylor's hands were cuffed with steel and a pair of cuffs were fastened to his ankles, connected by a heavy chain sufficiently long to permit him to walk with a short step. Deputy Sheriff S. O. Wiley was along to see that Saylor did not run off with his brother deputy. They said that was the way they had made the trip from Oakland to the penitentiary.

Saylor was convicted of assault with intent to kill and robbing an old man of $43. He was given a sentence of eight years. The deputies said he smashed up the cot that was in his cell at the jail Thursday night, and had broken two others before that. He declared that he would show the countrymen how he could get away if he was given the slightest chance. The penitentiary is not new to him, as he left it in 1898.—Baltimore Sun.

Notice.

This is to give notice to the public that Nannie Victoria Bowser, aged about 15 years, adopted by me, has left her home and that I will not be responsible for any debts she may contract in my name. Persons are also warned against harboring her.

JOSEPH BOWSER,
1 3t* Deer Park, Md.

Grantsville Normal.

The Grantsville Normal will begin April 8, 1901, and continue ten weeks. Thorough instructions will be given in all branches to be studied by students. A competent assistant will be employed if necessary. Tuitien, $5 and $6.

J. S. GNEGY,
1 3t* Oakland, Md.

Spring Opening!

Wednesday and Thursday, March 27 and 28.

Millinery, Fancy Goods, Hosiery, Notions, Ladies' and Children's Fine Shoes.

American Lady Corsets

in the Straight Front and various new shapes.

MRS. M. L. SCOTT,
Baltimore Store.

Financial Statement.

Annual report of the receipts and disbursements of the Corporation of Oakland for the year ending March 31st, 1901:

RECEIPTS.

Bal. in hard Treas. March 31, 1900	$18 21
Late Collector Hinebaugh, taxes, 1896	31 41
Same, taxes, 1897	278 59
Same, taxes, 1898	44 14
J. M. Crim, collector, taxes, 1899	945 26
Same, collector, taxes, 1900	2,700 78
Licenses from all sources	1,285 00
Garrett county levy	600 00
Fines by police magistrate, &c	39 00
Judgment case, Hyde vs. Council	24 10
Rent town scales	50 00
Total	$6,077 49

DISBURSEMENTS.

Election expenses	$13 60
Electric lights	1,549 10
Printing	55 71
Fire department rent, &c	65 00
Collectors' commissions and assessments	101 66
Int. coupons and int. on drafts	552 55
Police protection	809 01
Paid on previous indebtedness	1,440 98
Streets, lumber, paving, &c	578 93
Clerk and councilmen's salary	186 00
Mayor's salary	50 00
Town lockup, chairs, coal and repairs	41 84
Fee bills and costs	34 11
Blacksmithing	12 10
Treasurer	25 00
	$5,513 59
Bal. in hands of Treasurer	$563 90

LIABILITIES.

Bonded indebtedness to April 1, 1901	$13,000 00
Int. due on same to April 1, 1901	200 00
Outstanding unpaid drafts	641 32
Total	$13,841 32

ASSETS.

Unpaid taxes for 1897-98	$503 43
Unpaid taxes for 1899-90	1,579 85
Unpaid platform bills	436 79
Bal. in hands of Treasurer	563 90
	$3,083 97
Net indebtedness	$10,757 35
By real estate	$800 00
By fire engine	800 00

JOHN W. HART, Mayor.
Test: J. C. DUNHAM, Clerk.

ORDER NISI.

Thomas B. Wiley, late Treasurer of Garrett County, vs. Sylvester Rinard.

No. 77 Miscellaneous Docket, March Term, 1901. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 18th day of March, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Md., that the sale of the real estate mentioned in these proceedings made and reported by Thomas B. Wiley, late Treasurer of Garrett county, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 19th day of April, next; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 19th day of April next.

The report states the amount of sale to be $53.60.

A. HUNTER BOYD.

True copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

WILLIAM R. OFFUTT,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
OFFICE UPSTAIRS IN RAVENSCROFT BUILD'G.

Loans negotiated and Collections promptly made.
Practices in Courts of Maryland, West Virginia and Court of Appeals of Maryland.

Big Opening!

CONNELL & CRANE

have just returned from the East with the finest and largest line of

MILLINERY

ever brought to Oakland; also a complete line of Notions, Fancy Goods, etc.

Opening MONDAY and TUESDAY, APRIL 1st and 2nd. Low prices and work guaranteed to please.

Turnbull's

China and Japan Mattings, all weaves and colorings.
Porch and Lawn Furniture,
Iron and Brass Bedsteads,
Linoleums and Oil Cloths,
Carpetings.

JOHN TURNBULL, JR., & COMPANY,
16, 18, 20 West Baltimore Street.
BALTIMORE

Accident Normal Academy

Opens April 8th.
Continues in Session Ten Weeks.

The objects of this school will be:

1st. To produce efficiency in the branches taught in the Public Schools, and to give such instruction in the higher branches as will be required to enter higher institutions of learning.

2nd. To prepare teachers for the Public Schools, giving special instruction in the Theory and Practice of teaching to all wishing to engage in that work.

Special attention will be given to classes in Book-keeping, Business Laws, Correspondence and Psychology.

Tuition, $6.00 for Teachers, one-half payable in advance, balance middle of term; others, $5 00.

It is or object to make the school a success. We therefore solicit the influence of all friends of education.

Good boarding at very low rates.

For further information apply to

R. R. SANNER or
GEORGE B. FRAZEE.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE —OF— REAL ESTATE

In Garrett County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage from Jemima Mowrey to Isaac Bradburn, dated the 12th day of August, 1899, recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 35, folio 288, &c., one of the mortgage records of Garrett county, Maryland, default having been made in the payment of the mortgage debt and interest, the undersigned attorney named in said mortgage will, on Saturday, April 20th, 1901,

at one o'clock p. m., in front of Shartzer's Opera House, Oakland, Maryland, offer for sale at public auction, all that land situate in Garrett county, Maryland, which was conveyed to the said Jemima Mowrey by Charles M. Miller and wife by deed dated the 25th day of July, 1894, recorded among the land records of said county in Liber E. Z. T. No. 26, folio 319, &c., and therein described as follows, to-wit: Beginning at a large flat stone marked "H. O." at the beginning of a tract of land conveyed by Joseph R. Anderson to Alex. Lohr, and running part of the first line thereof with an allowance of 3 degrees for magnetic declination, North 33 degrees East 14¼ perches to a stake and stone pile in said first line, South 35 degrees East 38½ perches to a stake and stone pile on the west margin of the county road, North 89 degrees West 14½ perches, South 13¾ degrees East 50 perches to a stake on the west bank of a stream and 5 feet south of a white pine stump, South 48 degrees West 38 perches to a stake, South 28½ degrees West 100 perches to a stake, thence with the 4th, 5th and 6th lines of a tract conveyed by Joseph R. Anderson to Alfred Lohr North 66 degrees West 78 perches to a stake, North 13¾ degrees West 82½ perches, North 35½ degrees East 45¾ perches to a stake in the 4th line of said deed to said Alexander Lohr and thence with the 4th and last lines thereof South 58 degrees East 78 perches to a stake, North 33 degrees East 88 perches to the beginning, containing 100 Acres, More or Less.

This farm is a desirable one, located near Beckman P. O., Garrett county, and about six miles from Swanton.

Terms of Sale:—CASH.

D. LINDLEY SLOAN,
Attorney named in Mortgage.

Money to Loan.

$7,000 to loan on first mortgage in in sums to suit upon town property or nearby farms.

EDWARD H. SINCELL.

CHAS. L. PETTIS & CO
CASH
Produce Buyers,
Dressed Poultry, Game, Furs, Eggs and Butter,
204 DUANE STREET
NEW YORK.
Write for Our Present Paying Prices.

LAND FOR SALE!

I am now offering for sale in large or small quantities, 31,000 acres of a tract known as "Swanton," and better known as the "Anderson lands," situated in Garrett County, Md. This land is well timbered and underlaid with many valuable veins of mineral; also suitable for farming purposes and grazing.

All trespassing will be prosecuted to the ullest extent of the law.

Call on or address:
C. A. WILT, Agent.

Illinois Central R. R.

PERSONALLY CONDUCTED EXCURSIONS TO CALIFORNIA
VIA NEW ORLEANS
AND THE SOUTHERN ROUTE.

VIA OMAHA
AND THE SCENIC ROUTE
NEW THROUGH LINE OF
HOT SPRINGS, ARK.
BY WAY OF MEMPHIS.
E. A. RICHTER, T. P. A.
812 Park Building, Pittsburg, Pa.
A. H. HANSON, Gen. Pass. Agt., CHICAGO.

$900 YEARLY to Christian man or woman to look after our growing business in this and adjoining counties, to act as Manager and Correspondent; work can be done at your home. Enclose self-addressed stamped envelope for particulars to U. A. KNIGHT, General Manager, Corcoran Building, opposite United States Treasury, Washington, D. C.

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.

133½ acres coal land on Youghiogheny river, 7 miles north of Oakland.

The Andrews property in Oakland for sale.

House on 5th street, opposite the jail for sale.

A farm one mile from Oakland, containing 187½ acres; about 50 or 60 acres cleared and under cultivation; has been thoroughly limed. Balance of land well timbered. On this farm is one of the best dwelling houses in the county; also stables, wagon sheds, spring house and all necessary outbuildings; water within five feet of kitchen door. This property will be sold cheap.

New house containing eight rooms, cellar, etc., and 26½ acres of ground; barn, stable, and all other outbuildings, adjoining the town of Grantsville, Garrett county. This property is known as the Samuel J. Beachy property, and will be sold cheap.

A farm five miles from Oakland on the Aurora road, containing 200 acres, well watered, fenced, etc.; a good dwelling house, a new barn built last year cost $1,000, and all other necessary outbuildings. This property will be sold on easy terms.

A farm 2½ miles southwest of Oakland, containing ninety acres of ground, well watered and fenced; has been thoroughly limed, and is under a high state of cultivation. First-class dwelling house; new bank barn put up this year; stone spring house and all other necessary outbuildings. One hundred and twenty-five bearing fruit trees of choicest variety. This farm can be bought on easy terms.

A farm five and two-third miles north of Swanton, containing one hundred and ten acres of land, comparatively level, well watered and under fence; eighty acres cleared and under a high state of cultivation; twenty-five acres of good timber; an orchard which never fails to produce fruit, consisting of peaches, pears, plums and apple trees. The buildings on this farm consist of an elegant dwelling house, containing six rooms and a cellar; a bank barn 40x60 feet; a spring house and all necessary outbuildings. This farm can be bought for part cash and balance on time to suit purchaser.

A farm known as the "Swauger Mill Property," containing eighty-six acres of land, partly cleared and balance in hemlock timber. The buildings consist of a dwelling house, small storehouse, a water-power grist mill, stable and all other necessary outbuildings. Besides being well watered by a stream running from one end of the place to the other it has on it a lake, covering about seven acres, which has been stocked with 40,000 brook and rain bow trout. This property can be bought at a low figure, part cash and balance on time, to suit purchaser, at five per cent. interest.

I have also houses to rent and sell in the town of Oakland.

For further particulars apply to

JOHN T. SINCELL,
Real Estate and Insurance Agent,
OAKLAND, MD.

Danger Signals.

If you are broken down, nervous and weak, have indigestion, cold hands and feet palpitation of heart, aching of bones and muscles or can't sleep at night and always tired in the morning, buy 3 or 4 boxes of HERCULEAN and follow the directions, then tell your afflicted friends the result. There is no better alterative pill compounded. They will renovate and renew your whole system. Get them of your druggist or merchant or send 35 cents to the AHMISS HEALTH ALLIANCE, Mt. Lake Park, Md. 3 Boxes by mail $1.00 5-1 y.

Real Estate NOTICES!

For Rent--

House on Water Street, Oakland.
The Whitehead Cottage, Mt. Lake Park.
Thorn Cottage, near Oakland.
Offices in Ravenscroft Building, Oakland.

For Sale--

Three Houses in Oakland.
Thorn Cottage, near Oakland.
Lots at Loch Lynn Heights.
Hotel Property, Deer Park.
Farms in the County.

Apply to

JULIUS C. RENNINGER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
1 3t OAKLAND, MD.

THE REPUBLICAN.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Publisher.

OAKLAND, : GARRETT CO., MD

Ha Hin, Chinaman

By G. R. Pattulo, Jr.

HA HIN lay on his back in his narrow bunk and scraped upon a wire strung violin a droning lullaby of the orient. With dreamy, almond eyes gazing into space, he thought of Yateesha and smiled. In the hollow wall within reach of his hand lay the precious American gold that four years of persistent toil had won him, and he laughed with a child's delight as he tapped gently upon the boards. The disturbing noises of the street reached him subdued and slumberous, and from all around the guttural voices of his brother orientals mingled in sleepy monotone. As in a haze, he saw the lazy Yangtse-Kiang flow murmuringly on to the Yellow sea, its reed-clad banks swept gently by a perfumed breeze that whispered of rest, and of love, and of languorous delight. Swift birds of heavenly plumage floated by on noiseless wings, and Yateesha's soft laughter rippled silver-chiming as music of paradise. With gentle undulating motion they were sailing on, he and she, through the realms of night, and the great golden moon in the white radiance of starry heaven sent wide beams of light over the bosom of the waters. The poppies drooped their graceful heads, and from afar shone fairy lights. A continuous murmur of life was borne upon the passion-breathing air and they two watched alone in the high arch of sky the intense stars shoot like arrows of fire.

Ha Hin closed his eyes and saw before him a long life of dreamful ease; heard the deferential voices of many slaves and the respectful salutations of his countrymen as he responded to their low salaams. And the queen of it all was Yateesha. He placed his head upon his arm and sighed tremulously. He was going back to Yateesha and his happiness.

The big Mantchoorian lay opposite and watched with sullen eyes the bright dreams reflected upon Ha Hin's countenance. He kicked viciously at Yo Te sunk in stupor beside him, his brass-tipped opium pipe hanging from loose lips that babbled incoherently of the strange fantasies of his sleep. The low ceilinged room was heavy with the many odors of a Chinaman's sleeping apartment, and the forms of three sons of the sunny east showed dimly from bunks about the walls through a blue vail of smoke. From the next room came the thud and swish of the busy irons where Lee Hing and two assistants were finishing up the week's consignment of linen. The Mantchoorian arose, cautiously pulled a bottle from beneath a pile of clothes, concealed it under his coat and went through to the street door. He picked up a parcel of linen as he went.

HA HIN RAISED THE STONE HIGH ABOVE HIS HEAD.

"I'm going to take this," he said, and Lee Hing nodded in pleased surprise.

Twilight was falling over the city and the streets were filling with the crowds that nightly thronged them, seeking relief from the stifling heat in vain. Square white sheets of paper, with strange characters upon them drew groups of people to office windows, and the Mantchoorian wondered idly what it all meant. Many boys accosted passers-by, holding aloft the evening papers and yelling the contents of a hastily issued extra.

"The legations butchered in Peking. More missionairies killed and outraged," they shrilled. "Tientsin—"

The Mantchoorian pondered dully upon the cause of the excitement as he passed out of hearing and turned into a densly populated alley where the air reeked with foul smells and the houses huddled close in squalor and wretched disrepair. He stopped at a flight of steps leading to a brightly illuminated cellar, from which came sounds of revelry run wild and the thick accents of helpless drunkenness. The Mantchoorian pulled the bottle from beneath his coat and descended.

Ha Hin slept; and little Lee Fee, as he swung the polishing iron in the workroom, sang contentedly in Shanghai Chinese a ballad of a lady and a sedan chair. He had reached the thirty-third verse and was folding the shirt to be wrapped up, when he paused with eyes wide with terror. Through the open door sprang the Mantchoorian, his clothes torn and saturated with blood. He clutched a knife, dark with ruddy stains, in his right hand and the look of a hunted animal glared from his bloodshot eyes. He swung the door to and bolted it. Then with a curse he hurled the boy from his path, rushed past the chattering Chinamen into the next room and into his bunk. In a second he was out again and had thrown his soiled coat over the sleeping Ha Hin. Quickly drawing on a tweed vest from a nail in the wall, he uttered a rapid warning to the questioning group that watched his movements in consternation, and disappeared stealthily by a side door into the darkness of a deserted lane.

Lee Fee crept to Ha Hin's bunk and gently shook him into wakefulness. He was shivering with vague alarm and his eyes looked a pitiful appeal for protection that banished from Ha Hin's features the smile that his slumbers had left upon them.

"What is the matter, little Lee Fee? Who hurts you?" he asked hoarsely.

"Listen, they're coming," whispered the boy, and buried his face upon his friend's breast.

"Who are coming, little one? Be quick, what is it?" cried Ha Hin, tenderly raising the boy's face.

"There, you can hear them howling. Big To Ko, the Mantchoorian, he ran in one second ago and ran out again. He was all blood and had a knife. And his eyes—oh, his eyes. Somebody had torn his clothes, and he cursed at me with the terrible oath. He had drunk the strong waters again, and now we will be killed."

Ha Hin listened with a growing fear, and there burst from the head of a neighboring street, wild, frenzied cries. He jumped to the middle of the floor, and swung Lee Fee onto his back.

"Out of this, all of you. To Ko has got into trouble, and must have hurt some one. Hark! they are coming for him, and to them it will matter little—Mantchoorian or us. We must get out of this for to-night, anyway. Come on, little Lee Fee, thou and I will risk it together."

A heavy stone came crashing through the glass of the front entrance and rolled to Lee Hing's feet. Ha Hin stooped and picked it up. The rush of a score of feet rattled the crazy windows in their frames and the door broke inwards. As it flew torn from its hinges, Ha Hin raised the stone high above his head and hurled it at the oncoming tide of humanity that surged in. It caught a fat German full upon the chest, and he sank to the floor with a choking gasp that sent the blood welling from his mouth.

"Up again, Lee Fee," he cried, and the boy sprang into his arms.

The Chinese had slipped out by the side door, and Ha Hin threw himself after them. With the raging crowd of roughs yelping at his heels, he ran for his life and prayed to the gods with a fierce despair for strength to elude them. Lee Fee hung tightly to his back and closed his eyes to the swollen, angry faces racing behind. An iceman's assistant in the rear stopped and threw a wooden mallet.

Little Lee Fee gave a gurgling groan of pain and his head fell forward upon Ha Hin's shoulder, while a gush of warm blood spattered Ha Hin's face. He stopped and laid the boy tenderly upon the ground. The pursuers uttered a yell of triumph and were upon him.

With all the might of wild passion and lost hope let loose, Ha Hin struck blindly out. An Italian fruit vendor went reeling back senseless upon his companions, and as he fell dropped the glittering stiletto that he had raised to deal the death stroke. Ha Hin's claw-like fingers closed upon it, and his eyes narrowed with a hideous joy as he sent the cold steel home into the shoulder of the nearest assailant. A maddening joy was pulsing through his veins and he leaped forward to meet them. Twice, thrice he struck, and the knife came back dyed deeper with each thrust. A lead pipe was swung upon his head, and earth and sky rocked horribly as he staggered backward out of reach of a second blow. A swarthy figure bounded to his side and a sinewy arm encircled his neck. Ha Hin grasped the uplifted hand and strained with fast failing strength to tear the Italian from his hold. His brain was throbbing dully and the ring of brutal faces that encompassed and strove to reach him, blurred red and indistinct. With a jerk the Italian freed his wrist and the knife was buried to the hilt in Ha Hin's breast.

He saw the Yangtse-Kiang rolling dreamily on, and upon the reed-clad bank Yateesha spread her soft arms to welcome him. Ha Hin sighed tremulously and sank his head upon his arm. The murmur of many voices sounded faint and far away, and he smiled; he was going back to Yateesha and his happiness.

The moon rose over the city blood-red and the air was suffocating with oppressive heat. A huge uniformed figure stood sentry before the laundry and saluted with easy familiarity the sergeant upon his rounds.

"I was afraid there would be trouble, Lane," said the sergeant. "That Chinee, To Ko, didn't do for Casey, but he did for his countryman. It's unfortunate we didn't arrive in time to stop the gang, for the affair will look ugly. We've got To Ko, and the Italian's next to him in No. 3. What about the others?"

"They're all back again and lying low, scared to death," replied the policeman. "And that is in there too."

"Hark, what is that?" asked the sergeant, holding up a hand.

The policeman looked uncomfortable.

"Oh, that's only little Lee Fee crying over the body. He liked Ha Hin."

And in the room above six Chinamen were wrangling over the division of the American gold.—Canadian Magazine.

PUNGENT PARAGRAPHS.

Policeman—"Where did you get all those fish?" Erastus—"Hooked 'em."—What to Eat.

Willie—"Pa, what's a fixed star?" Pa (formerly an actor)—"A fixed star, I suppose, is one who gets his salary regularly."—Philadelphia Press.

Diet Reform.—First Ostrich—"Suffering from dyspepsia, eh? Have you seen your doctor about it?" Second Ostrich—"Yes. He says I must stop eating scrap iron."—Puck.

Wireless Telegraphy.—"What do you think of this scheme of telegraphing without wires?" "That's nothing new. My wife has kicked my shins under the table for 20 years."—N. O. Times-Democrat.

Casey—"Since the Hoolihans got rich, I sh'pose they're t'rowin' on all kinds av shtoile." Murphy—"I sh'd say so! They've changed their goat's name t' Nannette, b'gob."—Baltimore American.

At a Musical Evening.—The Man—"What on earth is that awful row?" The Girl—"Hush! That's Mr. De Shouter singing a Moore melody." The Man—"Um; I wish there was more melody and less noise."—Ally Sloper.

Correct, If Not Grammatical.—Johnnie—"Pa, Aunt Hannah says boils are healthy. Shouldn't she say 'healthful?'" Wise Father—"Well, your aunt didn't mean to be grammatical, but I guess she was this time. It is the boil that is healthy, not the fellow who carries it around."—Boston Transcript.

One Too Much.—"John," said the wife, determinedly, "I want some money. I don't want to go by that millinery store to-morrow—" "Gee-whizz!" John interrupted. "I should hope not! It's tough enough to have to give you the money to buy one hat."—Catholic Standard and Times.

THE YALE CAMPUS.

All the Life of the University Centralizes on That Popular Ground.

A great majority of Yale students never attain distinction as scholars, literary men, athletes or leaders in the several other departments of college activity. A lesser number have no apparent desire for such attainment. Nevertheless, says Frederick Tilney, in Ainslee's, excellence is the dominating spirit of the place, and the Yale man who casts ambition to the winds, who devotes himself to no effort, condescends to the level of the "general, all-round dub," and is known in college parlance as "footless." But, whether the young matriculant comes up from his preparatory school with a good stock of ambition, or whether he is possessed of the sorry character that lacks it, he subjects himself to many influences which cannot fail to leave their stamp upon him. Not the least of these is the influence of the Yale campus. Life at Yale is thoroughly centralized; indeed, no other college cultivates this feature more assiduously. Many of them slight it altogether. In certain of these instances the authorities sanction the so-called "fraternity houses" and encourage the students to live in society buildings more or less remote from their campus. The result is that the campus becomes a mere schoolyard, while distinct "sets" or "cliques" are established, among which a perpetual, petty warfare is in process. In the Yale campus every man finds his front lawn and his public park, his school-grounds and his capitol. The policy which designed the order of the Old Brick Row, which set the recitation hall next door to the dormitory, has been followed out to the letter. To-day the humble brick buildings are surrounded by splendid halls, some of which are used for recitation purposes and some for dormitories. On one corner stands the chapel; on another the art school and libraries, while side by side are the grim structure of Alumni hall and the imposing headquarters of the Yale Y. M. C. A. The lack of unification from which one great university has suffered of late years can be directly ascribed to fault in its campus policy. Many signs announcing "rooms to let" will be found on its dormitory halls, showing that the students live elsewhere than on the campus. Dormitory accommodations have been allowed to fall behind the times, while elegant apartment houses have sprung up as the result of private enterprise, drawing the students into all quarters of the university town. At Yale, if the student seeks lodgings elegantly appointed and with all modern improvements, he can find them in Vanderbilt, White, Welsh or Berkeley. There are more modest quarters, also, to be had at reasonable rates. So that, instead of finding rooms to let, the difficulty is that their number is limited and every student anxious to "get on" the campus.

Time in a Busy City.

There is a theory that here more than elsewhere in the world does the adage apply that "time is money." Yet there are occasional instances in the busiest part of New York that go to show how little some people value time. Two dogs, still in the playful stage of puppyhood, began chasing one another about the fountain in City Hall park the other day at about two o'clock, when every one in town is supposed to be at his busiest. Yet there were at least 50 men and as many more boys of the clerk and messenger type who found time to stop all thought of business, drop all cares, and for at least ten minutes watch the antics of the puppies. The dogs were not doing anything in particular, but there was the barest chance that one of them in his efforts to escape the other might tumble into the fountain, and the crowd of supposedly busy people all stopped to see him do it.—N. Y. Press.

Rather!

"By the way," asked the stranger, "are women permitted to practice at the bar in this country?"

"Permitted!" snorted the other man, who happened to be a retired saloon keeper from Kansas. "You can't keep 'em from doing it when they take a notion, begosh!"—Chicago Tribune.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. Cheney & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

A Familiar Sound.

Mrs. Johnson—Has Mr. Johnson come home for dinner yet?

Jane—No, mum.

"I thought I heard him downstairs."

"That was Leo growling over a bone, mum."—Tit-Bits.

His Skin Peeled Off.

Not very long ago, when Mr. Fred Falk was living at the corner of Hunt and Pencleton Streets in Cincinnati, Ohio, he wrote: "About one year ago, my face and neck were so terribly burned by the hot vapors of burning spirit and oil that the skin peeled off the moment it was touched. Palmer's Lotion was immediately and liberally applied, which relieved my intense agony in a few minutes and a new skin was formed in two weeks without leaving a scar." Your druggist ought to have this wonderful healer. If he hasn't it, send to Solon Palmer, 374 Pearl Street, New York, for samples of Palmer's Lotion and Lotion Soap.

Harmless Sparks.

Speaking of the wit of the late Senator Davis, Senator Hoar uttered an epigram which deserves to be remembered. "No spark from him," said Senator Hoar, "was ever a cinder in the eye of his friend."—Washington Post.

A Remedy for the Grippe.

Physicians recommend KEMP'S BALSAM for patients afflicted with the grippe, as it is especially adapted for the throat and lungs. Don't wait for the first symptoms, but get a bottle to-day and keep it on hand for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the grippe brings on pneumonia. KEMP'S BALSAM prevents this by keeping the cough loose and the lungs free from inflammation. All druggists, 25c and 50c.

Money in Politics.—"What we need to do," cried I, hotly, "is to take money out of politics!" "I took out all I saw, sir!" protested the legislator, with convincing candor.—Detroit Journal.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

After a girl has prepared refreshments for a party, her next step is hide them from her brother.—Atchison Globe.

Care of the Baby.

To keep the skin clean is to keep it healthy. Every mother should therefore see that her baby is given a daily bath in warm water with Ivory Soap. The nursery should also be well aired and cleaned and all clothing washed with Ivory Soap, well rinsed and dried in the sun. ELIZA R. PARKER.

The burglar makes hay while the sun doesn't shine.—Chicago Daily News.

Greatest in the World.

Within five years Cascarets have reached the largest sale of any liver or bowel medicine in the world, simply because they cure. They have great merit as the sale of over six million boxes a year proves. No matter what ails you, start using Cascarets to-day and if you are not benefited and in every way satisfied after you have given them a fair trial you can have your money back for the asking. There is no waste. They are put up in tablet form and every tablet is stamped "C. C. C." They don't cost much—10c, 25c and 50c a box and a 50c box will furnish a whole month's treatment for the worst case. Cascarets are the best and cheapest liver and bowel regulator in the world.

"I hear Miss Flirty threw Chollie over last night." "So? She told me she would be disengaged this evening."—Town Topics.

An Innovation.

The Louisville & Nashville R. R. together with its connecting lines has inaugurated the Florida Limited, which is a daily, solid train, wide vestibuled, steam heated, gas lighted, with dining car service for meals en route to Thomasville, Ga., Jacksonville and St. Augustine, Fla. The sleeper leaving Cincinnati at 11:15 a. m. is attached at Nashville, running via Birmingham and Montgomery, Plant System to Jacksonville, and Florida East Coast to St. Augustine, arriving at the latter city at 7:30 the next evening. Mr. C. L. Stone, General Passenger Agent, Louisville & Nashville R. R., Louisville, Ky., will answer all inquiries concerning this train and furnish printed matter concerning it.

A St. Louis girl has outclassed all the Maes. She spells her name Maiae.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Cheap Rates to California.

February 12th and each Tuesday thereafter, until and including April 30th, Special Low Rate Colonist Tickets will be sold via the Southern Pacific's Company's "Ogden" and "Sunset" Routes to all points in California. The rate will be: From Chicago $30.00, from St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans $27.50, from Omaha, Kansas City, etc., $25.00. Corresponding low rates from all other points east and north.

For particulars and detailed information pertaining to the Southern Pacific Company's Routes, and these special rates to California, call upon or address

W. G. Neimyer, G. W. A., S. P. Co., 238 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.

W. H. Connor, C. A., S. P. Co., Chamber of Commerce Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio.

G. G. Herring, C. A., S. P. Co., 711 Park Bldg., Pittsburg, Pa.

L. E. Townsley, C. A., S. P. Co., 421 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

C. C. Cary, C. A., S. P. Co., 208 Sheidley Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Greatness is not so much in ability to plan masterpieces as in persistency in pursuing them.—Ram's Horn.

Dyeing is as simple as washing when you use PUTNAM FADELESS DYES. Sold by all druggists.

Love can make us friends as well as angels.—Kingsley.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

'Tis a kind of deed to say well, and yet words are no deeds.—Shakespeare.

A Dose in Time Saves Nine of Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar for Coughs. Pike's Toothache Drops Cure in one minute.

There is no end to the rings a woman wears.—Chicago Daily News.

The stomach has to work hard, grinding the food we crowd into it. Make its work easy by chewing Beeman's Pepsin Gum.

It spoils a favor if you are asked to return it.—Chicago Daily News.

Coughing Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam will stop the Cough at once. Go to your druggist to-day and get a sample bottle free. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents. Go at once; delays are dangerous.

Farsightedness is largely a matter of careful planning.—Chicago Daily News.

Men are seldom charitable on an empty stomach.—Chicago Daily News.

The only safe bet on record—the alphabet.—Chicago News.

WHAT IS OVARITIS?

A dull, throbbing pain, accompanied by a sense of tenderness and heat low down in the side, with an occasional shooting pain, indicates inflammation.

On examination it will be found that the region of pain shows some swelling. This is the first stage of ovaritis, inflammation of the ovary. If the roof of your house leaks, my sister, you have it fixed at once; why not pay the same respect to your own body?

You need not, you ought not to let yourself go, when one of your own sex holds out the helping hand to you, and will advise you without money, and without price. Write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and tell her all your symptoms. Her experience in treating female ills is greater than any other living person. Following is a letter from a woman who is thankful for avoiding a terrible operation.

MRS. ANNIE ASTON.

"I was suffering to such an extent from ovarian trouble that my physician thought an operation would be necessary.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound having been recommended to me, I decided to try it. After using several bottles I found that I was cured. My entire system was toned up, and I suffered no more with my ovaries."—MRS. ANNA ASTON, Troy, Mo.

It Cures Coughs Colds, Croup, Sore Throat, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Price, 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

How Are Your Bowels?

About the first thing the doctor says--

Then, "Let's see your tongue."

Because bad tongue and bad bowels go together. Regulate the bowels, clean up the tongue. We all know that this is the way to keep and look well.

You can't keep the bowels healthy and regular with purges or bird-shot pills. They move you with awful gripes, then you're worse than ever.

Now what you want is Cascarets. Go and get them today--Cascarets--in metal box--cost 10c. Take one! Eat it like candy, and it will work gently--while you sleep. It cures, that means it strengthens the muscular walls of the bowels, gives them new life. Then they act regularly and naturally. That's what you want. It's guaranteed to be found in

THE TONIC LAXATIVE

Cascarets

LIVER TONIC

BEST FOR THE BOWELS

10c. 25c. 50c.

ALL DRUGGISTS.

NEVER SOLD IN BULK.

CURE all bowel troubles, appendicitis, biliousness, bad breath, bad blood, wind on the stomach, bloated bowels, foul mouth, headache, indigestion, pimples, pains after eating, liver trouble, sallow complexion and dizziness. When your bowels don't move regularly you are getting sick. Constipation kills more people than all other diseases together. It is a starter for the chronic ailments and long years of suffering that come afterwards. No matter what ails you, start taking CASCARETS to-day, for you will never get well and be well all the time until you put your bowels right. Take our advice; start with CASCARETS to-day, under an absolute guarantee to cure or money refunded. 440

GUARANTEED TO CURE: Five years ago the first box of CASCARETS was sold. Now it is over six million boxes a year, greater than any similar medicine in the world. This is absolute proof of great merit, and our best testimonial. We have faith and will sell CASCARETS absolutely guaranteed to cure or money refunded. Go buy today, two 50c boxes, give them a fair, honest trial, as per simple directions, and if you are not satisfied, after using one 50c box, return the unused 50c box and the empty box to us by mail, or the druggist from whom you purchased it, and get your money back for both boxes. Take our advice—no matter what ails you—start today. Health will quickly follow and you will bless the day you first started the use of CASCARETS. Book free by mail. Address: STERLING REMEDY CO., NEW YORK or CHICAGO.

CREDIT TO COUNTRY.

Americans Have Reason to Be Proud of Their Senators.

The Great Body Always Emerges from Every Ordeal with Genuine Honor to Itself and Glory to the Nation.

[Special Washington Letter.]

WHAT is the United States senate? You often read about it, sometimes think of it, and usually consider it an aggregation of great and dignified statesmen. But few people think of the individuals who

HON. H. E. BURNHAM.
(United States Senator-Elect from New Hampshire.)

compose and comprise that great deliberative body.

Although each senator is elected for a term of six years, it is provided in our national constitution that one-third of the senators shall conclude their terms every two years. There are now 45 states in this republic, and each state has two senators, so that the senate is a body of 90 senators, and every two years 30 of them conclude their terms.

Usually it is fortunate for the entire republic that the senators of marked ability are elected to succeed themselves, but sometimes it is unfortuntae for the several states and for the country that senators are not reelected. Continuous service in the senate increases the ties of personal friendship, and increases the wisdom and acumen of good men. In a general sense it may be said that senators should serve at least two terms.

On the 4th day of March 30 senators will conclude their terms. Concerning those who will depart from the senate, and those who will be continued for another term, we will have a little chat to-day. Of course, only the most eminent senators can have space in one letter, because those who are not eminent are in the majority.

Chairmanships in the senate are awards of continuous service. Ordinarily, for example, Senator Mason, of Illinois, might not have been in the senate long enough to have become chairman of the great committee on post offices and post roads. But, by a concatenation of events, he will become chairman of that important committee on the 4th day of March.

Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, now chairman, will be succeeded by a democrat; Senator Chandler, of New Hampshire, will be succeeded by a republican; Senator Carter, of Montana, will be succeeded by a democrat; Senator Gear, of Iowa, is deceased. The next man in rank on that committee is Senator Mason, of Illinois; and by reason of the seniority rule of the senate he will become chairman of the committee.

HON. MOSES E. CLAPP.
(United States Senator from Minnesota.)

In the biennial senate changes it seldom happens that a man who stands fifth on the majority side of a committee steps into the chairmanship. But the states of Colorado, New Hampshire and Montana having selected other men in place of the veterans, and the aged senator from Iowa having passed away, Senator Mason will be advanced. The writer has seen so many men come and go, and so many changes occur, that he cares little for individuals in making estimates of national affairs. And yet it is truth to say that in sending new and untried men in places of Wolcott, Chandler and Carter, the states sending them have weakened their own state influence in the senate, and have weakened the senate very materially. Time may show, however, that the incoming senators are well worthy their advancement to the dignity which has been conferred upon them.

While the senate will be weakened by losing such men, it is fortunately continued in strength and potency before the world by the reelection of Senators Elkins, of West Virginia; Frye, of Maine; Hoar, of Massachusetts; McMillan, of Michigan; Morgan, of Alabama; Nelson, of Minnesota; Sewell, of New Jersey; Warren, of Wyoming, and Wetmore, of Rhode Island. These able and experienced statesmen will prove to be a power in the land, because they will uphold the dignity and ability of our great deliberative body.

It is a great loss to the state of Idaho and to the senate that Senator Shoup, of that state, is to be retired. Nevertheless, in the selection of ex-Senator Dubois the state of Idaho is to be congratulated, because she sends not an inexperienced man, but one who has served with credit in the house of representatives and in the senate. He is well equipped for the work which he will easily take up. The political convictions of these men cut no figure in the mind of one who views them dispassionately. They come here not as politicians from the several states, but as members of the great national body of statesmen.

Without intending any invidious distinctions, it may be said that the senate is particularly fortunate in the reelections of Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, republican, and Senator Morgan, of Alabama, democrat. These distinguished statesmen entered the senate on March 4, 1877, and have served continuously for 24 years. Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, was born in 1826, and is therefore 74 years old. If he lives until the conclusion of his next term he will be 80; and he bids fair to last that long, or longer. Senator Morgan, of Alabama, was born in 1824, and is therefore 76 years old, and will be 82 if he lives to conclude his next term. They are both old men, and they are both as vigorous mentally as they were in their earlier years.

Senator Morgan is a typical old southern "states' rights" man. Right here it may be shown what a loss the majority side of the senate sustains in the loss of Senator Chandler, of New Hampshire, who is by all odds the wittiest and most sarcastic member of the senate. On one occasion, several years ago, Senator Morgan stood in his place, and began a speech by saying: "I stand here as an ambassador from the sovereign state of Alabama."

"What is that?" interjected Chandler. "Did I understand that the sen-

HON. W. A. CLARKE.
(Reelected United States Senator from Montana.)

ator from Alabama has resigned his seat?"

"Nothing of the kind," said Senator Morgan, severely. "What does the senator mean by such an interruption?"

"Well," said Chandler, "I don't see how I am to address the gentleman. He can't be an ambassador from a foreign country, and at the same time a senator of the United States. If he insists that he is an ambassador from some foreign state, I shall have to speak of him as 'the ambassador,' instead of as 'the senator from Alabama.'"

That was a rather keen body blow at the venerable and dignified senator's view of states' rights, but Senator Morgan retorted: "That is cheap politics from a cheap politician."

One of Senator Morgan's most striking utterances was aimed at the domineering influence of President Cleveland, who was successfully using patronage to compel the democratic senate to repeal the silver purchase bill, in October, 1893, when Senator Morgan said sneeringly to his democratic colleagues: "The clock strikes in the white house, and the cuckoos here about me sally forth to tell us the time of day."

Senator Hoar, who is a vigorous speaker, struck hard at President Cleveland, when Mr. Blount was sent to Hawaii with a letter to President Dole, calling him "My great and good brother;" when he was also commissioned to haul down the flag and reinstate Queen Liliuokalani. Senator Hoar said that it reminded him of the action of Joab, who "took Amasa by the beard and said, 'Art thou in health, my brother?' while he smote him under the fifth rib, so that he died."

There are pessimists who believe that the senate is not the strong body that it used to be; who say that it has deteriorated, and that we shall never again see such a magnificent aggregation of statesmen as were gathered together when Clay, Webster, Sumner, Benton, Douglass, Clayton and Buchanan were there. But that is simply nonsense. The race is not deteriorating, but developing. The lately deceased Senator Davis, of Minnesota, who gave his superior learning and wisdom and patriotism to the senate, was in no whit inferior to preceding statesmen; and those who remain in that august body are equal to the intellectual tests which are to be required of them.

Pennsylvania has returned Senator Quay; Illinois has returned Senator Cullom; Iowa retains Senator Allison; Ohio retains Senator Foraker; South Carolina retains Senator Tillman; Mississippi retains Senator Money; Arkansas retains Senator Berry, and Vermont retains Senator Proctor. With these intellectual giants in the senate from every section, all of them superior men for the exalted positions in which they are placed, the great senate is capable of dealing with national and international questions for the common weal.

SMITH D. FRY.

BATS OF GREAT SIZE.

In Some Parts of the Philippine Islands They Form a Part of the Poor Man's Diet.

The horrible bat of the islands grows in many cases to the size of the American chicken hawk, and is eaten in some sections of the Philippines. The best classes of natives, however, says the Scientific American, do not eat the bats. The mode of catching the bats is peculiar. The cities, towns and barrios of all the islands of the Philippine group are quite overrun with bats, which fly through the streets in large numbers. They fly slowly and seem incapable of dodging articles, in their path. Therefore, the native takes a long pole, puts a sort of combination hooked arrangement at the top and takes position in a street, and with the pole held erect waits for bats to come along and bump into the hooked portion. As the native sees a bat coming he plans to have the hook in its path, and as he moves the pole, so as to bring the hook into contact with the head of the bat, the latter usually strikes it with a bang and drops to the earth stunned, when the native proceeds to promptly put the bat to death. After standing in this position for an hour or more, the native has a pile of bats at his feet. These he takes to market the next day and receives about two cents each for them. The bats are eaten only in small part. The wings, head, and, in fact, all but a small portion of each side is thrown to waste.

GIANT PHILIPPINE BAT.
(Horrible Creatures That Grow to the Size of a Chicken Hawk.)

KATHARINE SCHRATT.

Rumor Has It That the Popular Vienna Actress Is to Marry Emperor Francis Joseph.

Telegrams from Paris and Vienn assert that Emperor Francis Joseph will soon abdicate in favor of Archduke Ferdinand in order to marry Mme. Katharine Schratt, the actress. It is said that Mme. Schratt has obtained from the pope a promise to dissolve her marriage with Baron Kisch, which will leave her free to become the wife of the head of the house of Hapsburg. The former actress on her visit to Rome was accompanied by the sister of Empress Elizabeth. Francis Joseph, it is said, will elevate the actress to the nobility before the marriage. Mme. Schratt for 20 years has been the favorite actress of the imperial family of Austria. She has been upon terms of most intimate association with the emperor, the empress and their relatives, and this friendship has been the occasion of comment and praise. The beautiful comedienne of the Ring theater visited America several years ago, but did not attract widespread attention. She appeared as Cyprienne in the French comedy, "Divorcons."

MME. KATHARINE SCHRATT.
(Vienna Actress Who May Marry the Emperor of Austria.)

Drink Plenty of Water.

Hot water quenches thirst in most instances better than cold. Taken regularly at the rate of one glassful half an hour before meals it promotes digestion, and in catarrhal conditions of the stomach it is recommended by physicians. It has also been tried as a remedy for insomnia. Constipation is frequently the result of an inadequate supply of water. One of the reasons people thrive at springs is that besides any medicinal properties the springs may possess, they drink much more water than at home.

Giving Definite Invitations.

That old-time and usually very unsatisfactory invitation, "Come and give us a nice long visit," is no longer comme il faut, the more sensible English fashion for invitations having taken its place. Now one says "come" at such a date "and spend a week," "two weeks" or "a month," as the case may be, thus leaving both hostess and guest to formulate and carry out individual plans. Only exceptional circumstances should induce a guest to prolong her stay beyond the limit originally fixed.

THE NEW CARDINALS

There Will Be No Americans or Englishmen Among Them.

Archbishop Martinelli, Apostolic Delegate at Washington, Sure to Be Appointed—Work Laid Out for the March Consistory.

The consistory to be held at Rome about the beginning of March will, it is thought, afford an insight into the diplomatic relations likely by that time to obtain between France and the Holy See. The proposed law against religious orders now being discussed in the French assembly will cause the recall of the papal nuncio at Paris and his elevation to the cardinalate. Appearances now seem to indicate the passage of this law by the assembly, but should it not pass, it is thought to be hardly possible that the pope will elevate any French ecclesiastic to the sacred college. The French government always suggests the names of prospective cardinals to the Holy See, and in the present tension it is needless to say such suggestions would be disregarded if made. Instead, several Austrian and German prelates will, it is said, be nominated.

Archbishop Martinelli, who has filled the position of apostolic delegate at Washington since 1896, has already been officially notified of his coming nomination. Of course, he will not remain in America after he is made a cardinal, but, like his predecessor, Cardinal Satolli, will be recalled to Rome. Who will succeed him at Washington is already a matter of speculation.

Well-informed ecclesiastics expect the successor to Archbishop Martinelli as apostolic delegate at Washington to be Mgr. Raffaele Merry del Val. He at present occupies the position which Mgr. Satolli did at the time of his nomination to this country, that of president of the Noble Ecclesiastical academy in Rome. Mgr. del Val is still a young man, but bears the dignity of titular archbishop of Nicae. His father is a Spanish marquis, who married an English lady, and he himself was born in London in 1865. He was educated in England and speaks English as fluently as Spanish, French and Italian. His father has been for many years ambassador of Spain to the Holy See. In 1896 Del Val was sent as apostolic delegate to Canada, to settle difficulties arising over the school question in Manitoba. His tact and diplomacy succeeded so well that Prime Minister Laurier had to make several concessions to suit the views of the Holy See. His appointment will give general satisfaction to the Catholic hierarchy of the United States.

ARCHBISHOP MARTINELLI.
(Papal Ablegate at Washington, Who Will Be Made a Cardinal.)

One of the Roman prelates who will be made a cardinal at the March consistory is Mgr. Francesco S. della Volpe, who is the present major domo in the Vatican palace. He is not yet a bishop, and so will be made a cardinal deacon. He has held his present position since 1894, and papal major domos are always expected to be elevated to the sacred college.

Mgr. Lorenzeli, nuncio in Paris, will also be made a cardinal. He was born in 1853 near Bologna, and the two years spent in France as nuncio have admittedly not been a diplomatic success. It is said he will be recalled, no matter what happens to the bill in the French assembly against religious orders. As nuncio of the first class, he will be made a cardinal, even if his recall is caused by the failure of his mission.

Another Italian cardinal will probably be Mgr. Aristide Ronaldini, nuncio in Spain since 1896. He is 56 years of age and has been in diplomacy almost since his youth. Several other Italian prelates occupying prominent positions in the curia will, it is said, be nominated cardinals, for the college contains, since the recent death of the venerable Galeati, only 55 members, while the full college numbers 70.

Of the foreign element no American or Englishman will obtain the honor this time. Of the foreign names the preponderance will be Germans. Germany is fast assuming the position of protector of Catholic interests in China and the orient. Gossip even mentions the name of Bishop Anzier, of Peking, in connection with the sacred college, and it is known that he is acceptable to the German emperor. Spain already has a preponderance in the college beyond its usual quota, and so it is said that the bishops of Metz, Strasburg, Bamberg, Munich, Breslau and Fulda stand above any Spanish prelates, and the selection of any of them will indicate the growing influence of the German emperor in Vatican diplomacy.

HYGIENE OF CYCLING.

Facts Which Are Mainly Founded on the Personal Experience of a Thoughtful Physician.

In concluding this series of articles, writes Dr. E. B. Turner, in the Cyclists' Touring Club Gazette, I should like just shortly to recapitulate those facts with regard to the hygiene of cycling which I have brought forward, the great majority of which are founded on my own personal experience:

1. Cycling is beneficial as an exercise to any healthy person.

2. A child may commence to ride at about seven years of age; an old man as late as he is able.

3. It is excellent for both sexes.

4. The diet of the rider should be that to which he is accustomed; his clothing should be wool next to skin, should be loose, and adapted to the weather.

5. Moderation in speed, distance, and hill climbing is essential to the novice; skill, speed and endurance will come by practice.

6. The great virtue of cycling as an exercise depends upon the fact that the weight of the body is sustained by the machine, and has not to be carried by the rider's own exertions.

7. In organic diseases its use both as a means of palliation and cure is limited; in functional or inorganic disturbances it is a great power for good in the hands of the physician.

8. And, lastly, no untrained person should ever race, and no unsound person should ever be allowed to train.

AN AUTOMOBILE HORSE.

Designed to Be Hitched On in Front of Any Vehicle in Place of the Usual Animal.

An American inventor named Maxham has recently patented an automobile horse which is designed to be hitched on in front of any vehicle in the place of the usual animal. The automobile horse is so arranged that it is driven in exactly the ordinary way. Reins are provided for steering and stopping the machine. A pull on either rein turns the apparatus in the corresponding direction, and a steady pull with both reins together slows down the motor and applies the brake. A secondary pair of reins are provided, a pull on which brings the automobile to a stop at once. In France a somewhat similar invention has been put on the market, with the difference that the French machine is constructed in the shape of a horse. The American inventor thinks his machine will be popular with people who already have vehicles which they do not feel like throwing away entirely. By hitching on one of his mechanical horses they may still use their old carriage or wagons and at the same time do away with the expense and other disadvantages of keeping horses.

THE AUTOMOBILE HORSE.

LIKES HER AUTOMOBILE.

Philadelphia Woman of 93, in Spite of Her Advanced Age, Takes a Spin Every Day.

At 93 Mrs. Marie Levering Kuen, of Oak lane, Philadelphia, enjoys automobiling. She prides herself, too, upon being the oldest Daughter of the Revolution who is an accomplished chaffeuse.

"I can remember," she says, "when we used to travel in stage coaches. It is very different nowadays running around in a steam automobile 25 miles an hour. I suppose in the days of the revolution an auto would have been considered an invention of the evil one, and the country folk would have fled from it in terror had they seen it whisking down in the quiet roads. But it's different now."

Mrs. Kuen hasn't the slightest fear when she climbs up into her auto, and a pace of 25 miles an hour doesn't worry her. She enjoys a spin daily.

Picturesque Bicycle Path.

The most picturesque bicycle path in the United States is ten miles in length. It occupies what was once the towpath of the old Indiana canal, near Indianapolis. This path has not been used for many years, and when work was begun upon it it was little more than a mere levee with a rank growth of trees and shrubs on one side and the slow-running waters of the canal on the other. The canal is on the east side of the path, and it is so well shaded that a rider scarcely gets a glimpse of the sun after one o'clock. At many places along the path rustic seats have been placed, and at one point where there are two very fine springs there are a number of long rustic benches and a bicycle rack that can accommodate nearly 100 bicycles. —Wheelmen's Gazette.

TOO MUCH BICYCLING.

It Is Apt to Produce Enlargement of the Heart, Acute Bronchitis and Temporary Insanity.

Riding a bicycle to excess has very much the same effect, in one particular, that eating too much mince pie does. It makes you see things. Our illustration shows what one of the riders in the recent six-day bicycle race at Madison Square garden, New York, thought he saw. It seemed to be a grinning ape perched on his back. He tried to throw it off, but it clung, its claws sunk into his flesh, and reached down to the tires of the wheel. He thought he heard the rubber ripping. Then he fell, and they took him away to rest. The trainers rubbed him down with oils and liniments, gave him light food, and then he slept. On awakening, he renewed the struggle. Whether he won or not, and which of the riders he was, is not stated. His experience is simply given by the official physician of the garden as a typical one, and shows what young men are capable of when they have set out to win. That such a desperate pursuit of success, either in bicycling or any other enterprise, is liable to defeat its own ends, however, is obvious. Among the other things which come from over-exertion in bicycling is enlargement of the heart, acute bronchitis and temporary insanity.—Little Chronicle.

WHAT HE THOUGHT HE SAW.

A WORD OF CAUTION.

Addressed to Boys Who Have Bicycles, But Equally Pertinent to Those of Larger Growth.

Although it may seem selfish to say so, everyone who owns a bicycle should make a resolve and stick to it to never lend the wheel to anyone. This does not mean that a boy should refuse to let another boy take a trial spin for a block or two, but under no circumstances should he loan his wheel for a day, or even for a ten-mile run. Any rider who has a wheel fitted to him knows that it has certain peculiarities, almost like a horse, which only he knows. It runs better when pedalled in a certain way, and the borrower, having a style of his own, is almost certain to injure the machine, trifling perhaps, but to an extent that the owner will notice. Then there is the risk of damage. If the machine is broken in any way the borrower may profess a willingness to pay for the repairs, but at heart he is very unwilling. He acts as if he had been induced to ride a machine liable to break, and the chances are that he feels a resentment toward the lender. Or perhaps he is not able or willing to repair the damage. In any event, it will be found that the borrower is never particularly grateful for the favor, and no matter how many times the wheel is loaned to him, if it is once refused he is your friend no longer. Therefore the best for all concerned is to refuse at the outset to lend your wheel to anyone.—Golden Days.

Great Field for Inventors.

Automobilism and the increasing necessity for some form of traction for goods and passengers better suited to cities than that furnished by horses has given another impetus to the search for a storage battery that combines lightness with high output and enough mechanical and electrical strength to insure long life. Nothing is more urgently needed, and at present nothing seems further from attainment. There is no doubt that an electric storage battery affords the ideal motor force for an automobile, as it does for street car, but those already devised weigh at least 1,000 pounds, and the carriage that can carry such a weight is necessarily large and cumbrous, which interferes with its adoption. Here is a chance for inventors to make a colossal fortune by giving the public what it wants.

Cycle Tennis in England.

Cycle polo has not yet caught on very much in England, although well boomed, but a new variation of the game, cycle tennis, has been introduced at many of the provincial meets. Polo is too destructive; it breaks up delicate constitutions and weak machines, but tennis is very different. It is played by either two or four players, but the courts are not marked into subdivisions. The ball is served from the wheel, and each player must return it while in the saddle. Should a dismount be necessary when returning a sharp half-volley, it counts against the unskillful one.

Oil to Keep Down Dust.

The practice of oiling roads to keep the dust down was begun in California a few years ago, and is extending to several parts of the state. The dry season is so long that the idea of obtaining dustless roads is naturally attractive to Californians, and the success that has attended the use of oil for this purpose promises to cause its even more general adoption.

Deer Park.

W. C. Jones is visiting friends in Gans, Pa.

S. P. Specht was an Oakland visitor last Wednesday.

Mrs. F. H. Reis is on the sick list this week.

J. Hayes, of Kingwood, was in town several days last week.

Mrs. James Spiker and daughter, Helen, who have been visiting friends near town, returned to their home in Piedmont, Saturday.

Mrs. Smith Browning and Miss Margaret Grimm spent Friday with Oakland friends.

Mrs. L. Lohm returned from Grafton Friday.

A. Freeland was visiting friends in Mountain Lake Park last week.

Mrs. Gilpin was visiting Oakland friends last Thursday.

Mrs. Entler, and daughter, Miss Margaruite, of Washington, D. C., who have been visiting relatives and friends in this place for several weeks, left for a visit to Piedmont friends last Thursday.

Prof. W. E. Beeghly and W. R. Thrasher were Oakland visitors Saturday,

Mr. George Friend, of Swanton, was the guest of the Misses Rhodeheaver Sunday.

Miss Georgia Hoye spent Monday with Oakland friends.

Miss Daisy Wise spent Sunday with friends near Loch Lynn.

Mr. Michael Garrett spent Monday with friends in Kingwood.

A. A. Jones will have charge of the devotional meeting of the Epworth League Sunday evening. All are invited.

Mr. Purnell, photographer, of Oakland, was in town Monday.

Miss Margaret and Miss Daisy Grimm are visiting friends at Short Run.

Hon. J. T. McGraw, of Grafton, was in town Tuesday.

Hon. A. F. George, of Swanton, and Mrs. J. L. Fitzwater, of Beckman, spent Sunday with their parents, Rev. and Mrs. W. E. George.

Mrs. James Griffin spent Wednesday with Oakland friends.

Mr. S. C. Hoye is on the sick list.

Rev. Fisher, of Loch Lynn, preached to a large congregation in the Union church Sunday evening. Rev. Fisher is very popular in Deer Park.

J. Elliott was an Oakland visitor last Thursday.

Messrs. Henry Steiding and Andley Freeland, of Hutton, were guests of the Freeland House last week.

Rev. and Mrs. G. I. Uhler, of Oakland, Judge Beckman, of Thayerville, and D. M. Duty, of Westernport, were guests of the Freeland House Sunday.

Miss Jesamond Wheeler is on the sick list.

Messrs. A. J. Wigner, C. T. Armstrong, C. H. Phelps, F. H. Vincent, A. Marsh and C. Andrews are the latest arrivals at the Lashorn House.

The third Quarterly Conference of the M. E. church, will be held Saturday afternoon, followed by preaching in the evening at 7.30. The Sunday evening service will be as follows; Sunday school, 10 a. m., preaching and communion at 11 a. m., love feast at 2 p. m., Junior League, 3 p. m., Epworth League, 6.30, preaching by the pastor, Rev. J. S. Harvey, at 7.30. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone.

Mr. and Mrs. John Steiding, of Elk Garden and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Steiding, of Keyser were in town last week.

Mrs. Bernard Steiding, of near town, died Thursday morning and was buried from the Lutheran church Sunday morning. The family have the sympathy of the community in their sorrow and bereavement.

M. A.

Sunnyside.

This morning (Monday) the weather is beautiful. The birds are singing, chickens cackling, farmers are plowing and everybody seems happy.

There are about fifteen religious denominations in this community. It is, therefore, one of the most quiet, exemplary communities that the writer has ever been permitted to live in.

In some communities there is much slanderous talk engaged in by viciously inclined women as well as "degenerated" men, and often a strong and determined inclination manifested among the people to injure each other's good name, but such is not the case with the people of this place.

"All our ways are ways of pleasantness,
And all our paths are paths of peace."

We are, therefore, not afraid of being dragged down to a state of degradation by the acts of others. There is but one way by which we can become "degraded" and that is by our own acts. If we by choice associate and commingle with those who have reached this great depth of degradation we may well know that we have found our level.

After a very successful term of five months, with Miss Nettie Conaway as teacher, our public school closed last week. By a short visit to the school by any one who possesses any intelligence it may easily be seen that the teacher has the hearty co-operation of the combined neighborhood in the moral training and the intellectual development of her pupils. Teacher's work in many places is often rendered unpleasant by the interference in the discharge of her duties on the part of the patrons of the school; but such is not the case in the Sunnyside school. The best grade teachers of our county seek employment in this school on account of the reputation it maintains as an orderly and progressive school. Where parents take such a deep interest in the deportment of the youths in school life it naturally follows that such youths know just how to conduct themselves when at church and under all circumstances in that way that will command the respect, not of the degraded, but of the better class of people.

The Sunday school at this place is also a model institution.

For the very pleasant state of affairs that exist here we think the entire credit is due to one man, who has wielded such a powerful influence over these people for 28 or 30 years. Now that he is growing old, has passed the three score mark, he can look back with pride, not over a work of ruin, but of true christian purity, knowing that his influence will not cease with this life but that it will reach into eternity.

Mountain Lake Park.

J. H. Cuppett, Esq., of Friendsviie, spent part of last week at this place.

Mrs. Geo. Steele, of Parsons, W. Va., has rented Dr. A. T. Young's cottage for the coming summer.

Mr. Mayers, of Fairmont, has purchased the T. B. Carpenter cottage on F street.

Rev. Wesley Davis, of Pittsburg, Pa., Hall, of Fairmont, W. Va., and Stanley Jacobs, of near Lonaconing, were callers at the Park a few days ago, as were also Mr. C. W. Swisher, of Fairmont, Rev. J. H. Enlow, Rowlesburg, W. Va., Jos. Forward, Philippi, S. H. Shaw, Terra Alta, Rev. T. D. Richards, of Germantown, Md., Major J. Burns, of Morgantown, W. Va.

Miss Swan has rented the north end of Briarbend Seminary to parties residing at Milwaukee, Wis.

C. W. Swisher, Esq., has rented Falson cottage No. 1, and W. H. Kelley has rented Davis cottage No. 2. Mrs. B. O. Williams has rented the Woodcock cottage and W. E. Arnett the Ryan cottage. All of the above are from Fairmont, W. Va.

A. B. Bradford, of Philippi, has rented the Hotel Dennett for the summer.

We were pained last week to learn of the death of Dr. J. P. Thompson, of Johnstown, Pa. The Doctor was one of our property owners and a respected member of this community.

Mrs. P. B. Gough visited Swanton last week

Mrs. S. O. Sawyer has returned from her visit to points in West Virginia.

Rev. J. O. Thompson and wife, of Keyser, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Rudisill last week.

Eight houses were rented last week. The enquiry for cottages is unprecedented in the history of the Park.

An Editor's Joke.

Not long ago an ex-editor was making up and sending out statements to those who owed him, and coming to the account of a delinquent of long standing, from whom he had not heard for many years, he made up his account and addressed it to the delinquent's last postoffice address, and wrote on the corner of the envelope the following: "P. M. if not called for in ten days please forward. The dues on this paper might cool his parched tongue."

Died.

STEIDING.—At the family residence, on the road leading from Deer Park to Swanton, after an illness of only two days, Mariea Elizabeth Steiding, wife of Bernard Steiding, departed this life for the home beyond last Thursday afternoon. Although frequently afflicted during the winter, her death was unexpected and sudden. She was born Sept. 18, 1831, having attained nearly the "alloted time," three score and ten years. On Sunday morning her remains were taken to the Deer Park Lutheran church, where Rev. G. I. Uhler conducted the service, basing his remarks upon the text: "Set thine house in order for thou shalt die and not live." (2 Kings 20: 1.) The deceased was for many years a member of the above church. She was a faithful wife and companion, a good mother, openhearted to all who entered her doors, and the large concourse of friends and relatives which filled the church to overflowing bore testimony to the kindly esteem in which she was held. A husband, three sons and three daughters mourn their loss.

Seaboard Air Line Railway, Mileage Tickets Reduced.

One thousand mile tickets, good over the whole system of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, including the State of Florida, are sold at $25.00, previously sold in Florida at $30.00, and are honored between Washington and Richmond, and by the Baltimore Steam Packet Company between Baltimore and Portsmouth, over "Bay Line."

Call For Your Letters.

Mrs. Gekin Sweeney, Mr. H. Colds.

ORDER OF THE BUFFALOS.

Herds Formed in Many Cities and Villages —Initiation Fee is Eleven Cents.

Are you a Buffalo?

This question is asked oftener than any other one these days.

The correct affirmative answer can only be given by a true Buffalo, one who has been invested with the secrets of the Order of the Buffaloes and received into one of the numerous herds that roam the plains of the Western Continent.

The origin of the order is a matter of dispute. One story is that a number of citizens of Hamilton, Canada, who were forming a club to go to the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo, hit upon the idea. Another is that the responsibility rests with a number of railroad passenger agents who thought it would be a good way to advertise the Exposition. And their are others.

But whatever its origin, it may be said with truth that the Order of Buffaloes has had a phenomenal growth. Within a few weeks hundreds of herds have been formed in different parts of the United States and Canada, and it is quite likely that by this time the festive Buffalo is to be found upon the stamping grounds of foreign countries.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN.

The Portraits of Our Presidents

With Biographical Sketches

BY

General Charles H. Grosvenor.

Title page designed by Tiffany.

This Inaugural year, when the public mind is aroused over Presidential questions, is a fitting time to issue General Grosvenor's book. Its sale is already tremendous, and will perhaps exceed that of General Grant's Personal Memoirs.

Every patriotic American desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and the other Chief Executives of the Nation. Everybody desires to read what General Grosvenor, the staunch old Republican leader in Congress, will say of that staunch old Democrat, Andrew Jackson, the Father of the Democratic party. General Grosvenor has thrown into his sketch all the fire and energy of his nature. The biography of Thomas Jefferson is grand. The biography of Lincoln is as beautiful as a sunrise over the hilltops. General Grosvenor has personally known all the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published, written from his own personal observation of these great men. General Grosvenor has served in Congress for nearly twenty years, and he has served his country in war and in Congress for nearly forty years. The book contains twenty-four large Photogravure Etchings as fine as Steel Plates, printed by hand, on heavy plate paper made especially to order. These 24 Photogravure Etchings are in different tints, and are well worth $2 each. These Portraits are made from the Paintings endorsed by the family and near relatives of the Presidents. Two years' time and a fortune have been expended in securing these reproductions. The complete book is well worth $50, but the price has been placed so low that the most humble American citizen can own it. The biographical sketches are printed in large open type in two colors; the work is so beautiful that when people see it they want it. The advance sale is very large. President McKinley was the first subscriber. There is one edition known as The President Edition de Grand Luxe, initial letters hand painted, Portraits hand colored, title page hand illuminated, registered and numbered; subscription price $250. Orders and applications for territory are coming in rapidly. A high class man or woman of good social standing can soon make a small fortune taking orders in this community. Send references and apply for terms quick, as the territory will all be assigned soon.

Address THE CONTINENTAL PRESS,
CORCORAN BUILDING,
Opposite United States Treasury,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

A Gallon of PURE LINSEED OIL mixed with a gallon of Hammar Paint $1.25 per gallon.

makes 2 gallons of the VERY BEST PAINT in the WORLD for $2.50, or

Saves 25 per cent

of your paint bill. IS FAR MORE DURABLE than PURE WHITE LEAD and is ABSOLUTELY NOT POISONOUS. HAMMAR PAINT is made of the BEST OF PAINT MATERIALS—such as all good painters use, and is ground THICK, VERY THICK. No trouble to mix, any boy can do it. It is the COMMON SENSE OF HOUSE PAINT. NO BETTER paint can be made at ANY cost, and is

Guaranteed 5 years

NOT TO CRACK, BLISTER, PEEL or CHIP.
F. HAMMAR PAINT CO., St. Louis, Mo.
Sold and guaranteed by

J. W. LAUGHLIN,
DEER PARK, MD.
Estab. 1872.

You Get the Profits

Under our plan of selling carriages, buggies, and harness, you get the profits. The jobber and retailer are cut out. By dealing direct with the manufacturer, you pay only the cost of making with a moderate profit added; and you take your choice from the biggest stock and fullest assortment. Our plan of

No. 3034—Buggy. Price, $38.30, with leather quarter top.

No. 240—Single Strap Buggy Harness. Price, $7.95.

Selling Carriages Direct

insures satisfaction—your money back if you are dissatisfied. Our complete illustrated catalogue, showing many styles of high grade vehicles, harness, robes, blankets and horse equipments, with detailed descriptions of each, mailed free.

THE COLUMBUS CARRIAGE AND HARNESS CO.,
Box 772, Columbus, Ohio.

The Garrett County Bank.

OAKLAND, MD.

Pays 3 Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Subscribed Capital, - $50,000.00
Liability of Stockholders, 100,000.00
Surplus Fund, - - 10,000.00

DIRECTORS:

DANIEL E. OFFUTT,
GILMOR S. HAMILL,
JOHN M. DAVIS,
GEORGE W. LEGGE,
JOHN T. MITCHELL,
JOHN M. FREELAND,
SCOTT T. JONES.

D. E. OFFUTT, President.
G. S. HAMILL, Vice-President.
S. T. JONES, Cashier.

Authorized Capital $32,000.

The First National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MD.

Now Open for Business

Offers to its patrons every advantage consistent with sound Banking, and which their baiances, business and responsibility warrant.

3 per cent. Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

WE SOLICIT YOUR BUSINESS.

DIRECTORS.

Ed A. Browning, - Oakland, Md.
C. E. Ellithorp, - Bittinger, Md.
L. E. Friend, - Friendsville, Md.
Wm. Moody, - Bloomington, Md.
U. G. Palmer, - Hutton, Md.
R. A. Ravenscroft, Accident, Md.
E. E. Sollars, - Oakland, Md.
U. M. Stanton, - Grantsville, Md.
F. A. Thayer, - Oakland, Md.
M. N. Wilson, - Wilson, W. Va.

OFFICERS.

F. A. THAYER, - President.
M. N. WILSON, - Vice-President.
U. G. PALMER, - Cashier.
M. R. HAMILL, Assistant Cashier.

TURNBULL'S Furniture, Carpeting and Curtains.

Elegance, moderate cost and unequalled assortments are the characteristics of our stock. It represents the best of everything in CARPETING, FURNITURE and CURTAINS.

JOHN TURNBULL & CO., 16-18-20 W. Baltimore St., BALTIMORE, MD.

THE SECOND NATIONAL BANK of CUMBERLAND, MD.

Designated United States Depository.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.
BOXES FREE TO CUSTOMERS.

This Bank Pays Three Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Capital.....$100,000
Surplus and Other Undivided Profits.. 250,000
Liability of Shareholders..... 100,000

Additional Security to Depositors...$450,000

LLOYD LOWNDES, President.
D. ANNAN, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Lloyd Lowndes, O. C. Gephart,
James Clark, L. M. Shepherd,
John Sheridan, A. Hunter Boyd,
David W. Sloan.

Midget Harness Riveter.

Complete repair shop in one tool. Will not wear out. Punches the hole, drives and clinches at one operation. Every horse owner, liveryman, teamster will buy on sight. Does the work of any $25 machine. Complete outfit with big bog of rivets will be sent for

ONLY 50 CENTS.

Agents Wanted.

HANDY ADJUSTABLE LIFTER. Handiest article ever invented for lifting hot pans, stove lids, etc. 15c, postpaid.

S. T. WILSON & CO., Box 103. Wilson, W. Va.

I HAVE PURCHASED

THE OAKLAND COAL YARD

of Mr. D. L. Conneway and will continue the business. I will keep constantly on hand a large supply of

HARD AND SOFT

COAL,

KINDLING WOOD, Etc.

All orders will receive prompt attention. Leave orders with the weighmaster or at my residence, the Giessman Hotel.

35-2 GEO. GIESSMAN

Oakland Pharmacy

JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.

Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars Cameras and Photo Supplies

The Light of the World

—OR—

Our Saviour in Art

cost nearly $100,000 to publish. Contains nearly one hundred full-page engravings copied direct from the World's Greatest Paintings of our Saviour and His Mother. Contains History of Painting, Biography of Painter, and the Galleries in Europe where the Original Painting may be seen. The most beautiful publication ever issued. The strongest hearts weep at the sight of these wonderful pictures of Jesus and His Mother. Everybody says they are grand, sublime, matchless, magnificent, beautiful, inspiring and uplifting. The sale is unprecedented. The presses are running day and night to fill the orders. Twelve car loads of paper were required for the last edition. Small fortunes are being made by the thrifty with this marvelous work. Contains also a Child's story beautifully written to fit each picture. This wonderful book, matchless in its purity and beauty, appeals to every mother's heart and in every Christian home, where there are children it sells itself. A Christian man or woman can soon clear one thousand dollars ($1,000) taking orders in this community. Others are doing this. Why not you? We are advertising in nearly ten thousand newspapers in this country, Canada, England and Austria. Shipping books to every English speaking country in the world. We shall promote our best workers to positions of State Managers, Correspondents and Office Assistants. We also own and publish large Photo-gravure Etchings of the great Paintings in the gallaries of Europe. One or more of these Etchings can be sold in every home. By carrying the books and the engravings your success will be tremendous. Mrs. Waite, of Worcester, Mass., has sold nearly four thousand dollars worth of books there. Mrs. Sackett has sold nearly two thousand dollars worth of books in New York. Both of these ladies answered our advertisements, and had never sold a book before. Took 14 orders first two days—H. Colwell. Took 5 orders first day; 23 orders first week, clearing over $50—Hattie Lemwell. Thousands of others like above. It is printed on velvet finished paper; bound in Cardinal Red, Green and Gold and adorned with Golden Roses and Lillies. Write quickly for terms as the territory is going rapidly. When you prove your success, we will promote you to the position of Manager and Correspondent under yearly contract.

We shall soon move into our new and elegant structure to be occupied solely by us, and to be known as the Light of the World Building.

Address THE BRITISH-AMERICAN CO.,
CORCORAN BUILDING,
Opposite United States Treasury,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

J. B. WILLIAMS CO.
FROSTBURG, MD.

Cheapest place to buy

MONUMENTS HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING

Send for prices

Rough, Red Hands

made to look white as the driven snow and soft as silk to the touch as the skin of a baby—

LILY CREAM

Imparts a velvety smoothness to the skin—delicately and is perfectly invisible—it's healing, soothing, protecting

LOGAN DRUG COMPANY,
WHEELING, W. VA.
15 and 25 cents. At your Druggist.

GEO. FLACK SANSBURY,
ARCHITECT,
Office 7 North Liberty St.
CUMBERLAND, MD.

NORMAN S. HEINDEL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
All business given prompt attention.
Office—Opera House,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

FRED A. THAYER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
OAKLAND, MD.
STATE'S ATTORNEY FOR GARRETT COUNTY.
Office in McComas's Building, Main St.
Will be assisted in all important cases by Benjamin A. Richmond of the Cumberland bar.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY
OFFICE ON ALDER STREET.
Particular attention given to Conveyancing, investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated. [e14-1y

JULIUS C. RENNINGER,
ATTORNEY & COUNSELLOR AT LAW
Office opposite Bank, OAKLAND, MD.
Will practice in the courts of Maryland and West Virginia.
Real estate and mercantile law given special attention. Collections and investments made for clients, 45—1yr

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND,
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia. '88 10 6

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas building, Second Street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work. 18-98-tf.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
Felty Building, Opposite Postoffice,
OAKLAND, MD
GAS ADMINISTERED. 50-97

M. C. HINEBAUGH, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Office and residence, Alder St., west of post office.

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North 3rd Street.
Office in Shartzer's Block, Second Street.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Prompt attention paid to day or night calls.
Office at McComas' Sanitarium. 16-'99

H. W. McCOMAS M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Office opposite Garrett County Bank.
Residence on Main Street, opposite Brown's Hotel.
Office hours, 8 to 10 a. m., 2 to 3 p. m., 8 to p. m., from June to October and from October to June, 7 to 8.30 p. m.

DR. D. O. McKINLEY,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
SALISBURY, PENNA.
Will visit regularly through Garrett county Md., and offers his services to those wishing Dental Treatment. Charges moderate
P. O. address, Elk Lick, Pa. 6 22 6m

E. J. FRANTZ,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER,
Residence and P. O. Address,
SELBYSPORT, MD.

ANDREW J. HARNE,
AUCTIONEER.
Will sell real or personal property.
Residence Oakland, Garrett county, Md
Oakland, Md., Feb. 21st, 1887.

W. McCULLOH BROWN,
SURVEYOR AND ENGINEER,
LAND SURVEYS PROMPTLY MADE.
Particular attention given to TOWN surveying, and the use of the LEVEL in laying out new roads, streets, water works, drains, and GRADE LINES generally, including tram ways and railroad work. Comparative elevations taken quickly by aneroid barometer. Address, box 41, Oakland, Md. 48 26t*

JONAS C. BEACHY,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
Will sell Real or Personal Estate.
Residence and post office address, BITTINGER, MD. 51-1yr.

ALEX'R C. MASON,
PRACTICAL SURVEYOR,
OAKLAND, MD.
Long experience enables me to locate tracts and military lots promptly and accurately. Being thoroughly familiar with the beginning corners of the most important surveys both in Allegany and Garrett counties. Plats, descriptions and estimates furnished. 40-1yr.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R. TIME TABLE IN EFFECT NOV. 25, 1900.

The following time table on the B. & O. went into effect on Sunday, Nov. 25, 1900. Trains now leave Oakland as follows:

GOING WEST.

No. 7.—Daily	2.40	A. M
No. 3—Daily	7.37	A. M
No. 71—Daily except Sunday	9.21	A. M
No. 55—Daily	4.47	P. M
No. 1—Daily	10.05	P. M

GOING EAST.

No. 8—Daily	5.50	A. M
No. 2—Daily	6.53	A. M
No. 46—Express, daily	4.41	P. M
No. 72—Accom daily except Sun	2.26	P. M
No. 12—Daily	8.30	P. M
No. 4—Daily	12.37	A. M

F. D. UNDERWOOD, General Manager.
D. B. MARTIN,
Manager of Passenger Traffic.
D. M. MASON, Agent.

WEST VIRGINIA CENTRAL AND PITTSBURG RAILWAY CO.
IN EFFECT NOV 25, 1900.

SOUTHWARD No. 3 P. M.	SOUTHWARD No. 1 A. M.	STATIONS	NORTHWARD No. 2 NOON	NORTHWARD No. 4 P. M.
3 15†	7 00† lv	Cumberland ar	†12 00	†7 00
3 45	7 29	Rawlings	11 31	6 31
4 06	7 52	Keyser	11 08	6 09
4 16	8 05	Westernport	10 58	5 57
4 20	8 09	W. Va. C. June.	10 51	5 50
4 39	8 35	Shaw	10 28	5 22
5 00	9 00	Harrison	†10 06	†5 00
5 45*	9 50* ar	Elk Garden	*8 10	*4 10
5 41†	9 35† lv	Gorman	†9 35	4 30
5 47	9 42	Bayard	9 29	4 25
5 59	9 54	Dobbin	9 19	4 15
6 02	9 58	Henry	9 15	4 11
6 27	10 27	Thomas	8 48	3 47
6 55	10 55 ar	Davis	8 03	3 05
6 31	10 34 lv	Coketon	8 41	3 40
6 50	11 01	Hendricks	8 10	3 10
7 02	11 04	Hambleton	8 07	3 07
7 05	11 07	Bretz	8 03	3 03
7 08	11 10	Parsons	8 00	3 00
7 47	11 45	Kerens	7 25	2 29
8 00†	12 00† ar	Elkins	lv †7 10	†2 15
	NOON			P. M.
8 36*	12 45† ar	Beverly	lv *7 20	†1 40
9 05*	1 10† ar	Huttonsville	lv *6 30	†1 15
P. M.				P. M.
	3 15* ar	Bealington	lv	*11 40
	P. M.		A. M.	A. M.

†Daily. *Daily except Sunday.

C. L. BRETZ, Gen. Manager. G. W. HARRISON, Gen. Pas. Agent

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 25. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, APRIL 4, 1901. NUMBER 4.

REPUBLICANS PROTEST.

Appeal for Manhood and the Manhood Suffrage.

Declare Extra Session Showed Power of Corrupt Coterie—Oppose Federal Interference.

Immediately after the adjournment of the Legislature on Thursday afternoon of last week the Republican Senators and Delegates held a meeting in the south wing of the State Library and formulated the following address "to the people of Maryland:"

"The Republican members of the General Assembly believe that it is their duty to address you a brief review of the extraordinary session that has just closed. We are led to adopt this unusual course by the belief that unless the power of the autocratic and unscrupulous coterie that has possession of our State government is promptly rebuked and checked there is grave danger that our election laws will be further mutilated and the machinery of the government again employed as an agency of extortion and corruption. The hand of the political boss is visible in every act of the desperate play, from its inception to its culmination. The extra session idea had its birth as a result of a political deal that was to put one man in the United States Senate by stripping 50,000 citizens of their constitutional and sovereign right to vote and to give to another man the control of the construction of the sewerage system of Baltimore city that will cost $20,000,000 before it is completed. These two men had complete control of a sufficient number of Democratic members of the two branches of the Legislature to secure the passage of any law they deemed necessary to advance their personal ambition.

SESSION BEGAN WITH FRAUD.

"When the Senate met on the day set by the Governor, the secretary declared a quorum present when only 13 Senators were in the chamber, and concealed the fact by omitting from the journal the names of those present. The 13 Democratic Senators present knowingly participated in this violation of an express provision of the Constitution, which requires the presence of 14 Senaters, and attempted to organize and legislate. In so doing they were advised and directed by their chiefs. Such party discipline is dangerous and such domination intolerable.

"The new election law renders it impossible for the citizens who cannot read to vote, and is so cunningly drawn that it will be difficult for the educated to avoid having their ballots thrown out. Any mark upon the ballot other than an "X" within the voting square, however innocently made, will render the ballot void. Furthermore, an error in voting for a candidate for a single office, where there are a large number to be filled, will prevent the remainder of the ballot from being counted. Under the act of 1896 it was made the duty of the judges of election to learn from the ballot, if possible, the intention of the voter, and the ballot was counted to the extent to which such intention could be ascertained. The old law tried to make the exercises of the citizen's right to vote easy; the new law makes it as difficult as possible. It can be predicted with confidence that disputes will arise in every polling place throughout the State on election day. We ask you to compare this condition with the peaceful and orderly elections to which we have become accustomed since 1896, and the results of which have never been questioned by either party, although each in turn has been successful and defeated. We offered amendments to correct the defects in the law, but they fell on deaf ears.

REVOLUTIONARY RULINGS.

"The President of the Senate, in violation of its rules and precedents, declared a motion for the previous question in order, and for the first time in the history of the Senate debate was cut off. The time-respected custom of permitting a full and unrestricted discussion of questions was swept aside and a most important check upon hasty and ill-considered legislation destroyed. In the House of Delegates the previous question was constantly used to prevent amendments and discussion, and was moved when the election bill was on its final passage so as to permit but one Republican speech.

"The sewerage bill was reported by the chairman of the committee without a meeting of the committee being held, and the election bill was certified to be correct by Democratic members of the Engrossing Committee without the Republican members being offered an opportunity to examine and compare it. The men who brought about the call for the extraordinary session against the wishes of the people and solely for party expediency had trained their representatives in the Legislature to believe that it was right to gain a party advantage at the expense of the dearest rights of the people.

SEWER BILL LIKE ELECTION BILL.

"The sewerage bill resembles its ill-featured brother. This measure, so vitally affecting the people of Baltimore and involving the expenditure of many millions of dollars, becomes a personal question. We were in favor of a bill to enable the city of Baltimore to construct a sewerage system, and a proper bill could have been passed with opposition. We believe that we represented the people of Baltimore, irrespective of party, when we strenuously opposed making this great work a part of a political deal and practically placing into the hands of one man this great power as a reward for his aid in taking from many thousand freemen their right to vote, for the benefit of the other party to the deal. We believe that the Commission should be broad-gauged and non-partisan. It is asking too much of our credulity to expect us to believe that a Commission selected as a result of a political deal will be kept out of politics. No valid reason can be given why the Commission should not be composed of men of experience in large and varied enterprises. It must be borne in mind that a mistake in judgment might be as serious in its consequences as an unworthy motive.

THE COSTLY STATE CENSUS.

"We earnestly and consistently favored a verification of the census and were ready to aid in every effort to have the same placed above suspicion. We advocated leaving the whole matter to the discretion of the Governor, and that he be given full power to satisfy himself of the correctness of the census, even if an entirely new enumeration of the population of the State was necessary. We believe that the Governor would have found that this could have been accomplished without expense to the State. The act of Congress authorizing the taking of the Twelfth Census provides as follows: 'Whenever it shall appear that any portion of the enumeration and census provided for in this act has been negligently or improperly taken, and is by reason thereof incomplete or erroneous, the director of the census may cause such incomplete and unsatisfactry enumeration and ceusus to be amended or made anew, under such methods as may, in his discretion, be practicable.' The only publication of the census mentioned in this law is the volumes referred to in Section 7, and the director is allowed until July 1, 1902, to make it. These volumes have not yet gone to the printer. The census bulletins are merely tentative, and invite criticism. The returns made to Congress last December merely for Congressional apportionment and were not final for any other purpose. In December, 1801. President Jefferson, in a message to Congress, after the census had been returned to it, substituted a corrected return for Maryland. We were not shown that the Governor made the slightest effort to secure from the Federal government what the law requires it to give, nor was the Democratic party willing to get it, before incurring such an expense, so bent were they on party spoils.

BALTIMORE CITY GERRYMANDERED.

"The gerrymandering bill for Baltimore city is another example of the motives of the men responsible for the extraordinary session. The Legislative districts are no longer to be compact and composed of contiguous wards, so that the sentiment of the people in the several sections of the city may be properly represented in the Legislatuoe.

"At the session of 1898 the Republicans insisted that the rate for State taxation could and should be reduced, and were only prevented from so doing by the firm opposition of the Democrats and their threat to block legislation in the closing days of the session. In 1900 the Republicans likewise insisted on such reduction, but the Democrats were only willing to begin it in 1901. Notwithstanding their statements that further reduction was impossible and their determined efforts to prevent it, the present managers of that party are willing, without creating additional sources of revenue or revenues or evincing a willingness to follow up officers who fail to account properly with the State, to spend over $100,000 of the people's money far partisan purposes.

"The session was called simply to prop the political fortunes of a few men, who masquerade as the Democratic party, and the people are expected to pay the heavy bill contracted by them in the name of the State for this purpose. You are expected to help intrench them against yourselves, though you have but recently repudiated them. Those who misgoverned the State prior to 1895 are again in power. The fear of the independent vote has made them desperate. If the parties can be made more uneven by disfranchising 50,000 freemen, they think they need not fear defeat. It is for you to consider and reflect. The work of the session is only the beginning. Their plans will be disclosed gradually so as not to alarm you. Unless you rise in your might and crush this attack upon the suffrage in its incipiency, it will be construed as a license to wipe out what remains of our election law and result in again making our elections a by-word.

OPPOSED TO FEDERAL INTERFERENCE.

"This is a fish to the finish before the people of Maryland for manhood and manhood suffrage; we believe the people can meet the issue and wisely solve it without aid from any outside source, and are, therefore, opposed to any Federal interference. Although the disfranchisement of citizens is in violation of the Constitution of our State, and comes within the provisions of the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, we favor leaving the entire question to the people of Maryland, and pledge our efforts to that end."

The above is singed by all of the Republican member of the Senate and House, including Senator Ravenscroft and Assemblymen Finzel and Wilson, of this county.

Mrs. Hanson Brown.

Mrs. Hanson Brown died at her home near Avilton, Garrett county, Md., on Sunday, March 17, 1901, aged 74 years, 2 months and 27 days.

Mrs. Brown was a very active woman for her age, and was never seriously sick in her life, but about nine days before her death she was taken ill with la grippe and pneumonia. There was little uneasiness felt by her friends at first, but the last few days she failed so fast that all knew her end was approaching; her children, some living in West Virginia and others in Pennsylvania, were hastily summoned, but few of them were able to reach her while living, and one daughter living at Clearfield, Pa., did not get there until after the time for the funeral, but the family knowing that she was on the way, did not bury her until she arrived.

Mrs. Brown was the daughter of John Blocher, and was married to Hanson Brown at the age of 16. She was the mother of eleven children, nine of whom survive her. She also had twenty-four grand children and seven great-grand children.

Mrs. Brown was highly esteemed by all who knew her; she was noted for her liberality and was a devoted member of the Brethren church. Her funeral took place on Tuesday at the Zion M. E. church, the services were conducted by Eld. W. A. Gaunt, of Salisbury, assisted by her pastor, David Merrill.

May her dear children who so deeply mourn the loss of a kind, Christian mother, ever try to remember and imitate her noble Christian life.

W. A. GAUNT.

DOLORES.

Where are the summer roses?—dead;
Where is the love and laughter?—fled;
Summer has gone,—and gray and drear
Steals on the evening of the year.

Wan brown leaves to the cold earth fall;
Vines run red at the old stone wall;
Clouds are darkening and autumn's rain
Beats the long roll at the window pane.

Where are the hopes we cherished?—gone;
Where are the dreams?—over and done;
A barren end to once sweet hours—
Sprayed with salt of drear sea showers.

Dank leaves rot at the old stone wall;
Sad thoughts throng in memory's hall:—
Over and over, in sad refrain—
Love that is lost comes never again.

* * * * *

Love that is lost—oh, fond Dolores!
The starry realms my soul explores!
I come! I come! Hear Thou my cries!—
Love is not lost in Paradise.

THOMAS L. JACKSON.

March 28, 1901.

Home-Seekers Excursions.

On the first and third Tuesdays of each month the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway will sell round-trip excursion tickets from Chicago, Milwaukee and other points on its line to a great many points in South Dakota, North Dakota and other Western and Northwestern States at about one fare. Take a trip west and see the wonderful crops and what an amount of good land can be purchased for little money. Further information as to rates, routes, prices of farm lands, etc., may be obtained by addresssng W. S. Howell, General Eastern Passenger Agent, 381 Broadway, New York, or John R. Pott, District Passenger Agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

EXTRA SESSION CHRONICLES.

LAST CHAPTER.

Now, when Jonsmith and Arthur the Gormanite saw that they had done all that they might they said unto their cohorts:

"That will be about all today."

And the cohorts went unto the keeper of the wealth of the land and got them every man his pay.

Even so.

And they each took the pay home with him, except so much as they had given unto the charitable institution that is called the kitty.

And, peradventure, also, there were some that had purchased jackpots, and experience.

And these took naught but experience home.

Now, verily, there was great rejoicing in the tents of Jonsmith and Arthur the Gormanite.

So that they that were with Jonsmith were mirthful and happy all the day and night, saying:

"Surely, now, the State is sewed up in a sack, and we, even we, hold the cord which tieth the same."

And Arthur the Gormanite looked from the place that is called Laurel and cast his eyes toward the place that is called Washington.

And his smile was as the smile of a cat which hath eaten the canary.

And Victor the Baughmanite took his sword from about his loins,

And hung it upon the wall of the house, saying:

"Rest there, trusty servant, for thou hast done mighty deeds,

"Yea, with thee have I slain thousands and tens of thousands who think that the alphabet is something that is to be eaten,

"Or that it is made to ride upon."

And John, of the tribe of Poe, who had Prentiss in the middle of his name, yea, in the center thereof, smiled as one who tickleth himself under the sixth rib,

Saying: "Verily, when I write things for the paper, then do all men find out whither their ticket carrieth them."

And Olin the Bryanite felt of the spot where the button of his collar had been pushed into his neck and said:

"Surely there is a smile coming to me, but my primary bill hath been sold for a mess of anti-septicized garbage."

But Thomas the Sudden sat in his throne room.

Yea, he sat upon his throne, and about him were they who bowed the head to him and called him boss.

And Thomas the Sudden smiled with a smile that ran from the center of his countenance beyond the furthest limits of the mustache thereon.

And the smile was marked "To be continued" at the back of his neck.

For Thomas the Sudden was glad, and in his heart was the fullness of joy.

He lifted up his voice and said:

"Make merry, and be joyful, O ye people, for I, even I, Thomas the Sudden, will be spending that money through all the years that are yet to be,

"And we shall every man of us have a sewer.

"And I shall sit upon the cash register to see that the bell ringeth aright,

"For I am a wise guy when it cometh to rings.

"Oh, beat upon the hewgag, and sound the loud timbrel,

"Bang the sawbuck, and jangle the tambos, and toot the trumpets, and sing with a loud voice,

"And see that ye forget not to make sweet music upon the tom-tom.

"For I have won the fight, and greater honors even yet have been added unto this,

"Yea, they have named the town clock for me, and ye will no longer have to guess at the time,

"For it will give time to suit all the people, four different kinds of time will it give."

And many other things he said, but the stock of capital I's is not great enough to tell it all.

Yet they that were with Jonsmith smiled the smile of those who know what cometh next.

And they said, "Let him alone, for he feeleth good.

"But, lo, we have already picked out the spot upon his neck wherein he is to receive the bump.

"And when the time of the election is come he will know that he is not the only sudden thing that hath ever happened."

But Thomas the Sudden knew not what they said, for his crown had slipped over his ears so that he heard them not.

And to bring these things about cost the people of the realm of Maryland one hundred and two thousand dollars, which is much glad money.

And all the people began the task of doing some hard thinking.

For it was time.

Selah.

The band will now play: "I Want Mah Money."

Thus endeth the chronicles of the session that was called extra and was also called other things, which the same if they were spoken here would cost about ten dollars and ten days.

JOSH WINK.

Dink Hambersheller.

Ve see by der Jurnal man's paber dot der guffner—Jim say Shmit was guffner; where is Pew gon ter?—vell, Guffner Shmit, vas designate 12 April fur Arbur ant Hevay day ant ven you got no dree tu blant vork on der road dot day. I bet you he mene us fellers vot don't vootes some mor. Maypy some frum dem fellers vill dell us tu vork der road ven 'lection day come, but ve don't do it. You pepels vot kin wote kin vork der roat—dem Demograts. Ve don'd vas nopody some more; dey kick us out of der United Sthades. Now ve don'd no ho ve be nor vere ve vas at; ve don'd kin reat; ve don'd no von day frum nudder an' noiddings else. Say, ve find sumding oud frum der same paber; dere vas only 'bout 15 No 10 fellers vat is 'fected by der nu 'lection law ant day vas putty nere all Demgrats. Jeviligous, Benny, but dident der Smitz blay von dunern plack shokes on der A. Pew Gorman mit dat unnecessary seshun, pecause now Mr. Demoncratocy Smitherine Gormandizy vas git 'bout 15 No 10 votes less. Dot vas look like cut my nose off tu sphite your face, don'd it? Der Reafenscroft, Finsel ant Vilson dink der vas 'bout 40 dousand pepels 'fected by der nu 'lection law, but dey don'd gif der bolidics nor der colaber. Mapy dey don'd no it ant mape dey don'd kare. Dey vant tu gif der pepel justice and franchise. Gorman no justice and no franchise. Vell, it vas all der same only sphell differend.

DINK.

A Letter to Teachers.

To the Editor of the Republican.

Please allow me space in your columns for a bit of information to the teachers that may be of worth to them. There may be some teachers in the county for whom it may be inconvenient to attend normal and who may wish to pursue the course preparatory to the examination. And, too, that the normals may all pursue the same course of study the following ground in the different branches has been agreed upon as preparatory to the examination:

First Grade — Algebra, through quadratics; geometry, through four books of Wentworth; physics to magnetism, by Steel; general history, modern, according to Meyers; practical bookkeeping, double entry; civil government, through Dr. Steiner's book; language, Mother Tongue No. 1, with best methods for using book; psychology, developments of the mental faculties in regular order; elementary geography, Frey's, and methods of using the book; arithmetic, through fractions, percentage and practical mensuration; orthography, reading and penmanship and school management as usual.

Second Grade—Algebra, "first step" completed; geometry, first book of Wentworth, including test examples; same ground in arithmetic, but problems not so difficult; other work same as first grade.

There will be but one examination, held at Oakland, at the close of the normals. We hope the above information may be of assistance to the teachers and that the examination may reveal splendid results of their normal work.

ED A. BROWNING,
Examiner.

P. S.—The psychology may be taught by lecture, two a week, as there is no book adopted by the county.

Holy Week Services at St. Peter's Church.

Holy Thursday—Sermon by the Rev. M. F. Yingling, of the Catholic University, Washington, D. C., 7.30 p. m.

Good Friday—Mass of Presanctified and Veneration of the Cross, 8.30 a. m. Way of the Cross, 3 p. m. Sermon by Father Yingling, 7.30 p. m.

Holy Saturday — Morning office, blessing of the Easter water and High Mass, 8 a. m.

Easter Sunday—Low Mass and instruction, 7.30 a. m. High Mass and sermon, 10.30 a. m. The children's choir will sing at early mass. A special musical program has been arranged by the director for high mass.

TO CURE LAGRIPPE IN TWO DAY

Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE TABLETS. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature on every box. 25c.

CORKSCREW PHILOSOPHY.

It is not what you know but how you apply what you know that makes wisdom.

Common sense is natural wisdom, the instinctive power to grasp things necessary and useful.

The object of education is to enlarge the perceptive powers without waiting for the slower processes of experience.

Diplomas are of little real value,—they often certify "This is an educated fool." What kind of diploma is yours?

The useful are nearly always the most common,—too many persons seem to overlook that important point. Are you pursuing the unattainable or hammering away at the needful?

The things that are necessary require the care and attention of the many,—and nature has qualified all sane persons to do their share of the work. What are you working at?

As a general rule the greater body of the people are what nature intended and fitted them to be—some for another, and happy he who soonest learns his true powers.

The most beneficent law of nature is the one that requires us to work, to labor, and to perform, in order to be men. Ignorance may be the curse of God but idleness is the curse of the devil. What class are you in?

Man is not fitted to dwell alone,—he is best served by being one of many; and he serves best by doing what he can to help all. Truth, Justice and Service should be his aim,—and Service is the greatest of the three.

"Ich Dien" is the proud motto of the present king of England. It now rests with him to prove himself worthy of the noble words. To paraphrase the words of the poet: "The quality of service is not strained, it cometh equally well from king or peasant and blesses all upon whom the service falls." JACKSON.

Communicated.

To the Editor of The Republican.

I wish to congratulate and also compliment your correspondent from Sunnyside in last week's issue. First, I wish to congratulate him on having the opportunity as well as the pleasure of living in such a grand community as that which he describes and which, it seems, could not be otherwise when we stop to think of the number of religious denominations represented. It does not seem possible that anyone living in a community such as that described by your correspondent would be capable of recognizing a wrong only as a monster, but we are constrained to think of the words of Alexander Pope when he says:

"Vice is a monster of such frightful mien,
As, to be hated, needs but to be seen;
Yet seen too oft, familiar with her face,
We first endure, then pity, then embrace."

Second, I want to compliment your correspondent on his article of last week for the grand principles it embodies, namely, a desire to speak well of all. What a grand principle we portray when we eulogize rather than stain the reputation of our fellowman. "Fear to do base; unworthy things is valor; if they be done to us, to suffer them is valor too."

Artistic Publications Issued by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad—Guide to Washington.

The Passenger Department of the Baltimore & Ohio R. R. have issued a Guide to Washington, which in many respects excells all other guides published, both in artistic appearance and careful description of points of interest in the Capital City. The front cover of the book is embellished with a handsome steel engraved portrait of the "Stuart" Washington. The reverse cover bears an American flag in the grasp of an eagle. Theinpages contain recent photographs of all of the Government Buildings with correct information concerning them, together with other interesting features of the city, and the very latest map. Copies will be sold at the principle Ticket Offices of the Baltimore & Ohio R. R. for ten (10) cents cash, or will be mailed to any address on receipt of (15) cents in stamps on application to the undersigned.

"Reasons Why."

"Reasons Why" is a forty-two page phamphlet giving in condensed form the important facts concerning the Baltimore & Ohio R. R. It is an argument setting forth the claims of the railroad for public consideration. This artistic booklet contains many half-tones and drawings illustrating the history, scenic charms, the development and progress of the railroad, and the superior service afforded to patrons. Single copies can be obtained of Ticket agents, or will be mailed to any address on receipt of two (2) cents in postage stamps on application to the undersigned.

2-4t D. B. MARTIN,
Manager Passenger Traffic,
Baltimore & Ohio R. R.
Baltimore, Md.

Stops the Cough and Works off the Cold.

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 5 cents.

THE REPUBLICAN.

BENJ. H. SINCELL. Publisher.

OAKLAND, : GARRETT CO., MD.

THE NOTTINGHAM GALLEY.

By JOHN ALBEE.

THE Nottingham Galley, loaded with a mixed cargo of merchandise, shipped in Ireland and England, sailed for New England on a trading voyage the 25th of September, 1710. She was a vessel of 120 tons—a galley in name, not in build—carrying, as was then customary, an armament of ten guns and a crew of 14 men beside the captain, whose name was Jone Deane. She was provisioned for three months. Until the end of October she had good weather and favoring winds, and the captain reckoned that he had covered more than half his distance. In the first week of November the wind shifted to the west, and from that time on the Galley struggled against head half gales, bearing now and then for a day to northwest, which was not much better. By the last of the month they sighted the coast of Newfoundland, which they hugged as closely as they dared. The weather continued heavy, with fogs and rain and frequent thunderstorms, unusual at that season in these latitudes. But the crew was greatly cheered by the "corposants," or St. Elmo's light, appearing at the top of the masts during the storms of thunder and lightning. These lights sailors then, and indeed now, believed to be a lucky omen. The second mate, Richard Endel, a dare-devil, profane sort of fellow, said there was nothing to "them complasents"—that is the way all common sailors pronounce the word "corposants," a Spanish term meaning body of the saints. "Nothing in 'em," says Mate Endel; "n'more 'an a candle wick outen taller."

The first week in December they were off what is now the Maine coast. The fogs followed them, coming on toward evening, and only lifting for awhile at noon. It was necessary to take soundings frequently. The captain became uncertain where he was. Being unfamiliar with the coast, whenever he had a glimpse of it he knew his position no better. But on the 10th of December they were lucky enough to run accidentally into what is now Portland harbor. A small settlement at that time had been begun there, and two or three fishing smacks lay at anchor close into the shore. Capt. Deane dropped his huge anchor and went aboard one of the smacks. Then he learned his whereabouts, his distance and direction from Boston, how to keep off Boon island and inside the Isles of Shoals, and thus make Cape Ann by the shortest course.

The same night, December 10, he made sail, as he was overdue and provisions running low, and bore away for Cape Ann, which he hoped to reach by sunrise. There were in those days no lighthouses, buoys or foghorns and bells to guide or warn navigators. They trusted to the stars, the compass, the lead well greased and a sharp lookout. Before midnight the fog came on again. There was no wind, only a slight air from the eastward, drifting in the fog bank thicker and thicker. The captain set a double watch that night, and left his best officer, Endel, in command, and his longest sighted man, the Old Herring, as the lea bow lookout.

The vessel tetered along, as sailors say, carried by the set of the incoming tide and the faint breeze. It was awfully still, not a sound could be heard save the step of the nightwatch, the lap-lapping of the sleepy waves on the port bow and the occasional flapping of the sails as the helmsman lost the wind and luffed up into it again.

"I swear, Old Herring," said Mate Endel to his bow watch, "this is a jigger of a night to be you don't know where; not a lightning bug in sight. Where be your complasents now, eh?"

"Down a-forard, sir," answered the Old Herring. "I seed 'em under the bulge e'en now."

"Look your eye, sir; there's a-many on 'em running along the trail, a-chasin' anither like sparks agin the hob. That ar' the very bugs, ye call 'em, ye see'd aloft somewhile."

Aloft an' alow,
An' let her blow;
There's a light on the mast.
An' it's down below
So let her blow—
O—ho, O—ho.

The Old Herring sang this catch rather softly for him, for he had a voice like a deck comber in a gale. He was firmly convinced that the phosphorescent sparks of the water as the vessel plowed through it were the very same things as the corposants seen at the masthead, and both are infallible good signs.

Pretty soon the Old Herring called to Mate Endel, who was at the tiller: "Come for'ard, sir," he called, "I hearn somethin'—I hearn somethin' sown—'tisn't like these creepers 'longside; more liken breakers somewheres."

"I hear nothing," said the mate. Putting his hand to his ear he thought he did hear the low, sullen sound of breakers on the right. He ran back to his tiller and put it hard a-port. But he was too late. In a few minutes the Galley was in the midst of the breakers of Boon island, which, however calm the sea elsewhere, forever lash its desolate edges. The set of the incoming tide increased the force of the breakers, and the wind was so light the vessel did not answer her helm; and before the captain and crew could be called she was hard and fast. She lay rather easy at first, but within an hour the sharp ledge ground a hole through her bottom and she filled. It was still dark and little could be made out as to where they were, but they supposed they were on the shore of the mainland. As morning dawned the east wind began to freshen; the Galley was driven further in and the crew could see nothing but the outlines of bare rock. By means of a spar they got out upon a projecting ledge and waited for full daylight to see what was to be done. The weather soon settled everything for them. The wind increased and made it impossible for them to return to the vessel, and before sundown of that short day she had gone all to pieces. The only things they were able to save were a few planks and spars, one small piece of canvas, not much larger than a cheese cloth, and half a cheese.

They began to look about them, and to consider what direction to take to seek shelter and succor. Still supposing themselves on the mainland somewhere, what was their consternation at discovering they were on a bare, bleak island, hardly more than one acre in extent. They could dimly see land on their right, six miles away, a wild, uninhabited coast, at that date, where now is the popular seaside resort of York.

The situation at once seemed hopeless to officers and men; starvation or death from cold and exposure their almost certain fate. They had no means of kindling a fire, and nothing to burn if they had, nor any food or water. At first they tried to cheer each other up, and they prayed to God every day for rescue; four men kneeling to each point of the compass, at the captain's suggestion, and then together. Even the Old Herring and Mate Endel joined in the prayers; the mate silently, but the Old Herring could not pray so mutely; he had to mutter to himself, and often broke out into loud and hearty tones, in language almost unintelligible, yet doubtless plain to his Creator. All the while a watch was kept day and night for any passing vessel. They slept in a crevice of a ledge, somewhat sheltered from the wind, covered only by the bit of canvas they had saved, and so close together for warmth that no one could turn unless all turned. They found a little frozen water in hollows on the higher parts of the island which served to appease their thirst. The cheese was soon gone.

EVEN THE OLD HERRING AND MATE ENDEL JOINED IN THE PRAYERS.

They now subsisted entirely on kelp, the little mucilaginous bladders of rockweed, and mussels, three a day to each man.

On the fourth day the cook, Peter Salter, died. He was never a well man and succumbed quietly to cold and hunger. They buried him at low tide at the foot of the ledges, as there was not a shovelful of earth on the whole island, and covered his body with seaweed and stones.

The strain upon their enfeebled bodies began to affect their minds; famine, thirst and cold combined to change their instincts into those of savages. The weaker men were often robbed of their allotted three mussels a day, and had not the strength to fight for them.

On the last day of December the carpenter died, and the captain had scarcely authority and strength enough left to keep the body from being devoured. Two of the abler men built a small raft and attempted to reach the shore, but were lost. The company was now reduced to 11 men.

On the 4th of January of the new year, early in the afternoon, the Old Herring, who had been somewhat restored in his faculties, Heaven knew how, but his voice quite gone, came to Capt. Deane, pointing his finger toward the northwest. There was a strange, unearthly look in his eyes as he held his hand steadily in that one direction. The captain could make out nothing. He called the others; they all came and stood under the signal. No one appeared to discover anything on the horizon. He still pointed and his eyes dilated as he looked. All at once he threw up his hands and fell on his knees.

It was a sail. Soon all saw it. Slowly it came into view, going westward, and bearing apparently for Portsmouth harbor. The captain ordered the men to scatter over the island and keep moving about, waving anything they could get their hands on, if only seaweed, so as to attract attention, if possible. He himself climbed the spar and shook out the canvas and the bunch of rags. It was an hour before the vessel came distinctly into view. She did not appear to see the signals. At any rate she did not change her course. The shipwrecked men felt this was their last chance of rescue; that in a few days more they must all miserably perish, and they watched with the intensity of doomed souls. The vessel, a small undecked fishing sloop, was now getting past the point where, had she seen the signals, she would naturally have turned, when they saw her suddenly change her course and bear down for the island. Then they knew they were saved. They shouted and wept for joy. The Old Herring recovered his voice in an instant. But some of the men, by the sudden revulsion from the long agony, fell down in a dead faint and were so nearly lifeless that they had to be carried aboard the rescuing vessel.

HERO OF THE BOERS.

Gen. Christian De Wet Is a Many-Sided Character.

He Is Brave, Agile and Full of Quiet Humor—Has a Gentle Disposition, But Frequently Displays Violent Temper.

The meager dispatches which come to us from South Africa give but little insight into the character of the man whose name is daily associated with all the great events now occurring in that country, writes Howard C. Hillegas, in the World's Work. To the majority of people the name De Wet is suggestive of the quixotic; he appears to us in the light of a character in fiction rather than as a man of present action; his work is so remarkable that we can hardly credit to his age.

Since the beginning of the war almost every British general and soldier in South Africa has at one time or another been bent upon the capture of this one man. A half-score of times the ending of the pursuit has been clearly defined, yet invariably he has escaped from the encircling cordon of men and guns. He has outfought, outwitted and outgeneraled his opponents at every turn. He has done even more than escape from his pursuers. He has made more than 5,000 prisoners of war, he has destroyed many millions of dollars' worth of his enemy's munitions, he and his small army of 10,000 men have subsisted for more than six months exclusively on the food and ammunition taken in battle, and, more than all, he has rejuvenated a cause that seemed to be lost beyond reclaim when Pretoria fell into British hands.

In personal appearance Gen. Dewet is easily surpassed by every burgher in his commandos. In searching for the commander-in-chief of the forces, one would choose everyone else first. He is not as tall as the average Boer, and he is much less handsome. Usually his clothing is as ragged as that of the poorest burgher, and when he is astride of his favorite old horse the commandant-general is an object of pity rather than of admiration. This is the result of his habit of exchanging articles of clothing with those of his men who appeal to him for new outfits. It is one of his ways of retaining the affection of his men, and it is only by ties of affection that they are bound to him. Several of the Boer officers wear distinctive uniforms with little gilt stars on the coat collars to indicate their rank; De Wet's black feather is his only badge of authority.

GEN. CHRISTIAN DE WET.
(Commander in Chief of What is Left of the Boer Forces.)

Gen. De Wet is a many sided man. Although he has a most gentle disposition, he frequently displays a violent temper. He is the intimate friend of all the men in his commandos, yet when there is a duty for them to perform he is cuttingly stern with them, and temporarily there is a wide gulf between them. For many years before the war he was the most bitter Anglophobe in the Free State raad; now as soon as a British soldier falls into his hands he will insist that the prisoner have the best treatment that it is possible to give him. While forming the plans for a battle movement he discusses the subject thoroughly with anybody and everybody, but as soon as he commences to carry the plan into effect he becomes dumb and refuses to disclose his purposes even to his most trusted lieutenants. Although he relishes a victory as keenly as anyone, he will not allow one of his burghers to cheer or display other signs of joy after a battle is won. Unschooled in the tactics of war, he is a master tactician; born outside the breastworks of civilization, he is noble in manner and deportment; a bitter enemy of the British, yet he is a stanch admirer of their capapble men. De Wet is rough, honest, and fearless, a devoted friend and a vengeful enemy; he is a marvelous anachronism as a warrior. At Lindley, he ordered his brother, Gen. Peter De Wet, to move his commando to a certain position. The brother questioned the advisability of the movement and the commandant-general promptly appointed another general to take his place, whereupon Peter De Wet surrendered to the British.

By his men the general is regarded as the greatest humorist in the commandos, and they are constantly enjoying his jokes.

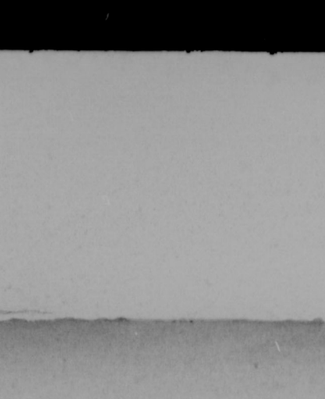
Danger in Celluloid Combs.

A celluloid comb, worn by Miss Mary Doyle, of Birmingham, Ala., caused the loss of her hair and serious scalp burns. She fell asleep near a blazing fire, when the comb exploded, causing the injuries above stated.

WILLIAM A. RUBLEE.

Appointed to Succeed the Late Mr. Wildman as United States Consul General at Hong-Kong.

The new consul general to Hong-Kong, W. A. Rublee, of Milwaukee, Wis., is a tall, athletic-looking young man who is apt to impress strangers as one whom it might be unpleasant to trifle with. Nor is this impression likely to wear away on closer acquaintance. Though courteous and gentlemanly in his address and bearing, Mr. Rublee is rather reserved in manner. He has a calm, judicial mind and looks well into a matter before coming to a decision, but once



WILLIAM A. RUBLEE.
(New United States Consul General at Hong-Kong, China.)

his judgment is formed he pursues his way undeterred by popular clamor. His friends in Milwaukee and Wisconsin feel certain that Uncle Sam will have no better representative anywhere abroad or one with whom the honor of the country is more safe.

Mr. Rublee will not be a stranger to his new work. He served four years as consul general at Prague during the administration of President Harrison. His able management of the office won for him high commendation from the state department. His reports were considered models of information, clearness and style.

He has the good fortune to possess a newspaper training. His father was for many years the editor of the Milwaukee Sentinel, and the son has had eight years' experience as an editorial writer. This training has given him an especially good insight into international affairs and will be of much assistance to him in preparing his reports. Mr. Rublee is now 40 years of age. He graduated from Harvard and has mastered the German and French languages. His family consists of a wife and one child.

POLITICS IN SPAIN.

Senor Sagasta, Liberal Statesman, Called by Queen Regent to Form a New Ministry.

Senor Sagasta has responded favorably to the request of the queen regent of Spain that he form a ministry. It is believed that the new government will tend to have a quieting effect on the turbulent spirit of the people. The new liberal premier has been prominent in Spanish politics for nearly 50 years. His wisdom as a master of statecraft was shown in the course of his moderate treatment of the Cubans. He recalled Weyler from the island, and was preparing an autonomous government for the Cubans when the leaders of the revolution demanded complete independence. Thus the war with the United States was forced upon Spain. Sagasta has come to his country's aid in almost all of her recent crises, and has saved Spain from many painful situations. His successes have been so numerous and so great that his failure to smooth over the comparatively slight trouble now agitating the country is hardly to be looked for.

SENOR SAGASTA.
(Liberal Leader at Head of the New Spanish Cabinet.)

King Edward's Italian Descent.

King Edward VII.'s Italian descent is from the Duchess Catterina Sforza, of Forli, who, in 1501, played Joan of Arc in defending her husband's castle against Caesar Borgia. Her third husband was a Medici, and by him she had a son, Giovanni, the last and greatest of the Renaissance Condotrieri. His granddaughter became the queen of Henry IV. of France and her daughter the wife of Charles I. of England. By this union the royal house of England could then claim, in equal degrees, descent from the houses of Plantagenet, Tudor, Stuart, Navarre, Medici and Sforza.

A Country of Young Widows.

Bengal is noted for the number of its young widows. It has 48,644 widows who are under ten years of age.

USE OF CHLOROFORM.

Administration of the Drug Sometimes Results in Death.

Fatal Ending, Many Physicians Think, Is Brought About by Fright Quite as Often as by the Anaesthetics Themselves.

Two deaths in Chicago in one day from the use of anaesthetics have served to call attention to the risks that come from the sleep of anaesthesia.

According to statistics, after making allowance for the care in determining whether or not a person is a fit subject for the drugs, it has been shown that one person in every 3,000 will die from the use of chloroform before operation, while from ether only one in 16,000 will die.

Reports from the United States are incomplete, but in England in 1899 there were 83 inquests held upon the bodies of persons who had died from anaesthesia, and of these persons 68 died before operation was begun. Dr. James Edmunds, commenting upon these figures for Great Britain, refers to the fact that the disposition to suppress such occurrences might point to 200 deaths annually in Great Britain.

Comparing the figures of England with those of India, Dr. Arthur Neve says that while the number of deaths in Great Britain constantly grows larger the fatalities in India from anaesthetics is only one in 26,000 cases.

Climatic differences are supposed to account for the difference in these figures. In general a warm climate is more conducive to the successful administration of chloroform than is a cold one. Anaesthetics in general are more successfully given in southern China than in the northern half of that country.

In the two fatal cases in Chicago the operations were for growths in the mouth and in the throat. It has been recognized for a long time that the administering of chloroform for such operations is always attended with undue danger. Dr. F. W. Hinkel, ADMINISTERING CHLOROFORM.

(Method and Position in Vogue in the Large City Hospitals.)

who has made a study of these cases of hypertrophied tonsils and nasopharyngeal adenoids, says that sufferers from these troubles are of abnormal types and unusually susceptible to the influences of chloroform. He tells of a six-year-old boy who inhaled one ounce of chloroform and died after the operation. In the six years prior to 1898 17 similar cases came to his observation in which death resulted from these slight operations.

In general, chloroform as an anaesthetic is more or less under the ban. It is uncertain in its results. More men than women die from its use, and the largest number of deaths are of those in the middle of life.

Dr. G. W. Green, keeping a record of 1,000 cases of the administration of anaesthetics in Augustana hospital in Chicago, says in the Chicago Tribune that in six of these cases artificial respiration had to be resorted to in order to bring the patient to consciousness. There were no deaths however.

Fear and nervousness are two things to be reckoned with in anaesthetics. In many cases before an operation the nervousness of a patient may have stopped digestion for 24 hours before the test of the knife.

It has always been considered that the manner of administering chloroform was of vital consequence.

The most common procedure in giving the drug is to lay a double thickness of lint in the palm of the operator's hand. He will lower the backs of his fingers until he can feel the breath of the patient upon them dropping the drug upon the lint between his fingers and just over the patient's nostrils. The limbs of the patient should be elevated. The breathing of the patient is the great index to his condition. The color of his lips and the condition of the pupils of his eyes must be observed.

Stertorous breathing shows that a patient has inhaled too much of the drug, though this cannot always be depended upon. On occasions, patients at the first odor of the drug have collapsed and died.

In case of death from chloroform, the ordinary means for resuscitating the drowned are resorted to. The tongue is pulled forward and artificial respiration is induced. In the case of small children, simply to seize them by the ankles and hold them head down most often proves sufficient.

When death results from anaesthetics, the breathing of the patient grows shallower and shallower, finally ceasing altogether. If not too long delayed, resuscitation is nearly always effective when a simple overdose of the anaesthetic has been given.

One Way of Settling for Supper.

Three commercial travelers meeting at a hotel one winter evening had a hearty supper together. Supper over, the three found some difficulty in alloting their respective shares in the bill; but one of them at length cut short the dispute by proposing that whoever had the "oldest name" among them should go free, the expenses being halved by the other two.

This amendment being promptly accepted, No. 1 produced a card inscribed "Richard Eve," which No. 2 trumped with "Adam Brown." Then No. 3, a portly veteran with humorous gray eyes, laid down his card with the quiet confidence of a great general making a decisive movement, and remarked, with a chuckle:

"I don't much think you'll beat this 'un, gents."

And he was right, for the name was "Mr. B. Ginning."—Tit-Bits.

Trains Delayed by Thistles.

Trainmen in some parts of South Dakota have a new difficulty to surmount in the shape of vast masses of Russian thistles, which collect in drifts on the tracks. The weeds are blown into cuts, where they become interwoven so closely that sometimes trains are delayed for hours. The locomotives might push their way through but for the fact that the rails become slippery through the crushing of the oily fibre and seeds, the wheels refusing to revolve even after a liberal application of sand.—Chicago Chronicle.

A Careless Woman.

Wife—Henry, can't you let me have some money to-day?

Husband—What did you do with that dollar I let you have last week?

Wife (good naturedly)—Well, I had to have a new bonnet and a heavier wrap, and Willie and Kate needed new shoes, and John had to have a new suit, and Frank a new hat, and Caroline needed a new gown and Mary a pair of gloves and David an overcoat — and — and — and, really, Henry, I don't remember what I did with the change. — Detroit Free Press.

Her View.

Mr. Solidrocks—It's a heavy defalcation and, perhaps, I'd better keep it quiet.

Mrs. Solidrocks—Oh, no! Let the world know how easily you can afford it.—Puck.

ANCIENTS HAD SENSE.

Dated Beginning of Year from Opening of Spring

When All Things in Nature Start Afresh.

Some Other Things in Which the Ancients Have Given Us Points.

The ancients began their year with the advent of spring. How much more appropriate thus to begin the New Year with the new life of nature in the awakening spring. At this season all processes throughout the natural world start afresh.

The ancients also showed their sagacity and appreciation of the great changes and active processes of spring-time, by realizing that this is also the time for renewed life and energy in the human system. They well knew that the blood should be cleansed from impurities and the nerves re-invigorated at this season. Hence the establishment of the custom of taking a good spring medicine.

This most sensible and healthy custom is followed by almost everybody at the present day, few people of intelligence venturing to go through this trying time of change from winter to summer without taking a spring medicine.

The unanimity on this subject is a settled fact; the only question heretofore has been in regard to what is the best thing to take. The people have now become unanimous in their decision that as a spring tonic and restorative, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is pre-eminently the best.

MR. STOUGHTON L. FARNHAM.

Year after year Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has proved itself the surest, most positive and reliable remedy. Made from pure vegetable medicines, it invariably cleanses, purifies and enriches the blood, making the blood rich and red, and at the same time, by its invigorating effects, giving strength, power, vitality and energy to the nerves.

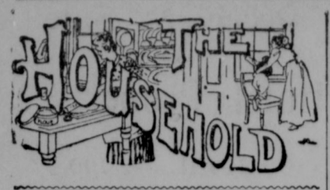
In fact, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has proved itself the most perfect of medicines and just what everybody needs for a spring remedy. Try it this spring.

Mr. Stoughton L. Farnham of Manchester, N. H., says:

"Some time ago I was troubled with lassitude and a feeling of fatigue. I did not have the ambition to do anything that demanded unusual physical exertion.

"I was recommended by a friend to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I took two or three bottles and am prepared to say that it did me good. I can recommend it as a tonic, as I know it helped me."

Remember Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is recommended by physicians, in fact, it is a physician's prescription, the discovery of the well-known specialist in nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th St., New York City, who can be consulted free of charge, personally or by letter.



WOMEN AND POCKETS.

Some Pertinent Comments by Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Famous Suffragist Agitator.

The daily press gave an account a few days since of a young woman walking in the street with her blind mother, her pocketbook in hand, who was suddenly robbed by a man, who was arrested and is now paying the penalty of his crime in jail. If the woman had had a pocket and her purse in it she might still be enjoying her money and the man his liberty.

Going to see a friend off to Europe not long ago I saw a young woman hurrying to the vessel, her train in one hand, her umbrella and handkerchief in the other and her purse held in her teeth!

Ever and anon we hear of these valuables snatched from their possessors, for which men and boys are arrested and punished. In view of this result the pocket is more than a question of fashion, it becomes one of morals; it is wonderful what dangers women will endure and inflict on others at the behests of fashion; if they choose to suffer the accidents that befall themselves, that is one thing, but to endanger the safety of others in crowded places is quite another. A young girl not long since, trying to get into a car, incumbered with train, pocketbook, umbrella, cardcase and bundle, having an uncertain hold, was by a sudden jerk thrown to the ground and all her possessions scattered in the mud; she was seriously injured, and in consequence walked on crutches for six months.

Perhaps the authorities of the church might do something to rouse the religious sensibilities of the women in this direction. The apostles and prophets in Bible times did not think it beneath their dignity to give women some directions as to their duties, and an appeal in our day might not be in vain. The discipline of the church requires all women to cover their heads when they enter the cathedrals; Paul advised them not to braid their hair nor wear gaudy apparel, but to modestly cover their faces with veils. Many of the books in the New Testament have special directions in regard to the dress of women. And Isaiah was quite strenuous as to most of the ornaments dear to their hearts. In the third chapter, sixteenth verse, he says: "Because the daughters of Zion are haughty and walk mincing as they go, making a tinkling with their feet.

ELIZABETH CADY STANTON.
(Honorary President National Suffrage Association.)

"Therefore the Lord will smite the crown of the head of the daughters of Zion.

"In that day the Lord will take away the tinkling ornaments about their feet, and their cauls, and their round tires like the moon.

"The chains, and the bracelets, and the mufflers.

"The head bands, and the tablets, and the earrings.

"The rings, and the nose jewels, and the mantles, and the wimples, and the crisping pins.

"The glasses, and the hoods, and the veils."

If it was thought worth while to put all these directions in the Bible why should it not be as well to have some provisions in regard to this matter in the canon and civil laws, and men in high places give some directions to our daughters in this line?

A student in one of our city colleges not long since, going to the blackboard, left her purse, containing five dollars, on her desk; when she returned it was gone. The president called his pupils together and stated the case, reproaching them for the deed, saying: "But if the owner will cut off the part of her dress that trails on the floor and make a generous pocket in which to keep her purse she will save her weak companions from further temptation and herself from greater losses."—Elizabeth Cady Stanton, in Chicago Tribune.

Sponging Woolens at Home.

Never in home dressmaking cut any kind of woolen goods until they have been sponged, as cheap material is often not dampened before it is sold. To do this properly at home get an ironing board or table the width of the goods and cover with tightly stretched calico. Spread your cloth wrong side up, cover with a linen cloth that has been well wrung out in water and then press with a hot iron the lengthwise of the goods. Never let the iron be still, and the goods must fall evenly on the floor on to a clean cloth as pressed.

It Did, Brother, It Did.

The fashion paper which announced that "there is little change in men's wearing apparel" told a sad, sad truth.—Boston Advertiser.

A CHEERFUL WINDOW.

There Is Nothing That Adds Quite So Much Attractiveness to the Average Home.

A small bay window is hardly large enough to sit in, hence some means of utilizing its presence that will add attractiveness to the room, without shutting out any of the window's light, is certainly worth considering. The illustration shows a scheme both attractive and convenient. The low window sashes have below them a shelf that fills the space of the bay window, while below this is a drawer that will serve many useful purposes. The shelf affords an excellent chance for placing an aquarium or large fish globe. Gold and silver fish are very beautiful when seen against a bright window. On the shelf may also be placed some potted plants. Above is a chance for a caged bird, showing between the folds of a drapery curtain, that hangs flush with the walls of the room. Shelves could be put across the middle of the side sashes, if desired, affording room for smaller pots of plants or climbing plants that can be trained to run up about the top of the bay window.—Webb Donnell, in Farm and Home.

A CHEERFUL WINDOW.

ODD WORK FOR WOMEN.

New Modes of Earning a Livelihood Devised by Victims of "Genteel Poverty."

Genteel poverty is one of the tragedies of modern society. Yet out of the evil comes good, and from absolute necessity clever women devise new modes of earning a livelihood. Most of those who find themselves in reduced circumstances take up ordinary callings, but a few plunge out of the beaten path and make some idle accomplishment the basis of a paying vocation. One young woman uptown who in the past learned to make lace as a fad now puts it to practical use by repairing old and priceless laces. She carries what may be called a kit of tools, including a lacemaker's pillow, a full set of threads and various kinds of needles, and restores an injured collar or an ancient fichu in the presence of the owner. The work is exceedingly difficult and the reward correspondingly high.

Several women have taken up indexing. Their patrons are people who keep scrapbooks, and who are too busy, or, as is more often the case, too negligent, to index for themselves. The work is slow and laborious. It demands a wide literary knowledge and often a knowledge of French and German. The pay is moderate, being usually three dollars a day.

Artistic and fancy bookbinding is practiced by eight or ten women in New York city. This is a skilled trade of the highest class, demanding both technical skill and artistic ability. Two of the binders have done such good work as to make them moderately famous.

A Vassar girl with a penchant for chemistry found herself thrown upon her own resources three years ago, and adopted for her daily work the giving of instruction to members of her sex upon the subject of cold cream. To the uninitiated this seems a very simple matter, but in truth it is very complex. It involves a knowledge of the various fats and oils, including spermaceti, cocoa butter, wax, japan wax, almond cream, lanoline, and such medical ingredients as benzoin, camphor, myrrh, carbolic acid, sulphur, arsenic, zinc and white lead.

Women who contemplate a foreign tour or who are to receive distinguished foreigners are often at a loss respecting the etiquette of European countries. They can get out of their trouble by taking a course of lessons from teachers who have lived abroad in days of wealth. At least ten bright young women have taken up dermatology with special reference to the hair and scalp. They visit their patients the same as physicians and earn a handsome living. At least two in this city clear more than $5,000 a year.

Restoring old photographs gives profitable employment to a number of women who have become experts in the use of the camera. It does not pay very well in general, but now and then, when there is strong family love involved, it gives very handsome returns. One successful woman inlays books.—N. Y. Journal.

Recipe for Bridal Salad.

A salad for a wedding breakfast or dinner is made as follows: Shred a quarter of a new cabbage as fine as the petals of a chrysanthemum. Remove the seeds from two sweet green peppers of medium size and slice them in very fine rings; then slice one medium-sized onion as thin as possible. Mix these ingredients together and lay them lightly in a salad bowl; surround them with quarters of tomatoes; pour a dressing over all composed of oil, vinegar, salt and pepper, and serve.

THE COMIN' OUT.

When our Dolly is eighteen,
She shall have a comin' out,
Lots of tea in little cups,
Sandwiches to hand about.

All the people up the road,
Parkers, Barkers, Carters, too,
Martins from the mountain heights,
Kate and Mary Montague;

And the folks that live in town,
Lawsons, Dawsons, Lily Steele,
Keiths and Kellys, all will come,
Just to say how glad they feel.

Golfers, most polite young men,
Philip, Kenneth, Bob and Bill,
These will gladly flock to her,
Chat and eat and drink their fill.

Even summer friends will troop
Gaily to the festive scene,
Dolly will be sought by all,
Dolly be the moment's queen!

Then when they have gone away,
Dolly will get out her broom,
Sweep and dust, and set to rights
Everything within the room,

Ready, with the morrow's dawn,
For the same old household strain,
For, when Dolly has come out,
She will just go in again!
—Mary Stewart Cutting, in Youth's Companion.

THE POTATO JOUST.

An Amusing Indoor Game for Boys That Requires Considerable Skill and Practice.

A rainy day is almost sure to be a tedious day to every healthy, normal boy. Checkers, after a time, lose their charm, and books cease to be of interest. The boy stretches, kicks out his legs impatiently and casts many wistful glances out of the windows. He is tired of sitting still. After holding healthy animal spirits in check for the larger part of a day they are likely to break loose with a rush.

Few sports are better calculated than a potato joust to amuse imprisoned boys. It has all the joys of a combat, and yet, try as he will, there is no possibility for any boy to become rough.

In the potato joust each warrior is armed with a fork, on the end of which is a potato. The combatants take their positions in the center of the playroom, facing each other. They should be separated by not less than three feet. Each must lift a leg from the floor, as shown in the illustration. The fighters may use their own discretion as to which leg shall be lifted from the floor, and may hold it up with either hand they like. A small cushion placed under the knee will add materially to the comfort of the contestants.

The battle is decided by one of the warriors knocking the potato from his opponent's fork. Toppling over three times is also counted as a defeat. If one of the knights is obliged to let go of his foot in order to keep his balance it is counted as a fall. Every time the battle is interrupted in this way either of the contestants is at liberty to change the knee upon which he is resting. If one of the warriors falls against the other and upsets him it is counted against the one who is responsible for the tumble.

POTATO WRESTLERS IN ACTION.

You are not likely to realize, on your first introduction to a potato joust, the amount of skill and practice required to really become expert in handling the fork. A slight turn of the wrist, a quick push, and the practiced knight will defeat the novice—so deftly, so easily, that you are left wondering how he did it.

Practice is the only way to learn how he did it. One or two axioms is all the help I can give a novice:

Move your fork as little as possible; long, sweeping strokes are more likely to throw off your own potato than to interfere with that of your opponent.

The most dangerous stroke is one from underneath; always maneuver to keep your potato below that of your antagonist.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Genuine American Enterprise.

A merchant who lives on the upper West side of New York city was awakened at two o'clock the other morning by the continued ringing of his front doorbell. He tried to go to sleep despite the noise, but had to abandon the attempt when a series of shouts coming from the street in front of his house assailed his ears. Mingled with the shouts he heard voices of men engaged in a war of words. Jumping out of bed he ran to a window, threw it open and leaned out. There were five men in the street, and seeing him they began to yell with renewed vigor. "What is wrong?" shouted the merchant. The five tried to reply at the same time, and the only word the merchant understood was "Fire!" "What is wrong?" he shouted again. One of the five got his voice before the others. "Your store has burned out," he screamed, "and I'll give you five dollars more than anybody else for the privilege of pasting bills on the front of your building!" That is what is aptly called modern enterprise.

AN ENORMOUS CAKE.

Baked by Order of the King of Poland to Entertain His Guest, the King of Prussia.

"The largest cake ever baked by the sons of Adam," was what Thomas Carlyle dubbed it, and by some mischance it was made in summer instead of at Christmas time—a decided mischance, for cakes and Christmas go together the world over. In June, 1730, King August of Poland held a military review at the camp of Radewitz, on the river Elbe, in what is now part of the German empire. For a whole month his army marched and fought sham battles, for the king of Prussia was August's guest, and he was showing off in royal fashion. By way of ending the maneuvers in fitting style a great feast was held. Oxen were roasted whole, and every humblest private ate his fill. The king of Prussia gravely drank the health of the king of Poland, while the latter, who was wondrously strong, entertained the former and his suite by breaking horseshoes and coins with his fingers.

THE PARADE OF THE CAKE.

When the last scrap of food had disappeared before the hungry soldiers there was a burst of music from all the bands, the kings and nobles stood up, and everyone cheered his loudest. A wagon drawn by eight horses, and covered with a tent, came ponderously through the ranks and stopped before the royal table. Then, amid more cheering and music, the tent was whisked away and a monster cake was disclosed. It was a very prince of cakes. Five thousand eggs, 15 barrels of flour, a tun of milk, another of butter and another of yeast had been used in its making, and special machinery had been devised to do the mixing, for when it was finished and loaded upon the wagon it measured 40 ells in length, six in width and half an ell in thickness at the center. Around the rim it was decorated with nuts, raisins and bonbons, while upon the wagon rode a guard of honor, armed and determined to let no man approach until King August himself should give the word. This, luckily, was not long withheld.

After the king of Prussia had admired and congratulated and drunk the monster's health, a carpenter climbed upon the wagon with a long knife. The first huge slice went to the royal table, the second to the nobles, the third to the generals and colonels, the fourth, fifth and sixth to captains and lieutenants, the carpenter working valiantly toward the center, and serving out slabs according to rank. Finally the turn of the cake-hungry privates came. Then, upon a signal from King August, the carpenter climbed down, the waiting army formed a huge circle around the wagon, and waited eagerly. Suddenly August raised his hand, a cannon was fired, the wagon disappeared in a struggling mass of arms and legs, and presently, when the scrimmage was over, the cake had vanished to the last crumb.—Chicago Record.

RELY UPON YOURSELF.

Fight Your Own Battles and You Are Pretty Sure to Win in the Struggle of Life.

Some one has said that the best way to start in life is astride a farm horse with a rope halter.

Not the easiest way of getting on in the world, perhaps, but, says the National Rural, a way that will accustom one to hard knocks when they meet them on the road of life. A good way to learn dependence on one's own heels and not on other people's stirrups and to hold on with but little outside help. A splendid way to learn to rough it.

The boy and girl are fortunate whose parents early train them to rely upon themselves. Skill in books or in the professions is only acquired by personal effort. The lives of great men remind us that almost without exception they faced the battles of life alone, and the strength of mind and of character thus developed made them great and successful.

Boys and girls who have been bolstered up and helped all along the way of life rarely amount to much in an emergency; they are sure to look about for some one to lean upon and if no one appears down they go.

Rely then upon yourself; fight your own battles and nine times out of ten you will win.

In the words of John G. Saxe:

"In the struggle for power, or scramble for pelf,
Let this be your motto: 'Rely on yourself.'
For whether the prize be a ribbon or throne,
The victor is he who can go it alone."

Matte of Business.

Tittle—Who is that cross-eyed woman with hair-lip, talking so loud?

Tattle—Why, that is the duchess of Stormingcourt whom the duke married for her fortune. She has ten million.

"Humph! The duke earned his money."—Judge.

"Mrs. Pinkham Saved me from an Operation."

Hospitals in our great cities are sad places to visit.

Three-fourths of the patients lying on those snow-white beds are women and girls.

Why should this be the case?

Because they have neglected themselves.

Every one of these patients in the hospital beds had plenty of warning in that bearing-down feeling, pain at the left or right of the womb, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back. All of these things are indications of an unhealthy condition of the ovaries or womb.

What a terrifying thought! these poor souls are lying there on those hospital beds awaiting a fearful operation.

Do not drag along at home or in your place of employment until you are obliged to go to the hospital and submit to an examination and possible operation. Build up the female system, cure the derangements which have signified themselves by danger signals, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved thousands of women from the hospital. Read the letter here published with the full consent of the writer, and see how she escaped the knife by a faithful reliance on Mrs. Pinkham's advice and the consistent treatment of her medicines.

Mrs. Knapp tells of her Great Gratitude.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have received much benefit from using your Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash. After my child was born, blood poison set in, which left me with granulated inflammation of the womb and congested ovaries. I had suffered from suppressed and painful menstruation from a girl. The doctors told me the ovaries would have to be removed. I took treatment two years to escape an operation, but still remained in miserable health in both body and mind, expecting to part with my reason with each coming month. After using one bottle of the Compound, I became entirely rid of the trouble in my head. I continued to use your remedies until cured.

"The last nine months have been passed in perfect good health. This, I know, I owe entirely to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"My gratitude is great indeed to the one to whom so many women owe their health and happiness."—MRS. F. M. KNAPP, 1528 Kinnickinnic Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis.

MRS. F. M. KNAPP

$5000 REWARD Owing to the fact that some skeptical people have from time to time questioned the genuineness of the testimonial letters we are constantly publishing, we have deposited with the National City Bank, of Lynn, Mass., $5,000, which will be paid to any person who will show that the above testimonial is not genuine, or was published before obtaining the writer's special permission.—LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup

Cures Hacking Coughs, Sore Lungs, Grippe, Pneumonia and Bronchitis in a few days. Why then risk Consumption? Get Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Don't be imposed upon. Refuse the dealer's substitute. It is not as good as Dr. Bull's.

Salvation Oil cures Rheumatism and all Pain. Price, 15 and 25 cents.

DO YOU COUGH
DON'T DELAY
TAKE KEMP'S BALSAM
THE BEST COUGH CURE

It Cures Coughs, Colds, Croup, Sore Throat, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Price, 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

[K]

For 14 Cents

We mail the following rare seed novelties.

1 pkg.	Blue Blood Tomato Seed,	$ .15
1 "	Northern Lemon Seed,	.15
1 "	Rana's Favorite Onion Seed,	.10
1 "	Emerald Green Cucumber Seed,	.10
1 "	City Garden Beet Seed,	.10
1 "	13-Day Radish Seed,	.10
1 "	La'e. Market Lettuce Seed,	.15
5 "	Brilliant Flower Seed,	.15
		$1.00

Worth $1.00 for 14 Cents.

Above 10 packages rare novelties we will mail you free, together with our great illustrated Seed Catalog, telling all about Salzer's Billion Dollar Grass Also Choice Onion Seed, 60c. a lb. Together with thousands of earliest vegetables and farm seeds, upon receipt of 14c. and this notice. When once you plant Salzer's Seeds you will never do without.

JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO., LaCrosse, Wis.

Do You Know

Burnham's Hasty Jellycon will satisfactorily answer the question: "what shall we have for dessert to-day?" You have the choice of six delicious flavors: orange, lemon, strawberry, raspberry, peach, wild cherry, and the plain "calfsfoot" for making wine and coffee jellies. Every where Jellycon is having a large sale. Your grocer sells it.

RHEUMATISM Van Buren's Rheumatic Compound is the only positive cure. Past experience speaks for itself. Depot 88 S. California Ave., Chicago.

In 3 or 4 Years an Independence Is Assured

FARMS WESTERN CANADA FREE

If you take up your homes in Western Canada, the land of plenty. Illustrated pamphlets, giving experiences of farmers who have become wealthy in growing wheat, reports of delegates, etc., and full information as to reduced railway rates can be had on application to the Superintendent of Immigration, Department of Interior, Ottawa, Canada, or address the Undersigned, who will mail you atlases, pamphlets, etc., free of cost. F. PEDLEY, Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada; or to M. V. McINNES, No. 2 Merrill Blk., Detroit, Mich.; E. T. HOLMES, Room 6, Big Four Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

WET WEATHER WISDOM!
THE ORIGINAL
TOWER'S
FISH BRAND
SLICKER
BLACK OR YELLOW
WILL KEEP YOU DRY
NOTHING ELSE WILL TAKE NO SUBSTITUTES
CATALOGUES FREE
SHOWING FULL LINE OF GARMENTS AND HATS.
A. J. TOWER CO., BOSTON, MASS.

MAN WANTED
AT ONCE

With rig to sell our Poultry Mixture; straight salary $15.00 per week and expenses; year's contract; weekly pay. Address with stamp EUREKA MFG. CO., Dept. 5, East St. Louis, Ill.

GREGORY SEEDS The old reliable. New varieties. New catalogue FREE. J. J. H. GREGORY & SON, Marblehead, Mass.

A. N. K.—C 1856

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

THE REPUBLICAN.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Editor and Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

THE REPUBLICAN is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year	$ 1.25
One copy six months	.75
One copy three months	.40
One copy one month	.15
Single copies	.05

ADVERTISING RATES.

First insertion for square of ten nonpareil lines, $1; each additional insertion after first, 0 cents per square of ten nonpareil lines.

REMITTANCES:

Remittances made by money order, bank draft, registered letter or express order will be at our risk; if made otherwise, at the risk of the sender. Address,

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, APRIL 4, 1901.

Political Announcements

The following rates for publishing political announcements in these columns have been fixed and will be charged to those who desire to make their wishes known to the voters of Garrett county. These charges are payable in advance of the first publication of notices:

For State Senator, $10; County Treasurer, $5; Sheriff, $5; Members of the House of Delegates, $5; County Commissioner, $5.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER.

At the solicitation of friends I announce myself as a candidate for the nomination for County Treasurer, subject to the Republican Nominating Convention, and most respectfully solicit the assistance and influence of all Republicans. Should I be nominated and elected I promise to give personal attention to the duties of the office.

JAS. W. WHITE,
District No. 14. Oakland.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the nomination of Sheriff for Garrett county, subject to the decision of the Republican Nominating Convention, and solicit the support of Republicans throughout the county.

Dist. No. 7. ANDREW SHARTZER.

Newspaper Frauds.

"Non-partisan" papers, edited by partisans, are the most patent humbugs of the age. In commenting upon public matters they start out nonpartisan, but wind up partisan. They are simply frauds. A partisan paper is the more to be admired. It sacrafices patronage for principle. It is more honest, for it does not play for both sides, and does not pretend to be anything than partisan. There is nothing antagonistic to honesty in being partisan, and there is every inducement to dishonesty in being nonpartisan or independent. The most despicable object is a partisan who pretends to conduct a non-partisan or independent paper, and then by his acts endorses every principle and policy which his party espouses.—Westminster (Md.) Advocate.

WITH Murray Vandiver as State's Insurance Commissioner, Lloyd Wilkinson, as State Tax Commissioner, John Walter Smith, as Governor, Buchanan Schley, State Census Superintendent and with Gorman fixed for the return to the United States Senate and Baughman slated for the governorship, makes it look as though Democratic ring politics are profitable to the initiated. It is supposed that the appointment of all these men, the leaders of the ring, to office, is intended to give assurance of pure politics.

ACCORDING to Democratic logic and Gormanic practice illiterate citizens are not competent to vote for candidates for political offices after they have been nominated, but are fully competent to vote in the primaries and thus select the candidates for whom the erudite citizens must vote and elect to office. In other words the unfortunate, uneducated ones are good enough to be used as tools of the bosses in controlling the primaries of their party organization, but are not good enough to have and exercise the freeman's right of discrimination through the elective franchise. They can have no voice in the making of laws to which they are amenable and which they must obey.

The Republicans' Protest.

The Republican members of both branches of the General Assembly have issued an address to the people of Maryland, which presents a forcible arraignment of the purposes, the methods and the results of the extra session whose high-handed proceedings came to a close Thursday. "The session was called," says the address, "simply to prop the political fortunes of a few men who masquerade as the Democratic party, and the people are expected to pay the heavy bill contracted by them in the name of the State for this purpose. You are expected to help intrench them against yourselves, though you have but recently repudiated them. Those who misgoverned the State prior to 1895 are again in power. The fear of the independent vote has made them desperate. If the parties can be made more uneven by disfranchising 50,000 freemen, they think they need not fear defeat. It is for you to consider and reflect. The work of this session is only the beginning. Their plans will be disclosed gradually, so as not to alarm you. Unless you rise in your might and crush this attack upon the suffrage in its incipiency, it will be construed as a license to wipe out what remains of our election law, and result in again making our elections a byword."

The connection between the outrage on the elective franchise embodied in the election bill is relentlessly pointed out; it is, of course, matter of public knowledge that the putting through of the election job was absolutely dependent upon a bargain made with the men who were behind the sewerage plan. While the need for sewers is recognized by all intelligent and progressive citizens, the notion that it was necessary to jam through at an extra session a bill providing for them is not honestly entertained by half a dozen citizens of Baltimore. The Republican address puts into words what has been in the thoughts of many thousands of citizens, irrespective of party, when it says: "The sewerage bill resembles its ill-featured brother. This measure, so vitally affecting the people of Baltimore and involving the expenditure of many millions of dollars, became a personal question. We were in favor of a bill to enable the city of Baltimore to construct a sewerage system, and a proper bill could have been passed without opposition. We believe that we represented the people of Baltimore irrespective of party when we strenuously opposed making this great work a part of a political deal and practically placing into the hands of one man this great power as a reward for his aid in taking from many thousand freeman their right to vote, for the benefit of the other party to the deal. We believe that the commission should be broad-gauged and non-partisan. It is asking too much of our credulity to expect us to believe that a commission selected as a result of a political deal will be kept out of politics."

The arraignment of the acts and methods of the partisan conclave which has been masquerading as a Legislature is thoroughly deserved. In winding up their protest, and appealing to the people of Maryland for the remedy, the Republican members act wisely in recording their opposition to Federal interference in the matter. "This is a fight to the finish," they declare, "before the people of Maryland for manhood and manhood suffrage. We believe the people can meet the issue and wisely solve it without aid from any outside source, and are therefore opposed to any Federal interference." The fight is, indeed, under another form, the same old fight that was fought so long against the Democratic ring, and that was won in 1895, for decency and honesty in the foundation of civil government—elections by the people. The brazen effrontery of the pretense that any other object was aimed at than a return to the old days of unchecked ring control was demonstrated by the killing of the primary-elections bill and of the corrupt-practices bill. The party that stands expressly for outrages upon the right to fair elections will have to be thrashed once again, whatever it may cost to do it; and the second thrashing will be one that will last for good.

The Extra Session.

The record of legislation enacted at the extraordinary session of the legislature, according to the Annapolis correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, embraces, in addition to the three measures for which the session was called together, the following bills:

Renumbering the wards of Baltimore city.

Appropriating a sum of money to enable the governor to procure census papers from the Federal census bureau.

Authorizing election supervisors to sub-divide election precincts.

Ceding a tract of land in Montgomery county to the United States.

Appropriating $25,000 for State representation at the Buffalo and Charleston expositions.

Appropriating money for the expenses of the session.

Waterworks for Hyattsville.

Waterworks for Laurel.

Regulating elections in Frederick city.

Sanctioning a number of bequests to church.

Regulating the taking of oysters in Sinepuxent bay.

Removing tax from men employed on scrapers in Dorchester county.

Appropriating $500 to pay the electoral college.

Creating a board of visitors to the Anne Arundel jail.

Increasing the number of Anne Arundel county commissioners from 3 to 7.

An analysis of the list is sufficient to convict the majority in the legislature of partisanship that has been rarely equaled by any other legislative body. The election and census measures were inspired solely by the hope of obtaining advantage at the next election for a small clique of politicians, and the Republicans in the legislature have done well in making the vigorous protest against them that appears in another column of this newspaper. The same protest includes a review of the third measure for which the legislature was convened and explains that its passage was effected as payment for support for the other measures so vital to the schemes of the party managers.

The partisanship of the legislature did not stop at the scheduled program. The gerrymandering of Baltimore city, and the two bits of legislation for Anne Arundel county designed to legislate Republicans out of office are just such measures as one would expect from law-makers who tamper with ballot laws for party advantage. The failure of primary election legislation and the defeat of corrupt practice measures causes no surprise. The legislature was passing laws for the benefit of Gorman, and they had little time for enacting any legisfation that would not in some way redound to Gorman's advantage. It is true that a few bills did get through other than the purely partisan measures, but the number was very limited, as will be seen by reading the above list.

What of the Future?

Governor Smith and Boss Gorman, aided not only by their partisan party followers, but by several legislators, who, if not strongly opposed to the whole disfranchisement scheme, felt it incumbent upon themselves to vote for the law, regardless of results.

And now that the deed is done, it may be well to ask what of the future? Will the Republicans of the State throw up the sponge, lie down, and permit their political opponents to control, as of yore: or will they not, notwithstanding the heavy odds against them, once more buckle on their armor, and with dogged determination wrest from Gorman & Company the power they have temporarily gained, by a snap judgment, which takes from forty-four thousand white and colored voters their constitutional right.

Those who have been deprived of American citizenship will not soon forget the cloud which burst upon them, neither will they spend their lives sulking.

Thousands of them, as well as the friends of those who have been disfranchised, will from now on exert themselves to strengthen and again assist to power the Republican party, which has in a few brief years accomplished wonders for Maryland, both in a material way and for the State's standing with the people of her sister Commonwealths.

The only crime of forty-four thousand men who have had the franchise taken from them at the behest of Gorman and for Gorman's advancement and return to power, is oftentimes, through no fault of their own, that they can neither read nor write.

No one will deny that most of those who can no longer vote are not good and honest citizens, many of them people of business capacity who are financially well to do.

The blight which the new law has brought upon so many thousands is a stigma which will not always be allowed to remain.

There is yet Justice in the land, and we greatly err if at no distant day the same forceful opinion which once routed Gorman and his cohorts will not again assert itself and cause Right to prevail, and once more place the crown of citizenship upon the heads of those wrongfuily disfranchised.

Accident's Big Normal.

Never before in the history of Garrett county has there been more local interest shown in the schools than is now being displayed in the normal which will convene at Accident on next Monday. Extensive preparations are being made by the citizens of that beautiful village to add to the attractions and comforts of the throng of teachers and others who will brighten its lawns and lanes during the present spring season. The boarding houses have been simply overwhelmed with applicants until now most of the enthusiastic villagers have opened the doors of their private residences for the entertainment at a rate per week lower than ever before. Every day brings more applications and the indications are that the Accident normal wil be the largest and most successful ever held anywhere in the county.

This unexpected demonstration of preference for this Eden of the Alleghanies and the recognition of the rare abilities of a competent teacher has impelled Prof. Sanner to secure, besides the efficient assistance of Prof. Frazee, the services of another assistant, who is a graduate of one of the best colleges in the country. With these three gentlemen to unite their efforts the students will enjoy exceptional benefits from an educational view-point. Arrangements are completed by which any student can receive for his or her own edification special or personal instruction in the higher branches of psychology, mathematics, language and literature, as well as in any particular lower branches preparatory to teaching or entering college. And all this without any additional expense to the students.

Accident is indeed an ideal resort for just such a school. Situated as it is in a quiet dell among the gentle hills of the northern portion of the county, it possesses that charm for the student which the school officials must have recognized when they instituted three normals within a radius of a very few miles. Sufficiently quiet and peaceful for conscientious study and at the same time offering a host of pleasures for recreation.

Croquet and tennis will be among the after-school-hours enjoyments, while the surrounding picturesque country affords ample diversion on Saturdays. Fishing parties, excursions to neighboring villages, delightful rambles through the forests and along the streams, all this mingled with the numerous social and literary events, will serve to refresh the mind and brighten the spirits after a week of diligent study.

A Very Sad Death.

BARTLETT.—Edward Henry Bartlett, elder son of Dr. and Mrs. Edward H. Bartlett, of Oakland, died on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Hotel Randolph, Elkins, West Va., after an illness of four weeks of typhoid fever.

The deceased was born in Arkansas January 24, 1870, and when but a few months old was brought to Oakland by his parents, where they have resided since, and where he grew to manhood, respected, loved and held in his high esteem for the noble traits which characterized him in every action and in the varied positions of trust held by him here and elsewhere. His death, coming in the prime of young manhood, when his life was seemingly just beginning to bud, has cast a distinctive gloom over the entire community and plunged his relatives and friends into mourning and sorrow. The blow to his aged and respected father can only be measured by those who have had a similar experience and no words said here can lighten the weight carried by him and his family. The assurance that the deceased was a true Christian is a solace to his friends and relatives.

He attended the Episcopal High School near Alexandria, Va., several years ago and upon leaving that institution entered the Maryland College of Pharmacy where he graduated with honors on May 15, 1896. Returning to Oakland he was placed in charge of the Oakland Pharmacy and later purchased the drug store at Mountain Lake Park which he successfully managed a number of seasons. He was employed as traveling salesman for a wholesale drug house in Cincinnati during the early part of the present winter and only a few months ago located at Elkins, West Va., as manager for Wm. D. Nydegger in a new store opened at that town, where he contracted typhoid fever resulting in his death. For a number of years he was a vestryman of St. Matthew's Protestant Episcopal church of Oakland and also a member of the Oakland lodge of Knights of Pythias.

At his bedside at the time of his death was gathered his parents and sister, Mrs. James L. Pollock, of Philadelphia. Whilst he had been a great sufferer the dissolution was painless and pathetic. His remains were brought to Oakland yesterday afternoon and conveyed to the family residence on Alder street where they will remain until Saturday morning at 10 o'clock when the funeral service will be held at the Episcopal church by the rector, Rev. Osmond. The interment will be made in the church yard.

Words are inadequate to express our personal feelings of regret over the death of this young man, having known him from boyhood and being associated with him in a social as well as business way and at all times and under all circumstances finding him a true friend, an agreeable companion and a business man of sterling worth and integrity.

May he rest in peace!

Notice.

I will be at Accident within a few days and desire to make settlement with all who are indebted to me. All accounts must be closed at once, otherwise I will be compelled to proceed by law to collect the same.

ELI MCMILLAN.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

OF COD-LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES

should always be kept in the house for the following reasons:

FIRST — Because, if any member of the family has a hard cold, it will cure it.

SECOND — Because, if the children are delicate and sickly, it will make them strong and well.

THIRD — Because, if the father or mother is losing flesh and becoming thin and emaciated, it will build them up and give them flesh and strength.

FOURTH — Because it is the standard remedy in all throat and lung affections.

No household should be without it. It can be taken in summer as well as in winter.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

THE LOCAL TALENT OF OAKLAND

In An Elaborate Production of the Celebrated Comedy-Drama, "Hick'ry Farm."

This beautiful drama will be produced on Friday night, April 12th, in Shartzer's Opera House for the benefit of Smith's Military Band.

As indicated above, this is a drama of New England life, is one of the master pieces of Edwin M. Stern, the celebrated playwright, and much resembles that popular play, "The Old Homestead." A brief synopsis of events will be found below. The members of the caste have been well trained and no pains will be spared to make this the finest amateur performance ever witnessed by the people of Oakland.

THIS IS THE CASTE.

Ezekiel Fortune, a New England Farmer ..... Peter Didtion
Uriah Skinner, a Miser ..... Wallace Mason
Gilbert Darkwood, the Villian ..... C. A. Tower
Jack Nelson ..... Bert Sincell
Lawrence McKeegan, an Alderman from the city ..... Joseph White Detective Rankin ..... Bert Wolfe
Officer ..... William Lawton
Jessie Fortune, pretty and unsophisticated ..... Annie Townshend
Mrs. Priscilla Dodge, a susceptible widow ..... Estell Rasche

SYNOPSIS.

Gilbert Dardwood, a blackleg from the city, discovers that a projected railroad intends erecting a station on Ezekiel Fortune's place, Hickory Farm. As the railroad will pay a large price for the same Darkwood plots with Skinner to obtain title deed, dispossess Fortune and reap the profits of the sale. Skinner steals deed from him. Darkwood then discovers Jessie and that she is the little girl whose head he had turned the preceding winter in the city. He induces her to elope with him. Before leaving he obtains title deed and robs the Mayville Saving Bank, which contains all of Fortune's savings, and casts suspicion of the robbery upon Nelson, who is in love with Jessie. In the second act Darkwood sells Fortune's house over his head. Skinner repents and threatens to expose Darkwood. A New York detective arrives, obtains evidence as to the guilt of Darkwood. Jessie returns. Jack Nelson is cleared of suspicion. The title deed is restored to Fortune. Darkwood is shot by the detective. The love passages of McKeegan and Mrs. Dodge afford a most humorous accompaniment to the drama, which winds up in an old-fashioned country dance.

The Best Blood Purifier.

The blood is constantly being purified by the lungs, liver and kidneys. Keep these organs in a healthy condition and the bowles regular and you will have no need of a blood purifier. For this purpose there is nothing equal to Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, one dose of them will do you more good than a dollar bottle of the best blood purifier. Price, 25 cents. Samples free at all druggists.

Notice.

This is to give notice that my wife, Alice L. Hardesty, has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation and that I will not be responsible for any debts she may contract in my name.

2-3t* HOMER L. HARDESTY,
Deer Park, Md.

Pinehurst and Southern Pines, N. C.—Improved New Through Pullman Service via Seaboard Air Line Railway.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway is now operating through drawing-room sleeping cars from New York to Southern Pines and Washington to Pinehurst, N. C. These famous health and pleasure resorts are model New England towns nestled among the pine-clad sand hills of North Carolina, only eighteen hours from New York City. The finest and largest hotels in the State, with numerous private cottages and first-class boarding houses. Every variety of out door sports, with the finest eighteen hole golf links in the South. Trains leave New York, 23rd Street Station, Pennsylvania railroad, 12.10 a. m. and 12.55 p. m., and Washington 8.35 a. m. and 6.55 p. m. For information and tickets address Chas. L. Longsdorf, New England Passenger Agent, 306 Washington street, Boston, Mass.; J. C. Horton, Eastern Passenger Agent, 1206 Broadway, New York; W. M. McConnell, General Agent, 1434 New York avenue, Washington, D. C., or R. E. L. Bunch, General Passenger Agent, Portsmouth, Va.

Seaboard Air Line Railway to Pinehurst, N. C. Camden, S. C., and all Florida Points.

The FLORIDA AND METROPOLITAN LIMITED and FLORIDA AND ATLANTA FAST MAIL are the finest and fastest trains operated between New York and the famous health resorts of the Carolinas and Florida.

PINEHURST, N. C., is a model New England town, nestled among the pine-clad sand hills of the Old North State, and only eighteen hours from New York, via SEABOARD AIR LINE RAILWAY. It is one of the healthiest and most enjoyable winter resorts in America, with the finest and most palatial hotels and best eighteen hole golf links in the South. Through sleeping cars from Washington, D. C. Passengers from north thereof can take through car by passing from New York Sleeper to Washington and Pinehurst Sleeping Car at Washington.

CAMDEN, S. C., is one of the nearest resorts for northern tourists where they are secure from the cold climate of Northern winters. Besides its fame as a healthful and attractive winter resort, the historic interests connected with the town and locality are most quaint and interesting.

THE HEALTH AND PLEASURE RESORTS OF FLORIDA are too well known to need more than a passing allusion. There you find the most luxurious hotels and most attractive and popular winter resorts in America.

The SEABOARD AIR LINE RAILWAY is positively the shortest and quickest route operating solid vestibuled limited trains, with Pullman's latest improved service, including Dining, Observation and Pullman Compartment Cars, between New York and Florida.

For information and tickets call on or address Chas. L. Longsdorf, New England Passenger Agent, 306 Washington street, Boston, Mass.; J. C. Horton, Eastern Passenger Agent, 1206 Broadway, New York; W. M. McConnell, General Agent, 1434 New York ave., Washington, D. C., or R. E. L. Bunch, General Passenger Agent, Portsmouth, Va.

Notice.

Books are now open at the furniture store of D. E. Bolden & Co., Oakland, to receive subscriptions to the Oakland Furniture Company. Shares of stock will be $10 each.

D. E. BOLDEN.
JOHN AULT,
CHAS. E. OEFUTT.

Receivers' Sale

—Valuable—

Hotel Property!

On APRIL 19, 190 ,

The Loch Lynn Heights Hotel,

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.,

Will be Sold on the Premises at Auction.

The hotel is situated on a beautiful hill near the station of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad between Oakland, Maryland, and the famous Deer Park Hotel.

The Loch Lynn Heights Hotel contains more than 100 rooms, is in good repair, and its situation affords one of the most impressive views in the Allegheny Mountains.

It is situated within one half mile of the Mountain Lake Chautauqua, and affords a fine opportunity for a most successful summer hotel.

SALE ON PREMISES

AT 12 O'CLOCK M., APRIL 19th, 1901.

TERMS:—One-third cash; balance in six and twelve months, with interest.

Lien reserved to secure deferred payments. Private offers before day of sale will be considered.

Address

BIRD M. ROBINSON,
RANDOLPH BARTON,
Receivers of the Baltimore Building and Load Association of Baltimore City,
FIDELITY BUILDING,
Baltimore, Maryland.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

This is to give notice, That the subscribers, of Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

HENRY WARNICK,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 14th day of September next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 12th day of March, 1901.

T. P. WARNICK, Administrator,
Bloomington, Md.

COMMISSIONERS' MEETING.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.
OAKLAND, MD., March 21, 1901.

The Board of County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on

Monday, April 8, 1901,

as required by law, for the purpose of making the 1901 Levy. All persons having accounts for same are requested to file them on or before above date.

By order of the Board.

A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

EXECUTORS' NOTICE.

This is to give notice, That the Subscriber, of Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

ANNIE M. WARD,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 3rd day of October next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 21st day of March, 1901.

GEORGE W. WARD, Executor,
Sunnyside, Md.

ORDER NISI.

Elizabeth C. Thompson et al. vs. Emma D. Hudson et al.

No. 1060 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 26th day of March, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that the sale made and reported by Frederick A. Thayer, trustee, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the nineteenth day of April next; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county aforesaid once in each of three successive weeks before the 19th day of April next.

The report states the amount of sale to be $2,500.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—test:

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Sheriff's License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to all persons or bodies, corporate or politic, who may be required to take out license, that they must obtain the same on or before

THE FIRST DAY OF MAY, 1901.

According to the provisions of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland every person or persons doing business for gain or profit except the maker, grower or manufacturer, are hereby notified that they must take out a license.

A. J. OESTER,
Sheriff of Garrett County.

Sheriff's Sale

OF VALUABLE

REAL ESTATE

In Deer Park, Md.

Under and by virtue of a writ of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, at the suit of M. V. Pringley vs. Samuel W. Friend and F. C. Browning, the same being No. 6 Judicials to March term, 1901, of said Court, and to the undersigned sheriff directed, I will sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, in front of the Court House door, in Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, on the 19th Day of April, 1901,

FRIDAY,

at the hour of 11 o'clock a. m. of day, all that lot, piece or parcel of land situate, lying and being in the town of Deer Park, Garrett county, Maryland, which was conveyed to the said Samuel W. Friend by Lucy Perry by deed recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 38, folio 260, and is known as

LOT NO. 2

and contained within the following metes and bounds, courses and distances, to-wit: Beginning for the same at the end of the 3rd line of Lot No. 3 and running thence North 30 degrees East 118 feet, South 60½ degrees East 92 feet, South 30 degrees West 118 feet, North 60½ degrees West 90 feet to the beginning.

Terms of Sale:—Cash on the day of sale.

A. J. OESTER, Sheriff.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

LOCAL AND OTHERWISE

Incidents and Events at Home and Nearby —Personal Mention, Etc.

KRAMER WAGONS are the best.

Winter lingers long in the lap of Spring.

Bed Room Suites--Twenty-five left. Will be sold cheap. OFFUTT'S.

Mr. J. L. Pollock, of Philadelphia, arrived in Oakland yesterday morning.

Mrs. Hurster, of Cincinnati, Ohio, was in Oakland a few days last week the guest of Mrs. Bowie Johnson.

John Felty, Jr., has the cheapest line of wall paper in town. Call and examine it.

Mr. E. L. Mitchell returned to Oakland on Saturday night from a business trip in the east.

KRAMER WAGONS sold on easy terms. Write or call for prices. 4 2t OFFUTT'S.

Mrs. Chas A. Tower, went to Cumberland on Friday last to visit her mother and returned home yesterday.

Misses Margaret Townshend and Ethel Porter went to Cumberland on Saturday last to visit their aunt, Mrs. Alvin Getty.

State Senator Ravenscroft arrived in Oakland Saturday from Annapolis and drove down to his home at Accident the same afternoon.

Mrs. C. F. White, of Hutton, spent last Thursday in Oakland the guest of her parents, Capt. and Mrs. J. M. Jarboe.

Lloyd Lowndes, Jr., of Cumberland, spent Sunday in Oakland with friends and left on train No. 55 for Chillicothe, O., to visit relatives for a few days.

Harper Bartlett came home from Clarksburg Tuesday afternoon. He will return to the above place in a few days.

The milliners of Oakland are experiencing a dull Easter trade on account of the highly disagreeable weather which has been prevailing for several days past.

Communion services will be held in St. Mark's Ev. Lutheran church in Oakland Sunday morning. The Easter services by the Sunday school will be held Sunday evening.

The Easter Ball by the Batchelor's Club which was to have been given on the night of the 10th inst. at the Glades Hotel has been indefinitely postponed.

The Easter trade in cut flowers being now experienced by Messrs. H. Weber & Sons has never been so heavy, although prices have advanced considerably over last year. The quality has also advanced.

The continued bad weather has induced both Prof. Sanner and Prof. DeWitt to add an additional week to the Normal term, therefore eleven weeks will constitute the term and this without any extra charge in the tuition.

FOR SALE:—The Lutheran parsonage, located on the corner of Fifth and Green streets, in Oakland, near the court house. Contains 8 rooms, hallway, cellar and porches; excellent well of water. Will be sold cheap. Apply to or address Rev. George I. Uhler, Oakland, Md.

At the recent session of the Central Pennsylvania Conference which closed its session Tuesday evening Rev. L. A. Rudisill, who has been a supernumerary member of the Conference for several years, was made effective and appointed as superintendent of Mountain Lake Park. This is a compliment to Mr. Rudisill.

Yesterday morning the people of Oakland were surprised when they awoke to find several inches of snow covering the ground, trees, shrubbery, etc. The snow clung to everything it touched and the scene presented was most beautiful. The snow continued to fall at a pretty lively rate all day and at night six inches or more was upon the ground.

The Progressive Euchre club was entertained by Misses Margaret and Gertie Sincell at their home on Liberty street last Thursday night it being the last meeting of the club for this year. Most all of its members were present and a most enjoyable time was had. Mrs. Chas. A. Tower, Miss Belle Jarboe, Messrs. P. H. Veitch and H. C. Sincell being the most successful players, took the prizes.

Attorneys D. James Blackliston and James W. Thomas, of Cumberland, were here last Thursday selling the Swan Meadows farm and the opera house. The farm was purchased by S. J. Lichty, of Midland, Va., formerly a resident of this county, for $10.40 per acre. The opera house was purchased by Andrew Shartzer. The bidding on the farm land was spirited, a number of persons being anxious to possess it, among them being Mr. Percy Procter.

Lent closes Saturday.

WANTED.—A girl to do general housework. Apply at this office.

MATTINGS--Largest line and lowest prices at Offutt's. 4 2t

H. H. Dill, Esq., general agent for the Garrett estate, was in Oakland yesterday on business.

John Felty, Jr., has the cheapest line of wall paper in town. Call and examine it.

Mr. Austin Brown, who has been down at Friendsville, his old home, returned to Oakland Tuesday night.

Dr. S. M. Hardman, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, Grafton, W. Va. Spectacles and artificial eyes fitted.

Deputy Sheriff James Chisholm, of near Gormania, was in the city Monday on business.

Fifty styles 10, 15 and 20 cent Torschon lace at Sincell & Co.'s for 5c per yard.

Do not buy Mowers, Binders, etc., that you will have trouble to get repairs for. Buy the McCormick and get the best. Naylor has them 4 3*

Mr. Charles Anderson returned home from Baltimore on Monday after having spent two weeks in that city on pleasure.

Miss Margaret Browning, of Thayerville, is in Oakland this week the guest of her sister, Mrs. R. K. Maroney.

It is rumored that Messrs. Smith & McKinney, of Fairmont, will purchase the Loch Lynn Hotel and place Mrs. List in charge.

Harland Jones, the gentlemanly son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott T. Jones, is home from Wheeling to spend the Easter holidays.

Mr. Clarence Lantz, of Aurora, W. Va., passed through Oakland Sunday evening on his way home from Washington where he had been for some time on a pleasure trip.

Merchant W. C. Jones, of Deer Park, stopped off at Oakland Tuesday night on his way home from a visit to his old home in Pennsylvania, where he had spent a week or ten days.

Dixon & Kelso will sell you the famous Oliver Chilled Plow cheaper than ever. All kinds of reapers constantly on hand. Good spring-tooth harrows also for sale cheap. Two cars phosphate to arrive about April 1st. 3 2t*

The District Meeting for the Western District of Maryland, German Baptist Brethren church, will be held on May 3rd, in Georges Creek church, near Lonaconing. Rev. J. W. Beeghly, of Accident, is the secretary of the District.

Considerable comment has been indulged in by our citizens recently over the disposition of railroad firemen to refrain from ringing the bells on their locomotives while passing through town. If there is an ordinance compelling the ringing of the bells it should be rigidly enforced and if there is none one should be immediately enacted.

Three tramps were arrested on Friday night last by a Baltimore & Ohio detective and one of the Piedmont officers at a point near Bloomington. They were brought to Oakland and a charge of tampering with the wires of the Western Union Telegraph Company was preferred against them. They were tried Monday on the charge before Justice Gonder, who sentenced them to serve a term of thirty days each in the county jail.

A big force of men and a steam shovel are being utilized in widening the small cut just west of Mountain Lake Park so as to enable the operating of the new type of engines which will soon be placed in commission on this section of the Baltimore & Ohio. A great many persons have visited the point from Oakland to watch the shovel at work. It is a wonderful machine, moving tons of earth in a remarkably short time which is loaded upon cars and hauled away.

Mr. Scott T. Jones has been exhibiting a commendable spirit for the welfare of the town by circulating a petition and subscription paper asking the Town Council to continue the paving of Second street as far as the corner of Liberty. Yesterday afternoon nearly all the property owners embraced in the block between Alder and Liberty signed the paper pledging themselves to pay $1 per front foot for the paving, the town at large paying the balance. Definite action on the matter will be taken Monday night at a special meeting of the council. It is the desire of the property owners along the street who are the most vitally interested that the work be commenced and finished before the summer is upon us, otherwise they will be opposed to the improvement at this time, preferring that it be put off until fall, or after the busy season.

For rough and stumpy ground get the McCormick vertical bar mower.

Elliott C. Harvey, of District No. 8, was in the city Saturday on business.

KRAMER WAGONS are the best. Sold exclusively by Offutt's. 2t

Mr Percy H. Veitch, of Washington, was in Oakland last week for a few days.

John Felty, Jr., has the cheapest line of wall paper in town. Call and examine it.

Mr. John Shartzer returned from a trip to Washington, D. C., on Sunday morning.

Go to Cheap John's, next to furniture store, for your Easter goods, toys, fruits, candies, etc. 1t

Mrs. Kate Mauldin has returned to Oakland after having spent two weeks with relatives and friends in Washington.

Lloyd Sanner, one of the Oakland "terriers," had the misfortune one day last week to mash his foot and is now walking with a cane.

A party of gentlemen from New York City was here Tuesday looking at Monte Vista with a view of purchasing it from Dr. King.

If tronbled by a weak digestion, loss of appetite, or constipation, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Every box warranted. For sale by all druggists.

Mrs. C. F. Schroeder and children, of Grafton, spent a few days this week in Oakland as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Peddicord and Mr. and Mrs. George O. Miller.

The Easter services in the churches of Oakland Sunday promise to be quite interesting, special programs having been prepared for the occasion. Sunday evening the services will be held in both the Methodist and Lutheran churches.

The new "Mecca," the shrine of the Caaba, has been removed and all teachers who wish to find it are invited to attend the Oakland Normal, where boarding may be procured as cheap or even cheaper than at Accident, and besides the county's capital affords many advantages and attractions that cannot be found at the former Mecca. 1t*

The immense quantities of lime which have been brought to Oakland by rail and hauled to farming lands near by this spring is something surprising and has made the sale of chemically prepared fertilizers dull. Lime is the best fertilizer and our farmer friends appreciate the fact, hence the quantity used by them.

The weather man has not treated the busy housewives with any great degree of consideration in sending upon them a storm of the magnitude of the one now raging and in the midst, too, of housecleaning when the burdens are nearly doubled and the man of the house is forced to eat anything set before him and in many instances eat that at a table pushed into a dark corner of the kitchen. Those who have started the annual jumble of carpets, curtains, stoves, etc., have been forced to suspend operations until some more propitious time.

Persons renting postoffice boxes after April 1 must agree to the following prohibitions laid down by the Postoffice Department at Washington: "All renters of lock boxes and drawers at postoffices throughout the country are prohibited from using keys not regularly obtained by themselves from their respective postmasters, and after April 1st each postmaster shall inform the renters of boxes and drawers that all except regular manufacturers of postoffice furniture and fixtures are enjoined from making or causing to be made any key or appliance for unlocking or opening any lock box or drawer in a postoffice."

Will Retire as Cashier.

Mr. U. G. Palmer, of the First National Bank, has addressed a letter to the stockholders of the bank tendering his resignation as its cashier. His retirement is made necessary owing to the press of business interests in the Enterprise Tanning Company at Hutton which will require his entire time. In severing his connection as cashier of the bank Mr. Palmer still retains his interest and will continue as one of the Board of Directors.

New Star Router.

George Giessman, Esq., has received from the Post Office Department at Washington his commission as mail carrier between this point and Accident. The compensation Mr. Giessman is to receive for the service is $750 per year, an increase of $350 per year over the price now paid. He will assume his duties July 1st. Two other bids for the service were submitted to the department, one at $1,000 and the other at $800.

Episcopal Church Services.

Holy Thursday—Communion service, 7.30 p. m.

Easter Sunday—Morning service, 11 a. m.

Easter Monday—Vestry meeting, 11 a. m.

Easter Service at New Germany.

There will be Easter service at the Trinity Reformed church, New Germany, Md., on Easter Sunday, April 7, at 3 o'clock p. m. Everybody is cordially invited. C. J. OTTO.

NEW COUNCIL TAKES CHARGE.

Mayor Hart Makes Some New Appointments. President Little Reelected.

The new Town Council organized Monday evening in the city council chamber by the re-election of Thomas Little as president of the body. Mr. John C. Dunham was retained as clerk.

Mayor Hart submitted his message to the council in which he made some suggestions as to the management of the town's affairs, and also appointed the following officers who were at once confirmed by the council:

Attorney, G. S. Hamill; night policeman, R. Harry West; day policeman, Jeremiah Stanton; tax collector, Wm. R. Offutt; treasurer A. T. Matthews; police magistrate, A. B. Gonder.

The Mayor, in his message, recommended the extension of the street paving down Second street as far as the bridge at the intersection of Liberty street.

Mr. Edwin L. Mitchell, one of the new members of the council, asked that an auditing committee be appointed to audit the books of the tax collector and that a committee be also appointed to inspect the platforms. No other business of importance was transacted.

Call For Your Letters.

Mrs. John Lohr, Miss Laura Worthcraft, Miss Sadie Weimer, Mr. A. W. DeWitt, Mr. R. Gant, Mr. R. Roy, Mr. J. C. Shaw, Mr. C. B. Ward, Mr. Geo. W. Shartzer.

Spring Opening!

Wednesday and Thursday, March 27 and 28.

Millinery, Fancy Goods, Hosiery, Notions, Ladies' and Children's Fine Shoes.

American Lady Corsets

in the Straight Front and various new shapes.

MRS. M. L. SCOTT.
Baltimore Store.

Financial Statement.

Annual report of the receipts and disbursements of the Corporation of Oakland for the year ending March 31st, 1901:

RECEIPTS.

Bal. in hand Treas. March 31, 1900		$18 21
Late Collector Hinebaugh, taxes, 1896		31 41
Same, taxes, 1897		278 59
Same, taxes, 1898		44 14
J. M. Crim, collector, taxes, 1899		945 26
Same, collector, taxes, 1900		2,790 78
Licenses from all sources		1,285 00
Garrett county levy		600 00
Fines by police magistrate, &c		30 00
Judgment case, Hyde vs. Council		24 10
Rent town scales		30 00
Total		$6,077 49

DISBURSEMENTS.

Election expenses	$13 60
Electric lights	1,549 10
Printing	53 71
Fire department rent, &c	65 00
Collectors' commissions and assessments	101 66
Int. coupons and int. on drafts	552 55
Police protection	869 01
Paid on previous indebtedness	1,440 98
Streets, lumber, paving, &c	578 93
Clerk and councilmen's salary	186 00
Mayor's salary	50 00
Town lockup, chairs, coal and repairs	41 84
Fee bills and costs	34 11
Blacksmithing	12 10
Treasurer	25 00
		$5,513 59
Bal. in hands of Treasurer		$563 90

LIABILITIES.

Bonded indebtedness to April 1, 1901	$13,000 00
Int. due on same to April 1, 1901	200 00
Outstanding unpaid drafts	641 32
Total	$13,841 32

ASSETS.

Unpaid taxes for 1897-98	$503 43
Unpaid taxes for 1899-90	1,579 85
Unpaid platform bills	436 79
Bal. in hands of Treasurer	563 90
		$3,083 97
Net indebtedness		$10,757 35
By real estate		$800 00
By fire engine		800 00

JOHN W. HART, Mayor.
Test: J. C. DUNHAM, Clerk.

ORDER NISI.

Samuel Smith vs. John Shartzer et ux.

No. 1095 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered this 28th day of March, in the year nineteen hundred and one, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in Equity, that the sale made and reported in the above cause by James W. Thomas, attorney, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 29th day of April, 1901; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county once a week for three successive weeks before the 29th day of April, 1901.

The report states the amount of sale to be $7436.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

ORDER NISI.

Thomas B. Wiley, late Treasurer of Garrett County, vs. Sylvester Rinard.

No. 77 Miscellaneous Docket, March Term, 1901. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 18th day of March, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Md., that the sale of the real estate mentioned in these proceedings made and reported by Thomas B. Wiley, late Treasurer of Garrett county, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 19th day of April, next; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 19th day of April next.

The report states the amount of sale to be $53.60.

A. HUNTER BOYD.

True copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

WILLIAM R. OFFUTT,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
OFFICE UPSTAIRS IN RAVENSCROFT BUILD'G.

Loans negotiated and Collections promptly made.
Practices in Courts of Maryland, West Virginia and Court of Appeals of Maryland.

Big Opening!

CONNELL & CRANE

have just returned from the East with the finest and largest line of

MILLINERY

ever brought to Oakland; also a complete line of Notions, Fancy Goods, etc.

Opening MONDAY and TUESDAY, APRIL 1st and 2nd. Low prices and work guaranteed to please.

Turnbull's

China and Japan Mattings, all weaves and colorings.
Porch and Lawn Furniture,
Iron and Brass Bedsteads,
Linoleums and Oil Cloths,
Carpetings.

JOHN TURNBULL, JR., & COMPANY,
16, 18, 20 West Baltimore Street,
BALTIMORE

Accident
Normal Academy
Opens April 8th.
Continues in Session Ten Weeks.

The objects of this school will be:

1st. To produce efficiency in the branches taught in the Public Schools, and to give such instruction in the higher branches as will be required to enter higher institutions of learning.

2nd. To prepare teachers for the Public Schools, giving special instruction in the Theory and Practice of teaching to all wishing to engage in that work.

Special attention will be given to classes in Book-keeping, Business Laws, Correspondence and Psychology.

Tuition, $6.00 for Teachers, one-half payable in advance, balance middle of term; others, $5 00.

It is or object to make the school a success. We therefore solicit the influence of all friends of education.

Good boarding at very low rates.

For further information apply to

R. R. SANNER or
GEORGE B. FRAZEE.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE
—OF—
REAL ESTATE
In Garrett County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage from Jemima Mowrey to Isaac Bradburn, dated the 12th day of August, 1899, recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 35, folio 298, &c., one of the mortgage records of Garrett county, Maryland, default having been made in the payment of the mortgage debt and interest, the undersigned attorney named in said mortgage will, on Saturday, April 20th, 1901,

at one o'clock p. m., in front of Shartzer's Opera House, Oakland, Maryland, offer for sale at public auction, all that land situate in Garrett county, Maryland, which was conveyed to the said Jemima Mowrey by Charles M. Miller and wife by deed dated the 25th day of July, 1894, recorded among the land records of said county in Liber E. Z. T. No. 26, folio 319, &c., and therein described as follows, to-wit: Beginning at a large flat stone marked "R. O." at the beginning of a tract of land conveyed by Joseph R. Anderson to Alex. Lohr, and running part of the first line thereof with an allowance of 3 degrees for magnetic declination, North 33 degrees East 14¾ perches to a stake and stone pile in said first line, South 35 degrees East 38½ perches to a stake and stone pile on the west margin of the county road, North 89 degrees West 14⅜ perches, South 13½ degrees East 50 perches to a stake on the west bank of a stream and 5 feet south of a white pine stump, South 48 degrees West 38 perches to a stake, South 28½ degrees West 100 perches to a stake, thence with the 4th, 5th and 6th lines of a tract conveyed by Joseph R. Anderson to Alfred Lohr North 66 degrees West 78 perches to a stake, North 13½ degrees West 82½ perches, North 35½ degrees East 45½ perches to a stake in the 4th line of said deed to said Alexander Lohr and thence with the 4th and last lines thereof South 58 degrees East 78 perches to a stake, North 33 degrees East 88 perches to the beginning, containing 100 Acres, More or Less.

This farm is a desirable one, located near Beckman P. O., Garrett county, and about six miles from Swanton.

Terms of Sale:--CASH.

D. LINDLEY SLOAN,
Attorney named in Mortgage.

Money to Loan.

$7,000 to loan on first mortgage in in sums to suit upon town property or nearby farms.

EDWARD H. SINCELL.

CHAS. L. PETTIS & CO
CASH
Produce Buyers,
Dressed Poultry, Game, Furs, Eggs and Butter,
204 DUANE STREET
NEW YORK.
Write for Our Present Paying Prices.

LAND FOR SALE!

I am now offering for sale in large or small quantities, 31,000 acres of a tract known as "Swanton," and better known as the "Anderson lands," situated in Garrett County, Md. This land is well timbered and underlaid with many valuable veins of mineral; also suitable for farming purposes and grazing.

All trespassing will be prosecuted to the ullest extent of the law.

Call on or address:
C. A. WILT, Agent.

Illinois Central R. R.

PERSONALLY CONDUCTED EXCURSIONS TO CALIFORNIA
VIA NEW ORLEANS
AND THE SOUTHERN ROUTE.

VIA OMAHA
AND THE SCENIC ROUTE.
NEW THROUGH LINE OF
HOT SPRINGS, ARK.
BY WAY OF MEMPHIS.
E. A. RICHTER, T. P. A.
812 Park Building, Pittsburg, Pa.
A. H. HANSON, Gen. Pass. Agt., CHICAGO.

$900 YEARLY to Christian man or woman to look after our growing business in this and adjoining counties, to act as Manager and Correspondent; work can be done at your home. Enclose self-addressed stamped envelope for particulrs to U. A. KNIGHT, General Manager, Corcoran Building, opposite United States Treasury, Washington, D. C.

VALUABLE
REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.

183⅓ acres coal land on Youghiogheny river, 7 miles north of Oakland.

The Andrews property in Oakland for sale.

House on 5th street, opposite the jail for sale.

A farm one mile from Oakland, containing 187½ acres; about 50 or 60 acres cleared and under cultivation; has been thoroughly limed. Balance of land well timbered. On this farm is one of the best dwelling houses in the county; also stables, wagon sheds, spring house and all necessary outbuildings; water within five feet of kitchen door. This property will be sold cheap.

New house containing eight rooms, cellar, etc., and 26⅔ acres of ground; barn, stable, and all other outbuildings, adjoining the town of Grantsville, Garrett county. This property is known as the Samuel J. Beachy property, and will be sold cheap.

A farm five miles from Oakland on the Aurora road, containing 200 acres, well watered, fenced, etc.; a good dwelling house, a new barn built last year cost $1,000, and all other necessary outbuildings. This property will be sold on easy terms.

A farm 2½ miles southwest of Oakland, containing ninety acres of ground, well watered and fenced; has been thoroughly limed, and is under a high state of cultivation. First-class dwelling house; new bank barn put up this year; stone spring house and all other necessary outbuildings. One hundred and twenty-five bearing fruit trees of choicest variety. This farm can be bought on easy terms.

A farm five and two-third miles north of Swanton, containing one hundred and ten acres of land, comparatively level, well watered and under fence; eighty acres cleared and under a high state of cultivation; twenty-five acres of good timber; an orchard which never fails to produce fruit, consisting of peaches, pears, plums and apple trees. The buildings on this farm consist of an elegant dwelling house, containing six rooms and a cellar; a bank barn 40x60 feet; a spring house and all necessary outbuildings. This farm can be bought for part cash and balance on time to suit purchaser.

A farm known as the "Swanger Mill Property," containing eighty-six acres of land, partly cleared and balance in hemlock timber. The buildings consist of a dwelling house, small storehouse, a water-power grist mill, staole and all other necessary outbuildings. Besides being well watered by a stream running from one end of the place to the other it has on it a lake, covering about seven acres, which has been stocked with 40,000 brook and rain bow trout. This property can be bought at a low figure, part cash and balance on time, to suit purchaser, at five per cent. interest.

I have also houses to rent and sell in the town of Oakland.

For further particulars apply to

JOHN T. SINCELL,
Real Estate and Insurance Agent.
OAKLAND, MD.

Danger Signals.

If you are broken down, nervous and weak, have indigestion, cold hands and feet palpitation of heart, aching of bones and muscles or can't sleep at night and always tired in the morning, buy 3 or 4 boxes of HERCULEANS and follow the directions, then tell your afflicted friends the result. There is no better alterative pill compounded. They will renovate and renew your whole system. Get them of your druggist or merchant or send 35 cents to the AHMISS HEALTH ALLIANCE, Mt. Lake Park, Md. 3 Boxes by mail $1.00 5-1 y.

Real Estate NOTICES!

For Rent--

House on Water Street, Oakland.
The Whitehead Cottage, Mt. Lake Park.
Thorn Cottage, near Oakland.
Offices in Ravenscroft Building, Oakland.

For Sale--

Three Houses in Oakland.
Thorn Cottage, near Oakland.
Lots at Loch Lynn Heights.
Hotel Property, Deer Park.
Farms in the County.

Apply to

JULIUS C. RENNINGER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
13⅜ OAKLAND, MD.

A WILL AND A WAY.

By WRIGHT A. PATTERSON.

"BEFORE you talk to me about marrying my daughter, young man, develop some of the prospects you talk about. Prospects are well enough in their way, but undeveloped ones will never keep a family."

"But, sir, your daughter loves me, and can you not give me some more definite answer to my suit; something in which I can place more hope of a final consummation of our wishes?"

"No. Again I say, develop the prospects of which you talk so glibly before you talk to me of marriage with my daughter. In the future, until they are developed, I must inform you that my house will be closed to you."

"Is that—"

"Nothing more. I have no time for this kind of nonsense. If the girl loves you, it will not hurt her to wait until your so-called prospects are in better condition than they are at present. Good day."

The conversation had taken place in the elegant private office of a wealthy banker. Edward Chalmers, the suitor for the hand of Banker Noyes' daughter, had been known to the wealthy man since boyhood. He had gone to school with the banker's daughter, Margie, until the girl had reached the age where her father thought the public schools beneath the dignity of his house. The two children had loved each other ever since the days when they made mud pies together or dug holes in the sand along the shore of the lake. When she had reached a "coming out" age she had gone into society—a society which he could not enter, but through it all she remained true to the promise made in her girlhood days—that Edward and Edward only would she marry.

Edward Chalmers left the public schools at 18. The first work that he had found was as a clerk in a railroad office, but the labor was uncongenial, and he failed to advance in it after two years of trial. His ambition was a place on the staff of a daily newspaper. He knew one or two young reporters, and the life they led appealed to his fancy. But it was not until he had passed 22 that he was offered an opportunity to realize his ambition. He was given a chance as a "space writer" or "emergency reporter" on one of the city dailies. From a financial standpoint it was not much of a situation, but when the eight dollars that he earned the first week was increased to ten the second, and twelve the third, he felt that his rising prospects warranted his speaking to Margie's father.

But Margie's father knew more of the newspaper business than did the young suitor for the girl's hand in marraige. He had at one time been appointed receiver for a bankrupt newspaper, and had investigated the pay rolls to some extent at that time. In his estimation the newspaper man made, at the best, but a precarious living, and then, too, he had other plans for his daughter besides seeing her married to a beggarly newspaper reporter who could give her neither fame nor fortune. And so it came about that the young man was unceremoniously dismissed.

"Extra paper, here! All 'bout the big bank failure!"

The cry went from one end of the great city to the other as rapidly as enterprising newsboys could travel. The news the extra contained traveled even faster than the newsboys. Telephone and telegraph lines were brought into use to transmit the message to interested parties that the banking house of Noyes & Co. had failed to open its doors. People poured out of the homes, stores and factories, and gathered about the bank building. They were depositors; men and women whose savings had been carried there to be saved for them; men and women whose greatest interest in life seemed now to be locked behind those closed doors. Rapidly the crowd grew until there were hundreds of people standing in the cold about the great building. Rumor followed rumor through the crowd. The heavy doors opened and a boy came out. He was but a young clerk, and could have known but little of the affairs of the bank. He said nothing as he pushed his way through the mass of despondent humanity. The failure of the bank meant loss of employment to him, and the gloom on his face was transferred to every other face in all the great struggling crowd.

"They say it's a bad 'un," said one man to a little woman beside him. "Don't suppose we will ever git anything."

In the announcement of the failure in the late afternoon papers was the statement that the bankrupt banker would say nothing for publication. There was not an afternoon paper in the city that contained a line from him.

The morning dailies, attempting to profit by the failure of their afternoon contemporaries, were making every possible effort to secure the desired interview. Three of the best men on the staff of the morning Times had tried and failed. The banker had denied every newspaper man an interview. He had nothing to say to the press.

"We've got to get that interview with Noyes," said the city editor of the Times when the last of the three men to whom he had given the assignment reported failure. "Is there anyone on the staff who knows him personally?"

"I do," said Chalmers. "I live in the same suburb with him, have been in his home hundreds of times, and interviewed him on an important personal subject about one month ago."

"Can you see him?" asked the city editor.

"I can try," replied Chalmers.

"Can you get him to talk if you see him."

"I think I can."

"It is 10:30 now. It will take an hour for you to get to his house, for he is at home. If you can get anything, put it on the wire. Don't try to get back with it if the telegraph office is open."

Chalmers jumped for his coat and hat, and made for the door.

"I'll put you on a salary if you succeed," shouted the city editor after him, as he rushed out of the door of the "city room."

To Chalmers that promise was sufficient inducement. He would have made Banker Noyes talk if he had had to do so at the point of a revolver. He knew the house of the banker as well as he knew his own. He knew just where the bankrupt man slept; he knew the manner in which the double entrance doors in the front of the house opened.

During the ride of an hour to the suburb in which the banker lived, Chalmers did some rapid thinking, and by the time he reached the house he was prepared for his campaign. He was a small man, and he intended taking advantage of his size and the darkness of the night.

Arriving at the house, he rang the front door bell, and in a moment a voice from the second-story window demanded to know what he wanted.

"Got a message for you," replied Chalmers, impersonating a telegraph messenger boy, and keeping well in the dark so that he could not be seen.

"Stick it under the door," said the banker.

"Can't do it," replied Chalmers. "Got to give it to you personally, and get your receipt on the book."

It was a cold night in the middle of January, but so anxious was the banker to get that message that he did not stop to dress, or to call anyone to get it for him, but went to the door at once in his night clothes.

Chalmers heard the inside door open and pulling his ulster more closely around him, so as to avoid being recognized until the proper moment, he stepped back from the outside door. He knew there was a spring lock on the inside door, and that if the banker had to step far enough away from it to open the outside door, the chances were it would swing to behind him, and so cut off his retreat. He heard the inside door open, and then, as the outside door opened, he heard the one inside close with a snap. Instantly he stepped onto the doorstep and inside, closing the outside door behind him, and stood with his back against it.

"Where is that message?" asked Noyes, shivering in the cold air of the vestibule.

"It's a verbal one," replied Chalmers. "I want to know something about the condition of your bank. The receipt for the message will be an exhaustive answer to that question."

"What are you doing here?" demanded the banker. He recognized the voice of the reporter, though it was too dark to distinguish his features, the only light being a faint glimmer through the transom.

"Developing my prospects," replied Chalmers.

"You are taking a scoundrel's advantage of me."

"Whatever it is, I must insist on an answer to my question, as I have still another one to ask."

"I have nothing to say."

"But I think you have," and Chalmers opened the door behind him and let in another batch of the January air.

After an argument of some ten minutes, with repeated doses of 20-below-zero atmosphere administered to the scantily dressed banker, who could neither get back into the house nor to the bell outside, the desired information was forthcoming.

"And now," said Chalmers, "that you have given me a satisfactory answer to that question, do you think that my prospects have been developed sufficiently to warrant you in giving me any encouragement about that little matter which we discussed in your office a few weeks ago?"

"My daughter shall never marry any beggarly newspaper reporter," snapped the banker.

"Oh, I don't know," said Chalmers. "As for that, I guess you can't do much better than I can just now. According to your own statement you have not a dollar in the world, and enough personal paper out to keep you poor the remainder of your life. As for me, I have enough to start housekeeping on in a small way, and for this night's work I am to go on the staff salary list. Some people are worse off financially than I am; you, for instance."

"Look here, young man, do you know that you are giving me a cold sufficient to kill a stronger man by keeping me here?"

"I won't detain you a moment after you have given me a satisfactory answer to my last question."

"Well, then, take her, if she will have you, but never ask me for a cent; I won't give it to you if you are starving."

"Thanks," said Chalmers, and he was out of the door and off to the telegraph office, stopping only long enough to give the bell button a hard push.

The next morning's Times had the only interview with the bankrupt banker. Chalmers said nothing as to how he had gotten it, and when he married the ex-banker's daughter some two months later every newspaper man in the city said it was the daughter's influence that had given the "emergency reporter" the inside track at the opportune time.—Radford Review.

A Foolish Young Man.

Mother—Why, dear, what's the matter?

Daughter—Geo—George asked me if he could—ki—kiss me.

"Well, my dear, George is a very nice young man, and we all know that he is very much in love with you."

"Ye—y-e-s, but when he went and—and asked me, of course I had to be indignant and say "n-o." Boo, hoo, hoo! —N. Y. Weekly.

Then the Earth Yawned.

Mr. Le Jecks—Well, Miss Coldcash, I suppose you received a good many birthday cards?

Miss Coldcash (sweetly)—Oh, yes; and there was one particularly dainty and artistic. I am sure it came from you.

Mr. Le Jecks (delighted)—What makes you think so?

Miss Coldcash—Because I sent it to you on your last birthday.—Tit-Bits.

Easy to Avoid It.

"I don't see what there is so objectionable about the custom of giving tips," said the mean man. "So long as it is the practice to give the tip only after the service is performed a waiter never knows what to expect, and one can get along very comfortably and very cheaply by merely changing restaurants every day."—Chicago Post.

Extremes.

The man who never stops to think
Through haste is oft bereft.
The man who stops to think too long
Stands round till he gets left.
—Washington Star.

MAKING MATTERS WORSE.

He—Ah! What a beautiful creature!

She—Sir! How dare you!

He—Excuse me, madam! I referred only to the dog!—Der Dorfbarbier.

An Icy Day.

A-tripping down the street she sped,
Across the wintry sleet;
I found it hard to keep my head
As 'twas to keep my feet.
—Washington Star.

Then She Had to Explain.

"How does it come," she asked, "that you haven't named any of your sons after a great man? You have no George Washington or Henry Clay or U. S. Grant in your family, have you?"

"N-no," he answered, "but you know our oldest boy is named after me."—Chicago Times-Herald.

That Boy Again.

Mrs. Bilkins (sweetly)—Do have another piece of cake, Cousin John.

Cousin John—Why, really, I've already had two; but it's so good I believe I will have another.

Little Johnnie (excitedly)—Ma's a winner! Ma's a winner! She said she'd bet you'd make a pig of yourself!—Brooklyn Life.

Infantile Pessimism.

Aunt Emma—Well, Mary, I haven't seen you for a long time. I hear that you have a little sister at your house. I suppose she cries sometimes?

Little Mary—Cries? Well, I should say she does! Why, I never saw anyone who appeared to look on the dark side of things as she does!—Puck.

The Parts Were Lost.

Hotel Man (who thinks he is calling down his butcher)—Say, I am shy a heart and a liver, eight ribs and a shoulder. Now, I want 'em right away.

Railway Office (which has been connected by mistake)—Sorry, sir; but the wreck has been cleared up.—Baltimore American.

The Meditative Girl.

Her eyes were dreamy and it gave
His jealous heart a shock;
But she mused not on other men—
Her thoughts were of a frock.
—Chicago Record.

LOOKS VERY SUSPICIOUS.

"That horrid Maud has been gossiping about me."

"Why, how do you know?"

"She kissed me twice when we met to-day."—Fliegende Blaetter.

He Was Tender.

"Miss Goldby flattahed me vewy much yestahday," said Freddie Hayrebrane.

"Indeed?"

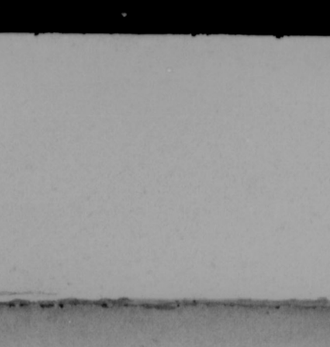
"Ya-as. She told me that when I came out on the stage in ouah pwivate theatwicals I looked good enough to eat."

"Well, that is substantially what she remarked to me. She said your face was like a boiled lobster."—Leslie's Weekly.

Life's Mystery.

We come into the world, not knowing why
And many of us merely sit about
Until the time arrives for us to die,
Instead of pitching in and finding out.
—Chicago Times-Herald.

POOR HENRY.



Young Wife—You must taste this cake, Henry; the cook book says it's excellent.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Lest Men Forget.

Why sit mourning over troubles?
Grieving cannot clear away;
Things, alas, are far from perfect,
But they might be worse to-day;
Deadly germs keep multiplying,
War and want are with us yet—
But the coon song's gone! Be joyful,
Lest men forget—lest men forget!
—Chicago Times-Herald.

Bright Little Polly.

"Polly, dear, suppose I were to shoot at a tree with five birds on it, and kill three, how many would there be left?"

Polly (aged six)—Three, please.

Teacher—No; two would be left.

Polly—No, there wouldn't. The three shot would be left and the other two would be flied away.—Tit-Bits.

R-r-retribution.

"They have twins at that house across the street."

"I am glad of it."

"Why, what difference does it make to you?"

"The man who lives there is the same man who used to wake me at five o'clock every Sunday morning last summer with his infernal lawn mower."—Chicago Tribune.

Sole and Heel.

They were reading the old man's will.

"You are the sole heir," said the attorney, addressing the daughter.

The local wit chuckled and said:

"Who got the heel?"

"I did," spoke up Perry Rosette. "I used to call on the daughter."—Chicago Daily News.

From Our Own Omar.

You walk the floor at night and fret—but wait!
The one you carry will as sure as Fate,
Walk with his child, e'en as your father did—
Relentless Time avenges soon or late!
—Chicago Times-Herald.

STICKLER FOR GOOD GRAMMAR.

Guest—Can you give me a room and a bath?

Clerk—I can give you a room, but I'm too busy to bathe you just now.—Fun.

To Reach Man's Heart.

O woman, if seeker
Your way to gain
O'er man, the weaker,
The means are plain;
Would you be able
Vain man to rule,
The dinner table
Let be your school.
You need no ballot
To win your part;
Just tickle his palate—
You touch his heart.
—Good Housekeeping.

Up in the Air.

"What sort of a fellow is Sweldup?"

"Well, he's one of those fellows that you can never convince that 'there's plenty of room at the top.'"

"Pessimistic, eh?"

"Not at all, but he thinks he's there already, and that he occupies all the space."—Philadelphia Press.

Prevailing Passion.

Jaggles—How do you account for the fact that the women have become such great readers of American novels?

Waggles—It must be because they can get a dollar-fifty book at the bargain counters for a dollar and five cents.—Judge.

Firm Believer.

"Tommy, does your father believe in flannels?"

"Yessum! Externally and internally?"

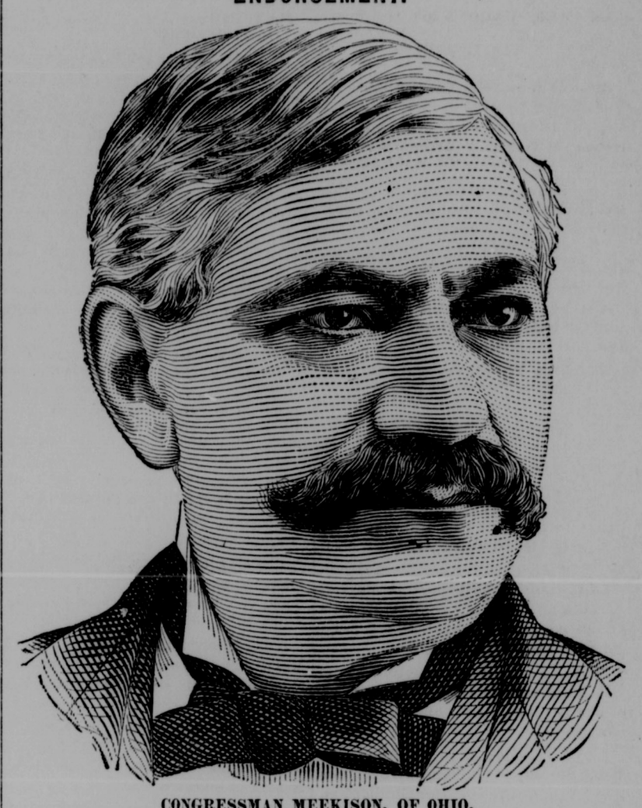
"How can that be?"

"Why, flannel shirts and flannel cakes."—Chicago Daily News.

CATARRH THIRTY YEARS.

A Remarkable Experience of a Prominent Statesman.

CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON GIVES PE-RU-NA A HIGH ENDORSEMENT.



CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON, OF OHIO.

Hon. David Meekison is well known, not only in his own State, but throughout America. He began his political career by serving four consecutive terms as Mayor of the town in which he lives, during which time he became widely known as the founder of the Meekison Bank of Napoleon, Ohio. He was elected to the Fifty-fifth Congress by a very large majority, and is the acknowledged leader of his party in his section of the State.

Only one flaw marred the otherwise complete success of this rising statesman. Catarrh with its insidious approach and tenacious grasp, was his only unconquered foe. For thirty years he waged unsuccessful warfare against this personal enemy. At last Pe-ru-na came to the rescue, and he dictated the following letter to Dr. Hartman as the result:

"I have used several bottles of Pe-ru-na and feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be able to fully eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing. Yours truly,

"David Meekison."

Many people can tolerate slight catarrhal affections. A little hoarseness, a slight cough, a cold in the head, or a trifling derangement of the digestive organs, do not much disturb the average person in his business. But this is not true of the public speaker or stage artist. His voice must always be clear, lungs perfect, digestion undisturbed. Hence the popularity of Pe-ru-na among the leading actors and actresses of this country. They have come to regard Pe-ru-na as indispensable to their success. Their profession is so exacting that it requires perfect health in every particular. They regard Pe-ru-na as their friend and safeguard. Many letters are received from this class of people.

Miss Carrie Thomas.

Miss Carrie Thomas, in speaking of Pe-ru-na, says: "I have used Pe-ru-na with splendid results. Would not be without it. No money would hire me to have a settled cold or chronic cough, or hoarseness. Catarrh is the most dreadful thing that could happen to one of my profession. Pe-ru-na is my shield and protector against this most undesirable disease."—Carrie Thomas.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Pe-ru-na, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

NEW PROOF OF EVOLUTION.

Darwin's Theory Sustained by Comparing the Blood of Men and Apes.

The latest proof of the correctness of Darwin's assertion that there is near relation between man and ape is furnished by a discovery of the correspondence between the blood of man and the ape, reports a scientific exchange.

Blood exposed to the air coagulates—forms a jelly-like mass. After a time the coagulum contracts and expels a perfectly clear fluid called serum. Lately experiments with this natural serum showed some queer results. When the serum of a rabbit was mixed with the blood of an animal not closely related to it, for instance a guinea pig, the blood corpuscles of the guinea pig were thereby dissolved. But the serum of the rabbit mixed with the blood of a closely related animal, a hare, for instance, did not affect the blood of the hare at all.

The serum of the horse works no change in the blood of the donkey, but destroys (dissolves) the blood corpuscles of the rabbit, lamb or man. The dog, fox or wolf readily permit exchange of blood, while the blood corpuscles of the dog are dissolved by cat serum. This, then, seems to furnish a new and sure means for establishing blood relationship between animals. Experiments with human serum showed that it dissolves the blood corpuscles of all vertebrates, also those of the lower ape. But the experiments with the higher apes gave different results. Neither the blood corpuscles of the ourang-outang nor those of the gibbon were dissolved by human serum, and human blood was carried into the blood course of a chimpanzee without in the least affecting the latter's condition.

These experiments serve to show that the blood of man and that of the higher ape must be looked upon as identical. It is absolutely sure that none of the tested serum of animal resembles the human blood as closely as does the blood of those three apes—the ourang-outang, chimpanzee and gibbon. This highly interesting scientific discovery furnishes new proof for the probability of man's evolution from lower animals. It throws some light on the sorry experience had with transfusion of animal blood in the blood of suffering human beings. Some scientists maintain that the sheep and man, the calf and man stand too far apart in the order of descent to permit intermixture of their blood without harmful results.

In Prospect.

Mr. Billus—Johnny, is there any hot water in the house? I've managed to upset a jar of fruit on the tablecloth.

Johnny Billus—No, but there'll be plenty of it when mamma comes back from down-town.—Chicago Tribune.

Good morals make the best manners.—Ram's Horn.

ABSOLUTE SECURITY.

Genuine

Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Must Bear Signature of

Brent Good

See Fac-Simile Wrapper Below.

Very small and as easy to take as sugar.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

FOR HEADACHE.
FOR DIZZINESS.
FOR BILIOUSNESS.
FOR TORPID LIVER.
FOR CONSTIPATION.
FOR SALLOW SKIN.
FOR THE COMPLEXION

Price 25 Cents | GENUINE MUST HAVE SIGNATURE. Purely Vegetable. Brent Good

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

PATENTS without fee unless successful. Send description; FREE opinion. MILO B. STEVENS & CO., Estab. 1864. Div. 3, 817—14th Street, WASHINGTON, D. C. Branch offices: Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit.

THE FARMING WORLD

PROPAGATING ROSES.

A System of Budding by Which Early and Late Varieties Are Grown on the Same Bush.

One of the easiest and best ways to propagate roses is by budding. The process is the same as with the peach, pear, apple, etc., but I will give a short description with an illustration to make it a little plainer. Select a bud from the rose you wish to propagate, and cut about one-fourth above and below the bud, taking out an elliptical piece with a little wood beneath it, as shown in Fig. 1.

FIG 1

FIRST THING TO BE DONE.

For the stalk take any hardy or wild rose, cut a T-shaped incision through the bark near the roots (Fig. 2), carefully raise the ends or bark of the incision and insert the bud; wrap firmly above and below the bud with a strip of cloth about one-fourth of an inch wide, commencing at the bottom and passing above the bud, returning again and tying just below, covering all above the bud. In about ten days after budding, if in spring or early summer, unwrap it, and if the operation has been successful, which it is most sure to be if properly done, cut the old stalk off about two inches above the bud; and when it has made a new shoot tie it to this old stump to make it grow straight. Buds of different roses, crimson, white, red, etc., may be inserted in a single stalk, threby producing a rose tree of many colors. It is not necessary to bud on the wild rose only, but if you have some other single rose you wish to improve, insert a bud or buds of some nice variety, and I think you will be pleased with the result.

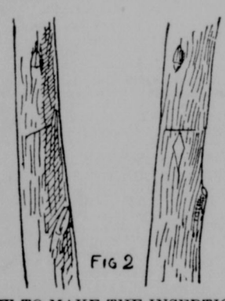


FIG 2

HOW TO MAKE THE INSERTION.

I hope every lady reader of this paper will try this method of propagating, for it is very simple and easily done, and you can have a rose ready for bloom in the same length of time it would take a cutting to form roots. And by using early and late varieties on the same bush one can have a succession of bloom on the same plant, which is quite an item when one is crowded for room.—Geneva March, in Agricultural Epitomist.

HIGH-PRICED BUTTER.

Before It Reached the Consumer on the Continent of Europe It Was Worth $3 a Pound.

Not many people would be willing to pay three or four dollars a pound for butter if they lived where fairly good butter was plenty at a much lower price. The editor of the Elgin Dairy Report tells of a gentleman visiting the Darlington creamery, which has or had a reputation of selling its product at one dollar a pound. While there he saw a 20-pound package put into a large refrigerator case and packed around with ice and shipped to New York city. There it would be re-iced and sent by the steamer to an agent in London, who would again repack it in ice and send it to another party on the continent, who would see that it was sent to the consumer who had ordered it. The expense of freight and packing would scarcely be less than two or three dollars per pound, besides the cost of one dollar a pound at the creamery. Such butter is only produced by good cows, given good food and care, and with also good care in regard to absolute cleanliness in stables, dairy room and utensils and purity of the air and water which comes in contact with it. Not every one can make butter that will sell for 50 cents or one dollar a ponud, but many could improve greatly on their product and on the price they obtain for it if they would take a little more pains in these respects. And when they do so we may see dairy butter regularly quoted as high or higher than that from the creamery.

The total value of the butter product of Wisconsin as estimated by Dairy and Food Commissioner H. C. Adams for 1900 is about $16,000,000.

TAR MACADAM PAVING.

Authorities Claim That for Excellence, Durability and Cheapness It Has No Equal.

United States Consul F. M. Shepard, at Hamilton, Ont., says:

"After years of experiment this city is laying a pavement that for excellence, durability and cheapness is commended for examination to those in charge of similar work in the United States. The possibility of making good roads at reasonable cost has been demonstrated, and tests extending over a number of years on business streets prove that tarred macadam makes not only a smooth and solid roadway, but one that can be kept in perfect repair at nominal expense. The first cost in this city, where limestone is abundant and near at hand, is from 70 to 86 cents per square yard, and the engineer estimates the cost of repairing on heavy traffic streets at less than one cent per yard a year, while asphalt costs over three cents. The addition of tar renders the roadway impervious to water, frost-proof in winter and prevents mud and dust in summer. It is easily repaired and does not require scraping, thus avoiding much wearing of the surface.

"One block of tar macadam laid more than a year ago on a business street where there is heavy teaming shows no perceptible wear to-day. In residential streets these pavements have been in use eight years without any repairs, and are still in good condition. The success of this method of roadmaking depends on care in its execution, as in the case of all composite work of this character, and I submit for the information of those interested the substance of an interview with the engineer of public works, E. G. Barrow, covering details of the processes in use here. Either stone or cement curbing should be placed before beginning the roadway. Cement costs here 50 cents per lineal foot and is six inches thick and 20 inches in depth and laid on broken stone or gravel. Corners are rounded and an iron plate imbedded for protection. On business streets stone is preferable.

"An essential in roadmaking is a hard and compact foundation, which can be secured only by the liberal use of heavy rollers (12 to 16 tons) while the base is being prepared. The grade and camber should be so designed as to carry water off the surface quickly, and all earth above the subgrade should be removed so as to conform to its level—12 inches below the natural surface—which subgrade should be thoroughly rolled and soft spots filled with stone. The foundation must be compost, a solid bed of stone not less than six inches in thickness. If the soil is of a spongy nature, large, flat stones are preferred. All interstices should be filled with small stone and gravel well rolled in. Over this a coating of gravel should be rolled hard and then a layer of tar-saturated stone, not exceeding two inches in diameter. These stones before being mixed with boiling tar (10 to 12 imperial gallons to the cubic yard) must be thoroughly dried, either in the summer sun or by exposure on heated plates, until all moisture is expelled.

"After thorough rolling another stratum or tarred stone of the same dimensions and thickness is added, rolled and covered with a layer of gravel and quarry chips, also mixed with tar, one inch in thickness, to be rolled down from three-fourths to one-half an inch. A top dressing of screenings is then added, and if a light color is desired it may be obtained by adding a cement. Most of the stone used here is machine crushed."

HOW TO BRIDGE BROOKS.

Description of a Simple and Inexpensive Plan That Answers All Ordinary Purposes.

Many farms are cut up by one or more small streams, the majority of which flow through pastures and have to be crossed by cattle morning and night. Unless the necessary "fords" are bridged, there is pretty sure to be a muddy crossing, and in that case cows are liable to get their udders badly soiled, with consequent trouble at milking time. It hardly pays to build a regular modern bridge, however; it costs too much and is not durable enough, especially under such conditions as usually exist in pasture streams. Rather should the simple affair be resorted to shown in the illustration. Stout posts are set at an angle against each other, thus bracing one another perfectly, and over these are laid rough logs, the remaining space being filled in with dirt. Grass will soon grow over all, and keep the soil from washing, and this will add to the attractiveness as well as durability of the bridge. Such a bridge can be built strong enough to drive over with heavy loads.—F. O. Sibley, in Ohio Farmer.

BRIDGE OVER FARM BROOK.

It is a mistake to rake up the leaves in the wood lot or any other place where they may be allowed to remain. Besides being of value as a winter protection, when decayed they add much to the fertility of the ground.

Examine trees recently planted, and if the wood is not plump, prune them in closely, as shriveling proclaims the roots unable to supply so much top.

Didn't Want It Pulled Out.

Mrs. Naggs—Don't you know that wearing your hat in the house will cause your hair to fall out?

Mr. Naggs—Yes; but then I prefer to lose it that way.—Chicago Daily News.

There Is a Class of People

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

To be thrown upon one's own resources is to be cast into the very lap of fortune.—Benjamin Franklin.

Lane's Family Medicine.

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

The astronomer is a space reporter.—Chicago Daily News.

Coughing Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam will stop the Cough at once. Go to your druggist to-day and get a sample bottle free. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents. Go at once: delays are dangerous.

Roslyn—"I have brought you a box of chocolates. Have you a sweet tooth, Miss Lovedove?" Miss Lovedove (naively)—"Yes, and it has quite a cavity for chocolates."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Each package of PUTNAM FADELESS DYES colors either Silk, Wool or Cotton perfectly. Sold by all druggists.

It is generally believed that the expression "trumpet of the Lord" does not refer to the deacon who sleeps in the meeting.—Ram's Horn.

Dyspepsia is the bane of the human system. Protect yourself against its ravages by the use of Beeman's Pepsin Gum.

Every man has a show in life, but few of them find it a circus.—Star of Hope.

Piso's Cure is the best medicine we ever used for all affections of the throat and lungs.—Wm. O. Endsley, Vanburen, Ind., Feb. 10, 1900.

Wise is the man who can pick out a good melon or a good wife.—Chicago Daily News.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

There are no harmless sins.—Ram's Horn.

Up Against His Limitations.

The poet's eye, in a fine frenzy rolling, swept the walls and ceiling of his eight by ten literary laboratory.

"It eludes me!" he muttered.

Absent-mindedly he dipped his fountain pen in the inkstand and started his eye—same eye—on another frenzied roll.

It rested at last on his rhyming dictionary.

He pounced upon the book as a starving mariner on a raft in the open sea might pounce upon a pate de foie gras suddenly discovered dancing on the waves within reach of his hand.

He opened it with trembling fingers and scanned its pages.

A groan burst from his lips.

"No!" he exclaimed, dashing the book from him and bowing his head on his hands in despair. "There is no rhyme for 'month!'"—Chicago Tribune.

"Why, Johnny, you've got a big lump on your head. Have you been fighting again?" "Fightin'? Not me!" "But somebody struck you?" "Nobody struck me. I wuzn't fightin' at all. It was an accident." "An accident." "Yes. I was sitting on Johnny Brown's head, and I forgot to hold his feet."—Indianapolis Press.

'Twas Early Morning.—"When I leave you to-night," said Mr. Borem, "I hope you—" "Gracious! Are you coming again to-night?" exclaimed Miss Tiredout. Then, for the first time, the proximity of the morrow's dawn dawned on him, and he lit out.—Philadelphia Press.

A very small boy was trying to lead a big St. Bernard up the road. "What are you going to do with that dog?" asked a kindly gentleman. "I can't make up my mind," was the answer; "not till I find out what the dog thinks o' doin' with me."—Gaiety.

"I've promised to go in to supper with some one else, Mr. Blanque; but I'll introduce you to a very handsome and clever girl." "But I don't want a handsome and clever girl; I want you."—American Agriculturist.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

Easily Adjusted.

"Pardon me," said the busy man to the insurance agent who had forced his way into his office, "but I am not prepared to talk to you to-day."

"Don't let that worry you," replied the insurance agent, "I'll do the talking."—Philadelphia Press.

It Is a Good Thing.

Everyone should be glad to say a good word for an article that deserves it, which accounts for the universal endorsement of the Sterling Remedy Co., makers of the famous Cascarets. Within five years the sale of Cascarets has grown from a single box until last year it reached the enormous sale of over 6,000,000 boxes. This is a matter of pride to newspaper men because Cascarets has been very largely and persistently advertised in newspapers for a number of years, and it shows that advertising of the right kind will certainly bring success. All druggists report an enormous demand for Cascarets that is steadily increasing. They are put up in convenient form and the prices are 10c., 25c., and 50c. a box. A 50c. box is enough for one month's treatment. Anyone who has the slightest liver or bowel trouble is urged to give them a trial.

Home-Grown Luster—"Then you don't bank much on ancestral pride?" "No; it is more to a man's credit to start from nowhere and be somebody than to start from somewhere and be nobody."—Indianapolis Journal.

Cheap Rates to California.

February 12th and each Tuesday thereafter, until and including April 30th, Special Low Rate Colonist Tickets will be sold via the Southern Pacific's Company's "Ogden" and "Sunset" Routes to all points in California. The rate will be: From Chicago $30.00, from St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans $27.50, from Omaha, Kansas City, etc., $25.00. Corresponding low rates from all other points east and north.

For particulars and detailed information pertaining to the Southern Pacific Company's Routes, and these special rates to California, call upon or address

W. G. Neimyer, G. W. A., S. P. Co., 238 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.

W. H. Connor, C. A., S. P. Co., Chamber of Commerce Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio.

G. G. Herring, C. A., S. P. Co., 711 Park Bldg., Pittsburg, Pa.

L. E. Townsley, C. A., S. P. Co., 421 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

C. C. Cary, C. A., S. P. Co., 208 Sheidley Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Force of Habit.

Would-Be Suitor—I desire to pay my addresses to your youngest daughter, sir. Have you any objections?

Druggist—My youngest daughter is already engaged, young man, but I have another daughter just as good.—Somerville Journal.

Speltz, 80 bus. per Acre

Of this remarkable hay and cereal food Adam Herwebe of Iowa writes to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., the introducers: "Speltz beats anything and everything I ever saw for stooling, for food and for yield. I could hardly believe my own eyes that I grew from one kernel of seed 72 big heads." While E. L. Rogers, Castlemore, Canada, says Speltz yielded him at the rate of 100 bus. per acre. It will pay every farmer on earth to try Speltz. Write to Salzer to-day about it. [K.]

"Where are you rushing so fast?" "Up to the health office to get vaccinated." "Eh! Been exposed?" "Yep. Telephone girl this morning gave the pesthouse number by mistake!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Remedy for the Grippe.

Physicians recommend KEMP'S BALSAM for patients afflicted with the grippe, as it is especially adapted for the throat and lungs. Don't wait for the first symptoms, but get a bottle to-day and keep it on hand for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the grippe brings on pneumonia. KEMP'S BALSAM prevents this by keeping the cough loose and the lungs free from inflammation. All druggists, 25c and 50c.

"Yes," said Charles, "I have had some very trying experiences in my time. I was struck senseless once."—Chicago Journal.

Begin with the Baby

and give Hoxsie's Croup Cure for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and Pneumonia, go through the family ending with the grandmother.

Theodore—"He went so far as to call me a puppy!" Harriet—"And at your age! The idea!"—Boston Transcript.

Poker and Politics.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "I hope you are not departing from the precepts of our forfathers and allowing yourself to be dazzled by the pomp and glitter of empire?"

"What book did you get that out of?" asked her husband.

"No book," she answered, stoutly. "I remembered some of it after reading a newspaper article. But I hope you have not abandoned your old principles. Last night you were talking in your sleep, and you said several times that all you wanted was another king to make you all right. And after the trouble we had with George III. it does seem perfectly foolish."—Washington Star.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with Local Applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

Sold by all druggists, price 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

"Say, ma!" "What is it, my daughter?" "When shall I be big enough to have a chaperon?"—Town Topics.

A Good Thing to Introduce.

When Mr. Thomas L. Cone, a druggist, removed his business from Chicago, Illinois, to Preston, Missouri, he wrote: "I became well acquainted with the wonderful effects of Palmer's Lotion while living in Chicago, and desire to introduce it in this section, as I can recommend it for all that is claimed for it." The claim for Palmer's Lotion is that it will cure any disease of the skin that can be reached by external application, no matter how virulent or of how long standing. If your druggist does not happen to have it, send to Solon Palmer, 374 Pearl Street, New York, for samples of Palmer's Lotion and Lotion Soap.

Failure is one of the things that are spoiled by success.—Chicago Daily News.

Homeseekers Excursion.

On the first and third Tuesdays of each month the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway will sell round-trip excursion tickets from Chicago, Milwaukee and other points on its line to a great many points in South Dakota, North Dakota and other Western and Northwestern States at about one fare. Take a trip west and see the wonderful crops and what an amount of good land can be purchased for a little money. Further information as to rates, routes, prices of farm lands, etc., may be obtained by addressing F. A. Miller, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Hypatia Roland (to the Browns' parlor maid)—"Call me a hansom, please." Cadby—"I'm going your way, Miss Roland. We might go together." Miss Roland—"Two hansoms, please!"—Chicago Journal.

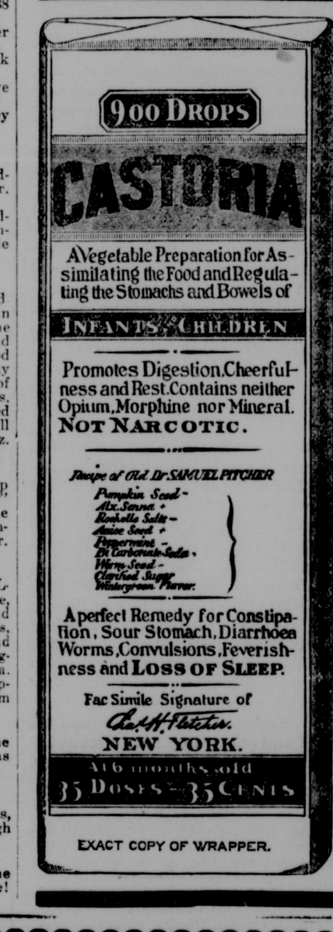
Final

There is an end to acute suffering when

St. Jacobs Oil

promptly cures

Sciatica



EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Piles Cured While You Sleep

You are costive, and nature is under a constant strain to relieve the condition. This causes a rush of blood to the rectum, and before long congested lumps appear, itching, painful, bleeding. Then you have piles. There are many kinds and many cures, but piles are not curable unless you assist nature in removing the cause. CASCARETS make effort easy, regulate and soften the stools, relieving the tension, and giving nature a chance to use her healing power. Piles, hemorrhoids, fistula, and other rectal troubles yield to the treatment, and Cascarets quickly and surely remove them forever. Don't be persuaded to experiment with anything else!

Atchison Globe.

"I suffered the tortures of the damned with protruding piles brought on by constipation with which I was afflicted for twenty years. I ran across your CASCARETS in the town of Newell, Ia., and never found anything to equal them. To-day I am entirely free from piles and feel like a new man." C. H. KEITZ, 1411 Jones St., Sioux City, Ia.

Woman's Long Suit.

Cascarets

BEST FOR BOWELS AND LIVER.

THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

THIS IS CCC THE TABLET

10c. 25c. 50c.

NEVER SOLD IN BULK.

DRUGGISTS

GUARANTEED TO CURE all bowel troubles, appendicitis, biliousness, bad breath, bad blood, wind on the stomach, bloated bowels, foul mouth, headache, indigestion, pimples, pains after eating, liver trouble, sallow complexion and dizziness. When your bowels don't move regularly you are getting sick. Constipation kills more people than all other diseases together. It is a starter for the chronic ailments and long years of suffering that come afterwards. No matter what ails you, start taking CASCARETS today, for you will never get well and be well all the time until you put your bowels right. Take our advice; start with CASCARETS today, under an absolute guarantee to cure or money refunded. 459

GUARANTEED TO CURE: Five years ago the first box of CASCARETS was sold. Now it is over six million boxes a year, greater than any similar medicine in the world. This is absolute proof of great merit, and our best testimonial. We have faith, and will sell CASCARETS absolutely guaranteed to cure or money refunded. We say today, two 50c boxes, give them a fair, honest trial, as per simple directions, and if you are not satisfied after using one 50c box, return the unused 50c box and the empty box to us by mail, or the druggist from whom you purchased it, and get your money back for both boxes. Take our advice—no matter what ails you—start today. Health will quickly follow and you will bless the day you first started the use of CASCARETS. Book free by mail. Add: STERLING REMEDY CO., New York or Chicago.

Grantsville.

Spring-time has come. The winding brooklets are turned loose from their icy grip and are laughing merrily.

"And hark! the feathered warblers sing,
'Tis Nature's cheerful voice;
Soft music hails the lonely spring
And woods and fields rejoice."

The firm of Beachy & Orendorf have finally disposed of their remaining stock of merchandise, J. O. Getty and Dr. G. C. Keller being the purchasers. The new firm announces a thirty day's cost-sale, during and after which the store building in which the stock is located is to be repaired and remodeled. After the building is completed which is supposed to be about May 1st, the new firm, Getty & Keller, will restock with a full line of general merchandise. We are glad, personally, to see the firm again enter the mercantile business, as Mr. Getty, who will have charge of the active and practical part of the business, has in the past been one of the most honorable merchants this community has had in a number of years. This said with due respect and justice to the virtues of our other merchants of the present and past and with no desire to disparage. It has been the actual experience of the writer that as a rule goods can be more economically purchased here, considering cost of transportation, &c., than in neighboring towns.

Rumor has it that Sam Swauger intends to occupy the Livengood property which is now being occupied by J. Walter Keller and family, foreman of the Italian gang of the Jennings railroad.

Prof. Gnegy has recently been in our town looking after the interests of the normal school, which will open April 8th. If students prefer private lodgings in preference to hotels they will be accommodated at J. J. Bender's, C. A. Bender's, Rev. Bedford's, T. H. Bittinger's and other places equally accommodating. The school building is a fine large brick structure, slate roof, well furnished, having the capacity to contain the better share of the teachers in the county. Nothing need be said for Prof. Gnegy as he is known as the "gold seeker" and a teacher of excellent talents and many years experience.

Emanual Hersberger has purchased the gaited and fast horse Robert from Beachy & Orendorf.

Bloomington.

Piedmont Independent.

Silas Cramer started for Baltimore Tuesday night on No. 12, to return with his mother, who has been at Hopkins hospital under treatment for the past four or five weeks for a fractured knee cap. The injury was sustained some months ago by a fall on the ice at her home near Terra Alta. We understand the operation has turned out successfully and that Mrs. Cramer will have use of the injured limb.

George Fazenbaker, whose illness was noted in our last letter, is somewhat improved. His son, William Fazenbaker, of Cumberland, traveling engineer on the B. & O., visited his father last Monday.

Rev. Mr. Cecil started for conference Tuesday night. His pastorate has been highly successful at this point and his many friends hope for his return.

Yesterday was a general all-round moving day—five families in the act of moving at the same time.

Well, we have one case, sizes to suit, small enough for an infant and large enough for a giant. As we have only one case, please understand the one, for fear some one may say 100, and it is so rare in this community. We have taken extra precaution to prevent its being stolen or straying away. Flags were furled in honor of the occasion and ropes put up to keep away the crowd of curious intruders. Our interest in the case will continue for the next few weeks, and in years to come the people will revert to the time when smallpox visited the town as one of the most exciting events in its history.

And now we are told that Wash. House, B. & O. watchman above Everett's tunnel, is one of four heirs who have inherited $50,000. The entire estate is valued at $200,000 and has lately come to the family through an uncle by the expiration of a lease that was held by the U. S. government. "Wash" always was a good, whole-souled fellow and we would just as soon see him wear a silk plug, a gold watch and chain and diamond stud as anyone we know of. We sincerely hope the report may be true and that he and his family may live long to enjoy the pleasure of being independent.

Mrs. John Wilt, residing at Hampshire dump, died last Monday afternoon after a short illness of typhoid-pneumonia. Mrs. Wilt was a daughter of the late Samuel Warnick, who during his lifetime resided on a farm near Frankville. She leaves a husband six children. Her remains were brought to Bloomington Tuesday afternoon and buried in the town graveyard.

Dr. W. H. Ravenscraft, of Oakland, county officer board of health, was in town last Wednesday.

Robert Moorehead, while at Oakland as a juryman, purchased a fine race horse. He is training him now for the spring meeting of the plow.

Accident.

Prof. J. S. Gnegy, of Oakland, spent several days in town last week circulating among friends.

Senator Ravenscroft returned from Annapolis last Saturday evening.

Mr. J. C. Shaw, of Grantsville, was seen on our streets Tuesday evening.

Mr. Emanuel Custer, of Hoyes, accompanied by his daughter and daughter-in-law, visited Senator Ravenscroft's family Saturday.

Mr. Eli McMillan, who spent the winter in Washington, D. C., is at work in his shop again.

H. M. Speicher, of Speicher Bros., went to Connellsville Monday, returning Tuesday morning.

Dr. W. Ravenscroft is greatly improving the appearance of the Bellevue property by repairing fences, trimming fruit trees, etc.

Postmaster Englehart is treating the interior of his store room to a coat of paint. V. Kahl is doing the work.

Merchant Gnagey spent several days this week at McKeesport and Braddock on business.

W. S. Goodwin, the genial salesman for the Kenneweg Company, was calling on our merchants Tuesday.

W. M. Frazee is excavating for the foundation of his new residence.

Miss Christina Miller, of Cove, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Henry Zinkan, for several weeks past, returned to her home Monday.

The Garrett County Telephone Co. has completed an extention of its line to the Cove district.

Bandmaster Smith was in town a day or two this week.

Bloomington.

Mrs. Andrew Mullen returned on Wednesday from a visit to relatives in Keyser.

Mr. John Wilt, of Hampshire Dump, whose wife died from pneumonia last week, moved to the Collins property in lower end of town on Monday.

Mr. James A. Enlow, of Mountain Lake Park, was in town a few days this week on business.

Miss Ada Harshbarger will open a pay school on next Monday.

The sore arms from the recent vaccinations caused by the prevalence of small pox in our midst is a source of a great deal of inconvenience and in some instances considerable pain to a number of our people both great and small.

The case of small pox that developed a few weeks ago and nearly scared the life out of everybody in town is going along peacefully and quietly to a satisfactory termination. Mr. Lewis Baldwin, the victim, and his wife have been quarantined over two weeks and no new cases as yet have broken out. Twenty days is about the limit after having had contact with the disease and those parties who visited Mr. Baldwin during the first days of his illness and before it was known to be small pox have commenced to breathe easier, sleep better and eat more as the time lengthens since their visits.

Mr. Freeman Warnick has filed his bond and entered on his duties as administrator to the estate of his father, the late Henry Warnick.

Services at Hoyes.

Mass will be said at St. Dominic's church at 10.30 a. m. on April 14th—the second Sunday of the month.

Seaboard Air Line Railway, Mileage Tickets Reduced.

One thousand mile tickets, good over the whole system of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, including the State of Florida, are sold at $25.00, previously sold in Florida at $30.00, and are honored between Washington and Richmond, and by the Baltimore Steam Packet Company between Baltimore and Portsmouth, over "Bay Line."

ORDER NISI.

George Clauson vs. John Shartzer and wife.

No. 1094 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered this 28th day of March, in the year nineteen hundred and one, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in equity, that the sale made and reported in the above cause by D. James Blackiston, attorney, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown or before the 29th day of April, 1901; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county once a week for three successive weeks before the 29th day of April, 1901.

The report states the amount of sale to be $800.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

STATEMENT

SHOWING THE CONDITION OF THE MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 31st, 1900.

Total Income during the year	$13,963,373 91
Total Disbursements	10,472,007 50
Total Assets	74,311,469 25
Total Liabilities	68,186,103 34
Surplus as regards Policy-holders	6,125,364 91
111,31; Policies in force in the United States on Dec. 31, 1900	$272,686,078 00
147 Policies written in Maryland during the year 1900	325,173 00
Premiums received on Maryland business in 1900	113,426 08
Losses paid in Maryland during 1900	71,250 00
Losses incurred in Maryland during 1900	58,815 00

BALTIMORE, March 4, 1901.

In compliance with the Code of Public General Laws, I hereby certify that the above is a true abstract from the sworn statement of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of Newark, N. J., to December 31, 1900, now on file in this department.

(Signed) LLOYD WILKINSON,
Insurance Commissioner.

JULIUS C. RENNINGER, Agent,
Oakland, Maryland.

Things to Think About.

It pays to buy the best, whether you buy a suit of clothes, a horse, a house and lot or get yourself a wife. If you have the toothache you won't go to Naylor's to get it pulled. Why? Because you think Dr. Robinson understands the business better. These thoughts apply to all work that you want done. House-cleaning time is here and you will want some rooms papered. Now you have to pay your money for paper and for having it put on and paper is something that you have to look at every day and of course you want it put on right, clean and neat, and you don't want your house turned upside down for a week to get it done. These are facts. If they are right, see King, the painter and paper hanger, and you will get the neatest job and the quickest service. 3-3t

Selbysport Normal.

The Selbysport Normal will begin April 8, 1901, and continue for ten weeks.

Thorough instructions will be given in all the common school branches. Tuition $5. Good boarding can be secured for $2.50 per week.

For further information apply to
A. L. LEE, Principal,
2-3t* Altamont, Md

Young Women

The entry into womanhood is a critical time for a girl. Little menstrual disorders started at that time soon grow into fatal complications. That female troubles are filling graveyards proves this. Wine of Cardui establishes a painless and natural menstrual flow. When once this important function is started right, a healthy life will usually follow. Many women, young and old, owe their lives to Wine of Cardui. There is nothing like it to give women freedom from pain and to fit young women for every duty of life. $1.00 bottles at druggists.

Miss Della M. Strayer, Tully, Kan.: "I have suffered untold pain at menstrual periods for a long time, was nervous, had no appetite, and lost interest in everything, in fact was miserable. I have taken four bottles of Wine of Cardui, with Thedford's Black-Draught, when needed, and to-day I am entirely cured. I cannot express the thanks I feel for what you have done for me."

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the Ladies' Advisory Department, The Chattanooga Medicine Company, Chattanooga, Tenn.

WINE OF CARDUI

The Portraits of Our Presidents

With Biographical Sketches

BY

General Charles H. Grosvenor.

Title page designed by Tiffany.

This Inaugural year, when the public mind is aroused over Presidential questions, is a fitting time to issue General Grosvenor's book. Its sale is already tremendous, and will perhaps exceed that of General Grant's Personal Memoirs.

Every patriotic American desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and the other Chief Executives of the Nation. Everybody desires to read what General Grosvenor, the staunch old Republican leader in Congress, will say of that staunch old Democrat, Andrew Jackson, the Father of the Democratic party. General Grosvenor has thrown into his sketch all the fire and energy of his nature. The biography of Thomas Jefferson is grand. The biography of Lincoln is as beautiful as a sunrise over the hilltops. General Grosvenor has personally known all the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published, written from his own personal observation of these great men. General Grosvenor has served in Congress for nearly twenty years, and he has served his country in war and in Congress for nearly forty years. The book contains twenty-four large Photogravure Etchings as fine as Steel Plates, printed by hand, on heavy plate paper made especially to order. These 24 Photogravure Etchings are in different tints, and are well worth $2 each. These Portraits are made from the Paintings endorsed by the family and near relatives of the Presidents. Two years' time and a fortune have been expended in securing these reproductions. The complete book is well worth $50, but the price has been placed so low that the most humble American citizen can own it. The biographical sketches are printed in large open type in two colors; the work is so beautiful that when people see it they want it. The advance sale is very large. President McKinley was the first subscriber. There is one edition known as The President Edition de Grand Luxe, initial letters hand painted, Portraits hand colored, title page hand illuminated, registered and numbered; subscription price $250. Orders and applications for territory are coming in rapidly. A high class man or woman of good social standing can soon make a small fortune taking orders in this community. Send references and apply for terms quick, as the territory will all be assigned soon.

Address THE CONTINENTAL PRESS,
CORCORAN BUILDING,
Opposite United States Treasury,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

You Get the Profits

No. 3034—Buggy. Price, $31.30, with leather quarter top.

Under our plan of selling carriages, buggies, and harness, you get the profits. The jobber and retailer are cut out. By dealing direct with the manufacturer, you pay only the cost of making with a moderate profit added; and you take your choice from the biggest stock and fullest assortment. Our plan of

No. 340—Single Strap Buggy Harness. Price, $7.90.

Selling Carriages Direct

insures satisfaction—your money back if you are dissatisfied. Our complete illustrated catalogue, showing many styles of high grade vehicles, harness, robes, blankets and horse equipments, with detailed descriptions of each, mailed free.

THE COLUMBUS CARRIAGE AND HARNESS CO.,
Box 772, Columbus, Ohio.

The Garrett County Bank

OAKLAND, MD.

Pays 3 Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Subscribed Capital, -	$50,000.00
Liability of Stockholders,	100,000.00
Surplus Fund, - -	10,000.00

DIRECTORS:

DANIEL E. OFFUTT,
GILMOR S. HAMILL,
JOHN M. DAVIS,
GEORGE W. LEGGE,
JOHN T. MITCHELL,
JOHN M. FREELAND,
SCOTT T. JONES.

D. E. OFFUTT, President.
G. S. HAMILL, Vice-President.
S. T. JONES, Cashier.

Authorized Capital $32,000.

The First National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MD.

Now Open for Business

Offers to its patrons every advantage consistent with sound Banking, and which their balances, business and responsibility warrant.

3 per cent. Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

WE SOLICIT YOUR BUSINESS.

DIRECTORS.

Ed A. Browning,	Oakland, Md.
C. E. Ellithorp,	Bittinger, Md.
L. E. Friend,	Friendsville, Md.
Wm. Moody,	Bloomington, Md.
U. G. Palmer,	Hutton, Md.
R. A. Ravenscroft,	Accident, Md.
E. E. Sollars,	Oakland, Md.
U. M. Stanton,	Grantsville, Md.
F. A. Thayer,	Oakland, Md.
M. N. Wilson,	Wilson, W. Va.

OFFICERS.

F. A. THAYER,	President.
M. N. WILSON,	Vice-President.
U. G. PALMER,	Cashier.
M. R. HAMILL,	Assistant Cashier.

TURNBULL'S Furniture, Carpeting and Curtains.

Elegance, moderate cost and unequalled assortments are the characteristics of our stock. It represents the best of everything in CARPETING, FURNITURE and CURTAINS.

JOHN TURNBULL & CO., 16-18-20 W. Baltimore St., BALTIMORE, MD.

THE

SECOND NATIONAL BANK

of CUMBERLAND, MD.

Designated United States Depository.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.
BOXES FREE TO CUSTOMERS.

This Bank Pays Three Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Capital	$100,000
Surplus and Other Undivided Profits	250,000
Liability of Shareholders	100,000
Additional Security to Depositors	$450,000

LLOYD LOWNDES, President.
D. ANNAN, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Lloyd Lowndes, O. C. Gephart,
James Clark, L. M. Shepherd,
John Sheridan, A. Hunter Boyd,
David W. Sloan.

Midget Harness Riveter.

Complete repair shop in one tool. Will not wear out. Punches the hole, drives and clinches at one operation. Every horse owner, liveryman, teamster will buy on sight. Does the work of any $25 machine. Complete outfit with big bog of rivets will be sent for

ONLY 50 CENTS.

Agents Wanted.

HANDY ADJUSTABLE LIFTER. Handiest article ever invented for lifting hot pans, stove lids, etc. 15c, postpaid.

S. T. WILSON & CO.,
Box 103. Wilson, W. Va.

I HAVE PURCHASED

THE OAKLAND COAL YARD

of Mr. D. L. Conneway and will continue the business. I will keep constantly on hand a large supply of

HARD AND SOFT

COAL,

KINDLING WOOD, Etc.

All orders will receive prompt attention. Leave orders with the weighmaster or at my residence, the Giessman Hotel.

35-2 GEO. GIESSMAN

Oakland Pharmacy

JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.

Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars Cameras and Photo Supplies

The Light of the World

—OR—

Our Saviour in Art

cost nearly $100,000 to publish. Contains nearly one hundred full-page engravings copied direct from the World's Greatest Paintings of our Saviour and His Mother. Contains History of Painting, Biography of Painter, and the Galleries in Europe where the Original Painting may be seen. The most beautiful publication ever issued. The strongest hearts weep at the sight of these wonderful pictures of Jesus and His Mother. Everybody says they are grand, sublime, matchless, magnificent, beautiful, inspiring and uplifting. The sale is unprecedented. The presses are running day and night to fill the orders. Twelve car loads of paper were required for the last edition. Small fortunes are being made by the thrifty with this marvelous work. Contains also a Child's story beautifully written to fit each picture. This wonderful book, matchless in its purity and beauty, appeals to every mother's heart and in every Christian home, where there are children it sells itself. A Christian man or woman can soon clear one thousand dollars ($1,000) taking orders in this community. Others are doing this. Why not you? We are advertising in nearly ten thousand newspapers in this country, Canada, England and Austria. Shipping books to every English speaking country in the world. We shall promote our best workers to positions of State Managers, Correspondents and Office Assistants. We also own and publish large Photo-gravure Etchings of the great Paintings in the galleries of Europe. One or more of these Etchings can be sold in every home. By carrying the books and the engravings your success will be tremendous. Mrs. Waite, of Worcester, Mass., has sold nearly four thousand dollars worth of books there. Mrs. Sackett has sold nearly two thousand dollars worth of books in New York. Both of these ladies answered our advertisements, and had never sold a book before. Took 14 orders first two days—H. Colwell. Took 5 orders first day; 23 orders first week, clearing over $50—Hattie Lemwell. Thousands of others like above. It is printed on velvet finished paper; bound in Cardinal Red, Green and Gold and adorned with Golden Roses and Lillies. Write quickly for terms as the territory is going rapidly. When you prove your success, we will promote you to the position of Manager and Correspondent under yearly contract.

We shall soon move into our new and elegant structure to be occupied solely by us, and to be known as the Light of the World Building.

Address THE BRITISH-AMERICAN CO.,
CORCORAN BUILDING,
Opposite United States Treasury,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

J. B. WILLIAMS CO.

FROSTBURG, MD.

Cheapest place to buy

MONUMENTS
HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING

Send for prices

What it Cures

COUGHS, BRONCHITIS, HOARSENESS, LOSS OF VOICE, SORE THROAT, COLDS, LARYNGITIS, CROUP.

PINE AND TERPENE COUGH SYRUP

Is the new remedy that is [illegible] medical world with its [illegible] cures. It [illegible] cures relieves while a few [illegible] gives results in life.

LOGAN DRUG COMPANY,
At all Druggists. WHEELING, W. VA.

GEO. FLACK SANSBURY, ARCHITECT,

Office 7 North Liberty St.

CUMBERLAND, MD.

NORMAN S. HEINDEL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
All business given prompt attention.
Office—Opera House,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

FRED A. THAYER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
OAKLAND, MD.
STATE'S ATTORNEY FOR GARRETT COUNTY.
Office in McComas's Building, Main St.
Will be assisted in all important cases by Benjamin A. Richmond of the Cumberland bar.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY
OFFICE ON ALDER STREET.
Particular attention given to Conveyancing, investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated. 1-14-1y

JULIUS C. RENNINGER,
ATTORNEY & COUNSELLOR AT LAW.
Office opposite Bank, OAKLAND, MD.
Will practice in the courts of Maryland and West Virginia.
Real estate and mercantile law given special attention. Collections and investments made for clients. 45—1yr

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND,
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia. '88 10 6

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas building, Second Street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work. 18-98-1f.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
Felty Building, Opposite Postoffice,
OAKLAND, MD
GAS ADMINISTERED. 50-97

M. C. HINEBAUGH, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Office and residence, Alder St., west of post office.

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North 3rd Street.
Office in Shartzer's Block, Second Street.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Prompt attention paid to day or night calls.
Office at McComas' Sanitarium. 16-'99

H. W. McCOMAS, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Office opposite Garrett County Bank.
Residence on Main Street, opposite Brown's Hotel.
Office hours, 8 to 10 a. m., 2 to 3 p. m., 8 to p. m., from June to October and from October to June, 7 to 8.30 p. m.

DR. D. O. McKINLEY,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
SALISBURY, PENNA.
Will visit regularly through Garrett county, Md., and offers his services to those wishing Dental Treatment. Charges moderate
P. O. address, Elk Lick, Pa. 6 22 6m.

E. J. FRANTZ,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER,
Residence and P. O. Address,
SELBYSPORT, MD.

ANDREW J. HARNE,
AUCTIONEER.
Will sell real or personal property.
Residence Oakland, Garrett county, Md
Oakland, Md., Feb. 21st, 1887.

W. McCULLOH BROWN,
SURVEYOR AND ENGINEER,
LAND SURVEYS PROMPTLY MADE.
Particular attention given to TOWN surveying, and the use of the LEVEL in laying out new roads, streets, water works, drains, and GRADE LINES generally, including tram ways and railroad work. Comparative elevations taken quickly by aneroid barometer. Address, box 41, Oakland, Md. 48 26t*

JONAS C. BEACHY,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
Will sell Real or Personal Estate.
Residence and post office address, BITTINGER, MD. 51-1yr.

ALEX'R C. MASON,
PRACTICAL SURVEYOR,
OAKLAND, MD.
Long experience enables me to locate tracts and military lots promptly and accurately. Being thoroughly familiar with the beginning corners of the most important surveys both in Allegany and Garrett counties. Plats, descriptions and estimates furnished. 40-1yr.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R. TIME TABLE IN EFFECT NOV. 25, 1900.

The following time table on the B. & O. went into effect on Sunday, Nov. 25, 1900. Trains now leave Oakland as follows:

GOING WEST.

No. 7.—Daily		2.40 A. M
No. 3—Daily		7.37 A. M
No. 71—Daily except Sunday		9.21 A. M
No. 55—Daily		4.47 P. M
No. 1—Daily		10.05 P. M

GOING EAST.

No. 8—Daily		5.50 A. M
No. 2—Daily		6.53 A. M
No. 46—Express, daily		4.41 P. M
No. 72—Accom daily except Sun		2.26 P. M
No. 12—Daily		8.30 P. M
No. 4—Daily		12.37 A. M

F. D. UNDERWOOD, General Manager.
D. B. MARTIN,
Manager of Passenger Traffic.
D. M. MASON, Agent.

WEST VIRGINIA CENTRAL AND PITTSBURG RAILWAY CO.
IN EFFECT NOV 25, 1900.

SOUTHWARD No. 3 P. M.	SOUTHWARD No. 1 A. M.	STATIONS	NORTHWARD No. 2 NOON	NORTHWARD No. 4 P. M.
3 15†	7 00† lv	Cumberland ar	†12 00	†7 00
3 43	7 29	Rawlings	11 31	6 31
4 06	7 52	Keyser	11 08	6 09
4 16	8 05	Westernport	10 58	5 57
4 20	8 09	W. Va. C. Junc.	10 51	5 50
4 39	8 35	Shaw	10 28	5 22
5 00	9 00	Harrison	†10 06	†5 00
5 45*	9 50* ar	Elk Garden	*9 10	*4 10
5 41†	9 35† lv	Gorman	†9 35	4 30
5 47	9 42	Bayard	9 29	4 25
5 59	9 54	Dobbin	9 19	4 15
6 02	9 58	Henry	9 15	4 11
6 27	10 27	Thomas	8 48	3 47
6 55	10 55 ar	Davis	8 05	3 05
6 31	10 34 lv	Coketon	8 41	3 40
6 59	11 01	Hendricks	8 10	3 10
7 02	11 04	Hambleton	8 07	3 07
7 05	11 07	Bretz	8 03	3 03
7 08	11 10	Parsons	8 00	3 00
7 47	11 45	Kerens	7 25	2 29
8 00†	12 00† ar	Elkins	lv †7 10	†2 15
	NOON
8 36*	12 45† ar	Beverly	lv *7 20	†1 40
9 05*	1 10† ar	Huttonsville	lv *6 30	†1 15
P. M.				P. M.
	3 15* ar	Bealington	lv	*11 40
	P. M.			A. M.

†Daily. *Daily except Sunday.

C. L. BRETZ, Gen. Manager.
G. W. HARRISON, Gen. Pas. Agent

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 25. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, APRIL 11, 1901. NUMBER 5.

ELECTION LAW

Passed at the Extra Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, 1901.

CHAPTER TWO.

An Act to re-enact with amendments sections 15 and 16 of Article 33 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, title "Elections," as the said Article was enacted by the Act of 1896, Chapter 202, entitled "An Act to repeal Article 33, entitled 'Elections,' of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, and the several Acts and parts of Acts amendatory thereto, and to re-enact the said Article 33 with amendments, and as such Article was amended by Acts supplementary to said Act of 1896, Chapter 202; and also to add a new section to relate to Registration of Voters, and to come in after section 25 of said Article 33, and to be known as Section 25 A; also to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 37 of Article 33, relating to nominations of candidates for public office; also to repeal and re-enact with amendments Sections 49, 50, 51 and 52 of said Article 33, sub-title 'Ballots and Ballot Boxes;' also to repeal and re-enact with amendments Sections 54, 61 and 62 of said Article 33, sub-title 'Elections;' also to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 66 of said Article 33, sub-title 'Count of Ballots;' also to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 114 A of said Article 33, sub-title 'Miscellaneous Provisions.'"

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Sections 15 and 16 of Article 33 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, title "Elections," sub-title "Registration," as the said Article was enacted by the Act of 1896, Chapter 202, be and the same are severally repealed and re-enacted so as to read as follows:

15. The Supervisors of Election shall furnish to each Board of Registry, for the purpose of such registration, two registry books, which it shall be the duty of said officers of registration to protect and keep safe, and the Supervisors shall designate two of said officers appointed from different political parties, each of whom shall be charged with the custody of one of said books during the intervals between the sessions of the Board of Registry until the return of said books to the Supervisors of Elections, as hereinafter provided. Such registry books shall be prepared substantially in the following form:

Residence and Postoffice Address.	Name.	Age.	Nativity.	Color.	Term of Residence.				Naturalized.	Date of Naturalization.	Court.	Qualified Voter.	Date of Application.	Signature.	Why Disqualified.	Vote Challenged.	Voted November, 1898.	Voted November, 1898.	Voted.	Remarks.
					Precinct or District.	County or Legislative District.	State.
230 Ohio avenue.	Ames, William	40	Maryland.	White.	6 mos.	2 yrs.	10 yrs	Native	.....	.....	.....	Yes.	Sept. 15, 1896
356 Cathedral st.	Allen, John H.	25	England.	White.	4 mos	3 yrs.	17 yrs	Yes.	May 17, '91.	City Ct., Balto.		Yes.	Sept. 15, 1896
131 Clark street.	Abt, Christian	32	Germany.	White.	3 yrs.	6 yrs.	6 yrs	Yes.	July 1, '88.	Sup. Ct., Chicago.		Yes.	Sept. 22, 1896

In the counties a sufficient number of columns headed "voted" should be provided to last until the next general registration, and in all registry books one or more extra columns should be provided, to be used in case of special election.

———Registers of voters, ———— precinct or district, ———ward, ————county (or city.)

16. On Tuesday, seven weeks preceding the election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1896, which shall occur after the enactment of this Article, each Board of Registry shall meet at the place designated by its Board of Supervisors of Elections, and shall proceed to make a general registration of all the voters in its precinct or district, as the case may be. The proceedings of each Board of Registry shall be as follows: 1. They shall open the registry in the City of Baltimore at 9 o'clock a. m. and continue in session until 9 o'clock p. m. on the Tuesday aforesaid. In the counties the hours of session shall be from 8 o'clock a. m. to 8 o'clock p. m. One of the officers of registration shall administer to all persons who shall personally apply to register the following oath or affirmation: "You do solemnly swear (or affirm) that you will fully and truly answer all such questions as shall be put to you touching your place of residence, name, place of birth, your qualifications as a voter, and your right as such to register and vote under the laws of this State." 2. The two officers of registration designated by the Supervisors to have the custody of the two registry books, or such of their colleagues as each of them may respectively ask to temporarily replace him in the discharge of this duty, shall make the entries therein required by this Article, and the questions as to qualifications shall be asked by the other officers of said Board. 3. The name and age of every applicant shall be entered in such registry books, and all the facts of his application shall be therein stated as herein provided, whether he be entitled to vote or not. If it shall be determined by the board that he is not a qualified voter in the precinct, then an entry shall be made in the appropriate column, "no," and a line shall be drawn in red ink through his name, and through all the other entries on the line on which his name is written, but so that the name and said other entries shall remain legible, and if qualified, an entry shall be made in the same column, "yes." 4. Only persons constitutionally qualified to vote in the precinct at the next election, and personally applying for registration, shall be registered as qualified voters. 5. The headings to the registry books shall be so prepared that the registry shall be made alphabetical, according to the surname of each person applying, and so that the residence and post-office address of such persons shall appear in the first column. The registers shall be ruled, and one name shall be written on each line, but no names shall be written between the lines. The entries shall be as follows: (A.) Under the column, residence and postoffice address, the name and number of the street, avenue or other location of the dwelling, if there be a definite number, or if there shall be duplicate numbers, such clear and definite description of the place of such dwelling as shall enable it to be readily ascertained; if there shall be more than one house at the number given by the applicant as his place of residence it shall be stated in which house he resides, and if there be more than one family residing in said house either the floor on which he resides, or the number or location of the room or rooms occupied by him shall be stated, every floor below the level of the street or ground being designated as the basement, the floor upon or first above such level being designated as the first floor, and each floor above that as the second, or such other floor as it may be; in county precincts it shall only be necessary to give such general description as may be sufficient for identification. (B.) Under the column, "name," the name of the applicant, writing the surname first, and full given or Christian name after. (C.) Under the column, "age," the age of the applicant. (D.) Under the column, "nativity," the state, country, empire, kingdom or dominion, as the facts shall be. (E.) Under the column, "color," the words "white" or "colored," as the case may be. (F.) Under the sub-divisions of the general column, "term of residence," the period by day, month or year stated by the applicant. (G.) Under the column, "naturalized," the word "yes" or "no," or "native," as the fact may be. (H.) Under the column, "date of naturalization," the date of naturalization, if naturalized. No naturalization papers need be produced if a majority of the Board are satisfied that for three years next preceding the applicant claiming to be naturalized has been a registered voter in this State, and has actually voted on such previous registration; but they shall note his answers to the questions, when and in what court he was naturalized, and also in the column headed "remarks," where and when he was so previously registered. (J.) Under the column, "court," the designation of the court in which, if naturalized, such naturalization was had. (K.) Under the column, "qualified voter," the word "yes," if the fact shall appear or be determined by a majority of the Board of Registry, or the word "no," if such fact be not established to the satisfaction of a majority of the Board. (L.) Under the column, "Date of Application," the month, day and year when the applicant presented himself. (N.) After the answers of the applicant to the questions under the heads of each and all the above mentioned columns have been properly entered by the officers in his presence in both registers, and not until then, he shall be asked to sign his name upon the same line under the column "signature" in each of them, and shall sign his name, if he can do so. If, however, he shall state his inability to do so, or declines to do so, the officers shall make the entry, "cannot write" or "declines," as the case may be, in the place for such signature. The Board of Registry shall be entitled to receive from the officers having custody thereof the last preceding registration books, for the purpose of comparison and assistance in identification, and if any one shall apply for registration, who appears in such former registry as disqualified, his name shall be entered in the new register, but he shall be marked "disqualified," unless such grounds of disqualification shall have been removed. At the end of the day's registry said officers shall compare the two registers so kept, and cause any errors in either of them to be corrected, by aid of the entries in the other, so as to make the same agree where there is any difference between them. Each of the said officers having the custody of one of said registers shall then sign his name or initials immediately under the last name registered under each letter in the book kept by him, so that no new name can be added without discovery. The said Board of Registry shall keep, on blanks to be provided for that purpose by the Board of Supervisors of Elections, an alphabetical list of the names, addresses and color of all persons registered, and a separate list of all persons refused registration, and of all persons whose names are erased from the registry. In the City of Baltimore, at the end of each session, they shall deliver these lists to the police officer on duty at the registration office, and the list shall be delivered by the said officer to the Police Board, and by the Police Board to the Board of Supervisors of Elections, in the forenoon of the day following the said sitting. The Board of Supervisors for the City of Baltimore shall then cause such list to be printed in handbill form, in plain long primer type, and copies thereof posted within three days after each session, in such manner that they may be easily read, in at least ten prominent places in each precinct. Nothing in this Section 16, or in the preceding Section 15 as hereby re-enacted with amendments, shall affect the registration in the counties heretofore made under this Article nor require the furnishing of new registry books in the counties, nor in Baltimore City for the supplemental registration for the municipal election in 1901, but the registry books now in existence shall continue to be used as far as practicable, and the provisions of said Sections 15 and 16 as hereby re-enacted shall be applied only to registrations hereafter to be made.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That a new Section be and the same is hereby added to Article 33 of the Code of Public General Laws, title "Elections," sub-title "Registration," to come in after Section 25, and to be known as Section 25 A, such new Section to read as follows:

25 A. All persons who, prior to the passage of this Act, shall have vacated or removed from, or have gone with their parents from the place of their actual abode, domicile, dwelling place or habitation within this State, and shall have taken a domicile, dwelling place, abode or habitation out of this State, shall be conclusively presumed to have thereby intended to abandon their legal residence in this State, and to have surrendered their right to registration as legal voters in this State, unless within thirty days after the passage of this Act they shall go in person before the Clerk of the Circuit Court for the county from which they shall have so removed, or before the Clerk of the Superior Court of Baltimore City, if their removal shall have been from said city, and make and acknowledge before such Clerk an affidavit that when they so removed they did not intend to change their legal residence within the State, but that they had a fixed purpose to return at a definite time, and that they intend to return to this State and take up their actual domicile and habitation therein, on or before six months next preceding the Tuesday after the first Monday of November next succeeding the making of such affidavit. The form of such affidavit shall be substantially as follows: State of Maryland———— County or City of Baltimore, set: I hereby certify that on this————day of————, 19—, before the subscriber, Clerk of the Circuit Court for———— County (or of the Superior Court of Baltimore City), personally appeared ————and made oath or affirmation in due form of law, that up to the day of————, or thereabouts, he was an actual resident and inhabitant of the ————election district of———— County, or of the———Precinct of the ———Ward of the——— Legislative District of Baltimore City, that on or about the———day of———he removed from his said domicile or place of residence in said county or city, and took up his domicile, habitation, dwelling place or abode out of the State of Maryland, to wit (in here insert minute and definite description of the place of abode), that when he so removed out of the State he had a fixed and definite purpose to return thereto by a certain time, and that he did not intend, by such removal, to change his residence within the State, or to return, or not to return to this State, as circumstances thereafter might make expedient; sworn to before me (signature of clerk, seal of court); and unless the persons respectively making such affidavits shall actually return to this State, and shall actually take up their abode, domicile or habitation therein, six months before the Tuesday after the first Monday in November next succeeding the making of said affidavit, they shall be conclusively presumed to have lost their legal residence therein, and shall not be entitled to registration therein as legal voters, and the officers of registration shall strike off their names from the registry if they be entered thereon; and after the passage of this Act all persons wh shall vacate and remove from the place of their actual domicile, abode, dwelling place or habitation out of this State, shall be conclusively presumed to have lost their residence in this State, and shall, in consequence thereof, become disqualified to vote unless at or about the time of such removal, or within ten days thereafter, they shall go in person before the Clerk of the Circuit Court for the county from which they shall so remove, or before the Clerk of the Superior Court of Baltimore City, if such removal be from said city, and shall make and acknowledge before him an affidavit declaring that notwithstanding such removal from their domicile, abode, dwelling place or habitation they do not intend thereby to change their legal residence, but that they have a fixed and definite purpose to return to this State on or before six months preceding the next succeeding election in November. The form of such affidavit shall be as follows: State of Maryland, City (or County) of————set: I hereby certify that on this———day of———— before the subscriber, Clerk of the Circuit Court for————County (or Superior Court of Baltimore City) personally appeared————and made oath (or affirmation) in due form of law, that on or about the———day of ————he vacated and removed from his habitation, dwelling place, domicile or abode, in the———Precinct of the———Election District of———— County (or of the———Ward in the ——Legislative District of Baltimore City) and took up his abode out of the State. (Here insert particular designation of such new abode by election district, precinct, ward, street and number whenever practicable); that notwithstanding such removal he does not intend thereby to change his residence, but that he has a fixed and definite purpose to return to this State on or before six months preceding the next succeeding election in November; sworn before me (signature of Clerk, seal of Court); and if the persons making such affidavits shall fail so to return and take up their actual abode, domicile, dwelling place and habitation in this State on or before six months next preceding such November election, they shall be conclusively presumed to have abandoned such declared intention, and shall thereupon become disqualified to vote in this State, and the officers of registration shall refuse to register them as qualified voters, or shall strike off their names from the registry if their names be entered thereon. The clerk before whom such affidavit shall be made shall retain, index and record the same, and shall be entitled to demand and receive for each affidavit sworn the sum of thirty cents, and for indexing and recording the affidavit and acknowledgment thereto the same compensation as allowed by law for indexing and recording deeds; such costs to be paid to said clerks by the County Commissioners and Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, respectively. Such affidavits shall not be admissible in evidence of the right of the persons making the same to registration unless they are recorded within five days from the date of the acknowledgments thereto, and a duly certified copy thereof shall be receivable in evidence in the same manner as a certified copy of a deed. False swearing in any of such affidavits shall be deemed to be perjury, and shall be punishabe as perjury is punishable by the Code of Public General Laws, Article 27, title "Crimes and Punishments," sub-title "Perjury." Said officers of registration shall require the production of such affidavits, duly recorded, or a duly certified copy theireof in all cases where they shall have reason to suspect that the person applying to be registered as a qualified voter has lost his residence by reason of his removal from the State as hereinbefore mentioned; and they may also in such cases put any question which they may deem proper to such applicant concerning the place where he dwelt in the county or legislative district before such removal out of the State, his occupation before such removal and since the time when he so removed, and when he returned, and all other pertinent facts and circumstances touching the right of such person to be registered, and they may require the truth of the answers of all persons to such questions to be corroborated by independent evidence if in their discretion they shall think proper, and if in answer to their question, or upon testimony produced before them, it shall appear to their satisfaction that the person applying to be registered had left the State without any intention of returning, or with the intention of returning at some indefinite time in the future, he shall not be entitled to be registered as a legal voter; provided, however, that this section shall not apply to United States Senators and Representatives in Congress from Maryland. Any officer of registration who shall fail or refuse to perform the duty imposed upon him by this section shall be subject to the penalties imposed by Section 88 of this Article.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That Section 37 of said Article 33, title "Elections," sub-title "Nominations," be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments, so as to read as follows:

37. All nominations made by such convention or primary meetings shall be certified as follows: The certificate of nomination shall be in writing, shall contain the name of each person nominated, his residence, his business, his address and the office for which he is nominated, and shall designate, in not more than five words, the party or principle which such convention or primary meeting represents. It shall be signed by the presiding officer and secretary of such convention, who shall add to their signatures their respective places of residence, their business and business address, and acknowledge the same before an officer duly authorized to take acknowledgment thereto. If the nomination is by means of a primary election, the certificate shall be signed and acknowledged by the person or persons whose duty it may be, by party usage, to declare the result of such election in the manner prescribed for a nomination by a convention, but no party emblem or device of any kind shall be added to said certificate; and if any emblem or device of any kind shall be added to said certificate; and if any such emblem or device should be added, it shall not be printed upon the ballot by the Secretary of State or any of the Board of Supervisors of Election.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That Sections 49, 50, 51 and 52, of said Article 33, title "Elections," sub-title "Ballots and Ballot Boxes," be and the same are hereby severally repealed and re-enacted with amendments, so as to read as follows:

49. It shall be the duty of the Board of Supervisors of Elections of each county and of the City of Baltimore to provide ballots for every election for public officers held under this Article in which any voter within the county or said city shall participate, and cause to be printed on the ballot the name of every candidate whose name has been certified to or filed with the proper officers in the manner herein provided by such political party organization or body of individuals; but the said supervisors shall not be required to print any name upon a ballot if such name shall not have been certified to them at least six days before election day. Each ballot shall contain a statement of every constitutional amendment or other question to be submitted to the vote of the people at any election. Ballots other than those printed by the respective Boards of Supervisors of Elections, according to the provisions of this Article, shall not be cast or counted in any election except as hereinafter provided. Nothing in this Article contained shall prevent any voter from writing on his ballot and marking in the proper place the name of any person other than those already printed for whom he may desire to vote for any office, and such votes shall be counted the same as if the name of such person had been printed upon the ballot and marked by the voter. Any voter may take with him into the polling place any written or printed memorandum or paper to assist him in marking or preparing his ballot, except a fac-simile of the ballot to be voted. Ballots shall be printed and in possession of the Supervisors of elections at least four days before election day, and a correct list of the names of the candidates thereon with the designation of the offices for which the persons named thereon are candidates shall be furnished on demand by the Supervisors to the candidates or their authorized agents. If any mistakes be discovered, it shall be the duty of said Supervisors to correct the same without delay, and if said Supervisors shall decline or refuse to make correction, then upon the sworn petition of any qualified voter who would have the right to vote for such candidate at the approaching election, the Circuit Court for any county, or one the Judges of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City, may, by order, require said Supervisors of Elections to correct such error or to show cause why such error should not be corrected.

50. The form and arrangement of the ballots shall be as follows: All ballots shall contain the names of every candidate whose nomination for any office specified in the ballot has been certified to and filed according to the provisions of this Article and not withdrawn in accordance herewith. The names of candidates for every offices shall, except in the case of candidates for Presidential Electors, be arranged alphabetically according to their surname under the designation of the office. To the right of the name of each candidate upon the official ballot, and immediately to the left of the square opposite the name of the candidate and in line therewith, shall be added the designation of the party or principle which the candidate represents, as is duly contained in the certificate of nomination or nomination papers. To the name of each candidate for State office or candidate for Congress shall be added the name of the county or city in which the candidate resides. Ballots shall be so printed as to give to each voter a clear opportunity to designate by a cross (X) in a square at the right of the name of each candidate, and at the right of each question his choice of candidates and his answsr to such question. If a candidate is named for the same office on two or more certificates of nominations his name shall be printed on the ballot but once, and to the right of the name of said candidate shall be added the names of each of the parties, or principles which the candidate represents. When the name of a political party is given in connection with the name of a candidate nominated, as provided in Section 38 of this Article, it shall be stated on the ballot to the right of the name of the candidate; but if there shall have been any nomination for the same office by a convention or primary election claiming the same party name, duly certified as hereinafter provided, the word "Independent" shall precede the party name, if the candidate is nominated under the provisions of the said Section 38, to be printed to the right of the name of each candidate, except presidential electors. If the same party name shall be claimed on behalf of nominations made by more than one convention or primary election and duly certified as aforesaid, the officers by whom the ballot is to be prepared, or a majority of them, shall determine which nominees are justly entitled to the party name, and the word "Independent" shall precede the party name of the other nominee. The names of candidates for the office of Electors of President and Vice President of the United States shall be arranged in groups, as presented in the several certificates of nomination papers, and the several groups shall be arranged in such order of the surnames of the cadidates for President as the several Boards of Supervisors shall prescribe in the City of Baltimore and in the several counties respectively. If candidates for Presidential Electors are nominated at large and for the several Congressional Districts, the name and place of residenee of the candidates at large shall be put at the head of each group and the names of the other candidates with their places of residence, including the numbers of the Congressional District in which they reside shall in numerical order. The surname of the candidates of each political party for the office of President and Vice President so formed as to include both names and to the right of the name of each elector a sufficient clear square in which each voter may designate by a cross (X) his choice for electors. All candidates for office shall, as far possible, be placed in one column, but when the names to be printed upon the ticket are over thirty-six, then another column shall be added in which names shall be printed, and when two or more columns are used the same number of names shall, as far as possible, be printed in each column. A Constitutional Amendment, or any question to be submitted to the popular vote, shall be printed in a separate column to follow immediately after the names of the candidates.

(CONTINUED NEXT WEEK.)

CORKSCREW PHILOSOPHY.

An angel in disguise—a woman without a mission.

Never mokey with the measles; it is sure to come out on you if you do.

The sinners are having a hard time of it—Carrie Nation in this world and ——nation in the next.

Carnegie has said that it is a sin to die rich. If that proposition be true, it is a sin to acquire riches.

A half loaf is better than no bread; it depends upon the bread. Better no bread than that acquired by iniquity.

The average citizen is only afraid of three things—death, devil and taxes, and taxes scare him the worst.

It's no trouble for makers of patent medicines to lie about them; they're made to be swallowed (the lies and medicine both.)

Did you hear the story about the bad counterfeit dollar? You didn't? Well, it's too bad; it's not fit to utter.

An educational qualification in order to secure the right of suffrage is all right; but a moral qualification would be a great deal better. Ignorance does not rule, nor will it ruin the world.

You may trample on my rights, but you do it at your own peril. Whatever peril there may be from Negro supremacy in the south, it is the culmination of a thousand wrongs wrought against him.

What a queer world it all is: Josiah Flynt has written an article on "The Powers that Prey," and Mark Twain is out with an article on "The Powers that Pray." (Apparently a distinction without a definition.) If both are right civilization is between the devil and the deep sea.

JACKSON.

GARRETT COUNTY ENUMERATORS.

List of Those Recommended for Appointment by the County Committee.

Recently the Democratic Central Committee for this county recommended the following gentlemen as census enumerators for Garrett county, the list having been forwarded to Col. Buchanan Schley, the Director of the Census:

Dist. No. 1—Theodore Beckman.
2—Jasper Guard.
3—Charles A. Bender.
4—William J. Barnard.
5—Fred C. Ries.
6—Nathan C. Browning.
7—Richard F. Bartlett.
8—John A. Hughes.
9—Moses H. McKenzie.
10—Thomas J. Garrett.
11—Peter F. Michael.
12—Perry Broadwater.
13—C. H. Pool.
14—William Hinebaugh.

The above are all affiliated with the organization wing of the Democracy.

Artistic Publications Issued by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad—Guide to Washington.

The Passenger Department of the Baltimore & Ohio R. R. have issued a Guide to Washington, which in many respects excells all other guides published; both in artistic appearance and careful description of points of interest in the Capital City. The front cover of the book is embellished with a handsome steel engraved portrait of the "Stuart" Washington. The reverse cover bears an American flag in the grasp of an eagle. Theinpages contain recent photographs of all of the Government Buildings with correct information concerning them, together with other interesting features of the city, and the very latest map. Copies will be sold at the principle Ticket Offices of the Baltimore & Ohio R. R. for ten (10) cents cash, or will be mailed to any address on receipt of (15) cents in stamps on application to the undersigned.

"Reasons Why."

"Reasons Why" is a forty-two page phamphlet giving in condensed form the important facts concerning the Baltimore & Ohio R. R. It is an argument setting forth the claims of the railroad for public consideration. This artistic booklet contains many half-tones and drawings illustrating the history, scenic charms, the development and progress of the railroad, and the superior service afforded to patrons. Single copies can be obtained of Ticket agents, or will be mailed to any address on receipt of two (2) cents in postage stamps on application to the undersigned.

2-4t D. B. MARTIN,
Manager Passenger Traffic,
Baltimore & Ohio R. R.
Baltimore, Md.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN.

THE REPUBLICAN.

BENJ. H. SINCELL. Publisher.

OAKLAND, : GARRETT CO., MD.

What the Matter Was With Dawley

PEOPLE speaking of Egbert Dawley called him sometimes "an exceedingly well-informed man," sometimes "real bright," and sometimes "finely edgercated," but they not infrequently added that he was a trifle conceited, or various equivalents in the vernacular. As a matter of fact he was well informed and he certainly had the self-confidence that a certain degree of knowledge begets. He was a good-looking young man, too, with a lofty, pallid brow and a trim little dark mustache. He wore eyeglasses, which increased his appearance of intellectuality, and he dressed very neatly—rather too neatly, if anything.

Dawley felt that he was naturally fitted for a diplomatic career or something of that sort. He had artistic tastes and might have gone in for painting or sculpture or even music, but fate had pitchforked him into commercial life—specifically, into a wholesale dry-goods house—and he was obliged to make the best of it. He was not popular with the rest of the men in the house, but they were a common, ordinary lot, and they naturally felt his superiority. Sometimes a feeling of this sort is manifested by "joshing," but Dawley was not "joshed" to any great extent. Either he showed a lofty indifference to it or else he retorted with some aggravating sarcasm. The best thing was to let him alone, and that course was pretty generally pursued.

In society Dawley was the arbiter of taste and an all-around authority on things in general. If he was confronted with pottery he would begin to bubble over with the distinctive characteristics of Wedgewood, Dresden or Sevres, and hark back to the Roman and Grecian art, with perhaps and airy offhand allusion to the Eleusinian mysteries in connection with the Portland vase. If he was invited to give an opinion on some gem from the picture department of a down-town store he would discourse very impressively of breadth and depth of treatment and chiaro oscuro and would ring in Douw and Poussin and Gliotto. When he talked about the theater his listeners soon became conscious that most of the actors of the present day were entirely wanting in a delicate appreciation of the motive of their parts, and in his intellectual communion with the Sevignes and Thrales of his circle he was a literary Daniel come to judgment. Nevertheless he was a good dancer and he had his mustache, so the buds did not shun him. He rather prided himself, too, on his small talk. On the whole, he liked the society of women. They came nearer to appreciating him than men did. Still, he never particularized in this respect. The boys down town said he was too darned stuck on himself.

One morning there came a new stenographer to take the place of Miss Grigsby, the dignified, middle-aged lady who had resigned her position to become companion to a prosperous invalid aunt in the country. Dawley saw her at her desk at a distance for several days before he took the trouble to go close enough to get a good look at her, and he might not have gone then had he not noticed that her hair was of the true Titian red. For one thing he had heard the men speak of her rapturously as "a peach," and he thought he knew the kind of young person that would interest them. She was busy when he passed her, and he saw that her hands were plump and white and fairly well shaped, but the nails were disfigured by being bitten. Next his critical glance took in her little double chin, her tip-tilted nose and the whiteness and fine texture of her skin. It had got to this point when the young woman finished the sheet on which she had been writing; then she raised a pair of rather prepossessing blue eyes to Dawley's, and, nodding at him in a friendly, offhand way, said: "Good morning."

Dawley smiled in his most winning manner, and, returning the salutation, passed on.

For a week or two this morning greeting was about the extent of their communication. Then Dawley felt a disposition to linger and sound the little stenographer's mental depth, if she had any, which he feared was not the case. He premeditated a little opening remark apropos of the typewriter on Babylonic bricks, but he forgot that when she told him there was a smudge on his nose.

"Is there?" he asked in some confusion, fumbling for his handkerchief.

"On the right side," she said. "There! No, now you've only made it worse. Here, give it to me. Stoop down." She took the handkerchief, and, moistening it with her tongue, rubbed Dawley's nose vigorously and then looked at it with her head on one side. Just then Sparks, one of the coarsest beasts in the place, came along, with his face on a broad grin.

"Here, I ain't going to stand for that, Miss Dixon," he chuckled. "Of course Eggie is a nice boy and all that and you don't mean anything by it, but all dates are off between you and me after that."

"Oh, forget it," retorted Miss Dixon. "You're not going to let a little thing like that worry you."

"Besides which," pursued Sparks, "Eggie has got a true, manly heart, and it ain't right to trifle with it."

"It was my nose she was trifling with," said Dawley. "Don't you mind him, Miss Dixon; he's merely trying to be humorous, and this is about as near as he ever comes to it. He thinks he's doing pretty well, though, and he really is—for him."

He felt disgusted with the whole thing, and he was still more disgusted when Sparks went around with a handkerchief in his hand, begging the other fellows to wipe an imaginary black spot off his nose. This request was always granted, and for a time it was quite the usual thing for the men to pull out pocket mirrors and handkerchiefs and rub their own noses when Dawley approached them. Still, nobody could have guessed how the proceedings exasperated the young man from his manner, and the joke naturally died at last.

If at first he decided that Miss Dixon's action was somewhat indelicate he changed his mind about it afterward. It might have been in anybody else, but she was too entirely a child of nature, tempered with Chicago, that it seemed on consideration almost proper. A day seldom passed that he did not go up to her desk to talk to her, and he found himself very much amused by her artless chatter. He felt that he was unbending. He occasionally hurled Babylonic bricks at her and was not in the least offended when she told him that his language was "fierce" and desired him to come down to where she could reach him without standing on tiptoe and ripping the seams in her sleeves. He told Johnson, the one man in the house with whom he was on intimate terms, that "the little girl was simply delicious."

"Watch her chewing gum now," said Johnson.

"Oh, well!" replied Dawley, tolerantly, "that's just a part of her. You ought to have heard her telling me about her ma and her pa, and the way she called down a young lady friend of hers about something the young lady friend had said about her to another young lady friend."

"All the same, you oughtn't to get her to thinking that you are gone on her," Johnson said. "I don't say that you do, only you know that there's beginning to be a sort of impression that you are."

SHE TOOK THE HANDKERCHIEF.

"Great Scott, no!" exclaimed Dawley. "Oh, of course, I jolly her once in awhile, but she knows how to take that—I guess she does."

When Dawley began to think it over he was not so sure whether Miss Dixon knew how to take him. He had occasionally made protestations of an ardent and consuming passion. He had called her Emmeline for some time when they were alone, but she had laughed at him and he had supposed that she had understood perfectly well that he was not in earnest. He was, in the main, a right-minded young man, and, recalling the fable of the boy and the frogs, he reflected that what was sport to him might be death to her. He decided that he would keep himself steadily to the lace department and away from Miss Dixon's desk. He did so for about a week and, then, yielding to a feeling of curiosity, he went over and found her chatting in a very animated fashion with Sparks and showing no sign of mental anguish.

He felt irritated, and vaguely uneasy, and when he heard her join her musical laugh to Sparks' raucous bray a moment later his irritation turned to something like rage. For another week he avoided her, and during that time his uneasiness became more defined. He lost his appetite to a great extent, which he could hardly account for. At the end of the week he concluded that as the young woman was evidently in no danger of misplacing her affections he might as well go back and talk to her. He went.

She was not busy and as he approached she looked up at him with the old bright smile and familiar nod. "Hello, Eggie!" she said.

"I wish you wouldn't call me that," said Dawley, rather testily. "You've learned that from Sparks."

"What's eating you?" she inquired. "Will 'Mr. Dawley' do?"

"No, you needn't call me that, either—what's that—a new ring?"

She extended her left hand and showed him. "Either that or a slot machine," she said. "What's your guess?"

"Where did you get it?" asked Dawley, who felt himself growing pale.

"I got that from my steady."

"Do you mean," said Dawley, slowly and with an effort, "that it is an engagement ring—that it was given to you by the man you expect to marry?"

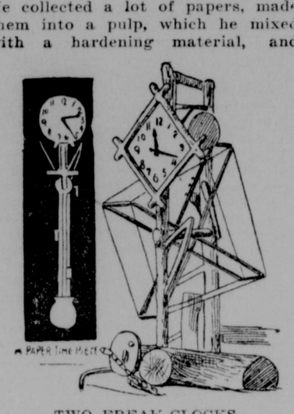
"Sure thing," said Miss Dixon, blushing a little.

Then Dawley knew what was the matter with him.—Chicago Daily Record.

MAKES FREAK CLOCKS.

Frenchman Manufactures Reliable Timepieces of Straw, Wood and Common Paper.

In Coutances, France, lives M. Le Boullat, a curious man, who devotes his energies to the manufacture of curious clocks. He makes timepieces of straw, of wood, of paper, and sometimes of solid gold, inlaid with diamonds. For 20 years he has been working at his "freak" clocks and has made them of almost every conceivable material. One of Boullat's clocks is made out of old newspapers. He collected a lot of papers, made them into a pulp, which he mixed with a hardening material, and



TWO FREAK CLOCKS.
(One Is Made Entirely of Paper, the Other of Logs.)

carved his clock out of the resultant mass. When he got through preparing the paper pulp it was as hard as steel, but very brittle. Nevertheless, by the exercise of great care, he was able to carve out the wheels, posts, teeth, pendulum, etc. The pendulum rod and other large pieces were made by casting the material in a mold.

Another is a clock of wood. He calls it a rustic clock, and it certainly is rustic in appearance. It looks like a collection of logs and sticks held together by wires. On closer inspection one sees that it is a veritable clock constructed on scientific principles. All the parts of this wooden clock are complete, though they are simple, almost primitive in design. The base of the clock is made of two logs of firewood, fastened crosswise. Two upright sticks solidly connected at top and bottom serve as a support for the spindles of the wheels. The moto weight is suspended from the drum of a four-armed wheel, which occupies the central part of the timepiece. The mechanism consists of a motor weight, the four-armed wheel and encasement rack, a pendulum and two pulleys, one of which has a crank and handle for winding. A dial and hands complete the clock, all of which is made of wood except the wheel range of the rack, which is of metal. This clock keeps excellent time, never varying more than two minutes a week, a remarkable thing when one considers the construction.

Several years ago M. Boullat made a clock of straw which attracted much attention. Frequently the clockmaker receives commissions from rich Frenchmen for the construction of clocks of silver or gold, decorated with precious stones. He has made clocks entirely of gold, with diamond-tipped hands and rubies, garnets, pearls, opals, emeralds and other precious stones to represent the figures on the dial. Some of the clocks are small, but beautiful.

ORVILLE H. PLATT.

Connecticut Statesman Who Wants to Suppress Long-Distance Oratory in the Senate.

Senator Orville H. Platt, who proposes to shut off by rule the right of interminable speaking in the senate, is a Connecticut man, and has represented his state in the United States senate since March, 1879. He has been reelected every succeeding six years since that time, and his present term will expire in 1903. Mr. Platt says he is tired of having to stay silent upon measures he wishes to talk about and to listen to unlimited discussion about measures to which he is opposed. This sort of sentiment is considered revolutionary by the senatorian code, but Mr. Platt doesn't care by what name they call his programme so long as he can hope to secure it. The Connecticut senator has been associated with parliamentary matters since 1855—when he became clerk of the senate of the legislature or his state. In 1869 he was speaker of the Connecticut house, all of which, together with his 22 years' experience in Washington, makes him a competent parliamentary critic

ORVILLE H. PLATT.
(Connecticut Senator Who Is Opposed to Long-Distance Oratory.)

WRITES OF NOBLE WORK.

Miss Helen Gould Tells of What the Women's Auxiliary Hopes to Do for Sailors.

Miss Helen Miller Gould has, in a modest way, entered the literary field. In the March number of Success there is a brief article from her pen on a subject known to be close to her heart, "The Saving of the Soldier and the Sailor." In it she tells, in a simple, practical way, of the work that the women's auxiliary intends to do in the new shore home for the jolly jack tar, which is nearing completion just outside of the Brooklyn navy yard, and into which Miss Gould has cheerfully put about $400,000. She invites the co-operation of patriotic American women in helping along the good work. Miss Gould says:

"Nowhere in the range of uplifting activities does there exist a better field for usefulness than in the improvement of the social surroundings of the enlisted men of the army and navy. This is the semi-patriotic work in which the ladies of the women's auxiliary of the international committee of the Young Women's Christian association have been engaged since 1899."

Sure Signs of Age.

The writer of "Feminine News and Views" gives these sure signs of old age in woman: 1. When letters to girl friends are mostly addressed "Mrs." 2. When she begins to care a great deal about the supper at an entertainment. 3. When she feels a sudden interest in church and charity work. 4. When she is attractive to very young men. 5. When she realizes the folly of dressing in sober colors. 6. When she compares the new way of wearing the hair with that when she first put hers up. 7. When—most fatal of all—the gravity of youth gradually gives way to incipient kittenishness.

Knowing and Telling.

"The man that tells all he knows," said the Cornfed Philosopher, "is a good deal plentier than the man that knows all he tells."—Indianapolis Press.

Throw physic to the dogs—if you don't want the dogs—but if you want good digestion chew Beeman's Pepsin Gum.

It were safer to place your mouth to the muzzle of a gun than on the lips of a deceitful woman.—N. Y. Herald.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES do not stain the hands or spot the kettle. Sold by all druggists.

When wine is in wit is out.—Danish Proverb.

Piso's Cure cannot be too highly spoken of as a cough cure.—J. W. O'Brien, 322 Third Ave., N., Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 6, 1900.

Money will not buy food for a hungry heart.—Chicago Daily News.

Coughing Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam will stop the Cough at once. Go to your druggist to-day and get a sample bottle free. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents. Go at once: delays are dangerous.

Sometimes when the muse declines to be invoked, she cannot help but be provoked which seems to answer equally well for magazine purposes.—Detroit Journal.

I am sure Piso's Cure for Consumption saved my life three years ago.—Mrs. Thos. Robbins, Maple Street, Norwich, N. Y., Feb 17, 1900.

It is easy to recover from another man's adversity.—Ram's Horn.

When You Buy Ink

get Carter's and you will get the best every time. "Inklings" free. Carter's Ink Co., Boston.

It must be difficult for a square man to look round.—Ally Sloper.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

There are always a lot of people willing to pay a little something to have their prejudice tickled.—Atchison Globe.

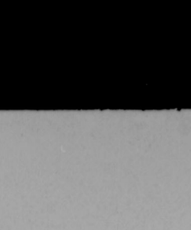
AFTER-EFFECTS OF LA GRIPPE.

THE after-effects of the grip are often disastrous. It is commonly known to the medical fraternity that the numerous ailments and complications which follow the grip are apt to be more serious than the acute stage of the disease.

Some people have the grip very lightly. They may be confined to the house only a day or two and yet a long train of disagreeable, disabling symptoms follow. All sorts of tonics and stimulating remedies have been devised to meet this condition. None of them can compare in results with Peruna.

Every one who has had the grip ought to take a short course of Peruna. Read what the following people have to say about it.

Washington, Feb. 4, 1899.
The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:
Gentlemen —



Congressman Howard.

"I have taken Peruna now for two weeks, and find I am very much relieved. I feel that my cure will be permanent. I have also taken it for la grippe, and take pleasure in recommending Peruna as an excellent remedy to all fellow-sufferers." M. W. Howard.

Congressman Howard's home address is Fort Payne, Ala.

Grip Produces Catarrh.

Henry Distin, the inventor and maker of all the band instruments for the Henry Distin Mfg. Co., at Williamsport, Pa., writes:

1441 South Ninth Street,
Philadelphia, Pa., May 6, 1899.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Dear Sir:—"I write to inform you that I had a bad attack of la grippe last December which lasted more than three months and which left me with catarrh, when several of my frends advised me to try your wonderful medicine, Peruna. I began with a bottle the first week in March and it certainly did me a great deal of good. I was so well satisfied that I purchased another bottle and followed your directions which you furnish with every bottle, and I am glad to say that it has cured me. I shall certainly recommend the Peruna to all my friends."

GRIP CAUSED NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA.

D. D. Wallace, a charter member of the International Barbers' Union, writes from 15 Western avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.:

"Following a severe attack of la grippe, I seemed to be affected badly all over. I suffered with a severe backache, indigestion and numerous ills, so I could neither eat nor sleep, and I thought I would give up my work, which I could not afford to do.

"One of my customers who was greatly helped by Peruna advised me to try it, and I procured a bottle the same day. I used it faithfully and felt a marked improvement. During the next two months I took five bottles, and then felt splendid. Now my head is clear, my nerves are steady, I enjoy food, and rest well. Peruna has been worth a dollar a dose to me."—D. L. Wallace.

Washington, April 24, 1900.
The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:
Gentlemen—

Frances M. Anderson.

"About two months ago I was taken very ill with la grippe and was obliged to go to bed. I took three bottles of Peruna with very beneficial results and was able to leave my bed in a week, and regained my usual strength very soon. I have nothing but the highest praise for Peruna and recommend it to those similarly afflicted wherever I can."—Frances M. Anderson.

Grip Poisoned Her Blood.

Mrs. T. W. Collins, Treasurer of the Independent Order of Good Templars of Everett, Wash., writes:

"After having a severe attack of la grippe I continued in a feeble condition even after the doctor called me cured. My blood seemed poisoned.

"I also suffered with dyspepsia, and had either to starve or suffer from what I was eating. A neighbor who was using Peruna praised it so highly that she induced me to try it, and I soon found that this was what I really needed.

"I could soon eat my regular meals with relish, my system was built up, my health returned, and I have remained in excellent strength and vigor now for over two years."—Mrs. T. W. Collins.

GRIP LEFT HER BROKEN DOWN.

Miss Alice Dressler, of 1313 N. Bryant avenue, Minneapolis, Minn., writes as follows concerning Peruna:

"Last spring I suffered from la grippe and was partially cured, but the bad after-effects remained through the summer and somehow I did not get as strong as I was before.

"In the fall I caught cold after getting my feet wet and attending a lecture in a cold hall, and suffered a relapse. Catarrh of the throat and head followed, and as I was in a weak condition physically previous to this, it took but little to break me down completely. One of my college friends, who was visiting me, asked me to try Peruna and I did so and found it all and more than I had expected. It not only cured me of catarrh, but restored me to perfect health."—Alice Dressler.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

SPECIAL PRICES 50 Days' Trial. Guaranteed. Double and Combination Beam. OSGOOD SCALE CO., 203 Central St., BINGHAMTON, N.Y.

Catalog Free. Write now.

PILES ANAKESIS gives instant relief and POSITIVELY CURES PILES. For free sample address "ANAKESIS," Tribune building, New York.

No matter how pleasant your surroundings, health, good health, is the foundation for enjoyment. Bowel trouble causes more aches and pains than all other diseases together, and when you get a good dose of bilious bile coursing through the blood life's a hell on earth. Millions of people are doctoring for chronic ailments that started with bad bowels, and they will never get better till the bowels are right. You know how it is—you neglect—get irregular—first suffer with a slight headache—bad taste in the mouth mornings, and general "all gone" feeling during the day—keep on going from bad to worse untill the suffering becomes awful, life loses its charms, and there is many a one that has been driven to suicidal relief. Educate your bowels with CASCARETS. Don't neglect the slightest irregularity. See that you have one natural, easy movement each day. CASCARETS tone the bowels—make them strong—and after you have used them once you will wonder why it is that you have ever been without them. You will find all your other disorders commence to get better at once, and soon you will be well by taking—

THE TONIC LAXATIVE

Cascarets

LIVER TONIC

BEST FOR THE BOWELS

10c. 25c. 50c.

ALL DRUGGISTS.

NEVER SOLD IN BULK.

CURE all bowel troubles, appendicitis, biliousness, bad breath, bad blood, wind on the stomach, bloated bowels, foul mouth, headache, indigestion, pimples, pains after eating, liver trouble, sallow complexion and dizziness. When your bowels don't move regularly you are getting sick. Constipation kills more people than all other diseases together. It is a starter for the chronic ailments and long years of suffering that come afterwards. No matter what ails you, start taking CASCARETS to-day, for you will never get well and be well all the time until you put your bowels right. Take our advice; start with CASCARETS to-day, under an absolute guarantee to cure or money refunded.

458

GUARANTEED TO CURE: Five years ago the first box of CASCARETS was sold. Now it is over six million boxes a year, greater than any similar medicine in the world. This is absolute proof of great merit, and our best testimonial. We have faith and will sell CASCARETS absolutely guaranteed to cure or money refunded. Go buy today, two 50c boxes, give them a fair, honest trial, as per simple directions, and if you are not satisfied, after using one 50c box, return the unused 50c box and the empty box to us by mail, or the druggist from whom you purchased it, and get your money back for both boxes. Take our advice—no matter what ails you—start today. Health will quickly follow and you will bless the day you first started the use of CASCARETS. Book free by mail. Address: STERLING REMEDY CO., NEW YORK or CHICAGO.

REBELLION OF "FRONT NO. 3."

Loyalty to a Principle Proved the Open Door of Opportunity to Hotel Bell Boy.

The big hotel swarmed with guests, and Front No. 3 certainly had enough to keep him busy. At least, it seemed to him as if the clerk's bell was never quiet. People were continually coming and going, thronging the corridors, and keeping everybody connected with the house running and hurrying about with trunks, valises, bags, messages and errands of all sorts. Front No. 3 had his share. He was the new bell boy, but he promised to be of the right sort, as he proved to be alert and quick to learn.

Senator Robinson, the idol of the district, was coming to town, and he was booked for a banquet and speechmaking in parlor A that very night, and everybody from far and near had been invited to attend and meet the great man. It seemed as if the big register would not hold all the names of those who made application for rooms. When the clerk began reluctantly turning people away, Front No. 3 knew that the only vacant rooms left in the hotel were those that had been reserved for the occupancy of the senator and his friends.

The morning had almost passed when a cheer went up from the crowd that had gathered outside the doors, and as a large, genial-faced man entered, everybody at once became aware that the senator had arrived. The new boy did not stare, much as he would like to, but ran to his side in an instant, to take charge of the hand luggage, a privilege that the other fellows would almost have fought for had they not happened to be in various parts of the hotel on as many errands at the time.

"WHAT'S THE MATTER—NO WHISKY IN THE HOUSE?"

"Show the senator his rooms, Front," was the word.

The boy obeyed with alacrity, and the elevator man performed his little part with all due dignity. Showing every required courtesy and service, Front No. 3 safely bestowed the distinguished guest in his room and was backing in the direction of the door when the senator stopped him.

"Boy, bring up a bottle of whisky, some water and glasses."

The shoulders of Front No. 3 straightened almost imperceptibly, and his eyes grew suddenly tense. He had not planned for anything quite like this. He had thought the waiters would be called upon for anything of that sort. But here was a guest, a great man in the eyes of the people of the district and state, asking a temperance boy for whisky, and poor little Front No. 3 was stunned a little and dared not hesitate.

The senator noticed the momentary silence, and glancing up from a letter he held in his hand, said, a bit impatiently:

"Well, that's all."

The bell boy found his voice, and "dared to be a Daniel" yet again:

"I'm sorry, sir."

"Well, sorry for what? What's the matter—no whisky in the house? Or what's the trouble? Out with it."

Few boys could prevent themselves from trembling in their shoes with a difficulty of this sort presented them and in such a presence. Front No. 3 trembled and looked sadly confused, but he managed to lift his eyes as he bravely said:

"The trouble is, sir, I've made a promise, and I can't break it if I lose my place—no, not for the president of the United States."

It was the senator's turn to be somewhat astounded now, though he laid aside his letter and gazed at the boy with more curiosity than displeasure in his face.

"Why, boy, what do you mean? What are you here for in this hotel? Have you been here long? I ought to be very angry with you and send a complaint to the office. But—well there, I'm acustomed to have folks speak up when they have a grievance. I'm waiting."

"I confess I am a new boy, sir, and I never expected to be called upon to order intoxicating liquors or I never should have tried for the place. But I suppose it's all up with me, now. I can't take your order downstairs, sir."

"Tell me why," temporized the senator, with something like amusement on his face.

Front No. 3 almost broke down at this question, but he answered, half sobbingly:

"My father died in delirium tremens, and I have a brother in prison for drinking and gambling, so that I am doing my best to help support my mother. I go to Sunday school, where I have made a promise never to taste, touch nor handle strong drink of any sort."

"Well, I don't believe you ever will, my boy," replied the senator, encouragingly, "if you always exhibit the sort of courage you are showing now. It is unusual, and to be honest with you, I haven't anything like animosity toward you for taking such a manly stand. I'm always glad to meet such a boy, but I certainly never expected to meet one here. Someone ought to have told you that you would be called upon to order drinks for guests, because most people would not be likely to take your refusal too easily. Still, I am always willing to learn from anyone, and by the way, you have suddenly reminded me of something that once took place in my own life that I had very nearly forgotten. I do not drink myself, but when my friends call they generally expect liquor of some sort. They must do without to-day. So, if you will just order some water and glasses you may consider yourself the winner."

To say the "winner" was overcome would be putting it rather mildly. He ejaculated: "Oh, thank you, Senator Robinson," and was moving away, when—

"Hold on," called the senator. "You won't be able to stay here, you know, with the principles you hold. I know just where such a boy as yourself is badly needed. Give me your address, and I'll not forget."

When the little rebel who had won so startling a victory went to the office and surrendered his position it was only to accept, later on, an enviable position of trust in a hospital of the senator's own founding. The senator looked out for him, and Front No. 3 is a temperance physician and surgeon to-day, owing all his success to the steady adherence to the same principles that caused him not to forget his pledge under any circumstances whatever.—Frank Walcott Hutt, in National Advocate.

DON'T WANT MEN WHO DRINK.

Inquiries to Business Men That Elicited Strong and Emphatic Replies.

A lady in one of our large western cities tells how she prepared to contribute to the interest of a temperance day in her Sunday school. She says:

"I selected 30 of the leading business firms of the city and addressed personal letters to the head of each firm. I varied these notes according to the business, but the one idea of all was the same, namely: 'Is there room in your line of business for an exceptionally capable young man, who has every qualification for business except that out of hours he drinks in moderation and with his friends?' In some of these letters I made straight application for positions, in others I asked advice regarding such a young man's prospects of business success; in others I asked the question whether in selecting or engaging their employes the firm made any inquiries concerning the drinking habits of applicants, and if so, whether it was to their prejudice that they drank in moderation. I wrote to insurance companies, asking what risks they took on drinking men. I wrote to wholesale merchants, retail merchants, editors, college presidents, bankers, lumbermen, wheat men, heads of public institutions—surely a mixed and motley crew, from which I might well expect a variety of answers. I forgot to mention with the rest the general manager of three important railroads.

"Now, listen: In five days I had answers from every man but one, and afterwards I learned that he was out of the city until some time later, when he told me that he still wanted to be represented, and would give me an answer. In five days those 30 men had responded, each for himself and without knowledge of the others, and all the same story. Not one had any time or use for men in their business who drank."

These letters were read before the school, a good teacher having been chosen for each one; and the result was certainly an impressive and effective service.—Presbyterian Banner.

BREVITIES.

Cheerfulness is the bright weather of the heart; "strong drink" withers it.—National Advocate.

A National prohibition conference will be held at Buffalo, N. Y., Next August, plans for which are already being arranged.

Gall and wormwood are both used in making imported wine in this country. The man who labels it supplies the gall.—Chicago News.

The sale and manufacture of cigarettes in the state of Delaware is prohibited by a bill which has passed both branches of the legislature and which will be signed by the governor.

The Massachusetts commissioners of prisons suggest the commitment of common drunkards for indefinite periods and their employment in gainful labor for the state. They point out that payment of a fine does not make a man any the less a drunkard, nor has it much, if any, reformatory effect, whereas, in their opinion, the plan they suggest would aid in reclaiming them.

Made Blind by Cigarettes.

The case of young Fred Norton, of Unadilla, N. Y., has aroused that town to the evil of cigarettes and caused many boys to pledge themselves against their use. Young Norton was suddenly stricken with blindness and the eminent specialists attending the case are convinced that the cigarette habit is responsible for his condition and there is no hope for the restoration of his sight. His lungs are also badly affected.—The Boy.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

The Morse system of telegraphy was patented in the year the queen ascended the throne.

The total number of icehouses along the Hudson is 445, with a total tonnage capacity of 3,768,000.

The use of the telephone in Cairo and Alexandria has grown to such proportions that it has been found necessary to connect the two cities by a telephone trunk line.

Two hundred miles an hour, scientific men have concluded, after numberless experiments, is a speed which can never be attained by anything that moves on wheels.

Eau de cologne poured on a handkerchief and inhaled two or three minutes several times a day when the first symptoms of a cold in the head are noted, is regarded as an infallible cure by the French physician Dr. Roux.

The exports of copper from the United States in 1900 were more than 300,000,000 pounds, as against about 190,000,000 pounds in 1899. Germany afforded the largest individual market, taking more than 61,000,000 pounds of our copper in 1900.

Sir Benjamin Brodie found that out of ten cases where bullets have entered the brain six have recovered. It was proved by another physician who analyzed 316 cases of bullet wounds in the brain that it was better to let these bullets stay where they were than to remove them. Out of these 316 cases 160 recovered.

Santiago de Cuba has a population of 43,000. In January, 1898, there were 516 deaths, which makes an annual death rate of 137.6 per 1,000. In January, 1899, under military rule, practical sanitation was applied, and the deaths were 215, making a rate of 60. In January, 1900, the deaths numbered 120, a rate of 33.48. Now, after two years of sanitary work, the January (1901) deaths numbered 80, a rate of 22.3.

FELT SUSPICIOUS OF HIM.

Hospital Patient Was Uneasy Because of an Undertaker's Attentions.

Patients at Bellevue hospital are not always destitute. Some of them who are able to pay gain admittance through a pull. It was a pull that got one East side young man into one of the surgical wards recently, says the New York Sun.

He knew everyone about the hospital, from the unpaid orderlies to the superintendent, and he had political influence. Before going into the institution he left a liberal sum of money with an undertaker in the neighborhood with which to buy him delicacies. Every day good, wholesome dishes were taken to him by the runner for the undertaker.

The less fortunate patients in the ward often looked at him with envy when the smell of the food would reawaken their appetites deadened by the coarse hospital fare.

On one occasion the runner was not on hand when the patient sent for some chicken fricassee and the undertaker himself carried in the dish. He deposited it on a small table alongside of the patient's cot and then left, saying he would call later.

"Say, cull, who's de swell bloke dat jis bro't yer de feed?" asked one of the less fortunate patients from a near-by cot.

"That's ——, the undertaker up the street, who is a very close friend of mine," said the patient, at the same time devouring the meal with apparent relish. "There's more here than I can eat, and if you don't mind I'll split up with you," he continued.

The other patient answered that he didn't care for any of the food, much to the surprise of the well-to-do patient, who said:

"What's the matter with you? Have you lost your appetite or won't the doctor let you eat?"

The one to whom this was addressed turned on his side, and, looking curiously at the patient who was enjoying the luxurious meal, replied:

"Now, you look like a pretty wise gazabo, but I t'ink I'm up to a whole lot more'n you. Just at dis minute I cud commit murder fer a dish like dat one, but I'm not takin' any chances on an undertaker."

He rolled over on his back and with a pained expression on his face said:

"It's hard 'nuff ter be layin' up here an' takin' chances wid de bum grub and de young doctors an' nurses widout courtin' death."

The Queen's Will.

The will of Queen Victoria will not be proved, for the probate court has no power over the testament of the sovereign, and there exists no machinery by which probate can be granted. The exact contents of the will will, therefore, not be made known to the public, though doubtless some information will be forthcoming as to the general tenor of the document. The only royal will which has been published since that of Henry VIII. is, we believe, that of George I.—London Globe.

Fierce Fight of Buffaloes.

Four large buffalo bulls at Golden Gate park engaged in a fierce fight early one morning recently, which resulted in the death of one of the finest buffaloes, which had been born and reared in the park. The fight lasted more than an hour. The angry bulls paired off and fought by twos until one showed signs of weariness, when all three jumped on this unfortunate and soon gored it to death.—Chicago Record.

Century's Increase in Exports.

In 1800 the total exports of the United States were $31,000,000. Last year they were $2,000,000,000.—Chicago Tribune.

HEAD OF CHEYENNES.

Mary Big Buffalo Assumes Leadership of Indian Tribe.

Although Only 30 Years of Age, She Is Very Shrewd and Maintains Her Power by Seemingly Occult Methods.

Much pomp and several incidents attended the ceremony of installing Mary Big Buffalo chief of the Cheyenne Indians, who live on a reservation in Oklahoma territory.

Not only is Mary the first woman ever appointed to rule an Indian tribe, but she is also gifted with power direct from the Great Spirit, her tribesmen believe. Besides being chosen to attend to all business of the tribe, she will also act as chief medicine man, or woman one should say, for the handful of Cheyennes who have survived the effects of wars and civilization.

Mary Big Buffalo, now chief of the Cheyennes, is a woman of much tact and common sense. It was she who started the plan to have all of her people go to Mexico to live, and then when she found that she was opposed in her plans by the United States Indian agents, who were sure to balk her scheme, she called the Cheyennes together and told them she had received a call from the Great Spirit, and that he told her to remain in the United States. So, instead of showing her weakness to the tribe, she only strengthened her reputation.

Her installation, says the Chicago American, took place on the reservation near Darlington. The valley is covered with green grass, even in the depth of winter, and the warm sun beats down, making it a most pleasant spot to live in.

Here for nearly a week the whole Cheyenne tribe lay in their tents and enjoyed life.

Quite suddenly one night Big Snake, chief of the medicine men,

CHIEF OF THE CHEYENNES.
(Mary Big Buffalo and Her Little Five-Year-Old Daughter.)

came forth from his tent. He had been fasting for three days and was very weak. He called in a loud voice that all was in readiness to declare the new chieftain elected.

The camp was soon astir. Squaws and bucks commenced to paint and sing songs. Everything was in a state of excitement. As the night grew older the other medicine men made their way to the tent of the chief-to-be and sang weird songs.

At daylight the whole tribe of 300 Indians had painted and was ready to greet the new queen.

Big Snake lifted the flap of her tepee at sunrise and cried:

"Woman, come forth!"

Then Mary Big Buffalo stepped forth. She wore only a breechcloth. Her brown skin was nearly white from fasting. Her limbs were pale from exhaustion. She smiled at the reds as she marched forth between the big medicine men and took her seat on the grass while they gathered around her.

The medicine men also were clad in naught except a white sheet which girded them. Big Snake wore a straw hat and a linen duster which some white man had given him. He looked more like a Quaker than an Indian, for his skin is nearly white.

At a given signal they all commenced blowing on their medicine whistles and the other Indians, who were interested spectators, sang weird songs. This lasted fully two hours, while the women sat on the grass and performed such feats as catching snakes apparently out of the air and eating them, and calling aloud and receiving answers, which the Indians said were entirely audible to them, but which the white people who witnessed the ceremony said they could not hear at all.

Finally the dancing broke up and the whole tribe sat down on the grass and partook of a repast of dog meat, furnished by their new chief. After this he went through the ceremony of blessing all the people of the tribe by rubbing them on the head, and the inauguration was over.

The new chief will have power to make treaties, power to banish any member from the tribe if he does something which does not suit her, and power, with the consent of a majority of the medicine council, to allot and sell the lands.

She is 30 years old and her husband was a noted warrior. She has one child, which at the tender age of five is said to be possessed of much power to commune with unseen powers. Spiritualism plays a leading role among the Cheyennes and the greater the power to see things the higher is one's standing in the tribe.

Because of her feats of jugglery and claims of supernatural power, Mary Big Buffalo was chosen chief.

FARMING IN WESTERN CANADA

The Great Natural Fertility of the Soil in Manitoba, Assiniboia, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

What Has Been Done by Premier Greenway, Himself a Leading Farmer.

Hon. Thomas Greenway, Premier of the Province of Manitoba, one of the foremost farmers of Western Canada, writes an excellent article to the press, from which the following extracts are made:

The writer came to Manitoba from Ontario in the autumn of 1878, and has ever since been engaged in agricultural pursuits. From the day, nearly 22 years ago, when he selected his homestead, he has had unbounded faith in the country as a place where farming can be successfully carried on, if pursued upon proper lines. There is a large number in this Province who should rather be called "wheat-growers" than farmers. On account of the facilities, natural advantages, and therefore cheapness with which wheat can be grown, no doubt many have done exceedingly well by raising wheat only; still, it is far from ideal farming. Not only will such a course, if persisted in, have the effect of causing the land to run out, as has been the experience of those who pursued the same plan in the wheat-producing prairie States to the south of us, but it is far from being the most profitable course to adopt.

This fact is already being demonstrated in Manitoba. Let the farms in this Western country be managed upon the lines which were successful in the Eastern Provinces, and much more can be done here in a given time than was ever done in the East. The probabilities of failure are practically nil. Upon the farm there should be found horses, cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry, according to the ability of the farmer—with respect to his means and the extent of his holding. The wanton waste which has hitherto been practiced by many farmers, that of burning vast quantities of excellent fodder after threshing is done, should cease; it should all be used upon the farm and converted into the old, sensible kind of fertilizer manure, and afterwards be returned to the soil, so that what has been taken from it by the crop may be restored. Although admitting that the great natural fertility of the soil in Manitoba and the success that has attended the growing of wheat for years upon the same land have a tendency to make such a course as the one mentioned tempting, yet, if continued, wheat-growing upon the same land year after year is undoubtedly a mistake.

The writer knows of no country that offers advantages so great to the agriculturist as does Manitoba. The vraious branches of farming can be carried on successfully, as twenty-two years of practical operations and observations of what others are doing have proven. To those desiring to make new homes for themselves, the low price of some of the best lands in the world (although rapidly advancing in price this year) offer still great opportunities. To all such the invitation is cordially given to "Come and See." There need be no poor people here. There is land for all who choose to come, land upon which happy homes can be established, and from which ample resources can be gathered against old age. All that a man needs to achieve competence in this domain is common-sense and industry. With these qualifications he is bound to succeed. For information regarding free homestead lands, apply to any agent of the government whose advertisement appears elsewhere in these columns.

Cheap Rates to California.

February 12th and each Tuesday thereafter, until and including April 30th, Special Low Rate Colonist Tickets will be sold via the Southern Pacific's Company's "Ogden" and "Sunset" Routes to all points in California. The rate will be: From Chicago $30.00, from St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans $27.50, from Omaha, Kansas City, etc., $25.00. Corresponding low rates from all other points east and north.

For particulars and detailed information pertaining to the Southern Pacific Company's Routes, and these special rates to California, call upon or address

W. G. Neimyer, G. W. A., S. P. Co., 238 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.

W. H. Connor, C. A., S. P. Co., Chamber of Commerce Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio.

G. G. Herring, C. A., S. P. Co., 711 Park Bldg., Pittsburg, Pa.

L. E. Townsley, C. A., S. P. Co., 421 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

C. C. Cary, C. A., S. P. Co., 208 Sheidley Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Pride is the fog that surrounds insignificance.—Chicago Daily News.

Proof of the Pudding.

Ten hours between New York and Buffalo means excellent travelling and when I say I travelled at the rate of sixty miles an hour, gathered no dirt, and was not bothered with dust, you can believe me when I say my steel gray travelling costume was as clean when I stepped off at Buffalo as when I said "Au Revoir" at Hoboken.

The Lackawanna is a route worthy of the attention of all who wish to travel in luxury, in absolute cleanliness, and in security. The "proof of the pudding is in the eating," and the Lackawanna Limited will be a favorite train with ladies visiting the Pan-American Exposition.—Marie Jarboe, in Toilettes.

Many a man is toasted who needs to be roasted.—Atchison Globe.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

A dog's tail is something of a wag.—Chicago Daily News.

Save the Baby

When suffering from Croup, Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis by using Hoxsie's Cough Cure promptly. No opium. No nausea. 50 cts.

AN IMPROVED GRANARY.

Up-to-Date Storehouse for Corn Which Is Absolutely Safe from Encroachments by Vermin.

The dimensions of my granary—you see I have got past the corn crib period entirely—are as follows: Length, sills, 18 feet; plates, 20 feet; width, 14 feet; total length of posts, 12 feet; height of floor from the ground, 3½ feet. These dimensions may vary, according to the amount of grain to be stored. Wide strips of tin shield the tops of the posts from the invasion of rats and mice.

Inside the plan is as follows: Corn in the back part, the crib running across the end, and on each side a row of grain bins. These are arranged so that the ends nearest the alley between, which is four feet wide, may be removed in case they are not needed. These empty bins afford store room for a corn sheller, or for bran or other feed. A loose floor overhead also furnishes space for putting away many articles which might otherwise be cast around anywhere. The inside is lined with matched southern pine three-eighths thick. The outside is battened, and the boards being surfaced the whole is painted. The entire expense of this granary was not far from $75, and I have received the compliment that it is the best job I have done in the way of building, and I have spent a small fortune in that line. In fact, it pleases me exactly. I never have seen but two mice in this granary, and those I carried in with empty bags; and, as may be supposed, I was on nettles until they had been found and settled with. I got the cat as quick as I could and entered upon the most exciting hunt I ever took part in. It beat the famous fox hunts of the city folks who come out to kill time all hollow. And I succeeded, which is more than the city chaps who hunt for the fun of the thing can often say.

In my granary I keep my corn knives, corn ties and bags—everything, in fact, that concerns corn and garden stuff. The satisfaction of knowing that what I raise is now free from the encroachments of vermin is fully sufficient of itself to amply repay all my trouble. But the return in dollars and cents far surpasses one's belief. If we could see the amount of money which is wasted every year through poor granaries all brought together it would startle us. Every farmer knows that he suffers seriously from year to year, but most of us have come to take it as a matter of course. But really it is one of the leaks which help to sink the ship.—Edgar L. Vincent, in Farm and Fireside.

GRANARY AND CORN CRIB.

GRADE UP THE FLOCK.

Start Right by Getting a Good Rooster, One That Has Been Bred Right and Is Right.

Have you got that strong, vigorous cockerel to grade up your flock, to increase the egg yield and build up the size of the birds you sell to market? It is quite time the bird was in the breeding pen, becoming acquainted with his mates and preparing for the spring's duties.

It is an old and familiar axiom that the male is half the pen. He may be mated to a dozen females, hence the chicks have any one of a dozen mothers, but he is the father of all and imparts his vigor and personality to all the chicks.

Not only should this head of the family be a pure-bred male, but he should be a bird of real merit, bred with care and for a purpose. Such a bird has the power to reproduce himself and will certainly improve next season's flock. A well-bred cockerel, one bred from meat producing and egg laying ancestry, will decidedly improve the laying qualities of the pullets and increase the size as well.

It is a common mistake to breed from anything left over from the holiday killings, because nothing else is at hand. Don't repeat that mistake this year. Start right by getting a good male bird, one that has been bred right and is right; and his cost will be returned to you many times over in the laying vigor of his pullets and increased size of the chickens marketed. Get a pure-bred male for this year's breeding; get him now.—Practical Farmer.

Oil Cake for Old Hens.

For invigorating a lot of old hens which are slow in responding to the efforts to make them produce winter eggs, we know of nothing better than a spoonful of oilcake meal three times a week. If the hens in the meantime have not been overfed with grain a change in their appearance and actions will be noticeable within a week. There will be an added liveliness of motion, a more erect carriage and a general appearance of thriftiness which will presage a coming harvest of eggs. Other things being about right, this will seldom fail to bring the sluggish old hens to time.—Farmers' Voice.

THE REPUBLICAN.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Editor and Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

THE REPUBLICAN is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year	$ 1.25
One copy six months	.75
One copy three months	.40
One copy one month	.15
Single copies	.05

ADVERTISING RATES.

First insertion for square of ten nonpareil lines, $1; each additional insertion after first, 50 cents per square of ten nonpareil lines.

REMITTANCES:

Remittances made by money order, bank draft, registered letter or express order will be at our risk; if made otherwise, at the risk of the sender. Address,

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, APRIL 11, 1901.

Political Announcements

The following rates for publishing political announcements in these columns have been fixed and will be charged to those who desire to make their wishes known to the voters of Garrett county. These charges are payable in advance of the first publication of notices:

For State Senator, $10; County Treasurer, $5; Sheriff, $5; Members of the House of Delegates, $5; County Commissioner, $5.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER.

At the solicitation of friends I announce myself as a candidate for the nomination for County Treasurer, subject to the Republican Nominating Convention, and most respectfully solicit the assistance and influence of all Republicans. Should I be nominated and elected I promise to give personal attention to the duties of the office.

JAS. W. WHITE,
District No. 14. Oakland.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the nomination of Sheriff for Garrett county, subject to the decision of the Republican Nominating Convention, and solicit the support of Republicans throughout the county.

Dist. No. 7. ANDREW SHARTZER.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the nomination of Sheriff, subject to the decision of the Republican Nominating Convention of Garrett County, and solicit the support of all in my candidacy.

JOHN O. MICHAELS.

Newspaper Frauds.

"Non-partisan" papers, edited by partisans, are the most patent humbugs of the age. In commenting upon public matters they start out non-partisan, but wind up partisan. They are simply frauds. A partisan paper is the more to be admired. It sacrafices patronage for principle. It is more honest, for it does not play for both sides, and does not pretend to be anything than partisan. There is nothing antagonistic to honesty in being partisan, and there is every inducement to dishonesty in being non-partisan or independent. The most despicable object is a partisan who pretends to conduct a non-partisan or independent paper, and then by his acts endorses every principle and policy which his party espouses.—Westminster (Md.) Advocate.

THE Chestertown (Md.) Enterprise thinks a day of retribution is coming for the politicians who were instrumental in passing the new election law. This is the way the Enterprise puts it: "The silk hat and silk stocking brigade now struts with lordly mien across the governmental horizon of our grand old Commonwealth, trampling under their heels the sacred rights of our sturdy yeomanry, but the day will come when they will doff their kid gloves, lay aside their lordly airs and bend the suppliant knee to the horny-handed sons of toil."

To Maintain Residence.

One of the provisions of the new election law of Maryland is that "all citizens of Maryland absent from the State at the time of the passage of this act must appear in person, within thirty days after the passage of this act, before the clerk of the circuit court of the county in which they vote: or, if they are residents of the city of Baltimore, then before the clerk of the superior court in Baltimore, and there make oath that they are only temporarily absent from the State, and that they intend to resume their residence in Maryland on or before May 5, 1901."

The law practically abolishes the theory of intent as a factor in establishing legal residence, and will require actual residence in the State. This provision will affect several thousand citizens living in Washington and having a voting residence in this State. Mr. Blair Lee who was formerly a candidate for Congress, is one of the class affected and is preparing to comply with the provisons of the law by making the required affidavit and moving to Silver Spring, Montgomery county.

What Was Not Explained.

Ex-Senator A. P. Gorman offers a very plausible explanation, from his standpoint, of the recent extra session of the legislature and its acts. There are two points, however, which lacked sufficient explanation, points that cannot be set down to mere partisan jealousy or to hair splitting theory, but points which really exist, and are the potent factors in the whole affair. The first is, whether the men who compose the Democratic organization will give the same sort of State government as they did before 1895. The second is, whether all the expense to which the taxpayers have been put has not been occasioned simply for the purpose of returning Mr. Gorman to the United States Senate. Mr. Gorman failed to explain just how far he was personally interested in the outcome of the extra session, and failed to show the point where his solicitude for the people's interest begun, and his own selfish interest ended. Although Mr. Gorman offered an exceedingly plausible explanation for the recent Democratic iniquity, the fact remains that when the Democratic organization in the State of Maryland assumes to champion the cause of reform and pretends to purity in politics, Satan would be inclined to laugh. The situation is best explained in these lines

"The devil sick, the devil a monk would be
The devil well, the devil a monk was he."

Mr. Gorman does not often speak and the occasion for an explanation on his part must be a very serious one, full of grave danger to himself and his friends. But in as much as he has explained and even digressed sufficiently far to attack Senator McComas, he shows his cunniug mind by his ability to warp facts to suit his desires. He states that Senator McComas called the extra session a conspiracy after the census irregularities had come to light. This is not the fact of the case. Senator McComas called the extra session of the legislature a conspiracy from the very beginning, as did every good citizen in the State of Maryland. From the notorious meeting held at the Rennert, when discussions of the plan were held behind closed doors, and watch dogs trailed the footsteps of the Democratic Senators so that they could not be reached by representatives of the press for fear that they might divulge some of the proceedings of the secret meeting, when Thomas B. Hayes walked locked arms with Ex-Senator Gorman into the dining room and behind locked and barred doors consumated a deal by which 50,000 citizens were to be robbed of their right of franchise on the one hand and on the other one man was to be given control of the expenditure of a $20,000,000 fund, it has been called a conspiracy. Conspiracies are schemes developed to rob and deprive people of their rightful belongings, and to injure them in life or liberty or pursuit of happiness. If the meeting at the Rennert was not a conspiracy, what else under the blue canopy of heaven can it be called? The meeting was called a conspiracy then, it is called a conspiracy now, and Ex-Senator Gorman does not add a particle more strength to his cause by distorting facts in referring to Senator McComas, than he did in giving voice to his sentiments about political reform and pure elections, which bring to mind so forcibly the lines

"The devil sick, the devil a monk would be
The devil well, the devil a monk was he."

A Sad Desertion.

The New York Journal says the elections of the week in the West indicate that "the silver question is deader than ever," and, to make its apostacy complete, the Journal finally and fully renounces Mr. Bryan's leadership in these words: "This week's elections have brought to the front a new class of leaders—men who have given thought to the problems of the new century, and who will be able to propose solutions that will commend themselves to the public intelligence. Tom L. Johnson, Carter Harrison and Samuel Jones are thoroughly modern men. Mr. Bryan, able and patriotic as he is, is not really modern. He lives in the past. He has never been able fully to adapt himself to the economic and social revolution that has changed the face of the world. A superseded financial theory like free silver appeals to him more than the public ownership of railroads and telegraphs, postal savings banks or any of the other pressing needs of the Twentieth Century." If this does not produce private anguish and public vituperation through the columns of the Commoner, it may be taken as an indication that Mr. Bryan is learning to reconcile himself to the inevitable.

A Sorry Excuse.

The apologists for the extra session plotters are working the plea that the new election law will prove a promoter of education "for all it is worth," and much more. It is hoped by the Republicans that they will succeed in training a large proportion of the illiterates of their party to be able to discriminate the words on the new ballot sufficiently to mark it for the candidates of that party. We trust that this is so. The more points at which the dishonest and nefarious scheme of the extra session plotters is thwarted the more occasion will there will be for congratulation. The less successful a scheme for usurpation and trickery turns out the more reason honest men have for satisfaction. A number of the worst tricks of the plotters were got rid of in the making of the law, through the successful resistance of the Republicans, backed by public opinion; if the whole plot should be defeated in the working of the law there will be the best of reasons for rejoicing.

But to talk of the training of a lot of illiterates so as to enable them to mark a ballot as "education" is preposterous. It is, of course, possible and even probable that a small portion of the voters who have got so far along as this in their "education" will go farther, and learn enough of the art of reading to be of real value to them. In so far as this shall prove to be true, it will be a case of some good coming out of a gross evil, and those who like to gain benefits in this peculiar manner are welcome to felicitate themselves upon the matter. It is a common mistake, made in many well-meaning but ill-informed newspapers outside of Maryland, that the great objection made to the disfranchising act by honest men in this State is that the motive of it was bad. Not the motive, but the method and the means are the thing condemned. To deprive voters of the suffrage to which they are entitled under the Constitution of the State, and which they have hitherto enjoyed without disturbance, is a gross usurpation on the part of a partisan majority in the Legislature. If they are justifiable in doing that, they are justifiable in any invasion whatever of the right of suffrage. They might impose a property qualification just as well, provided only they could devise a trick by which that qualification would operate in practice without being expressly laid down in the law. Then the defenders of this usurpation would say that the law was not a disfranchisement of the poor at all, but only an incitement to thrift, that everybody could own a few hundred dollars or a lot of ground, or whatever it was, if he cared enough for the suffrage to save a little out his wages, and that, in fact, what people had mistaken for a scheme to limit the suffrage was merely a philanthropic move for the elevation of the standard of comfort among the poor.

Right-minded peopie will not condone an invasion of the fundamental rights of citizens, and a virtual setting aside of one of the most cardinal stipulations of the Maryland Constitution on any such flimsy plea. The precedent which is continually harped on by the apologists is that of Massachusetts, but is in reality the exact opposite of a precedent for such action. The disfranchisement of illiterates was there not only made by the orderly process of constitutional amendment, but, what is in even more striking contrast to the extra session usurpation, it was limited to future voters, leaving existing rights undisturbed, and giving prospective voters ample warning and an ample opportunity for acquiring the elementary education demanded. Besides all this the compulsory education system in Massachusetts has shown an honest desire to secure that which an honest constitutional requirement declared to be essential. In the one case we have broad and well-considered measures directed to an avowed public end; in the other we have a partisan grab, pure and simple, which, if successful, will be followed up by bolder measures designed to place the grip of the party organization on the State of Maryland and the city Baltimore beyond the reach of anything like hopeful attack.

Writ of Error Granted Beatty.

Judge M. M. Dent, of the supreme court of West Virginia, has granted J. Wesley Beatty, under sentence of death from Preston county, a writ of error. This move will give Beatty, before the supreme court decides his case, almost a year's lease on life, as it will take considerable time to prepare a record for the high court. The offense for which Beatty was sentenced to have been hung tomorrow was the murder of his brother-in-law, David A. Nine, last November in Preston county. Governor White on Monday granted Beatty a reprive of 14 days.

Nerve Food

If you have neuralgia, Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil will feed the nerve that is crying for food—it is hungry—and set your whole body right again, in a way to satisfy nerve and brain from your usual food.

That is cure.

If you are nervous and emaciated, you may only need more fat to cushion your nerves—you are probably thin—and Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil will give you the fat, to begin with.

Cure, so far as it goes. Full cure is getting the fat, you need from usual food, and Scott's Emulsion will help you to that.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists,
409-415 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

BACK TO MARYLAND.

Election Law Will Bring Wanderers Home. Only a Month in Which to Settle In State.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The newly enacted election law of Maryland, in so far as it stipulates what shall constitute legal residence, carrying the right to vote in that State, affects a large number of persons in Washington who have heretofore claimed legal residence in Maryland and have registered and voted at each election. Very few of them will be eligible for registration next fall unless they move out of Washington into the suburbs across the District line, the nearest points in Maryland and the most available for those whose occupations demand their daily presence in the Capital. A very large majority of them will take such action, and may already have served notice on their landlords that they will relinquish occupancy of the premises they now rent on April 30.

The new election law of Maryland provides that "all citizens of Maryland absent from the State at the time of the passage of this act must appear in person within thirty days after the passage of this act before the Clerk of the Circuit Court of the county in which they vote; or, if they are residents of the city of Baltimore, then before the Clerk of the Superior Court in Baltimore, and there make oath that they are only temporarily absent from the State, and that they intend to resume their residence in Maryland on or before May 5, 1901."

They must, in fact, return to Maryland before May 5, 1901, and must actually reside in that State for the six months preceding November 5, 1901. If they fail to make the affidavit indicated, or do not return and resume actual residence in the State, they forfeit their citizenship in Maryland and cannot regain it except upon the same terms as all other persons may become citizens of the State and entitled to vote in it—that is, by living within its borders for one year continuously.

Under these conditions the passage of the recent act is a matter of deep interest to the Marylanders in Washington. They know that it is a hopeless undertaking to attempt to break the law on the ground of unconstitutionality, in so far as the qualifications for residence clause is concerned. That was vainly attempted several years ago. The law recently enacted by the Democratic Legislature is almost identical in several respects with the election law of 1890, which was contested in the Warner case, and which was repealed by a Republican Legislature in 1896.

It was held in the Warner case that actual domicile in the place claimed as residence was peremptory under the provisions to the act in order to carry the franchise, and the Court of Appeals of Maryland sustained that ruling. Ashley Gould, now Assistant District Attorney, was Mr. Warner's counsel, and put in a plea of unconstitutionality as against the definition of legal residence set up by the law and upheld by the Court. This was overruled, and the question in that regard is admittedly settled beyond dispute.

It may be that the test of constitutionality if applied to the provisions of the law as to ballots will render it nugatory in that respect, and eminent lawyers of the Republican party are inclined to believe that the provisions as to ballotting are unconstitutional. But the definition of residence is indisputable and will widely affect Maryland people in this city.

The new law practically abolishes the theory of intent as a factor in establishing legal residence. In most States a citizen may leave the confines of the Commonwealth and come to Washington to occupy a position under the Government and remain here indefinitely without losing his right to vote in the State which he claims as residence. This is notably true of Ohio. The same proposition has been true as to Maryland, and several thousand residents actually of Washington have been conceded the right of residence legal for the purpose of voting in that State, and have taken full advantage of this privilege at every election.

Under the new law this state of affairs ceases to exist. If a man claiming residence in Maryland does not actually live in that State from May 5 until the next election, his vote will undoubtedly be challenged next November and probably be thrown out, even if he succeeds in registering. Actual residence in Maryland is necessary. This is admitted by attorneys who are citizens in this city. Assistant District Attorney Ashley M. Gould admits it. He was a candidate for the Congressional nomination in the Sixth Maryland district. Blair Lee admits it. He was the Democratic nominee for Congress in the same district in 1896. James L. Norris admits it, but does not take a depressing view of the situation.

Mr. Gould lives in Takoma Park all the year round and within the borders of Maryland. He is not personally affected, but he feels that it will cause the disfranchisement of many residents of Washington who have fine summer places in Montgomery county and who contribute large amounts annually toward the support of the county. Heretofore such persons living in their summer homes several months in the year have been entitled to residence in Maryland. They will not be now, in Mr. Gould's opinion.

Mr. Lee, who inherited the fine property of his father, the late Admiral Lee, at Silver Spring, is preparing to comply literally with the law. He will take affidavit of intention prior to May 5, as required by the new act, and will establish himself and his family at Silver Spring immediately thereafter.

IT IS WISE TO WORK FOR

The Mutual Life Insurance Company

OF NEW YORK.

RICHARD A. McCURDY, PRESIDENT.

BECAUSE Its contracts are simplest.
BECAUSE Its premium rates are lowest.
BECAUSE It gives the highest guarantees.
BECAUSE The company is especially helpful to agents.
BECAUSE It is the easiest company in existence to get business for.
BECAUSE You do not have to introduce the company—the company introduces you.
BECAUSE It is the largest, strongest, most progressive life insurance company in the world.

Income in 1900,	$60,582,802.31
Paid Policyholders, 1900,	$26,361,863.83
Assets December 31, 1900,	$325,753,152.51
Insurance and Annuities in force,	$1,141,497,888.02

Experienced Agents may address—

WILLIAM H. WOOTTON,
5—2 Manager for Maryland, BALTIMORE, MD.

Receivers' Sale

—Valuable—

Hotel Property!

On APRIL 19, 1901,

The Loch Lynn Heights Hotel,

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.,

Will be Sold on the Premises at Auction.

The hotel is situated on a beautiful hill near the station of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad between Oakland, Maryland, and the famous Deer Park Hotel.

The Loch Lynn Heights Hotel contains more than 100 rooms, is in good repair, and its situation affords one of the most impressive views in the Allegheny Mountains.

It is situated within one half mile of the Mountain Lake Chautauqua, and affords a fine opportunity for a most successful summer hotel.

SALE ON PREMISES

AT 12 O'CLOCK M., APRIL 19th, 1901.

TERMS:—One-third cash; balance in six and twelve months, with interest.

Lien reserved to secure deferred payments. Private offers before day of sale will be considered.

Address

BIRD M. ROBINSON,
RANDOLPH BARTON,
Receivers of the Baltimore Building and Load Association of Baltimore City.
FIDELITY BUILDING,
Baltimore, Maryland.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE

—OF—

REAL ESTATE

In Garrett County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage from Jemima Mowrey to Isaac Bradburn, dated the 12th day of August, 1899, recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 35, folio 298, &c., one of the mortgage records of Garrett county, Maryland, default having been made in the payment of the mortgage debt and interest, the undersigned attorney named in said mortgage will, on Saturday, April 20th, 1901,

at one o'clock p. m., in front of Shartzer's Opera House, Oakland, Maryland, offer for sale at public auction, all that land situate in Garrett county, Maryland, which was conveyed to the said Jemima Mowrey by Charles M. Miller and wife by deed dated the 25th day of July, 1894, recorded among the land records of said county in Liber E. Z. T. No. 26, folio 319, &c., and therein described as follows, to-wit: Beginning at a large flat stone marked "R. O." at the beginning of a tract of land conveyed by Joseph R. Anderson to Alex. Lohr, and running part of the first line thereof with an allowance of 3 degrees for magnetic declination, North 35 degrees East 14¼ perches to a stake and stone pile in said first line, South 35 degrees East 38½ perches to a stake and stone pile on the west margin of the county road, North 80 degrees West 14½ perches, South 13½ degrees East 50 perches to a stake on the west bank of a stream and 5 feet south of a white pine stump, South 48 degrees West 38 perches to a stake, South 28½ degrees West 100 perches to a stake, thence with the 4th, 5th and 6th lines of a tract conveyed by Joseph R. Anderson to Alfred Lohr North 66 degrees West 78 perches to a stake, North 13½ degrees West 82½ perches, North 35½ degrees East 45½ perches to a stake in the 4th line of said deed to said Alexander Lohr and thence with the 4th and last lines thereof South 58 degrees East 78 perches to a stake, North 33 degrees East 88 perches to the beginning, containing 100 Acres, More or Less.

This farm is a desirable one, located near Beckman P. O., Garrett county, and about six miles from Swanton.

Terms of Sale:—CASH.

D. LINDLEY SLOAN,
Attorney named in Mortgage.

WILLIAM R. OFFUTT,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
OFFICE UPSTAIRS IN RAVENSCROFT BUILD'G.

Loans negotiated and Collections promptly made.

Practices in Courts of Maryland, West Virginia and Court of Appeals of Maryland.

Sheriff's Sale

OF VALUABLE

REAL ESTATE

In Deer Park, Md.

Under and by virtue of a writ of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, at the suit of M. V. Pringley vs. Samuel W. Friend and F. C. Browning, the same being No. 6 Judicials to March term, 1901, of said Court, and to the undersigned sheriff directed, I will sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, in front of the Court House door, in Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, on the 19th Day of April, 1901,

FRIDAY,

at the hour of 11 o'clock a. m. of day, all that lot, piece or parcel of land situate, lying and being in the town of Deer Park, Garrett county, Maryland, which was conveyed to the said Samuel W. Friend by Lucy Perry by deed recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 38, folio 260, and is known as

LOT NO. 2

and contained within the following metes and bounds, courses and distances, to-wit: Beginning for the same at the end of the 3rd line of Lot No. 3 and running thence North 30 degrees East 118 feet, South 60½ degrees East 92 feet, South 30 degrees West 118 feet, North 60½ degrees West 90 feet to the beginning.

Terms of Sale:—Cash on the day of sale.

A. J. OESTER, Sheriff.

ORDER NISI.

Samuel Smith vs. John Shartzer et ux.

No. 1095 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered this 28th day of March, in the year nineteen hundred and one, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in Equity, that the sale made and reported in the above cause by James W. Thomas, attorney, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 29th day of April, 1901; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county once a week for three successive weeks before the 29th day of April, 1901.

The report states the amount of sale to be $749.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

AUDITOR'S NOTICE.

Samuel Johnson et al. vs. Mollie Finzel et al.

No. 1079 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Notice is hereby given to the creditors of Charles F. Finzell, late of Garrett county, deceased, to file their claims, duly authenticated, with the Clerk of this Court on or before the 26th day of April, 1901, as I shall on that day proceed to state an audit distributing the funds in the hands of the trustee in said cause.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
Auditor.

ORDER NISI.

Elizabeth C. Thompson et al. vs. Emma D. Hudson et al.

No. 1080 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 26th day of March, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that the sale made and reported by Frederick A. Thayer, trustee, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the nineteenth day of April next; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county aforesaid once in each of three successive weeks before the 19th day of April next.

The report states the amount of sale to be $2,500.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Sheriff's License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to all persons or bodies, corporate or politic, who may be required to take out license, that they must obtain the same on or before

THE FIRST DAY OF MAY, 1901.

According to the provisions of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland every person or persons doing business for gain or profit except the maker, grower or manufacturer, are hereby notified that they must take out a license.

A. J. OESTER,
Sheriff of Garrett County.

EXECUTORS' NOTICE.

This is to give notice, That the Subscriber, of Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

ANNIE M. WARD,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 3rd day of October next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 21st day of March, 1901.

GEORGE W. WARD, Executor,
Sunnyside, Md.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

LOCAL AND OTHERWISE

Incidents and Events at Home and Nearby —Personal Mention, Etc.

D. E. Offutt was in Fairmont on on business Saturday last.

Dan Dorsey and Joseph C. Shaw, of Grantsville, were here on Monday and Tuesday.

Miss Nellie Chase and her mother, Mrs. Chase, of near Sunnyside, were in town Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thompson, of Easton, Pa., are in Oakland visiting their daughter, Mrs. George I. Uhler.

Nelson Brenneman, of Meyersdale, Pa., was in Oakland on business Monday and paid this office a brief visit.

Miss Lena Fuller, of Cumberland, is in Oakland, the guest of Miss Wonn Robinson at her home on Second street.

Mrs. John T. Mitchell and Mrs. Arthur Townshend left this morning for a ten days' visit to Baltimore and Washington.

The Oakland Normal opened on Monday with about 25 scholars present. The Accident Normal opened on Tuesday with 19 scholars.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius C. Renninger went to Cumberland Saturday afternoon to spend a few days with Mr. Renninger's parents.

Mr. and. Mrs. William Jackson, of Lonaconing, spent Easter with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Weber, Jr., at their farm near town.

Carl White, who is employed at Uniontown, Pa., came home on Saturday to spend a few days with his father and other relatives.

The town council advertises elsewhere the sitting of that body to hear appeals from assessments. Only two hours is allowed the property owners to make their complaints.

Joseph Bradley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bradley, of near town, who is a student at Rockhill College, Ellicott City, spent the Easter vacation at home with his parents.

Miss Durst and Miss Custer, who went from here a few weeks ago to Buckhannon to the Seminary there have returned and are now students at the Oakland Normal.

John Sanders, Sr., was thrown from an overturning wagon several days ago and received severe injuries. He is at the home of his sister, Mrs. Samuel Ferguson, in the southern section of town.

Col. Chas. E. Headley, of the Grafton Hotel who has secured a lease on the Oakland for the summer, came down to Oakland Monday with a force of men and put them to work cleaning up the hotel and getting it into shape for the coming season.

We publish to-day the major portion of the new election law passed at the recent extra session of the Legislature. We hoped to lay the entire law before our readers to-day but finding that it will require more space than we can well spare we will have to be content with publishing it but partially.

Dr. Henry W. McComas arrived home from the Bermudas and points in the South Friday night last, bringing with him many curios in the way of sea products and fruits from that sunny land. He left again Sunday night for Baltimore where he will spend a few days before returning home.

Mr. W. H. Hailer has sold his bakery and stock of goods to a young German, who comes to Oakland well recommended as a first-class baker and pastry cook. Mr. Hailer will be employed during the summer at the Deer Park hotel. His family will reside in the Chambers property on Liberty street.

Mr. John T. Browning met with quite a painful accident on Tuesday in front of Messrs. Dixon & Kelso's while on his way home. The board walk being covered with snow and ice Mr. Browning slipped and fell against the step in front of the store and unfortunately broke a rib in his right side. He was picked up by some passers-by and assisted to his home on Main street where he was attended by Dr. Hinebaugh and made as comfortable as possible.

An engagement of interest which has just been announced in Philadelphia is that of Miss Sarah Keyser Williams and Dr. J. A. Bayard Kane. Miss Williams is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Worthington Williams, summer residents of Deer Park, and, through her mother, who was a Miss Keyser, of Baltimore, belongs to a large and prominent family connection in that city, as well as in Philadelphia. Dr. Kane is a son of the late Dr. John Kent Kane, of Wilmington, Del., and a nephew of Senator Thomas F. Bayard.

Hon. R. T. Browning spent a few days in Oakland this week.

Mr. Thos. Nelson, who travels this section for Armour & Co., spent Sunday in Oakland.

Mrs. L. F. Bullard has gone to Charleston, W. Va., on a visit to relatives.

Mr. D. E. Offutt, Jr., spent Sunday evening in Cumberland the guest of friends.

Merchant Chas. S. May, of Swanton, was in the city Tuesday on business.

Mrs. Curley returned from Baltimore on Monday night, where she had been for some time on a visit.

John A. Wolf, Esq., came to Oakland from Clarksburg, W. Va. Saturday night to remain with his family during Eastertide.

Miss Agnes Hart and her niece, Miss Allie Hart attended the funeral of their cousin, Miss Inez Paxton, in Piedmont on Saturday last.

Mr. W. Harper Bartlett returned to Clarksburg, W. Va., on Sunday, where he holds a position as bookkeeper for a big lumber company.

Mrs. W. S. Dunlap, of Cumberland, was in Oakland last Thursday and while here the guest of her sister, Mrs. West.

Mr. Chas. Bosley, of Clarksburg, spent Easter at home the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Bosley on Oak street.

John O. Michaels, Esq., announces himself a candidate for Sheriff, subject to the decision of the Republican nominating convention.

Frank Browning arrived in Oakland Sunday morning from Mannington, W. Va., where he is engaged in learning the boiler-making trade, to spend the Easter holidays.

Miss Lydia Good, of Wheeling, stopped off in Oakland Tuesday afternoon on her way home from Washington, and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gilmor S. Hamill.

Miss Virginia Johnson went to Piedmont on Saturday and remained until after the Easter dance given by the Acorn club on Monday night. While there she was the guest of Miss George Johnson.

Miss Julia Stanton returned from Baltimore Saturday night last after having spent several weeks in Johns Hopkins Hospital receiving treatment for an injury sustained a year or more ago by stepping through a hole in a defective platform in town.

The Mount Vernon Bridge company of Mount Vernon, Ohio, has been awarded the contract to erect the bridge over Cheat river at Rowlesburg, W. Va., for $18,895. It must be completed by November of this year.

Capt. D. T. E. Casteel arrived yesterday afternoon from Manila to visit his father for a few days. He is on his way to Washington and may return to the Philippines shortly as an officer in the regular army. He is at present connected with the volunteer service. During his stay in the Philippines he rendered invaluable services to this government.

George Pfeiffer, Esq., who was born and reared in Oakland, but who went to Davis, West Va., a number of years ago where he accumulated a nice property, sold his belongings one day last week and came to Oakland with his wife and little daughter. After remaining here a few days visiting Mrs. George Little, Mr. Pfeiffer's sister, they went on to Mount Pleasant, Pa., their future home.

Chauncey E. Ellithorp, president of the Board of Election Supervisors for this county, arrived from Baltimore Tuesday evening with the proper books into which the names of all registered voters are to be copied for use in making the census for the State. Yesterday morning the work of copying the names was commenced at the office of the Supervisors by the clerk, Edmund Jamison, Esq. The work must be finished by Saturday night and the books returned to Baltimore Monday morning.

Ralph Engle, near Grantsville, this county, on Monday and Tuesday last gathered 280 barrels of maple sugar water, equal to about 1,500 pounds of sugar. Nine inches of snow fell on the two succeeding days, which no doubt caused another fine "run," as it is called. The season a short while ago had the appearance of a short crop, but the indications are now that it will be an average yield at least. Mr. Engle is one of the chief producers. The sugar interest is very important in Garrett county, but still greater over in Somerset county, Pa. The addition of modern machinery has stimulated the industry.

Rev. Henry Hamill arrived in Oakland yesterday to remain a few days with relatives.

Attorney John T. Mitchell was in Cumberland on professional business Tuesday.

Mr. Harry Loar is engaged this week as an assistant in the First National Bank.

Mrs. George T. Brew left on Thursday last for Baltimore to visit friends for a short time.

Services in the Deer Park Lutheran church Sunday morning and evening. Cordial welcome. G. I. UHLER.

The Annual Love Feast of the German Baptist Brethren will be held at Accident on June 1st.

William J. Wilson, Esq., of near Gorman, was in Oakland Monday on business before the County Commissioners.

George Little, Esq., is in Baltimore this week attending the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, as a representative from the Oakland lodge.

The Easter ball given at the Glades hotel by the Knights of St. John, of the Catholic church, on Monday night was largely attended and greatly enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Swope Heindel, who were married in Baltimore in March and who have been up in New York on their wedding tour, arrived in Oakland Monday evening.

Mrs. J. H. Moore, who has been in Oakland for some days on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kildow, returned to her home in Coketon, W. Va., Tuesday morning.

Hon. W. H. Jacobs came up to Oakland from his home in District No. 11 Sunday evening accompanied by his son whom he entered as a student in the Normal here.

Misses Margaret and Annie Ridgeley and their mother, Mrs. Ridgley, of Baltimore, have again taken the cottage occupied by them last season and will arrive here in a few weeks to remain during the summer.

The Board of County Commissioners has been in session since Monday morning making the annual levy. Indications point to a slight reduction in the tax rate for county purposes, the State rate being the same as heretofore. The levy this fall in detail will be published next week in these columns.

Attention is directed to the advertisement of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York which appears elsewhere in this issue. The association is one of the strongest and safest in the land and policy holders are amply protected from loss. Its assests on Dec. 31 last amounted to nearly $400,000,000. William H. Wootton, of Baltimore, is the manager for Maryland.

An unsophisticated young couple from West Virginia alighted from one of the west bound B. & O. trains here on Monday. They were covered from head to heels with mud evidently having driven for many miles to reach a railway station ahead of an angry parent. After registering at one of the hotels the groom to-be procured a marriage license at the court house and then went on the hunt for a minister, who was soon found and the duty devolving upon him to unite in bonds of matrimony all who applied having been performed, the groom propounded the question: "How much do I owe you for this job?" Being answered that no regular price was fixed for the service he fished from the lower story of his apparel a rusty five dollar bill and asked the minister if he had any change, but ministers like editors always being hard up, he was unable to accommodate him. The groom went to a near-by store, asking the clerk to change the bill so that a quarter could be gotten out of it. This he handed the minister and then departed for the hotel where his bride was awaiting his arrival. The couple left for the east Tuesday morning as happy as doves in a cote.

Orphans' Court Proceedings.

Present Judges Wilson, Merrill and McRobie.

Administrators Appointed.—Thos. H. Layman on estate of Elizebeth Brown. Alfred King on estate of Joseph King.

Guardian Accounts Ratified.—Sixth and final account of John Close, guardian of Anna S. Moore. Third account of Jonas Weitzell, guardian of Linnie Weitzell et al.

Register of Wills directed to notify administrators and guardians to perform the duties required of them by law.

Tax Rate Reduced Two Cents.

Yesterday afternoon the Board of County Commissioners practically completed the annual levy for this year and announced that the rate would be 72 cents on the $100 as against 74 cents last year, making a net reduction of two cents on the $100. This is for county purposes only. The State rate is fixed by law at 17 cents on the $100. The total rate for county and State purposes will be but 89 cents, the lowest in the history of the county. The levy will be signed today.

MICHAEL MARONEY.

Death Claims an Aged and Highly Respected Citizen of Oakland—Other Deaths.

Last Thursday morning Michael Maroney, an aged and very highly respected citizen of Oakland, was stricken with paralysis and died shortly afterward, without regaining consciousness, at his home in the east end of town.

Mr. Maroney came to Oakland in 1858. He served in the Civil war and at its close he returned to Oakland, engaging in the livery business. He was born in Ireland in 1838 and came to this country at the age of fifteen years, making the trip with a party of friends. He landed in New York and from there proceeded to Albany where he remained for a short time, when he went to St. Louis where he made his home with an uncle until the time of his removal to Oakland. At the opening of the Civil War he enlisted in Company B, Third West Virginia Cavalry and rendered brave service during the entire period of the war. During Hunter's raid he received a wound that confined him to the hospital for some time, and during the battle of Winchester he had two horses shot from under him, himself narrowly escaping with his life. Both at Winchester and Fisher's Hill he was associated with the then Major William McKinley, now President of the United States. He was taken prisoner in the Valley of Virginia, but was paroled after one day of imprisonment.

Upon his return to Oakland in 1865, Mr. Maroney again engaged in the livery business which in time grew to be quite large. In recent years he had associated with him his son Richard. In politics he was an ardent Republican and like all old soldiers was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic. Religiously Mr. Maroney was a devout Catholic.

In 1860 he was married to Miss Bridget Keefe, daughter of James and Rose Keefe, who came to Oakland from Ireland in 1851. Eleven children were born as a result of this union, they being John, Richard K., Julia, James, Michael R., Patrick, Rose A., Matthew T., Alice E. and Bridget Frances.

Mr. Maroney's funeral took place on Saturday morning last from St. Peter's church, Rev. James E. Connell preaching a sermon and celebrating a Requiem High Mass for the soul of the deceased, after which the remains were conveyed to the cemetery and buried.

The pall bearers were members of Crook Post, G. A. R., they being Col. A. G. Sturgiss, Captains James A. Hayden, John M. Jarboe and R. T. Browning, James O. Cleveland and George W. Legge.

WILLIAM SPRIGG RAWLINGS.

William Sprigg Rawlings, son of William L. Rawlings, formerly of Oakland, died last Wednesday morning at 8.30 o'clock at his home, 24 Ellen street, Cumberland, after an illness from typhoid fever, lasting about two weeks, aged 28 years. Mr. Rawlings was individual book keeper in the First National Bank and was prominent in social and musical circles. His only brother, Mr. Lloyd Rawlings, is now quite ill. Besides the father and mother, the Rawlings family consisted of the two sons.

WARREN.—Thomas Warren, residing in the suburbs of town, died on last Wednesday afternoon after a lingering illness, aged 81. The deceased was a native of England, having been born April 1st, 1820. It is the supposition that Mr. Warren's death was hastened as a result of a blow inflicted some weeks ago by a man named McRobie and who left this section shortly afterward, his whereabouts at present being unknown. Mr. Warren's funeral took place on Friday last, the interment being being made at the Red House cemetery.

CASEY.—Mrs. Anna Casey, a very highly respected lady of Hutton, died on Monday at noon as the result of a stroke of paralysis. She was aged 65 years, born in Ireland and came to this country when quite young. Her funeral took place yesterday afternoon from St. Peter's Catholic church in Oakland, Rev. Father James E. Connell officiating. The remains were interred in the cemetery here.

Second Street to be Paved.

At a meeting of the town council held on Monday night of this week a resolution was adopted authorizing that Second street from Alder to the corner of Mr. D. E. Offutt's residence lot be paved with vitrified brick, the work to be commenced as soon as practicable.

The bridge accross the little stream in the centre of town will be an obstacle in the path of the work as it will require the expenditure of quite a sum in building substantial walls and purchasing iron to span it upon which the brick will be laid.

While other portions of the town were paved wholly at the expense of the public the property owners along Second street have agreed to bear a liberal share of the expense in making the improvement.

State Council Jr. O. U. A. M.

The State Council of the Junior Order United American Mechanics will meet in Oakland on Tuesday for a three days' session. The business meeting of the Council will be held in the Opera House. Something like two hundred delegates are expected to be present, coming from every section of the State. Oakland will be helped financially by the gathering and it will be a good advertisement for the town.

The American flag is the emblem of the order and it has been suggested that Old Glory be profusely used by the people of Oakland upon the occasion of the meeting.

Meeting of Dorcas Society.

The members of the Dorcas Society are requested to meet at Mrs. Dr. Hinebaugh's residence on Friday, April 12th, at 3 o'clock p. m. Let all the members try to be present, as there is some business of importance to be attended to.

Postponed.

Owing to unforseen circumstances over which the management has no control, the production of "The Hick'ry Farm," which was to have been given tomorrow night, has been postponed until Monday night.

Married.

BROWNING—CODDINGTON.—At the residence of the bride's mother in Oakland, Mrs. Thomas Coddington, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, by Rev. James E. Connell, pastor of St. Peter's Catholic church, Mr. Frank Browning, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Browning, of Terra Alta, and Miss Lucy Coddington. The couple left on No. 55 for their future home at Terra Alta, followed by the well wishes of their many friends in this section.

Notice.

On the 21st of this month Rev. S. E. Nicholson, State Superintendent of Anti-Saloon League for Maryland, will speak in the morning in St. Paul's M. E. church, in afternoon at Garrett Memorial church and in evening at Lutheran church. Everybody cordially invited.

ASBURY MICK.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

KRAMER WAGONS are the best.

Goldfish, globes, food, etc., at Cheap John's.

WANTED.—A girl to do general housework. Apply at this office.

Big stock toys, candies, fruits, etc., at Cheap John's. 2t

Plenty of seed oats and grass seed at Dixon & Kelso's. 2t*

Bed Room Suites--Twenty-five left. Will be sold cheap. OFFUTT'S.

Two bottles pop for 5 cts. at Cheap John's.

MATTINGS--Largest line and lowest prices at Offutt's. 4 2t

Headquarters for fishing tackle at Cheap John's.

For rough and stumpy ground get the McCormick vertical bar mower.

KRAMER WAGONS are the best. Sold exclusively by Offutt's. 2t

Dr. Hardman, of Grafton, will fit spectacles at the Glades Hotel, Oakland, Friday, April 19th. 2t

John Felty, Jr., has the cheapest line of wall paper in town. Call and examine it.

KRAMER WAGONS sold on easy terms. Write or call for prices. 4 2t OFFUTT'S.

Dr. S. M. Hardman, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, Grafton, W. Va. Spectacles and artificial eyes fitted.

John Felty, Jr., has the cheapest line of wall paper in town. Call and examine it.

John Felty, Jr., has the cheapest line of wall paper in town. Call and examine it.

Do not buy Mowers, Binders, etc., that you will have trouble to get repairs for. Buy the McCormick and get the best. Naylor has them 4 3*

FERTILIZER.--Dixon & Kelso have a large lot corn, oats and potato fertilizer, the use of which will double your crops, to sell on easy terms. Give us a call and get prices. 2t*

If troubled by a weak digestion, loss of appetite, or constipation, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Every box warranted. For sale by all druggists.

FOR SALE:—The Lutheran parsonage, located on the corner of Fifth and Green streets, in Oakland, near the court house. Contains 8 rooms, hallway, cellar and porches; excellent well of water. Will be sold cheap. Apply to or address Rev. George I. Uhler, Oakland, Md.

TO CURE LAGRIPPE IN TWO DAY

Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE TABLETS. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature on every box. 25c.

St. Matthew's Church.

The annual meeting of members of St. Matthew's P. E. church to elect a vestry for the ensuing year was held Easter morning, April 8th. The vestry is as follows: Dr. E. H. Bartlett, Dr. R. F. Bartlett, Messrs. Percy Procter, Geo. T. Brew, Bowie Johnson, Harry Hinebaugh, L. H. Friend and C. M. Miller. Dr. E. H. Bartlett is the senior warden and Mr. Geo. T. Brew the junior warden. Mr. Percy Procter is treasurer and C. M. Miller registrar. Treasurer Procter reported yearly receipts at about $1000 and disbursements $900, with cash on hand and subscriptions due amounting to about $180. In addition to paying expenses the parish contributed about $130 to missions, Galveston relief fund and other outside charities.

Easter at St. Paul's M. E. Church.

Easter was appropriately celebrated in St. Paul's M. E. church. The edifice was beautifully decorated with potted palms and lillies and a profusion of cut flowers. The sermon, a strong and interesting exposition of the benefits derived by humanity through the death and resurrection of Christ, was delivered by the pastor, Rev. Mick, from the text: "Now is Christ risen from the dead." The music, under the directorship of Prof. John G. Robinson, was inspiring and impressive, the anthems used being "Awake Up My Glory," by Barnby, and "Arisen with Christ," by H. W. Porter, the solo parts being well taken by Miss Agnes Bullard, Dr. Robinson and Mr. John Mealey, supported by a strong and full choir, with the regular church organist, Miss Lottie Loar, at the organ.

At night the services were turned over to the primary department of the Sunday school, who, under the training and tutorage of their faithful and efficient teachers, had prepared an elaborate and very interesting program, entitled "The First Easter Story," consisting of a processional, duets, choruses, recitations, etc., the rendition of which not only reflected great credit upon the children participating, but upon those who so carefully and faithfully instructed them. Dr. John G. Robinson had charge of the musical features of the program, assisted by the talented Miss Wonn Robinson, who presided at the organ.

The Epworth League had charge of the decorations. The Mission offering of the Sunday school amounted to $55.45. Large congregations being present on both occasions.

Nydegger Hill Road Relocated.

After eighteen years of contention among the residents of that section of the county bordering the Potomac river near Gorman over the location of the public county road leading down the Nydegger hill to the river, the matter was settled to the satisfaction of all yesterday when the County Commissioners accepted the road as relocated by a board of viewers appointed during February to change the route of the highway so as to avoid the steep and dangerous incline. The case has been before nearly every board of county commissioners since the road was located, petitions having been circulated for a change in the route as many as three times in one year, but every time some dissatisfied citizen would appear and lay before the board some objection whereby the matter could not be adjusted. This time, however, no serious objection was raised and in consequence the road will be changed. Three hundred dollars have been appropriated to make the necessary improvement. County Commissioner Kelso is highly elated over the final adjustment of the differences among the citizens of the neighborhood immediately interested, the road being in that portion of the county under his supervision.

APPEAL SESSION.

The tax payers of Oakland will take notice that the Town Council will sit at the Council Chamber in said town on

MONDAY, APRIL 22, 1901,

from two to four p. m. and from seven to nine o'clock p. m., for the purpose of hearing appeals and making transfers upon the assessment books of said town.

By order of the Council.

5-2t J. C. DUNHAM, Clerk.

Illinois Central R. R.

PERSONALLY CONDUCTED EXCURSIONS TO

CALIFORNIA

VIA NEW ORLEANS

AND THE SOUTHERN ROUTE.

VIA OMAHA

AND THE SCENIC ROUTE.

NEW THROUGH LINE OF

HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

BY WAY OF MEMPHIS.

E. A. RICHTER, T. P. A.
812 Park Building, Pittsburg, Pa.

A. H. HANSON, Gen. Pass. Agt., CHICAGO.

Real Estate NOTICES!

For Rent--

House on Water Street, Oakland.
The Whitehead Cottage, Mt. Lake Park.
Thorn Cottage, near Oakland.
Offices in Ravenscroft Building, Oakland.

For Sale--

Three Houses in Oakland.
Thorn Cottage, near Oakland.
Lots at Loch Lynn Heights.
Hotel Property, Deer Park.
Farms in the County.

Apply to

JULIUS C. RENNINGER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
13t OAKLAND, MD.

SET forth the pure, white lilies;
Put lust for gold away!
Let faith supplant ambition.
Let love once more have sway—
Let men again be brothers,
If only for the day.
Turn back unto the Saviour,
For still—aye still!—He reigns;
Forget to sigh at losses,
Forget to scheme for gains—
Close up the noisy market!
Help swell the sweet old strains.

The sky is still above us
That arched o'er Calvary;
The wind still stirs the grasses
That rippled Galilee—
The message Christ delivered
Is still for you and me.

Roll back the stone that closes
The entrance to your heart;
Let [illegible] be resurrected,
Bid [illegible] my doubt depart,
And let God's love still shield you
Against the scoffer's dart.

Once more the Easter lilies!
Once more the old sweet way
Of slipping back to childhood,
Of letting love have sway!
So shall the world be brighter
And better for the day.
—S. E. Kiser, in Chicago Daily News.

THE MAGIC OF A VOICE

By Harriet Brewer Sterling.

IT WAS Easter eve, and half a dozen girls of the Altar Guild were decorating the chancel of beautiful old St. Stephen's. They had banked the window sills with moss, in which flowers were imbedded, and they had woven a leafy screen, which they had raised above the altar, and in which sprays of blossoms were so placed as to form that most sacred emblem, the cross. Meanwhile the florist had brought a number of palms and other large leaved plants and massed them in a wall of green on either side. Now while twilight fell the girls were arranging the cut flowers, pot-plants and long wreaths of smilax which were to make pulpit desk and font alike proclaim the gladness of the Easter-tide.

"The world itself keeps Easter day," trilled Louise Mattison, as she stepped back to study the effect of her work. "There, girls," she added, in a tone of satisfaction, "how do you like the font?"

"Lovely!" cried an admiring chorus.

"Now let us go," said Pauline Judson. "We are all through and we must hurry home or it will be pitch dark."

"We really should not have stayed so late as this," said Antoinette Ward. "I shall be frightened to death to go home. Did you know that one of the patients escaped from the asylum to-day?"

"Mercy, Antoinette! why didn't you tell us before? Are you sure it's true?"

"Yes; Dr. Barton telephoned to papa about it. They can't find a trace of him. It's that man who was so powerfully affected by your voice, Louise, the day you sang at the asylum. Do you remember? The one with such a dreadfully disfigured face."

"Remember!" cried Louise, with a shudder; "shall I ever forget? The creature still haunts my dreams!"

"We are in no danger while we have Louise," said Antoinette, with a somewhat forced gayety. "This very man who has escaped was raving, locked in a padded cell, the day we were out there, and the sound of Louise's voice in the hall as she sang quieted him so that they were able to let him out. She sang again expressly for him, and you should have seen him, sitting spellbound, drinking in every note. Should we meet him we'll just let Louise—"

"Thank you," said Louise, dryly, "but I have sung my last to lunatics. That one experience will suffice for the balance of my life. See here, girls, do you think these roses will last if they are left in the warm church all night, or would it be best to put them downstairs?"

"Oh, they'll do all right up here," said Pauline. "There is no time for further fussing. Do let's be off, for it's supper time, and, anyway, I'm afraid to stay in this dark place so late."

"Come along, Louise," said Antoinette, as the little group passed down the aisle; "you and Grace both go my way."

"Not to-night, my dear," Louise replied. "Sorry to disappoint you, but I told mother when I left home that I'd spend the night with Aunt Libbie. Do you know,' she added, as they reached the vestibule, "I'm a little worried about those roses. I believe I'll just go back and carry them down into the basement. Good night, girls," she called, as she turned back into the church. "Don't wait for me. I'm not a bit afraid, and I take the car right at this corner, you know."

As the other girls went down the street they were noticed by the sexton, who was standing on the opposite corner talking to a friend.

"There," said he, "they're gone at last. I fixed my fires and got everything ready to lock up a full hour ago, and I've been waiting around here ever since. I must get along, now I've got the chance, so good night to ye."

Crossing the street, he entered the church and peered about. It was empty and quiet. Satisfied that all was as it should be, he went out, closed and locked the great door and hurried away.

Down in the basement Louise was putting the roses in a cool corner when her ear caught the clang of the closing door. She sprang up the steps and ran across the transept and down the long side-aisle. Panting, she tried the door, shook it, rattled the knob, pounded on the panels, but all in vain. She ran to the tower door, thinking perhaps to ring the bell. That, too, was locked. She thought of the windows, but the painted saints in the chancel were, of course, immovable, and for the rest the church was lighted from the clearstory high above her head.

The basement! Surely she could get out there! Through the deepening shadows she hastened down the stairs again. Again a locked door confronted her.

"I feel like a mouse in a trap," she said to herself. "There's no use in being so frightened." She sat down on the lower step and tried to face the situation calmly. Here she was a prisoner in dear old St. Stephen's. The sextion had undoubtedly gone home for the night. Unless she was missed and searched for he would not be back until early morning, when he would come to attend to the fires. As to the possibility that she might be missed, it was very slight. Her mother supposed her to be at her aunt's, while her aunt was not definitely expecting her, and would not be surprised at her nonappearance.

"No two ways about it," thought Louise. "I'm booked to spend the night here. I might as well settle down to it, and make myself as comfortable as possible."

She rose and went slowly up the stairs, humming a little tune to keep up her courage.

As she entered the empty church a slight noise startled her. She gave herself a little shake. "Louise Mattison," she said to herself, sternly, "I hope you are not afraid of a mouse?" She passed down the aisle and seated herself cozily in the snug inner corner of the family pew.

AT SIGHT OF HIM THE POOR, MAD CREATURE SPRANG UP.

The church was not wholly dark, for the glare from an electric light on a high mast at the corner fell through the clearstory windows, illuminating part of the chancel quite brightly, and casting broken lights and shadows across the nave. Louise leaned back in her pew-corner and idly noted the effect of the aster decorations as they were revealed in the strange half-light. As her eye fell on the left group of palms one or two of the stiff, shining leaves seemed to move. The girl's heart came to her throat. Assuring herself that her fright was due solely to imagination, she looked again. All was quiet for a moment. Then—yes, surely that was a movement, and surely her ear caught a rustle. Louise strained her frightened eyes to see more clearly. Was there or was there not a figure standing back of that palm group? The electric light on its high mast sputtered and almost went out. For a moment the whole church was in shadow. When the light flashed up again the figure back of the palms was a certainty. Slowly, while Louise felt her blood congeal, a man's form moved from behind the clustered leaves and slowly moved across the chancel. Louise sat motionless and dumb, her eyes fixed on the advancing figure. Of what use to scream? Of what use to flee? She was a prisoner, powerless to escape, powerless to defend herself! The man advanced to the chancel steps and came into the full radiance of a broad beam of light. His shadowy features became suddenly distinct. Louise saw a frightfully scarred face. In an agony of horror she recognized the maniac whom she had seen at the asylum, and of whose escape Antoinette had told her.

Scarcely breathing, numb with terror, she saw the dread figure slowly descend the steps of the chancel and come down the aisle. Now he was only four pews away! Now three! Now two! And now—oh, Heaven, be merciful—he paused at the pew Louise was in, slowly turned, entered it and sat down in the outer corner.

For one deadly moment the girl's heart seemed to stop and all turned black before her eyes. Then the blood surged back to her brain and thoughts came quickly, as they do to one drowning. She remembered the insane asylum hall, and this dangerous maniac sitting mute and motionless, spellbound by the power of music.

A slight move made by her strange seat-mate brought her back to the present situation. No longer in a crowded, brightly lighted hall, but in this dark and silent church she must attempt to bind this man with music's spell, and this time her life, perhaps, depended on her success. Another movement, slight but terrifying, roused her to action. By an awful effort of will she gained control of her throat, which fear had almost paralyzed, and there, in the darkness, with a maniac as sole auditor, she sang as never in her life before.

High and clear her voice rang in the joyous Easter carols, tender and rich in the minor strains of Lenten hymns. The listener sat motionless as a statue. Sometimes Louise hoped he slept, and she would pause, but signs of restlessness ever forced her to renewed effort. On and on she sang—hymns, chants and carols, snatches of oratorios, Scotch ballads, love lyrics, college songs, and even nursery rhymes—while the tardy hours of the night dragged by.

When midnight chimed from a neighboring tower the courageous singer felt that she had reached almost the end of her strength. Yet in desperation she sang on, repeating, improvising, singing scales and exercises, now stopping to take breath, now impelled by terror to begin again, till one o'clock struck; and two; and three; and then, slowly, slowly, the blessed daylight began to appear! The sexton of St. Stephen's, peacefully snoring away the early-morning hours was disturbed just as the day was dawning by a loud rapping on the door. He raised the window and testily inquired who was there and what was wanted.

"It is Dr. Barton and a patrolman," was the reply. "There is something wrong at the church, and we want you to bring the keys and come with us at once." The startled sexton sprang into his clothing, seized the keys and hurried out of the door.

The patrolman stood waiting; Dr. Barton, in his impatience, was already half a block away.

"What's to pay?" panted the little sexton, as his short legs tried to keep pace with his companion's long ones.

The patrolman explained that he had heard somebody singing in the church. Remembering the escaped lunatic he had telephoned Dr. Barton, of the asylum. The doctor had joined him, and both had heard the singing, although it was evidently a woman's voice.

The three men entered the church by a basement door. The bolt shot back grudgingly, with a grating sound. Louise heard it, and dully wondered if help were at hand. She paused and listened. Did she hear footsteps in the lower hall? Suddenly the madman by her side half sprang to his feet and bent threateningly toward her. Terrified, yet with renewed courage, she opened her lips. The rescuers on the steps halted in amaze at the burst of triumphant melody, while the maniac, tranquilized, sat back to his place.

The doctor turned to his aids. "Go through to the other stairs," he whispered, "and up into the vestibule. I'll wait here till I see you at the door. It's a lady that's singing, but my man is in there beside her."

The men obeyed, feeling their way through the cellar dusk to the other end of the church.

"God will hearken, God will save," sang Louise, all the pathos of a prayer in her voice. As the words left her lips the curtain at the transept stairway was thrust aside, revealing the figure of the asylum superintendent. Mechanically she sang on, while Dr. Barton, his eyes fixed upon his escaped patient, advanced with measured tread along the aisle. At sight of him, the poor, mad creature sprang up. Then he moved slowly backward, cowering lower and lower as the doctor approached, till, crouching abjectly at Louise's feet, he burst into a flood of tears.

They led him away, still weeping and humble as a little child, while the girl sat motionless, with whirling brain and dazed eyes. Incuriously she had recognized the patrolman and sexton as they came within her field of vision; as in a dream she had heard the word of command from Dr. Barton and seen the lunatic rise; numbly she watched until he was led from her sight. Then, freed from the fearful tension of the night, weary, exhausted, her head fell backward, and she lapsed into unconsciousness.

When, after weeks of illness, Louise had fought her way back to health and strength again, it was found that the strain of those frightful hours had hopelessly injured the delicate vocal chords, and her beautiful voice was silenced forever. A fearful sacrifice, yet one that had not been in vain, for in those few hours of singing a miracle had been wrought, and the disordered mechanism of a brain had found balance. The maniac, after leaving the church, wept himself into a quiet sleep, from which he awoke a maniac no longer, but a sane man, his mental poise permanently restored by the magic of a voice.—Woman's Home Companion.

The Lesson of Hope.

The great lesson of Easter is hope. Its picture is a broken grave, empty now because He who lay in it could not be holden of death. The lesson is a great deal wider in its reach, however, than the ordinary application of it. It is wondrously comforting to know that all who sleep in Jesus God will bring again from death to life. But the victory of Easter included all that belongs to the Christian life. We suffer many defeats before we come to the last faintness, which men call dying. But there is not one of those which the glorious Easter fact may not change into a victory. Always Christian faith brings life out of death.

Many times we seem to fail, but there is a way to bring good out of every failure. Indeed, ofttimes the best thing that can come to us is defeat. It takes the self-conceit out of us. It reveals to us our weakness, and thus sets a new lesson for us—the strengthening of the weak point. It makes us more patient and sympathetic with others who fail. Then it inspires us to new courage. We rise to try again, and we determine yet to be victorious. Thus depending upon Christ we become more than conquerors through Him that loved us, and out of the graves of our vain struggles comes resurrection life.—Dr. J. R. Miller.

Best of All Our Hopes.

Is not the best of all our hopes—the hope of immortality—always before us? How can we be dull or heavy while we have that new experience to look forward to? It will be the most joyful of all our travels and adventures. It will bring us our best acquaintances and friendships. But there is only one way to get ready for immortality, and that is to love this life and live it as bravely and cheerfully and faithfully as we can.—Henry Van Dyke.

A New Easter.

Every call to self-denial is a call to a new Easter. The lower is to be sacrificed for the sake of obtaining the higher. As in the grain of wheat is hidden a secret of value and growth which can be realized only through the dying of the grain in the earth, so in every fragment of human happiness and comfort there is covered up a secret of blessing and of good which can be brought out only through the losing of it, the giving it up.—S. S. Times.

ABOUT THE SIZE OF IT.

Wife—Women always have the best of it when it comes to Easter headgear.

Husband—Of course they do. The men have to pay the freight.—Chicago Daily News.

More Nonsense.

"I think these jokes about Easter bonnets are downright stupid," said Mr. Meekton.

"Indeed!"

"Yes. The idea of a woman's asking her husband for money to get a bonnet with! Just as if she didn't have it all the time and wasn't thinking herself pretty generous if she gave him 25 cents to buy lunch with!"—Washington Star.

The Last Straw.

"Judson thought he might pull through without making an assignment, but just as he was about arranging satisfactorily with his creditors—"

"What happened?"

"The bill for his wife's Easter hat came in."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

A Plausible Story.

Lady—Why are you wandering around the country, I should like to know, instead of staying at home and taking care of your family?

Tramp—You see, mum, my wife had a very good servant girl—a regular jewel, mum.

"That doesn't seem possible."

"There never was but one perfect girl, and my wife had her, mum."

"Mercy! What a lucky woman!"

"Yes, mum, so my wife often said. But, you see, mum, the girl didn't like me."

"She didn't?"

"No, mum. She said my wife would have to discharge her or me, so she discharged me."

"Oh, I see. Here's some money."—N. Y. Weekly.

Trouble in a Kiss.

She—Do you remember the first quarrel you had with your wife?

He—Distinctly.

"What was it about?"

"Oh, about a kiss."

"Pshaw!"

"Yes."

"But doesn't she like kissing?"

"Oh, yes."

"Why, then, did she object?"

"I was kissing another woman."—Yonkers Statesman.

Noble Consideration.

"Why did the bride insist that the groom's present should be a necklace of 21 pearls? Does she think there is luck in odd numbers?"

"No, I guess not. You see, she had been engaged that number of times to other fellows, and, being one of the kindest-hearted girls in the world, she wanted the necklace as a sort of memorial to them."—Chicago Times-Herald.

A Matter of Health.

When the world is dull and gloomy
And won't go the proper way,
It is really your stomach
That is ailing, so they say.
And the world would chime with laughter
Till the rippling echoes wake
If we only could discover
Just what medicine to take.
—Washington Star.

A HEAVY BURDEN.

She—It's queer that Mr. Smith sank when he broke through the ice, when he was such an excellent swimmer.

He—Well, you see, he had just eaten one of his wife's biscuits.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Success.

What is "Success"in this strange life?
Pray tell us what it means.
With some 'tis wine and terrapin;
With others, pork and beans.
—Washington Star.

Delightful Man.

He—Going shopping, Miss Vandervelt?

She—Yes. I'm going to buy some pretty pictures for my room.

He—Why don't you buy a half-dozen mirrors? Then you would see a pretty picture whichever way you turned.—Summerville Journal.

Rapid-Transit Returns.

"I wouldn't be guilty of doing a favor for a man and then in a day or two asking him to do me one."

"No, nor I; I'd ask him right straight off, before his gratitude gets chance to cool."—Indianapolis Journal.

Quite Kittenish.

Beacon—That Miss Bangs in the next flat has got a new piano.

Egbert—I suppose you can compare her to a kitten now.

"How so?"

"Why, I suppose she's playing all the time."—Yonkers Statesman.

Honors Even.

"Good heavens!" scornfully exclaimed the young woman. "Are you asking me to marry you? You!"

"Yes," returned young Spoonamore, with spirit. "Why not? I've asked everybody else I can think of."—Chicago Tribune.

First Inspection.

"Your doom is sealed!" said the sheriff, solemnly.

"Doesn't matter!" responded the prisoner, absently. "My wife will open it."—Chicago Daily News.

The Easiest Way Out.

Mrs. Mangle (to the hotel manager)—If a package comes to me from the dressmaker's with $20 to pay, just pay it, and charge it to sundries in my husband's bill.

Manager—Certainly, madam; but—er—don't you think he might be suspicious?

Mrs. Mangle (thoughtfully)—Well, there is something in that. Perhaps, after all, you had better charge it to his wine account.—Tit-Bits.

HARDEST TASK OF HIS LIFE.

"Why don't you work?"

"Madam, ain't I tryin' ter work yer dis very moment?"—Chicago American.

Odd But Expressive.

An odd word she let fall
Makes me fear there's no hope.
When I popped, I recall,
An odd word she let fall.
You'll not find it at all
In old Webster's; 'tis "Nope!"
This odd word she let fall—
Makes me feel there's no hope.
—Catholic Standard and Times.

In Use.

The little girl in the family was inclined to answer the doorbell about as soon as it sounded, and sometimes she gave answers to whomever might be there, that were curious. One day the man who collects the packages of laundry was at the door and asked if the laundry was ready.

"No," she replied. "Papa has got it on."—Detroit Free Press.

As the Boy Remembered It.

A Melrose boy who is devoted to the Sunday school had as a golden text not long ago the words: "Go to the ant, thou sluggard." Upon reaching home his father asked him what the text was. The parent was surprised to know that the text was: "Go to your aunt, and get slugged."—Boston Journal.

Gone for Good.

"You don't mean to say you've left old Krusty's employ?"

"Yes, he made a certain remark in my hearing that made it simply impossible for me to remain there any longer."

"Really? What did he say?"

"He said: 'Get your pay and get out of here.'"—Philadelphia Press.

His Indignant Inquiry.

He (on his knees)—Darling, I love you with all my heart, with all my soul, and with all the strength of my being.

She—Are you in earnest, Clarence?

He (reproachfully)—In earnest! Say, do you think I am bagging my trousers this way for fun?—Puck.

A Clean Sweep.

The burglar looked around with pride,
And silently admired
His latest job. He had in truth
Left naught to be desired.
—N. Y. Life.

FLOR DE CABBAGE.

Host—That's something like a cigar, isn't it, old chap?

Guest—Yes. It's wonderful to what perfection they can bring these imitations nowadays.—Ally Sloper.

Financial Comment.

"What do you think of a man who overdraws his bank account?"

"It isn't much to his credit."—Town Topics.

WOMAN AND HOME

BED FOR HOSPITALS.

Provisions Made for Treatment of Numerous Diseases and Also for Surgical Work.

The illustration shows a specially constructed bed adapted for use in hospitals, provision being made for treating numerous diseases and also for surgical work. A cooling tank is provided which contains ice and water, and this can be brought in proximity with any portion of the body while the remainder is given hot treatments by other appliances. The special function of the cooling tank is to regulate the temperature of a pyretic or febrile patient—as, for instance, in spinal meningitis, pneumonia, typhoid fever and all forms of eruptive diseases, where bodily temperature plays such an important role. In spinal meningitis and typhoid it may be necessary to apply heat to the spinal column and neck of the patient to produce muscular relaxation, while the general temperature is reduced by the application of the cooling apparatus to other parts of the body. The mattress of the bed is adapted to be inflated with hot water or air, and in order to maintain the water at the required temperature the mattress is connected with the water heater in proximity to the bed by means of a pipe. It will be noticed that supports for a fractured arm or leg are also provided, as well as a thermometer, writing tablet, holder for medicine glasses, etc. The designer of the appliance is Adolfo Luma, of Chicago, Ill.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

IMPROVED HOSPITAL BED.

HUNDRED YEARS HENCE.

The Fearsome Future Woman to Whom the English May Be Expected to Look Forward.

This is what the writer in one of the English magazines predicts will be the state of affairs when another century rolls around:

"By that time women will be all six feet in height, many of them considerably over, while the average height of a man will be five feet nothing. Woman will be strong and lusty; broad and heavy in build, and will be very proud of her large feet, thick wrists, powerful limbs and great muscular development, while men will have grown vain of their trimly-corseted waists, nice pink and white complexions and soft voices.

"Love will not have been completely done away with, though sentiment will have given away to common sense. Every woman will be required to marry and support two husbands, one of whom must be a useful, domesticated creature, capable of tending the children and looking after the household (while the wife is away in the city earning good money to keep the home together), and the other will be a better looking, and therefore more ornamental creature (not a 'general utility' man like the 'housekeeper'), whose duties will be to act as companion or 'gentleman help' to the mistress and ruler of the mansion, and keep things up to the mark generally.

"Women a century hence will all wear 'bloomers,' both literally and figuratively speaking; any woman transgressing by appearing in a long-tailed skirt will be condemned to act as public street scavenger for as long a period as the local council shall determine. Women will also wear a mustache, and the faces of men will gradually become smooth. Cooks will no longer be at a premium, as tiny tabloids of food will take the place of the elaborate dishes of the past. We shall be able to get through a six-course dinner in about two minutes, a tabloid for each course, or, if we prefer it, we can have, multum in parvo, a tabloid with everything compressed and condensed into one harmonious whole."

A Moderate Wedding Outfit.

A moderate outfit for a bride would be a good street costume, several odd bodices, a black skirt, a silk gown and a house gown. These, with the clothes which she already has, entirely renovated and remodeled, and a sufficient amount of neatly-made underclothing is all that any girl in moderate circumstances needs for her trousseau—even less would be in order.—Emma M. Hooper, in Ladies' Home Journal.

An Effective Compromise.

Little Daisy's aunt had given her a doll so dressed that she couldn't tell whether it was a girl or a boy. She looked at it in great perplexity for a few minutes and then said: "Never mind, little boy; be a good girl."

FEEDING THE BABY.

All Milk Given to Little Children Should Be Sterilized, and Seasoned Just a Little Bit.

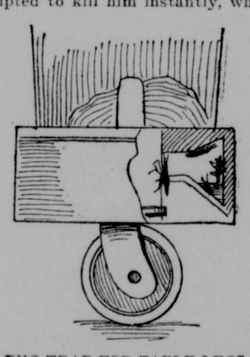
There has been a great change for the better in the feeding of little children in the last score of years. Far more children who are deprived of their mothers' milk thrive on artificial feeding than formerly. This is chiefly due to the process of sterilization. All milk fed to infants or little children who live largely on milk should be sterilized. This should be done to destroy impurities which the milk may receive from contact with the air and from vessels which hold it, as well as to destroy germs of typhoid fever, tuberculosis or other diseases which may be received from the cow. The importance of sterilization, therefore, cannot be insisted upon too strongly. Apparatus is sold for this purpose, so that it may be easily accomplished in any kitchen with little trouble. Formerly the milk of one cow was insisted upon. Some authorities object to this, preferring a child should be fed from a mixture of the milk of different cows.

There is more salt and sugar in human milk than in cow's milk. A very little loaf sugar and a little salt should be added to milk given to an infant. A safe rule for feeding little infants is to boil a teaspoonful of powdered barley and a little salt in a gill of water for 15 minutes. Strain the mixture through a fine strainer which is kept for the purpose and sterilized every time it is used. Add to this mixture as much cow's milk and a little sugar. This preparation can be taken from a bottle. Sometimes oatmeal must be substituted for barley. Use oatmeal in place of barley if the child's bowels are not as open as they should be. For a very young child physicians generally recommend cow's milk, weakened only with water. If it sours on the stomach, as it may, make a very thin, transparent mucilage of the best gum arabic and milk, sweetened and flavored with a little salt, and give the child a little. It is a simple, harmless medicine.—N. Y. Weekly.

TRAP FOR COCKROACHES.

Pennsylvania Man Has Invented a Contrivance That Keeps Them Off the Dining Table.

To find a roach crawling on the dining table fills the heart of many a housewife with disgust, and she is tempted to kill him instantly, which



BUG TRAP FOR TABLE LEGS.

of course, soils the cloth. The best way is to prevent the pests from climbing up the table legs, and that is just what the invention of P. J. McAtee, of Gilberton, Pa., is designed to accomplish. We illustrate the idea in the accompanying picture, a portion of the trap being cut away to give a view of the interior arrangement. The bug who climbs this table leg must not only know how to swim, but also be able to find his way out of the trap when once inside, and the chances of his reaching the top are small indeed. The slanting upper wall of the trap is highly polished, and this causes many of the insects to fall into the liquid as soon as they attempt to crawl across it. The liquid may be kerosene or some poison, making it impossible for the insects to long survive a bath in the trap. The invention may be used on tables, beds, dressers, and, in fact, any article of furniture on which castors are used, as it comprises a castor with an extra long shank, having the trap surrounding the lower portion and adapted to support the leg as shown.—Chicago Daily News.

BOSSY'S EXPLOSIVE CUD.

Cow Swallowed a Bunch of Firecrackers and Matches and Made a Show of Herself.

A peculiar circumstance happened near Rochester, N. Y., not long ago, where a gentleman was spending a few days with his family. The fences were down so that the cattle could roam at will along the lake shore, and in doing so one cow came across a small package which she began to devour with a relish.

Suddenly there was noticed by the occupants of the cottage a flash and then a loud report. Fire flashed out of the mouth of the cow, which made a desperate attempt to get rid of something unusual to her as a diet. The onlookers were established as well as the cow, and the latter, with a great gulp, swallowed what had created the rumpus in her mouth and all was quiet again. The solution of the matter was that the animal had gathered in her mouth while browsing a small package of firecrackers and parlor matches mixed, which had been thrown down by visitors, and in chewing the stuff had set one of the matches ablaze. This in turn fired a firecracker, and hence the explosion which astonished the people and the cow.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. Cheney & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

"Why is it called 'pin money?'" his wife asked of him. "I don't know, unless it is because the husbands are always stuck for it."—Philadelphia Times.

The Doctors Were Not in It.

Not long ago, when Mr. C. B. McKebbin was living in Spencerport, New York, he wrote: "Your Lotion has cured me of Barber's Itch of twelve months' standing, after trying every other known remedy and numerous doctors without benefit." Many others have written of similar experiences and all recommend Palmer's Lotion as the only reliable remedy to be used in like cases, and in fact for every kind of virulent cutaneous disease. If your druggist happens not to have it, send to Solon Palmer, 374 Pearl Street, New York, for samples of Palmer's Lotion and Lotion Soap, which will be promptly sent you.

"I shouldn't work so hard," protested the gold brick solicitor, "if other people didn't work so hard!"—Detroit Journal.

Homeseekers Excursion.

On the first and third Tuesdays of each month the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway will sell round-trip excursion tickets from Chicago, Milwaukee and other points on its line to a great many points in South Dakota, North Dakota and other Western and Northwestern States at about one fare. Take a trip west and see the wonderful crops and what an amount of good land can be purchased for a little money. Further information as to rates, routes, prices of farm lands, etc., may be obtained by addressing F. A. Miller, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Sometimes we envy the prosperity of a wicked man, little knowing how the wicked man envies us.—N. Y. Herald.

Wonderful Yield of Speltz.

Blanchard Bros., Chaffee Co., Colo., write to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., who are the introducers of this remarkable grain and hay food, Speltz, saying: "We have just threshed 182 bus. of Salzer's Speltz from the 100 pounds of seed you sent us last spring. The neighbors all think it is wonderful. Nearly all of the 182 bus. sold at $2.00 for seed. Speltz and Alfalfa are our money makers." Every farmer should try a few acres of Speltz. Write to Salzer to-day. [K.]

Don't whistle; it takes the attention of the people from their own affairs in wondering what tune you are trying to hit.—Atchison Globe.

There Is a Class of People

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

The plaintiff and defendant in a lawsuit are like two boys ducking their heads in a tub of water—each daring the other to remain under the longest.—Chicago Daily News.

Lane's Family Medicine.

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

Watches and rivers seldom run long without winding.—Chicago Daily News.

Cure your cough with Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar.
Pike's Toothache Drops Cure in one minute.

Never Looked for Trouble.

"We went to New Orleans by way of Hot Springs and Texas," said the girl who came home yesterday decked with the green and orange and purple of the carnival colors. "Leaving Hot Springs we changed cars at a place called Malvern. The porter was polishing my boots as we came into the station where we were to wait for the train. The name seemed familiar to me. Then I recalled Bret Harte's poem:

"'Is Malvern hill near here?' I asked.

"'I can't say, madam,' he answered, politely. 'I ain't never heard of Malvern hill.'

"'Never heard of it?' I said. 'Why, there was a great battle fought there.'

"'Lately?' he inquired.

"'No,' I said, 'during the civil war. Why, it was at Malvern hill that the colored troops fought so gallantly. I should think that every colored man would know about that.'

"He looked up at me, seriously, almost reprovingly:

"'Madam,' he said, 'I never inquires into trouble. I ain't never been a man of war.'"—Washington Post.

What He Wanted.

"Now," said the celebrated designer, who had been called in by the new billionaire to talk over plans for a $500,000 yacht, "we have come to an understanding concerning the size of the craft, but what about the bulwarks and hatchways?"

"Bull works!" exclaimed Mr. Wadhams; "I don't want no bull works. This ain't a-goin' to be no cattle ship, and as for hatchways, gol durn it, I don't want any of 'em aboard. Just you see about a place fer a good big ice box, and don't pay no 'tention to incubaters or anything of the kind. No chicken on this boat! I want you to understand b' gosh that I don't eat nothin' cheaper'n quail with feathers on now days!"—Chicago Times-Herald.

Tess—"He's awful handsome, don't you think?" Jess—"Handsome is that handsome does. He had the impertinence last night to tell me that he was going to kiss me the first chance he got, and—" Tess—"Weren't you indignant, though?" Tess—"I should say. He didn't keep his promise."—Philadelphia Press.

DO YOU COUGH
DON'T DELAY
TAKE KEMP'S BALSAM
THE BEST COUGH CURE

It Cures Coughs Colds, Croup, Sore Throat. Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Price, 25 and 50 cents per bottle

Between Feminine Friends.

"He kissed me," said the girl in gray, with a giggle.

"I am not surprised," returned the girl in blue, sweetly. "He told me he had been doing penance."—Chicago Post.

The friends that wealth makes are as the quicksands, but the friends of poverty are like the fixed stars in Heaven.—N. Y. Herald.

THE DUTY OF MOTHERS.

What suffering frequently results from a mother's ignorance; or more frequently from a mother's neglect to properly instruct her daughter!

Tradition says "woman must suffer," and young women are so taught. There is a little truth and a great deal of exaggeration in this. If a young woman suffers severely she needs treatment, and her mother should see that she gets it.

Many mothers hesitate to take their daughters to a physician for examination; but no mother need hesitate to write freely about her daughter or herself to Mrs. Pinkham and secure the most efficient advice without charge. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

Mrs. August Pfalzgraf, of South Byron, Wis., mother of the young lady whose portrait we here publish, wrote Mrs. Pinkham in January, 1899, saying her daughter had suffered for two years with irregular menstruation—had headache all the time, and pain in her side, feet swell, and was generally miserable. Mrs. Pinkham promptly replied with advice, and under date of March, 1899, the mother writes again that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured her daughter of all pains and irregularity.

Nothing in the world equals Mrs. Pinkham's great medicine for regulating woman's peculiar monthly troubles.

ALARMING MORTALITY.

Noticeable Among the Weak and Ailing.

Spring the Time Death Reaps Its Largest Harvest.

There is a Way of Eluding the Grim Destroyer.

Every Spring it is noticeable how many people are taken away that we have been accustomed to see in our daily life.

Statistics show that at no other season of the year does so many deaths occur.

Especially large is the mortality among weak and sickly people.

The reason for this is apparent. The body that is weakened by age or disease has much to contend with during the Winter months. Insufficient exercise frequently has been taken. Too much starchy and fatty foods have been eaten. The system has been allowed to become run down, and when Spring comes with its bright, sunshiny days, older people will begin to realize that their vitality has become very low. The same thing is true of people who are naturally sickly and weak.

This is the season of the year when even a strong person feels at his worst. That tired, restless feeling is experienced by too many.

There need not be as many deaths this year as usually take place. A little care will ward off many Spring funerals. If one is weak or ailing they should take time by the forelock and take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. This great medicine has been in many cases, and will continue to be, the means by which the black angel of Death has been driven from the threshold. It dispels the grim destroyer in a scientific way, for it purifies the blood and gives strength and vitality to the nerves. It tones up and restores to a healthy condition all of the great life-giving organs of the body.

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy will enable those who take it to throw off little ills that prove dangerous only when they attack a system already wasted and weakened.

From many people, who have experienced benefit from this greatest of all life-lengtheners, comes the following from the famous General Longstreet of 1217 New Hampshire Ave., Washington, D. C. He says:

"It gives me great pleasure to add my testimony with many others for Dr. Greene's Remedy, which I have used with highly beneficial results, and I am able to recommend its virtues from experience. I have used it for catarrh and have derived help."

Mr. Wellington Hynes, Elizabethtown, N. Y., writes:

"I feel it my duty to tell how much good Dr. Greene's Nervura has done me. I was so run down that I could not sleep at night and everything worried me. I had no appetite and could not work, my head ached all the time and there was an all-gone feeling in my stomach, and I was always looking on the dark side of everything. I began to take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and in less than three weeks I felt like a new man. I can now do as much work as is expected of a man of my age. I advise anyone who is troubled to take Dr. Greene's Nervura. Do not go to a doctor, but get a bottle of Dr. Greene's Nervura. It is cheaper than a doctor's bill."

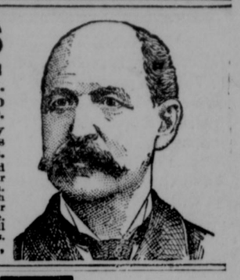
The latter part of Mr. Hynes's advice might be profitably disregarded, however, if you should feel you would like the advice of a physician. You can have such advice and have it free if you will write or call on the greatest known blood and nerve specialist, Dr. Greene, 35 W. 14th St., New York City.

The Question of Dessert

Is easily and simply solved with a package of Burnham's Hasty Jellycon. It is only necessary to dissolve a package of it in boiling water and set away to cool. The result is a delightfully pure jelly, and an ideal dessert. The flavors are orange, lemon, strawberry, raspberry, peach, wild cherry and the unflavored "calfsfoot" for making wine and coffee jellies. All grocers sell it.

RHEUMATISM Van Buren's Rheumatic Compound is the only positive cure. Past experience speaks for itself. Depot 58 E. California Ave., Chicago.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 & $3.50 SHOES UNION MADE.



The real worth of W. L. Douglas $3.00 and $3.50 shoes compared with other makes is $4.00 to $5.00.

Our $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price. We make and sell more $3.00 and $3.50 shoes than any other two manufacturers in the United States.

THE REASON more W. L. Douglas $3 and $3.50 shoes are sold than any other make is because THEY ARE THE BEST. Your dealer should keep them; we give one dealer exclusive sale in each town.

Take no substitute! Insist on having W. L. Douglas shoes with name and price stamped on bottom. If your dealer will not get them for you, send direct to factory, enclosing price and 25c. extra for carriage. State kind of leather, size, and width, plain or cap toe. Our shoes will reach you anywhere. Write for catalogue showing new Spring styles.

We use Fast Color Eyelets in all our shoes. W. L. Douglas Shoe Co., Brockton, Mass.

FACE HUMORS

Pimples, Blackheads, Red Rough and Oily Skin

PREVENTED BY

Cuticura SOAP

MILLIONS of Women Use CUTICURA SOAP, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and soothing red, rough, and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings, and chafings, in the form of baths for annoying irritations and inflammations, or too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and many sanative antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women and mothers, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used these great skin purifiers and beautifiers to use any others. CUTICURA SOAP combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients and the most refreshing of flower odors. No other medicated soap is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, viz.: TWENTY-FIVE CENTS, the BEST skin and complexion soap, and the BEST toilet and baby soap in the world.

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor.

Cuticura THE SET, $1.25 Consisting of CUTICURA SOAP (25c.), to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle; CUTICURA OINTMENT (50c.), to instantly allay itching, inflammation, and irritation, and soothe and heal; and CUTICURA RESOLVENT (50c.), to cool and cleanse the blood. A SINGLE SET is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring, and humiliating skin, scalp, and blood humors, with loss of hair, when all else fails. Sold throughout the world.

GREEN RAPE costs 25 cents per TON!
Greatest, Cheapest Food on Earth for Sheep, Swine, Cattle, Poultry, etc.
Will be worth $100 to you to read what Salzer's catalog says about rape.
Billion Dollar Grass will positively make you rich; 12 tons of hay and lots of pasture per acre, also Bromus, Fecast, Speltz (400 bu. corn, 250 bu. oats per a.), etc., etc.
For this Notice and 10c. we mail big cata'og and 10 Farm Seed Novelties, fully worth $10 to get a start.
For 14c. 7 splendid vegetable and 3 brilliant flower seed packages and catalog.
JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO., LA CROSSE, WIS.

With rig to sell our Poultry Mixture; straight salary $15.00 per week and expenses; year's contract; weekly pay. Address with stamp KUREKA MFG. CO., Dept. 6, East St. Louis, Ill.

A. N. K.—C 1857

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

In 3 or 4 Years an Independence Is Assured

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

If you take up your homes in Western Canada, the land of plenty. Illustrated pamphlets, giving experiences of farmers who have become wealthy in growing wheat, reports of delegates, etc., and full information as to reduced railway rates can be had on application to the Undersigned, who will mail you atlases, pamphlets, etc., free of cost. F. PEDLEY, Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada; M. V. MCINNES, No. 7 Merrill Blk., Detroit, Mich.; E. T. HOLMES, Room 6, Big Four Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind. Special excursions to Western Canada during March and April.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Mrs. N. J. Haymond, of Fairmont, W. Va., has purchased D. M. Snyder's house, in "Cozy Row," and has been repairing it and making it ready for occupancy.

Mrs. Florence M. Bowers has purchased the Steele cottage on K street, and will move into it in a few days.

W. Brent Maxwell and wife, and G. Offner, of Clarksburg, and W. W. McConnell of Wheeling were recent visitors at the Park., as was also Warren Choat, Esq., of Washington, D. C.

The many friends of Edward Bartlett were pained to learn of his death. He was a faithful young man.

The contract for Mrs. W. B. Maxwell's house has been let and work will commence at once. It is a large ten room house, two stories, and tower on southeast corner, and has large porches on three sides It is to be completed by July 1st.

Dr. Mills and family will arrive at the Park the last week of May. The Doctor will spend some time at the Park. He is to open the season for us. He is one of the great preachers of Methodism. A splendid platform man. June 1-2 is to be two of the most entertaining days of the whole summer.

Our summer visitors will begin to arrive this week. Cottages are being made ready for several families.

Capt. J. A. Hayden has arranged to add four more rooms to his cottage. Work will commence in a few days.

T. J. Harris unloaded 150 barrels of lime last week for plastering houses now under headway in the Park.

A Mr. Hall of Fairmont, W. Va., has rented the Bumgardner cottage, and expects to occupy it the last of this week.

L. street and Oakland avenue are being filled up. The dirt is obtained by cutting down a couple hills. A much needed improvement. Now if the school house had a coat of paint that neighbornood would look quite inviting.

Wiley Welling has purchased the Lem Dawson property on K street, and will move into it shortly.

Messrs. Echards are remodeling their livery barn. When the work is completed they will have one of the best arranged stables in the county.

Some of our near by friends are asking, "Why not start a furniture factory at Loch Lynn?" No reason why such an establishment should not be located at this point. It is an A No. 1 location.

Work on the brick yard will be resumed in a few days, and a lot of brick be ready for market. This means work for the unemployed and money for circulation.

Excursion to California.

Account of Epworth League meeting at San Francisco in July. Excursion tickets will be on sale from points in Pennsylvania from July 4th to 12th, good to return until August 31st, low rates of fare have been named for the round trip, and if so desired tickets may be had returning via Portland, Yellow Stone Park and St. Paul, at small additional cost. For full particulars call on address. W. S. Howell, General Eastern Passenger Agent, 381 Broadway, New York, or John R. Pott, District Passenger Agent, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, 810 Park Building, Pittsburg, Pa. 5 3t

ACCIDENT.

Easter services were held in the different churches in and about town.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Miller, of Westernport, are visiting their parents near town.

Recently embarked upon the sea of matrimony—W. A. Spiker and Clara Broadwater.

Senator Ravenscroft is in the East on business.

A young son arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Frazee Monday.

Merchants Gnagey and Speicher are shipping several car loads of potatoes this week.

Owing to the inclement weather on Saturday Prof. Sanner failed to put in an appearance until Monday evening, hence the opening of the normal was postponed until Tuesday morning. The attendance for first day was quite beyond expectations, owing to the disagreeable roads and inclement weather. The attendance at the opening was 19 and not one of the number below the second grade. Prof. Frazee will not arrive until next week.

Home-Seekers Excursions.

On the first and third Tuesdays of each month the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway will sell round-trip excursion tickets from Chicago, Milwaukee and other points on its line to a great many points in South Dakota, North Dakota and other Western and Northwestern States at about one fare. Take a trip west and see the wonderful crops and what an amount of good land can be purchased for little money. Further information as to rates, routes, prices of farm lands, etc., may be obtained by addressing W. S. Howell, General Eastern Passenger Agent, 381 Broadway, New York, or John R. Pott, District Passenger Agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

Seaboard Air Line Railway, Mileage Tickets Reduced.

One thousand mile tickets, good over the whole system of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, including the State of Florida, are sold at $25.00, previously sold in Florida at $30.00, and are honored between Washington and Richmond, and by the Baltimore Steam Packet Company between Baltimore and Portsmouth, over "Bay Line."

Stops the Cough and Works off the Cold.

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 5 cents.

SEABORD AIR LINE RAILWAY.

The Capital City Line—Its Magnificent Through and Local Passenger Service Between the East and South and Southwest.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway is called the Capital City Line, because it enters the Capitals of the six States which it traverses, exclusive of the National Capital, through which it trains run solid from New York to Jacksonville and Tampa, Florida. It runs through Richmond, Va., Raleigh, N. C., Columbia, S. C., Atlanta, Ga., Montgomery, Ala., and Tallahassee, Fla.

This road will continue to run the famous Florida and Metropolitan Limited, and the Florida and Atlanta Fast Mail,Trains affording the only through limited service daily, including Sunday, between New York and Florida, and is the shortest line between points.

These splendidly modern trains of the Seaboard Air Line Railway arrive at and depart from Pennsylvania Railroad Stations at Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, carrying Pullman's most improved equipment, with unexcelled dining car service, compartment, drawing-room and observation cars. It has Pullman service five times per week each way from Washington to that celebrated resort, Pinehurst, N. C.

It has the short line to and from Richmond, Norfolk, Portsmouth, Raleigh, Southern Pines, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, Tampa and Atlanta and the principal cities between the South and East. It is also the direct route to Athens, Augusta and Macon.

In Atlanta direct connections are made in the Union Station for Chattanooga, Nashville and Memphis, also for New Orleans and all points in Texas, California and Mexico.

In addition, it is the only line operating through trains and Pullman sleeping cars between Atlanta and Norfolk, where connections are made with the Old Dominion Steamship Company, from New York, the M. & M. T. Company, from Boston and Providence, the Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Company, from Washington, the Baltimore Steam Packet Company, from Baltimore, and the N. Y. P. & N. Railway, from New York and Philadeiadelphia.

Through Pullman cars also operated on quick schedules between Jacksonville and St. Louis, via Monticello, and between Jacksonville and New Orleans, in addition to through trains with Buffet Chair Cars between Savannah and Montgomery.

The local train service is first-class with most convenient schedules.

In fact the Seaboard Air Line Railway will ticket for any point, affording the quickest schedules, finest trains and most comfortable service. Its 1000 mile books sold at $25.00 are good from Washington, D. C., over the entire system of 2,000 miles including Florida.

Money to Loan.

$7,000 to loan on first mortgage in in sums to suit upon town property or nearby farms.

EDWARD H. SINCELL.

ORDER NISI.

George Clauson vs. John Shartzer and wife.

No. 1094 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered this 28th day of March, in the year nineteen hundred and one, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in equity, that the sale made and reported in the above cause by D. James Blackiston, attorney, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 29th day of April, 1901; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county once a week for three successive weeks before the 29th day of April, 1901.

The report states the amount of sale to be $3800.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

ORDER NISI.

Thomas B. Wiley, late Treasurer of Garrett County, vs. Sylvester Rinard.

No. 77 Miscellaneous Docket, March Term, 1901. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 18th day of March, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Md., that the sale of the real estate mentioned in these proceedings made and reported by Thomas B. Wiley, late Treasurer of Garrett county, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 19th day of April, next; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 19th day of April next.

The report states the amount of sale to be $55.00.

A. HUNTER BOYD.

True copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

STATEMENT

SHOWING THE CONDITION OF THE MUTUAL BENEFIT LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 31st, 1900.

Total Income during the year	$13,993,373 91
Total Disbursements	10,472,007 50
Total Assets	74,311,469 25
Total Liabilities	68,186,103 34
Surplus as regards Policy-holders	6,125,364 91
111,317 Policies in force in the United States on Dec. 31, 1900	$272,686,078 00
147 Policies written in Maryland during the year 1900	323,173 00
Premiums received on Maryland business in 1900	113,426 08
Losses paid in Maryland during 1900	71,250 00
Losses incurred in Maryland during 1900	78,815 00

BALTIMORE, March 4, 1901.

In compliance with the Code of Public General Laws, I hereby certify that the above is a true abstract from the sworn statement of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of Newark, N. J., to December 31, 1900, now on file in this department.

(Signed) LLOYD WILKINSON,
Insurance Commissioner.

JULIUS C. RENNINGER, Agent,
Oakland, Maryland.

Turnbull's

China and Japan Mattings, all weaves and colorings.

Porch and Lawn Furniture,

Iron and Brass Bedsteads,

Linoleums and Oil Cloths,

Carpetings.

JOHN TURNBULL, JR., & COMPANY,

16, 18, 20 West Baltimore Street,

BALTIMORE

Things to Think About.

It pays to buy the best, whether you buy a suit of clothes, a horse, a house and lot or get yourself a wife. If you have the toothache you won't go to Naylor's to get it pulled. Why? Because you think Dr. Robinson understands the business better. These thoughts apply to all work that you want done. House-cleaning time is here and you will want some rooms papered. Now you have to pay your money for paper and for having it put on and paper is something that you have to look at every day and of course you want it put on right, clean and neat, and you don't want your house turned upside down for a week to get it done. These are facts. If they are right, see King, the painter and paper hanger, and you will get the neatest job and the quickest service. 3 3t

The Best Blood Purifier.

The blood is constantly being purified by the lungs, liver and kidneys. Keep these organs in a healthy condition and the bowles regular and you will have no need of a blood purifier. For this purpose there is nothing equal to Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, one dose of them will do you more good than a dollar bottle of the best blood purifier. Price, 25 cents. Samples free at all druggists.

Young Women

The entry into womanhood is a critical time for a girl. Little menstrual disorders started at that time soon grow into fatal complications. That female troubles are filling graveyards proves this. Wine of Cardui establishes a painless and natural menstrual flow. When once this important function is started right, a healthy life will usually follow. Many women, young and old, owe their lives to Wine of Cardui. There is nothing like it to give women freedom from pain and to fit young women for every duty of life. $1.00 bottles at druggists.

Miss Della M. Strayer, Tully, Kan.: "I have suffered untold pain at menstrual periods for a long time, was nervous, had no appetite, and lost interest in everything, in fact was miserable. I have taken four bottles of Wine of Cardui, with Thedford's Black-Draught, when needed, and to-day I am entirely cured. I cannot express the thanks I feel for what you have done for me."

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the Ladies' Advisory Department, The Chattanooga Medicine Company, Chattanooga, Tenn.

WINE OF CARDUI

The Portraits of Our Presidents

With Biographical Sketches

BY

General Charles H. Grosvenor.

Title page designed by Tiffany.

This Inaugural year, when the public mind is aroused over Presidential questions, is a fitting time to issue General Grosvenor's book. Its sale is already tremendous, and will perhaps exceed that of General Grant's Personal Memoirs.

Every patriotic American desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and the other Chief Executives of the Nation. Everybody desires to read what General Grosvenor, the staunch old Republican leader in Congress, will say of that staunch old Democrat, Andrew Jackson, the Father of the Democratic party. General Grosvenor has thrown into his sketch all the fire and energy of his nature. The biography of Thomas Jefferson is grand. The biography of Lincoln is as beautiful as a sunrise over the hilltops. General Grosvenor has personally known all the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published, written from his own personal observation of these great men. General Grosvenor has served in Congress for nearly twenty years, and he has served his country in war and in Congress for nearly forty years. The book contains twenty-four large Photogravure Etchings as fine as Steel Plates, printed by hand, on heavy plate paper made especially to order. These 24 Photogravure Etchings are in different tints, and are well worth $2 each. These Portraits are made from the Paintings endorsed by the family and near relatives of the Presidents. Two years' time and a fortune have been expended in securing these reproductions. The complete book is well worth $50, but the price has been placed so low that the most humble American citizen can own it. The biographical sketches are printed in large open type in two colors; the work is so beautiful that when people see it they want it. The advance sale is very large. President McKinley was the first subscriber. There is one edition known as The President Edition de Grand Luxe, initial letters hand painted, Portraits hand colored, title page hand illuminated, registered and numbered; subscription price $250. Orders and applications for territory are coming in rapidly. A high class man or woman of good social standing can soon make a small fortune taking orders in this community. Send references and apply for terms quick, as the territory will all be assigned soon.

Address THE CONTINENTAL PRESS,
CORCORAN BUILDING,
Opposite United States Treasury,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

You Get the Profits

Under our plan of selling carriages, buggies, and harness, you get the profits. The jobber and retailer are cut out. By dealing direct with the manufacturer, you pay only the cost of making with a moderate profit added; and you take your choice from the biggest stock and fullest assortment. Our plan of

Selling Carriages Direct

insures satisfaction—your money back if you are dissatisfied. Our complete illustrated catalogue, showing many styles of high grade vehicles, harness, robes, blankets and horse equipments, with detailed descriptions of each, mailed free.

No. 3034—Buggy. Price, $38.30, with leather quarter top.

No. 340—Single Strap Buggy Harness. Price, $7.95.

THE COLUMBUS CARRIAGE AND HARNESS CO.,
Box 772, Columbus, Ohio.

The Garrett County Bank

OAKLAND, MD.

Pays 3 Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Subscribed Capital,	$50,000.00
Liability of Stockholders,	100,000.00
Surplus Fund,	10,000.00

DIRECTORS:

DANIEL E. OFFUTT,
GILMOR S. HAMILL,
JOHN M. DAVIS,
GEORGE W. LEGGE,
JOHN T. MITCHELL,
JOHN M. FREELAND,
SCOTT T. JONES.

D. E. OFFUTT, President.
G. S. HAMILL, Vice-President.
S. T. JONES, Cashier.

Authorized Capital $32,000.

The First National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MD.

Now Open for Business

Offers to its patrons every advantage consistent with sound Banking, and which their balances, business and responsibility warrant.

3 per cent. Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

WE SOLICIT YOUR BUSINESS.

DIRECTORS.

Ed A. Browning,	Oakland, Md.
C. E. Ellithorp,	Bittinger, Md.
L. E. Friend,	Friendsville, Md.
Wm. Moody,	Bloomington, Md.
U. G. Palmer,	Hutton, Md.
R. A. Ravenscroft,	Accident, Md.
E. E. Sollars,	Oakland, Md.
U. M. Stanton,	Grantsville, Md.
F. A. Thayer,	Oakland, Md.
M. N. Wilson,	Wilson, W. Va.

OFFICERS.

F. A. THAYER, President.
M. N. WILSON, Vice-President.
U. G. PALMER, Cashier.
M. R. HAMILL, Assistant Cashier.

TURNBULL'S Furniture, Carpeting and Curtains.

Elegance, moderate cost and unequalled assortments are the characteristics of our stock. It represents the best of everything in CARPETING, FURNITURE and CURTAINS.

JOHN TURNBULL & CO., 16-18-20 W. Baltimore St., BALTIMORE, MD.

THE

SECOND NATIONAL BANK

of CUMBERLAND, MD.

Designated United States Depository.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.
BOXES FREE TO CUSTOMERS.

This Bank Pays Three Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Capital	$100,000
Surplus and Other Undivided Profits	250,000
Liability of Shareholders	100,000
Additional Security to Depositors	$150,000

LLOYD LOWNDES, President.
D. ANNAN, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Lloyd Lowndes, O. C. Gephart,
James Clark, L. M. Shepherd,
John Sheridan, A. Hunter Boyd,
David W. Sloan.

Midget Harness Riveter.

Complete repair shop in one tool. Will not wear out. Punches the hole, drives and clinches at one operation. Every horse owner, liveryman, teamster will buy on sight. Does the work of any $25 machine. Complete outfit with big bog of rivets will be sent for

ONLY 50 CENTS.

Agents Wanted.

HANDY ADJUSTABLE LIFTER. Handiest article ever invented for lifting hot pans, stove lids, etc. 15c, postpaid.

S. T. WILSON & CO.,
Box 103. Wilson, W. Va.

I HAVE PURCHASED

THE OAKLAND COAL YARD

of Mr. D. L. Conneway and will continue the business. I will keep constantly on hand a large supply of

HARD AND SOFT

COAL,

KINDLING WOOD, Etc.

All orders will receive prompt attention. Leave orders with the weighmaster or at my residence, the Giessman Hotel.

35-2 GEO. GIESSMAN

Oakland Pharmacy

JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.

Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars Cameras and Photo Supplies

The Light of the World

—OR—

Our Saviour in Art

cost nearly $100,000 to publish. Contains nearly one hundred full-page engravings copied direct from the World's Greatest Paintings of our Saviour and His Mother. Contains History of Painting, Biography of Painter, and the Galleries in Europe where the Original Painting may be seen. The most beautiful publication ever issued. The strongest hearts weep at the sight of these wonderful pictures of Jesus and His Mother. Everybody says they are grand, sublime, matchless, magnificent, beautiful, inspiring and uplifting. The sale is unprecedented. The presses are running day and night to fill the orders. Twelve car loads of paper were required for the last edition. Small fortunes are being made by the thrifty with this marvelous work. Contains also a Child's story beautifully written to fit each picture. This wonderful book, matchless in its purity and beauty, appeals to every mother's heart and in every Christian home, where there are children it sells itself. A Christian man or woman can soon clear one thousand dollars ($1,000) taking orders in this community. Others are doing this. Why not you? We are advertising in nearly ten thousand newspapers in this country, Canada, England and Austria. Shipping books to every English-speaking country in the world. We shall promote our best workers to positions of State Managers, Correspondents and Office Assistants. We also own and publish large Photo-gravure Etchings of the great Paintings in the galleries of Europe. One or more of these Etchings can be sold in every home. By carrying the books and the engravings your success will be tremendous. Mrs. Waite, of Worcester, Mass., has sold nearly four thousand dollars worth of books there. Mrs. Sackett has sold nearly two thousand dollars worth of books in New York. Both of these ladies answered our advertisements, and had never sold a book before. Took 14 orders first two days—H. Colwell. Took 5 orders first day; 23 orders first week, clearing over $50—Hattie Lemwell. Thousands of others like above. It is printed on velvet finished paper; bound in Cardinal Red, Green and Gold and adorned with Golden Roses and Lillies. Write quickly for terms as the territory is going rapidly. When you prove your success, we will promote you to the position of Manager and Correspondent under yearly contract.

We shall soon move into our new and elegant structure to be occupied solely by us, and to be known as the Light of the World Building.

Address THE BRITISH-AMERICAN CO.,
CORCORAN BUILDING,
Opposite United States Treasury,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

J. B. WILLIAMS CO,

FROSTBURG, MD.

Cheapest place to buy

MONUMENTS HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING

Send for prices

What it Cures

COUGHS. BRONCHITIS. HOARSENESS.
COLDS. LOSS OF VOICE. LARYNGITIS.

PINE AND TERPE COUGH SYRUP

Is the new remedy that is astounding the medical world with the rapidity and permanency of its cures—it never fails—one dose relieves while a few more cures—price, 25 cents a bottle.

LOGAN DRUG COMPANY,
At all Druggists. WHEELING, W. VA.

GEO. FLACK SANSBURY,

ARCHITECT,

Office 7 North Liberty St.

CUMBERLAND, MD.

NORMAN S. HEINDEL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
All business given prompt attention.
Office—Opera House,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

FRED A. THAYER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
OAKLAND, MD.
STATE'S ATTORNEY FOR GARRETT COUNTY.
Office in McComas's Building, Main St.
Will be assisted in all important cases by Benjamin A. Richmond of the Cumberland bar.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY
OFFICE ON ALDER STREET.
Particular attention given to Conveyancing, investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated. 1e14-1

JULIUS C. RENNINGER,
ATTORNEY & COUNSELLOR AT LAW
Office opposite Bank, OAKLAND, MD.
Will practice in the courts of Maryland and West Virginia.
Real estate and mercantile law given special attention. Collections and investments made for clients. 45—1yr

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia. '88 10 e

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas building, Second Street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work. 18-98-tf.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
Felty Building, Opposite Postoffice,
OAKLAND, MD
GAS ADMINISTERED. 50-97

M. C. HINEBAUGH, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
OAKLAND, MD.
Office and residence, Alder St., west of post office.

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North 3rd Street.
Office in Shartzer's Block, Second Street.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Offers his services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Prompt attention paid to day or night calls.
Office at McComas' Sanitarium. 16-'99

H. W. McCOMAS, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Office opposite Garrett County Bank.
Residence on Main Street, opposite Brown's Hotel.
Office hours, 8 to 10 a. m., 2 to 3 p. m., 8 to p. m., from June to October and from October to June, 7 to 8.30 p. m.

DR. D. O. McKINLEY,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
SALISBURY, PENNA.
Will visit regularly through Garrett county, Md., and offers his services to those wishing Dental Treatment. Charges moderate
P. O. address, Elk Lick, Pa. 6 22 3m

E. J. FRANTZ,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
Residence and P. O. Address,
SELBYSPORT, MD.

ANDREW J. HARNE,
AUCTIONEER.
Will sell real or personal property.
Residence Oakland, Garrett county, Md.
Oakland, Md., Feb. 21st, 1887.

W. McCULLOH BROWN,
SURVEYOR AND ENGINEER,
LAND SURVEYS PROMPTLY MADE.
Particular attention given to TOWN surveying, and the use of the LEVEL in laying out new roads, streets, water works, drains, and GRADE LINES generally, including tram ways and railroad work. Comparative elevations taken quickly by aneroid barometer. Address, box 41, Oakland, Md. 48 26 1*

JONAS C. BEACHY,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
Will sell Real or Personal Estate.
Residence and post office address, BITTINGER, MD. 51-1yr.

ALEX'R C. MASON,
PRACTICAL SURVEYOR,
OAKLAND, MD
Long experience enables me to locate tracts and military lots promptly and accurately. Being thoroughly familiar with the beginning corners of the most important surveys both in Allegany and Garrett counties. Plats, descriptions and estimates furnished. 40-1yr.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R. TIME TABLE IN EFFECT NOV. 25, 1900.

The following time table on the B. & O. went into effect on Sunday, Nov. 25, 1900. Trains now leave Oakland as follows:

GOING WEST.

No. 7.—Daily		2.40 A. M.
No. 3—Daily		7.37 A. M.
No. 71—Daily except Sunday		9.21 A. M.
No. 55—Daily		4.47 P. M.
No. 1—Daily		10.05 P. M.

GOING EAST.

No. 8—Daily		5.50 A. M.
No. 2—Daily		6.53 A. M.
No. 46—Express, daily		4.41 P. M.
No. 72—Accom daily except Sun		2.26 P. M.
No. 12—Daily		8.30 P. M.
No. 4—Daily		12.37 A. M.

F. D. UNDERWOOD, General Manager.
D. B. MARTIN,
Manager of Passenger Traffic.
D. M. MASON, Agent.

WEST VIRGINIA CENTRAL AND PITTSBURG RAILWAY CO. IN EFFECT NOV 25, 1900.

SOUTHWARD No. 3 P. M.	SOUTHWARD No. 1 A. M.	STATIONS	NORTHWARD No. 2 NOON	NORTHWARD No. 4 P. M.
3 15†	7 00† lv	Cumberland ar	†12 00	†7 00
3 43	7 29	Rawlings	11 31	6 31
4 06	7 52	Keyser	11 08	6 09
4 18	8 05	Westernport	10 58	5 57
4 20	8 09	W. Va. C. June.	10 51	5 50
4 39	8 35	Shaw	10 28	5 22
5 00	9 00	Harrison	†10 06	†5 00
5 45*	9 50* ar	Elk Garden	*8 10	*4 10
5 41†	9 35† lv	Gorman	†9 35	4 30
5 47	9 42	Bayard	9 29	4 25
5 59	9 54	Dobbin	9 19	4 15
6 02	9 58	Henry	9 15	4 11
6 27	10 27	Thomas	8 48	3 47
6 55	10 55 ar	Davis	8 05	3 05
6 31	10 34 lv	Coketon	8 41	3 40
6 50	11 01	Hendricks	8 10	3 10
7 02	11 04	Hambleton	8 07	3 07
7 05	11 07	Bretz	8 05	3 05
7 08	11 10	Parsons	8 00	3 00
7 45	11 45	Kerens	7 25	2 29
8 00†	12 00† ar	Elkins	lv †7 10	†2 15
	NOON			P. M.
8 36*	12 45† ar	Beverly	lv*7 20	†1 40
9 05*	1 10† ar	Huttonsville	lv *6 30	†1 15
P. M.				P. M.
	3 15* ar	Bealington	lv	*11 40
	P. M.			A. M.

†Daily. *Daily except Sunday.

C. L. BRETZ, Gen. Manager. G. W. HARRISON, Gen. Pas. Agent

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 25. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1901. NUMBER 6.

ELECTION LAW

Passed at the Extra Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, 1901.

(CONTINUED FROM LAST WEEK.)

51. If at any election there be a constitutional question, or any other question to be submitted to the popular vote, the said question shall be placed upon said ballot in the form following: "For Constitutional Amendment," "Against Constitutional Amendment," "For Proposition," "Against Proposition," and said respective questions shall be placed in a column, as hereinbefore mentioned, so that the same shall form a parellelogram or space where the votes may clearly indicate, in the way hereinafter pointed out, whether he shall wish to cast his ballot for or against the Constitutional Amendment, or proposition, or propositions submitted.

52. Said ballots shall shall be printed upon plain white printing paper of ordinary book weight, in black ink, and in clear, legible type, and in printing the names of the candidates respectively, shall be of uniform size, style and appearance throughout the ballot, and type used in printing the names of the parties which said candidates respectively represent, shall be uniform in size, style and appearance throughout the ballot, such uniformity of type and printing to be fixed and determined in the City of Baltimore by the Board of Supervisors of Elections of that city, and in the several counties by the respective Boards of Supervisors of Elections thereof. On the back and outside shall be printed the words "Official Ballot For," followed by the designation of the polling place for which it is prepared, the date of election, and a facsimile of the signature of the President of the Board of Supervisors of Elections by whom the ballot has been prepared. Said ballot shall be printed on the same leaf, with a detachable stub or coupon one inch high and three inches wide, above the upper right hand corner of the ballot, and binding on the upper edge thereof, but separated therefrom by a line running along the entire width of said coupon. Upon said coupon shall be printed the words "Voter's Name," with a line drawn thereunder, for writing said name, and under the said line the words "Number of Voter" followed by a blank space for the insertion of number. Before distributing, said ballots shall be folded in marked creases, that no part of the marks or printing thereon, excepting that upon the back, and outside, and that upon the detachable stub or coupon, shall be visable, and so that the folded ballots shall be of uniform width and length, and of proper width to be deposited in the ballot-boxes. All ballots when printed shall be folded as above provided, and fastened together in convenient numbers in packages, books or blocks, so that each ballot may be detached and removed separately. The said Boards of Supervisors of Elections, respectively, shall, four days at least prior to the day of any election in their respective counties or in said city, cause to be conspicuously and securely posted in one or more public places in each voting precinct of their respective counties, or of said city, accurate sample copies of the ballots to be used in such district or precinct at the then approaching election; such sample copies shall be printed on light cardboard or heavy sized paper of considerably magnified dimensions, and one of them at least shall be placed upon the exterior of each building in which the polls will be held, so that the same can be readily seen and examined by persons passing on the street or road.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That Sections 54, 61 and 62, of said Article 33, title "Elections," be and the same are hereby severally repealed and re-enacted, with amendments, so as to read as follows:

54. The Supervisors of Elections of Baltimore City shall deliver to the Board of Police Commissioners of Baltimore City, not more than three days and not less than one day, preceeding the election, and two registers of every precinct of said city, together with the cards of instruction and ballot-box therefor, the latter being locked, with the key in the lock, and containing one of the sealed packages of ballots for said precinct, the specimen ballots, the two poll books, and all blanks, indelible pencils and stationery required for such election. And the said Board of Police Commissioners shall receipt therefor, and shall deliver or cause the same to be delivered to the Judges of Election of the respective precincts at or before the opening of the polls on the day of election. Said Boards of Supervisors shall keep a record of the time when such deliveries are made by them and of the particulars thereof.

The Supervisors of Elections of the several counties shall not more than three days prior to every election, and not less than one, make up into sealed packages for each precinct the two registers for said precinct, together with the cards of instruction and the key to the ballot-box for such precinct, having first placed in the ballot box one of the sealed packages of ballots for said precincts, the specimen ballots, the two poll books, and all blanks, indelible pencils and stationery required for such elections, and shall deliver or cause the same to be delivered to the Judges of Election of the respective precincts at or before the end of the day preceeding the day of election.

Said Boards of Supervisors of Elections of the several counties shall also at the same time, that is to say, at or before the end of the day preceding the day of election, deliver to the Judges of Election of the several precincts or districts the sealed package of tickets mentioned in section 53. Said Boards of Supervisors of Elections shall in like manner keep a record of the time when such deliveries are made by them, and of the particulars thereof. Said several Boards of Supervisors in the counties are hereby respectively authorized and directed to make adequate provision for the performance of the duty imposed on them by this section, and the County Commissioners of the several counties shall pay the expenses incurred in the performance thereof.

Should said Boards of Supervisors fail or neglect to make the delivery by the time prescribed by this section, it shall be the duty of the judge, designated beforehand by the Supervisors, to take charge of the ballot box, as provided in section 70 of this Article, to immediately send to the Supervisors therefor, and to obtain the same as soon as practicable, in order that the election may be duly held, the cost hereby incurred to be paid by the County Commissioners as a part of the election expenses. For failure or neglect on the part of the Supervisors of Elections, the Board of Police Commissioners, or any person employed by them respectively, in the discharge of the duties required of them by this section, or said judges, or any person employed by them to perform the duties imposed upon them respectively, by this section, they shall respectively be subject to indictment for a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be subject to the penalties prescribed by Section 88, of this Article.

61. At every election each qualified voter shall be entitled to receive one official ballot. The person applying therefor to the judge of election holding the ballots shall give his name and place of residence, and the said judge shall repeat the same in a loud and distinct voice; and if such name be found upon the register by the judges having the custody thereof, they shall repeat the said name, and the voter shall be allowed to enter the space enclosed by the guard-rail, and the judge holding the ballots, having first written in ink the voter's name and number upon the coupon attached to one of them, shall deliver said ballot to the voter after having likewise written in ink his own name or initials upon the back thereof, and the two clerks of election shall at the same time enter the name of the voter upon their poll books. Upon receipt of his ballot the voter shall forthwith, and without leaving the enclosed space, retire alone to one of the booths or compartments and prepare his ballot by marking with an indelible pencil after the name of every person or persons for whom he intends to vote and to the right thereof, in the blank space provided therefor, a cross—for example X—and in case of a question submitted to a vote of the people by marking likewise in appropriate space a cross-mark (X) against the answer which he desires to give. Not more than one voter shall be permitted to occupy any one booth or compartment at one time, and no voter shall remain in or occupy a booth longer than may be necessary to prepare his ballot, and in no event longer than seven minutes in case all such booths or compartments are in use, and other voters are waiting to occupy the same. Before leaving the voting booth or compartment the voter shall fold his ballot without displaying the marks thereon, and in the same way it was folded when received by him, and he shall keep the same so folded until he has voted, and so that the signature or initials of the judge from whom he received it, and the name and number written on the coupon thereof, but nothing else thereon may be seen. He shall forwith hand his said ballot to the judge at the ballot-box, and shall give his name and residence, and upon his being indentified as the person who received said ballot, the judge shall deposit his ballot in the box, having first detached therefrom its coupon, which he shall then string upon a cord or wire to be provided for the purpose, and the said voter shall forwith leave the enclosed space. The judges having charge of the registers shall then in the column therein headed "Voted," in the same line with the name of the voter mark the word "Voted," or the letter "V." No ballot without the indorsement of the name or initials of the judge thereon, as hereinbefore provided, shall be deposited in said ballot-box, but if deposited, shall be counted for the purpose of ascertaining the number thereof, and the judges shall in ink mark on the back thereof the word "Counted," and indorse their names.

62. Assistance in marking their ballots shall be given to voters who shall declare, under oath, to the judges of election that by reason of blindness or physical disability they are unable without assistance to mark their ballot. Upon making and filing with the judges such affidavit the voter shall retire to one of said booths with the two clerks, and then and there one of said clerks, in the presence of the other, shall mark the ballot as such voter shall direct, the voter himself naming one by one the candidates for whom he desires his ballot to be marked and not indicating the candidates by a general designation as the candidates of any one political party. The ballots shall not be read to such voter, nor shall any suggestion of any kind be made by either of said two clerks to show him as to how his ballot is to be marked, but the only assistance which it shall be lawful for the clerks to give him is to mark the ballot as he without prompting or suggestion from them, or either of them shall direct, but no ballot shall be marked under this section until a majority of the judges of election shall be satisfied of the truth of the fact stated in such affidavits. Voters who are not disabled by blindness or physical injury from marking their ballots shall not be entitled to receive assistance in marking them. And with the exception in favor of persons blind or incapable from physical injury of marking their ballots without assistance, no distinction or discrimination in the matter of assistance in marking ballots shall be made for or against any duly registered voter for any other cause whatever.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That Section 66 of said Article 33, title "Elections," sub-title "Count of Ballots," be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments, so as to read as follows:

66. The judges shall then open the ballot-box and count and announce the whole number of ballots in the box. They shall reject any ballots which are deceitfully folded together, and any ballots which do not have endorsed thereon the name or initials of the judge who held the ballots. If the voter has marked more names than there are persons to be elected to an office, or if there shall be any mark on the ballot other than the cross mark in a square opposite to the name of a candidate, or other than the name or names of any candidate written by the voter on the ballot as provided in Section 49, his ballot shall not be counted. Ballots not counted for such defects shall be marked "Defective" on the back thereof, and shall be wrapped in a separate package and returned to the ballot-box as hereinafter directed. No vote shall be counted for any candidate opposite whose name no cross mark shall be placed. They shall open the ballots, and all of them shall be canvassed separately by one of the judges sitting between two other judges, which judge shall call out each name and the office for which it is designated, and the other judges looking at the ballot at the same time, and the clerks making tally of the same. When all the ballots have been canvassed in this manner, the election clerks shall compare their tallies together and ascertain total number of votes received by each candidate, and when they agree upon the numbers, one of them shall announce in a loud voice to the judges the aggregate number of votes received by each candidate. If requested by any watcher or challenger present at any canvass, it shall be the duty of the judges and each of them to exhibit to such watcher or challenger any ballots cast, fully opened or in such condition and manner that he may fully read and examine the same, but the judges shall not allow any ballot to be taken from their hands. As the ballots are counted they shall he strung upon a strong twine.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That Section 114 A of said Article 33, title "Elections," sub-title "Miscellaneous Provisions," be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted so as to read as follows:

114 A. At least thirty days before every State election the Attorney-General shall prepare full instructions for the guidance of the voters of such election as to obtaining ballots, as to the manner of marking them, and as to obtaining new ballots in place of those accidently destroyed, with such other instructions as shall in his opinion be necessary and proper, said instructions shall be furnished by the Secretary of State to the several Boards of Supervisors of Elections, who shall, respectively, cause the same together with copies of Sections 61, 62 and 63 of this Article, to be printed in large, clear type, on separate cards, to be called "Cards of Instruction," and said Boards of Supervisors shall furnish twelve of the same with ballots for use in each election precinct. They shall also cause to be printed on light cardboard or heavy sized paper, ten more copies of the form of the ballot provided for each voting place at each election therein, of a considerably magnified size, which shall be called "Specimen Ballots," and the same shall be furnished with the other ballots prepared for each voting place. On the morning of said election, the said Supervisors of Elections shall cause to be conspicuously posted in each polling place, said cards of instruction and largely magnified specimen ballots, and one of said cards of instruction shall be affixed in each booth or voting compartment, and the said specimen ballots shall be conspicuously displayed in said polling room and on the outside of the building wherein said voting shall take place. Not less than three of said cards and three of said specimen ballots shall be posted outside the guard-rails, and not less than three of each of same shall be securely and conspicuously posted on the outside of the building in which the polls are held, before the balloting begins, in such position that the same may be easily examined by the public.

Sec. 8. And be it enacted, That all Acts or parts of Acts inconsistent with the provisions of this Act be and the same are hereby repealed, and this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved March 21, 1901.

Got the Hat.

The Parkersburg Journal relates that Gov. White, of West Virginia, made his appearance on Easter in his first silk hat. The weather was not favorable to the display of Easter headgear, but he was resplendent in the shining beaver. Years ago when Mr. White was struggling along in obscurity to make a living at the newspaper business, he had a desire to wear a silk hat, but his wife forbid it. Her wishes ruled and he did not get the hat. "When I am Governor of West Virginia you will let me wear a silk hat, won't you?" he asked, and she laughingly assented. Recently the governor reminded Mrs. White of her promise and she kept it.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN.

THE NEGRO PROBLEM.

(THIRD PAPER.)

In this my third and last letter on the Negro problem I want first of all to make a declaration which I well know will be exceedingly unpalatable to the average reader. It is this: Man for man, the blacks of this country are not more immoral than the whites. While I am not so situated as to verify this assertion from government statistics, I am quite willing that the fullest investigations and comparisons be made on both sides and in all sections of the country. I know results will bear me out in my declaration.

Let it be remembered that the colored race is a fraction over one-ninth of the population. I am fully satisfied that above one-tenth of the year's record of lawlessness cannot justly be laid at the black man's door. And would not this fact itself go far toward proving that there really is no Negro problem at all to solve? If he were accorded the same consideration the average white man receives I do not see that there would be special ground for complaint against him or apprehension from his presence among us. If we could cease to think of him as the "nigger," and always call him a man, treating him accordingly, matters would speedily, I am confident, mend amazingly. At any rate, when we have thought and said our hardest things against this people, every one of us knows full well that they are and have been more sinned against than sinning, and this knowledge should greatly mitigate our judgment of them.

But I am fully convinced that it is not good for the two races to continue to occupy the land together, and hence I now proceed to offer my solution of that vexed question, the Negro problem.

The whole race will be returned to Africa; this can, must and will be done. And this is how—

First. By the Negro's own consent. Any plan to force 9,000,000 of free men out of the land would be too serious a matter and this will not be necessary. The brightest men among the race have come to see plainly that keeping the two races mixed is not good, especially as the black man is the chief sufferer. In less than five years there will be a general movement Africaward among them, and their best men will be leaders—the best men of all races, moreover, will be sympathizers and helpful co-workers in the movement.

Second. Therefore, by the white man's aid, indeed, this "return" of the sons of Ham will be made a world movement. All the christianized nations will contribute toward it. And among other things there will be done in aid of the enterprise or project—

1. The rich men of the world will make up a purse of $5,000,000,000 in aid of the undertaking.

2. The navies of all the nations will come to New York, Baltimore, Norfolk, Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Tampa, Pensacola, New Orleans and Galveston and safely carry the dusky hosts to the west coast of the "Dark Continent."

3. The world's great railroad builders will construct two great lines of railway from the west coast to the "lake region," the very heart of the great continent. One of these lines will start in about the mouth of the Senegal, and traversing the western Soudan, 4000 miles, reach Lake Albert and then Vietona. The other will run from the mouth of the Congo, south of the Equator, by way of Stanley Pool to Lake Ganyaneka. Inner lines will connect these great routes with each other and with the English lines now building from Zanzabar to the lakes and from the Cape to Cairo.

4. The christian church—not churches—will go in the van of this movement to secure territory, build homes, furnish seed, stock and implements, build roads, mills, schools, churches. In short, the christian church will undertake to set up new homes in the heart of Africa for this great, worthy and promising people! Then these nine or ten million transplants will, in time, be a leven in the two hundred million African lump to leven the whole mass into purity, righteousness, godliness!

All this I, for one, shall not live to see, but before my children's children are come to be old men and women it will be an accomplished fact.

J. B. SHOUP.

Fitzgerald, Ga., March 8, 1901.

Call For Your Letters.

Mrs. Sallie Meese, Mrs. Isabella Baldwin, Mary L. King, Mr. H. F. Spaulding, Mr. G. P. Jones, Mr. J. W. Cole, Mr. W. H. Wylie.

SPRING-TIME.

Spring is fountains bubbling cool,
Running streams and placid pool,
Mossy dells and vernal bowers,
Blossomed trees and fragrant flowers.

Spring is gladness; Spring is mirth;
Spring is life in renewed birth;
Spring is hope that life will be
Bright and joyous, glad and free.

Bright as bloom of tree and flower;
Sweet as birds at morning hour,
When the soul with larger hope
Looks beyond its narrow scope.

* * * * *

Soul to soul, in heart of Spring,
Lovers sweet go wandering—
Primrose paths of rarest bliss
In a world so much a-miss.

Lads and lasses—laughing, gay,
Hurry, prithee, on the way
And the Spring-time gladly greet
While the world is at your feet.

Primrose paths go wide astray—
Love is fleeting as the day—
And the winter of the heart
Finds no love within the mart.

March 2, 1901. THOS. L. JACKSON.

ANOTHER SCHEME.

How Census Takers May Aid in Partisan Disfranchisement.

The Republican State leaders have discovered a Democratic scheme to disfranchise Republican voters by the new State census enumeration, as well as by the Gorman election law just enacted by the Democratic legislature in the extra session.

The new election law requires voters living out of the State to return within thirty days after the passage of the law and make affidavit that they intend to keep their home at the place from which they removed," and also "that they will actually take up their residence at that place on or before May 1st next." The census law provides that the enumerators shall return the names of all regular registered voters who cannot be found in their respective precincts.

It is plain that the partisan enumerator could easily find all Democrats at home on May 1, actually living there, while a Republican might not have taken up his actual domicile unless he was sitting on his own front doorstep. The effect of this plan will operate harshly against the Republican party on the Eastern Shore and in southern and western Maryland. Every Republican now without the State who can be reached will be brought to his home, so as to be on hand when the enumerator calls.

ACCIDENT.

At last the weather has assumed the appearance of spring. The farmers busy preparing to sow oats.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shartzer, of Oakland, were visitors here over Sunday.

The Misses Mattingly, of Hoye, who are attending normal here, spent Saturday and Sunday at home.

Mr. H. M. Speicher spent several days in Connellsville last and this week.

Machine and fertilizer agents are quite numerous in this community.

Senator Ravenscroft spent Sunday and Monday with his family, returning to Baltimore Monday evening.

C. C. Speicher went to Frostburg Tuesday marketing apples.

Ed. Zinkan, who was employed by the Meadow Mountain Lumber Co. for several weeks past, is at home preparing to put out his crops.

Mr. John, of Bittinger, was in town Tuesday on business.

Misses Martha Welch and Sadie Glotfelty, of McHenry, and Dora Friend, of Fearer, are late arrivals for the normal and are located at the Central.

B. & O. at Grafton.

It is stated on good authority that from $500,000 to $1,000,000 will be spent by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company at Grafton, W. Va., the terminus of four divisions of that line. This is necessary because of the importance of the terminal and the fact that owing to the present condition of the yards it is almost impossible to handle the freight with any sort of dispatch. The traffic has increased 100 cars a day since last summer and now on the average 2500 cars are handled daily at Grafton. A number of Baltimore and Ohio officials visited Grafton a few days ago and it was decided to put in four miles of additional track which will give facilities for handling 4,000 cars in 24 hours instead of 2,500 as now. The improvements contemplated also include a $125,000 depot and the removal of the shops to a more convenient and commodious location. The company can secure the fair grounds, it is said for this purpose, or they can move to their 65-acre tract below the city.

TO CURE LAGRIPPE IN TWO DAY

Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE TABLETS. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature on every box. 25c.

A STRANGE CASE.

Bitten By a Dog Seven Years Ago and Now She is Raving Mad.

In a letter received at this office a few days ago information concerning a very strange case of hydrophobia was imparted.

The victim is a daughter of Mr. David Merrill, who resides along Savage River in this county, near Lonaconing. Seven years ago the girl was bitten by a dog while the latter was having a fit. The wound soon healed and no trouble was experienced from it until Tuesday last, when hydrophobia developed in a most violent form, having taken five strong men to hold her.

Saturday the girl was locked up in a room, but managed to escape by jumping out through a window. She was finally returned to the house and a physician summoned, who managed to quiet the poor girl by administering anæsthetics.

While one of the women living in the neighborhood was assisting in holding the girl the latter scratched the woman on the hand until the blood ran. She is now almost frightened to death for fear that she too will become mad.

The dog which bit the girl was a valuable one and was traded to Lewis Broadwater, of near Grantsville, who last fall traded the dog to some one in Frostburg. The dog is said to be still living.

BLOOMINGTON.

Piedmont Independent.

Rev. Mr. Cecil returned from conference on Thursday evening and will fill his pulpit next Sunday.

Mrs. Katie Phillips, wife of Supt. Phillips, of the Piedmont & Potomac Coal Co. of Piedmont, spent Good Friday with her aged mother, Mrs. Grannan.

Mrs. John Gilmore, of Parsons, has been in attendance during the past week on her father, George Fazenbaker, who still remains quite ill.

The Democratic State Central Committee has recommended William J. Barnard for census enumerator for this district. The new census is one of the outcomes of the extra session of the legislature, and is said to be a political move of considerable importance to the Democratic party in this State.

If cleanliness is next to godliness, and we are told it is, the Davis Coal & Coke Co., of Coketon, will get about as near St. Peter as any one we know of, as they have just voted $7,000 for the erection of bath houses at Coketon for their employes. Each man will have his locker.

The "bulls and bears" took possession of the egg market on last Friday evening, and as a consequence Easter eggs dropped to 12½ cents per dozen. The market became steady at this point, prices ranging ½ cent lower at the close of the day. Buyers took advantage of the low prices and competition and about 2,000 dozen eggs were sold on Saturday.

Mrs. Wm. Brown, accompanied by Miss Bessie Wolfe, returned from Johnstown last Saturday afternoon. During Mrs. Brown's absence, she entered the Johnstown hospital and had two toes amputated, on account of burns received some five or six months ago.

If ever a town required an able bodied officer and a calaboose this place certainly did on last Saturday night, when the whole west end of town was in an uproar on account of want-to-fight-but-afraid-to affair between some of our profane young men.

Silas Cramer returned Tuesday, after accompanying his mother home from the hospital at Baltimore.

Miss Fannie Kight and Miss Ollie Bartlett are visiting relatives in Cumberland.

The Jones family moved to Everett's tunnel Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ike Cupp are home from a visit to relatives at West Union.

Mrs. Wright, of Tunnelton, the mother of Mrs. Edward Warnick, is here on a visit.

Wm. Cross, of Franklin, moved to Frog Hollow last week.

Thos. Swann's gray horse, "Tiger," while coming up the road above Deep Hole became frightened and backed the cart and load over the embankment. With the exception of a few bruises and scratches on the horse, no damage was done.

Church Services.

St. Mark's Lutheran Church—Catechetical instructions Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Services Sunday morning at the usual hour. Sunday evening Rev. S. E. Nicholson, State Sup't of Anti-Saloon League for Maryland, will speak. Cordial welcome.

GEO. I. UHLER.

MY SCHOOL-DAY FRIENDS.

Sometimes I go, reflectively,
On journeys retrospectively,
And for the moment dwell amid the scenes of long ago;
And on such outings, as a rule,
I wander to the dear old school,
And visit with the boys and girls whom there I used to know.

Perchance you were acquainted, too,
With many old-time friends I knew;
You may have met Ann Alysis and, also,
Ann Elize;
Or, maybe, chummed with Algy Bray,
Or sauntered with Phil Osophy,
Or delved with Ed Ucation, who was wont to be so wise.

And there was Etta Mology,
Ah, yes, and Ann Thropology,
And Polly Gon and Polly Glot and Polly
This and That;
You may have glanced at Ella Cution,
Cast a smile at Eva Lution,
Or with Ella Mentary enjoyed a little chat.

Now all those friends I used to see
Are half-forgotten dreams to me,
Yet once within my thoughts they held a quite important place;
But they commenced "commencement day"
From memory to slip away
Till now I'd scarcely know them if I meet them face to face.
—Nixon Waterman, in Youth's Companion.

An Intercepted Message

By Catherine Call.

(Copyright, 1901, by Authors Syndicate.)

A YOUNG man sat in a tiny coop of a telegraph office, just under a lowering hill, which every moment threatened to fall down over the dreary stretch of shining track, and into the tumbling noisy river below. He looked at his watch, frowned impatiently, then put his head upon his arm. In a moment the tireless tick of the receiver had put him asleep. Every day at four o'clock he had a call from Dallas, a small flag station about two miles up the mountain. It was five minutes to four, and, confident that the call would waken him, he dozed on.

Ann Martin and Ben Joyce had been schoolmates, and later had been operators on the same road. The railroad company for whom they worked had issued an order prohibiting women operating, and now Ann was teaching school at Dallas. There was an instrument at Dallas, as the railroad people sometimes used the office, but it was usually vacant, and Ann would come down after school and talk to Ben over the wires. They had a secret sign, and she had never failed to get an answer from him when she called.

Ann began to call at exactly four o'clock. She could not raise Ben. She called steadily for some time, in desperation, at last, telling him who she was. She got no answer. Just as she began to call again, she heard Ben call Rockwood, the station below his office. He was answered and Ann heard him give an order which took away her breath:

"Runaway freight cars. Hold No. 47 on Bigler's Siding."

She tried to break. But the only thing she heard was Ben's message repeated with insistence. Ben's "Morse" was awful. He must be ill, or crazy. There was no runaway train, for she would have seen it, and No. 47 was the fast mail. It never stopped for anything. The girl gave a sudden gasp and went white. She put out her hand to steady herself and her twitching fingers mechanically grasped something hard. She looked down. She held Ben's rifle in her hands. How it had come there she did not know. She ran out of the dingy office. There was no one in sight except an aged track-walker. On a side-track stood a hand-car, abandoned by the section gang.

"Help me get this thing started down the track," she screamed to the old man.

"You'll be kilt! You'll be kilt, girl! The Mail's due!" he said, but he pushed her off, and, aided by the grade, she was soon speeding down the track, her skirts wierdly streaming back to the old man's startled eyes.

"The lass be goin' to shoot some one sure," he muttered to himself.

Her tired arms stopped working the lever when she was about 100 yards from Ben's office, and the machine stopped. She got off and scrambled down over the river bank.

She crept up till only a few feet below the office. A window opened on the lower side. Nothing could be heard above the roaring and tumbling of the river's swollen waters. She cocked the trigger on the rifle and raised it to the window. All in a marvelously quick glance, she saw a man, one filthy hand on Ben's shoulder, the other gripping a revolver about a foot from Ben's fair bent head. Just as she thrust the muzzle of the gun through the window he turned his head, and their eyes met as her bullet struck him. Then his eyes shut forever in a dizzy whirl and he flopped lifeless to the floor.

With blanched cheeks and a bloody hand, Ben tumbled out.

"I was in the office and heard your order. I just knew. I don't know why. Ben," she said, with a note of anxiety, "have you forgotten that message? Is the Mail due?"

He reached for his watch with his wounded hand, but she had it out, looked at it and left it dangling from the chain. She stepped into the doorway of the office but drew back.

"Ben, you'll have to take him out of there. There must be more of them, and don't you see they'll rob the train while we're waiting. I must get Rockwood."

Ben caught the feet of the dead highwayman with his one hand, and pulled it out and around the corner of the office. Then he came round and looked at her, holding his mangled hand from which the blood was dripping. She made him cut her shirt waist sleeve and bind up the wound while she called Rockwood.

"I'm heartless, I know, but—" she broke off as Rockwood answered.

"Send out armed men on engines. Train 47 held up at Bigler's Siding. Robbers. Explain later. Must be quick."

As the girl turned to him Ben thought she was the weariest creature he had ever seen. Her face was colorless and she seemed ready to faint from exhaustion and the strain. She smiled wanly at him and began listlessly to bandage his hand.

"Tell me about it," she said.

"I was sitting here waiting for your call and I think I fell asleep. I know I was thinking of you, for when I awoke the first thing I thought of was how cold your fingers were. I put up my hand to feel them and ran against that gun." He shuddered at the memory. "I was wide awake, and I jumped for that drawer, but he'd shot my hand dead limp before I moved almost."

"Of course I began to call, and then you broke in. I was nearly crazy. When I got them he told me every word to say, and I had to send it because he was an operator himself. I was sending an order to Rockwood, and that was unusual, and with my left hand, too. The fellow at Rockwood kept asking me all the time if it was me. But when I told him to get a move on or he would be responsible for the wreck of the mail, he said all right. That fiend then entertained me with a description of what they were doing down at Bigler's Siding. There were six of 'em, and I don't know how they got onto the fact that the mail had so much money to-night. Some one on the road squealed, but he didn't tell me who it was. You know Bigler has that track in there for his lumber, and when they had killed the engineer and fireman they were going to take the whole train up in the woods, and load the boodle into wagons. They were going to take their time and—"

Ann wheeled around to the ticker. They were calling her again.

"Have sent out three engines. About 40 men, all armed. Wilson wants to know what's the matter. He's going out."

Ann started to send, and she was still busy ticking the long and graphic story to the astonished railroad officials at Rockwood, when she heard the familiar puffing of an engine coming up the grade. She broke and ran out to where Ben was standing. An engine was slowing up for the little office. It was covered with men, hanging on with their very toe nails. It stopped and they all piled off.

"Well, what in the devil!" began one grimy fellow. Then he saw Ann. He turned to Ben. "We got 'em all down there, but how'd you come to send such a message? You must be one of the train robbers, yourself. I guess you're the other one, they're talking about. Gentlemen," he said, turning to the other men, "this thing's got to be looked into. I move we arrest this fellow."

Ben tried to speak, but they silenced him.

"You can explain later," said the grim trainmen.

Ann was laughing hysterically. They were some distance down from the office, and she turned and ran up the track and around the little house. The enraged railroaders were brutes in a moment. They thought she was running away.

"Catch the hussy!" they yelled. "She helped him in his deviltry."

But when they came upon her around the corner of the house, she was standing with her eyes closed, against the side of the house, and at her feet, the red clot still oozing on his forehead, lay the missing highwayman.

When it was all explained they took her back with them and the three living bandits were shown to her at the Siding. The attack had just begun on the train when the engines arrived, and all the rascals had run. Two were shot and the others were captured. They were carried into Rockwood in the car with the gold they had hoped to steal, and Wilson himself was there to meet them. As Ann climbed off the train he came to meet her bareheaded. The girl flushed crimson as he took her hand, and said so that they all heard: "My girl, you have saved the B. & O. $3,000,000, to-day. Do you know that you are very wonderful?"

"I did it for Ben," she said, quietly, "and can you send me home now?"

Nature Versus Culture.

"Yes, sir, I did my best to train my daughter up as an accomplished parliamentarian. I took her to meetings to give her a chance to listen to the rulings of able chairmen, and I had her learn the text-books on the subject by heart. I thought I had her perfect in the business, but I was mistaken. She attended a convention not long ago and pretty soon she had a chance to appeal from a decidedly unjust ruling of the chair, and how do you suppose she did it?"

"Well?"

"She was excited, you know, and this is what she said: 'You are a mean old fright and I just hate you! So there!' And then she burst into tears and sat down. No, sir, woman's nature will have to change before she will ever become a parliamentarian."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

In 1831 English people used one-quarter of an ounce a head a year of cocoa; now they drink nearly three-quarters of a pound.

WOMAN AND HOME

POSING FOR PICTURES.

What to Wear and What Not to Wear When a Really Good Photograph Is Desired.

Photography as an art has attained such a standard of excellence that no pains are too infinite to enhance its effectiveness. While the primary object in any likeness, is to portray the features, the pose, the individual, yet it cannot be gainsaid that much of our pleasure in viewing the countenance, however perfectly depicted, may be seriously marred by the unhappy selection of an unbecoming gown.

It is a mistake to wear one's richest and most sumptuous costume instead of one whose design, being less pronounced, is, consequently, less apt to look grotesque a few seasons hence. Certain materials are risky, to say the least, in a photograph. Satins or silks with high luster throw lights and shadows which are harsh and unexpected in reproduction. Translucent fabrics are by far to be preferred. Softly folding, easily draped, and not pronounced are crepes, either silk or wool, and chiffon. Tulle, nets and such lace-like transparent effects depend so much upon the materials which are used as foundations that, in a general way, they are to be considered as secondary in importance, although as draperies they may be styled par excellence. Stiff, starchy effects are to be strictly tabooed unless it be the translucence of swiss or organdie.

Stripes and large patterns in lace or silk are failures, big brocades or plaids something to make one weep, especially the photographer who foresees a demand for second sittings when the proofs are shown. Velvet and fine furs are especially happy selections, and such accessories as a handsome opera cloak or long ostrich fan are deemed happy adjuncts with full dress.

Gloves should always be worn with street toilets which include a hat, but since a glace glove would be shiny, one of undressed kid is far better. With very light colors the hand should always be lifted or placed against a background darker than itself since the pink dress will naturally take darker than the light fabric.

Jewelry adds much to an evening dress, especially in the way of ornaments about the top of a low-cut corsage. Pearls photograph exquisitely in made-up jewelry, in necklaces or in long chains, which may be brought up and knotted once or festooned from a single ornament in front of the corsage.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

MISS VIVIAN SARTORIS.

Gen. Grant's Charming Granddaughter to Be Married to a Rich Young New Yorker.

An engagement which, though not formally announced, is acknowledged by both families, is that of Miss Vivian Sartoris and Timothy Nichols, of New York city. Miss Sartoris is the elder daughter of Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, and is one of the belles of Washington. Mr. Nichols is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gillman Nichols, of New York city, and is a popular young clubman of the metropolis.

The attachment between the young people dates from two years ago,

MISS VIVIAN SARTORIS.
(Granddaughter of Gen. Grant, Who Is Soon to Be a Bride.)

when they met at the international yacht races. Mr. Nichols has been an ardent lover, and it is stated by his close friends that the wedding will take place some time this year, and that the engagement will be formally announced as soon as the date of the marriage is settled.

Miss Sartoris is a tall, graceful brunette, and bears little resemblance to the Grant family. She has been a belle of two capitals, London and Washington, and has counted her admirers by the score. It is a subject of much congratulation to her family that she has chosen an American. Her venerable grandmother, Mrs. U. S. Grant, is especially well pleased, as it was a great grief when her daughter married an Englishman. She was not filled with enthusiasm when her namesake and granddaughter, Julia Dent Grant, wedded a Russian, even if he was a prince.

How to Keep Cups Bright.

Rub damp salt on cups and saucers to remove discolorations caused by tea and careless washing.

To Make Turnips Palatable.

Turnips are improved by adding one or two tablespoonfuls of sugar when cooking.

INDIAN LOVE-MAKING.

Strange Marriage Customs Prevail Among the Kiowas, One of the Semi-Savage Tribes.

The Kiowa Indians have queer marriage customs. There are three ways of getting married among these semi-savage redskins. The first and most commonly practiced way of securing a wife is buying her outright, or trading for her as if she were a horse or cow. As is common among most heathen tribes where woman is considered a mere toy or slave, she is not consulted, but must be ready to fill any contract that her father or brother sees fit to make.

I was at a mission upon the Kiowa and Comanche reservations not long since, where Af-poo-dle, a Kiowa boy of ten, was a pupil. He had a handsome sister with whom an old Indian was in love. The Indian visited the school and was most solicitous in his attentions to Af-poo-dle, giving him many attractive presents, such as beads and brass jewelry, that appealed to his vanity. When Af-poo-dle inquired of the donor what present he could make him in return, the wily old Indian unhesitatingly replied: "Give me your sister, Ti-i-ti, for squaw; me heapee rich; heapee good brave." The boy promised. He was the only son, and his word was law in the wigwam. Accordingly a few weeks later the Indian led Ti-i-ti to his tepee to be his squaw. This was a cold-blooded transaction, as is usually the case when women are sold.

KIOWA BRIDE AND GROOM.

The second way is more romantic and more in accord with the civilized fashion. In this case the love-sick swain gets his sister to see the young squaw he admires and to arrange a clandestine meeting. If his affection be returned the squaw keeps her appointment, and he happily leads her to his wigwam, for a clandestine meeting constitutes marriage with these semisavages.

The third and least practiced way sovors still more of the romantic. In this case the enamored buck makes a fastidious toilet in which beads and brass jewelry of all descriptions figure conspicuously, decorates and paints in many colors his best steed, and, like a conquering Alexander, rides proudly in front of the tepee where his adored is engaged in some menial task. He slackens pace as he nears the wigwam and endeavors to put his soul into his eyes as he regards her. She timidly blushes as she gazes upon the handsome brave, and her eyes droop. That is sufficient answer for him. That night, after all have retired, he takes his flute, goes near her wigwam and pours out a few doleful notes to express his heart's yearning. She comes out to him, and beneath the midnight stars they plight their faith. Then she is proudly led to his wigwam to be squaw No. 1, or more frequently No. 5. The next morning she is missed and the whole camp join in a mirthful search. When found the bridegroom is robbed of all his earthly possessions, sometimes even the very tepee that shelters his bride.—Detroit Free Press.

CARE OF THE HAIR.

Morning and Evening Duties Which Should, Under No Circumstances, Be Neglected.

In the morning separate the hair lock by lock and comb it from the ends up toward the roots with a shell comb, coarse and with teeth set far apart. This method of disentangling the hair prevents it from getting into knots and breaking.

When it is thoroughly disentangled brush it vigorously with a rather hard brush from the roots down, brushing till the hair shines.

To disentangle the hair, as well as to brush it, you should not attack a mass of hair and brush it at haphazard. The hair must be brushed and combed strand by strand, and this continued all around the head.

At night, before going to bed, let the hair fall loose, shake it thoroughly, then brush it and braid it.

Nothing is worse for the hair than to leave it hanging loose when one is in bed. It should be divided into several strands, braided, and then let fall, or else neatly twisted at the nape of the neck.

This permits the air to penetrate the hair, and at the same time prevents it from breaking. The hair should be left as unencumbered as possible and should not be overloaded with pins or ornaments that are too heavy.—Chicago American.

The Art of Soup Making.

In making soup slow cooking extracts the flavor and the water should not be salted until near the end of the process. In cooking bones and joints, however, a high temperature renders the gelatin soluble and salt should be used. As the gelatin is the nutritious part of the soup, this is important

THE FARMING WORLD

HANDY BARREL CART.

It Does Not Take Much Time to Construct One, Although It Saves Lots of Time Afterward.

There are several good methods of arranging a hand cart for transporting a single barrel a short distance. Some of these require the barrel to be ironed or otherwise fitted up, and the cart cannot be used with any other barrel than the one it is fitted up for. To make the cart shown in the illustration (Fig. 1), which may be used with any barrel, first procure a stout piece of about 3x3-inch wood, a little longer than the greatest diameter of an ordinary barrel. Round down the ends of this piece and put on iron ferules, so as to fit in wheels of an old hand cart as an axle; or, instead of rounding down ends, leave square and attach an old iron axle of cart, if it had one by staples or clips. Secure two long pieces of wood as light as consistent with strength and rigidity for the handles of the contrivance. Taper down at one end to be convenient for hands. At large ends of these handles, bolt firmly on each a piece of heavy wagon tire, curved slightly, to fit sides of barrel. About one foot from the small or handle ends of the pieces, bolt a 2x1-inch piece on under side to serve as a brace. Bolt this crosspiece solid at one end, and at the other end make several bolt holes an inch or so apart, so that the bolt may be put in whichever hole will hold the handles the right distance apart to conform to size of barrel.

THE CART COMPLETED.

THE CONSTRUCTION EXPLAINED.

Fig. 2 will help to make the construction plain. It will be seen that as the handles are moved farther apart on the adjustable crosspiece, the ends which grip the barrel will be brought closer together. It should be set so as to grip barrel far enough up to hold it secure, and yet not slip entirely over barrel at its largest part. When transporting a barrel that is full of anything heavy, the cart must be used with a little care to keep from crushing in the sides of barrel, and for this reason try to have the iron pieces fit around the barrel as uniformly as possible.—Ohio Farmer.

USING DAMAGED FEEDS.

Grain Injured in Any Manner Whatever Should Be Fed Very Sparingly to Farm Stock.

Bleached hay or straw has not the feeding value of hay or straw having its normal color and strength. Bleaching, caused by exposure to weather, robs hay of its sweetness and succulence, leaving a sort of dead roughness possessing comparatively little feeding value. This loss through exposure to the elements likewise very materially injures grains, extracting the soluble compounds contained in them and rendering them almost devoid of nutrition.

Just now many questions are being asked as to the advisability of feeding grains injured in the manner indicated. The answer to those questions must be general rather than specific, as so much depends upon the degree and also upon the nature of the injury that no answer can be given that will meet the needs of every case. It may be said with safety, however, that wheat or other grain that is badly musted or molded is much injured for feeding. Such mold is quite injurious when fed in large quantities. Of course any process that will tend to remove mold from it will lessen the injury, but no after treatment can make such grain a first-class food again. Second, if the grain is simply badly wrinkled with the wet and discolored, its feeding value for stock would not seem to be lessened. Third, if the wheat is small and the grains so diminutive and uneven in size in addition to the discoloration, it still makes excellent food for live stock. It has a large amount of bran relatively, and this makes it a safe food even when fed alone. Damaged wheat may be fed to sheep without being ground. For cattle and swine it ought to be ground. If such wheat has in it oily seeds of weeds, its feeding value is probably improved rather than injured. The oil in the seeds is slightly laxative. But it would be easily possible to have too much of this element for the best results.—Farmers' Voice.

It is time to be testing the clover-seed. There is but little economy in getting clover seed 75 cents a bushel cheaper than the market price and having one-fourth of the sowing fail of germination. Moreover, unless you test the seed you never will know where the fault lay that the stand of clover was poor.—Farmers' Voice.

Good fowls deserve good care.

READY FOR BUSINESS.

The Farmer Who Succeeds Is He Who Thinks and Is Prepared to Act at a Moment's Notice.

While the farmer can do much to be ready for the cropping season of the regular crops grown, yet weather conditions may be such that different methods of seeding and culture may be required, and even other crops have to be grown than those contemplated early in the season. The planning even for such emergencies is a part of successful and paying farming.

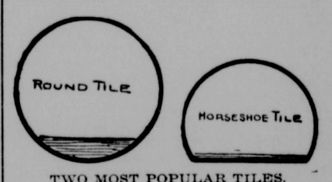
The writer has known, and so have our readers known, good farm land which was intended for corn to be permitted to grow up to weeds all summer because a wet spring prevented the planting until too late to make what the owner thought a profitable crop of corn. Possibly wheat was sown on the land in the fall, but if some quick growing forage crop had been sown on this land, this farmer would not all the following winter have been so short on feed.

Hence, readiness means not only having definite plans to be pursued if conditions are favorable, but even supplementary ones which can be made to manage existing conditions, though these be adverse to earlier plans. Farming is a gigantic operation, and when farmers accede to this fact and prepare for it accordingly the success so desired will be much more likely to be attained. The days of tickling the soil and gathering a harvest are with the past. And though agriculture has not attained the place even among farmers themselves that its importance demands, yet up-to-date intelligent methods are being more generally adopted and the results are being felt. And knowing that possible changes in plans may occur, how to meet them will prove one master of situations that will increase one's interest in farming. The knowing where to procure seed needed for a supplementary crop is part of this preparation. Farmers should post themselves as to where seed of the various crops can be obtained, and as to the farmers in their section having seed oats, corn, cowpeas, etc., for sale, and where can be purchased any and all farm supplies. This knowledge enables a farmer to be ready.—Colman's Rural World.

HOW TO LAY TILE.

Valuable Advice on a Subject That Is Not as Well Understood as It Should Be.

Tile when properly placed in a ditch do not require a covering of small stones or gravel, and they will do better work if the regular soil is used for covering. Horseshoe tile are not as good for the purpose of draining as round tile. While they would be reasonably sure to stay in place if properly laid, they are not as efficient as round tile. The reason they are not as efficient is shown in the cut. If but a small stream of water is flowing, it spreads out over the entire flat surface of the horseshoe tile,



TWO MOST POPULAR TILES.

and there is not enough depth of water to cause the removal of silt or sediment which may accumulate. It is far more difficult to lay horseshoe tile and do good work than to lay round tile. If the round tile does not make a tight joint with its neighbor, it may be turned until a place is found where the joint is reasonably satisfactory. If the horseshoe tile does not fit with its neighbor, then the shovel must be used and earth removed or filled in, as the occasion may require. If horseshoe tile are used, they will do better work if they are laid with the flat tile up, for then conditions as to the flow of water are produced which are more nearly like those present with the round tile. When round tile are laid it is well to lay a piece of common tarred building paper over the joint before filling in with earth. No matter how tight the joint is made, there is always a slight opening, and there is a possibility that soil may pass into the tile and obstruct the passage. After the tile are placed a small piece of building paper laid over the joint just before replacing the earth will insure against obstruction, says L. A. Clinton, among some items of advice given in Country Gentleman.

The Maturity of Hogs.

Hogs vary to an astonishing degree as to the time in which they will mature. We hear yet of breeders that claim to have hogs that go on growing till they are five or six years old, but of course breeding in modern times tends to eradicate this late maturing habit. Now most of our swine reach maturity in a little over a year and reach a marketable growth in ten months or less. For breeding animals it is advocated that the hogs be fed so that they will mature rapidly and make their growth during two years, it being argued that such hogs will have more vitality to transmit to their offspring.—Farmers' Review.

After the Pigs Are Weaned.

Very young pigs, after weaning, should receive skim milk, bran and ground oats. Clover is also excellent as a bulky food. Corn and cornmeal make the best foods for fattening, but give the best results when the animals also receive a variety in addition, such as clover, turnips, bran, skim milk, or even weeds. The seedsmen in almost any city can supply books on the management of swine.

BICYCLE IN WARFARE.

Great Britain Has Had an Elegant Chance to Test It in the War in South Africa.

The extent to which the bicycle can be usefully employed on active service has long engaged the attention not only of our own military authorities, but of those of foreign countries. It is obvious that there is great difficulty and responsibility in utilizing in the field the services of a body of men of whose peculiar capabilities in the particular circumstances in which they are engaged nothing very definite is known. There is, of course, a natural reluctance on the part of those responsible for a campaign such as that in South Africa to make what must partake largely of the nature of an experiment while operations of a critical kind are in progress, says the Brooklyn Eagle. On the other hand, it is difficult to see in what other way the precise position the bicycle is destined to occupy in warfare is to be satisfactorily determined. Those ardent volunteers who for years past have devoted themselves to the task of demonstrating, so far as it is possible in times of peace, the utility of a force of armed men so mounted, cannot be said to have received much encouragement from the war office in connection with the Boer war. There have been few campaigns that have offered so favorable an opportunity for the special facilities afforded by the bicycle. Considering the great distances that the troops have had to cover, mobility and rapidity of movement have been shown by events to have been of the first importance; while the singularly favorable circumstance that the veldt, of which vast areas exist, is rideable in many directions on a bicycle, might with a little forethought have led to the advantageous employment of a certain number of men on bicycles. No one with a sense of responsibility would have suggested our making a leap in the dark and equipping thousands of soldiers with bicycles at the outset, with a possibility of the machines being found to be useless, like the patent carts with which the French expedition to Madagascar was furnished. The course, however, which the war office would have been regarded as justified in taking was to permit a small force of regulars or volunteers to be properly organized, supplied with suitable machines and attached to one of the field forces in the earlier stages of the war, so that their utility might have been practically tested. Then, if they had proved of real value, the force could have been increased as required, for it would have been found far easier and infinitely less costly to mount men on bicycles than on horses.

ALL-AROUND EXERCISER.

In Operating the Bicycle Here Described the Rider Trains Arms as Well as Feet.

The attempts at reducing unpleasant vibrations on the standard models of bicycles are worked out by the inventor of the "freak" wheel here pictured.

PROPELLED BY FOOT AND HAND.

The inventor, who hails from Jericho, N. Y., claims much less vibration to the arms through the lever extensions of the handle bar. Their main purpose, however, is to afford a means of propelling with the hands as well as the feet in ascending hills, the upward pull usually exerted on the handle bar being here applied directly in helping to rotate the pedals. The machine is steered by the thumbs, which operate the two small loops on the handles of the levers. These loops are connected to the steering head through a short handle bar, and move the front fork without moving the cross bar to which the levers are attached.

In operating this machine the rider exercises his arms as well as his feet; he is obliged to sit erect, and to bring all the muscles of the body into play as the latter sways slightly from side to side. So completely are all the muscles developed that not only do the toes pedal, but even the thumbs are trained to steer! For an all round out-of-door exerciser this Yankee invention certainly cannot be surpassed!—Scientific American.

To Avoid Bicycle Accidents.

If you desire to become a finished rider, cultivate coolness. The wheelman who loses his head when he gets in a tight place and allows excitement to get the better of him is almost certain to come to grief eventually, and it is an undoubted fact that a good many of the cycling accidents chronicled could easily be avoided by a little coolness and judgment here exercised. Many riders never feel the slightest uneasiness in the thick of busy street traffic, as they have complete confidence in their ability to manipulate their machine with safety. Confidence and coolness go hand in hand, and the wheelman who is of a nervous and excitable temperament should cultivate these qualities.

STEAM FREIGHT WAGON.

It Weighs a Ton and a Half and Is Expected to Carry a Load Twice Its Own Weight.

An inventor in Brompton-Crescent has obtained a patent for a wagon to be propelled by steam upon common roads. The carriage is 27 feet in length, including seven feet for the fire, boiler, cylinder and the mechanism connected with the driving wheels.

Instead of an axletree passing through both the front or both the hind wheels, as is usual in other carriages, the axis merely passes through the nave of each wheel sufficiently to support on each side uprights, which strengthen and connect the frame of the wagon.

The direction of the carriage is effected by the action of a bevel pinion connected with a spindle, which is governed by the coachman; this pinion acts on a wheel whose movements compel those of certain iron braces fixed to the exterior of the front wheels, which turn upon the same spot where they touch the ground; so much power is gained by this pinion that little force is required from the coachman to produce the necessary direction.

AN AUTOMOBILE OF 1823.

There are two safety valves calculated at 50 pounds upon a square inch, while every part of the steam apparatus has been proved at the rate of 200 pounds upon a square inch.

The steam is conducted into two condensers, formed of flat copper tubes; that part of the steam which is condensed, falling to the bottom of the condenser, is conveyed to the reservoir of water for further use, while the uncondensed steam is conducted through the chimney and here extinguishes such sparks as may occasionally find their way from the charcoal, combined with coke, of which the fire is made.

The fire, placed under the boiler, is surrounded by iron plates, and so far removed from the part of the carriage destined for goods that no possible danger can be apprehended.

The weight of the carriage and the whole apparatus may be calculated at one and a half tons; it is destined to carry three tons of merchandise, making a total of four and a half tons upon wheels conformable to the regulations established by law and subject to the usual restrictions.

AUTOMOBILE EXCHANGE.

Unique Institution Planned by the New York Agents of Motor Vehicle Manufacturers.

New York city has a new idea in the way of an automobile exchange, or rather two of them, but under the same management. Both will be immense buildings, with large floor space. The centers of the buildings will be riding academies, while on each side and at the ends will be booths. Thus far both schemes agree. In one case, however, the booths will be free for manufacturers, each to leave one or more machines for actual use. Trained drivers will be in attendance and will show the various makes impartially, setting forth their merits and demerits, without giving any one make the preference. Intending purchasers may try the various machines in the academy, and, having settled on a choice, it will be sold to him by the attendant. There will be no fee for the purchaser; the company which sells the auto will pay a regular fixed commission. The second concern will contain practically the same features as the first, excepting that the stalls will be rented to manufacturers. Both concerns will contain a storage place for autos, which will be cared for at a fixed rate. A fully equipped repair shop will be fitted out and extra parts of all machines will be kept in stock, so that in case of a breakdown it will not be necessary to send to the factory, thus losing valuable time.

The Champion Century Rider.

Walter N. Stannard, of Springfield, Mass., believes he has broken a world's record. In the year 1900 he rode a bicycle not less than 100 miles every day, and some days more. He finished his three hundred and sixty-fifth ride of the year just before midnight of December 31, 1900, and at once retired to a Turkish bath. His total mileage was 38,889 miles, an average of 106 miles a day, Sundays and holidays included. His first ride of the year was 120 miles over roads deep with mud and slush. Stannard is 27 years of age and weighs 210 pounds. He wore out and broke beyond repair seven bicycles during the year. In the year 1898 he rode 24,000 miles, and in 1899 31,000 miles. He does not think he will ride much this year, saying that country riding as a business is a little monotonous. It will seem to most people that it took him a long time to find out a simple truth.

Where Farmers Ride Wheels.

The roads in Kansas are almost uniformly good and level, and as a result practically every farmhouse has at least one bicycle. A farmer in that state would as soon be without his team as without his wheel.

Fifteen Minutes Late.

Somewhere in the Highlands twins were born at the meeting of the centuries with the odd result, says the St. James Gazette, that one opened its eyes in the nineteenth and the other in the twentieth century. It is surely the most remarkable of all "century" incidents. There are two men in England who will read of the birth of those century twins with special interest—one a peer of the realm and the other a member of the house of commons. The peer owes his peerage to the fact that he was born 15 minutes before his brother; the M. P. missed an earldom by being born 15 minutes late. The peer is Lord Durham; the M. P. is Hon. F. W. Lambton, member for Southeast Durham. Both were born on June 19, 1855, the earl coming into the world 15 minutes before his brother. Those 15 minutes were worth an earldom and 30,000 acres to the lucky baby.—Manchester (Eng.) Guardian.

Always Up-to-Date.

The Passenger Department of the Union Pacific Ry. has recently issued a twenty-eight page booklet of "The Overland Limited." It is a magnificent specimen of printing, artistic in the highest degree, and is embellished with views of the train mentioned both interior and exterior, together with much information regarding the service, and also interesting points on the route to California. It makes one feel like putting his affairs in order with the least possible delay and taking a trip to the Golden Gate. The Union Pacific was the pioneer line Westward, and it is not too much to say that it has maintained the prestige which that fact gave it. A trip to California over the Union Pacific in connection with the Chicago & Northwestern and Southern Pacific Systems is a delight at all times.

His Name.

The teacher of the Sabbath school class approached one little fellow who was present for the first time, and inquired his name, for the purpose of placing it on the roll. "Well," said the youngster, "they call me Jimmie for short, but my maiden name is James."—Christian Register.

You Can Get Allen's Foot-Ease FREE.

Write to-day to Allen S. Olmsted, Leroy, N. Y., for a FREE sample of Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder to shake into your shoes. It cures chilblains, sweating, damp, swollen, aching feet. It makes New or tight shoes easy. A certain cure for Corns and Bunions. All druggists and shoe stores sell it. 25c.

Lots of men fool away so much time trying to get hold of some relative's estate that they neglect what little business they have of their own.—Washington (Ia.) Democrat.

Good Advice Unappreciated.

He was very nearsighted, which fact accounts for this tale. It was on one of the recent snowy mornings, and he was undecided whether to yield to a Quixotic impulse, and clean the sidewalk himself, or to toss a quarter to one of the passing shovelers, and, calm in the assurance that had some one been set to work to earn an honest penny or two, pursue his own and more dignified way.

A preparatory survey, resulting in the discovery that a particularly cold and cutting wind was abroad, sufficed.

"Say, my man," he exclaimed to the first person he saw passing, "what would you take to clean this walk?"

"A shovel, by all means," was the laconic reply.

As a prominent politician went chuckling down the street, the astonished questioner went into the house and kicked himself three times.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

Paved with Good Intentions.

"That friend of mine in the asphalt business had a horrible dream the other night. He dreamed that he had worked through a contract to pave the main street in sheol. In his joy over getting it he was foolish enough to guarantee to keep the roadway in repair for a year. He sent down his best men to lay the stuff and it was soon down and approved and the warrants drawn for its payment."

"Yes."

"And one day Satan sent for him in a terrible hurry. He hustled down and what do you suppose? Why, they'd just had a batch of new arrivals, legislators and councilmen, and in warming things up for them they had rushed the temperature to 420 Fahrenheit—and every blessed scrap of that asphalt had melted and run into the sewer!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

He'd Settle Old Scores.—Tommy—"Oh! Ouch! Stop that!" Mamma—"Why, Tommy, aren't you ashamed? I wouldn't cry that way if it was my hair that was being combed." Tommy (fiercely)—"I'll bet you would if I was doin' the combing."—Philadelphia Press.

Pleased with His Lawyer.

"While I was in the state's attorney's office," said ex-Deputy State's Attorney William C. Smith, "I had to try a case against an otherwise honest German for selling liquor on Sunday. The defendant had retained a certain member of the bar who is noted for his high C voice. During this attorney's rather loud address his German client looked on in rapt admiration, and he was heard to remark:

"'Ach, dot's the kind of lawyer to haf, yet.'

"'Why?' he was asked.

"'Because,' was the reply, 'he hollers so loud he scares der jury.'"—Baltimore Sun.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY,

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the city of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of One Hundred Dollars for each and every case of catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. GLEASON, [Seal] Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Couldn't Square the Circle.

He—I thought you knew the Browns. Don't you live in the same square?

She—Yes, but you see, we don't move in the same circle.—Tit-Bits.

A Woman's Glory.

Plentiful hair is a woman's glory, which all those who lack it can appreciate. When Mr. A. M. Channell was living at Galesburg, Illinois, he wrote: "Your lotion has done all you promised in restoring my wife's hair, which had fallen off in large spots, through the effects of illness. All thus affected should use Palmer's Lotion." In connection with the Lotion, Palmer's Lotion Soap should be used to clean the hair, and it has all the medicinal qualities of the Lotion and makes a delightful shampoo. If your druggist should not have it, send to Solon Palmer, 374 Pearl Street, New York, for samples of Palmer's Lotion and Lotion Soap.

Her Respect.

The Judge—Your husband is entitled to a little respect, madam.

The Wife—Well, that's what he gets.—Detroit Free Press.

Homeseekers Excursion.

On the first and third Tuesdays of each month the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway will sell round-trip excursion tickets from Chicago, Milwaukee and other points on its line to a great many points in South Dakota, North Dakota and other Western and Northwestern States at about one fare. Take a trip west and see the wonderful crops and what an amount of good land can be purchased for a little money. Further information as to rates, routes, prices of farm lands, etc., may be obtained by addressing F. A. Miller, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

A woman gets up a good meal for the preacher, but she eclipses all efforts when her husband brings a former lover home to dine, in order that she may show him what he missed.—Atchison Globe.

There Is a Class of People

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

There is an insurance company in Paris that refuses to issue policies on the lives of people who use hair dye. Having dyed they are probably considered dead.—Chicago Daily News.

Delicate Children

Cannot take nostrums without injury. Use Hoxsie's Croup Cure for Whooping Cough, Croup and Pneumonia. A. P. Hoxsie, Buffalo.

The older we get the more difficult we are to please and the less trouble people take to please us.—Ally Sloper.

In 3 or 4 Years an Independence Is Assured

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

If you take up your homes in Western Canada, the land of plenty. Illustrated pamphlets, giving experiences of farmers who have become wealthy in growing wheat, reports of delegates, etc., and full information as to reduced railway rates can be had on application to the Undersigned, who will mail you atlases, pamphlets, etc., free of cost. F. PEDLEY, Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada; M. V. McINNES, No. 2 Merrill Blk., Detroit, Mich.; E. T. HOLMES, Room 6, Big Four Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind. Special excursions to Western Canada during March and April.

A New Mississippi Bridge.

The new bridge over the Mississippi at St. Louis, just authorized by congress, is to be finished in 1903 for the world's fair. The first bridge over the river was begun in 1867, when St. Louis had a population of 225,000, but when the bridge was finished in 1874 the population had risen to 325,000. When the second bridge was opened to traffic in 1890 the population was 451,000, and it was evident then that a third bridge was needed, owing to the city's greatly increased business activity.—Indianapolis News.

Lane's Family Medicine.

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

"Willie, you mustn't eat so fast; it will give you dyspepsia." "An' then would I be cross as pa?"—Indianapolis News.

Coughing Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam will stop the Cough at once. Go to your druggist to-day and get a sample bottle free. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents. Go at once: delays are dangerous.

No matter how wise a man is there are people who think he is a fool.—Atchison Globe.

Carter's Ink

best for school, home and office. It costs no more than poor ink. Always ask for Carter's.

"He called his vaudeville sketch 'The Vaccination Mark.'" "Yes." "It didn't take."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

I am sure Piso's Cure for Consumption saved my life three years ago.—Mrs. Thos. Robbins, Maple Street, Norwich, N. Y., Feb 17, 1900.

Every man stamps his value on himself. —Schiller.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

Cheerfulness is the best promoter of health.—Addison.

A dyspeptic is never on good terms with himself. Something is always wrong. Get it right by chewing Beeman's Pepsin Gum.

Gratitude is the music of the heart.—Robert South.

Pleasant, Wholesome, Speedy, for coughs is Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Pike's Toothache Drops Cure in one minute.

It takes two to make a quarrel, but it's usually the work of a third.—N. Y. Herald.

G & J TIRES

All tires look alike until a puncture occurs, and then the superiority of the G & J is apparent. With the G & J you can sit down by the side of the road, make your repair, and be off again in less time than it takes the rider of other tires to find the leak. Its being detachable enables one to make this lightning repair—a big feature of the G & J. If you want comfort and satisfaction ask your dealer for G & J Tires. Beautifully illustrated catalogue free.

G & J TIRE COMPANY,
Indianapolis, Ind.

KEEP YOUR SADDLE DRY!

THE ORIGINAL TOWER'S FISH BRAND POMMEL SLICKER
BLACK OR YELLOW
PROTECTS BOTH RIDER AND SADDLE IN THE HARDEST STORM
ON SALE EVERYWHERE. BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. LOOK FOR ABOVE TRADE MARK.
CATALOGUES FREE.
SHOWING FULL LINE OF GARMENTS AND HATS.
A. J. TOWER CO., BOSTON, MASS. 39

Consolation, indiscreetly pressed upon us when we are suffering under affliction, only serves to increase our pain and render our grief more poignant.—Rousseau.

Women Must Sleep.

Avoid Nervous Prostration.

If you are dangerously sick what is the first duty of your physician? He quiets the nervous system, he deadens the pain, and you sleep well.

You ought to know that when you ceased to be regular in your courses, grow irritable without cause, and pass sleepless nights, there is serious trouble somewhere, and nervous prostration is sure to follow.

MRS. HARTLEY.

You ought to know that indigestion, exhaustion, womb displacements, fainting, dizziness, headache, and backache send the nerves wild with affright, and you cannot sleep.

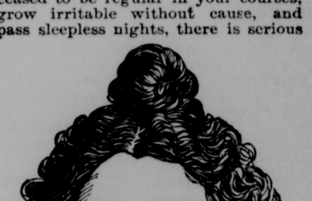
Mrs. Hartley, of 221 W. Congress St., Chicago, Ill., whose portrait we publish, suffered all these agonies, and was entirely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; her case should be a warning to others, and her cure carry conviction to the minds of every suffering woman of the unfailing efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The "Big Four Route"

Is a Railway System Comprising

2,500 Miles of Superb Roadway

Built and Equipped in the Most Approved Manner of Modern Railway Construction.



The Passenger Train Service of the "BIG FOUR ROUTE" provides 200 Passenger Trains per day, requiring for their operation

150 Passenger Locomotives
450 Passenger Cars
25 Parlor Cars
20 Dining and Café Cars

In addition to which Sixty Pullman Sleepers are in Continuous Service on the "BIG FOUR" and its Through Car Lines.

WARREN J. LYNCH, Gen. Pass. & Tkt. Agt.
W. P. DEPPE, Asst. G. P. & T. A.
CINCINNATI, O.

Bad Breath

Undigested, decaying food remnants, in the mouth and stomach, giving off pestiferous gases, are the cause of that awful breath, so repulsive as to cause a halt in friendship, affection, love,—any form of intimacy. Nobody can stand its overpowering stench, and it is a cause of terrible misery to those afflicted and their dear ones. There is only one way to cure it—disinfect the digestive canal with CASCARETS! Clean it out, keep it clean, let CASCARETS stimulate the lining of mouth and stomach, and put it in shape to work naturally and properly. Nothing but CASCARETS will bring about the desired result. BE SURE YOU GET THEM!

ter
ited omit to oped ace nd at and

ens.—Detroit Free Press.

"I have been using CASCARETS and as a mild and effective laxative they are simply wonderful. My daughter and I were bothered with sick stomach and our breath was very bad. After taking a few doses of Cascarets we have improved wonderfully. They are a great help in the family."
WILHELMINA NAGEL,
1137 Rittenhouse St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

"Well, I'm glad to know about it."

a l or l thro les no see hav age,
ma

Cascarets

BEST FOR BOWELS AND LIVER.

THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

THIS IS CCC THE TABLET

10c. 25c. 50c.
NEVER SOLD IN BULK.
DRUGGISTS

GUARANTEED TO CURE all bowel troubles, appendicitis, biliousness, bad breath, bad blood, wind on the stomach, bloated bowels, foul mouth, headache, indigestion, pimples, pains after eating, liver trouble, sallow complexion and dizziness. When your bowels don't move regularly you are getting sick. Constipation kills more people than all other diseases together. It is a starter for the chronic ailments and long years of suffering that come afterwards. No matter what ails you, start taking CASCARETS today, for you will never get well and be well all the time until you put your bowels right. Take our advice; start with CASCARETS today, under an absolute guarantee to cure or money refunded. 457

GUARANTEED TO CURE: Five years ago the first box of CASCARETS was sold. Now it is over six million boxes a year, greater than any similar medicine in the world. This is absolute proof of great merit, and our best testimonial. We have faith, and will sell CASCARETS absolutely guaranteed to cure or money refunded. Go buy today, two 50c boxes, give them a fair, honest trial, as per simple directions, and if you are not satisfied after using one 50c box, return the unused 50c box and the empty box to us by mail, or the druggist from whom you purchased it, and get your money back for both boxes. Take our advice—no matter what ails you—start today. Health will quickly follow and you will bless the day you first started the use of CASCARETS. Book free by mail. Add: STERLING REMEDY CO., New York or Chicago.

THE REPUBLICAN.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Editor and Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

THE REPUBLICAN is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year	$ 1.25
One copy six months	.75
One copy three months	.40
One copy one month	.15
Single copies	.05

ADVERTISING RATES.

First insertion for square of ten nonpareil lines, $1; each additional insertion after first, 0 cents per square of ten nonpareil lines.

REMITTANCES:

Remittances made by money order, bank draft, registered letter or express order will be at our risk; if made otherwise, at the risk of the sender. Address,

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1901.

Political Announcements

The following rates for publishing political announcements in these columns have been fixed and will be charged to those who desire to make their wishes known to the voters of Garrett county. These charges are payable in advance of the first publication of notices:

For State Senator, $10; County Treasurer, $5; Sheriff, $5; Members of the House of Delegates, $5; County Commissioner, $5.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER.

At the solicitation of friends I announce myself as a candidate for the nomination for County Treasurer, subject to the Republican Nominating Convention, and most respectfully solicit the assistance and influence of all Republicans. Should I be nominated and elected I promise to give personal attention to the duties of the office.

JAS. W. WHITE,
District No. 14. Oakland.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the nomination of Sheriff for Garrett county, subject to the decision of the Republican Nominating Convention, and solicit the support of Republicans throughout the county.
Dist. No. 7. ANDREW SHARTZER.

FOR SHERIFF.

Newspaper Frauds.

"Non-partisan" papers, edited by partisans, are the most patent humbugs of the age. In commenting upon public matters they start out non-partisan, but wind up partisan. They are simply frauds. A partisan paper is the more to be admired. It sacrafices patronage for principle. It is more honest, for it does not play for both sides, and does not pretend to be anything than partisan. There is nothing antagonistic to honesty in being partisan, and there is every inducement to dishonesty in being non-partisan or independent. The most despicable object is a partisan who pretends to conduct a non-partisan or independent paper, and then by his acts endorses every principle and policy which his party espouses.—Westminster (Md.) Advocate.

The Republican Policy.

There is a difference between the two political parties. The Republicans do want to govern the markets of the world, and to reign over the distribution of the world's bread and meat, securing in this way work at home for every honest laborer, markets for the products of our farms, and becoming such a factor in the world that will compel peace and justice among the nations of the earth. It is the policy which will hasten that blessed time promised by the prophet of old when the sword shall be beaten into plow-shares and the spear into pruning hooks. It is the Rspublican policy.

The County Levy.

We publish to-day the annual levy made by the Board of County Commissioners for 1901. Compared with former years the Commissioners have made a record which they can truly be proud of. Every item of public expense has been liberally provided for and this at a reduction in the rate of two cents on the $100.

The schools and road appropriations have not been pared down, but, on the contrary, an additional levy of $2,000 has been made for the use of the School Board to enable that body to erect school buildings in various portions of the county where such improvements and conveniences are necessary.

The Board has received well deserved praise for their labors, which under all circumstances are arduous.

Employment for Tramps.

Three tramps are serving thirty days in the Garrett county jail for breaking into a watch box on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. A telegraph instrument is always kept in the box for emergency use, and one of the tramps being an operator, amused himself and greatly annoyed the operators along the line by ordering a special train with dining car and buffet to take them away.

Many bright incidents are related of the Weary Willies and Meandering Mikes and there are capable as well as deserving men among the "profession." A solution of the tramp problem is one of the vexed questions of the times. Vagrants have been numerous in this county and many have been sent to the House of Correction for plying their calling in the small towns, but jails and prisons reform but few.

The suggestion has been made in Massachusetts that the State establish vagrant farms, and since Maryland has gone to the Bay State for a ballot law we might also consider their proposed tramp law. This plan contemplates the sending of persons going from place to place without definite destination, needing or asking assistance, to the nearest vagrant farm.

These farms of detention would also act as employment bureaus, finding places for men when fit and giving them work to do while waiting. This work should be of a non-competitive character, such, for example, as the planting of trees on the highways and land, work which in time would give to the reforested land a great additional value, while in those seasons of the year when tree planting could not properly be done work upon the roads might be undertaken.

"If some systematic plan was adopted," says the Boston Herald, "it cannot be doubted that, while we should afford every one honestly seeking work a better opportunity than he now has to sustain himself, we should go far toward ridding Massachusetts of those belonging to the irreclaimable tramp order."—Montgomery Press.

Not a Party, But a Machine.

The Democratic party has reached that period in its history in which there are wide differences of opinion regarding its principles. It is very easy to understand the reasons for this perplexity. The party has experimented so frequently with such a multiplicity of fantastic notions that the masses have forgotten its basic doctrines. It now seems to be a party of expediency. The old-time stalwart courage which expressed itself in clear-cut doctrines during the days of its triumphs seems to have been succeeded by a policy of contradictions, with its train of ridiculous failures. The old leaders of the party, representing the brain and conservatism of the Democracy, hold to one set of principles, while the wild, socialistic element adhered to others. According to the successes or defeats of each respective faction, so do the doctrines of the party swing to and fro.

It is not at all strange that a party thus constituted should forfeit the confidence of the people at large. The masses are well supplied with sound, common sense. They know that a party unable to decide what its own principles are is a very poor party to undertake important public functions. They know that a party which is one thing today and another thing tomorrow will be vacillating in both state and national policies. Strong statesmanship cannot be exercised where the dominant party is torn asunder by contending factions, whose chief ambition is to control the organization, rather than to promote the interests of the people at large.

When a party reaches that point where its main energies are consumed in interorganic quarrels that party is on the verge of political death. When a party possesses a real, live, aggressive principle the presence of that principle will prove the rallying point for harmony. When it is lacking in such a principle, then is it that the politicians of the organization exploit their little fads in order to gain their own ascendency. The absence of any principle is bound to become the breeder of many abominabla political practices. When a party is deficient in wise, public policies it has recourse to trickeries in order to maintain its power. It degenerates into a mere machine for securing of public spoils.

The confessions of the Democratic leaders themselves tell us that they are divided in opinion on what the party represents. The actions of the party in this and in other States prove the logical sequence to such a condition. Being without the cohesive force of solid principle, they are having recourse to subterfuge and political strategy in order to gain and hold power. Against them, however, is arrayed an ardent and animated party, aggressive in its attitude and mustered under the Republican banner, which banner has a distinctive and well recognized meaning for good.

Swanton Chapter, Epworth League.

For the better convenience of the public this chapter will in future meet in the school house each Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

In making this announcement we cordially invite the presence and sincerely solicit the co-operation and sympathy of every denominational preference in the community. If countenanced and encouraged by an approving sentiment these meetings, in addition to religious and moral advancement, will afford an intellectual broadening and culture most salutary and desirable in the best localities.

The government of the society is liberal and, as a custom, its sessions are less than an hour's duration.

Come with us and help to make that hour a sermon and a blessing to the community we should protect.

WILLIAM W. SWEET,
President.

FERTILIZER.—Dixon & Kelso have a large lot corn, oats and potato fertilizer, the use of which will double your crops, to sell on easy terms. Give us a call and get prices. 2t*

THE JUNIOR ORDER.

The State Council Held Its Annual Meeting Here This Week.

Tuesday and yesterday Oakland had as her guests about two hundred members of the Junior Order United American Mechanics who came here from every portion of the State to meet in annual session. The representatives of the various lodges of the State are as fine looking body of men as one would desire to see. They were well behaved and acted decorously during their stay with us.

The sessions were held in the opera house with State Councilor Heller presiding. An address of welcome on Tuesday was delivered on the part of the citizens of Oakland by Cashier Scott T. Jones, and on behalf of the local lodge by Mr. Julius C. Renninger. Mr. A. S. Weaver responded.

The annual report of the State Treasurer showed the finances of the order to be in a healthy condition and that the membership on December 31, 1900, numbered 18,675.

Tuesday morning the State officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

State Councilor—L. C. Webster.
State Vice-Councilor—H.B.Geddes.
State Secretary—Charles S. Davis.
State Assistant Secretary—W. E. Harden.
State Treasurer—W. L. James.
State Conductor—William Hunter.
State Warden—C. H. Nelson.
State Inside Sentinel—Isaac Smith.
State Outside Sentinel—C.J.Young.
State Chaplain—J. H. Phelps.
National Representative — C. A. Rumpf.

The next State Council will be held at Annapolis in April, 1902.

Attorney Julius C. Renninger, who represented the local lodge last year and who secured the meeting this year for Oakland, has been highly praised for his services in bringing such a crowd to Oakland.

Mr. Dink Again Writes.

Vell, sur, Mr. Edickter, it vas putty shure some pepels vat git der Oagland bapers don'd neffer sea all you edickers. Annyhow each von of you gots von brinder's deffel, even ef you vas none yourself (I mean deffel.) Now, it vas funny ven anny dings go rong mit der babers. Your deffel don'd vas der fault, bud you vas git der difel. Dot don'd vas luk fare, do it? Vell, dere vas dree edickers by Oagland—von Jim, von Ben ant anoder Jim. Der von Jim vas a big Jim. He look like he vas git blendy ter ete ant trink; putty mans. His hind name Blitzinger and pelongs tu der Demkeratick bardys. He take up his kolleckshuns frum dot Demkeratick bardys ant he vas git bick, fat on dem kolleckshuns. He vas not so long, bud he vide oud, tick. Der Ben vas yust der oder vay. He not vide oud ant tick, bud long ve der dickens; putty man, tu, bud den he look down on shord pepels; you sea dot vas a faleing mit him, but he can't helup dat; he yas mene no harum by dot. He vas anty-unnecessaryexderseshun man; by fersuashun Rebublikan. Dakes up kollecshuns frum dem Rebublikans fellers. He vas fat, bud don'd luk like it. His hind name vas Sinisnell. Der oder Jim vas yust like der bick Jim ant der long Ben don'd vas. He vas liddle, short feller, ete dree meles a day yust like de odders, bud don'd git long nor dick; putty man, tu. By fersuasion his baper vas no bolidicks, only it lene a liddel von vay, bud not de odder. He vas luk up to long pepels unles he git on a sthore box or somding, den he luk down on you. Takes up kollecshuns frum der dependence bardy. His hind name vas Hemel. Each von vares a beerd on der ubber lip; der rest uf der fase vas bear. Dem dree fellers etes der yere round; in summer dime dey drinks ise vater, in vinter tater juse; shmoke fine sigars, run dere bisness by stheme ant natchral gas, sels dere bapers fur bout 2½ sents a pece by der yere. You bedder by some so you kin lurn rede ant ride ant sphell den der Gormanshmittz vas led you wote ant you find oud ven von sirkus kom by Oagland, you go to der show fur fifdy cend, you git von dicket ant sea der glown sthick his nose in his ere ant blow his hed off; den you go down town, git on a six-sent jerry dot vas gif you a bick hed ant a red-hot velcome ven you git home.

Benny, ven you don'd like it sthick in der vaste basket and sent id mit your deffel der ash barl in.

DINK.

Mechanism Rings the Bell.

The large engines which occasionally haul the passenger trains on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad are equipped with an ingenious automatic bell ringing device. It is operated by compressed air, and does the work well. On some occasions when the engines stop at the station the bell keeps on ringing. The mechanism which operates the swing of the bell is very small and hardly noticeable. Bystanders are often curious to know what the fireman means by keeping up such a noise, but when they come to find out he is not doing it.

WANTED.—A girl to do general housework. Apply at this office.

CONTRACT AWARDED.

One Block of Second Street Will Be Paved at Once.

Saturday night a special meeting of the town council was held at which time the contract for paving Second street from Alder to Green street was awarded to Contractor Kennedy, of Parkersburg, who did the paving here a year or two ago. The work will be commenced as soon as the curbing arrives from the quarry in Indiana, an order for the same having been telegraphed in on Saturday night and an answer returned stating that the stone would be shipped yet this week. As soon as it arrives Mr. Kennedy will begin the work of grading and setting the curbing.

Obituary.

Deliah Elizabeth, the beloved wife of Elijah Howell, died at her home near Beckman, Md., on March 31, aged 61 years and 3 months.

The deceased whose maiden name was Wilt, was born in this section in 1840 and lived with her parents until she was joined in the holy bonds of wedlock with her husband. The married life was one of domestic and they mutually shared each others joys and sorrows for 40 years. Mrs. Howell was a genuine type of a Maryland lady. Uniform courtesy marked her treatment of all with whom she came in contact, and her home was a place which both young and old loved to visit, for there was a bounteous Christian hospitality ever to be enjoyed. For many years her house has been a home for itinerent preachers and many who read these lines will feel the loss of one, who was indeed a mother of Israel, and the savor of such a life cannot be lost in its influence upon the home and the community.

She leaves a husband, two sons and seven daughters to mourn their loss. In her the poor had a friend who ever freely contributed to their wants and whose value to all was priceless above rubies. She opened her mouth in wisdom and her tongue was the law of kindness. She looked well to the work of her household, the heart of her husband trusted her and she done him good all the days of her life.

The funeral services took place at the M. E. church, from which place her body was laid to rest in the family graveyard to await the resurrection of the just, and now that she is gone, her children rise up and call her blessed. May they all be ready when their time comes and meet her on that evergreen shore where we will never say good bye. Farewell, for a while, dear mother.

A FRIEND.

Mexican View of a Baltimore Host.

From the Monterey News of far away Monterey, Mexico, comes the following about a well-known Baltimorean and Baltimore hostely, whose fame has extended thither:

"Maj. N. S. Hill, the manager of the Carrollton Hotel of Baltimore, Md., is putting that world-famous old house in superb shape and is making it deservedly popular.

"Major Hill is one of the few natural hotel men, who by their affable manners and consideration for their guests make them feel at home and that each is the guest of honor during his stay at the Carrollton.

"Baltimore is known all over the civilized world as the home of epicures. It is a city whose geographical position on the beautiful Chesapeake bay makes it the central market for those delicacies which have made it famous, and which delight the palate of the good liver. Nowhere can such fish, oysters and terrapin be found as those served in Baltimore and at the Carrollton.

"Major Hill is also the manager of the Merchants' Club of Baltimore, that ultra-select organization upon whose roster of membership are found names of men living and dead who are world famous, and the same excellent service and attention given to the members of the Merchants' Club are received by the guests of the Carrollton Hotel."

Nerve Food

If you have neuralg... Emulsion of Cod L... will feed the nerve... ing for food—it is ... and set your whole bo... again, in a way to satisfy ... and brain from your usual ... That is cure.

If you are nervous and ... table, you may only need ... fat to cushion your ne... you are probably thin ... Scott's Emulsion of Cod ... Oil will give you the fat to ... gin with.

Cure, so far as it goes. Full cure is getting the fat you need from usual food, and Scott's Emulsion will help you to that.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample. Its agreeable taste will surprise you.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists,
409 and 415 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

YOU CAN WORK

for the largest and strongest insurance company in the world

The Mutual Life Insurance Company

OF NEW YORK.

Assets over $325,000,000.00

Income in 1900 over $60,000,000.00

In 1900 The Mutual Life did upward of one third more business in Maryland than any other similar company.

No company anywhere writes such liberal policies. It has insurance for every requirment of business, individual or family protection, and of investment as well.

This great company wants a representative for Garrett County. A tempting contract to the right man. Experience desirable, but not necessary.

Address, with references,

W. H. WOOTTON, Manager.
300 Guardian Trust Building, Baltimore, Md.

NOTICE TO Tax Payers!

This is to notify the tax payers of Garrett county that the annual levy for 1901 has been made and published, and to call their attention to the following abstract, Section 45, Chapter 506, Acts of 1890, relating to the discount to be allowed and the interest to be charged on all tax bills:

"All county taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of September next succeeding the date of the levy thereof, and on all county taxes paid on or before the first day of September a discount of 3 per cent. shall be allowed, and after the first day of January all taxes shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum until paid. The Treasurer shall take the discount from and charge interest on the tax bills for county purposes regularly in the manner aforesaid and shall note the same upon his books and upon the receipt given for taxes so paid. But the discount shall not be allowed unless the whole amount of State and county taxes are paid when same is made.

WM. M. LOHR,
Treasurer.

MORTGAGEES' SALE

OF VALUABLE

REAL ESTATE

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage executed by Mary A. Kimmell and Samuel F. Kimmell, her husband, to James R. Bishop, bearing date the 8th day of September, 1899, and recorded among the mortgage records of Garrett county, and which said mortgage has been duly assigned to the undersigned, and as default has been made in the payment of the interest thereon, we will, on

Thursday, May 9, 1901,

at 3 o'clock p. m., at the front door of the court house in the town of Oakland, Maryland, offer at public auction and sell to the highest bidder the following described real estate, viz.: All that part of the

Isaac Kuykendall Place,

near Hutton, Garrett county, Maryland, which in the sub-division of said place is known and designated as Lot No. 7, containing more or less. Said place is mostly cleared, is improved by a good barn and small dwelling with necessary outbuildings, and also by a good orchard.

105 ACRES

TERMS OF SALE:—Cash on day of sale. Conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

U. G. PALMER.
FRED. A. THAYER.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE

—OF—

REAL ESTATE

In Garrett County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage from Jemima Mowrey to Isaac Bradburn, dated the 12th day of August, 1899, recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 35, folio 298, &c., one of the mortgage records of Garrett county, Maryland, default having been made in the payment of the mortgage debt and interest, the undersigned attorney named in said mortgage will, on Saturday, April 20th, 1901,

at one o'clock p. m., in front of Shartzer's Opera House, Oakland, Maryland, offer for sale at public auction, all that land situate in Garrett county, Maryland, which was conveyed to the said Jemima Mowrey by Charles M. Miller and wife by deed dated the 25th day of July, 1894, recorded among the land records of said county in Liber E. Z. T. No. 26, folio 319, &c., and therein described as follows, to-wit: Beginning at a large flat stone marked "R. O." at the beginning of a tract of land conveyed by Joseph R. Anderson to Alex. Lohr, and running part of the first line thereof with an allowance of 3 degrees for magnetic declination, North 33 degrees East 14¼ perches to a stake and stone pile in said first line, South 35 degrees East 38½ perches to a stake and stone pile on the west margin of the county road, North 89 degrees West 14½ perches, South 13½ degrees East 50 perches to a stake on the west bank of a stream and 5 feet south of a white pine stump, South 48 degrees West 38 perches to a stake, South 28½ degrees West 100 perches to a stake, thence with the 4th, 5th and 6th lines of a tract conveyed by Joseph R. Anderson to Alfred Lohr North 66 degrees West 78 perches to a stake, North 13¾ degrees West 82½ perches, North 35½ degrees East 45½ perches to a stake in the 4th line of said deed to said Alexander Lohr and thence with the 4th and last lines thereof South 58 degrees East 78 perches to a stake, North 33 degrees East 88 perches to the beginning, containing 100 Acres, More or Less.

This farm is a desirable one, located near Beckman P. O., Garrett county, and about six miles from Swanton.

Terms of Sale:—CASH.

D. LINDLEY SLOAN,
Attorney named in Mortgage.

WILLIAM R. OFFUTT,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
OFFICE UPSTAIRS IN RAVENSCROFT BUILD'G.

Loans negotiated and Collections promptly made.
Practices in Courts of Maryland, West Virginia and Court of Appeals of Maryland.

Sheriff's Sale

OF VALUABLE

REAL ESTATE

In Deer Park, Md.

Under and by virtue of a writ of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, at the suit of M. V. Pringley vs. Samuel W. Friend and F. C. Browning, the same being No. 6 Judicials to March term, 1901, of said Court, and to the undersigned sheriff directed, I will sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, in front of the Court House door, in Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, on the 19th Day of April, 1901,

FRIDAY,

at the hour of 11 o'clock a. m. of day, all that lot, piece or parcel of land situate, lying and being in the town of Deer Park, Garrett county, Maryland, which was conveyed to the said Samuel W. Friend by Lucy Perry by deed recorded in Liber E. Z. T. No. 38, folio 290, and is known as

LOT NO. 2

and contained within the following metes and bounds, courses and distances, to-wit: Beginning for the same at the end of the 3rd line of Lot No. 3 and running thence North 30 degrees East 118 feet, South 60½ degrees East 92 feet, South 30 degrees West 118 feet, North 60½ degrees West 90 feet to the beginning.

Terms of Sale:—Cash on the day of sale.

A. J. OESTER, Sheriff.

ORDER NISI.

Samuel Smith vs. John Shartzer et ux.

No. 1095 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered this 28th day of March, in the year nineteen hundred and one, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in Equity, that the sale made and reported in the above cause by James W. Thomas, attorney, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 29th day of April, 1901; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county once a week for three successive weeks before the 29th day of April, 1901.

The report states the amount of sale to be $7436.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

AUDITOR'S NOTICE.

Samuel Johnson et al. vs. Mollie Finzel et al.

No. 1079 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Notice is hereby given to the creditors of Charles F. Finzell, late of Garrett county, deceased, to file their claims, duly authenticated, with the Clerk of this Court on or before the 26th day of April, 1901, as I shall on that day proceed to state an audit distributing the funds in the hands of the trustee in said cause.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
Auditor.

ORDER NISI.

Elizabeth C. Thompson et al. vs. Emma D. Hudson et al.

No. 1090 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 26th day of March, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that the sale made and reported by Frederick A. Thayer, trustee, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the nineteenth day of April next; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county aforesaid once in each of three successive weeks before the 19th day of April next.

The report states the amount of sale to be $2,500.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Sheriff's License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to all persons or bodies, corporate or politic, who may be required to take out license, that they must obtain the same on or before

THE FIRST DAY OF MAY, 1901.

According to the provisions of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland every person or persons doing business for gain or profit except the maker, grower or manufacturer, are hereby notified that they must take out a license.

A. J. OESTER,
Sheriff of Garrett County.

EXECUTORS' NOTICE.

This is to give notice, That the Subscriber, of Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

ANNIE M. WARD,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 3rd day of October next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 21st day of March, 1901.

GEORGE W. WARD, Executor,
Sunnyside, Md.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

LOCAL AND OTHERWISE

Incidents and Events at Home and Nearby —Personal Mention, Etc.

Peter Didtion left on Tuesday night for his home in Wheeling.

E. W. C. Ryland, Esq., of Friendsville, was a business visitor to Oakland Tuesday.

Miss Gertrude Sincell returned home on Monday from Keyser, W. Va., where she had been visiting relatives and friends for a few days.

Miss Nell Offutt returned home from Keyser, W. Va., on Saturday night after having attended the Easter dance in that place which was given on Friday night previous.

Misses Mae and Clare Evy left on Saturday for Baltimore, where they will reside with their relatives, Attorney J. W. Breen and wife and take a course at Peabody. — Cumberland Times.

Mr. Harry A. Rasche, who the past show season held a position with Marston's Uncle Tom's Cabin Co., arrived home this morning from Pittsburg, where he had been visiting for the past two weeks.

Ed. Wolf, who lives in the eastern suburbs of town, while on his way home last Friday night was held up by four suspicious characters, who asked him many questions about Oakland. Two of the men carried empty satchels.

Many parents are neglecting their boys and the lads are going to the penitentiary as fast as they can leg it. Only a sudden round up will do them any good. If this is not tried very shortly there will be no use trying to do any thing as the boys will be clear out of reach.

It is suggested by a well known wag that if some men were muzzled after the style of canines in some places society would enjoy a well deserved respite. And he added that some men were as undesirable in a community as a dog with hydrophobia.

Figures just received at this office from the agricultural department would indicate that there is less grain in the hands of the farmers throughout the country than is usual at this time. The tables give the figures for ten years past. The prospect for good crops in this country and Europe and as far away as India are very good.

We are frank enough to admit, that the rainy day skirt, from the point of personal comfort, is the most sensible fad ever decreed by dame Fashion, but we must insist that those skirts are not becoming to the wearers, nor are they a thing of beauty, and we trust the attempt will not be made to make them a joy forever.

Dr. Henry W. McComas, after an absence of more than a month's trip through the South and a visit to the Bahama Islands, returned to Oakland on Monday to remain during the summer with perhaps short intervals of absence on professional business to the east. The Doctor will at once resume his practice here which is of itself very large, keeping him busy almost night and day.

All successful business men agree that good advertising pays. Good advertising means interesting announcements placed in newspapers which are read by a large proportion of the people. Probably most experienced advertisers would say that to make the merits of a single commodity the feature of an "ad" is the most direct and effective way of getting people's attention fixed on an establishment.

Frank Browning, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Notley Browning of Terra Alta, was united in marriage yesterday (Wednesday) at Oakland, Md., to Miss Lucy Coddington, a charming and popular young lady of that place. The bridal pair came to Terra Alta on the evening train and were royally entertained at the home of the groom. They will reside near Terra Alta, on the pretty farm lately owned by David Holland, which is a wedding present from the groom's father.—Terra Alta corr. Kingwood Journal.

Clarksburg seems to be having troubles of her own. The last issue of the Telegram breaks forth as follows: Thieves, thugs, cheap gamblers, flim-flammers and short-changers may well take heed and cease plying their art in this city. The jury verdict in the Dan Scott case, which imposed the maximum fine as well as the maximum term of imprisonment is a significent index to the severity and determination of the future. The people propose to redeem the fair name of Clarksburg and the professionals who do not wish to run up against a hard proposition will do well to give this place a wide berth.

Mr. Will Wood, of Keyser, W. Va., was an Oakland visitor on Sunday.

Judge Jere Wilson passed through Oakland this morning on train No. 3 for the West.

E. J. Fringer has rented the Hamill property on Second street and will occupy it on May 1st.

Dr. H. W. McComas received a valuable horse on Sunday afternoon from Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Boyer and children left on Monday afternoon for Fairmont, their future home, where they will occupy a new house.

J. S. Myers came up to Oakland from his home at Friendsville Monday afternoon and remained here a day or two visiting friends.

Jerry Browning, Owen Treacy and George Helbig went east last Wednesday night, visiting Baltimore, Washington and Philadelphia.

Mr. W. D. Cornell, of Pittsburg, representing the C., B. & Q. R. R., was in Oakland yesterday afternoon looking up passenger traffic for his road.

State Senator Ravenscroft arrived in Oakland this morning from the east and after spending a few hours in town on business, left for his home at Accident.

Messrs. Frank Jenkins and B. C. Feather, of near Cranesville, were business visitors to Oakland Monday. The former expects to return to Oakland this week to engage in erecting some mason work for Chas. Newman, who is building a new home south of town.

Messrs. Walter and William Ravenscraft, sons of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Ravenscraft, visited their parents here on Monday. The former resides at Ridgway, Pa., where he is employed in the brick business as superintendent. The younger son William is among the progressive business men of Fairmont, W. Va.

A little son of James A. Enlow at the Park has a number of pigeons, among them a matronly inclined bird which wanted to raise a family and finding no eggs of her own to set on chose a hen's egg with the result that a few days ago a chick was hatched which the pigeon watches over with jealous care.

Ex-County Treasurer Thomas B. Wiley brought to Oakland on Monday a wagon load of maple sugar and syrup, the output of the last run in his camp. The quality of the sugar cannot be excelled. The crop this year was up to the average. Last week was a busy one with the sugar producers.

H. M. Speicher, of Speicher Bros., Accident, spent the past week in Connellsville, Uniontown, Pittsburg and other cities on business. The firm will add to their already large stock a full line of ladies' and gents' furnishing goods, a full line of ready-made suits, all up-to-date. They invite the public to give them a call and examine goods before buying elsewhere.

Captain and Mrs. D. T. E. Casteel reached Morgantown on Monday evening from Pittsburg where they had been since Saturday. The Captain is looking remarkably well and has been warmly greeted by his many friends and acquaintences in this place. His regiment was mustered out at Frisco last week and he lost no time coming east. He has been away nearly two years and in that time has seen some of the hardest service experienced by any officer that went from this State.—New Dominion.

Quite a jolly crowd of young people from Oakland went to Keyser Friday night on the "flyer" to attend the Easter dance given by the Mill Meadow Club of that town. A most enjoyable time was had by all who went many of whom returned home on No. 7, Saturday morning. Those in attendance from here were Misses Jennie Johnson, Wonn Robinson, Lena Fuller, of Cumberland, who is visiting Miss Robinson, Margaret and Gertrude Sincell and Nell Offutt, Messrs. W. A. Sturgiss, Will Weber, Art White, Elwood Offutt, J. T. Sincell, Eugene Hart and Bowie Johnson.

We publish on the first page of to-day's REPUBLICAN the remainder of the new election law. Considerable space has been given it but we are of the opinion that it is space well spent. This, in addition to the levy list published to-day gives but little space for news matter and in consequence some items have been pared down to the lowest notch. We had intended to give a somewhat lengthy notice of the meeting of the State Council Jr. O. U. A. M. which met here Tuesday and yesterday but find that space will not even permit that, and we will have to be satisfied with what we can crowd in.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

Purchases the Central Hotel Property and Will Erect a Handsome Banking Building.

On Monday a deal was closed between the owner and the officials of the First National Bank whereby the valuable property at the intersection of Second and Alder streets, known as the Central Hotel property, and recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Boyer, becomes the property of the bank, the price paid being $3,800 cash.

The lot fronts 69 feet on Alder street and 63 feet on Second street with a stable lot in the rear which is reached by a passage way between the properties of J. M. Jarboe and J. M. Davis.

The building upon the lot at present will be allowed to remain for some time at least before it is torn down to make room for the proposed new building which will be of brick, three stories high and finished in a modern manner. The new building will contain a nicely appointed banking, room, with vaults and probably safety deposit boxes, besides a directors' room. The balance will be utilized either for office or store rooms or for hotel purposes, probably the latter. At the next meeting of the directors of the bank next month, it will be decided what manner of building will be erected, when and what the cost will be.

Atty. F. T. Martin and family expect to leave for their summer home at Mountain Lake Park next Saturday. Mrs. Martin's mother, Mrs. Mary Sinnott, who has been visiting in Baltimore for several weeks past, returned here a few days ago and will accompany the family to the Park and spend the summer with them.—Fairmont Index.

We should all become interested in improving the appearance of our town, especially the yards and grounds surrounding the residences, public buildings and the streets. More trees, flowers, shrubbery, etc., and fewer tin cans, sticks and stones would add to the beauty of the town and enhance the value of real estate. More trees along the streets would make them more pleasant and attractive. Flowers planted in the yards and vines trained over lattices would help the appearance of things about the home. All this adornment is inexpensive considering the pleasure and profit it would surely produce. Now is the time to begin improving.

House cleaning time has come and the masculine population is having its annual feeling of discomfort. Every April the average housewife of both high and low degree seems to think it incumbent upon her to rip up all the carpets, scrub the bare floors till the wood becomes so damp that it rots; takes down all the windows, puts the curtains on stretchers, paint the woodwork, pull apart the stove, and do various other things so that for a month the combined smells of soap, paint, varnish and the general dampness make the average house scarcely habitable. At least that is the masculine view of it. So far as their eyes are concerned they would be content to let the carpets stay down till they wear out and the stovepipe linger in position till it rusts.

Anti-Saloon Sunday.

Next Sunday, April 21st, Rev. S. E. Nicholson, of Baltimore, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, will be in Oakland in the interests of the Anti-Saloon League cause. He will speak at the M. E. church in the morning, at the Presbyterian church in the afternoon, which will be a union mass temperance service, and at the Lutheran church at night.

The League movement is now established in 35 states and is purely non-partisan and inter-denominational. This is its first introduction into Garrett county.

Mr. Nicholson is a former member of the Indiana Legislature and is the author of the Nickolson temperance law. He is also Secretary of the National Anti-Saloon League.

The following press notices have been given of his work.

The address delivered by Mr. Nicholson, on the subject "Christian Citizenship," was an elaborate, forcible and patriotic appeal for a more earnest effort of the American people along the line of social reform. In eloquent language the speaker enlarged mainly upon the relations between legislative and educational methods of social reform. * * * The discourse as a whole was founded on the great principles of Christian ethics, as well as strong personal conviction and extensive experience in the work of reform.—Valparaiso Messenger.

The discourse was earnest, eloquent and strong. It was truly patriotic, for if the country could rise to the citizenship the distinguished speaker advocated, we would reach a much higher moral standard than now. All present were greatly pleased with the discourse.—New Albany Tribune.

Proposed Amendment.

An important constitutional amendment is to be voted upon at the fall election in Maryland. This amendment proposes to increase the legislative districts of Baltimore from three to four, thus giving the city four senators and twenty-four members of the House. The present representation s three senators and 18 delegates.

LEVY LIST, 1901.

Annual Levy for Garrett County, Maryland, levied on the 11th day of April, 1901, by the Board of County Commissioners for Garrett County, Maryland.

GENERAL ROAD LEVY.

Election District No. 1, Swanton	$ 650 00
" " No. 2, Selbysport	1,250 00
" " No. 3, Grantsville	650 00
" " No. 4, Bloomington	550 00
" " No. 5, Accident	850 00
" " No. 6, Sang Run	685 00
" " No. 7, Oakland	1,110 00
" " No. 8, Ryan's Glade	1,040 00
" " No. 9, Johnson's	300 00
" " No. 10, Deer Park	600 00
" " No. 11, Elbow	500 00
" " No. 12, Bittinger	550 00
National Road	600 00
Total	$ 9,335 00

CORPORATIONS.

Mayor and Council of Oakland	$ 600 00
" " " " Deer Park	100 00
Commissioners of Grantsville	80 00
Mountain Lake Park Community	200 00
Mayor and Council of Loch Lynn Heights	50 00
Total	$ 1,030 00

PUBLIC SCHOOL BONDS.

For redemption of bonds	$ 1,000 00
For interest on bonds	60 00

CLERK OF CIRCUIT COURT.

E. Z. Tower, use Garrett County Bank	$ 150 00
Same, use C. W. Friend	500 00
Same, balance	764 94
Total	$ 1,514 94

COURT FUND.

Estimate to pay court expenses for July, September and December, 1901, and March term, 1902	$ 3,605 50

ORPHANS' COURT.

Estimate to pay judges	$ 518 40
James W. White, register	84 25
Total	$ 602 65

SHERIFF'S OFFICE.

A. J. Oester, sheriff, use Garrett Co. Bank	$ 300 00
Same, balance	1,577 20
S. O. Wiley, warden to jail, use Garrett County Bank	50 00
Same, balance	315 00
Total	$ 2,242 20

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

To the Public School Commissioners, for support of schools	$12,000 00
To build new school houses	2,000 00
Total	$14,000 00

PUBLIC PRINTING AND PUBLISHING.

James D. Hamill, publishing, use Garrett County Bank	$ 100 00
Same, balance, use Garrett County Bank	65 00
Benj. H. Sincell, publishing, use Garrett County Bank	300 00
Same, publishing, use First National Bank	300 00
Same, balance, use Garret Co. Bank	250 00
Same, printing, use " "	75 00
Total	$1,090 00

ELECTION EXPENSES.

C. E. Ellithorp, supervisor's salary	$ 100 00
A. G. Sturgiss, supervisor's salary, scrubbing office and postage	103 00
Frank Welch, supervisor's salary, use Garrett County Bank	100 00
E. Jamison, clerk, use Garrett County Bank	50 00
E. L. Mitchell, attorney	50 00
F. C. Ries, supervisor, 1896 expenses, use J. E. Gnagey	25 25
Same, supervisor, 1897, expenses, use J. E. Gnagey	30 85
Estimate to pay rent for supervisor's office, subject to order	96 00
J. M. Litzinger, publishing and printing, use First National Bank	584 45
Benj. H. Sincell, publishing, use Garrett County Bank	386 50

District No. 1.

J. L. McRoble, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	36 30
J. B. Friend, judge and register	38 70
John Ashenfelter, judge, use First National Bank	5 40
John L. Fitzwater, judge	4 50
Wade H. Lour, clerk	4 50
Joseph F. Friend, clerk	4 50

District No. 2.

Amos M. Umbel, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	48 40
Wm. W. Savage, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	48 11
Brison Welch, judge	5 10
A. M. Chisholm, judge	4 50
E. C. W. Ryland, clerk	4 50
G. W. Sterling, clerk	4 50

District No. 3.

James H. Bevans, judge and register, use Bradford Blocher	39 20
Christian C. Durst, judge and register, use Bradford Blocher	38 70
Sylvester H. Ryland, judge	4 90
Mahlon Miller, judge	4 90
John Custer, clerk	6 00
Gideon J. Gnagey, clerk	6 00
Mrs. E. O'Hanley, rent	10 00

District No. 4.

Fred O. Michaels, judge and register	40 20
Henry Barnard, judge and register, use D. E. Offutt & Sons	44 45
Peter Fitzwilliams, judge	4 65
Joseph Tibbetts, judge	4 65
Lawrence Garvey, clerk	4 65
Cookman Howard, clerk	4 65
Mary A. Clary, rent	10 00

District No. 5.

Martin H. Hoffman, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	35 53
Asa B. Friend, judge and register, use Bradford Blocher	32 70
Jacob E. Bowser, judge	4 50
Solomon Glass, judge	4 50
R. C. Resh, clerk	5 90
Delphy Glass, clerk	4 50
Susan Englehart, rent	10 00

District No. 6.

Nathan C. Browning, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	43 00
Samuel R. Savage, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	41 75
Joel J. Bender, judge	5 10
Thomas J. Lowdermilk, judge	5 10
Wm. A. DeWitt, clerk	5 10
Hamill Casteel, clerk, use Garrett County Bank	4 80

District No. 7.

S. H. Ralston, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	32 40
F. P. Arnold, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	27 00
Same, balance	3 00
Wm. Broderick, judge, use Bradford Blocher	4 50
W. S. Lantz, judge, use G. M. Mason	4 50
John W. Maroney, clerk	4 50
P. T. Lipscomb, clerk	4 50
A. S. Teats, rent	10 00

District No. 8.

James W. Mason, judge and register	27 30
Geo. D. Stahl, judge and register, use First National Bank	33 46
Samuel F. Miller, judge	4 90
Joseph Conneway, judge	4 80
John A. Hughes, clerk	4 80
Davis N. Murphy, rent	15 00

District No. 9.

Michael Cunningham, judge and register, use Bradford Blocher	44 70
Bradford Blocher, judge and register	45 48
A. J. Moore, judge	5 10
William Finzel, judge	5 45
Patrick Hoye, clerk	4 80
J. Richard McKinzie, clerk	4 80

District No. 10.

Michael J. Garrett, judge and register	29 70
Wm. M. Junkins, judge and register, use First National Bank	27 30
Joseph Lashorn, judge, use First National Bank	4 20
James L. Harvey, judge	4 20
Chas. M. Wilson, clerk	4 20
Wm. B. Miller, clerk, use Benj. H. Sincell	4 20

District No. 11.

Walter Warnick, judge and register	40 80
Same, rent	10 00
Daniel S. Wampler, judge and register	31 50
Albin Fazenbaker, judge	5 40
George Beeman, judge	5 40
John A. Merrill, substitute judge	12 00
J. T. Poland, clerk	5 10
Hugh McMillan, clerk	5 40

District No. 12.

Peter Opel, judge and register	37 20
Samuel D. Brenneman, judge and register	36 30
Elias Orendorf, judge	4 80
Simon Resh, judge	4 50
Perry Broadwater, clerk	4 50
Jacob Brenneman, clerk, use C. E. Ellithorp	4 50
John Conn, rent, use C. E. Ellithorp	10 00

District No. 13.

L. C. Hamill, judge and register, use First National Bank	30 00
W. S. Pew, judge and register	24 60
W. H. Pool, judge	3 60
James H. Wilson, judge	3 60
C. H. Pool, clerk	3 60
Geo. W. Kitzmiller, clerk	3 60
P. A. Schultz, rent	10 00

District No. 14.

Wade H. Hinebaugh, judge and register	32 40
R. C. Townshend, judge and register	38 00
John F. White, judge, use D. E. Offutt & Sons	3 20
John A. Sowers, judge	5 30
J. O. Browning, clerk, use First National Bank	5 30
Samuel Lawton, clerk	5 30
Della Parker, for scrubbing office, use S. L. Townshend & Son	2 00
Total	$ 2,920 08

NEW ROADS.

Road Case No. 147.

John Harned, surveyor and examiner	10 00
John T. Bowers, examiner	2 00
R. G. White, examiner	2 00
W. W. Welling, chainman	1 50
C. P. Martin, chainman	1 50
Joseph T. McKee, damages	1 00
Mt. Lake Park Association, damages	1 00

Road Case No. 148.

Thomas B. Welch, examiner	2 00
James Guard, examiner	2 00
John Stuck, examiner	2 00
Norval Speelman, surveyor	10 00
Albert Guard, flagman	1 50

Road Case No. 149.

Franklin P. Green, examiner and surveyor	14 00
Henry Barnard, examiner	4 00
W. O. Titchnell, examiner	4 00
James Titchnell, flagman	1 50
Otho Barnard, chainman	1 50
P. R. Titchnell, chainman	1 50
Martin L. Titchnell, axman	1 50
Davis Coal & Coke Co., damages	1 00
Empire Coal & Iron Co., damages	1 00
P. R. Titchnell, damages	50

Road Case No. 150.

James L. Harvey, examiner	4 00
P. T. Lipscomb, examiner	4 00
James Lish, examiner	4 00
John T. Harvey, chainman	1 50
James W. Wilson, chainman	1 50
Geo. W. Moon, flagman	1 50
Edwin L. Mitchell, surveyor	8 00
John P. Hubbard, damages	4 00
Geo. W. Moon, damages	1 00

Road Case No. 151.

Alexander C. Mason, surveyor	8 00
Wm. J. Wilson, damages	175 50
Louis Nydegger, damages	50
J. M. White, damages	50
Total	$ 278 00

BRIDGE ACCOUNT.

Estimate to build same	$1,000 00

SPECIAL ROAD APPROPRIATIONS.

Road Case No. 147, subject to order	$50 00
Road Case No. 149, Martin L. Tichnell, use Garrett County Bank	100 00
Potter road, subject to order	25 00
Road Case No. 150, subject to order	150 00
Road Case No. 148, subject to order	20 00
Road Case No. 151, subject to order	300 00
Watson & Co., work on road near J. Paugh's	33 13
Walter Warnick, work on road 141	363 60
Road Case No. 137, subject to order	100 00
Elder Hill road, subject to order	25 00
Road from Garey's gate to Hiram Humberson's house, subject to order	30 00
James L. Harvey, subject to order	10 00
Gordon road, subject to order	20 00
Roads in Friendsville, subject to order	100 00
U. S. Frazee, subject to order	15 00
Road from railroad to Andrew Friend's	40 00
August Bernard, subject to order	15 00
District No. 7	100 00
Frank Ashby, subject to order	20 00
District No. 3	250 00
Baker road	15 00
New road from river to Folly run road	10 00
New road from Savage river to Jos. Warnick's, subject to order	50 00
Pea ridge road, subject to order	30 00
Bear creek road (left fork) subject to order	25 00
Road from Folly run to Jos. Paugh's, subject to order	15 00
J. W. Harvey, subject to order	15 00
Christopher Koch, subject to order	15 00
James H. Wilson, subject to order	10 00
James Lish, subject to order	10 00
J. B. Friend, subject to order	10 00
Jos. Gloffelty, subject to order	10 00
	$1,921 73

MISCELLANEOUS ACCOUNT.

Dr. W. H. Ravenscraft, health officer, use Garrett County Bank	$100 00
Same, expenses to Bloomington	5 00
Same, physician to jail	100 00
W. L. Shaffer, services rendered Anna M. Gray, use Garrett County Bank	20 00
Thos. Harne, hauling, &c	3 75
Edward Parker, estimate to clean water closets at jail, sub. to order	100 00
Dixon & Kelso, goods furnished jail	11 85
The Oakland Electric Co., light	86 90
D. E. Offutt & Sons, electric lamps	5 25
A. G. Sturgiss, stationery and medicine for paupers	125 05
Paul & Falconer Co., blank books, &c	40 10
Wm. F. Murphy Sons Co., blank books	29 50
A. D. Naylor & Co., repairs at jail, &c	11 70
A. D. Naylor, repairs at jail and road machine	34 90
Geo. O. Miller, lumber, &c., for jail	6 09
J. H. Mediary & Co., blank books and stationery	90 65
J. M. Davis & Son, supplies furnished jail and court house	21 03
G. A. Shirer, repairs for stoves	3 75
Garrett County Telephone Co., use of line	10 00
Andrew J. Harne, digging pauper graves	8 50
Jos. E. Harned, medicine for paupers	33 90
M. W. Pendergast, expenses to Pa. to identify prisoners	13 60
Dr. H. W. McComas, pauper patients in hospital	230 00
John Scally, repairs at jail	1 75
D. E. Bolden, repairs at court house and coffins for paupers	92 50
S. L. Townshend & Son, supplies, &c., for jail	88 14
W. D. Collier, boarding prisoners	6 00
Geo. Geissman, coal for court house and jail	201 35
Dr. W. H. Ravenscraft, vital statistic returns	45 00
Total	$1,496 84

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE.

Estimate for County Commissioners	$800 00
A. G. Ross, clerk, balance	400 00
E. H. Sincell, attorney, use First National Bank	150 00
Wm. H. Walker, janitor, subject to order	200 00
Total	$1,550 00

ATTORNEYS' FEES.

F. A. Thayer, State's attorney	$828 86
Thomas J. Peddicord, 1 felony and 5 misdemeanors	26 66
Julius C. Renninger, 1 felony	10 00
Gilmor S. Hamill, ½ felony and 1 misdemeanor	8 33
Edward H. Sincell, 1½ felony	15 00
Total	$888 85

TAXES IN ERROR.

W. C. Jones	$3 67
L. A. Rudisill	1 95
W. W. Broadwater	3 04
Total	$8 66

FOX AND CAT CERTIFICATES.

Estimate to pay same	$350 00

CONSTABLE FEES.

J. W. Schrover, district No. 5, use Garrett County Bank	$1 50
C. H. Liston, district No. 2, use First National Bank	6 40
Doyle Burton (special) district No. 8, use Benj. H. Sincell	2 50
James Chisholm, district No. 8	29 00
Levi Echard, district No. 7	55 45
Samuel Peck, district No. 6	2 88
Jos. Glass, district No. 1	20 65
Geo. Geissman, district No. 14	6 90
Total	$125 28

MAGISTRATE FEES.

A. S. Teats, district No. 7	$11 85
Edward J. Hamill, district No. 13	4 60
Andrew B. Gonder, district No. 14	117 90
Peter Nathan, district No. 3	7 10
D. W. Fraker, district No. 6	2 80
Total	$144 25

OUTSIDE PENSIONERS.

Aaron Pritts, services rendered Hannah Spiker	$15 00
Jacob Beman, support Elizabeth Spiker, subject to order	25 00
Jacob Peck, support Theo. Simon, subject to order	25 00
Josephus Ferguson, support Catharine Strawser, subject to order	25 00
W. C. Jones, support Woods child, subject to order	25 00
Harry Leathan, support Wm. Bittinger, subject to order	25 00
Samuel Meese, support Henry Meese, subject to order	50 00
Caroline Frazee, support Ruth King, subject to order	85 00
Calvin H. Glotfelty, support Ester Glotfelty, subject to order	50 00
Amanda Moore, support of her helpless child, subject to order	12 00
George A. Bittinger, support Mary Durst, subject to order	40 00
Mariah Wabel, support of herself, subject to order	50 00
Estimate to pay same	200 00
Total	$827 00

ALMSHOUSE AND ASYLUM FUND.

Estimate for 1901	$1,200 00

MARYLAND HOSPITAL.

Estimate for 1901	$600 00

CORONERS' INQUESTS.

Body of W. A. Daily.

John T. Browning, juror	$1 00
John Shartzer, juror	1 00
Austin Brown, juror	1 00
John G. Robinson, juror	1 00
John T. Sincell, juror	1 00
E. J. Fringer, juror	1 00
Geo. D. White, juror	1 00
J. O. Browning, juror	1 00
Chas. S. Davis, juror	1 00
Samuel Lawton, juror	1 00
John F. White, juror	1 00
John W. Hart, juror	1 00
Dr. W. H. Ravenscraft	10 00

Body of unknown infant found in Yough river.

Austin Brown, juror	1 00
Samuel Lawton, juror	1 00
R. A. Orcutt, juror	1 00
J. O. Michaels, juror	1 00
Geo. D. White, juror	1 00
John Scally, juror	1 00
W. D. Dixon, juror	1 00
John T. Sincell, juror	1 00
Joseph P. Helbig, juror	1 00
Wm. Whorton, juror	1 00
James O. Cleveland, juror	1 00
Joseph M. Crim, juror	1 00
Jake Morrison, witness	33
Dr. M. C. Hinebaugh	5 00
Dr. J. E. Legge	5 00
Total	$44 33
Estimate to pay State witnesses before Justices of the Peace	$150 00

COUNTY TREASURER'S OFFICE.

Wm. M. Lohr, commission on State tax	$256 20
Same, commission on county tax	1,041 75
Same, 110 assessments	55 00
Total	$1,352 95
Contingent fund	$2,959 45

RECAPITULATION.

General Road Levy	$9,335 00
Corporations	1,030 00
Public School Bonds	1,060 00
Clerk of Circuit Court	1,514 94
Court Fund	3,605 50
Orphans' Court	602 65
Sheriff's Office	2,242 20
Public Schools	14,000 00
Public Printing and Publishing	1,090 00
Election Expenses	2,928 08
New Roads	278 00
Bridge Account	1,000 00
Special Road Appropriations	1,921 73
Miscellaneous Account	1,496 84
Commissioners' Office	1,550 00
Attorneys' Fees	888 85
Taxes in Error	8 66
Fox and Cat Certificates	350 00
Constable Fees	125 28
Magistrate Fees	144 25
Outside Pensioners	627 00
Almshouse and Asylum Fund	1,200 00
Maryland Hospital	600 00
Coroners' Inquests	44 33
Estimate to pay State Witnesses	150 00
County Treasurers' Office	1,352 95
Contingent Fund	2,959 45
Total	$52,087 71

To pay this amount it was ascertained that the taxable property as shown by the assessment books amounts to $7,234,405, which at 72 cents on the $100, will make the above amount for county purposes—$52,087.71. Deducting $287,390.00 for corporations paying direct to State treasurer, leaves the basis $6,947,206, at 17 cents on each $100 makes $11,810.25, and this added makes the taxes for State and county purposes $63,897.96.

A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

APPEAL SESSION.

The tax payers of Oakland will take notice that the Town Council will sit at the Council Chamber in said town on

MONDAY, APRIL 22, 1901,

from two to four p. m. and from seven to nine o'clock p. m., for the purpose of hearing appeals and making transfers upon the assessment books of said town.

By order of the Council.

5-24 J. C. DUNHAM, Clerk.

Illinois Central R. R.

PERSONALLY CONDUCTED EXCURSIONS TO

CALIFORNIA
VIA NEW ORLEANS
AND THE SOUTHERN ROUTE.

VIA OMAHA
AND THE SCENIC ROUTE
NEW THROUGH LINE OF
HOT SPRINGS, ARK.
BY WAY OF MEMPHIS.

E. A. RICHTER, T. P. A.
812 Park Building, Pittsburg, Pa.
A. H. HANSON, Gen. Pass. Agt., CHICAGO.

Real Estate NOTICES!

For Rent--

House on Water Street, Oakland.
The Whitehead Cottage, Mt. Lake Park.
Thorn Cottage, near Oakland.
Offices in Ravenscroft Building, Oakland.

For Sale--

Three Houses in Oakland.
Thorn Cottage, near Oakland.
Lots at Loch Lynn Heights.
Hotel Property, Deer Park.
Farms in the County.

Apply to

JULIUS C. RENNINGER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
1 3t OAKLAND, MD.

Stops the Cough and Works off the Cold.
Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 5 cents.

THE REPUBLICAN.

BENJ. H. SINCELL. Publisher.

OAKLAND, : GARRETT CO., MD.

GRANDMA'S GARDEN.

Far from the city's stir and strife,
Back from the dusty street,
There hides a garden, wherein bloom
Flowers, old-fashioned and sweet.
Ah, when the weary day is done,
How well my glad feet know
The little, winding path that leads
Where grandma's treasures grow.

O dear, old garden! I forget
The world and all its care;
Your warm, sweet silence seems to breathe
Of incense and of prayer.
The world may buffet as it will—
What care I for its blows?
I know where heart's ease, dewy sweet,
In grandma's garden grows!

But, little garden, though you smile
In all your tender grace,
The fairest blossom that you know
Is grandma's dear old face.
The peace of God is on her brow,
And in her tender eyes
There shines the light that broods upon
The hills of Paradise!
—Florence A. Jones, in Chicago Advance.

The Third Generation

By Guy Arthur Jameson.

(Copyright, 1901, by Authors Syndicate.)

COL. IKE MORRIS walked restlessly back and forth the length of the plank sidewalk. The group of men in front of Wolverton's drug store watched him in silence. Suddenly he turned, where the last sun-blistered plank curled up menacingly, and said: "I've killed two men, and came clear, an' I'll come clear this time. No—"

He stopped abruptly. A slender woman in black, a baby in her arms, slipped out of the door and moved across the sandy square toward the courthouse. She was the widow of the colonel's last victim.

The colonel didn't finish his remark, to the disappointment of his friends, but turned quickly and moved down the street to Bradshaw's ranch supply store. At any other time he would have gone straight to the Cattle King saloon, but it was another of his late eccentricities to avoid that popular resort. This last affair, it seemed, had had a sobering effect on him.

Montague county district court had been in session three days, and the case, State vs. Morris, was drawing to a close. It was the only murder case for the term; this fact, and the prominence of the colonel, had drawn the men from the farms and ranches. They thronged the courthouse eager to hear the details of the murder, and the defense Morris would make for shooting Dave Blevin.

There had been little to hear. Morris made a plea of self-defense, but, as no one had witnessed the tragedy, there was no corroboration. A gun had been found by the side of the dead man, but his widow testified that it was his habit to carry his gun with him when working in the woods. The neighbors could give but meager information concerning the deceased. Like the other of the colonel's victims, he was unknown till his tragic death put his name on every tongue. It was learned from his widow, during the trial, that he had not been in the county long. He had bought a little farm in the Cross Timbers, and the drought cutting short his crop he had gone to work on Morris' ranch that he might be able to meet the fall payment. When Mrs. Blevin, in her simple way, had finished telling of his struggle to get a home, and the "hard luck" he had had, many listeners were touched with pity, and a sentiment sprang up against his slayer.

At last the case was closed. The judge began to read his instructions to the jury. A silence fell on the room.

The next case was called and the jury filed out. It was out all that afternoon, that night, and to the middle of the next afternoon. Then a "hung jury" was announced. Col. Morris stared at the 12 men in astonishment. A Montague county jury had questioned his word. It was an insult that would be adequately met. He rose and left the room. A crowd flocked about him on the square. He invited them to join him at the Cattle King. He was himself again. By night pandemonium reigned in the saloon and overflowed into the street. Morris and his staggering, yelling, shooting satellites mounted their horses, dashed through the sleeping village, and galloped on to the prairie.

Mrs. Blevin hitched the pony, now weary with the enforced idleness, to the cart and started home. The emotions in her bosom were too confused for analysis. Perhaps the most predominant were the consciousness of a great loneliness that seemed to envelop her, a dread of the future, and a bitter resentment against fate.

"Howdy do, Miz Blevin." The man who spoke had been attending the trial and recognized her. "You're not goin' ter try ter go home ter-night?" Well, now, ye'll not do anything uv the kind. Ye must be most fagged out nursin' the baby an'—an' the heat so aggervatin' last few days." He did not wish to refer to the trial.

"It's only a mile er so outen yer way, an' my wife'll be glad ter see you. Didn't know whar ye lived till—lately. Let me rest you uv the baby," he said, leaning over and taking it from her arms.

The unexpected kindness came like a shock. With a great sob she bowed her head in her hands. The man turned away his face and "booed" at the baby.

Early the next morning she told her new friends good-by and started home. The pony was jogging along across a stretch of reddening sedge, when he stopped suddenly, pricked up his ears and snorted. Mrs. Blevin looked ahead. Across the road lay the body of a man; his head was hid in the grass. She stopped. Perhaps he had fallen from his horse and was seriously hurt. She would see. Spreading the lap-robe on the grass for the baby, she walked nearer and peered over into his face. She stepped back, her heart beating violently. It was her husband's slayer. For some moments she stood motionless, gazing down at him. She was undergoing a struggle. The road was merely a settlement by-path, and it might be days, weeks, before any one would pass. If she left him he would likely die of his wounds, of starvation, or be torn to pieces by the coyotes—her husband would be revenged. Could she help the man back to life who had murdered her husband—perhaps to make a widow of some other wife? Had he not boasted of killing two men? She glanced around; No one would ever know. How easy to drag him farther in the grass, where his groans would not reach the road, and leave him. She could do that. Could she? Could she? A voice seemed to thunder in her ear: "Thou shalt not murder," and it would be murder. "O God, help me!" she cried. "He killed my husband—the father of my child!" She looked to where the baby cooed and waved its hands in the sunshine. The picture seemed to soften her, made the struggle easier.

She walked to the colonel and, bending over, called his name softly. The answer was a groan. She now saw that his clothes were stained with blood. She moved his head gently. He was unconscious, and it was plain, even to her inexperienced eye, that he was dangerously hurt. Every feeling of revenge left her, and there took its place a fear that he might die before she could get help. She slipped her arm underneath him; his limp body felt like lead, but her strength surprised her. She lifted him toward the cart. She grew faint, her arms failed, he slipped to the ground with a moan. "How awful," she thought, wringing her hands in desperation. Again she clasped her arms about him, strained under the weight until every muscle in her body seemed on the point of snapping—he tumbled into the cart. "Thank heaven!" she cried in relief, drawing a deep breath as she looked down at her stained dress. His head had rolled against her face, and she felt the blood trickling down her cheek.

Slowly they crept across the prairie. The weight of the baby grew heavier every step; she changed it from arm to arm.

But, thank God, it was over now. The colonel lay on some quilts in the cool, breathing easier. She sprang in the cart and started to his ranch, seven miles' distance. At last she reached it, delivered her message, and sank exhausted to the ground. But how glad she was, an hour later, as she lay with her baby at her breast, the cool breeze from the prairie enwrapping her. A great calm stole into her bosom, and she felt that her husband would approve, could he know.

IT WAS HER HUSBAND'S SLAYER.

That evening the ranch "boss" drove her home.

They found the colonel sleeping soundly, propped up in her husband's bed. The doctor told her that he had regained consciousness, but that there was no hope. He knew everything, and had sent for his lawyer.

The next morning Mrs. Blevin sat watching at the bedside.

"You must be an angel, Mrs. Blevin, to have been so kind to me," he said, finally.

"I'm glad I helped you," she said.

"I've been a very wicked man—"

"The doctor might not want you to talk," she interrupted.

"But I want you to know," he insisted. "My life might have been different—but for a woman. The only one I ever loved—the one who promised to be my wife—married a 'home-guard' when I was away in the war. Then I became reckless. Your husband's name was Blevin. That was the name of the man she married. I questioned your husband—he was the son of the woman I loved. Her husband died and left her in poverty. I was glad. That ought to have conciliated me—but the sight of your husband angered me—and I was drinking. If I had met you, and the baby, it might not have happened. I—I am very sorry. And I have done what I could. All the property goes to the baby—and you. I—I have forgiven her—for the sake of the grandchild."

Mrs. Blevin was crying softly.

He reached out his hand for the infant. He held it a moment, gazing into the limpid blue eyes. It clutched his beard and cooed. He kissed its velvety cheeks and let it sink to his breast. Then a strange calm light came into his eyes.

An Open Book.

The duke of Manchester, says the Chicago Times-Herald, talks as one who has nothing to conceal from his wife.

THE VALUE OF SAWDUST.

Millions of Tons Formerly Wasted Now Turned to Profitable Account in Many Ways.

To the average mind that is not looking for "sermons in stones" or golden eagles in coal tar, a pile of sawdust appears to be about the most worthless of the many by-products of manufacture. It is true that it has some value in the arts, being used for stuffing dolls and other articles of commerce. It is also used for fuel in the big sawmills and planing mills because it is near at hand and is a by-product of those industries, says the Chicago Times-Herald.

But very few persons would suspect that a heap of sawdust contains valuable acids, tar and illuminating gas. There are some 20 establishments in Europe engaged in making oxalic acid out of sawdust. Six of these are in Germany and 12 in England. In Scotland it is used in making floor cloth, linoleum, wall paper and coarse wrapping paper.

With our limitless area of timber land and wealth of pine forest we have been scattering sawdust to the four winds or converting it into pillars of smoke. But sawdust, like coal tar and the hair on Armour's beeves and other by-products of industry, must yield in time to the necessities of scientific economy in production. Every waste product under the touch of chemistry and mechanical genius must soon contribute to man's comforts and needs.

Up at Montreal, Canada, there has recently been invented and manufactured a machine which extracts more products from sawdust than has yet been possible by means of the devices that are in use in Europe. The machine is built for the distillation of sawdust, the material being subjected at certain stages of the process to intense heat. In addition to good illuminating gas the following products are obtained per 1,000 pounds of sawdust: Char, 160 pounds; acids, 180 pounds; water, 248 pounds; tar, 162 pounds. The gas, it is claimed, is superior to coal gas for illuminating purposes.

A few years ago every gas factory was built near a running stream in order to facilitate the disposal of "waste product." On the surface of the water there floated away a vast wealth of material which modern chemistry now saves for the most beautiful dyes and for therapeutic agents that have been a blessing to humanity. Almost every preparation now made for the cure of headache and for the alleviation of other pain contains a coal tar product.

It may be that we have been casting away millions of dollars of wealth in the millions of tons of sawdust that we have discarded in the last 100 years.

HIGH ELECTRICAL PRESSURES.

A New California Plant Which Will Employ 60,000 Volts in Power Transmission.

Until very recently it was not deemed safe to transmit power in the form of electricity at a greater pressure than 10,000 or 15,000 volts. Between Niagara and Buffalo a voltage of 11,000 is now employed, but this will be doubled before many weeks. The pressure on the Folsom-Sacramento line in California is 11,000 volts. A line in Colorado which operates machinery in mines near Canyon City transmits its current at 20,000 volts. The two most remarkable transmission plants in this country, and probably in the world, in point of voltages, are those at Telluride, Col., and the line from San Bernardino to Los Angeles, Cal. The former is short, but carries the current at 40,000 volts. This pressure was adopted as a regular thing after a series of tests as a regular thing after a series of tests in which a voltage of 50,000 was successfully sustained for 37 consecutive days. The San Bernardino line, though, while worked at only 33,000 volts, is 83 miles long and carries no less than 10,000 horse-power. On the whole, electricians regard it the boldest achievement in electrical transmission yet recorded, says the New York Tribune.

Within the next few months an even more notable success will probably be announced from California. A corporation which now controls several power houses and is supplying current to towns and mining districts in Yuba and Nevada counties has nearly completed a line to Oakland and San Francisco that will be 140 miles in length. On some of its existing lines the company is transmitting at 16,000 to 24,000 volts. But the transformers will be capable of giving 40,000, 50,000 and 60,000 on the Oakland route. Operations will begin at 40,000 volts, and the higher pressure will be resorted to as soon as the losses which result from an increasing "load" exceed ten per cent. The line is being constructed with a view to standing 60,000 volts regularly.

A Warning in the Air.

Mr. L. E. Dudley, the United States consul at Vancouver, reports that experiments are being made on the coast of British Columbia with an automatic system for warning ships of their approach to dangerous rocks and shoals when the weather is so bad that neither lights nor foghorns can avail. The principle is that of wireless telegraphy, and the operation is automatic. From a metallic conductor, fixed at an elevation on or near the point of peril, electric waves are transmitted over a zone seven miles in width. Any ship provided with a proper receiving instrument, and coming within this zone, is immediately warned of the proximity of danger, and the direction and distance of the concealed peril are automatically recorded.—Youth's Companion.

KEEPING WAITERS HONEST.

Plan of a Missourian Who Presides Over an "American Restaurant" in Mexico.

Travelers in Mexico find much to be desired in the matter of hotels and restaurants, unless they happen to be admirers of Spanish-American cooking. To obtain a home-like cuisine, a recent visitor from New York became a daily patron of one of the numerous "American restaurants," presided over by a Missourian who, avowedly, had not moved to the sister republic altogether in pursuit of health. His business had thrived to such an extent that in a few months he found himself employing perhaps a score of waiters, representing fugitive Spaniards, "greasers," Indians, ex-cowboys, half-breeds and other specimens of the human family not famous for exactitude in accounts.

During the meal hours the hawk-eyed Missourian seemed to keep a vigilant watch over every part of the place. No reckoning was made of the articles furnished a waiter, whose habit it was, when a patron had completed his meal, to jot down on a slip of paper the charge for each dish served, as represented by the empty plates on the table.

Collecting the sum due, the waiter would hand memorandum and money to the proprietor, who sat perched in his eerie behind the counter. The Missourian would then aim his vision at the table, however distant, and pretend to verify the tally. After this he would scrutinize the waiter in a manner meant to penetrate his very soul, move his lips as if computing figures, loudly strike the bell in the cash register and deposit the coins in the till.

AMONG THE RAILWAYS.

Rock Island Will Run Cheap Excursions to Colorado.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway, which made a phenomenal success of cheap excursion rates to Colorado last season, has again asked its competitors in the Western and Southwestern Passenger associations to agree upon a series of cheap excursons to and from Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo for the approaching season on the following basis: Tickets to be sold from Chicago and all territory up to Missouri river June 18, 25, July 16, 23, and 30, Aug. 6, 13, 20 and 27, at the rate of one fare plus $2, or $31.50 for the round trip.

On July 2 and 9 and Sept. 3 and 10 a rate of $25 is to be made from Chicago, and $15 from Missouri river points for the round trip. Intermediate territory will have proportionate rates. Tickets are to be sold from Missouri river points one day later than the dates given above in each case. Proportionate rates will be made to and from Glenwood Springs, Salt Lake City and Ogden.

A series of East bound excursions is also proposed, tickets to be sold from Colorado common points every Thursday, commencing with June 20 up to and includng Sept. 12, at a rate of one fare plus $2 for the round trip. All tickets will be limited for return passage to October 31. These rates will be tendered connecting lines for basing purposes, which will probably insure a very low basis of rates throughout the United States for these excursions.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific will unquestionably make these rates and arrangements effective, regardless of the action of its competitors, and will run special trains, only one night out to and from Colorado, on the dates named.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The Sensitive Plants.

Plants for the pleasure and instruction of children are often sought for. The sensitive plant, Mimosa pudica, is an excellent one for this purpose. It is easily raised from seeds sown in spring. The habit is rather sprawling for a pot plant, but by a little pinching in management compact specimens may be obtained. Few plants give more interest to children in watching the leaves close or fall on being touched. Even grown people have their attention attracted by the remarkable motion.—Meehan's Monthly.

Cheap Rates to California.

February 12th and each Tuesday thereafter, until and including April 30th, Special Low Rate Colonist Tickets will be sold via the Southern Pacific's Company's "Ogden" and "Sunset" Routes to all points in California. The rate will be: From Chicago $30.00, from St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans $27.50, from Omaha, Kansas City, etc., $25.00. Corresponding low rates from all other points east and north.

For particulars and detailed information pertaining to the Southern Pacific Company's Routes, and these special rates to California, call upon or address

W. G. Neimyer, G. W. A., S. P. Co., 238 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.

W. H. Connor, C. A., S. P. Co., Chamber of Commerce Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio.

G. G. Herring, C. A., S. P. Co., 711 Park Bldg., Pittsburg, Pa.

L. E. Townsley, C. A., S. P. Co., 421 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

C. C. Cary, C. A., S. P. Co., 208 Sheidley Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

The Man and the Microbe.

At this point in the fable the Man marveled greatly in that he had not met the Microbe long since.

"In what guise have you traveled, pray?" asked the Man.

"Why, for the most part in the guys who didn't boil the drinking water!" replied the Microbe, candidly.

Of course, hygienic science was destined to change all this.—Detroit Journal.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

For Publication.

When the bills for our daughter's trousseau began to arrive, we fairly gasped.

But our heart's darling, whom we were so soon to lose, consoled us.

"Stupid old papa!" she twittered as sweetly as a bird. "These are for exhibition to the society reporters. There is a 90 per cent. discount."

Now we felt vastly relieved.—Indianapolis Press.

Knew His Business.

Hostess—Dear me, the conversation is flagging. What can we do to amuse our guests?

Host—I don't know, unless we leave the drawing-room for a few minutes and give them a chance to talk about us.—N. Y. World.

Can't Always Tell.

"Do you serve lobsters here?" asked the new arrival.

"Well," replied the waiter, "we 'as our instructions to discriminate as much as possible among them as comes in to eat."—Philadelphia North American.

CONGRESSMAN BOTKIN

The Well-Known Kansas Statesman, Cured of Catarrh of the Stomach by Pe-ru-na,

AFTER TWENTY-FIVE YEARS' SUFFERING.

More Evidence of Interest to the Millions of Catarrh Sufferers in the United States.

HON. J. D. BOTKIN, CONGRESSMAN-AT-LARGE FROM KANSAS.

In a recent letter to Dr. Hartman, Congressman Botkin, of Winfield, Kan., whose fame is a national one, says of Peruna:

My Dear Doctor—"It gives me pleasure to certify to the excellent curative qualities of your medicines—Peruna and Manalin. I have been afflicted more or less for a quarter of a century with catarrh of the stomach and constipation. A residence in Washington has increased these troubles. A few bottles of your medicine have given me almost complete relief, and I am sure that a continuation of them will effect a permanent cure. Peruna is surely a wonderful remedy for catarrhal affections."—J. D. Botkin, Congressman-at-Large.

CONGRESSMAN BOTKIN is one of the most influential and best known men in the State of Kansas. Whatever he may say on any subject will be accepted by the people as the truth. So famous a remedy as Peruna could not have well escaped the attention of so famous a man. He not only has heard of the remedy, but he has used it and was relieved of an affliction of twenty-five years' standing. Peruna is the one internal remedy that cures chronic catarrh. It cures catarrh wherever located. This is a fact that the people are rapidly finding out, but there are still a large multitude who need to know it.

Mr. Frank Richter, of Winona, Minn., says in a letter to The Peruna Medicine Company:

"As a remedy for catarrh I take pleasure in recommending Peruna for catarrh of the stomach. I know what it is to be afflicted with this awful disease and consider it my duty to say a word in behalf of the remedy which gave me such relief. Peruna cured me, and I know it will cure anyone else who suffers from this disease. It gives me great pleasure to testify to the curative effects of this medicine. Peruna is a well tested and frequently used remedy, and for catarrh of the stomach is unsurpassed.

"My catarrh was principally located in my head and stomach. I tried many remedies without success. I tried several doctors, but they were unable to cure me. I read of Peruna in the papers and five bottles cured me."—Frank Richter.

The gastric juice is secreted by the mucous follicles of the stomach. When this juice is normal it digests (dissolves) the food without producing any disturbance whatever. If, however, the gastric juice is not normal, digestion causes many disagreeable symptoms. This condition is known as indigestion. Peruna will cure this.

Mrs. Selina Tanner, Athens, O., writes: "I cannot find words to express my thanks for your kind advice. I never once thought I had catarrh of the stomach. I commenced taking Peruna as you directed. My stomach continued to hurt me for about two weeks after I began the medicine and then it stopped. I now have a good appetite while before I was nearly starved."—Mrs. Selina Tanner.

Mrs. Selina Tanner.

Mr. L. O. Marble, of Geneva, Neb., writes:

"I do believe that my catarrh is entirely cured. I have not had any trouble with my stomach for a long time. I am as well as one of my age could expect (seventy years). I have had the catarrh ever since I was a young man, and have doctored for it for years and got very little better, but thanks to you and your Peruna and Manalin I believe I am well of it. I can eat anything now and it doesn't hurt me, and Peruna is the only thing I ever found that will cure the catarrh. I believe it is the only cure for catarrh, and I hope every one troubled with catarrh will try Peruna and be cured."—L. O. Marble.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, president of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 & $3.50 SHOES UNION MADE.

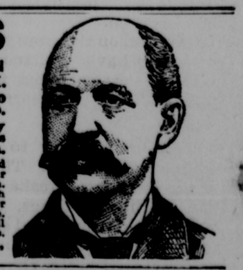
The real worth of W. L. Douglas $3.00 and $3.50 shoes compared with other makes is $4.00 to $5.00.

Our $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price. We make and sell more $3.00 and $3.50 shoes than any other two manufacturers in the United States.

THE REASON more W. L. Douglas $3 and $3.50 shoes are sold than any other make is because THEY AMOUNT TO MORE. Your dealer should keep them; we give one dealer exclusive sale in each town.

Take no substitute. Insist on having W. L. Douglas shoes with name and price stamped on bottom. If your dealer will not get them for you, send direct to factory, enclosing price and 25c. extra for carriage. State kind of leather, size, and width, plain or cap toe. Our shoes will reach you anywhere. Write for catalogue showing new Spring styles.

We use Fast Color Eyelets in all our shoes. W. L. Douglas Shoe Co., Brockton, Mass.



Delicious Desserts.

Burnham's Hasty Jellycon makes the finest dessert jellies, clear and sparkling and deliciously flavored. Prepared in a minute. It is only necessary to dissolve in hot water and set away to cool. Flavors: orange, lemon, strawberry, raspberry, peach, wild cherry and unflavored "calfsfoot" for making wine and coffee jellies. All grocers sell it.

RHEUMATISM Van Buren's Rheumatic Compound is the only positive cure. Past experience speaks for itself. Depot 353 S. California Ave., Chicago

PILES ANAKESIS gives instant relief and POSITIVELY CURES PILES. For free sample address "ANAKESIS," Tribune building, New York.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please state that you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

A. N. K.—C 1859

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

FRUITS OF THE SALOON.

Police Court Scenes That Are a Sad Commentary on 20th Century Enlightenment.

A year ago we published in the Advocate the following statement of City Magistrate Clarence W. Mead, made by him from the bench, says the editor of the National Advocate.

"There are seven police courts in the borough of Manhattan. Take rum away and I am certain that two courts will be sufficient to do all the work."

A few days ago the New York Press printed a most pitiful story, that of a man utterly given over to drink and who had drawn his 15-year-old son down with him, until the pair stole a horse to get the money to buy liquor. The father took the proceeds of the theft and went on a long debauch and the son, arraigned in the police court, begged to be sent to the Elmira or some other reformatory in order that he might be freed from the life to which his drunken father had brought him.

A still more sickening sight is reported by the Philadelphia press as having been witnessed in a police court of that city. Three sisters, the eldest but 20 years of age, stood before Magistrate South with bitter smiles on their faces the other day while their old mother was sent to prison.

Ella Callahan, the eldest, was asked to testify.

"Ella! Ella!" said the old woman, half tenderly, "you ain't going to have your mother sent to jail?"

"Why not?" said the girl, bitterly. "What else are you good for?"

"My girl!" said his honor, remonstratively.

"I mean, judge," said Ella, "if she was put into a dungeon, where she would never see daylight, I'd be thankful. As far back as I can remember she was always getting drunk. She's made me cry with shame more times than I want to remember. It's been a terrible thing, not only to me, but to my sisters, the young girls there, judge."

She pointed to Mary and Anastasia Callahan, the first 17 years old, the other a slender girl of 15.

"When we were little children," she continued, "mother was drunk so often that we were sent to St. Joseph's home in Spruce street. The Sisters of Charity were very good to us. They brought us up well and we've always kept respectable. I've been working with Mrs. Riley at 910 North Forty-eighth street, more than ten years and the other girls have worked and we helped to keep a home at 1031 Winter street. We tried hard to get our mother to stop drinking; but she wouldn't."

Then the girl began to sob.

"Do you want my sisters to testify?" asked Ella.

"No, I've seen enough," said his honor. "I'll send her to the house of correction for a year."

And these things are done at the opening of the twentieth century in a so-called Christian country. Yet who cares!

NEWS NOTES.

Drink revenue is wet with tears and stained with blood.—Christian Work.

The village board of trustees of Prairie City, Ill., has passed an ordinance which declares that neither freight nor express company shall without violating the law introduce any kind of spirituous liquors within the corporate limits of the town.

An ordinance prohibiting the sale of tobacco or cigarettes to minors has been passed by the municipal council of New York, without a dissenting vote. The ordinance makes the offense a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of ten dollars or imprisonment for ten days or both.

Plans have been adopted by the permanent temperance committee of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church for a national campaign of education on the temperance question. Cash prizes aggregating $500 will be offered for literature bearing on the question that will appeal to the voters of the country and to children.

A Praying Sheriff.

A correspondent writing from Me., says: Sheriff Pearson spends most of his time with the prisoners. He goes from cell to cell inquiring into each case, and it is no uncommon sight to see him kneeling at a cell or praying for its inmate.

When a man comes to be freed from prison there is something more than a mere unlocking of the prison bars. There is a last talk with the sheriff and a prayer before the doors are thrown open. Not one of the men discharged since Sheriff Pearson took hold has since come back for another offense, though this was very common formerly, as the number of prisoners under his care is a third less. When he took hold there were 149 inmates; now there are but 99. He hopes to reduce the average to 75.

"With the help of God I will try to make men of the poor fellows sent down to me," Sheriff Pearson said recently, after morning service. "That is the best service I can render to God and to the world. I believe I shall be able to surround the men with such influences that when they go out it will be to make a strong fight against temptation. God is blessing the work and I am satisfied."—National Advocate.

WHO ARE THE INEBRIATES?

Skeletons in Respectable, Refined Homes Laid Bare by a Physician.

Some time ago a gentleman called to see his friend who lived in a most beautiful town and in the most genteel quarter of that town. Their conversation drifted toward the temperance question.

The visitor remarked: "Well, you must see very little of the evils of intemperance in such a place as this. It is the vice of the poor and the ignorant. Well-to-do people and educated people are not likely to become intemperate."

"Come, stand here on my doorstep," said his friend, "and I will answer you. Over there in that street, only a week ago, a wife had to rush out of her luxuriously furnished home at midnight to escape the fury of a drunken husband who flourished a loaded pistol and threatened to kill her. Over there, in that other street built up with neat houses, is a family who wait day by day with painful anxiety the return of the husband and father from his business in the next town, for on three or four days of the week it is probable he will come back reeling drunk. What an agony of shame for that wife and her children as they watch for those unsteady footsteps!

"Now turn and look in another direction. One of the houses over there is occupied by a man past 50. He has plenty of money and a good education. His only occupation for years has been to drink himself into a state of intoxication and then slowly to recover from his spree. He is a selfish, rich drunkard.

"Look, now, in another direction. In that house with the fine lawn about it lives a prominent citizen. He has given his son every advantage, but the only return thus far has been the bitter humiliation of paying the boy's drink bills and gambling debts.

"Look once more. On that cross street is the home of a man who in certain lines of ability towers above ordinary men, but now and then he is brought very low. If it were not for these occasional excesses in drink how useful would be his career.

THEY ARE NOT COMMON DRUNKARDS.

"Now you have seen the skeletons of some of the homes near where we stand. Not far away from here in another genteel neighborhood is a place where men come together to chat, to play games and to drink. They are not brawlers and common drunkards, but men who hold responsible positions and live in some of the best houses in the city. Some of these same genteel gentlemen must be sent home in cabs. In a quiet, highly decorous fashion they take too much drink, and need help to reach their homes. They are not common drunkards reeling through the streets. Then they would be disgusting. At this date they are very respectable gentlemen who occasionally take too much. What they may be later on remains to be seen. Not many people know that these men get drunk at all. Some who do know it are quite disposed to make light of it, and some are saying: 'Well, if it is safe for them—it is safe for us.' Safe for them? Safe for anyone to contract such a habit? Ask the families of these genteel drinkers. Trace the career of other men who began in the same way. Some of the poor wretches with battered faces and tattered garments from whom you shrink were once genteel folk who occasionally drank to excess. The habit grew, and now? Look at them.

"Have I answered your question? Does it seem as if intemperance were the vice of the poor and ignorant only? It invades every circle and finds its victims among all classes. The flourishing business man, the successful lawyer, the skilled physician, the learned judge, the trusted financier, the talented artist and the popular minister are on the lists of the drunken. If in a long period of years only a few such prominent instances were found it would be sad enough, but go where you will you must hear the sad story of how some one high in position fell wallowing in the mire because he gave way to the drink habit.

"When you see its ravages in a cultured community like this, when you see manliness destroyed here and the brightest hopes blasted, when you see innocent people compelled to endure shame and mortification—can you blame anyone for advocating abstinence?

"I say nothing now about local option and prohibition and other schemes for regulating or abolishing the liquor traffic. Some measures may not be wise at all. But all these matters are entirely apart from the settlement of my personal relationship to this question. I think it best for me, I think it best for other men, in view of the perils by which we are surrounded, to abstain from the use of intoxicants."—Dr. Shinn, in International Good Templar.

JOHN BROWN'S HOUSE.

State of Connecticut Thinks of Preserving and Converting It Into a Historical Landmark.

An effort is now being made to preserve the birthplace of John Brown and properly mark the spot where, as a barefoot boy, he learned the trade of his father, a tanner. During this session of the Connecticut general assembly it will be attempted to have a sufficient amount of money appropriated to purchase the John Brown place and convert it into a historical landmark. Dwight C. Kilbourne, of Litchfield, and other members of the Litchfield County Historical society are working to this end.

The place of John Brown's birth is within half a mile of the highest point

JOHN BROWN'S HOUSE.
(Located Five Miles West of the Town of Torrington, Conn.)

of ground in Connecticut, about five miles west of the busy town of Torrington. The old house is situated on a high bluff, with no other house within a mile of it. The house is built, as most of the houses were at that time—1787—with a great stone chimney in the center of the building, which has its foundation in the cellar. The timbers used in the foundation, on which the big stones are laid, are of oak, 12 by 14 inches square, and hewn out by hand.

It was in the western front room that John Brown first saw the light of day. There are two windows in the room, one looking to the south and the other to the west. The first thing that impresses one on entering the room is the fireplace, before which John Brown as a boy sat and listened to the black logs crackling in the blaze as the winter winds howled through the sturdy oaks and stalwart chestnut trees in the woods which surrounded two sides of the house. The fireplace is quite broken down, owing to the visits of relic hunters, who have taken away stones and bricks for souvenirs.

There are four rooms downstairs and three above. The great kitchen has the big fireplace and old-fashioned oven that most of the houses of that day had. A grown-up man can stand in the kitchen fireplace and look up the chimney and see the clouds soar above in the blue sky. The old crane which once swung in the fireplace is gone. A Torrington gentleman who was building a fine modern house took that from its moorings, and it now ornaments the fireplace in his new house. Three years ago the house was shingled, and the old shingles were carefully gathered up by relic hunters and taken away. The present owner is William M. Cook, and he enters enthusiastically into the plan to place the old landmark under the care of the state.

COMMANDER IN INDIA.

Gen. Sir Arthur Power Palmer Appointed to the Post with the Approval of King Edward.

Maj. Gen. Sir Arthur Power Palmer, who by King Edward's approval has become permanent commander in chief of the British forces in India, has been for a long time commander of the Punjab frontier force and provisional head of the imperial service. He is an old-time Indian campaigner, thoroughly seasoned to the climate and the work. In the great mutiny of 1857, the year in which he entered the army, Gen. Palmer raised a regiment of Sikhs, which he commanded till the close of the campaign. In 1863 he fought in the bloody business upon the northwest frontier, and afterward in the Abyssinian war, in the Duffla expedition, in the Afghan war, in the Soudan, and as head of the campaign in the Chin hills. It is said he understands Indian military needs more than any other man in the empire.

GEN. SIR ARTHUR PALMER.
(Commander in Chief of the British Army in India.)

Cork Put Her Eye Out.

A careless waiter, while opening a bottle of cider in a Paris restaurant, so held the bottle that the cork struck Mlle. Andree in the eye, causing the loss of sight in that organ. She sued, and the restaurant proprietor was fined 5,000 francs.

HAS UNIQUE CAREER.

Story of Benjamin Scoville's Life Reads Like Fiction.

Has Been a Street Gamin, Ship's Cook, Tramp, Actor and Teacher, and Now Will Engage in Missionary Work.

Among the men who do missionary work in the large cities of the world there are many who have had strange histories, but in all the list hardly one is to be found whose life story is more wonderful than that of Benjamin J. Scoville, who is now preparing at the Christian Alliance school in Nyack, N. Y., for special missionary work among the stage folk. In the 30 years of his life this young man has had varied experiences. He has been a street gamin, cabin boy, ship's cook, tramp, choir boy, actor, teacher of elocution and was at one time assistant stage manager for Sir Henry Irving.

Scoville was born in London and his father, a British officer, was killed during the Zulu war, leaving a widow and two children, Ben and a baby sister. Shortly afterward the mother also died, and the two little ones were left to struggle for themselves. By working as a newsboy, street-sweeper and bootblack, the boy managed to obtain food for his sister and himself, but as there was no way to pay for lodging the children were exposed to the cold at night, sleeping in hogsheads or any place they could find. This kind of life proved too severe for the little girl, and she soon died, leaving the boy alone in the world.

The sea had an attraction for him and he secured a place as cabin boy on the ship Vanguard, remaining on the vessel for several years until he was promoted to be the cook's assistant. While he was serving in this capacity he saved the captain's daughter, who had been washed overboard, and for this act of bravery was presented with five pounds by the Royal Humane society.

Later on, while employed as steward's assistant on the steamer Priscilla, he saw Capt. William Hughes, commander of the vessel, throw a weak-minded boy overboard and appeared as chief witness against the brutal seaman who, after being convicted of murder, confessed that he had killed more than 30 boys in the same way, being paid for the acts by their guardians. At the end of the trial Scoville once more returned to sea, but was shipwrecked and drifted ten days in an open boat with little to eat or drink. He was rescued, however, and taken to London, where he was sick for a long time at the Marine hospital.

BENJAMIN J. SCOVILLE.
(Missionary Whose Career Has Been a Strange One, Indeed.)

As soon as he was discharged from that institution he worked his way back to this country and obtained a place as chore boy for a Cleveland (O.) doctor, at the same time attending school until he graduated. Then he went south and worked his way through Howard college in Alabama. Later on he managed to obtain enough work to pay his tuition at the New England conservatory, where he studied elocution and oratory. After finishing his course he took a position with Wilson Barrett's "Sign of the Cross" company, going with that troop to England. While in London he obtained the position of assistant stage manager, and a short time later, during an engagement at Manchester, he fell in love with a young lady, whom he married.

The couple soon returned to this country, and Scoville was appointed professor of elocution at the Galveston (Tex.) high school. On the day of the great flood his wife was killed and the husband, stunned by grief and without ambition, went to New York, where, by chance, he heard a former opera singer, who was holding a special missionary service, preach. After listening to several of her sermons he decided to take up missionary work himself, and accordingly he is now studying with that object in view.

His principal efforts will be directed toward stage folk or those who have failed to establish themselves on the stage and are drifting into dissolute ways of life.

Electric Roads in Canada.

The statistician of the dominion of Canada represents that there were 34 electric railways in the confederated provinces at the close of last year, aggregating 630 miles of track. Capital amounting to $21,700,000 has been actually invested in these lines. During the year they carried 104,033,631 passengers.

Why They Are So Costly.

To produce a cashmere shawl of the best quality requires the constant labor of four persons for an entire year

AN ANCIENT FAMILY TREE.

The O'Neils of Ireland Took Great Pride in Their Great Antiquity.

F. L. O'Brien, of Dublin, in speaking of the antiquity of some of the Irish families, according to the New York Tribune, told the following story: "There lives in the north of Ireland," said Mr. O'Brien, "a family named O'Neil. Their greatest claim to prominence lies in the fact that they are the oldest family in the United Kingdom. When Plantagenet, Tudor or Guelph was not the O'Neil was. They ruled as kings before even William looked with covetous eye across the English channel toward the white cliffs of Albion. This long line of descent has bred in the family a reverence for their ancestry that approaches idolatry. The mainspring of their life and action, the pride of their being is that a long line of dead and long since forgotten O'Neils carry them back in the direct line to the dark ages.

"As may be imagined, their family tree is colossal in its proportions. It has a length of something like 18 or 19 feet, and when it is unrolled at the castle a holy hush falls over all. To a visitor there some years ago was, in due course of time and as a special mark of favor, shown this marvelous pedigree. Stretched on the enormous billiard table, it lapped a full three feet at each end. The visitor's eye ran back over that lengthy line of O'Neils, long since turned to dust, and he wondered why they took so insane a pride in their descent. Just then he became conscious that that thought had occurred to other aliens who had beforetimes seen the O'Neil family tree. A penciled note in the margin, about half-way down the tree, caught his eye. It read: 'Just here came Adam.'"

A SIMPLE-HEARTED BARON.

The Late Willy Von Rothschild Was True to His Faith and Very Charitable.

Perhaps the most typical Rothschild of all his distinguished race was the late Baron "Willy" von Rothschild, who died recently at Frankfort-on-the-Main, says a London exchange. He was noted for the simplicity of his life and his extraordinary devotion to work. When his brother, Baron Meyer Carl, died in 1886, Baron "Willy" became sole head in Frankfort and attended to every detail, great and small, of his banking-house. He himself signed every letter and document and opened all correspondence. Power of procuration was given in the firm only a few years ago to facilitate the dispatch of business, and even then was made use of only during the baron's rare absence from Frankfort.

Many stories are told of the baron's orthodoxy in religious matters. The business was always closed on Saturday, no matter what sacrifices it might entail. On Sabbaths and holy days the baron always walked, riding being forbidden on these days to the strict Jew. More striking still was his adherence to the Jewish precept to give literally a tenth of one's earnings to the poor, so that the disposition of his bounty gave him much hard work. A great deal of his charity was anonymous. Baron von Rothschild was at work on the evening before the day of his death, giving personal attention to the reports of business and distribution of charities. The funeral a few days later was characterized by absolute absence of display, and even the simplest flowers. Yet crowds of people, from personal friends to the poor he had helped, thronged the street to witness the passing of the cortege.

Not Worth a Cow.

Some of the public men in this country who occasionally hear from their constituents may think that they know what it is to be "roasted," but they are in error. It is only in New South Wales that the lowly voter has a really trenchant pen and can express himself properly. In order that those serving in an official capacity in this country may realize how truly fortunate they are, the following extract from a letter written to a member of parliament by a disappointed office seeker may be given:

"Soon after you was elected by my hard workin a feller wanted to bet me that you wouldn't be in the house moren a week before you made a haas of yourself. I bet him a cow on that, as I thought you was worth it then. After I got your note saying you declined to ackt in the matter I druv the cow over to the feller's place an told him he had won her. That's all I got for howlin meself horse for you on pole day and months befoar."

Possibly there may be a suggestion in this for disappointed American office seekers, too. At any rate it would seem to deserve a place in the next edition of the Ready Letter Writer.—Chicago Post.

Contaminating Gases Turned to Use.

An instance of the transformation by scientific means of a deleterious into a useful substance is furnished by a process recently invented in Germany in connection with the manufacture of superphosphate fertilizer where apatite is used. The large volumes of hydrofluoric acid that are given off seriously contaminate the atmosphere, but by the new process these gases are recovered in the form of fluosilicic acid, which is used in the manufacture of artificial stone for hardening soft limestone, and sandstone, and for other purposes.—Science.

Worthless Men.

Some men are so worthless that one cannot help wondering how to go about it to be more so.—Washington (Ia.) Democrat.

PUNGENT PARAGRAPHS.

He (on short acquaintance)—"You have divine eyes." She—"And I must say you have sublime cheek to tell me so."—Philadelphia Times.

Mrs. Bixby—"I don't believe the doctor's medicine agrees with mother." Bixby—"The medicine would be more than human if it did."—Town Topics.

"Do you want to hire some boys?" "What can you do?" "Well, Billy kin sing an' I kin whistle, an' we'd liven yer old office up a whole lot."—Indianapolis News.

Youth—"Miss Stanhope, you're positively the only person I've met to-day worth stopping to speak to." Miss Stanhope (thoughtfully)—"Indeed! You are more fortunate than I am!"—Punch.

Statu Quo.—Mrs. Pettit—"Whenever I express a desire for anything my husband never objects." Mrs. Ig. Nord—"Same with me. I can express the desire as often as I please. It never disturbs him."—Philadelphia Press.

"The people lined the banks of the river." Perhaps it was done to keep the stream from catching a cold in its head. But the ice man was much annoyed at the precautions of the populace, and talked of an injunction.—Indianapolis News.

Mr. Newliwed—"So you've been buying more useless truck! We have absolutely no use for those curtains. Haven't I told you to stop buying things just because they were cheap?" Mrs. Newliwed—"Yes, my dear, and I've obeyed you. Those curtains weren't at all cheap."—Philadelphia Record.

KAISER ORDERS SAUERKRAUT.

Tons of American Delicatessen Will Be Sent to the German Army in China.

To the long list of triumphs achieved by Philadelphia manufacturers during the last few months there was added recently one that is likely to create in Germany almost as great a feeling of commercial indignation as was inspired in England when contracts for British bridges and locomotives were awarded to American contractors. In short, the German government, which has been so inimical to the interests of expatriated American hogs, has just placed with a Philadelphia firm an order for 2,400 tons of sauerkraut, which is to be sent to the kaiser's army in China.

For many years there was a disposition on the part of the Germans living in this country to regard American-made sauerkraut as inferior to the German product, says the Philadelphia Press. As a result of this preference, sauerkraut was for a long time imported in very large quantities from Germany. This was sold in the American market in large tins and earthenware jars at prices considerably in excess of those charged for the domestic product. In the course of the last three years, however, Germans generally have come to recognize the fact that great improvements in the American methods of manufacturing sauerkraut rendered it far superior to that imported from abroad. Accordingly the demand for German sauerkraut has been rapidly diminishing, and at the same time domestic manufacturers have been in receipt of constantly multiplying orders from Germany. Despite these facts, however, the order for 2,400 tons which has just been placed by the German government has occasioned not a little surprise to American manufacturers.

The large order will be shipped west in a few days and no less than eight freight cars will be required to transport it.

LIQUID-AIR MARVELS.

Beefsteak Which Smashes If Dropped —Ice Made Hard Enough to Cut Glass.

A Paris correspondent says that M. d'Arsonval lately gave a successful demonstration at the museum of natural history of the qualities of liquefied air. By enormous pressures he reached a temperature of minus 180 centigrade. The liquefied air was contained in a double-sized silver-covered bottle, and did not evaporate. Experiments with the India rubber bottles showed that they became as hard and brittle as glass. The rubber could be pulverized, but became elastic again when the air was evaporated.

M. d'Arsonval showed a beefsteak dipped in liquefied air, and then let it fall on the floor, when it sounded like a stone and broke in pieces. It was eventually reduced to a pink powder easy to masticate and assimilate, likely to be of important service to hospitals. Ice dipped in liquefied air cut glass like a diamond, mercury became hard as antimony. Metals, especially steel, had their qualities increased tenfold by the application of liquefied air. Conducting wires could be reduced to a hair's breadth in thickness and remain as strong as enormous cables.

Liquefied air cannot, however, do anything to preserve meat, as it is no way antiseptic and will not kill microbes. Moreover, it is now five times dearer than ice. Nor can it be used for motor carriages nor submarine boats, because when heated it is such a powerful explosive that no metal yet known could resist its shocks. M. d'Arsonval warned the French public to beware of companies collecting money for preserving meat or propelling motors by liquefied air. Personal investigation showed that such experiments must necessarily end in failure.

Announcement.

To the music-loving people of Oakland and vicinity:

Would say that for convenience, I have decided to open a wareroom in the Ravenscroft building, where, after May 1st, I will have on exhibition sample pianos and organs. They will be carefully selected from the stock of leading manufacturers—thoroughly up-to-date, reliable instruments, representing some of the best values in the market today. I represent the manufacturers and will meet any competition on goods of the same value. Instruments on easy payments. Special inducements to the cash trade.

For prices, terms, &c., &c., call on or write to

S. C. SMITH,
Oakland, Md.

Small Pox Increasing at Grafton.

The small pox situation at Grafton shows some improvements in the matter of quarantine, though the number of cases is still increasing somewhat. By order of the board of health all the schools are closed and there were no services in any of the churches on Sunday. At the suggestion of the board Judge Holt has postponed till the next regular term all the cases that were to have come up in the circuit court this week and court will not be opened.

Excursion to California.

Account of Epworth League meeting at San Francisco in July. Excursion tickets will be on sale from points in Pennsylvania from July 4th to 12th, good to return until August 31st, low rates of fare have been named for the round trip, and if so desired tickets may be had returning via Portland, Yellow Stone Park and St. Paul, at small additional cost. For full particulars call on address, W. S. Howell, General Eastern Passenger Agent, 381 Broadway, New York, or John R. Pott, District Passenger Agent, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, 810 Park Building, Pittsburg, Pa. 5 3t

A Mystery.

Some time since a party of hunters were passing over Snaggy mountain, at a point near Jos. Lewis' saw mill and not more than half a mile from the celebrated Stem Rock, where they discovered a box that had been unearthed by the roots of a falling chestnut tree. The box was broken open and inside was found the skeleton of a young child. The skeleton was partly wrapped in what remained of a few rags, and had the appearance of having been buried several years. Others than the party of hunters have viewed the remains, among them Joseph Summers and Garfield Sines, but the box has been left as it was found, and so far as is known the matter has not been reported to public authorities. That portion of Snaggy where the skeleton was found is in Garrett county, Md., and, of course, Preston county has nothing to do with the matter. Many solutions of the mystery have been vouched, but nothing is definitely known of the inhuman parents, nor most probably never will be.—Kingwood Journal.

The Best Blood Purifier.

The blood is constantly being purified by the lungs, liver and kidneys. Keep these organs in a healthy condition and the bowles regular and you will have no need of a blood purifier. For this purpose there is nothing equal to Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, one dose of them will do you more good than a dollar bottle of the best blood purifier. Price, 25 cents. Samples free at all druggists.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

KRAMER WAGONS are the best.

Goldfish, globes, food, etc., at Cheap John's.

Big stock toys, candies, fruits, etc., at Cheap John's. 2t

Plenty of seed oats and grass seed at Dixon & Kelso's. 2t*

Bed Room Suites--Twenty-five left. Will be sold cheap. OFFUTT'S.

Two bottles pop for 5 cts. at Cheap John's.

MATTINGS--Largest line and lowest prices at Offutt's. 4 2t

Headquarters for fishing tackle at Cheap John's.

For rough and stumpy ground get the McCormick vertical bar mower.

KRAMER WAGONS are the best. Sold exclusively by Offutt's. 2t

Dr. Hardman, of Grafton, will fit spectacles at the Glades Hotel, Oakland, Friday, April 19th. 2t

John Felty, Jr., has the cheapest line of wall paper in town. Call and examine it.

KRAMER WAGONS sold on easy terms. Write or call for prices. 4 2t OFFUTT'S.

Dr. S. M. Hardman, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, Grafton, W. Va. Spectacles and artificial eyes fitted.

John Felty, Jr., has the cheapest line of wall paper in town. Call and examine it.

John Felty, Jr., has the cheapest line of wall paper in town. Call and examine it.

Do not buy Mowers, Binders, etc., that you will have trouble to get repairs for. Buy the McCormick and get the best. Naylor has them 4 2*

If tronbled by a weak digestion, loss of appetite, or constipation, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Every box warranted. For sale by all druggists.

FOR SALE:—The Lutheran parsonage, located on the corner of Fifth and Green streets, in Oakland, near the court house. Contains 8 rooms, hallway, cellar and porches; excellent well of water. Will be sold cheap. Apply to or address Rev. George I. Uhler, Oakland, Md.

Money to Loan.

$7,000 to loan on first mortgage in in sums to suit upon town property or nearby farms.

EDWARD H. SINCELL.

New $10 Note.

A new ten-dollar note will soon be in circulation. The most striking feature of the new bill will be a central figure of a buffalo. The issue will be a United States note, the policy of the government being to make the silver certificates in the smaller denominations, the United States in tens and the gold notes to express larger values.

SEABORD AIR LINE RAILWAY.

The Capital City Line—Its Magnificent Through and Local Passenger Service Between the East and South and Southwest.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway is called the Capital City Line, because it enters the Capitals of the six States which it traverses, exclusive of the National Capital, through which it trains run solid from New York to Jacksonville and Tampa, Florida. It runs through Richmond, Va., Raleigh, N. C., Columbia, S. C., Atlanta, Ga., Montgomery, Ala., and Tallahassee, Fla.

This road will continue to run the famous Florida and Metropolitan Limited, and the Florida and Atlanta Fast Mail, Trains affording the only through limited service daily, including Sunday, between New York and Florida, and is the shortest line between points.

These splendidly modern trains of the Seaboard Air Line Railway arrive at and depart from Pennsylvania Railroad Stations at Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, carrying Pullman's most improved equipment, with unexcelled dining car service, compartment, drawing-room and observation cars. It has Pullman service five times per week each way from Washington to that celebrated resort, Pinehurst, N. C.

It has the short line to and from Richmond, Norfolk, Portsmouth, Raleigh, Southern Pines, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, Tampa and Atlanta and the principal cities between the South and East. It is also the direct route to Athens, Augusta and Macon.

In Atlanta direct connections are made in the Union Station for Chattanooga, Nashville and Memphis, also for New Orleans and all points in Texas, California and Mexico.

In addition, it is the only line operating through trains and Pullman sleeping cars between Atlanta and Norfolk, where connections are made with the Old Dominion Steamship Company, from New York, the M. & M. T. Company, from Boston and Providence, the Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Company, from Washington, the Baltimore Steam Packet Company, from Baltimore, and the N. Y. P. & N. Railway, from New York and Philadeladelphia.

Through Pullman cars also operated on quick schedules between Jacksonville and St. Louis, via Monticello, and between Jacksonville and New Orleans, in addition to through trains with Buffet Chair Cars between Savannah and Montgomery.

The local train service is first-class with most convenient schedules.

In fact the Seaboard Air Line Railway will ticket for any point, affording the quickest schedules, finest trains and most comfortable service. Its 1000 mile books sold at $25.00 are good from Washington, D. C., over the entire system of 2,600 miles including Florida.

Things to Think About.

It pays to buy the best, whether you buy a suit of clothes, a horse, a house and lot or get yourself a wife. If you have the toothache you won't go to Naylor's to get it pulled. Why? Because you think Dr. Robinson understands the business better. These thoughts apply to all work that you want done. House-cleaning time is here and you will want some rooms papered. Now you have to pay your money for paper and for having it put on and paper is something that you have to look at every day and of course you want it put on right, clean and neat, and you don't want your house turned upside down for a week to get it done. These are facts. If they are right, see King, the painter and paper hanger, and you will get the neatest job and the quickest service. 3 3t

AUDITOR'S NOTICE.

W. Grant Paugh vs. Otho J. Paugh et al.—No. 1050. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

Notice is hereby given to the creditors of Louis F. Paugh, deceased, to file their claims, properly authenticated, with the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett county on or before May 3d, 1901, as I will on that day proceed to state an audit distributing the funds in the hands of the trustee in said cause.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
Auditor.

The Portraits of Our Presidents

With Biographical Sketches

BY

General Charles H. Grosvenor.

Title page designed by Tiffany.

This Inaugural year, when the public mind is aroused over Presidential questions, is a fitting time to issue General Grosvenor's book. Its sale is already tremendous, and will perhaps exceed that of General Grant's Personal Memoirs.

Every patriotic American desires to read what General Grosvenor has to say of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and the other Chief Executives of the Nation. Everybody desires to read what General Grosvenor, the staunch old Republican leader in Congress, will say of that staunch old Democrat, Andrew Jackson, the Father of the Democratic party. General Grosvenor has thrown into his sketch all the fire and energy of his nature. The biography of Thomas Jefferson is grand. The biography of Lincoln is as beautiful as a sunrise over the hilltops. General Grosvenor has personally known all the Presidents since the time of James Buchanan. The General's book will therefore contain history which has never before been published, written from his own personal observation of these great men. General Grosvenor has served in Congress for nearly twenty years, and he has served his country in war and in Congress for nearly forty years. The book contains twenty-four large Photogravure Etchings as fine as Steel Plates, printed by hand, on heavy plate paper made especially to order. These 24 Photogravure Etchings are in different tints, and are well worth $2 each. These Portraits are made from the Paintings endorsed by the family and near relatives of the Presidents. Two years' time and a fortune have been expended in securing these reproductions. The complete book is well worth $50, but the price has been placed so low that the most humble American citizen can own it. The biographical sketches are printed in large open type in two colors; the work is so beautiful that when people see it they want it. The advance sale is very large. President McKinley was the first subscriber. There is one edition known as The President Edition de Grand Luxe, initial letters hand painted. Portraits hand colored, title page hand illuminated, registered and numbered; subscription price $250. Orders and applications for territory are coming in rapidly. A high class man or woman of good social standing can soon make a small fortune taking orders in this community. Send references and apply for terms quick, as the territory will all be assigned soon.

Address THE CONTINENTAL PRESS,
CORCORAN BUILDING,
Opposite United States Treasury,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

Some Reasons

Why You Should Insist on Having

EUREKA HARNESS OIL

Unequaled by any other.
Renders hard leather soft.
Especially prepared.
Keeps out water.
A heavy bodied oil.

HARNESS

An excellent preservative.
Reduces cost of your harness.
Never burns the leather; its
Efficiency is increased.
Secures best service.
Stitches kept from breaking.

OIL

Is sold in all
Localities

Manufactured by Standard Oil Company.

ORDER NISI.

George Clauson vs. John Shartzer and wife.

No. 1094 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered this 28th day of March, in the year nineteen hundred and one, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in equity, that the sale made and reported in the above cause by D. James Blackiston, attorney, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown or before the 29th day of April, 1901; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county once a week for three successive weeks before the 29th day of April, 1901.

The report states the amount of sale to be $880.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

ORDER NISI.

Thomas B. Wiley, late Treasurer of Garrett County, vs. Sylvester Rinard.

No. 77 Miscellaneous Docket, March Term, 1901. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 18th day of March, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Md., that the sale of the real estate mentioned in these proceedings made and reported by Thomas B. Wiley, late Treasurer of Garrett county, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 19th day of April, next; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 19th day of April next.

The report states the amount of sale to be $53.60.

A. HUNTER BOYD.

True copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

STATEMENT

SHOWING THE CONDITION OF THE MUTUAL BENEFIT LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 31st, 1900.

Total Income during the year	$13,993,373 91
Total Disbursements	10,472,007 50
Total Assets	74,311,469 25
Total Liabilities	68,186,103 34
Surplus as regards Policy-holders	6,125,364 91
111,317 Policies in force in the United States on Dec. 31, 1900	$272,686,078 00
147 Policies written in Maryland during the year 1900	323,173 00
Premiums received on Maryland business in 1900	113,426 08
Losses paid in Maryland during 1900	71,250 00
Losses incurred in Maryland during 1900	78,815 00

BALTIMORE, March 4, 1901.

In compliance with the Code of Public General Laws, I hereby certify that the above is a true abstract from the sworn statement of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of Newark, N. J., to December 31, 1900, now on file in this department.

(Signed) LLOYD WILKINSON,
Insurance Commissioner.

JULIUS C. RENNINGER, Agent,
Oakland, Maryland.

Receivers' Sale

—Valuable—

Hotel Property!

On APRIL 19, 1901,

The Loch Lynn Heights Hotel,

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MD.,

Will be Sold on the Premises at Auction.

The hotel is situated on a beautiful hill near the station of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad between Oakland, Maryland, and the famous Deer Park Hotel.

The Loch Lynn Heights Hotel contains more than 100 rooms, is in good repair, and its situation affords one of the most impressive views in the Allegheny Mountains.

It is situated within one half mile of the Mountain Lake Chautauqua, and affords a fine opportunity for a most successful summer hotel.

SALE ON PREMISES

AT 12 O'CLOCK M., APRIL 19th, 1901.

TERMS:—One-third cash; balance in six and twelve months, with interest.

Lien reserved to secure deferred payments. Private offers before day of sale will be considered.

Address

BIRD M. ROBINSON,
RANDOLPH BARTON,
Receivers of the Baltimore Building and Load Association of Baltimore City,
FIDELITY BUILDING,
Baltimore, Maryland.

Turnbull's

China and Japan Mattings, all weaves and colorings.

Porch and Lawn Furniture,

Iron and Brass Bedsteads,

Linoleums and Oil Cloths,

Carpetings.

JOHN TURNBULL, JR., & COMPANY,

16, 18, 20 West Baltimore Street,

BALTIMORE

IT IS WISE TO WORK FOR

The Mutual Life Insurance Company

OF NEW YORK.

RICHARD A. McCURDY, PRESIDENT.

BECAUSE Its contracts are simplest.
BECAUSE Its premium rates are lowest.
BECAUSE It gives the highest guarantees.
BECAUSE The company is especially helpful to agents.
BECAUSE It is the easiest company in existence to get business for.
BECAUSE You do not have to introduce the company—the company introduces you.
BECAUSE It is the largest, strongest, most progressive life insurance company in the world.

Income in 1900,	$60,582,802.31
Paid Policyholders, 1900,	$26,361,863.83
Assets December 31, 1900,	$325,753,152.51
Insurance and Annuities in force,	$1,141,497,888.02

Experienced Agents may address—

WILLIAM H. WOOTTON,

5—2 Manager for Maryland, BALTIMORE, MD.

The Garrett County Bank

OAKLAND, MD.

Pays 3 Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Subscribed Capital,	$50,000.00
Liability of Stockholders,	100,000.00
Surplus Fund,	10,000.00

DIRECTORS:

DANIEL E. OFFUTT,
GILMOR S. HAMILL,
JOHN M. DAVIS,
GEORGE W. LEGGE,
JOHN T. MITCHELL,
JOHN M. FREELAND,
SCOTT T. JONES.

D. E. OFFUTT, President.
G. S. HAMILL, Vice-President.
S. T. JONES, Cashier.

Authorized Capital $32,000.

The First National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MD.

Now Open for Business

Offers to its patrons every advantage consistent with sound Banking, and which their baiances, business and responsibility warrant.

3 per cent. Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

WE SOLICIT YOUR BUSINESS.

DIRECTORS.

Ed A. Browning, - Oakland, Md.
C. E. Ellithorp, - Bittinger, Md.
L. E. Friend, - Friendsville, Md.
Wm. Moody, - Bloomington, Md.
U. G. Palmer, - Hutton, Md.
R. A. Ravenscroft, Accident, Md.
E. E. Sollars, - Oakland, Md.
U. M. Stanton, - Grantsville, Md.
F. A. Thayer, - Oakland, Md.
M. N. Wilson, - Wilson, W. Va.

OFFICERS.

F. A. THAYER, - President.
M. N. WILSON, - Vice-President.
U. G. PALMER, - Cashier.
M. R. HAMILL, Assistant Cashier.

THE

SECOND NATIONAL BANK

of CUMBERLAND, MD.

Designated United States Depository.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.
BOXES FREE TO CUSTOMERS.

This Bank Pays Three Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Capital	$100,000
Surplus and Other Undivided Profits	250,000
Liability of Shareholders	100,000
Additional Security to Depositors	$450,000

LLOYD LOWNDES, President.
D. ANNAN, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Lloyd Lowndes, O. C. Gephart,
James Clark, L. M. Shepherd,
John Sheridan, A. Hunter Boyd,
David W. Sloan.

Midget Harness Riveter.

Complete repair shop in one tool. Will not wear out. Punches the hole, drives and clinches at one operation. Every horse owner, liveryman, teamster will buy on sight. Does the work of any $25 machine. Complete outfit with big bog of rivets will be sent for

ONLY 50 CENTS.

Agents Wanted.

HANDY ADJUSTABLE LIFTER. Handiest article ever invented for lifting hot pans, stove lids, etc. 15c, postpaid.

S. T. WILSON & CO.,
Box 103. Wilson, W. Va.

I HAVE PURCHASED

THE OAKLAND COAL YARD

of Mr. D. L. Conneway and will continue the business. I will keep constantly on hand a large supply of

HARD AND SOFT

COAL,

KINDLING WOOD, Etc.

All orders will receive prompt attention. Leave orders with the weighmaster or at my residence, the Giessman Hotel.

35-2 GEO. GIESSMAN

The Light of the World

—OR—

Our Saviour in Art

cost nearly $100,000 to publish. Contains nearly one hundred full-page engravings copied direct from the World's Greatest Paintings of our Saviour and His Mother. Contains History of Painting, Biography of Painter, and the Galleries in Europe where the Original Painting may be seen. The most beautiful publication ever issued. The strongest hearts weep at the sight of these wonderful pictures of Jesus and His Mother. Everybody says they are grand, sublime, matchless, magnificent, beautiful, inspiring and uplifting. The sale is unprecedented. The presses are running day and night to fill the orders. Twelve car loads of paper were required for the last edition. Small fortunes are being made by the thrifty with this marvelous work. Contains also a Child's story beautifully written to fit each picture. This wonderful book, matchless in its purity and beauty, appeals to every mother's heart and in every Christian home, where there are children it sells itself. A Christian man or woman can soon clear one thousand dollars ($1,000) taking orders in this community. Others are doing this. Why not you? We are advertising in nearly ten thousand newspapers in this country, Canada, England and Austria. Shipping books to every English-speaking country in the world. We shall promote our best workers to positions of State Managers, Correspondents and Office Assistants. We also own and publish large Photo-gravure Etchings of the great Paintings in the galleries of Europe. One or more of these Etchings can be sold in every home. By carrying the books and the engravings your success will be tremendous. Mrs. Waite, of Worcester, Mass., has sold nearly four thousand dollars worth of books there. Mrs. Sackett has sold nearly two thousand dollars worth of books in New York. Both of these ladies answered our advertisements, and had never sold a book before. Took 14 orders first two days—H. Colwell. Took 5 orders first day; 23 orders first week, clearing over $50—Hattie Lemwell. Thousands of others like above. It is printed on velvet finished paper; bound in Cardinal Red, Green and Gold and adorned with Golden Roses and Lillies. Write quickly for terms as the territory is going rapidly. When you prove your success, we will promote you to the position of Manager and Correspondent under yearly contract.

We shall soon move into our new and elegant structure to be occupied solely by us, and to be known as the Light of the World Building.

Address THE BRITISH-AMERICAN CO.,
CORCORAN BUILDING,
Opposite United States Treasury,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

J. B. WILLIAMS CO.

FROSTBURG, MD.

Cheapest place to buy

MONUMENTS HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING

Send for prices

Oakland Pharmacy

JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.

Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars Cameras and Photo Supplies

GEO. FLACK SANSBURY, ARCHITECT,

Office 7 North Liberty St.

CUMBERLAND, MD.

NORMAN S. HEINDEL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
All business given prompt attention.
Office—Opera House,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

FRED A. THAYER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
OAKLAND, MD.
STATE'S ATTORNEY FOR GARRETT COUNTY.
Office in McComas's Building, Main St.
Will be assisted in all important cases by Benjamin A. Richmond of the Cumberland bar.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
OFFICE ON ALDER STREET.
Particular attention given to Conveyancing, investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated. 1e14-1

JULIUS C. RENNINGER,
ATTORNEY & COUNSELLOR AT LAW
Office opposite Bank, OAKLAND, MD.
Will practice in the courts of Maryland and West Virginia.
Real estate and mercantile law given special attention. Collections and investments made for clients. 45—1yr

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia. '88 10

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas building, Second Street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work. 18-98-tf.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
Felty Building, Opposite Postoffice,
OAKLAND, MD
GAS ADMINISTERED. 50-97

M. C. HINEBAUGH, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
OAKLAND, MD.
Office and residence, Alder St., west of post office.

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North 3rd Street.
Office in Shartzer's Block, Second Street.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Prompt attention paid to day or night calls.
Office at McComas' Sanitarium. 16-'99

H. W. McCOMAS, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Office opposite Garrett County Bank.
Residence on Main Street, opposite Brown's Hotel.
Office hours, 8 to 10 a. m., 2 to 3 p. m., 8 to p. m., from June to October and from October to June, 7 to 8.30 p. m.

DR. D. O McKINLEY,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
SALISBURY, PENNA.
Will visit regularly through Garrett county, Md., and offers his services to those wishing Dental Treatment. Charges moderate.
P. O. address, Elk Lick, Pa. 6 22 6t.

E. J. FRANTZ,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER,
Residence and P. O. Address,
SELBYSPORT, MD.

ANDREW J. HARNE,
AUCTIONEER.
Will sell real or personal property.
Residence Oakland, Garrett county, Md
Oakland, Md., Feb. 21st, 1887.

W. McCULLOH BROWN,
SURVEYOR AND ENGINEER,
LAND SURVEYS PROMPTLY MADE.
Particular attention given to TOWN surveying, and the use of the LEVEL in laying out new roads, streets, water works, drains, and GRADE LINES generally, including tram ways and railroad work. Comparative elevations taken quickly by anerold barometer. Address, box 41, Oakland, Md. 48 26t*

JONAS C. BEACHY,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
Will sell Real or Personal Estate.
Residence and post office address, BITTINGER, MD. 51-1yr.

ALEX'R C. MASON,
PRACTICAL SURVEYOR,
OAKLAND, MD.
Long experience enables me to locate tracts and military lots promptly and accurately. Being thoroughly familiar with the beginning corners of the most important surveys both in Allegany and Garrett counties. Plats, descriptions and estimates furnished.
40-1yr.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R. TIME TABLE IN EFFECT NOV. 25, 1900.

The following time table on the B. & O. went into effect on Sunday, Nov. 25, 1900. Trains now leave Oakland as follows:

GOING WEST.

No. 7.—Daily	3.40 A. M
No. 3—Daily	7.37 A. M
No. 71—Daily except Sunday	9.21 A. M
No. 55—Daily	4.47 P. M
No. 1—Daily	10.05 P. M

GOING EAST.

No. 8—Daily	5.50 A. M
No. 2—Daily	6.53 A. M
No. 46—Express, daily	4.41 P. M
No. 72—Accom daily except Sun	2.26 P. M
No. 12—Daily	8.30 P. M
No. 4—Daily	12.37 A. M

F. D. UNDERWOOD, General Manager.
D. B. MARTIN,
Manager of Passenger Traffic.
D. M. MASON, Agent.

WEST VIRGINIA CENTRAL AND PITTSBURG RAILWAY CO.
IN EFFECT NOV 25, 1900.

SOUTHWARD No. 3	SOUTHWARD No. 1	STATIONS	NORTHWARD No. 2	NORTHWARD No. 4
P. M.	A. M.		NOON	P. M.
3 15†	7 00† lv	Cumberland ar	†12 00	†7 00
3 43	7 29	Rawlings	11 31	6 31
4 06	7 52	Keyser	11 08	6 09
4 16	8 05	Westernport	10 58	5 57
4 29	8 09	W. Va. C. June.	10 51	5 50
4 39	8 25	Shaw	10 28	5 22
5 00	9 00	Harrison	†10 06	†5 00
5 45*	9 50* ar	Elk Garden	*8 10	*4 10
5 41†	9 35† lv	Gorman	†9 35	4 58
5 47	9 42	Bayard	9 29	4 25
5 52	9 54	Dobbin	9 19	4 15
6 02	9 58	Henry	9 15	4 11
6 37	10 57	Thomas	8 40	3 47
6 55	10 55 ar	Davis	8 05	3 05
6 31	10 34 lv	Coketon	8 41	3 40
6 59	11 01	Hendricks	8 10	3 10
7 02	11 04	Hambleton	8 07	3 07
7 05	11 07	Bretz	8 03	3 03
7 08	11 10	Parsons	8 00	3 00
7 43	11 45	Kerens	7 25	2 29
8 00†	12 00† ar	Elkins	lv †7 10	†2 15
	NOON
8 36*	12 45† ar	Beverly	lv *7 20	†1 40
9 05*	1 10† ar	Huttonsville	lv *6 30	†1 15
P. M.				P. M.
	3 15* ar	Bealington	lv	*11 40
	P. M.		A. M.	A. M.

†Daily. *Daily except Sunday.

C. L. BRETZ, Gen. Manager.
G. W. HARRISON, Gen. Pas. Agent

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 25. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, APRIL 25 1901. NUMBER 7.

FLOOD LOSS VERY HEAVY.

$5,000,000 Damage in the Middle West.

Wreck and Ruin Mark Path of Recent Storm—Generally Thought That All Danger is Now Past—25,000 Men Thrown Out of Work in Pennsylvania.

PITTSBURG, PA., April 24.—Reports from the several States in the Middle West that have suffered severely by the floods and storm of the past few days show that the flood was one of the most disastrous in the history of the country. Few cities, towns or farmhouses in the vicinity of the various rivers and tributaries escaped damage, and in a number of places wreck and ruin mark the path of the wind and water. The losses in West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania alone are estimated at five millions.

While Western Pennsylvania is fairly out of the clutches of the flood this morning, fears of a quick repetition of the disaster and perhaps on an increased scale seemed to haunt the people.

Weather conditions are not reassuring. It is again raining in Pittsburg, and advices from the headwaters of the Allegheny this morning showed a renewed rise, with a continued downpour. Warmer temperature acting on the snow was a factor that also caused some apprehension. The waters at this point have been steadily receding since 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, but the retreat has been very slow indeed.

At nine o'clock this morning the Allegheny marks showed 21 feet and falling about three inches an hour. Brooms and scrubbing brushes were manipulated vigorously in Allegheny and Pittsburg today and the post-flood cleaning carried on in earnest. It is impossible to fairly approximate the loss resulting from the high waters. Estimates vary from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000, but the first figures will probably come nearer the correct amount.

Twenty-five thousand employees are now idle. In the two days of enforced idleness they will lose $200,000 in wages. Damage to plants along Penn avenue and to the vast Westinghouse manufactory in Wilmerding, with the shutdown of other big establishments at Rankin and boroughs in the Turtle Creek Valley easily mounts up to half a million more.

The aggregate loss to railroads is estimated at $100,000. Property in Allegheny has suffered injury to an equal extent. Marshaling with these the manifold items of damage to other adjacent communities, the total of $1,000,000 can easily be reached. The mills and factories along the river fronts will not be able to resume before two days. The receding water left a deposit of mud covering the machinery, and the cleaning of this is no small task. The railroads are rapidly getting into shape again, and by evening it is expected that all lines will be running their trains on schedule time.

Thousands of men were employed all day yesterday and today and they have worked wonders in a short time. The Baltimore and Ohio has the eastbound track clear to Connellsville and there is no trouble beyond that point. The westbound track is still blocked at several places between here and Connellsville, but will be cleared up sometime today. They also expect to get through to Wheeling by this evening and open up Western and South-western connections from Pittsburg. The source of the greatest trouble is at Claysville, a short distance from the West Virginia State line.

The Washington branch of the Panhandle, which had to be practically abandoned on Saturday on account of the flood and landslides, was put in shape yesterday and trains are now running over it. The only serious trouble now rests with the Wheeling Division, and it is expected to have this in shape not later than night.

While there may have been greater floods at this point, there was never one that caused so much financial loss and discomfort. This was due to the denser population caused by the recent rapid growth of the two cities, and to the fact that all the manufacturing plants on the river banks were in active operation, most of them working night and day, until the raising water put out the fires and drove the workers to higher ground.

Almost every manufacturing establishment along the Ohio, the Allegheny and the Monongahela rivers suffered. The loss to the Westinghouse Company, it is said, will be over $100,000.

The Pressed Steel Car Company, American Steel and Wire Company, American Steel Hoop Company, Crucible Steel Company and Malleable Iron Company are among the big losers. Most of the mills will be idle several days, and some of them longer. As the waters recede they leave everything touched covered with slime and mud.

The Pittsburg Baseball Park is in bad condition. The first three tiers of chairs in the grand stand were under water, and the bleachers were floating all over the diamond. It will take a week to put the ground in shape.

The railroads entering Pittsburg suffered from flood, landslides, wrecked bridges and snow. On the Fort Wayne the worst trouble was a snow blockade between Salem and Massillon, Ohio. This began on Saturday morning and tied up the road 24 hours. At 9 o'clock this morning the track was cleared and trains began moving. The same trouble kept the Cleveland trains of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie late. The snowfall did not extend east of New Castle, but at Youngstown, Ohio, it was two feet deep, and the drifts in the cuts north of that city were up to the locomotive headlights. The wreck of an Erie train blockaded the road so that deep drifts formed undisturbed. Water was two feet deep on the Lake Erie tracks at Sawmill Run, but trains got through.

Landslides occurred on the Pittsburg and Lake Erie, the Baltimore Ohio at Soho, on the Pan Handle on the South Side; the Bessemer at several points, and the Allegheny Valley near Franklin, Pa. The slide at Soho was 150 feet long, and it required 14 hours' work to clear one track.

At Skobo, between Monaca and Aliquippa, the Lake Erie suffered its most serious landslide. One hundred feet of the west-bound track was carried 50 feet down the steep bank, the whole face of the bank slipping into the river. On the lines of the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio to Wheeling great damage is reported, and both lines were tied up several hours. Five miles of the Pittsburg, Bessemer and Lake Erie tracks were under water or mud. The bank was continually sliding down onto the tracks, and a large force of men could not keep them clear. The damage to telegraph poles and lines along all the roads was enormous, and it will take several days to fully repair them.

The damages to furniture and dwellings in Allegheny is estimated at $100,000. It will take two months of hot summer weather to thoroughly dry out these houses. In Pittsburg the loss to residences, stores and goods and the cost of cleaning up will amount to about $250,000.

A Letter from Peter Bickford.

Sheriff Oester was recently in receipt of a letter from Peter Bickford, formerly of Bittinger, but now serving in the Philippines as a member of Co. E, 47th Volunteer Regiment. It will be remembered that this young man was reported dead by one of our local contemporaries a few weeks ago which report was wholly unfounded and caused the mother of the soldier untold grief and despair.

The letter was dated at Leyte Bay, March 10th, and was received here on the 22nd inst. It contains the good news that young Bickford's regiment would be mustered out of service and returned home within the next few weeks.

Recently the command has been doing an extraordinary lot of work. Three fights were participated in by the regiment in which 200 Filipinos were killed, a number of towns destroyed and six of the enemy's strongholds captured. Sixty men were taken as prisoners and deported to Guam, an island of the Philippine archipelago where prisoners are sent for safe keeping. The letter also tells of the surrender of a number of the Filipino leaders and the capture of one of the generals with whom were two deserters from the American army.

Wreck at Snowy Creek.

Tuesday afternoon eastbound fast freight train No. 92, drawn by engine 1862, one of the new turtle backs, collided with a truck upon which was loaded steel rails at Snowy Creek curve, west of Corinth. One of the rails penetrated the jacket of the engine which, with the tender and one car, were derailed and detained traffic for some hours.

Card of Thanks.

The members of the Oakland Band take this means of thanking Mr. Chas. Tower, members of the Jr. O. U. A. M. and all who so generously contributed to the success of their recent entertainment, "A Hick'ry Farm."

GOOD ROADS TRAIN.

Will Demonstrate Methods of Building Modern Highways.

President Earle of the League of American Wheelman is meeting with approval from many sections on his idea for a "good roads" train. The subject of road improvement is but little understood in this country, and as the primary object of the train is education in road building it will have highly valuable results upon the movement for better highways.

The plan of President Earle is to have a special train, consisting of a sufficient number of cars to carry the latest improved road making machinery of all kinds, and attached to it will be a special car for the road experts who will make the trip. By special arrangements which will be made in advance a road congress will be held in two places in each State, and after a meeting at which the subject of highway improvement will be discussed by the authorities who will compose the party there will be a demonstration of practical road building.

The machines will be utilized in this work, and sample roads will be built to demonstrate the value of improved highways and the economy in using the machines. The manufacturers of these machines will have representatives in the party, and it is expected that they will enliven the proceedings by their competition for orders.

That there is an urgent necessity for better country highways is shown in the statement of a competent authority that $600,000,000 are annually wasted in this country because of the miserable condition of our roads.

It is a fact that every citizen is vitally interested in our country roads. The prices of farm and ranch products are subject to their condition. The farmers are particularly interested. To them modern roads mean progress financially, socially and educationally.

The United States has spent hundreds of millions of dollars in railway subsidies and for rivers canals and harbors, all forms of highways. It has spent comparatively nothing for country roads. But there is not a pound of freight hauled over railroads, rivers, canals or harbors which is not first hauled on country roads or city streets at some stage. The country road is the primary highway of commerce. Hundreds of millions have been spent in improving the secondary lines while the country road has been neglected. If it is economical to improve one part of the haul, why not the other? When the country realizes that it is losing $600,000,000 annually, how long will it take to find a remedy?

These are questions which the League of American Wheelmen is earnestly bringing to the attention of the country. Its work is going forward constantly, but quietly. Whatever progress has been made is to be credited to it. It is admitted that the movement started in the L. A. W. through selfish motives. The league wanted better roads for better cycling. But, whatever the original reason, the organization has found the great economic necessity for good roads and is impressing it upon all classes. It is a need of great magnitude, however, and will take many years of hard work before the object can be accomplished. This is expected by the men leading it, and they are prepared to carry it on for whatever time may be necessary.

In New Jersey and New York, where the plan has been tried, it has given nothing but satisfaction. It has proved practicable in every way.

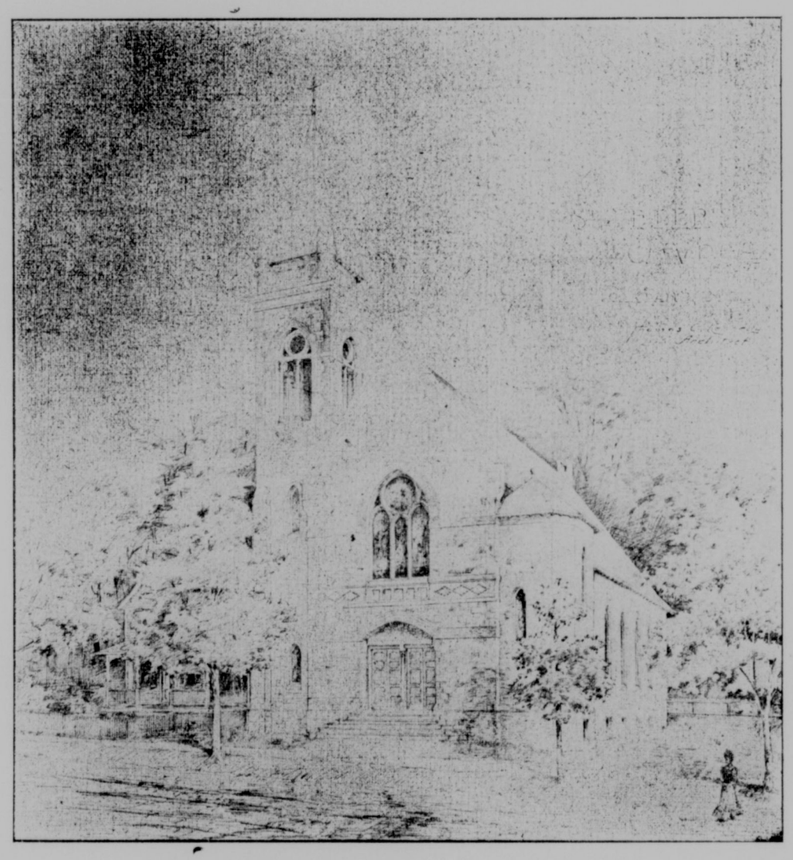
It is to demonstrate these things, as well as to show the proper way of building a road, that the "good roads" train will make its trip over the country. The League of American Wheelmen earnestly invites co-operation in preparing for its reception and stay in the various States, and it should be accorded a welcome everywhere.

In addition to ascertaining the general economic need of modern roads, the league has appreciated the fact that the entire cost of construction should not fall upon the farmers. Dwellers in cities, particularly the large centers of population, benefit by them in no small degree, and it is only reasonable that upon them should fall a portion of the expense. Realizing this, the "state aid" plan has resulted. Under this the State pays a portion of the cost, varying from 33 1-3 to 50 per cent; the county pays another portion, and the property owners pay the balance. In this way the cost of construction is equalized, and the amount paid by the farmer is very small. His immediate returns are increased property valuation, saving of time and expense, ability to haul larger loads with less power, means of easy communication with neighboring farms and towns and the advantages of a passable roadway to the schools for his children and to other places for himself and family.

The Best Blood Purifier.

The blood is constantly being purified by the lungs, liver and kidneys. Keep these organs in a healthy condition and the bowles regular and you will have no need of a blood purifier. For this purpose there is nothing equal to Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, one dose of them will do you more good than a dollar bottle of the best blood purifier. Price, 25 cents. Samples free at all druggists.

GROUND WILL BE BROKEN TO-DAY.



THE PROPOSED NEW CATHOLIC CHURCH IN OAKLAND.

To-day ground will be broken for the proposed new St. Peter's Roman Catholic church in Oakland, of which the above is an illustration. The plan as finally adopted by the building committee of the church makes no changes of moment in the exterior appearance of the building, although at first it was the intention to break the straight lines between the walls and the foundation. The building will be located on Fourth street, adjoining the parochial residence. It will have a frontage of fifty feet and a depth of ninety feet. The whole will be surmounted by a spire one hundred feet in height. The interior finish of the building will be handsome. It will be a great ornament to the town as well as a credit to the congregation. The probable cost will be about $16,000.

Three From the Salisbury Star.

Mr. C. H. Jennings, the popular and well known lumber dealer and manufacturer who is building the extension to the Salisbury railroad, is here ready to proceed with putting down the track. The iron material for the bridge which is to span the river about a mile and a half south of town, is now on the ground, and when erected the work of completing the road will progress very rapidly. In a few months the iron horse will be pulling many cars of lumber out of the region near Bittinger, Md., where one of the largest lumber mills in the country will be in operation. The grading for the extension was completed last fall, and it is altogether likely that new coal as well as lumber territory will be developed shortly after the track is laid. Land owners up the river will do well to give capitalists a fair chance to develop their mineral lands. They will gain nothing, but will lose a great deal by holding their mineral at too high a figure.

Messrs. Henry Yost, U. M. Stanton and Gilead Broadwater, all prominent citizens of near Grantsville, Md., were business visitors in Salibury on Monday. Mr. Yost left here on Tuesday morning for Roanoke, Va., where he will visit with his son, Mr. J. H. Yost, for some time. The son is a prominent business man of Roanoke, and having lots of hustle coupled with the many good traits inherited from his father, his splendid success as a business man is easily accounted for.

There is quite a difference between prices of clothing in Germany and in America. This week Mr. Henry Yost, a prominent citizen of Garrett county, Md., showed us a very fine suit that he had made to order by a good tailor, while visiting in Germany last summer. It cost him only $14 there, while the same suit here would have cost him at least $30 or $35. The low wages paid for labor in Germany are responsible for the cheapness of clothing in that country.

Names State Auditor.

Governor Smith announced that he had appointed Mr. George R. Ash, of Elkton, Md., to audit the accounts of the clerks of the courts, of the State's Attorneys' offices, Registers of Wills' and Sheriffs' offices of the various counties. This appointment was made under the act known as the State Auditor's bill, which was passed at the session of General Assembly of 1900. Mr. Ash is a native of Cecil county and is editor of the Cecil County Democrat.

TO CURE LAGRIPPE IN TWO DAY

Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE TABLETS. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature on every box. 25c.

Communicated.

OAKLAND, MD., April 23, 1901.

To the Editor of the Republican.

After an examination of the levy list for 1901 I am convinced that some praise is due the present efficient Board of County Commissioners for the excellent manner in which they have performed their duties and the good financial condition of the county which has been brought about in large measure by their fidelity and attention to duty.

I notice that while liberal appropriations have been made for roads, schools and other matters pertaining to the due administrotion of the affairs of the county, still the commissioners have been enabled to effect a further reduction in the tax rate which is a matter affecting every property holder in the county. When we come to consider that the tax rate to-day is less by nearly one-half that which it once was in the short history of our county we must necessarily feel that competent management is certainly responsible for this excellent condition of affairs. It is a well known fact that quite a number of influential farmers from adjoining counties have within the last year settled within our borders and their chief reasons for so doing is on account of the low tax rate we have.

Under the present local laws the term of two of our commissioners, Messrs. Geary and Kelso, will expire this year and their places will have to be filled at an election next fall. What better thing could be done by the Republican party than to renominate and reelect these efficient public servants for another term and thus enable them to still further exhibit the ability which they have so signally shown in the good government of Garrett county? They deserve this recognition for their past good record and surely no mistake could be made by returning them to office.

A REPUBLICAN.

Resolutions of Thanks.

The following resolutions were passed at a recent meeting of Garrett Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., thanking the citizens of Oakland for the welcome tendered the visiting Juniors here at the State Council meeting and are published in accordance with the last clause of the resolutions:

BE IT RESOLVED, By Garrett Council No. 35, Jr. O. U. A. M., that we heartily thank the citizens of Oakland for the very kind welcome given and for the hospitality royally shown the visiting delegates attending the session of the State Council Jr. O. U. A. M. and for the liberal display of the National Flag (emblem of the order) throughout the town, and be it

Resolved, That we thank Mr. Scott T. Jones and Julius C. Renninger for the able and eloquent addresses of welcome delivered by them at the opening of the session of the State Council, and be it

Resolved, That we thank Smith's Military Band for the music kindly rendered by them on the occasion of the said session, and be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered upon the journal of the Council and a copy of same be sent to the press for publication.

April 23, 1901. COMMITTEE.

Maryland, the Farmer's Home.

The chief of the Maryland Bureau of Industrial Statistics in his annual report, just issued, gives these nine reasons why he maintains that Maryland is the legitimate home of the farmer:

1. Its favorable geographical and climatical conditions.
2. The adaptability of its soil to the favorable production of such a diversity of crops.
3. The cheap price of land.
4. The character of our public schools and school libraries, together with free books and liberal State appropriations for manual training schools, universities, colleges and seminaries.
5. Good public roads and bridges with a spirit abroad throughout the State to make them better.
6. Its widespread system of water ways, competing with its numerous railways, thereby furnishing cheap rates of transportation.
7. Its proximity to the great cities of Baltimore and Washington, as well as its practical nearness to Philadelphia and New York.
8. The State Agricultural College, with its experiment stations and departments of horticulture, to furnish free such information as may be sought on these lines.

Prominent Merchant Guilty of Larceny.

J. C. Kephart, a prominent merchant of Keyser, W. Va., was convicted in court of petty larceny and was sent to jail. He purchased stolen railroad brass from boys and when arrested had 320 pounds at the depot boxed for shipment. Judge Daily was deaf to entreaties to fine him and allow him to escape jail.

OUR CHORE BOY.

She's up at the break of the dawn,
And tumbling the hay from the mows,
And a merry laugh rings, and a cheery voice sings,
When Mollie is feeding the cows.

Here's Speckle and Brindle and Bess,
And Buttercup there by the door,
Their big stanchions creak, for they're trying to speak,
When Mollie comes over the floor.

The horses stand in the stalls
Their whinnying begging begin,
As if each understood that the measure was good
When Mollie is near to the bin.

And the cattle will follow her round
With a dumb, never failing regard,
As if trying to boast which was loving her most
When Mollie goes into the yard.

Oh, it's well for a lassie to mend,
And it's well for a lassie to darn,
But her eyes are as bright as the stars in the night
When Mollie does chores at the barn.
—Florence Josephine Boyce, in Farm Journal.

Her Forgiveness

By Ethelyn Leslie Huston.

(Copyright, 1901, by Authors Syndicate.)

"NINE o'clock! We will now behold the animals parade," murmured Mrs. Stanley Weston, glancing at the little gold clock that had just announced the hour with musical self-satisfaction.

"Don't be rude, Betty. They're my guests—if they are a bore. How do I look?"

"A touch of rouge, my dear, would assist the ensemble. Pallor is supposed to be interesting and sounds well in books and things. But in real life it's apt to be pasty—looks like disordered liver or love or something."

"Betty! You are atrocious!"

Mrs. Stanard picked up a little silver box and delicately applied a touch of rose-bloom to her cheeks. Mrs. Weston stretched her blue satin slippers toward the bright grate fire with a luxurious little wriggle, but her eyes, blue as the slippers, never left her hostess' face. They narrowed shrewdly as Mrs. Stanard leaned close to the tapers.

"A little more! That's better. Not sleeping well—hm? Don't care whether school keeps and all the rest of it? Won't do, my dear. Ruinous to the complexion. Cut it out."

"I wish you would not use that abominable slang. You talk like some factory girl." Mrs. Stanard put the silver box back on her dressing table with a weary little gesture and the blue eyes narrowed again.

"My dear, it is absolutely impossible to express one's self in the queen's English nowadays. It is good form, of course, but inadequate. Awfully inadequate. The factory girl says in a sentence what good form takes a chapter to express. And even then the factory girl has the best of it. What are you fretting about?"

"Nothing."

Mrs. Weston elevates her artistically penciled eyebrows and thoughtfully pats the pearl clasps on her long suede gloves with one finger. The other folds her arms on the silver Cupid frame of her tall cheval glass and drops her head on her arms. After carefully counting the pearl clasps three times Mrs. Weston nods in a satisfied manner, then allows her eyes to travel up the long lace train till they reach the bare shoulders and still, bowed head.

"That pose is very graceful and fetching, cherie," she says cheerfully. "But it's wasted. There's no one here but me. And it's 9:15."

She looks sharply at the listless face in the mirror, then rises with a little frou-frou of silken petticoats and gets a glass of wine from a cabinet.

"Drink, pretty creature, drink. I don't dare, for it always makes my nose red. That fact alone has saved me from the gold cure. For if there's anything I enjoy it's the wine when it is red. And I could, like Omar, divorce barren reason without a qualm. But my complexion! Especially one's nose. And now, Mrs. Stanard, if you do not want your guests to go home in a dudgeon, minus hostess and temper, it behooves you to make your presence material in the drawing-room. And I do not propose to waste this new gown on the desert air any longer. Come on."

A little later and white lace and blue velvet are surrounded by light and color, the sweeping gowns of fair women and the black coats of the men as contrast. The air is soft and languorous with the odor of hot-house flowers, and through the hum of cultured voices creep the faint strains of distant string instruments.

Mrs. Stanard's face is serene and slightly smiling, and her voice has just that touch of personal interest that sooths and attracts, as she greets each of her guests with perfect tact. Her eyes, dark and tranquil, pass from face to face and tell nothing. The hours pass and find her still smiling, interested, unwearied. Only the flowers droop at her breast and as she unfastens them she presses the thorny stems hard against the soft flesh for a moment. A sharp pain is relief from a dull ache, sometimes. And she smiles oddly as she drops the dead flowers behind her and pulls the frosty lace a little higher where one thorn has marred the skin.

"I missed you last night. You did not go to hear Calve."

A tall man with a dark, strong face was bending over her. The face was too grim to be handsome. It was heavily lined and the eyes were deep-set, keen, reticent.

"Another engagement. And it was Carmen? I was so sorry."

Smiling, she gives him her hand a moment and lifts her eyes to his.

"You are late," she adds, pleasantly.

"Unavoidably—as I need not tell you. But I was philosophical over the delay, as I thought if I came late you might permit me to stay awhile. After the crush, don't you know."

He smiles with whimsical entreaty, and she nods assent as she passes him on to Mrs. Weston and turns to the guests that follow. Mrs. Weston gives him both small hands with frank generosity, and with a strategic movement brings him into position slightly behind her own plump shoulder and under a big palm tree that shadows them both.

"You stay there. I want to tell you a story.—Dear Mrs. Fitz Haven! So delighted! Yes, looks charming, does she not?—There was once a man and a woman who loved each other. They had average sense in most things, but he was jealous and she was proud.—Mrs. Northrop and dear Lillian! So afraid you were not coming. Yes, awfully warm.—She had some good looks and some old beaux. Why not? Did he think nobody could appreciate her till he met her? And after he had deigned to tell her that he looked upon her with favor, one of the old beaux, who had hoped to win her for a long time, met her in the conservatory at a ball. They always do meet in conservatories in stories.—What a sweet gown, Mrs. Talcott. Imported, of course! You lucky woman!—Old cat! She owes my modiste an awful bill. Where was I? Oh, and he, the man, saw the old beau crush her in his arms and kiss her. She couldn't help it, and besides, she felt sorry for him, for she had just told him a final no and he was all cut up.—Mr. Hasbrouck, the pink gown that you are straining your eyes to find in this kaleidoscope is in the tea-room. Don't mention it!—Well, and he, of course, would not ask for an explanation or anything, and courteously released her. Oh, well, she released him, if you think it sounds better. Same thing. But a woman who is not dense can feel that something is wrong and does not need a wall to—er—does not have to be told some things.—Where's that big husband of yours, Marion? I'll pick you up to-morrow and we'll drive to the club together. I want to talk over that nomination. It's all wrong, you know. Club'll go to pieces under that woman! All right, dear. At three.—And he found that his jealousy was a poor substitute for the woman who was the one woman in the world for him, and she smiled proudly and bravely like a gentlewoman, and ate her heart out in secret. Keep quiet! It's my story. And then somebody, who had no patience with the two of them, but who felt sorry and was soft enough to interfere, because things got mixed in her own life once and were not cleared till it was too late—she put her oar in and tried to prevent another shipwreck.—Yes, Mrs. Trevelyan is here, Mr. Trevelyan. No, I missed Saturday's game. My new golf suit was not finished. And it's so cold and I look a fright when I'm cold. Of course, you enthusiasts will play all winter, I suppose!—Thank the powers, they've nearly all gone. This conversational strain on my intellect is awful. Society talk is harder than Ibsen and Tolstoi. Get Kate a glass of wine. The Huntleigh girls and Maud Norris want to talk art class with me in the tea-room. That means half an hour, at least."

Mrs. Stanard turned to the tall man bending over her, with the smile faint on her lips and the eyes strained and weary.

"Yes, I am tired," she said. "No, I do not want anything, only to rest a moment. The heat has made me dizzy. Where is Betty?"

"Betty is in the tea-room," he said. "She is talking cooking-school, or mediæval art, or something of equally vital importance with Miss Norris and the Misses Huntleigh. Betty told me a story about a conservatory this evening. Will you let me take you there now? I want to tell it to you. It is quite interesting. You look very tired. Come!"

In the conservatory he placed her in a long, low chair, and she sank back with a long sigh of relief. The man at her side leaned forward with his elbows on his knees. Slowly closing and opening her little empire fan, and in a steady voice, he told her Mrs. Weston's story.

Then he turned and looked at her pale face with his searching eyes.

"I was wrong—utterly wrong," he said, slowly. "But I have suffered sorely. Can you forgive me. You are great enough—for that?"

A keen anxiety vibrated through the quiet strength of the low tones, and the fan fell to the floor with a little clash of the ivory sticks, as he bowed his head on her hands, lying motionless in her lap—and waited.

She looked down at him with a great wistfulness, and then gently lifted his head till his eyes met hers.

"Yes, we have both suffered, dear," she said. "And it was all so useless! But at such a time a woman can do nothing. Her hands are tied. You doubted me—and when a woman is doubted, she can but be silent. 'To excuse is to accuse.' To enter defense is but to add to her indignity. You doubted me, and I forgive you, because, so doubting, your pain was greater even than mine. And you will doubt again—Ah, yes!" laying her fingers on his lips as he would have spoken. "Because the defect is in your own vision But I will forgive you then, as I forgive you now—because I love you so."

She bent and kissed him lingeringly on the eyes, then added, with a low laugh that ended in a sigh: "And who will play Betty then?"

Submarine Passage to the Pole.

A suggestion which the Viennese are said to favor is to approach the north bole in submarine boats.

Made Deaf by Sneezing.

Louise Gibbons, 22 years old, of Springfield, was made deaf by sneezing.

A TRAGEDY OF DRINK.

Victim of Drink Unable to "Brace Up" Because Temptation Was on Every Hand.

It is amazing to what depths strong drink and a roving instinct will bring a man. There walked into my town the other day a tramp printer who secured employment at his trade. He is a young fellow under 30, but he tells a remarkable tale of his ups and downs, giving ample confirmation of all his story, which he related in a modest manner after some questioning. This common tramp, now working daily at the case, is the son of a wealthy printer and publisher, and has a luxurious home, if he would go to it. He is a graduate of Yale college, and has worked on nearly all the New York papers as a reporter. He was once the editor of a prosperous small town daily; he is a machine operator, and understanding German, French and Spanish, can operate the machines in those languages, and besides this he knows the printing business from top to bottom. However, with all his talents, strong drink has mastered him, and he has degenerated into a tramp. It seems a pity. The other day I met him just as he was recovering from a spree. "Why don't you brace up and be a man?" said I. "Brace up," answered he, "why, how can I when everyone says: 'Come and have a drink,' and a saloon confronts me at every step. I know I was once a top-notcher, and I have the mental capacity to be so again, but I lack the strength; perhaps you call it the moral courage."—The Journalist.

HE COULDN'T "BRACE UP."

TEMPERANCE POINTS.

Northumberland is the worst county for drunkenness in England.

The most prolific source of strife is the wine glass.—Christian Work.

A bill has been introduced in the legislature of Wisconsin providing a home for inebriates.

In Sweden and Norway it is a crime to make any profit on the sale of liquor; it must be dispensed at cost price.

The number of saloons in Ohio last year was 10,348, an increase of 476 over 1899. The license receipts were $1,-864,642.

Nearly 500 saloons have gone out of of business in Cleveland, O., within the last six months, according to the report of the city treasurer.

Some French physicians have discovered what they call an anti-alcohol serum, which they claim has cured 60 per cent. of drunkards treated.

Makers of certain brands of whisky are industriously circulating advertising matter, addressing letters to Christian people and all classes. A subscriber who received such a letter writes: "Is there not some way this infamous business can be stopped?" We know of no other way than to make all such concerns outlaws, just as the lotteries were made outlaws.—Ram's Horn.

Alcohol and Crime.

The warden of the Allegheny (Pa.) county prison board says in his report that during the 12 months ended December 31, 1900, there were received 9,182 prisoners, as against 8,440 the previous year. The jail physician states that 95 per cent. of those committed were under his care for alcoholism, and out of 5,727 who were summarily convicted there was not one who was not a victim of the alcohol habit. Still there are people of moderate intelligence who look upon the saloon business as necessary to municipal prosperity, an evil to be tolerated for the revenue it affords and for the commercial prosperity which is erroneously supposed to attend it. Such ignorance is bound to be banished by the brighter light of the twentieth century.—Cumberland Presbyterian.

Three-Year-Old Cigarette Fiend.

"Sammy" Keller, three years old, is a tobacco fiend, according to his mother, and that is how her apartments at 173 Orchard street, New York city, were set afire. "Sammy," Mrs. Keller says, will smoke anything from a "butt" to a clay pipe, and she cannot break him of the habit. He got hold of a cigarette and went into the bedroom to smoke it. After lighting the cigarette, his mother says, he threw the blazing match on the floor. With the baby on one arm and "Sammy" hanging on to the other hand, Mrs. Keller ran into the street. Then the firemen came and put out the blaze. Sammy was spanked, not for the first time.

FOOD OR POISON?

More Light on the Action of Alcohol —A Thorough Treatment of the Subject.

"The reader of this paper may criticise the wording of the question contained in the title, for no one can dispute that alcohol is a poison; that it can destroy animal or vegetable protoplasm; that if taken in large doses it produces disease and has a paralyzing action, and like all other poisons, if taken in small doses, it has a stimulating effect. The question, therefore, ought to read: Can alcohol, despite its unquestionable toxic properties, also act as a food? This is what we shall endeavor to discuss here on the basis of the facts hitherto established. But we shall also consider the more general questions of the nature of the nutritive and paralyzing qualities of substances, and whether it is possible for a substance to act at the same time as a food and a poison."

Dr. Kassowitz, the author of this paper, then goes on to consider the facts in regard to alcohol which have been established by long and thorough and scientific experiment, quoting from known and recognized authorities on the subject. After holding up both sides of the question, he declares: "The paramount question remains, therefore, Is it true that alcohol, which is a poison, is at the same time a food—or, in other words, are the tissue-saving and the nourishing properties attributed to alcohol based upon undeniable facts, or only upon theoretical constructions?" After thorough and careful consideration of this "paramount question," he concludes as follows:

"It is, therefore, wholly inappropriate to speak of alcohol as fat-saving, and there is still less sense in regarding a toxic substance as food, because the protoplasm it has destroyed is no longer capable of taking part in the vital processes and the oxidations associated with them. Nor is there any reason for speaking of a desirable saving, or, indeed, of a nourishing function of alcohol, if by benumbing the brain centers it lowers the functional activity of the organs innervated by them, and thus causes a diminution of the oxidation processes accompanying their activity. Probably a combination of these two factors causes the diminution in the consumption of oxygen, which has been noted; but neither in the one case nor the other can the lowering of oxidation and of the consumption of fat be attributed to a nourishing, but only to the toxic action of alcohol.

"We are thus freed from the dilemma in which we were placed by admitting on the one hand that alcohol has no albumen-saving properties, as was proven by many experiments, and, on the other hand, by claiming for it the power to save fat. For the two facts from which these contradictory assumptions have been deduced, namely, the absence of a diminution in the breaking up of fat, far from being contradictory, are simply the necessary results of the toxic and deleterious action which alcohol exerts upon the protoplasm.

"In this statement, our final sentence against alcohol is pronounced. For the animal and human organism alcohol is not both a food and a poison, but only a poison, which, like all other poisons, is excitant when taken in small doses, while in larger ones it produces paralysis and death.

"The practical consequences of this view now obtained are a matter of course. We can no longer think of administering the 'toxin of the yeast germ' as food, or with the idea of retarding tissue waste in febrile states or wasting diseases. For it would be strange procedure to introduce a substance into the body for the purpose of retarding waste, which itself attacks and destroys living protoplasm. Nor is there any sense in recommending the toxic alcohol as heat and energy-producing agent on the ground that it is oxidized in the body. Fever patients engender heat in abundance, and they, as well as we, their counselors, ought to employ every means possible to relieve them of that injurious superabundance. It only remains to ask whether in case of fevers we should make use of the stimulating and antipyretic action of alcohol. On the basis of practical experience, as well as from my theoretic standpoint, I should answer this question most decidedly in the negative." Further on Dr. Kassowitz says: "Pneumonia especially subsides without alcohol to perfect satisfaction. And I rejoice to agree in this respect with Aufrecht, one of the best authorities on this disease, who, in his monograph in Nohtnagel's manual, acknowledges himself hostile to the use of alcohol in trtatment of pneumonia, and hopes that its use may be speedily abolished. For the reasons specified above, I should like to see that extended to all use of alcohol in therapeutics. However, that can come to pass only when all thinking physicians clearly appreciate the fact that no substance is able to undertake the double role of a food and a poison, and also, that for alcohol, no nutritive but only toxic properties can be claimed.—Translated for Journal of Inebriety from paper by Dr. Kassowitz, Professor in University of Vienna.

"Self-Control Society."

An organization has been formed in Scotland, at first called the "Sober Scot society," but hereafter to be known as the "Scottish Self-Control society," the purpose of which is to oppose the practice of treating with liquors and "nipping." Several members of the aristocracy are giving the organization the support of their names and influence. The object of the society is certainly a worthy one.—N. Y. Observer.

When a girl's nose gets red when she cries, and she doesn't care who sees it, that settles it; her grief is sincere.—Atchison Globe.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

The friends of the opposition candidate are always "heelers."—Washington Post.

Supply Unequal to Demand.

This is often the case when people strive to be economical, but where one's health is concerned it is false economy to be without simple remedies that cost but moderate prices. When Mr. C. W. Durant was living at Leominster, Massachusetts, he wrote: "I have sold several dozens of your Lotion on the strength of its having cured me and several others of Barber's Itch, as I wrote you, and I need a further supply." Almost every druggist has Palmer's Lotion, but if yours does not, send to Solon Palmer, 374 Pearl Street, New York, for samples of Palmer's Lotion and Lotion Soap.

Coffee and political principles should have good grounds.—Judge.

There Is a Class of People

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

Coughing Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam will stop the Cough at once. Go to your druggist to-day and get a sample bottle free. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents. Go at once; delays are dangerous.

Any act is meritorious that is not a misfit.—Chicago Daily News.

A Lively Wake.

"I hear there was doings at McGhooligan's wake."

"Doings? There wor so manny foine fights, me boy, thot th' wake was raypoorted in the sportin' column."—Indianapolis Press.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is often ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

A small degree of wit, accompanied by good sense, is less tiresome in the long run than a great amount of wit without it.—La Rochefoucald.

Best for the Bowels.

No matter what ails you, headache to a cancer, you will never get well until your bowels are put right. Cascarets help nature, cure you without a gripe or pain, produce easy natural movements, cost you just 10 cents to start getting your health back. Cascarets Candy Cathartic, the genuine, put up in metal boxes, every tablet has C. C. C. stamped on it. Beware of imitations.

You know how you hate some people, without any particular reason. Well, some people hate you in the same way.—Atchison Globe.

You Can Get Allen's Foot-Ease FREE.

Write to-day to Allen S. Olmsted, Leroy, N. Y., for a FREE sample of Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder to shake into your shoes. It cures chilblains, sweating, damp, swollen, aching feet. It makes New or tight shoes easy. A certain cure for Corns and Bunions. All druggists and shoe stores sell it. 25c.

There is a marked difference between music and some piano playing.—Puck.

"I Followed Mrs. Pinkham's Advice and Now I am Well."

A woman is sick—some disease peculiar to her sex is fast developing in her system. She goes to her family physician and tells him a story, but not the whole story.

She holds back something, loses her head, becomes agitated, forgets what she wants to say, and finally conceals what she ought to have told, and this completely mystifies the doctor.

Is it a wonder, therefore, that the doctor fails to cure the disease? Still we cannot blame the woman, for it is very embarrassing to detail some of the symptoms of her suffering, even to her family physician. This is the reason why hundreds of thousands of women are now in correspondence with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. To her they can give every symptom, so that when she is ready to advise them she is in possession of more facts from her correspondence with the patient than the physician can possibly obtain through a personal interview.

Following we publish a letter from a woman showing the result of a correspondence with Mrs. Pinkham. All such letters are considered absolutely confidential by Mrs. Pinkham, and are never published in any way or manner without the consent in writing of the patient; but hundreds of women are so grateful for the health which Mrs. Pinkham and her medicine have been able to restore to them that they not only consent to publishing their letters, but write asking that this be done in order that other women who suffer may be benefited by their experience.

Mrs. Ella Rice, Chelsea, Wis., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For two years I was troubled with falling and inflammation of the womb. I suffered very much with bearing-down pains, headache, backache, and was not able to do anything. What I endured no one knows but those who have suffered as I did. I could hardly drag myself across the floor. I doctored with the physicians of this town for three months and grew worse instead of better. My husband and friends wished me to write to you, but I had no faith in patent medicines. At last I became so bad that I concluded to ask your advice. I received an answer at once advising me to take your Vegetable Compound, and I did so. Before I had taken two bottles I felt better, and after I had taken five bottles there was no happier woman on earth, for I was well again. I know that your Vegetable Compound cured me, and I wish and advise every woman who suffers as I did to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Believe me always grateful for the recovery of my health."—MRS. ELLA RICE, Chelsea, Wis.

$5000 REWARD Owing to the fact that some skeptical people have from time to time questioned the genuineness of the testimonial letters we are constantly publishing, we have deposited with the National City Bank, of Lynn, Mass., $5,000, which will be paid to any person who will show that the above testimonial is not genuine, or was published before obtaining the writer's special permission.—LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3 & $3.50 SHOES UNION MADE.

The real worth of my $3.00 and $3.50 shoes compared with other makes is $4.00 to $5.00. My $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price. Best in the world for men.

I make and sell more men's fine shoes, Goodyear Welt (Hand-Sewed Process), than any other manufacturer in the world. I will pay $1,000 to any one who can prove that my statement is not true.

(Signed) W. L. Douglas.

Take no substitute! Insist on having W. L. Douglas shoes with name and price stamped on bottom. Your dealer should keep them; I give one dealer exclusive sale in each town. If he does not keep them and will not get them for you, order direct from factory, enclosing price and 25c. extra for carriage. Over 1,000,000 satisfied wearers. New Spring Catalog free. Fast Color Eyelets used exclusively. W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

THE HOUSEHOLD

AN EXCELLENT IDEA.

How to Extemporize an Aquarium That Is Capable of Affording Lots of Entertainment.

A globe with goldfish makes a very attractive ornament for a room, but globes and goldfish are not always available, and so the extemporized aquarium outlined herewith may be used to great advantage. It is one of the great bottles that can be purchased for a few cents at a druggist's. Get one that holds about two gallons, and put some clean sand in the bottom with a few mossy stones, and anchor in the sand a few plants from some nearby brook. From the same brook can be secured snails, tadpoles, salamanders and the tiny black-nosed dace. Here is an aquarium at almost no cost that is capable of affording a great deal of entertainment, and not a little instruction.

IMPROVISED AQUARIUM.

When the plants are growing nicely, giving off oxygen and feeding upon the carbonic acid gas in the water, the latter need not be changed oftener than once a week, unless too much animal life is introduced into the water. A little experience will show just how many inmates of the aquarium the plants will "balance."—Webb Donnell, in Farm and Home.

BREAKFASTING IN BED.

A Practice Highly Recommended in Many Cases of Nervous Complaint and Exhaustion.

When the ordinary woman tells of taking her breakfast in bed she tells it apologetically. The statement is in the nature of a confession. And for that reason we have come to associate with the practice named a spirit of laziness.

To the woman who has her coffee or chocolate and rolls brought to her before she arises there is solid satisfaction in the news that a good many New York physicians are gradually committing themselves to the habit. In fact, they advise breakfasting in bed in many cases of nervous complaint.

The idea seems to be that rest is the agency most necessary to bring about a return of health in nervous temperaments. The woman who worries over her household affairs and suddenly finds herself on the verge of a breakdown is the woman to whom the rest cure is being prescribed. The doctors do not tell her to entirely discontinue her work around the house. As a matter of fact, they assure her that such a cessation would do her more harm than good. Therefore she is advised to ease up a bit in her daily labors; to do a greatly reduced part of her work.

In addition to this she is counseled to take much sleep. "Go to bed at nine o'clock," say some physicians, "and do not get up until after breakfast. Have your maid bring the breakfast tray into your bedroom; eat grain foods and drink plenty of milk. It is a general rule to drink three quarts of milk a day. Eat a little meat, if you wish to, but take it in the middle of the day, giving it plenty of time to be digested. Get out in the open air and walk about a bit, but do not tire yourself by overexertion. Take a short time off twice a day and resign yourself to rest."

This isn't a very complicated prescription, but it at least has the merit of simplicity.—Kansas City Times.

RUNS A MEAT MARKET.

Unique Business Venture of a Rochester (N. Y.) Girl Who Had to Earn a Living.

Rochester furnishes a unique example of the modern woman. She is Miss D. E. Stevenson, who has opened a butcher shop at the corner of Plymouth avenue and Grieg streets, and has succeeded in establishing one of the leading retail meat stores of the city.

Miss Stevenson does all the regular work of a butcher except the slaughtering, and in order to complete her education is even willing to attempt that. She does all her own buying, cutting, weighing, etc., attends to the selling at the store and keeps her own books. She has only one employe, a lad who delivers the orders.

The fair knight of the saw and cleaver is a modest, unassuming little woman, 28 years of age, slightly below the average height and with a physique not at all notable for robustness.

She comes of an excellent family, has good social connections and has had the advantage of a first-class education. Tact, rare administrative powers and a splendid conversational faculty has been the main factor in her success in this novel enterprise.

The aristocratic friends who knew Miss Stevenson in the days when she never gave a thought to the possibility of having to earn her own living have not deserted her, now that changed conditions have forced her into business. Instead, they have rallied to her support, and as a consequence the charming butcher not only enjoys the patronage of the best and wealthiest families of Rochester, but she is also a welcome guest at their homes.

Winter and summer she is always to be found at the store; she herself opens up in the morning, in winter time at 6:30 and in summer at six o'clock. She dons a dainty white apron, takes up her place behind the counter and from morn till night busies herself catering to the wants of her various customers.

She wields a cleaver and uses a saw and knife with all the strength and facility of a man. In a rush it is amusing to watch her at work. She is full of bustle, activity and decision, and every action denotes the utmost confidence.

"I suppose it is a rather unusual

MISS STEVENSON IN HER SHOP.

business for a woman," she said, in the course of a recent conversation, "but I find the work thoroughly congenial and have managed by strict attention to business to make for myself a recognized position in the storekeeping interests of the city.

"I very seldom lose anything through bad accounts. My customers are mostly people of means, and pay very promptly.

"I take no chances, however. I believe that good stock is a better asset than a bad account any day, and would much rather lose a customer than get cheated out of a bill. If I send a statement and receive no returns I immediately drop that patron from my roll and refuse to extend them any further credit.

"The greatest requisite to success in any retail line is imperturbable good nature. I make a specialty of cultivtaing it.

"I try to look at my profit and loss account philosophically and to avoid seduously ill temper and dejection."—Philadelphia Press.

THE FARMING WORLD

BUILDING DRY WALKS.

It Is Quite Expensive to Build Them, But, When Properly Constructed, They Will Last Forever.

A walk from house to barn and woodshed is a good thing in times of mud or slush. It should be high and dry. A chief reason why so few farmers have these walks is the expense, and still most farms can procure material of some sort at little or no cost. Strips of wood three inches wide pegged on edge two feet apart or further, and filled between with gravel or sawdust, make good walks. Another useful thing is slabs, but they must be put together right. The round side of each end must be hewed flat and two inches thick. These must butt one against another on a thick, flat stone or block of wood, or upon a pier of brick. Use the longest slabs obtainable, 12, 16 or even 20 feet. Between the flat stones or blocks use heavy pieces of wood hollowed down to fit the rounding side of the slab, which, of course, is turned flat side up to walk upon. These hollowed blocks are to support the slab and keep it from the ground.

INDESTRUCTIBLE WALK.

Two rows of cobbles or bricks on each side, laid to break joints and filled between with broken stone or gravel and surfaced with sawdust or sand, make durable and pretty walks. Expensive plank walks or slat walks are least satisfactory.

The indestructible walk, though expensive, is made by first excavating the soil three feet deep or below frost or to bed rock, and filling in with cobbles, brickbats, gravel or shale, rounding it above the surface and covering it with finely sifted gravel, or with coarse gravel and fine gravel or sand on top. When the trench is dug it should be excavated six to eight inches wider than the walk that is desired. The filling should be tapered to the width of the intended walk, and the soil filled in as shown in the cut.

This permits the frost to lift the soil and leave the walk undisturbed. The great trouble with all walls and walks is the frost. It will heave and spoil if the works are not put in under the best conditions. The best work is cheapest in the end.—Farm Journal.

The Man and the Farm.

How any farm should be cropped depends upon where the farm is, its character and location. Some farms are by nature pasture farms, because they are not adapted to cultivation; other farms invite tillage. Size, too, is a controlling factor. A crop rotation and schedule of farm work that is admirable for 50 acres may be wholly impracticable for 500 or 1,000. All of these and many other circumstances and conditions need to be carefully considered by each farmer who desires to make the very best possible use of his land. Another and the most potent factor of all is the man himself. The man makes the farm good or bad, as the man makes almost everything else that comes under his control.—Jersey Bulletin.

Improved Roads at Buffalo.

The method of constructing highways as employed by the Massachusetts state highway commission will be exemplified at the Pan-American exposition. John McClintock, a civil engineer of Boston, has secured a concession of 7,000 square feet, located near the central power station. The highway commission has also entered into the plan and has agreed to send over an expert to superintend the construction of a section of model highway. It is proposed to have a small municipal road-building plant in operation to demonstrate to visitors from the central and far west what can be done with rough country roads under the Massachusetts system.

Grass Seed for a Cemetery.

No grasses excel Kentucky blue grass and red-top either in beauty or utility for the purpose named. The seeds may be mixed in equal proportions, and 80 to 100 pounds of the mixture should be sown to an acre of well-prepared and enriched soil. A pound of sweet vernal grass may be added for the sake of the pleasant odor. This is rather heavy seeding, as the above grasses only weigh about 14 pounds to the measured bushel, but the result will be better, and far more permanent than if a smaller quantity is used. Six or eight pounds of white clover per acre may well be sown separately. It is very useful for covering vacancies and supplying nitrogen to the grass roots as time goes on.—Rural New Yorker.

If you want a nice little peach orchard of 20 trees here is a selection for you: Three Mountain Rose, three Stump, two Old Mixon, three Crosby, three Lovett's White, three Smock and three Fox's Seedling.

OUR LITTLE SISTER IN THE EAST.

THE Japanese woman is the brightness and charm of the Sunrise kingdom. Sweet of face is she, of a gentle disposition and childlike heart.

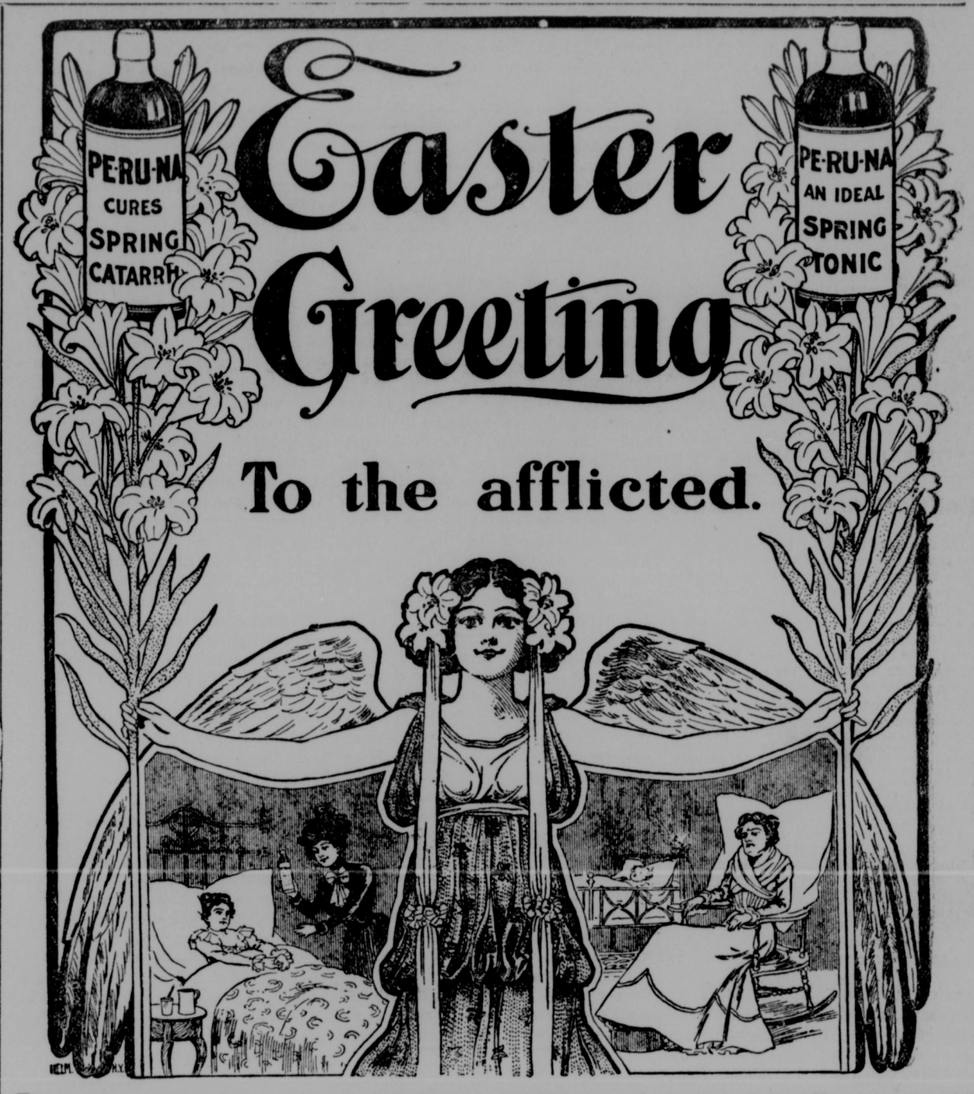
She is truly the lady of the house; reading some, writing a little, playing upon their sweet musical instruments, painting and embroidering to her heart's content, presiding at tea parties and cultivating flowers.

The dress of the Japanese, says the National Rural, is beautiful and comfortable and very dainty and becoming to the doll-like women and girls. Rich, splendidly embroidered and lovely colored silks, is what the wealthy are clothed in.

Is not the American woman, with her loose flowing jackets, soft lacy sleeves, graceful jackets, and her bows, girdles and beautiful sashes, imitating somewhat her little sister in the east?

The little lady asleep on the floor has probably been entertaining some company at an afternoon tea, and now that they are gone she is lying down in her sweet, clean room for a little rest.

Our American women, with their comfortable lounges piled high with downy pillows, would probably find this a very uncomfortable way to rest.



IF every one in the world were healthy and happy what a glad day Easter would be. But the sun rises every Easter morning on a multitude of sick and afflicted. The Easter lilies gladden the hearts of the sick and well alike.

But to the sick something more than the Easter lily is necessary to bring that hope and cheer which every one expects on Easter day. The well need no physician, but the sick need a remedy.

Nearly one-half the people in the United States are suffering from some form or phase of catarrhal ailment. These ailments take different forms at different seasons of the year. In the springtime catarrh assumes a systemic form, producing nervousness, lassitude and general languor.

Systemic catarrh deranges the digestion and through deranged digestion it impoverishes or contaminates the blood. Thus we have blood diseases and nervous derangements through systemic catarrh.

Peruna is a specific for these cases. No other remedy yet devised by the medical profession is able to successfully meet so many phases of spring ailments as Peruna.

Men and women everywhere are praising Peruna as follows:

A First Class Tonic.

Wm. A. Collier, Assistant Paymaster U. S. N., writes: "I have taken Peruna and recommend it to those needing a first-class tonic."

A Great Tonic.

Hon. M. C. Butler, Ex-U. S. Senator and Ex-Governor of South Carolina, writes from Edgefield, S. C.: "I have been using Peruna for a short period and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a wonderful medicine and besides a great tonic."

Splendid for the Nerves.

Robert B. Mantell, the famous actor, writes from New York City: "Peruna is splendid and most invigorating—refreshing to the nerves and body."

For General Debility.

Hon. Jno. V. Wright, of the Law Department, General Land Office of Tennessee, writes: "I wish everyone who is suffering with general debility or prostration could know of Peruna."

A Spring Tonic.

Mrs. D. W. Timberlake, Lynchburg, Va., says: "There is no better spring tonic than Peruna, and I have used about all of them."

A Good Tonic.

Captain Percy W. Moss, Second Arkansas Volunteers, writes from Paragould, Ark.: "I find Peruna a very good spring tonic, and will readily recommend it at any time."

Builds Up the Entire System.

Miss Jennie Johnson, 3118 Lake Park avenue, Chicago, Ill., is Vice President of Chicago Teachers' Federation. She writes: "Peruna restores the functions of nature, induces sleep and builds up the entire system."

Makes Steady Nerves.

D. L. Wallace, Charter Member International Barbers' Union, 15 Western avenue, Minneapolis, Minnesota, writes: "I now feel splendid. My head is clear, my nerves are steady, I enjoy my food and rest well."

The Best of Tonics.

Hon. W. C. Chambers, Chief Justice of Samoa, says: "I have tried one bottle of Peruna and I can truthfully say it is one of the best tonics I ever used."

A Grand Tonic.

Mrs. Gridley, mother of Captain Gridley, of the "Olympia," writes: "I used Peruna and can truthfully say it is a grand tonic."

For Overwork.

Mr. Tefft Johnson, a prominent actor of Washington, D. C., writes from Fourteenth and "I" streets: "In the effort to improve a condition impaired by overwork, I have found nothing that has done as much good as Peruna."

For a Worn-out System.

Mrs. Catherine Toft, President "Valkyrien Association," 5649 Cottage Grove avenue, Chicago, Ill., writes: "I often advise Peruna in cases of a worn-out system and a broken down constitution."

When a man gets angry his reason takes a short vacation.—Chicago Daily News.

Nothing is so much plagiarized as original sin.—Puck.

Importance of Hair.

"It's wonderful," says Uncle Jasper, "what a little bit of hair will do for a person. Now, there was Hank Ridley. When Hank was a young feller he was the most gawky lookin' chap I ever saw. His hair growed away down nearly to his eyebrows, and they wan't nothin' much but a kind of a hollow place where you'd natchelly 'spose his chin ought to been. Well, Hank's kind of bald-headed now, and since he's raised whiskers you can't see but what he's got just as much chin as the next man. Five years ago, before his hair began to fall out, and when the barber never thought of askin' him if he wanted a shave, Hank was workin' for $40 a month in a railroad office and gettin' looked down on by everybody around the place. Now, where do you 'spose he is? By gum! he's general manager of the road, and there ain't a more businesslike-lookin' feller in our hull county. Talk about splittin' hairs! I tell you, there's more in it than most people think fer, and it makes a lot of difference sometimes whether a feller has 'em on top of his head or the lower end of his face."—St. Louis Republic.

The Rehearsed Wedding.

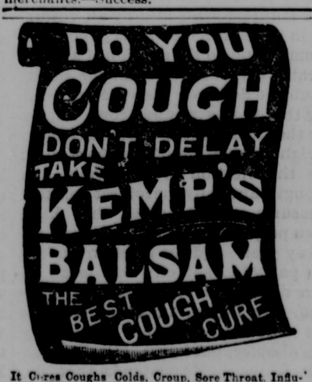
The wedding was, upon the whole, an artistic success. The bride, particularly, evinced unmistakable talent. She trembled with all the technical accuracy of an aspen leaf and the emotional intensity of a startled fawn. Her trembling, indeed, was irreproachable. If she cast down her eyes with something of amateurish gawkiness the fact is easily attributable to her inexperience—this being her first wedding—rather than to an essentially defective method. She was fairly well supported. The bridegroom rose from his knees too soon and had to be knocked down by the prompter, but otherwise the minor parts were carried creditably.—Detroit Journal.

An individual who lives for himself alone should live by himself—alone.—The Schoolmaster.

Great opportunities are loath to go where small opportunities are neglected.—Los Angeles Herald.

Misfit Occupations.

Half the world seems to have found uncongenial occupations. Servant girls are trying to teach; natural teachers are tending stores; good farmers are murdering law, while Choates and Websters are running down good farms; and good farmers, in turn, are farming still in congress. Artists are spreading daubs on canvas who should be whitewashing board fences. Shoemakers write good verses for the village paper and natural statesmen are pounding shoe lasts, while other shoemakers are cobbling in legislative halls. Good mechanics and electricians are trying to preach sermons, and wondering why their congregations continue to sleep, while the Beechers are failing as merchants.—Success.



It Cures Coughs Colds, Croup, Sore Throat, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Price, 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

With rig to sell our Poultry Mixture; straight salary $15.00 per week and expenses; year's contract; weekly pay. Address with stamp EUREKA MFG. CO., Dept. 5, East St. Louis, Ill.

In 3 or 4 Years an Independence Is Assured

If you take up your homes in Western Canada, the land of plenty. Illustrated pamphlets, giving experiences of farmers who have become wealthy in growing wheat, reports of delegates, etc., and full information as to reduced railway rates can be had on application to the Undersigned, who will mail you atlases, pamphlets, etc., free of cost. F. PEDLEY, Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada; M. V. McINNES, No. 2 Merrill Blk., Detroit, Mich.; E. T. HOLMES, Room 6, Big Four Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind. Special excursions to Western Canada during March and April.

PATENTS without fee unless successful. Send description; FREE opinion. MILO B. STEVENS & CO., Estab. 1864. Div. 3, 817—14th Street, WASHINGTON, D. C. Branch offices: Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit.

RHEUMATISM Van Buren's Rheumatic Compound is the only positive cure. Past experience speaks for itself. Depot, 258 S. California Ave., Chicago.

A. N. K.—C 1860

FISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

THE REPUBLICAN.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Editor and Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

THE REPUBLICAN is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year	$ 1.25
One copy six months	.75
One copy three months	.40
One copy one month	.15
Single copies	.05

ADVERTISING RATES.

First insertion for square of ten nonpareil lines, $1; each additional insertion after first, 0 cents per square of ten nonpareil lines.

REMITTANCES:

Remittances made by money order, bank draft, registered letter or express order will be at our risk; if made otherwise, at the risk of the sender. Address,

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, APRIL 25, 1901.

Political Announcements

The following rates for publishing political announcements in these columns have been fixed and will be charged to those who desire to make their wishes known to the voters of Garrett county. These charges are payable in advance of the first publication of notices:

For State Senator, $10; County Treasurer, $5; Sheriff, $5; Members of the House of Delegates, $5; County Commissioner, $5.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER.

At the solicitation of friends I announce myself as a candidate for the nomination for County Treasurer, subject to the Republican Nominating Convention, and most respectfully solicit the assistance and influence of all Republicans. Should I be nominated and elected I promise to give personal attention to the duties of the office.

JAS. W. WHITE,
District No. 14. Oakland.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the nomination of Sheriff for Garrett county, subject to the decision of the Republican Nominating Convention, and solicit the support of Republicans throughout the county.

Dist. No. 7. ANDREW SHARTZER.

FOR SHERIFF.

Newspaper Frauds.

"Non-partisan" papers, edited by partisans, are the most patent humbugs of the age. In commenting upon public matters they start out non-partisan, but wind up partisan. They are simply frauds. A partisan paper is the more to be admired. It sacrafices patronage for principle. It is more honest, for it does not play for both sides, and does not pretend to be anything than partisan. There is nothing antagonistic to honesty in being partisan, and there is every inducement to dishonesty in being non-partisan or independent. The most despicable object is a partisan who pretends to conduct a non-partisan or independent paper, and then by his acts endorses every principle and policy which his party espouses.—Westminster (Md.) Advocate.

MR. GORMAN is making side door visits to Baltimore.

Railroad Talk.

A suggestion contained in the Baltimore correspondence of one of our local contemporaries last week is well worthy of consideration by the people of the county bordering on the Youghiogheny river and the communities directly adjacent thereto. We refer to the extension of the Confluence and Oakland Railroad from its present terminus to Oakland.

Since the publication of the correspondence we have it from good authority that if the right of way can be secured free of cost to the promoters of the railroad that it will be built at once. A road through the section of the country referred to would be of lasting benefit to the entire community. It would increase land values its entire length, give a ready market to the products of the farmers and place Oakland in close touch with the other sections of the county to the north of us.

Every land owner and business man of the county is compelled at one time or another during the year to make visits to Oakland either on court or other business and the trip from the vicinity of Friendsville or Selbysport, Accident and the Cove could be made in an hour or two, whereas now the time consumed must exceed five to ten hours, owing to the condition of the roads. The return journey can barely be made the same day. With the railroad facilities at command people can come to Oakland early in the day, transact their business and make the return home without any inconvenience and with the loss of probably a few hours from their farms or places of business. The right of way along the river which is desired by the promoters of the railroad runs over land which is untillable and of but small value to the owners. The results which will undoubtedly accrue when the road is built will more than doubly pay for the land donated. Aside from this it will bring more settlers to the county and in many other ways increase the prosperity of the whole people of the county.

IF THERE ever was a time in the political history of the Republican party of Maryland that required sincere and earnest effort to overthrow and defeat the plotters who would entrench themselves in power at the cost of the rights of the people guaranteed by the Constitution of the State, it is now. All differences of opinion as to party management and the disposition of public places should be sunk and one supreme effort made to rescue the State from the old enemies of good government who, by disfranchisement schemes, would again fasten themselves upon the people and surely become unmindful and oblivious of their interests. Every individual member of the Republican party has a duty to peform in keeping in view the great principles of the party, rather than the unimportant personalities involved in local political campaigns.—Dorchester Standard.

THERE has not been a Democratic organ, or Democratic politician or Democratic driveling scribbler who has not said that the disfranchisement law prevented corruption and bribery; and there has not been one to deny the allegation that it makes bribery and corruption easier than under the old law. Vic Baughman was the man that had the law passed and he seems to have been the first man to have succeeded in getting his men in office under the new law. Democrats say it was by the most shameful exhibition of bribery and corruption that the Democrats succeeded in carrying the election in Frederick.

PRESIDENT MCKINLEY will leave Washington April 29 on a 10,000-mile trip to the Pacific coast and back, returning to the seat of government June 15. All the members of the Cabinet except the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of War and the Attorney General, will accompany the Executive party. Twenty-three States and two Territories will be traversed, over a route touching the Gulf of Mexico, the Pacific Ocean and the Great Lakes. Stops will be made to break the monotony of the continuous movement at all centres of population and places of local and scenic and sight seeing interest. There will be occasional speeches, and the tumult of welcome a Presidential visit always evokes will stir the country.

Where Is It?

Where is the purity promised by the Democratic ring? How will this disfranchisement law strike corruption to the ground and raise politics from the mire of money and evil influences? What did the Democratic leaders mean when they insisted that the disfranchisement law was passed in the interests of pure elections? Why was it that Victor Baughman stated that it was necessary to change the election law to purify the ballot? When people said that the disfranchisement law was a measure simply to aid in the perpetuation of the Gorman ring in power, they were called liars, foes to clean elections and friends of bribery and corruption.

The people remember how the Democratic ring leaders and the Democratic slave press spoke of purity, and made long faces about the bribery that existed under the old law. This and many other thoughts come to mind when the story of the Frederick election is told. When the leaders of the fight for the Democrats said that if it had not been for the votes that had been bought and paid to stay away from the polls, the Democratic party would have gone down in defeat, the hypocricy of the purity cry was exposed in all its revolting colors.

This is a specimen of what the Democratic ring machine brought about, the sort of politics it fosters and the horrible political conditions it engenders. A terrible blow has been administered to the rights of the people and the people cannot lose any time in speedily putting an end to it.

When the lion lays down with the lamb the Gorman ring will purify elections. The citizen who believes the ring is not corrupt needs a guardian. The Baltimore Sun, the paper that said the ring had been purified by chastisement, needs the spirit of one of the departed Abells to guide it again.

Still the Leader.

W. J. Bryan has been comparatively quiet since the last national election, a matter of six months or so, but the feeling was lurking about that Mr. Bryan still considered himself the leader of the Democratic party. He has confirmed this idea by an editorial in a recent issue of his paper. In commenting on the election of a Democratic candidate for mayor in St. Louis, he deplored his success, holding that it was a disastrous victory for the Democratic party. Mr. Bryan is right in that opinion of the matter, for the election of Mr. Wells was brought about by the foulest political measures and outrages that have been perpetrated in this country for many years, and the reaction against the party in that city will mean its sure defeat at every subsequent election. Mr. Bryan, however, arrives at the same conclusion that the victory is a disaster, but by an entirely different channel. He contends that Mr. Wells is a representative of the Gold Democrats, an element in the party that should be eradicated either by expulsion or by smothering. In announcing this view he states that the Democratic party is inimical to the gold interests and will be found arrayed at the next national election along the same lines as heretofore, with the avowed purpose of overturning everything that the Republican party and Gold Democrats represent. This means that he expects to be in the lead again and will keep the party tied to principles of which he is the exponent. Mr. Bryan's announcement indicates that he has the courage to stand up to his principles, bad as they may be, and that he is brave enough to lead another assault against the substantial interests and well being of this country, despite the several crushing defeats he has sustained at the hands of the people.

The Gorman Boomerang.

A dread suspicion which refuses to be allayed has found an abiding place in the breast of the Maryland Democratic press, that the Gorman disfranchisement law will develop boomerang tendencies and that it will eventually hit the white illiterates harder than it will the black, although on the face of the returns, the latter outnumber the former quite two to one. The argument is put forward, by certain electors of Democratic persuasion, that the negro illiterates who are credited in the main to the Republican party are ambitious to get sufficient education to enable them to vote, while the white illiterates are too apathetic to care whether they are allowed the right of elective franchise or not.

Should this be the true situation Gorman and his fellow conspirators will indeed have cause to gnash their teeth in rage. To the one far removed from Maryland's boundaries, and unacquainted with Gormanite trickery, this law might be regarded as fair from a theoretical standpoint, as it deals or pretends to deal with both races alike and some of Mr. Gorman's friends have declared that he is deserving of praise instead of censure for devising the law. But there is nothing altruistic about Gorman. The last thing he had in mind, if such an inference ever found refuge for an instant in his brain, while he was dictating the new franchise act, was the elevation of the community or any portion of it save himself. His single purpose and whole intent was to devise a plan whereby he might get back into the U. S. Senate. The thing which gave Gorman's trickery a widespread interest was that it is a part of the general conspiracy to keep the Republicans in the minority in the Southern States, but Gorman's only concern in this connection is purely for his individual advancement, with no regard for the welfare of his party. Happily the decent people of Maryland entertain but mild admiration for Mr. Gorman, and unless he keeps his personality in the background from now until the ides of November, ever pursuing a persistent purpose to obliterate his past and present political record from public gaze, his chances for a return to the United States Senate will dwindle like mist before the rays of a summer sun.

A Country Newspaper.

Indissolubly connected with the immense growth of the American nation has been the country newspaper. As an institution it has been a prime factor in the development of the great West, says the National Tribune. No sooner is a town definitely located than a local newspaper springs into being with all the vigorous enterprise characteristic of American journalism. The country newspaper, in its strictest sense, is an American institution. While foreign newspapers only contain "court news" and chiefly chronicle the movements of the aristocracy, the personal column of the American country newspaper recognizes the sovereign right of the plain people of the town or village to a reasonable publicity in the "personal column." We much confess there is more of picturesque interest in these simple records than the stereotyped praise of kings, dukes and dowagers.

There is no periodical that can hope to supplant the home paper. No matter how much other publications may flaunt literary treasures, authors with big names, the prestige of local state and national influence, the home paper has its sacred attention at the family hearthstone. Even the wealth bedizened suburbanite must have a weekly glimpse at the modest little village paper. And who does not welcome the paper from the "old home" in its familiar wrapper?

Issues Well Chosen.

The Republican party managers have acted wisely in determining to make the extra session one of the leading issues in the councilmanic campaign. That election will not, of course, directly decide the disputed points concerning the extra session. The decision on these points will be rendered in the fall, when the issue will be the election of a legislature to undo the work of the extra session. But it is well that the people be urged to express their opinion of the extra session now. Such an expression will vitalize the issue for use in the fall.

That session was thoroughly bad. Certainly nothing good has come from it. The new election law, no matter what its consequences may be, was inspired by an unsafe and outrageous spirit of partisanship—a spirit deserving of rebuke at the polls. The new census act is judgable by the manner in which it is being enforced. Public opinion has been insulted by the selection of old-time organization leaders to do the work, and the census is being converted into an agency for the rehabilitation of the old ring. The Sewerage Act, too, is objectionable to a large majority of the people in its present form.

The partisanship thus bred in the extra session has quickly borne fruit. The Democratic organization had its courage revived at Annapolis. It then came to Baltimore, and in the recent primary election unmasked itself. It has set out to repudiate its reform promises. If this spirit is not checked there is no telling where it will end. With the old organization made supreme again, the city can hope for nothing from the Democracy for its better element. To check it is a present duty, hence the wisdom of the Republicans in making it and its undesirable products the immediate issue.

That the Republicans can with propriety do this is undeniable. Their own record contains no parallel for this partisan boldness. They have in every ward and district of the city nominated exemplary candidates. These nominations were not made in a primary dominated by an organization bent on crushing the good men. The candidates are the choice of the whole party, chosen for their worth and sterling qualities. If elected they will be the henchmen of no close corporation of party dictators, but will strive to do their duty by all the people. These men, without exception, are worthy the support of all men who admire public honesty and civic virtue, and who desire to save the city from a return to conditions like unto those that prevailed prior to 1895. With such candidates and such issues the Republicans should triumph in the May election.—Balto. American.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

The demand for Park printed matter is growing. Manager Rudisill put several hundred copies of the new illustrated booklet in Baltimore and Washington for distribution. He filled a requisition a few days ago for double the number first given out.

"The oldest inhabitant" does not remember such a demand for houses as we are having this spring. A half dozen applications for twenty to forty room houses could not be filled. An encouraging sign is the demand for houses with bath rooms and sanitary closets. This demand will be met in another year. The motto of the Park management seems to be "There is nothing too good for the Park," and that is about the truth. The Park deserves the best there is to be had.

Among our summer visitors to take possession of cottages at this early date are Mrs. Hall, of Fairmont, W. Va.; Miss Bond, of Buckhannon, W. Va., and F. T. Martin and family, of Fairmont.

S. L. Allen, Esq., of Baltimore, was here last week for a few days. He will return next week to make some improvements upon his property.

Mrs. Wilson, of Cumberland, who so successfully conducted "Allen-Hurst" last season, has rented the house for this summer.

Miss Georgia Hoye, of Deer Park, has rented the Allegany House for the season of 1901 and will open it for guests May 15.

L. T. Yoder, Esq., of Pittsburg, spent part of last week in this place, the guest of Supt. London.

Judge Kendall, Editor McKinney and Colonel Smith, of Fairmont, were enjoying the Park last Friday.

The material for W. Brent Maxwell's summer home is being placed on the ground. Contractor Cogley, of Oakland, will do the stone work. The house will cost several thousand dollars. It will have bath and toilet rooms, electric light, etc.

Raking, burning and hauling away leaves was the work of a number of our people last week.

Frank Arnold has the contract for plastering seven houses. He has several men assisting him in his work.

The two-story addition of J. L. Echard's home will be ready for plastering in a few days.

The Messrs. Echard gave an order to Mr. Leathers, of Oakland, for $100 worth of carriage harness last Friday.

Henry May and family moved to Swanton last Friday. Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Flowers will move into the cottage vacated by him.

C. S. May's family, of Swanton, will shortly move to this place and occupy their cottage on K street. "A fair exchange is no robbery."

Many of our "fair sex" are wondering why a certain "bachelor" not yet "in the thirties" is enquiring about "small houses that are for rent and the price." It does look like a minister will secure a fee ere long.

Rumor says that the Misses DeBerry have purchased the Thayer cottage on the corner of K street and Wheeling avenue. Delighted is the man or woman who is fortunate enough to board at their home.

Manager Rudsisill sent last week to one of the Philadelphia papers a lot of half-tones to be used in a write-up; also some to a Cincinnati paper.

YOU CAN WORK

for the largest and strongest insurance company in the world

The Mutual Life Insurance Company

OF NEW YORK.

Assets over $325,000,000.00

Income in 1900 over $60,000,000.00

In 1900 The Mutual Life did upward of one third more business in Maryland than any other similar company.

No company anywhere writes such liberal policies. It has insurance for every requirment of business, individual or family protection, and of investment as well.

This great company wants a representative for Garrett County. A tempting contract to the right man. Experience desirable, but not necessary.

Address, with references,

W. H. WOOTTON, Manager.

300 Guardian Trust Building, Baltimore, Md.

NEW RELIGIOUS SECT.

The "Brethren" Are Getting a Foothold in the George's Creek Valley.

A fellowship of Christians, who eschew ordinary church government and profess rigid adherence to the Bible as their only standard, calling themselves "Brethren," have gained considerable strength in Western Maryland, especially among the Scotch and English miners. An evangelist, Benjamin Bradford, is now conducting a series of revival services in the villages of George's Creek, which is largely attended. The Lonaconing congregation recently purchased a hall, which has been remodeled for church purposes, and will be occupied in about a week. No salary is paid their pastors, who are expected to understand some useful trade; but gifts are made them, the extent of which the members will not divulge, since the Bible interdicts "letting the right hand know what the left hand doeth."—Cumberland News.

BLOOMINGTON.

Piedmont Independent.

White-washing, housecleaning—the annual bed-bug hunt, gardening, marble playing, fishing, base ball, spring fever, dust and dirt form a list of occupations and amusements that proclaim the near approach of the budding free and bursting flower.

Cookman Howard, one of the delegates from the council at this place, attended the convention of the Jr. O. U. A. M. at Oakland during the past week. The convention was in session for two days and had over 200 delegates in attendance.

Capt. Oscar Abernathy, of Cross, was in town Wednesday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lakel, of Pittsburg, is visiting the Harshbarger family.

Thos. Michaels, of the Firm Rock neighborhood, was in town on business last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Glotfelty, of McHenry, this county, after spending a few days with Mr. Geo. Fazenbaker, returned home Monday morning.

Truman Warnick, a prominent business man of this place, visited the county seat, Oakland, on Thursday.

The quarantine on the premeses of Lewis Baldwin, for smallpox, was raised the latter part of this week.

Aden Pugh and Jack Kight, of Hampshire hill were business callers Saturday.

Squire Moody, one of the oldest and most substantial business men of our town, attended a meeting of the directors of the First National Bank, of Oakland last week. He is one of the stockholders and directors of this new business venture, which, according to its last report, is in a most flourishing condition.

M. Yokman, a recent citizen of our place, returned Monday from a visit to Harrisburg, Pa.

Miss Fannie Wolfe is visiting friends in Deer Park.

Arthur Swann, clerk in John Miller's store, is off duty on account of sickness.

John Shartzer, of Oakland, was in town last Wednesday, fixing up the political fence in the interest of his brother, who is a candidate for nomination for the sheriffality of this county.

Announcement.

To the music-loving people of Oakland and vicinity:

Would say that for convenience, I have decided to open a wareroom in the Ravenscroft building, where, after May 1st, I will have on exhibition sample pianos and organs. They will be carefully selected from the stock of leading manufacturers—thoroughly up-to-date, reliable instruments, representing some of the best values in the market today. I represent the manufacturers and will meet any competition on goods of the same value. Instruments on easy payments. Special inducements to the cash trade.

For prices, terms, &c., &c., call on or write to

S. C. SMITH,
Oakland, Md.

CATHARINE GOES TO JAIL.

Had Smashed Mr. Robinson's Furniture and Is Arrested.

A woman giving her name as Catharine Flanigan and ostensibly employed as housekeeper for John H. Robinson, near Floyd, this county, but who in reality lived with him as his wife, and to whom seven children have been born, was arrested yesterday morning by Sheriff Oester at Robinson's house upon a warrant sworn out for her by Robinson charging her with disturbing the peace.

The woman is apparently thirty years of age, red headed and evidently has all the characteristics of one who is blessed with auburn locks. Robinson says that the woman on Sunday morning raised a "row" and after getting him to move toward the door "fired" sticks of stove wood after him, broke up the furniture in the house and then to make her victory complete armed herself with a Winchester rifle and ran him off the place.

The woman was brought to Oakland and after a preliminary hearing before Justice Gonder she was committed to jail, no bond being forthcoming for her future good behavior.

After being committed to jail the woman swore out a warrant for the arrest of Robinson charging him with assault and battery. He was arrested this morning by Sheriff Oester and brought to Oakland where the case was heard against him by Justice Gonder who imposed a fine of $5 and costs. During the trial the fact developed that Robinson has a wife living and that the woman's husband is not dead. These facts having been brought to the attention of the court Robinson was held under bond for his appearance before the court in September for adultery and the woman released upon her own recognizance.

FOR SALE:—The Lutheran parsonage, located on the corner of Fifth and Green streets, in Oakland, near the court house. Contains 8 rooms, hallway, cellar and porches; excellent well of water. Will be sold cheap. Apply to or address Rev. George I. Uhler, Oakland, Md.

Money to Loan.

$4,000 to loan on first mortgage in in sums to suit upon town property or nearby farms.

EDWARD H. SINCELL.

Call For Your Letters.

Mr. Taylor Morrison, Mr. T. J. Anderson, Mr. Stephen Wikm, Mr. Geo. A. Mitchell (2.)

Blood.

We live by our blood, and on it. We thrive or starve, as our blood is rich or poor.

There is nothing else to live on or by.

When strength is full and spirits high, we are being refreshed, bone muscle and brain, in body and mind, with continual flow of rich blood.

This is health.

When weak, in low spirits, no cheer, no spring, when rest is not rest and sleep is not sleep, we are starved; our blood is poor; there is little nutriment in it.

Back of the blood, is food, to keep the blood rich. When it fails, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. It sets the whole body going again—man woman and child.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample. Its agreeable taste will surprise you.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists
409-415 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

LOCAL AND OTHERWISE

Incidents and Events at Home and Nearby —Personal Mention, Etc.

County Commissioner Kelso was in Oakland yesterday.

When in need of sewer pipe call at Naylor's. Just received car load of 4, 5, 6, 8 and 10 inch. 7 3t

The enrollment at the Oakland Normal today numbers forty-five students.

Mrs. J. M. Falkenstine is on a visit to relatives at Terra Alta. Mr. F. spent Sunday there.

A beautiful line of wash goods, silkalenes, piques, lawns, &c., just opened up at S. P. Specht's, Deer Park. 7 2t

Mrs. Arthur Townshend, who has been in Baltimore for a week or ten days, returned to Oakland Saturday night.

Mrs. Ralph Wilburn, of Terra Alta, spent several days last week in Oakland visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Davis.

S. P. Specht, Deer Park, has just returned from the East with the best assortment of general merchandise ever brought to Deer Park, which he will sell very low for cash. 7 2t

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Pollock, of Philadelphia, who spent some time in Oakland with Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Bartlett, left for the above city Saturday morning.

Mrs. Edith Wells Glover and Miss Ethel Parsons, of Keyser, W. Va., were the guests of Misses Margaret and Gertrude Sincell on Sunday and Monday at their home on Liberty street.

The sale of a saw mill, horses, wagons, etc., located near Swanton, which took place here on Tuesday, brought quite a crowd of people from District No. 1 to town. The prices received were low.

Rev. James W. Beeghly, of near Accident, was in Oakland Monday. He was returning from St. Clairsville, W. Va., where on Sunday he preached to the congregation of German Baptists which now number twenty communicants.

James Fazenbaker, of near Bloomington, was arrested on Sunday by Deputy Sheriff Wiley. Fazenbaker was indicted at a recent term of court for rape committed upon Julia Ward, a girl residing at Bloomington. He was brought to Oakland and committed to jail for trial at the September term.

Now is the time to use lime in liberal quantities about your yards, sinks and in the cellars under your residences. A handful of lime used judiciously now may save a doctor's bill in the future. Another thing in favor of lime—it is cheaper than the services of the physician and the apothecary.

We acknowledge a very pleasant visit on Friday from Mr. Bird M. Robinson, one of the receivers for the Baltimore Building and Loan Association and president of the Inter-State Editorial Association. Mr. Robinson was here to sell the Loch Lynn Hotel at receivers' sale, but the bid received for the property being considerable less than its value the sale did not take place.

County Treasurer Lohr spent Sunday with his family at the Cove, returning to Oakland Monday afternoon. Down in his section of the county the farmers are complaining bitterly of the backwardness of the season and are compelled to buy hay and grain for their stock. The roads, too, are almost impassable owing to the great depth of the mud caused by the recent heavy rains and melting snows.

Considerable adverse criticism has been indulged in by many teachers by the action of the School Board in selecting Oakland as the only point in the county where examinations for teachers are to be held at the close of the normals throughout the county. We trust that the board will reconsider its determination and hold examinations at other points, so that those who desire to take the examinations may be discommoded as little as possible.

The wet, disagreeable weather which has been prevailing continuously for almost a month past seems to have become permanent. As a result no gardening of any moment has been done around town and very little grain has been sown and planting done by the farmers who in a measure are becoming discouraged by the outlook. One of our farmer friends, however, was in the other day and took a rosy view of the situation saying that there is always a time for sowing and harvesting. One good thing about the weather conditions is that a bounteous fruit crop is almost assured.

Mrs. John T. Mitchell has returned from a visit to Baltimore.

Mr. James C. Peddicord will enter the service of the Garrett County Bank on May 1st as book keeper.

Col. L. C. Smith and Mr. O. S. McKinney, of Fairmont, West Va., were in Oakland Friday last on business.

Don't fail to call at S. P. Specht's, Deer Park, and examine his great big line of fancy and working shirts at away-down prices. 7 2t

Messrs. J. W. Hunter and Otto J Paugh, of Barnum, W. Va., were in Oakland Saturday of last week on business.

Mr. Will Johnson, traveling salesmen for a Baltimore firm, spent Sunday in Oakland the guest of his sister, Mrs. W. R. Mealey.

Carpenters and builders are being bothered by the rains which come down on them as fast as they get started.

Attorney Gilmor S. Hamill attended the sessions of the Court of Appeals at Annapolis this week where he was engaged in a case.

Misses Nettie and Anna Anderson returned home from Baltimore Saturday night on No. 1 where they had been on a pleasure trip for a few weeks.

Prof. J. Ivison, of Cumberland, has been in Oakland this week repairing and tuning pianos. Those who have had work done by Mr. Ivison are highly pleased with it.

Ed. Helbig returned to Oakland from Philadelphia last Wednesday. He had been engaged during the winter on one of the street car lines of that city as conductor.

John Felty, Jr., has been making some improvement to the resident portion of his building on Alder street by tearing away the old porch thereto and erecting one of better proportions and more stability.

Dr. W. M. Longstreth, now of Salem, W. Va., but who conducted the Oakland as a sanitarium and hotel combined for about two years, was in Terra Alta, W. Va., last week looking for a location for a private hospital.

The West Virginia Editorial Association will meet at Fairmont June 19, 20 and 21, and the sessions will be followed by an excursion to Buffalo. Senator Elkins, Senator Scott and Governor White will be present.

H. H. Griswold, Esq., of Canton, Pa., and Frank Watts, Esq., cashier of the First National Bank, Frostburg, were in Oakland yesterday. Mr. Griswold may become cashier of the First National Bank here as we understand the officials of the bank are desirous of securing his services.

Mr. H. L. Grant, the artistic photographer, has made a panoramic view of Oakland, for which he has received numerous orders from residents of the town. The view was taken from the hill above Mrs. Nelson's residence and shows nearly the entire town. It measures six by eighteen inches and is mounted very artistically upon a grey mat.

The vitrified brick for the street paving along Second street have been received and distributed along the thoroughfare. Sand will be hauled as soon as the weather becomes a little better. The curbing has been shipped from the quarry in Indiana and is expected here this week. As soon as it is received the work of grading will be gotten under way and completed as fast as possible.

Messrs. Daniel Miller and John A. Delawder, employees of the Government Printing Office, and George W. Moon, of the Census Office, Washington, came up to Oakland Saturday morning and made oath as to their citizenship of the State, the new election law providing that they should do so in order to enjoy the franchise. Mr. Miller has moved over into Montgomery county, near Washington. Mr. Moon is undecided whether to move his family to this county or to some other section of the State. Their return was made to Washington Monday, Mr. Moon being accompanied by Miss Hallie Savage, of Sang Run, who will visit in Washington for a few weeks.

People who have obtained Dakota and other western state divorces are not as safe as they thought. The Supreme Court of the United States has just decided to be valid a divorce must be granted in the state in which the parties have lived as man and wife. One of them can't run off and get a divorce in some other state. This vitiates thousands of divorce decrees which have been granted by these western states and places hundreds of wives, husbands and children in a very peculiar position. They had better look a little out after their legal rights or they will get left when it comes to a show down.

School Examiner Browning was in Cumberland yesterday.

Mr. Thomas Nelson spent a few days the first of this week in Oakland with his mother.

The big sawmill at Hambleton to replace the one burned will begin operations in a few days.

Attorney Edwin L. Mitchell has gone to Somerset county, Pa., to assist in settling up the estate of his father, recently deceased.

Assistant Station Master George Fulmer and daughter Miss May are on a trip this week to Baltimore and Washington.

Garden makers are in despair. They think that they should have had their gardens in long ago in order to have vegetables this summer.

Mrs. George D. White and her children Harry and Margaret have gone to Cumberland to spend a week or ten days with relatives.

We regret to note the very serious illness of Mr. John Bradley, of near Oakland. His death is momentarily expected by his family and friends.

Mr. Thomas J. Peddicord arrived home this morning. During his absence from home he made a professional visit to Havana, Cuba.

B. B. Cross and family, of Thayerville, have moved from that point to Oakland and are occupying the Bruce Whirl property on Fourth street.

The appeal session of the town council was held on Tuesday. Many of our residents appeared and had their assessments reduced to the county basis.

A veritable London fog enveloped Oakland yesterday for a number of hours. It required very sharp eyes to penetrate the mist for even a short distance.

Mr. U. G. Palmer, of the First National Bank, whose duties require his presence almost continuously at the tanning plant at Hutton, spent Tuesday in town.

The Lutheran churches of St. Peter's, St. Paul's and Fairview, Washington county, have called the Rev. G. A. Royer, of Carmel, Preston county, W. Va. Rev. Royer was formerly located at Accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Procter arrived in Oakland yesterday morning to remain permanently. Mr. Proctor has had his home fitted with heating apparatus and will reside here the entire year hereafter.

Capt. Hayden was in from the Park to-day and says that the outlook for the summer is quite promising. An addition of four rooms will be erected to the Captain's home at the Park, lumber for which is now being placed on the ground.

The Oakland is being put into condition for the reception of guests. Manager Headley has advertised very extensively the hotel throughout the country and indications point to a successful season.

Mr. John T. Browning received an injury to his hand on Saturday last. Local remedies were applied to the wound, which at the time was thought to be slight, but on Sunday blood poisoning developed. The wound was then treated by one of the physicians of town. Mr. Browning is now much improved and the danger point has been passed.

W. H. Wheeler, Esq., of Gibbons Glade, Pa., was in Oakland this morning on the hunt of his son Dorsey J. Wheeler, aged 19 years, who left his home about Christmas and has not been heard from since by his father. Mr. Wheeler says that some months ago he heard that a young man answering the description of his son had been drowned at a point along the West Virginia Central Railroad but that the report could not be confirmed. Any one knowing of the whereabouts of the young man will confer a favor by addressing Mr. Wheeler at Gibbons Glade.

An exchange says that a man had a sister named Jessie, who was sent to a fashionable boarding school. When she went he remarked that he hoped she wouldn't acquire any affectations so often learned in such places. For a year he had no fault to find upon this score. Then came a letter signed "Jessica" instead of Jessie. He replied as follows: "Dear Sister Jessica: Your welcome letter received. Mammaica and Papaica are well. Aunt Maryica and Georgica started for Californica yesterday. I haye bought a new horsica. It is a beautica. Its name is Maniaca. Your affectionate brotherica, Samica." Her next letter was signed Jessie.

Establishing Rural Free Deliveries.

A. F. George, ex-fish commissioner, was in the city yesterday on his return to his home in Garrett county. He was in Frederick county inaugurating rural free deliveries.—Cumberland News.

Government Garden Seeds.

Congressman George A. Pearre has directed that the Agricultural Department forward to this office for distribution among the citizens of the county a large lot of garden seeds. When they arrive all who apply will be supplied with a variety. Remember, however, that the seeds have not yet come and that those who apply first will be the first served.

LEVY LIST, 1901.

Annual Levy for Garrett County, Maryland, levied on the 11th day of April, 1901, by the Board of County Commissioners for Garrett County, Maryland.

GENERAL ROAD LEVY.

Election District No.	1, Swanton	$ 650 00
" "	No. 2, Selbysport	1,250 00
" "	No. 3, Grantsville	650 00
" "	No. 4, Bloomington	550 00
" "	No. 5, Accident	850 00
" "	No. 6, Sang Run	685 00
" "	No. 7, Oakland	1,110 00
" "	No. 8, Ryan's Glade	1,040 00
" "	No. 9, Johnson's	360 00
" "	No. 10, Deer Park	600 00
" "	No. 11, Elbow	500 00
" "	No. 12, Bittinger	550 00
National Road		600 00
Total		$ 9,335 00

CORPORATIONS.

Mayor and Council of Oakland	$ 600 00
" " " " Deer Park	100 00
Commissioners of Grantsville	80 00
Mountain Lake Park Community	200 00
Mayor and Council of Loch Lynn Heights	50 00
Total	$ 1,030 00

PUBLIC SCHOOL BONDS.

For redemption of bonds	$ 1,000 00
For interest on bonds	60 00

CLERK OF CIRCUIT COURT.

E. Z. Tower, use Garrett County Bank	$ 150 00
Same, use C. W. Friend	500 00
Same, balance	764 94
Total	$ 1,514 94

COURT FUND.

Estimate to pay court expenses for July, September and December, 1901, and March term, 1902	$ 3,607 50

ORPHANS' COURT.

Estimate to pay judges	$ 518 40
James W. White, register	84 25
Total	$ 602 65

SHERIFF'S OFFICE.

A. J. Oester, sheriff, use Garrett Co. Bank	$ 300 00
Same, balance	1,577 20
S. O. Wiley, warden to jail, use Garrett County Bank	50 00
Same, balance	315 00
Total	$ 2,242 20

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

To the Public School Commissioners, for support of schools	$12,000 00
To build new school houses	2,000 00
Total	$14,000 00

PUBLIC PRINTING AND PUBLISHING.

James D. Hamill, publishing, use Garrett County Bank	$ 100 00
Same, balance, use Garrett County Bank	65 00
Benj. H. Sincell, publishing, use Garrett County Bank	300 00
Same, publishing, use First National Bank	300 00
Same, balance, use Garret Co. Bank	250 00
Same, printing, use " " " "	75 00
Total	$1,090 00

ELECTION EXPENSES.

C. E. Ellithorp, supervisor's salary	$ 100 00
A. G. Sturgiss, supervisor's salary, scrubbing office and postage	103 00
Frank Welch, supervisor's salary, use Garrett County Bank	100 00
E. Jamison, clerk, use Garrett County Bank	50 00
E. L. Mitchell, attorney	50 00
F. C. Ries, supervisor, 1896 expenses, use J. E. Gnagey	35 25
Same, supervisor, 1897, expenses, use J. E. Gnagey	30 85
Estimate to pay rent for supervisor's office, subject to order	96 00
J. M. Litzinger, publishing and printing, use First National Bank	584 45
Benj. H. Sincell, publishing, use Garrett County Bank	386 50

District No. 1.

J. L. McRobie, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	36 30
J. B. Friend, judge and register	38 70
John Ashenfelter, judge, use First National Bank	5 40
John L. Fitzwater, judge	4 50
Wade H. Lohr, clerk	4 50
Joseph F. Friend, clerk	4 50

District No. 2.

Amos M. Umbel, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	48 40
Wm. W. Savage, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	48 11
Brison Welch, judge	5 10
A. M. Chisholm, judge	4 50
E. C. W. Ryland, clerk	4 50
G. W. Sterling, clerk	4 50

District No. 3.

James H. Bevans, judge and register, use Bradford Blocher	39 20
Christian C. Durst, judge and register, use Bradford Blocher	38 70
Sylvester H. Ryland, judge	4 90
Mahlon Miller, judge	4 90
John Custer, clerk	6 00
Gideon J. Gnagey, clerk	6 00
Mrs. E. O'Hanley, rent	10 00

District No. 4.

Fred O. Michaels, judge and register	40 20
Henry Barnard, judge and register, use D. E. Offutt & Sons	44 45
Peter Fitzwilliams, judge	4 65
Joseph Tibbetts, judge	4 65
Lawrence Garvey, clerk	4 65
Cookman Howard, clerk	4 65
Mary A. Clary, rent	10 00

District No. 5.

Martin H. Hoffman, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	35 53
Asa B. Friend, judge and register, use Bradford Blocher	32 70
Jacob E. Bowser, judge	4 50
Solomon Glass, judge	4 50
R. C. Resh, clerk	3 90
Delphy Glass, clerk	4 50
Susan Englehart, rent	10 00

District No. 6.

Nathan C. Browning, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	45 00
Samuel R. Savage, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	41 75
Joel J. Bender, judge	5 10
Thomas J. Lowdermilk, judge	5 10
Wm. A. DeWitt, clerk	5 10
Hamill Casteel, clerk, use Garrett County Bank	4 80

District No. 7.

S. H. Ralston, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	32 40
F. P. Arnold, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	27 00
Same, balance	3 00
Wm. Broderick, judge, use Bradford Blocher	4 50
W. S. Lantz, judge, use G. M. Mason	4 50
John W. Maroney, clerk	4 50
P. T. Lipscomb, clerk	4 50
A. S. Teats, rent	10 00

District No. 8.

James W. Mason, judge and register	27 30
Geo. D. Stahl, judge and register, use First National Bank	33 46
Samuel F. Miller, judge	4 90
Joseph Conneway, judge	4 80
John A. Hughes, clerk	4 80
Davis N. Murphy, rent	15 00

District No. 9.

Michael Cunningham, judge and register, use Bradford Blocher	44 70
Bradford Blocher, judge and register	45 48
A. J. Moore, judge	5 10
William Finzel, judge	5 45
Patrick Hoye, clerk	4 80
J. Richard McKinzie, clerk	4 80

District No. 10.

Michael J. Garrett, judge and register	29 70
Wm. M. Junkins, judge and register, use First National Bank	27 30
Joseph Lashorn, judge, use First National Bank	4 20
James L. Harvey, judge	4 20
Chas. M. Wilson, clerk	4 20
Wm. B. Miller, clerk, use Benj. H. Sincell	4 20

District No. 11.

Walter Warnick, judge and register	40 80
Same, rent	10 00
Daniel S. Wampler, judge and register	31 50
Albin Fazenbaker, judge	5 40
George Beeman, judge	5 40
John A. Merrill, substitute judge	12 00
J. T. Poland, clerk	5 10
Hugh McMillan, clerk	5 40

District No. 12.

Peter Opel, judge and register	37 20
Samuel D. Brenneman, judge and register	36 30
Elias Orendorf, judge	4 80
Simon Resh, judge	4 50
Perry Broadwater, clerk	4 50
Jacob Brenneman, clerk, use C. E. Ellithorp	4 50
John Conn, rent, use C. E. Ellithorp	10 00

District No. 13.

L. C. Hamill, judge and register, use First National Bank	30 00
W. S. Pew, judge and register	24 60
W. H. Pool, judge	3 60
James H. Wilson, judge	3 60
C. H. Pool, clerk	3 60
Geo. W. Kitzmiller, clerk	3 60
P. A. Schultz, rent	10 00

District No. 14.

Wade H. Hinebaugh, judge and register	32 40
R.C. Townshend, judge and register	38 00
John F. White, judge, use D. E. Offutt & Sons	3 20
John A. Sowers, judge	5 30
J. O. Browning, clerk, use First National Bank	5 30
Samuel Lawton, clerk	5 30
Della Parker, for scrubbing office, use S. L. Townshend & Son	2 00
Total	$ 2,920 08

NEW ROADS.

Road Case No. 147.

John Harned surveyor and examiner	10 00
John T. Bowers, examiner	2 00
R. G. White, examiner	2 00
W. W. Welling, chairman	1 50
C. P. Martin, chairman	1 50
Joseph T. McKee, damages	1 00
Mt. Lake Park Association, damages	1 00

Road Case No. 148.

Thomas B. Welch, examiner	2 00
James Guard, examiner	2 00
John Stuck, examiner	2 00
Norval Speelman, surveyor	10 00
Albert Guard, flagman	1 50

Road Case No. 149.

Franklin P. Green, examiner and surveyor	14 00
Henry Barnard, examiner	4 00
W. O. Titchnell, examiner	4 00
James Titchnell, flagman	1 50
Otho Barnard, chainman	1 50
P. R. Titchnell, chainman	1 50
Martin L. Titchnell, axman	1 50
Davis Coal & Coke Co., damages	1 00
Empire Coal & Iron Co., damages	1 00
P. R. Titchnell, damages	50

Road Case No. 150.

James L. Harvey, examiner	4 00
P. T. Lipscomb, examiner	4 00
James Lish, examiner	4 00
John T. Harvey, chainman	1 50
James W. Wilson, chainman	1 50
Geo. W. Moon, flagman	1 50
Edwin L. Mitchell, surveyor	8 00
John P. Hubbard, damages	1 00
Geo. W. Moon, damages	1 00

Road Case No. 151.

Alexander C. Mason, surveyor	8 00
Wm. J. Wilson, damages	175 50
Louis Nydegger, damages	50
J. M. White, damages	50
Total	$ 278 00

BRIDGE ACCOUNT.

Estimate to build same	$1,000 00

SPECIAL ROAD APPROPRIATIONS.

Road Case No. 147, subject to order	$50 00
Road Case No. 149, Martin L. Titchnell, use Garrett County Bank	100 00
Potter road, subject to order	25 00
Road Case No. 150, subject to order	150 00
Road Case No. 148, subject to order	20 00
Road Case No. 151, subject to order	300 00
Watson & Co., work on road near J. Paugh's	33 13
Walter Warnick, work on road 141	303 60
Road Case No. 137, subject to order	100 00
Elder Hill road, subject to order	25 00
Road from Garey's gate to Hiram Humberson's house, subject to order	30 00
James L. Harvey, subject to order	10 00
Gordon road, subject to order	20 00
Roads in Friendsville, subject to order	100 00
C. S. Frazee, subject to order	15 00
Road from railroad to Andrew Friend's	40 00
August Bernard, subject to order	15 00
District No. 7	100 00
Frank Ashby, subject to order	20 00
District No. 9	250 00
Baker road	15 00
New road from river to Folly run road	10 00
New road from Savage river to Jos. Warnick's, subject to order	50 00
Pea ridge road, subject to order	30 00
Bear creek road (left fork) subject to order	25 00
Road from Folly run to Jos. Paugh's, subject to order	15 00
J. W. Harvey, subject to order	15 00
Christopher Koch, subject to order	15 00
James H. Wilson, subject to order	10 00
James Lish, subject to order	10 00
J. B. Friend, subject to order	10 00
Jos. Glotfelty, subject to order	10 00
	$1,921 73

MISCELLANEOUS ACCOUNT.

Dr. W. H. Ravenscraft, health officer, use Garrett County Bank	$100 00
Same, expenses to Bloomington	5 00
Same, physician to jail	100 00
W. L. Shaffer, services rendered Anna M. Gray, use Garrett County Bank	20 00
Thos. Harne, hauling, &c.	3 75
Edward Parker, estimate to clean water closets at jail, sub. to order	100 00
Dixon & Kelso, goods furnished jail	11 85
The Oakland Electric Co., light	86 90
D. E. Offutt & Sons, electric lamps	5 25
A. G. Sturgiss, stationery and medicine for paupers	125 05
Paul & Falconer Co., blank books, &c	40 10
Wm. F. Murphy Sons Co., blank books	29 50
A. D. Naylor & Co., repairs at jail, &c	11 70
A. D. Naylor, repairs at jail and road machine	34 90
Geo. O. Miller, lumber, &c., for jail	6 09
J. H. Mediary & Co., blank books and stationery	90 63
J. M. Davis & Son, supplies furnished jail and court house	21 03
G. A. Shirer, repairs for stoves	3 75
Garrett County Telephone Co., use of line	10 00
Andrew J. Harne, digging pauper graves	8 50
Jos. E. Harned, medicine for paupers	33 90
M. W. Pendergast, expenses to Pa. to identify prisoners	13 60
Dr. H. W. McComas, pauper patients in hospital	230 00
John Scally, repairs at jail	1 75
D. E. Bolden, repairs at court house and coffins for paupers	92 50
S. L. Townshend & Son, supplies, &c., for jail	58 14
W. D. Collier, boarding prisoners	6 00
Geo. Geissman, coal for court house and jail	201 35
Dr. W. H. Ravenscraft, vital statistic returns	45 60
Total	$1,496 84

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE.

Estimate for County Commissioners	$800 00
A. G. Ross, clerk, balance	400 00
E. H. Sincell, attorney, use First National Bank	150 00
Wm. H. Walker, janitor, subject to order	200 00
Total	$1,550 00

ATTORNEYS' FEES.

F. A. Thayer, State's attorney	$828 86
Thomas J. Peddicord, 1 felony and 5 misdemeanors	26 66
Julius C. Renninger, 1 felony	10 00
Gilmor S. Hamill, ½ felony and 1 misdemeanor	8 33
Edward H. Sincell, 1½ felony	15 00
Total	$888 85

TAXES IN ERROR.

W. C. Jones	$4 67
L. A. Rudisill	1 95
W. W. Broadwater	3 04
Total	$8 66

FOX AND CAT CERTIFICATES.

Estimate to pay same	$350 00

CONSTABLE FEES.

J. W. Schroyer, district No. 5, use Garrett County Bank	$1 50
C. H. Liston, district No. 2, use First National Bank	6 40
Doyle Burton (special) district No. 8, use Benj. H. Sincell	2 50
James Chisholm, district No. 8	29 00
Levi Echard, district No. 7	55 45
Samuel Peck, district No. 6	2 88
Jos. Glass, district No. 1	20 65
Geo. Geissman, district No. 14	6 90
Total	$125 28

MAGISTRATE FEES.

A. S. Teats, district No. 7	$11 85
Edward J. Hamill, district No. 13	4 60
Andrew B. Gonder, district No. 14	117 90
Peter Nathan, district No. 3	7 10
D. W. Fraker, district No. 6	2 80
Total	$144 25

OUTSIDE PENSIONERS.

Aaron Pritts, services rendered Hannah Spiker	$15 00
Jacob Beman, support Elizabeth Spiker, subject to order	25 00
Jacob Peck, support Theo. Simon, subject to order	25 00
Josephus Ferguson, support Catharine Strawser, subject to order	25 00
W. C. Jones, support Woods child, subject to order	25 00
Harry Leathan, support Wm. Bittinger, subject to order	25 00
Samuel Meese, support Henry Meese, subject to order	50 00
Caroline Frazee, support Ruth King, subject to order	85 00
Calvin H. Glotfelty, support Ester Glotfelty, subject to order	50 00
Amanda Moore, support of her helpless child, subject to order	12 00
George A. Bittinger, support Mary Durst, subject to order	40 00
Mariah Wabel, support of herself, subject to order	50 00
Estimate to pay same	200 00
Total	$627 00

ALMSHOUSE AND ASYLUM FUND.

Estimate for 1901	$1,200 00

MARYLAND HOSPITAL.

Estimate for 1901	$600 00

CORONERS' INQUESTS.

Body of W. A. Daily.

John T. Browning, juror	$1 00
John Shartzer, juror	1 00
Austin Brown, juror	1 00
John G. Robinson, juror	1 00
John T. Sincell, juror	1 00
E. J. Fringer, juror	1 00
Geo. D. White, juror	1 00
J. O. Browning, juror	1 00
Chas. S. Davis, juror	1 00
Samuel Lawton, juror	1 00
John F. White, juror	1 00
John W. Hart, juror	1 00
Dr. W. H. Ravenscraft	10 00

Body of unknown infant found in Yough river.

Austin Brown, juror	1 00
Samuel Lawton, juror	1 00
R. A. Orcutt, juror	1 00
J. O. Michaels, juror	1 00
Geo. D. White, juror	1 00
John Scally, juror	1 00
W. D. Dixon, juror	1 00
John T. Sincell, juror	1 00
Joseph P. Helbig, juror	1 00
Wm. Whorton, juror	1 00
James O. Cleveland, juror	1 00
Joseph M. Crim, juror	1 00
Jake Morrison, witness	33
Dr. M. C. Hinebaugh	5 00
Dr. J. E. Legge	5 00
Total	$44 33
Estimate to pay State witnesses before Justices of the Peace	$150 00

COUNTY TREASURER'S OFFICE.

Wm. M. Lohr, commission on State tax	$236 20
Same, commission on county tax	1,041 75
Same, 110 assessments	55 00
Total	$1,332 95
Contingent fund	$2,959 45

RECAPITULATION.

General Road Levy	$9,335 00
Corporations	1,030 00
Public School Bonds	1,060 00
Clerk of Circuit Court	1,514 94
Court Fund	3,607 50
Orphans' Court	602 65
Sheriff's Office	2,242 20
Public Schools	14,000 00
Public Printing and Publishing	1,090 00
Election Expenses	2,928 08
New Roads	278 00
Bridge Account	1,000 00
Special Road Appropriations	1,921 73
Miscellaneous Account	1,496 84
Commissioners' Office	1,550 00
Attorneys' Fees	888 85
Taxes in Error	8 66
Fox and Cat Certificates	350 00
Constable Fees	125 28
Magistrate Fees	144 25
Outside Pensioners	627 00
Almshouse and Asylum Fund	1,200 00
Maryland Hospital	600 00
Coroners' Inquests	44 33
Estimate to pay State Witnesses	150 00
County Treasurers' Office	1,332 95
Contingent Fund	2,959 45
Total	$52,087 71

To pay this amount it was ascertained that the taxable property as shown by the assessment books amounts to $7,207,405, which at 72 cents on the $100, will make the above amount for county purposes—$52,087.71. Deducting $287,199.00 for corporations paying direct to State treasurer, leaves the basis $6,947,206, at 17 cents on each $100 makes $11,-810.25, and this added makes the taxes for State and county purposes $63,897.96.

A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

A Gallon of PURE LINSEED OIL mixed with a gallon of Hammar Paint for $2.50 makes 2 gallons of the VERY BEST PAINT in the WORLD for $2.50, or $1.25 PER GALLON.
Saves 25 per cent
of your paint bill. IS FAR MORE DURABLE than PURE WHITE LEAD and is ABSOLUTELY NOT POISONOUS. HAMMAR PAINT is made of the BEST OF PAINT MATERIALS—such as all good painters use, and is ground THICK, VERY THICK. No trouble to mix, any boy can do it. It is the COMMON SENSE OF HOUSE PAINT. NO BETTER paint can be made at ANY cost, and is Guaranteed 5 years
NOT TO CRACK, BLISTER, PEEL or CHIP.
F. HAMMAR PAINT CO., St. Louis, Mo.
Sold and guaranteed by
J. W. LAUGHLIN,
DEER PARK, MD.
Estab. 1872.

Real Estate NOTICES!

For Rent--

House on Water Street, Oakland.
The Whitehead Cottage, Mt. Lake Park.
Thorn Cottage, near Oakland.
Offices in Ravenscroft Building, Oakland.

For Sale--

Three Houses in Oakland.
Thorn Cottage, near Oakland.
Lots at Loch Lynn Heights.
Hotel Property, Deer Park.
Farms in the County.

Apply to
JULIUS C. RENNINGER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
1 3t OAKLAND, MD.

Stops the Cough and Works off the Cold.
Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 5 cents.

WANTED.—A girl to do general housework. Apply at this office.

THE REPUBLICAN.

BENJ. H. SINCELL. Publisher.

OAKLAND, : GARRETT CO., MD.

HECUBA

By Rossiter Johnson.

YES, old chum, I will tell you all about it.

It was a great procession, and I stood at the northeast corner of —— street and watched it as it swept along up the avenue with an even stride, and at intervals with a monotonous song. I was not altogether comfortable; for it was one long, moving column of enthusiasm, inspiring almost equal enthusiasm in two stationary columns on either side of the way, and it was enthusiasm for a ticket that I did not intend to vote.

I busied myself with counting the ranks and making large allowance for the boys that were apparently under 21.

Suddenly my counting came to an end—I forgot what total I had arrived at, cared no more for the banners and mottoes, and was deaf to "the noise of the captains and the shouting." By one of those movements that occasionally take place in a good-natured crowd there was a little whirlpool where I stood, everybody within two or three yards was moved to a new spot on the pavement and all relative positions were changed. With this change suddenly loomed up in front of me one of the most delightful visions of my life. She was taller than most of the men that stood near her, and was perfectly proportioned. Her dark brown hair was rolled into a smooth, solid mass at the back of her head, and balanced it perfectly above shoulders that seemed to have the strength of a man's without losing the beauty of a woman's. She wore a dormer-window hat, ornamented by a single rosebud, with just the least touch of jauntiness, and the October sunlight fell athwart one of those faces that words can never portray and the painter can seldom do more than attempt. It might be said that it was almost Grecian, and it must be said that it was wholly American. But the chief glory was in the expression, and as I edged around to one side and the other, through an arc of 240 degrees, I saw it from many different angles, but discovered no abatement. I have seen perfect profiles on plain faces and handsome faces with pitiful profiles, but here it was impossible for light and shadow, by any change, to betray a fault or a weakness, for there was nothing to be betrayed. She could have stood as the comprehensive model for womankind, whose separate excellencies might be caught by one and another of her sisters, but who in her entirety was not likely ever to be duplicated.

Twice only in my life had I seen a similar vision, and these two visions were but pictures of a moment; yet they never have faded from my memory. They are nameless, but immortal. The third such, far more impressive, more real and yet more romantic, was—who was she? When the procession disbanded and I was walking slowly home some fragment of consciousness rose and said: "What is she to you?" Thereupon I named her Hecuba—and Hecuba she is and will be to the end of time.

When the crowd dispersed after the last troop had passed I watched her as she climbed into an omnibus.

"Now, why," said I to myself after dinner, "should you think a second time of Hecuba? You know absolutely nothing about her, except that her personal appearance is remarkably fine, and her politics remarkably faulty. Not so. Every lover of a fine art knows there is something in it which he cannot describe, and perhaps cannot even account for; and we all know that here and there, as we go through the world, we come upon a person whose evident qualities are not to be summed up by any words that the dictionary affords. I wish I could see Hecuba once more, but I never shall—and yet the world is small."

For weeks I found myself looking intently at every stage that happened to pass me on the avenue, as if I had expected to recognize a friend inside. I could not pass the entrance of a photograph gallery without stopping long enough to scan every portrait that was displayed beside the door.

My religion was—well, the fact was, I feared it was becoming too narrow. A man should always try to broaden himself, especially in his moral nature, and should listen occasionally to the services of other churches than his own. Yes, I must broaden my religion, and so I attended a different church every Sunday for many weeks. They were a little tedious, all of them. Occasionally I saw in the congregation some person that I knew, but no one particularly interesting.

It was near the close of the season, and I was telling myself how much I had been disappointed in the elevation of the stage when I went one night to see "As You Like It." The lights are a little dim; I will just sweep the circle with my glass, lest I might have some old friend in the house and overlook him.

Ah! there's Hecuba! She sits beside a middle-aged lady on the opposite side of the house. The play has but just begun. I will slip down to the box office and see if I can buy a seat on that side. No, that would be a little silly. I'll stay here and depend on the glass. Scan the lady's features closely next time the lights are turned up. Oh, yes, she is evidently Hecuba's mother. What a fine-looking woman! Evidently the people on either side of them are not of their party; so probably she is a widow, and this her only daughter.

It was perhaps six weeks later when I went out for a long walk one Sunday afternoon and was caught in a shower. The first shelter I could find was a building where a mission Sunday school was being held with open doors. A young man in the porch bade me welcome. The auditorium was rather somber. When my eyes became used to the scant illumination I looked about me, and there, only three seats ahead of me, teaching a class of boys, was Hecuba. What sang the genial Mark Lemon? "Oh, would I were a boy again!" I would not spend Sunday afternoons going in swimming or playing marbles; I would go to Sunday school with great regularity. But you cannot fool the almanac. Yet I might become a teacher here. I will ask the superintendent if they need more teachers. The gamin harvest truly is great. And how it must broaden a man's spiritual nature to teach every Sunday afternoon in a mission chapel. True, I don't know much about the Scriptures myself, but would not that be a good way to learn? Yes, teaching others is the surest way to acquire knowledge.

I lingered after the services to ask the young man in the porch all about it. Hecuba passed out, with an umbrella in her hand, opened it on the steps and rapidly walked away. Oh, if that umbrella had only been mine instead of hers! But there's the luck of it.

I have always been particular about my hands, but have neglected them somewhat of late. I ought to be especially particular now that I am proving my religion—"neat hands and a pure heart." That doesn't sound quite right; I'm a little weak on Scripture quotation, but shall be stronger when I have taught the Sunday school class. I must stop at a manicure's on my way downtown. Here is one, with the name on a modest sign—"Mme. Nidivear"—probably assumed.

A very pretty reception room for patients. "Take a seat, sir. The operator will be at liberty in a few moments."

Certainly—and I look around, examine everything, as I always do in such ceses, though I am not a professional detective.

What is this rolled parchment on the little side table? Unroll it—it is not tied, and can hardly be anything private. Ah! a graduation diploma from one of the best of our colleges for women, issued to Hester Nidivear. So that is not an assumed name, after all; and the manicure sent her daughter to college—why not, in our free land? Good for her! Look at the date of the diploma—but I must not tell that; however, it was recent. Books on the centertable indicate that somebody here knows what literature is.

A slight rustle of skirts; the operator has come in. I look up, and do not quite faint away. It is Hecuba! What am I to do? Do! why, have your hands made presentable, you simpleton. Of course, that's exactly what I came for.

WIELDING THE KNIFE AND THE POLISHER.

Hecuba was as dignified in wielding the knife and the polisher as when she handled the Bible or the opera glass.

So I regain my self-possession and gently fish for Hecuba's story.

Briefly, her mother had died suddenly four weeks ago. She had been a widow several years, and always earned a good income, but never accumulated any money. She had given her daughter an education, and now Hecuba had taken her mother's place in order to do the like for her younger brother. The money was wanted at once, and this was the quickest way to earn it.

"That is the boy's picture on the opposite wall?"

"Yes."

"And the sword that hangs over it—that looks historic."

"It was our great-grandfather's. He was an officer in the revolution—in a Connecticut regiment."

Let me think the situation all over as I walk away. First, the romance of it. I remember cutting from a newspaper last year and placing in my scrapbook an exquisite little poem signed Hester Nidivear. One of the best French poets was a barber, and one of our own was a dentist; after the beard and the teeth, why should not the nails have their turn at poetics? Second, the sense of it. My great-grandfather also took part in the revolution, but he wore no sword; he was only a private. Better a private under Washington than a colonel under Cornwallis, I have always boasted. And after the war he pared the hoofs of horses before nailing on the shoes. Rule of three: As the human hand is to the horse's hoof so is—um, I fear I rank a little below her. Where am I? I do not know where I am. Oh, Hecuba!

Now, old chum, perhaps you can guess why I have not married. But it is not certain that I never shall.

AN UNCERTAIN TOWN.

Situated on an Island That Is Rapidly Sinking to Destruction in Chesapeake Bay.

On Holland island, in Chesapeake bay, is the queerest town in the United States.

The ocean tides regulate the whole life of the place. At low tide the town is in full activity. Business, society functions and schools are then carried on. But when the flood tide sets in all people and children scamper for their homes, regardless of the time of day or night, says the New York World.

The cause of this peculiar arrangement is the fact that the town is gradually sinking under the waters of the bay. Holland island, which used to be a body of land rising high above the water, has sunk rapidly in the last few years. Its principal streets are flooded at high tide. Only the houses on the high central ridge of the island are above water.

When high tide occurs at four or five o'clock in the morning the affairs of this town go on much the same as in any other town. By six or seven o'clock the water has receded from the streets and the merchants open their stores. At nine o'clock the children go to school and the women go shopping. All are happy in the thought that they can stay away from home till late in the afternoon, when the returning tide is due.

But when high tide occurs at midday all this is changed. The children must get up and go to school before light in the morning. Men hustle down town to their stores at three or four o'clock in the morning, anxious to do part of a day's business before the tide comes in. Before noon they must close shop and go home till evening, when they can open up again at low tide.

In spite of these inconveniences, 600 people live on Holland island. They are mostly oystermen and their families.

Much money and labor have been expended by the property owners to combat the terrible action of the swift-running tides, but now all seems doomed to destruction.

Dr. Amos Brown, head professor of geology at the University of Pennsylvania, has this to say about the island:

"There may be two causes for this very peculiar disappearance. The fact that islands go out of sight, however, is no new thing, but for one to be swallowed so rapidly is certainly startling. This disappearance may be due to the weight of the island itself. Deep currents are often found in a bay which eat and cut away from below, so that the upper or exposed portion of the island gradually sinks. Especially is this the case where the land is of alluvial formation, and, consequently, soft and very yielding.

"A second consideration is that the swift tides of the Chesapeake may be rapidly cutting away the land from the top and sides, and this is a much slower process. I think that the rapidity of disappearance in the case of Holland island would point to the first cause I mentioned, or, possibly, to a combination of each. There is no doubt that this island is of alluvial formation and was once joined to the other islands in the bay lying near it. When the rich farms of Virginia and Maryland were in their best condition of cultivation before the war immense quantities of deposit were carried down the Potomac into the bay.

"Most of the islands opposite the mouth of the river were thus built up and sustained against the action of the sweeping in. Since the war these farms have not been worked, the land has become baked, and the debris carried down by the river is thus checked. The islands receive nothing, therefore, to compensate for the action of the tides and underlying excavation of deep counter currents, and must in time entirely disappear. This island is particularly well situated for the best possible action of the tides. As the tide advances it cuts away on the west, then travels up Holland straits and eats away on the south and east. Coupled with the causes already mentioned, one must not forget that the whole eastern coast line is slowly sinking. This has become already a serious matter to real estate owners on the New Jersey coast. The Pacific coast, on the contrary, is gradually rising."

The Queen's Apology.

One of the great sources of the queen's power was the extreme attention she gave to detail. This extended to everything which came under her personal notice. The story of her writing her name in the dust on a piece of furniture, while making a tour of Windsor castle, and underneath it also the name of the housemaid who was responsible for the neglect, I have never heard confirmed, but many little stories attest her far-seeing supervision in everything. She never considered the smallest courtesy beneath her dignity. Madame M——, lady-in-waiting to the duchess of Connaught, is responsible for this little anecdote illustrating this. At the time of the christening of little Prince Edward, the eldest son of the duke of York, through some mistake Madame M——'s invitation was forgotten. She did not go to the ceremony, but seeing the queen soon after, her majesty asked why she had not been present, inquired into all the particulars, and made many excuses. Just then the duchess came up. "It's such a pity about Madame M——'s invitation," said her majesty, "but there's no need for you to say anything. I've apologized."—Harper's Bazar.

Too Many Dogs.

Aunt Hannah—The young married woman of to-day does not know how to bring up a child.

Uncle George—And so she tries it on a dog.—Boston Transcript.

TO CHEAT UNCLE SAM.

Amusing Attempts of Ingenious Smugglers to Avoid Paying Custom House Charges.

The new rule excluding the friends of passengers from those parts of steamship piers which are required for the examination of baggage is defended by the custom house inspectors as lessening the opportunity for smuggling, and in connection with this many good stories are told of ingenious attempts to rob Uncle Sam of his duties, says the New York Mail and Express.

Among others the case is cited of Albert E. Emanuel, who, on August 1 of last year, was met at the North German Lloyd pier by a woman representing herself to be his wife. While his baggage was being examined Inspector Timothy Donohue saw him put a bracelet on the woman's wrist. Donohue remonstrated and the two were detained. It was a hot day, and Emanuel had his handkerchief in his hand. He said to the woman: "You're perspiring. Here, wipe your face!" at the same time handing her his handkerchief. If the couple had not been under surveillance it is probable that the action would have excited no suspicion, as it was done quite naturally. Donohue, however, was watching them, and he reached out and snatched the handkerchief, remarking: "I'm rather warm myself." Pinned to a corner of the handkerchief was a diamond brooch valued at about $1,000. The man was arrested, tried and convicted. He had declared that he had brought in only a lot of stationery, on which he paid $47.70 duty.

Down at the barge office they tell of a smuggler who was met upon his arrival last summer by a crowd of 13 relatives, who formed a solid wall around him and his baggage. While the inspectors were busy elsewhere he passed around the circle of his kindred everything of value which the trunks contained. They hid the laces under their coats and put on the jewelry.

It was not many months ago that a wealthy Detroit clothing merchant, while waiting for his baggage to be examined, was detected passing a valuable diamond ring to a woman who had met him at the pier. It was the only thing he was trying to smuggle, and he had purchased it for the woman, but it was a flagrant attempt to defraud the government, and the merchant had to pay a fine, besides losing the ring.

A few years ago a passenger was met most effusively by his brother-in-law, who clasped him in his arms and kissed him. After greetings had been exchanged and inquiries made regarding the health of the various members of the family, the brother-in-law started to leave the pier. This excited the suspicion of an inspector, who asked in surprise why he must go so soon.

"I have another engagement," said the man, nervously. "I cannot wait for the trunks to be examined."

He was compelled to wait. A search of his pockets brought to light a pair of diamond earrings valued at $450.

SIZE OF RAIN DROPS.

Exact Dimensions Ascertained by a Meteorologist of Paris.

The Paris Meteorologist Faideau has undertaken the laborious task of measuring the dimensions of rain drops, says the New York World.

He finds that the largest are about one-sixth of an inch, the smallest one-five-hundredth of an inch, in diameter.

They are larger in summer than in winter, and larger in hot than in cold climates. At the moment of condensation of the water vapor to the liquid state great numbers of extremely small drops are formed in close proximity. As they fall they come together, and coalesce in consequence of mutual attraction, and so what we call rain drops are formed.

The size of the drop when it reaches the earth depends on the height from which it has fallen. Now, in summer the lower strata of air are warmer than in winter, and therefore clouds are formed at a greater height where conditions are favorable for rapid condensation. The drops falling from these high summer clouds have more time to grow, and therefore become larger than the winter drops.

In winter, as is well known, clouds often exist very near the ground. The velocity with which rain drops fall depends according to Faideau, both on their size and on the wind, which makes them fall obliquely. Other things being equal, a drop of medium size, say one-fiftieth of an inch in diameter, may strike the ground with a velocity of some 13 feet a second, while a very large drop, measuring one-sixth of an inch, may attain a speed of 38 feet a second.

An Irish Mouse.

On the North Bull sand bank in Dublin bay there is a little island about two and one-half miles long, which is the home of a new kind of mouse. These little sand-colored creatures are probably the descendants of castaways, and it is believed that in about a century they have changed their coats to the color of their sandy surroundings for protection against the owls and hawks on the island.—Little Chronicle.

Altogether Too Healthy.

Land Agent—Healthy? Why, man, there has not been a sick person out here for years!

Prospective Purchaser — Indeed! Well, it would hardly suit a benedict. How could a fellow ever say he had been sitting up with a sick friend?—Philadelphia Record.

DEERING AT PARIS IN 1900.

The Famous Chicago Harvester Company Received More and Greater Honors Than Were Ever Before Accorded an American Exhibitor in the History of Expositions.

Americans may well feel proud of the interest which her citizens took in the Paris Exposition and the elaborate exhibits which were prepared with consummate skill and displayed in a manner not excelled by any other country. Those of Harvesting Machinery in particular were most complete and interesting. The Deering Harvester Company, of Chicago, America's foremost manufacturer of this line of goods, was accorded the position of honor, having contributed more to the advancement of the art of harvesting than any other manufacturer, living or dead, and with a greater array of important inventions to its credit than any other company in the world.

Visitors to the Exposition were prompt to accord the Deering exhibits supreme honors, and it only remained for official mandate to ratify the popular verdict, which was done in a manner as substantial as it was well-merited. Each one of the seven Deering exhibits secured the highest award in its class.

In addition to four high decorations, the Deering Harvester Company received twenty-five awards, or twenty-nine in all, as follows: Decoration of Officer of the Legion of Honor, Decoration of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, Two Decorations of Officer of Merite Agricole, a Special Certificate of Honor, The Grand Prize, Six Gold Medals, Six Silver Medals and Eleven Bronze Medals, including Deering Collaborator Medals.

The Decoration of the Legion of Honor was instituted by Napoleon Bonaparte when First Consul in 1802, and is only conferred in recognition of distinguished military or civil achievements. It is the highest distinction in the gift of the French Republic.

The Decoration of Merite Agricole is an honor of but slightly less importance, which is conferred upon those who have contributed greatly to the advancement of agriculture.

An Official Certificate of Honor was accorded the Deering Retrospective Exhibit, which showed the improvements in Harvesting machinery during the past century, and excited the highest praise of the French Government Officials who had entrusted to the Deering Harvester Company the preparation of this most important exhibit. By special request this exhibit has been presented to the National Museum of Arts and Sciences at Paris, where it has become a permanent feature of that world-famed institution.

The Deering Twine Exhibit and Corn Harvester Exhibit, both of which received the highest awards, have by request of the French Government been presented to the National Agricultural College of France.

There was no field trial, either official or otherwise, in connection with the Paris Exposition, but the most important foreign contest the past season was held under the auspices of the Russian Expert Commission at the Governmental Farm of Tomsk, Siberia, August 14th to 18th. All the leading American and European machines participated and were subjected to the most difficult tests by the Government Agriculturist. The Expert Commission awarded the Deering Harvester Company the Grand Silver Medal of the Minister of Agriculture and Domain, which was the highest award.

The Deering Harvester Works are the largest of their kind in the world, covering eighty-five acres and employing 9,000 people. They are equipped with modern automatic machines, many of which perform the labor of from five to fifteen hands.

This Company is also the largest manufacturer of Binder Twine in the world, having been first to produce single-strand binder twine, such as is in general use today, making over a third of the product of the entire world. The output of its factory for a single day would tie a band around the earth at the equator, with several thousand miles to spare. The annual production would fill a freight train twenty miles long. Made into a mat two feet wide, it would reach across the American Continent from ocean to ocean.

Deering machines are known as LIGHT DRAFT IDEALS, consisting of Binders, Mowers, Reapers, Corn Harvesters, Shredders and Rakes.

This company exhibited at the Paris Exposition an Automobile Mower, which attracted much attention, and exhibitions were given with one of these machines in the vicinity of Paris throughout the season.

Has something in its eye—the threaded needle.—Golden Days.

Millions of Babies have used Hoxsie's Croup Cure for Coughs, Colds, Croup and Diphtheria with astonishing results. No ipecac to cause nausea. 50c.

Good never fails to him who never fails to seek it.—Los Angeles Herald.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is an infallible medicine for coughs and colds.—N. W. Samuel, Ocean Grove, N. J., Feb. 17, 1900.

Riches can buy a man a whole lot of trouble.—Los Angeles Herald.

Drugs have their uses, but don't store them in your stomach. Beeman's Pepsin Gum aids the natural forces to perform their functions.

The process of washing free from sin discloses that sin is a sort of starch for some characters.—Puck.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

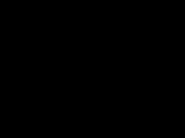
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

A thief's talk is always about the dishonesty of others.—Atchison Globe.

Lane's Family Medicine.

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

Do not get "short" if you want to get along.—Golden Days.



Beware of Them

There are two afflictions which perhaps give the most pain and trouble, viz:

Sciatica

and

Lumbago

Both disable and cripple, but

St. Jacobs Oil

is their best cure.

ABSOLUTE SECURITY.

Genuine

Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Must Bear Signature of

Brent Good

See Fac-Simile Wrapper Below.

Very small and as easy to take as sugar.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

FOR HEADACHE.
FOR DIZZINESS.
FOR BILIOUSNESS.
FOR TORPID LIVER.
FOR CONSTIPATION.
FOR SALLOW SKIN.
FOR THE COMPLEXION

GENUINE MUST HAVE SIGNATURE.

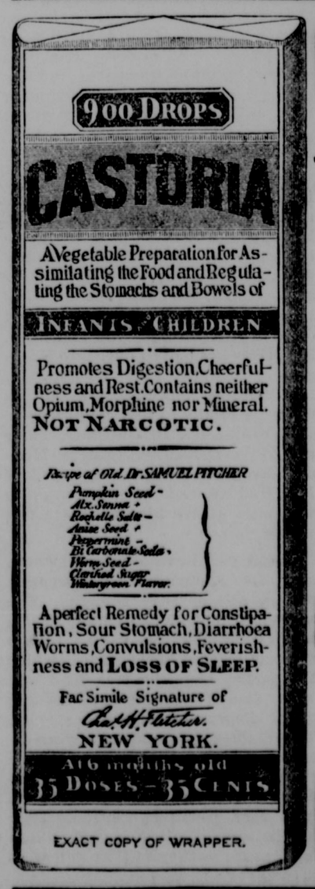
Price 25 Cents | Purely Vegetable. Brent Good

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

Labor Saving Dessert.

Dissolve in hot water contents of a package of Burnham's Hasty Jellycon, set away in a cool place until wanted and you will have the most brilliant, pleasing jelly. The flavors are: lemon, orange, strawberry, raspberry, wild cherry and peach, or if a delicious wine or coffee jelly is desired, get "calfsfoot" Jellycon. Your grocer sells it.

MUSIC 50 COPIES sent for One Dollar. All different. All popular. Best ever published. Vocal and Instrumental. E. A. SIEGEL, 320 Broadway, New York.



EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

ART IN ARCHITECTURE

Designed and Written Especially for This Paper

THIS very neatly designed house contains seven rooms, and can be built for $1,800. The foundation is of rubble stone, the walls, being 16 inches thick.

The size of the parlor is 13 feet; dining-room, 12x14 feet; kitchen, 10 feet 6 inches by 13 feet; and the four chambers 13 feet 6 inches by 14 feet; 9x9 feet; 11x11 feet; 8 feet 6 inches by 11 feet. The vestibule is 4x9 feet and has two windows, one at front and one at side.

The hall is 6x14 feet, with stairway leading to the second floor. Two stairways lead from the kitchen, one up to the second floor and one down to the basement. The den off the dining-room is 6x6 feet. The pantry is 6x6 feet. The dining-room has a large bay window, and the parlor contains a fireplace. Between the hall and parlor and between the dining-room and parlor are large sliding doors.

NEAT SEVEN-ROOM DWELLING.

The front veranda is 7x19 feet and has steps at both ends. The front chamber has a fireplace and an oriel bay. The bathroom is 6x8 feet. All chambers have large closets.

The balcony on the second floor is 7x23 feet.

The size of studding is 2x4 inches; joist, 2x10 inches; roof rafters, 2x4 inches. The sheathing will be of fence flooring, surfaced one side; all the siding to be of B quality, with 4-inch face. All the subfloors are to be of fencing, the surfaced roof boards to be of fencing, spaced 1½ inches apart for air space.

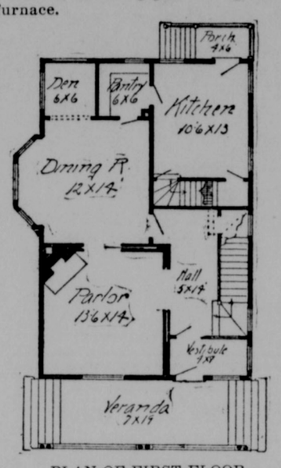
The shingles of roof will be of the star A star brand.

Building paper will be placed between the finished and subfloors, and also between the siding and sheathing. All glass will be American, double thick, and all trim throughout the house will be of Georgia pine.

The size of the house upon the ground is 24x37 feet. The basement is 7 feet; first story 9 feet 6 inches; second story 9 feet.

The chimneys above the roof will be of pressed brick, laid in cement mortar.

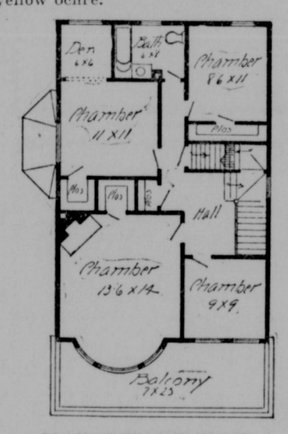
The house is piped for gas and furnace.



PLAN OF FIRST FLOOR.

All plastering is to be two-coat work.

The outside of the house will be painted three coats, including the priming, which will be done with yellow ochre and the best boiled linseed oil. The finishing color will be of white for the body of the house, and all trimmings will be of a light neutral blue color. The roof will be of yellow ochre.



PLAN OF SECOND FLOOR.

All gutters and downspouts will be of galvanized iron.

The chimney brace will be of wrought iron.

The owner will furnish the gas fixtures, furnace, art glass, bathroom fixtures, shelf hardware and mantels.

GEO. A. W. KINTZ.

Diseases in Lead Pencils.

The doctors are constantly adding to the terrors of life by discovering sources of disease in common things and general practices. Lead pencils are the latest subject for condemnation, or rather the method of using lead pencils in schools. There have been outbreaks of skin and other ailments in a number of schools lately which have puzzled the doctors, and the school medical inspectors, after considerable inquiry, now assert that the school pencils are to blame. The practice, it appears, is that pencils are provided for the whole school, and are collected at the end of each day and redistributed next morning. In this way a single pencil makes a tour of the class, and is sucked in turn by most of the children. The moral of the discovery is "One child, one pencil."

Electrical Ferry Bridge.

A colossal ferry bridge is to be erected over the River Tyne at the harbor mouth, connecting North with South Shields. The suspension bridge will be erected at a height of 270 feet and will have a clear span of 640 feet, so that even the largest vessels may be able to pass up and down the river with facility. From the bridge will depend a platform, suspended upon cables, which will have accommodation for tramcars, horses, vehicles and 200 passengers. The mechanism of the bridge will be actuated throughout by electricity.

Slain by Beasts and Snakes.

The annual report of the Indian government on the number of deaths due to wild animals shows that during the year 1899 2,966 persons perished; 899 were killed by tigers, 338 by wolves, 327 by leopards, and the remainder by elephants, hyenas, crocodiles, etc.; 24,621 persons perished from the effect of snakebites; 89,238 cattle were killed during the same year, 9,449 by snakes and the remainder by wild beasts.

Trades for Little Filipinos.

An American manual-training school has been established in the city of Dumanguette, Island of Negros, in the Philippines. The schoolhouse, erected at a cost of $10,000, is the gift of H. B. Sillman, of New York. Under the care of a Princeton graduate the young Filipinos will be taught carpentering, ironwork and agriculture.

Bicycling in Cold Weather.

When riding in cold weather the fingers of a cycler are frequently almost benumbed by the cold. Warm mittens or thick gloves lessen the suffering slightly, but the effect is ungainly, to say the least of it. If, however, a pair of moderately thick gloves be treated with vaseline, the cold does not penetrate, neither does the hand become deadened by the cold. The way to do this is to first turn the glove inside out. After warming it slightly by the fire, a little pure vaseline should be well rubbed in with the finger until the skin has taken up as much as possible. A little warmth will cause the grease to sink in completely, and after that it is ready for wear. The color is naturally darkened, but the hands will not be stained or greased in the slightest, provided these directions have been carried out. Quite as important is the fact that the blood will be induced to circulate freely, and chilly fingers will become a thing of the past.—Golden Days.

The Tenement House Evil.

The New York tenement house commission says in its report, after a thorough examination, that the densely populated sections of the city "are centers of disease, poverty, vice and crime, where it is a marvel not that some children grow up to be thieves and drunkards, but that so many should grow up to be decent and self-respecting." One of the first-announced purposes of King Edward VII. is to improve the housing of the poor in London. Within a few years the corporation of Liverpool has demolished 6,500 unsanitary dwellings and is now erecting 183 houses for the poor. In this reform Liverpool has spent $2,000,000.

How Silklamba Is Made.

Rafia fiber is a staple article of commerce in Madagascar. The Hovas use the under part of the leaf split very fine as a warp, with a weft of white silk, producing an article called silklamba, which is sold both in Europe and America. The coast tribes use it for clothing, but of coarse quality, with dyed stripes of indigo, saffron, black and a dirty green. It is a cold, comfortless-looking material, and when two natives come down a road clad in new rafia shirts the noise produced is somewhat similar to that of two wire meat covers rubbed together.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

The average person breathes in a gallon of air a minute.

Walnuts came originally from Persia, almonds from Central Asia.

The center ward of Montreal comprises 41 acres and has 41 liquor licenses. That's a saloon for every seven wage earners in the ward.

There is only one fortress in the United States. It is Fortress Monroe, in Virginia. It is surrounded by a moat filled with water from 8 to 15 feet deep, and from 75 to 100 feet wide.

While cutting up a poplar at his sawmill in Lee county, Va., C. R. Kesterton found an auger hole plugged by a pin. On removing the pin he found in the hole five $20 gold pieces bearing dates between 1850 and 1860. The coins are supposed to have been hid there for safekeeping during the civil war.

An American musical instrument company has issued circulars broadcast in London, offering to 200 pupils in each district two free music lessons per week for 12 months. One of the conditions attached to this novel offer is that each pupil shall recommend the company's instruments to friends of the family.

Half a dozen leading artists in New York have planned a 12-story studio building, which is intended to be the center of bohemian art critics. There are to be a dozen studios with living apartments and two dozen with bachelor quarters attached. The project grows out of the difficulty in securing kitchen accommodations in connection with studios.

The work of tearing down the famous marble mansion of A. T. Stewart, Thirty-fourth street and Fifth avenue, New York, is in progress, to make room for a new business block. The workmen employed in the task of razing the building refer to it as the marble quarry. There is marble on every hand, and the pieces were put together, or rather in place, as though to remain where they were laid for all time. To loosen the pieces is as difficult almost as cutting, it is said, through a solid slab of marble.

ENGLISH LENTEN CUSTOMS.

"Mothering Sunday" a Happy Day for Servant Girls—King Edward Sixth's Big Fish Bill.

Some people who went to church during Lent may have noticed that the altar cloth in use was of a different kind to that generally to be found in the church. There are, of course, hundreds of churches which do not possess Lenten altar cloths, and it cannot be said that the custom is universal, but nevertheless many churches have adopted it, says the London Mail.

These altar cloths are specially made, and it is getting quite the fashion for wealthy ladies to present the churches they attend with an article of this kind. They are worked by the fashionable needlework guilds, and are invariably adorned with scenes from the life of Christ. In some cases the illustrations deal solely with the Passion, and are thus eminently suitable for the season from the church point of view. Many of these Lenten altar cloths are very costly, and if worked by one person would represent the labor of months.

In London and the big towns "mothering Sunday" is almost unknown, but in the country districts the middle Sunday of Lent is a happy time for the servant girls. On that day they are allowed to go home and see their mothers, if distance does not prevent them from doing so, and the girl is expected to take home a cake. Many a girl cannot fulfill this condition, for the act, in strict accordance with old custom, necessitates the girl making the cake herself.

In big country houses, for example, the parlor maid would not dare to intrude in the special domain of the cook, and accordingly it is customary to take home a bought cake, and probably this pleases the mother just as well. In these days, however, of "Sundays out," the privilege of mothering Sunday are dying out, and the custom is hardly likely to live out the present century. Indeed, it is only in the very remote country districts that the custom holds good.

The cakes which the girls are supposed to take home are the simnel cakes familiar to all housekeepers. There is no need to give the recipe, for any cookery book gives this information. The home of simnel cakes, or, rather, the place where they are made to perfection, is Yorkshire, and the delicacies made down south by cooks do not compare with the cakes produced by the ladies of the kitchen in the county specified.

Lent was observed in the court of Edward VII. in a very different way to that of the king's predecessor of that name. One Lent King Edward VI. had to pay a record fish bill, for his household consumed 9,000 red herrings, 3,000 white herrings, two barrels of sturgeon, 1,300 codfish, 89 Conger eels, and 300 mulwells.

Turned Down.

Jack Borroughs — For several months, sir, I have been paying attention to your daughter. It will, therefore, not surprise you—

Mr. Goldman (who knows him)—Ah! but it does. It surprises me to hear that you ever paid anything.—Philadelphia Press.

Perfectly Natural.

Mrs. Greene—Mrs. Kreesus is sick of her bargain already, it is plain to see, and probably wishes she had married young Hartley.

Mr. Greene—Kreesus, they say, is made of money, and naturally his wife wants to change him.—Boston Transcript.

RECORD OF FUNSTON.

Kansas Hero Has Taken Leading Role in Many Daring Undertakings and Adventures.

Gen. Funston's capture of Aguinaldo is a spectacular climax to the young Kansan's adventurous career. It overshadows anything he has accomplished from the time he broke all travel records in Alaska in 1893 until he and his brave men swam the Mariabao in the face of a galling Filipino fire and dashed into Malolos—the first American soldiers to set foot in that stronghold.

Funston was born in Ohio in 1863, but went to Kansas when he was 16 years old. His first adventure of public importance was the expedition to Alaska, where the secretary of agriculture sent him to get botanical specimens He was there 18 months and during that time traveled farther than any white man before or since and underwent all the hardships known to the region at that period.

GEN. FREDERICK E. FUNSTON.
(The Kansas Hero Who Captured Aguinaldo in His Camp.)

After his return he went to Cuba as a captain of artillery in the insurgent army. He figured in nearly all the hand to hand struggles of the Cubans' last desperate campaign against Weyler and went home with three wounds—one in the arm, another in the lungs and another in the thigh. He was still lame when he left Kansas for the Philippines with the Twentieth.

Gen. Funston's most noted exploit in the Philippines was at the battle of Malolos. He has figured in other sensational adventures, however, and it was he that captured the letters and private papers of the insurgent leader, proving that the insurrection had been aided materially by persons in this country.

JOSEPH H. MILLARD.

Omaha Banker Elected United States Senator for the Long Term by Nebraska's Legislature.

After a bitter and long-prolonged struggle the legislature of Nebraska elected two republican United States senators. For the short term the legislators selected Gov. Dietrich and for the long term Mr. Joseph H. Millard, a well-known Omaha banker. Senator Millard was born in Hamilton, Ont., in 1836. He came to Nebraska in 1856, and has lived in Omaha ever since that time. In 1883 he was a candidate for the United States senate, but was defeated by Gen. Charles F. Manderson. Mr. Millard is at the head of the Omaha national bank, having risen from the position of cashier, to which he was appointed in 1867. He has a yearly income of $35,000 as president of the concern. His wealth is rated at over half a million. He was for many years a director of the Union Pacific railroad, but has not been connected with that corporation since its reorganization some time ago. He has never held a public office of any kind before. He has the reputation of being an indefatigable worker, and has for years been in the habit of arriving at his bank at seven o'clock in the morning.

JOSEPH H. MILLARD.
(Elected United States Senator from Nebraska Until 1907.)

Girl Shoots Second in Duel.

Another duel in Paris has resulted in bloodshed. The combatants were two shop girls in a large drapery store. Stirred by jealousy over the foreman of their department, who flirted with both girls, they challenged each other to a duel with revolvers. The woods near Vincennes was the rendezvous. Accompanied by four seconds, the girls arrived at the spot on Thursday morning and took up their positions 25 paces apart. A trembling second was about to announce the signal to fire when a forester appeared on the scene. When he appeared the seconds fled. One of the frightened principals involuntarily pressed the trigger of her revolver with the result that one of the seconds fell screaming with a bullet in her arm. The forester took the wounded girl to the nearest hospital and marched the others to the police station.

BRIDGE NOT NEEDED

Miners Travel Across a Wild River on a Thread.

Men Who Use the "Sky Trolley" in Western Pennsylvania Laugh at What Strangers Call the Perils of Their Daily Trip.

Sky ferries are probably unknown to the citizens of any other section of the country than those of the Youghiogheny river valley, in western Pennsylvania.

The Youghiogheny river is the largest tributary of the Monongahela, and although only navigable for about six or eight miles of its length above its mouth at McKeesport, where it empties into the Monongahela, it is a most important stream, as along its banks are situated the great Pennsylvania coking coal fields.

The Youghiogheny is a brawling, rough stream, that tumbles over rocks most of its way from its source away up in the Blue Ridge mountains of southern Pennsylvania to its mouth at McKeesport.

Rolling along through the mountain passes, nature has not always been kind enough to furnish a town site at the same point where the mouth of a mine shaft is located, and it is frequently necessary for the hundreds of miners who work in the mines along the river to seek habitations on the opposite side of the stream from the coal works.

This is where the "sky ferry" comes in handy, says the Philadelphia Press.

Nothing ever disturbs the ferries. High water never reaches them, and when the ice goes out in the "Dare Devil Yough," as the stream is locally known (it is pronounced "Yock," by the way), the "sky ferry" carries its passengers high and dry above all danger.

There are a number of these ferries along the river.

The first one built was at Greenock, about six miles south of McKeesport. The river is about 150 yards wide at this point and the nature of the ground and the financial status of the residents of Greenock both prohibited the erection of a substantial bridge.

SKY TROLLEY AND PLATFORM.
(Used by Pennsylvania Miners to Cross Rivers and Creeks.)

In this emergency two geniuses of the little mining hamlet, W. H. Heath and E. F. Cloman, solved the problem of all-the-year-around transportation for the Greenock people over and back across the Youghiogheny river.

They built the first "sky ferry" and since then the scheme has been adopted by a dozen or more mining towns on the river.

The ferries are purely cooperative affairs.

To become a member of the company owning and operating a ferry requires a membership fee of two dollars. Upon the payment of this sum the applicant for membership in the company is furnished with a key, or with several keys, for his family, if he needs them. Until the trap door leading to the platform on either bank of the river is opened with this key passengers are unable to reach the cage in which the passage from one side of the river to the other is effected.

A small windlass, in the cage, enables the passenger to grind himself along the wire if the cage fails to make the run all the way across the river on gravity. A similar windlass is provided on the platform at each side of the river to draw the cage over if it chances to be on the opposite side when an intending passenger climbs the steps to the cage platform.

These ferries have now been in use for a number of years and are the most popular form of communication between the opposite banks of the brawling Yough.

No accidents have ever occurred, and they are considered as safe as a bridge, even in a heavy windstorm. The overhead cable, on which the cage is suspended, is stout, half-inch steel and is guaranteed to last a lifetime in this kind of work.

It is kept thoroughly covered at all times with coal tar to protect it from the weather, and men, women and children make hundreds of trips a day through the air, in the cage which is suspended 100 feet or more above the swiftly rushing Youghiogheny.

Tree Planting in New York.

New York City's Tree-Planting association, composed of public-spirited citizens, not only set out 3,126 shade trees last year, but secured the passage of laws empowering the park commissioners to take entire charge of street tree-planting, so that the work can be done on an extensive scale and in the most effective manner.

The Only Woman Admiral.

The queen of Greece holds a unique position, for, on account of her great love for the sea, the late Alexander III. of Russia made her an admiral of the Russian fleet instead of giving her the customary regiment. Her majesty is the only lady admiral in the world.

PUNGENT PARAGRAPHS.

The six-foot man, no matter how self-composed he may be, is always "up in the air."—Indianapolis News.

Some bonds are worth more than their face value, and some are worth less. Vaga-bonds are in the worthless class.—Chicago Daily News.

In order to make home life interesting, an Atchison woman is giving a prize to her son who can guess nearest what she puts in a certain pie, says the Atchison Globe.

Gas Bills.—Campaign Manager—"Here's a bill of $200 from one of your speechmakers during the campaign." Candidate—"Very well, put it into the drawer marked 'Gas Bills.'"—Ohio State Journal.

Advice.—Ranter—"We're getting up an amateur theatrical society and we're looking for a good motto; something appropriate, you know." Banter—"What's the matter with "Think twice before you act?"—Philadelphia Press.

They Agreed.—"Mr. Carnegie is the greatest and most sensible philanthropist the world ever knew." "I agree with you, sir. And now, may I ask your business?" "I am a book seller. And you?" "I am a maker of hardwood book shelving."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Bertha—"I do hate that Mr. Poller—always making remarks about one's dress." Edith—"You silly! He said your gown was a perfect dream. I don't see why you should be mad at that." Bertha—"I had been wearing that gown three days, and that was the first time he noticed it."—Boston Transcript.

"Woe is me," sighed the fair maiden, who was being carried leagues and leagues from her home by the feudal knight. "I would that whoa was me," remarked the knight's coal black steed, for he was footsore. The maiden failed to catch the remark, and continued to tear her golden hair, as was customary in such cases.—Indianapolis News.

A TOWN IN TWO STATES.

And a Railroad That Has One Rail in Tennessee, the Other in Virginia.

A Washington dispatch to the Chicago Record says that a certain change in the boundary line, as agreed between Virginia and Tennessee, has just been ratified by congress. This recalls a good story. For years the town of Bristol, in east Tennessee, has had the unique distinction of being in two states. There are two separate municipal corporations, one under the laws of Tennessee and the other under the laws of Virginia. They are known as Bristol, Tenn., and Bristol, Va. The corporation of Bristol, Tenn., extending to the east curbing of Main street, the principal business thoroughfare of the twin cities. Both corporations wished to pave this street—that is, they considered it necessary—but how to go about to divide the expense attached was the question to be considered.

The city of Bristol, Tenn., did not care to pay for paving the entire thoroughfare up to the sidewalk on the Bristol (Va.) side, while the corporation of Bristol, Va., could not step across the imaginary line and expend city funds in Tennessee. This was a tangled proposition for the fathers of the two cities. It was suggested that the matter be taken to the legislature and have the Tennessee general assembly cede one-half of Main street to Virginia. The sister state was tickled to death to accept the proposition, as Gov. Tyler told Gov. McMillin over the telephone the other day. The Tennessee solons passed the bill. It was engrossed and sent to the Virginia general assembly. These lawmakers accepted the gift, and then congress was asked to ratify the action of the two legislatures.

The result of the work is that the boundary line between Virginia and Tennessee is in the center of Main street. There is now an electric street car line on this thoroughfare, with one rail in Tennessee and the other in Virginia. Each state will collect one-half of the taxes on the street railway property. The car line runs along for a mile and a half in the two states. Many interesting stories are told of complications in the past caused by the boundary line.

THE FIRST INAUGURATION.

Second Induction of Thomas Jefferson Was the Initial One at Washington.

No midnight frivolities marked the advent of the aristocratic John Adams, nor did the people so indulge upon Jefferson's inaugurations, the second of which, in 1805, is memorable as having been the first inauguration held in Washington, says the National Magazine.

Hospitality and gayety reigned supreme from the first moments of Madison's presidency. After the ceremonies incident to administering the oath of office, the president and his escort were lavishly served, by ladies, at the white house. Ex-President Jefferson assisted in the service It would be interesting to know whether he was in his accustomed neglige.

More interesting, however, is his cordial welcome to his successor in comparison with John Adams' escape from the city in a private conveyance at dawn of Jefferson's inauguration day. Later presidents, too, have shown a less noble spirit than Jefferson's on similar occasions John Quincy Adams is said to have ridden on horseback about the city, within earshot of the salute announcing Jackson's succession, unwilling to witness the ceremony, and Tyler hastened to the river and embarked in the early morning of his retiring to private citizenship.

Maryland Day at Buffalo.

Wednesday, July 10th, proximo, has been selected as Maryland Day at the Pan-American Exposition to be held at Buffalo, New York, beginning May 1st next. In what manner the day will be celebrated at the Exposition has not yet been arranged, but committees will shortly be appointed to interview the railroads and secure rates for the occasion. Secretary Forrest notified Director General William I. Buchanan, of the Exposition, what date was named, and requested that one of the larger auditoriums in the grounds—such as the Temple of Music—be reserved for the special exercises. The Eastern Shore Kitchen, which will occupy a part of the building, was discussed, but the commission had not made up iis mind just how the enterprise will be operated.

Big stock toys, candies, fruits, etc., at Cheap John's.

Two bottles pop for 5 cts. at Cheap John's.

Headquarters for fishing tackle at Cheap John's.

Dr. Hardman, of Grafton, will fit spectacles at the Glades Hotel, Oakland, Friday, April 19th. 2t

John Felty, Jr., has the cheapest line of wall paper in town. Call and examine it.

John Felty, Jr., has the cheapest line of wall paper in town. Call and examine it.

Dr. S. M. Hardman, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, Grafton, W. Va. Spectacles and artificial eyes fitted.

John Felty, Jr., has the cheapest line of wall paper in town. Call and examine it.

If tronbled by a weak digestion, loss of appetite, or constipation, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Every box warranted. For sale by all druggists.

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.

133½ acres coal land on Youghiogheny river, 7 miles north of Oakland.

The Andrews property in Oakland for sale.

House on 5th street, opposite the jail for sale.

A farm one mile from Oakland, containing 187½ acres; about 50 or 60 acres cleared and under cultivation; has been thoroughly limed. Balance of land well timbered. On this farm is one of the best dwelling houses in the county; also stables, wagon sheds, spring house and all necessary outbuildings; water within five feet of kitchen door. This property will be sold cheap.

New house containing eight rooms, cellar, etc., and 26½ acres of ground; barn, stable, and all other outbuildings, adjoining the town of Grantsville, Garrett county. This property is known as the Samuel J. Beachy property, and will be sold cheap.

A farm five miles from Oakland on the Aurora road, containing 200 acres, well watered, fenced, etc.; a good dwelling house, a new barn built last year cost $1,000, and all other necessary outbuildings. This property will be sold on easy terms.

A farm 2½ miles southwest of Oakland, containing ninety acres of ground, well watered and fenced; has been thoroughly limed, and is under a high state of cultivation. First-class dwelling house; new bank barn put up this year; stone spring house and all other necessary outbuildings. One hundred and twenty-five bearing fruit trees of choicest variety. This farm can be bought on easy terms.

A farm five and two-third miles north of Swanton, containing one hundred and ten acres of land, comparatively level, well watered and under fence; eighty acres cleared and under a high state of cultivation; twenty-five acres of good timber; an orchard which never fails to produce fruit, consisting of peaches, pears, plums and apple trees. The buildings on this farm consist of an elegant dwelling house, containing six rooms and a cellar; a bank barn 40x60 feet; a spring house and all necessary outbuildings. This farm can be bought for part cash and balance on time to suit purchaser.

A farm known as the "Swanger Mill Property," containing eighty-six acres of land, partly cleared and balance in hemlock timber. The buildings consist of a dwelling house, small storehouse, a water-power grist mill, stable and all other necessary outbuildings. Besides being well watered by a stream running from one end of the place to the other it has on it a lake, covering about seven acres, which has been stocked with 40,000 brook and rain bow trout. This property can be bought at a low figure, part cash and balance on time, to suit purchaser, at five per cent. interest.

I have also houses to rent and sell in the town of Oakland.

For further particulars apply to

JOHN T. SINCELL,
Real Estate and Insurance Agent,
OAKLAND, MD.

CONSTIPATION CURED!

Nearly everyone suffers in a greater or less degree from this dreadful disease. It is dangerous to neglect the bowels, and often by doing so a foundation is laid for serious ailments.

Those suffering from Constipation suffer from slow Poison.

OUR NATIVE HERBS cures Constipation quietly and permanently.

No Pain, No Griping, No Binding effect afterwards. Its action is pleasant and sure.

200 DAYS' TREATMENT $1.00.

A CURE GUARANTEED OR THE MONEY BACK.

"When a girl I had Small Pox succeded by Typhoid Fever and Measels. I was left with Constipation and Sinking Spells. Sometimes I felt that I could not live. After having various physicians treat me with no benefit I bought a box of Our Native Herbs, which seems to be the only medicine that suits my case. I believe it saved my life." Mrs. M. MILLER, Crellin, Md.

No Case Too Stubborn for Our Native Herbs To Conquer.

THE ALONZO O. BLISS CO.,
SOLE PROPRIETORS,
WASHINGTON, D. C.
A. C. BROOKE,
Local Agent. Mountain Lake Park, Md.

A box of Tablets or Powder mailed to any address upon receipt of $1.00.

$900 YEARLY to Christian man or woman to look after our growing business in this and adjoining counties, to act as Manager and Correspondent; work can be done at your home. Enclose self-addressed stamped envelope for particulrs to U. A. KNIGHT, General Manager, Corcoran Building, opposite United States Treasury, Washington, D. C.

Excursion to California.

Account of Epworth League meeting at San Francisco in July. Excursion tickets will be on sale from points in Pennsylvania from July 4th to 12th, good to return until August 31st, low rates of fare have been named for the round trip, and if so desired tickets may be had returning via Portland, Yellow Stone Park and St. Paul, at small additional cost. For full particulars call on address. W. S. Howell, General Eastern Passenger Agent, 381 Broadway, New York, or John R. Pott, District Passenger Agent, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, 810 Park Building, Pittsburg, Pa. 5 3t

Goldfish, globes, food, etc., at Cheap John's.

WILLIAM R. OFFUTT,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
OFFICE UPSTAIRS IN RAVENSCROFT BUILD'G.

Loans negotiated and Collections promptly made.
Practices in Courts of Maryland, West Virginia and Court of Appeals of Maryland.

ORDER NISI.

Isaac Bradburn vs. Jemima Mowrey.

No. 1097 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 20th day of April, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, sitting in Equity, that the sale made and reported in the above cause by D. Lindley Sloan, attorney named in the mortgage,be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 17th day of May, 1901; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 17th day of May, 1901.

The report states the amount of sale to be $620.60.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Examiners' Notice.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned, appointed by the County Commissioners of Garrett county, to relocate the road leading from Birt Warnick's farm to the National Road and to view the lands through which the said relocated road is to be made (said location to leave the National Road at a point near U. M. Stanton's barn and running through the lands of U. M. Stanton and Birt Warnick to intersect the old road near Gnagey's water trough, a distance of about 1¼ miles, the object being to make an easier grade and get away from the railroad) and examine whether the said relocated road should be made, will meet on the 25th day of May, 1901, for such purpose, and to determine whether the public convenience requires the said relocation of said county road, and if so, to locate the same, and perform their duty in the premises.

G. W. BROADWATER,
JACOB S. MILLER,
DANIEL J. BRENNEMAN,
Examiners.

AUDITOR'S NOTICE.

Samuel Johnson et al. vs. Mollie Finzel et al.

No. 1079. Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Notice is hereby given to the creditors of Charles F. Finzell, late of Garrett county, deceased, to file their claims, duly authenticated, with the Clerk of this Court on or before the 26th day of April, 1901, as I shall on that day proceed to state an audit distributing the funds in the hands of the trustee in said cause.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
Auditor.

AUDITOR'S NOTICE.

W. Grant Paugh vs. Otho J. Paugh et al.—No. 1050. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

Notice is hereby given to the creditors of Louis F. Paugh, deceased, to file their claims, properly authenticated, with the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett county on or before May 30, 1901, as I will on that day proceed to state an audit distributing the funds in the hands of the trustee in said cause.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
Auditor.

MORTGAGEES' SALE OF VALUABLE REAL ESTATE

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage executed by Mary A. Kimmell and Samuel F. Kimmell, her husband, to James R. Bishop, bearing date the 8th day of September, 1899, and recorded among the mortgage records of Garrett county, and which said mortgage has been duly assigned to the undersigned, and as default has been made in the payment of the interest thereon, we will, on

Thursday, May 9, 1901,

at 3 o'clock p. m., at the front door of the court house in the town of Oakland, Maryland, offer at public auction and sell to the highest bidder the following described real estate, viz.: All that part of the

Isaac Kuykendall Place,

near Hutton, Garrett county, Maryland, which in the sub-division of said place is known and designated as Lot No. 7, containing more or less. Said place is mostly cleared, is improved by a good barn and small dwelling with necessary outbuildings, and also by a good orchard.

105 ACRES

TERMS OF SALE:—Cash on day of sale. Conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

U. G. PALMER,
FRED. A. THAYER.

Sheriff's License Notice.

Notice is hereby given to all persons or bodies, corporate or politic, who may be required to take out license, that they must obtain the same on or before

THE FIRST DAY OF MAY, 1901.

According to the provisions of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland every person or persons doing business for gain or profit except the maker, grower or manufacturer, are hereby notified that they must take out a license.

A. J. OESTER,
Sheriff of Garrett County.

EXECUTORS' NOTICE.

This is to give notice, That the Subscriber, of Garrett county, Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

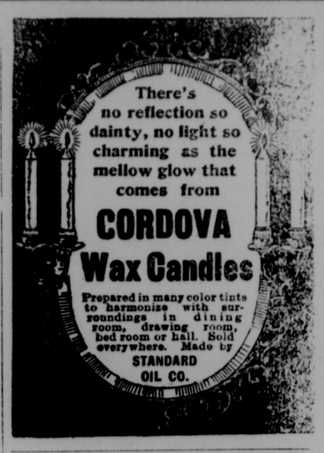
ANNIE M. WARD,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 3rd day of October next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 21st day of March, 1901.

GEORGE W. WARD, Executor,
Sunnyside, Md.

Oakland Pharmacy
JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.
Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars Cameras and Photo Supplies



STATEMENT

SHOWING THE CONDITION OF THE MUTUAL BENEFIT LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 31st, 1900.

Total Income during the year	$13,993,373 91
Total Disbursements	10,472,007 50
Total Assets	74,311,469 25
Total Liabilities	68,186,103 34
Surplus as regards Policy-holders	6,125,364 91
111,317 Policies in force in the United States on Dec. 31, 1900	$272,686,078 00
147 Policies written in Maryland during the year 1900	323,173 00
Premiums received on Maryland business in 1900	113,426 08
Losses paid in Maryland during 1900	71,250 00
Losses incurred in Maryland during 1900	78,815 00

BALTIMORE, March 4, 1901.

In compliance with the Code of Public General Laws, I hereby certify that the above is a true abstract from the sworn statement of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of Newark, N. J., to December 31, 1900, now on file in this department.

(Signed) LLOYD WILKINSON,
Insurance Commissioner.

JULIUS C. RENNINGER, Agent,
Oakland, Maryland.

Turnbull's

China and Japan Mattings, all weaves and colorings.

Porch and Lawn Furniture,

Iron and Brass Bedsteads,

Linoleums and Oil Cloths,

Carpetings.

JOHN TURNBULL, JR., & COMPANY,
16, 18, 20 West Baltimore Street,
BALTIMORE

ORDER NISI.

Samuel Smith vs. John Shartzer et ux.

No. 1095 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered this 28th day of March, in the year nineteen hundred and one, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in Equity, that the sale made and reported in the above cause by James W. Thomas, attorney, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 29th day of April, 1901; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county once a week for three successive weeks before the 29th day of April, 1901.

The report states the amount of sale to be $7486.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

ORDER NISI.

Elizabeth C. Thompson et al. vs. Emma D. Hudson et al.

No. 1090 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 26th day of March, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that the sale made and reported by Frederick A. Thayer, trustee, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the nineteenth day of April next; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county aforesaid once in each of three successive weeks before the 19th day of April next.

The report states the amount of sale to be $2,500.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

ORDER NISI.

George Clauson vs. John Shartzer and wife.

No. 1094 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered this 28th day of March, in the year nineteen hundred and one, by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in equity, that the sale made and reported in the above cause by D. James Blackiston, attorney, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown or before the 29th day of April, 1901; provided a copy of this order be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county once a week for three successive weeks before the 29th day of April, 1901.

The report states the amount of sale to be $3800.00.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

NOTICE TO Tax Payers!

This is to notify the tax payers of Garrett county that the annual levy for 1901 has been made and published, and to call their attention to the following abstract, Section 45, Chapter 566, Acts of 1890, relating to the discount to be allowed and the interest to be charged on all tax bills:

"All county taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of September next succeeding the date of the levy thereof, and on all county taxes paid on or before the first day of September a discount of 3 per cent. shall be allowed, and after the first day of January all taxes shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum until paid. The Treasurer shall take the discount from and charge interest on the tax bills for county purposes regularly in the manner aforesaid and shall note the same upon his books and upon the receipt given for taxes so paid. But the discount shall not be allowed unless the whole amount of State and county taxes are paid when same is made.

WM. M. LOHR,
Treasurer.

IT IS WISE TO WORK FOR

The Mutual Life Insurance Company

OF NEW YORK.

RICHARD A. McCURDY, PRESIDENT.

BECAUSE Its contracts are simplest.
BECAUSE Its premium rates are lowest.
BECAUSE It gives the highest guarantees.
BECAUSE The company is especially helpful to agents.
BECAUSE It is the easiest company in existence to get business for.
BECAUSE You do not have to introduce the company—the company introduces you.
BECAUSE It is the largest, strongest, most progressive life insurance company in the world.

Income in 1900,	$60,582,802.31
Paid Policyholders, 1900,	$26,361,863.83
Assets December 31, 1900,	$325,753,152.51
Insurance and Annuities in force,	$1,141,497,888.02

Experienced Agents may address—

WILLIAM H. WOOTTON,
5—2 Manager for Maryland, BALTIMORE, MD.

The Garrett County Bank

OAKLAND, MD.

Pays 3 Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Subscribed Capital, - $50,000.00
Liability of Stockholders, 100,000.00
Surplus Fund, - - 10,000.00

DIRECTORS:

DANIEL E. OFFUTT,
GILMOR S. HAMILL,
JOHN M. DAVIS,
GEORGE W. LEGGE,
JOHN T. MITCHELL,
JOHN M. FREELAND,
SCOTT T. JONES.

D. E. OFFUTT, President.
G. S. HAMILL, Vice-President.
S. T. JONES, Cashier.

Authorized Capital $32,000.

The First National Bank

OF OAKLAND, MD.

Now Open for Business

Offers to its patrons every advantage consistent with sound Banking, and which their balances, business and responsibility warrant.

3 per cent. Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

WE SOLICIT YOUR BUSINESS.

DIRECTORS.

Ed A. Browning, - Oakland, Md.
C. E. Ellithorp, - Bittinger, Md.
L. E. Friend, - Friendsville, Md.
Wm. Moody, - Bloomington, Md.
U. G. Palmer, - Hutton, Md.
R. A. Ravenscroft, Accident, Md.
E. E. Sollars, - Oakland, Md.
U. M. Stanton, - Grantsville, Md.
F. A. Thayer, - Oakland, Md.
M. N. Wilson, - Wilson, W. Va.

OFFICERS.

F. A. THAYER, - President.
M. N. WILSON, - Vice-President.
U. G. PALMER, - Cashier.
M. R. HAMILL, Assistant Cashier.

THE

SECOND NATIONAL BANK

of CUMBERLAND, MD.

Designated United States Depository.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.
BOXES FREE TO CUSTOMERS.

This Bank Pays Three Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Capital	$100,000
Surplus and Other Undivided Profits	250,000
Liability of Shareholders	100,000
Additional Security to Depositors	$450,000

LLOYD LOWNDES, President.
D. ANNAN, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Lloyd Lowndes, O. C. Gephart,
James Clark, L. M. Shepherd,
John Sheridan, A. Hunter Boyd,
David W. Sloan.

Midget Harness Riveter.

Complete repair shop in one tool. Will not wear out. Punches the hole, drives and clinches at one operation. Every horse owner, liveryman, teamster will buy on sight. Does the work of any $25 machine. Complete outfit with big bog of rivets will be sent for

ONLY 50 CENTS.

Agents Wanted.

HANDY ADJUSTABLE LIFTER. Handiest article ever invented for lifting hot pans, stove lids, etc. 15c, postpaid.

S. T. WILSON & CO.,
Box 103. Wilson, W. Va.

I HAVE PURCHASED

THE OAKLAND COAL YARD

of Mr. D. L. Conneway and will continue the business. I will keep constantly on hand a large supply of

HARD AND SOFT

COAL,

KINDLING WOOD, Etc.

All orders will receive prompt attention. Leave orders with the weighmaster or at my residence, the Giessman Hotel.

35-2 GEO. GIESSMAN

Illinois Central R. R.

PERSONALLY CONDUCTED EXCURSIONS TO

CALIFORNIA VIA NEW ORLEANS

AND THE SOUTHERN ROUTE.

VIA OMAHA

AND THE SCENIC ROUTE.

NEW THROUGH LINE OF

HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

BY WAY OF MEMPHIS.

E. A. RICHTER, T. P. A.
812 Park Building, Pittsburg, Pa.
A. H. HANSON, Gen. Pass. Agt., CHICAGO.

CHAS. L. PETTIS & CO

CASH
Produce Buyers,
Dressed Poultry, Game, Furs, Eggs and Butter,
204 DUANE STREET
NEW YORK.
Write for Our Present Paying Prices.

J. B. WILLIAMS CO.

FROSTBURG, MD.

Cheapest place to buy

MONUMENTS HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING

Send for prices

LAND FOR SALE!

I am now offering for sale in large or small quantities, 31,000 acres of a tract known as "Swanton," and better known as the "Anderson lands," situated in Garrett County, Md. This land is well timbered and underlaid with many valuable veins of mineral; also suitable for farming purposes and grazing.

All trespassing will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

Call on or address:

C. A. WILT, Agent.

GEO. FLACK SANSBURY, ARCHITECT,

Office 7 North Liberty St.
CUMBERLAND, MD.

NORMAN S. HEINDEL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
All business given prompt attention.
Office—Opera House,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

FRED A. THAYER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
OAKLAND, MD.
STATE'S ATTORNEY FOR GARRETT COUNTY.
Office in McComas's Building, Main St.
Will be assisted in all important cases by Benjamin A. Richmond of the Cumberland bar.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY
OFFICE ON ALDER STREET.
Particular attention given to Conveyancing, investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated. fe14-1y

JULIUS C. RENNINGER,
ATTORNEY & COUNSELLOR AT LAW.
Office opposite Bank, OAKLAND, MD.
Will practice in the courts of Maryland and West Virginia.
Real estate and mercantile law given special attention. Collections and investments made for clients. 45—1yr

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND,
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia. '88 10 6

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas building, Second Street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work. 18-98-tf.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
Felty Building, Opposite Postoffice,
OAKLAND, MD
GAS ADMINISTERED. 50-97

M. C. HINEBAUGH, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Office and residence, Alder St., west of post office.

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North 3rd Street.
Office in Shartzer's Block, Second Street.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Prompt attention paid to day or night calls.
Office at McComas' Sanitarium. 16-'99

H. W. McCOMAS, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Office opposite Garrett County Bank.
Residence on Main Street, opposite Brown's Hotel.
Office hours, 8 to 10 a. m., 2 to 3 p. m., 8 to p. m., from June to October and from October to June, 7 to 8.30 p. m.

DR. D. O. McKINLEY,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
SALISBURY, PENNA.
Will visit regularly through Garrett county Md., and offers his services to those wishing Dental Treatment. Charges moderate
P. O. address, Elk Lick, Pa. 6 22 6m

E. J. FRANTZ,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER,
Residence and P. O. Address,
SELBYSPORT, MD.

ANDREW J. HARNE,
AUCTIONEER.
Will sell real or personal property.
Residence Oakland, Garrett county, Md.
Oakland, Md., Feb. 21st, 1887.

W. McCULLOH BROWN,
SURVEYOR AND ENGINEER,
LAND SURVEYS PROMPTLY MADE.
Particular attention given to TOWN surveying, and the use of the LEVEL in laying out new roads, streets, water works, drains, and GRADE LINES generally, including tram ways and railroad work. Comparative elevations taken quickly by aneroid barometer. Address, box 41, Oakland, Md. 48 26t*

JONAS C. BEACHY,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
Will sell Real or Personal Estate.
Residence and post office address, BITTINGER, MD. 51-1yr.

ALEX'R C. MASON,
PRACTICAL SURVEYOR,
OAKLAND, MD.
Long experience enables me to locate tracts and military lots promptly and accurately. Being thoroughly familiar with the beginning corners of the most important surveys both in Allegany and Garrett counties. Plats, descriptions and estimates furnished. 40-1yr.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R. TIME TABLE IN EFFECT NOV. 25, 1900.

The following time table on the B. & O. went into effect on Sunday, Nov. 25, 1900. Trains now leave Oakland as follows:

GOING WEST.

No. 7.—	Daily	3.40 A. M
No. 3—	Daily	7.37 A. M
No. 71—	Daily except Sunday	9.21 A. M
No. 55—	Daily	4.47 P. M
No. 1—	Daily	10.05 P. M

GOING EAST.

No. 8—	Daily	5.50 A. M
No. 2—	Daily	6.53 A. M
No. 46—	Express, daily	4.41 P. M
No. 72—	Accom daily except Sun	2.26 P. M
No. 12—	Daily	8.30 P. M
No. 4—	Daily	12.37 A. M

F. D. UNDERWOOD, General Manager.
D. B. MARTIN,
Manager of Passenger Traffic.
D. M. MASON, Agent.

WEST VIRGINIA CENTRAL AND PITTSBURG RAILWAY CO.
IN EFFECT NOV 25, 1900.

SOUTHWARD No. 3 P. M.	SOUTHWARD No. 1 A. M.	STATIONS	NORTHWARD No. 2 NOON	NORTHWARD No. 4 P. M.
3 15†	7 00† lv	Cumberland ar	†12 00	†7 00
3 43	7 29	Rawlings	11 31	6 31
4 06	7 52	Keyser	11 08	6 09
4 16	8 05	Westernport	10 58	5 57
4 20	8 09	W. Va. C. Junc.	10 51	5 50
4 39	8 35	Shaw	10 28	5 22
5 00	9 00	Harrison	†10 06	†5 00
5 45*	9 50* ar	Elk Garden	*8 10	*4 10
5 41†	9 35† lv	Gorman	†9 35	4 30
5 47	9 42	Bayard	9 29	4 25
5 59	9 54	Dobbin	9 19	4 15
6 02	9 58	Henry	9 16	4 11
6 17	10 27	Thomas	8 48	3 47
6 55	10 55 ar	Davis	8 05	3 05
6 31	10 34 lv	Coketon	8 41	3 40
6 59	11 01	Hendricks	8 10	3 10
7 02	11 04	Hambleton	8 07	3 07
7 05	11 07	Bretz	8 03	3 03
7 08	11 10	Parsons	8 00	3 00
7 43	11 45	Kerens	7 25	2 29
8 00†	12 00† ar	Elkins	lv †7 10	†2 15
	NOON
8 36*	12 45† ar	Beverly	lv *7 20	†1 40
9 05*	1 10† ar	Huttonsville	lv *6 30	†1 18
P. M.	3 15* ar	Bealington	lv	P. M. *11 40
	P. M.			A. M. A. M.

†Daily. *Daily except Sunday.

C. L. BRETZ, Gen. Manager.
G. W. HARRISON, Gen. Pas. Agent

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 25. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, MAY 2, 1901. NUMBER 8.

MARYLAND SHOW AT BUFFALO EXPOSITION.

State Building Will Be Ready By First of June.

The Maryland Kitchen Will Be An Immense Affair—Prominent Marylanders Will Be There—Maryland Drinks Will Be Abundant.

The Baltimore Star thus sums up the display of Maryland at the coming Buffalo exhibition:

"The preparations for exhibits from Maryland at the Pan-American Exposition, which will open at Buffalo, N. Y., one week from today (Thursday) are rapidly progressing, and, while it will not be possible to have the Maryland Building ready by that time, other matters of interest to this State will be well under way, and it is probable that before June 1 the Maryland Building will have been finished and be ready for occupancy.

"The plans call for a building 80 by 40 feet, situated in an eligible place—the whole to cost $3,600. Mr. Dauglos H. Thomas, Jr., the prominent young architect, of Baltimore, has charge of the work, which is being completed according to plans furnished by him at the request of the Maryland Commission.

"The chief feature of the building will be a Maryland kitchen and cafe, where all sorts of Maryland foods will be prepared, such as oysters, crabs and terrapin in season, fruits and vegetables, game, fish, and all other edible products of the State and its waters.

"In the cafe will be furnished Maryland drinks and no others. All the celebrated brands of Maryland whiskey, which have spread the renown of this State everywhere, will be there by the barrel as well as by the bottle and glass, and drinkers who patronize the place will be restricted to these.

"Maryland beers will also be there—on draught and in the bottle—and the 'growlers' that will be 'rushed' will be filled with the products of Maryland breweries,and it is expected that when they once become known they will add as much to the fame of Baltimore as the beer that 'made Milwaukee famous' has done for that renowned city by the Western Lakes. Maryland wines will be there in abundance, and the mint juleps and cocktails made from old Maryland rye, from Maryland Club, from Monticello and other brands will no doubt have such an effect on the visitors as will induce them in the future to purchase no others.

"When the Maryland whiskies are brought into direct competition at the Exposition with those from Kentucky and elsewhere, the State will not be obliged to blush, but will easily walk off with the prize. Especially will this be the case when such famous bon vivants and judges of whiskey as Col. Oswald Tilghman and Col. Charles Goldsborough are on hand, as they intend to be at Buffalo to extol the merits of the products of the Maryland stills. In addition to the whiskies, beers, wines, juleps, cocktails, rickies, tizzies, etc., for stronger palates, there will be plenty of milder beverages on hand so that even the most pronounced prohibitionist need not go away thirsty.

"Water from Maryland's famous springs will also be there, and ice from distilled Maryland water will be a feature, while the ice cream and the milk punch will be made of milk drawn from Maryland cows. In fact, everything in the Maryland Building will be from Maryland, and the Yankees, Mexicans, South Americans and other foreigners will have a chance to get a square meal cooked by Maryland darkies in a Maryland fireplace and served in Maryland style. Maryland biscuit, Maryland sponge cake, Maryland flapjacks, Maryland hoe cake, Maryland pone and other Maryland substantials will always be there and the prospect is that the Maryland kitchen and cafe will be the gastronomic feature of the show.

"Another Maryland feature will be the exhibit in the building devoted to mines and mining. Here the management has been especially liberal as regards space, and Prof. William Bullock Clarke, the Survey, is prepared to show the result of his great work in exploring the mines and natural resources of Maryland from the hills of Garrett to the sands of Worcester. Samples of coal, samples of iron, of marble, of granite, of porphyry, of gneiss, of mica, of felspar, of sandstone, of bluestone and of the rocky feature of our hills known as 'nigger head' will be there, all duly labeled and spread out for admiration of the visitor from less fortunate places.

"Marls and limestones will be there, samples of soil from the rich loam of the Cumberland Valley to the barren sands of the Atlantic Coast, from the red and white clays of St. Mary's and Talbot to the black sandy loams of Harford and Carroll, will also be in Prof. Clarke's collection in profusion, while the fire clays and cements, the building sands, ornamental marbles and granites will outshine those of any other section of the land.

"The amount of money furnished by our 'liberal' authorities for this display, it is true, is not large, but certain public-spirited gentlemen have taken the matter in charge and are determined to see that the State is not discredited by her exhibit. Suffice it to say that the things catalogued above are a few of those which Maryland will have at Buffalo during the summer. It is safe to predict, however, that the best part of the exhibit will not be the whiskey and beer, the wine and juleps, the Maryland biscuit and the terrapin, the marbles, rocks, soils and sands, nor, in fact, any of the inanimate products of nature or man, but the large number of Maryland girls and women who will be there from time to time from the first of May to November.

Census Begun Yesterday.

The work of taking a census of the State under the act passed at the special session of the Legislature was begun yesterday morning. The law allows fifteen days for the enumeration and requires that returns must be made to Superintendent Buchanan Schley not later than June 1. The Superintendent is required to submit to the Governor a tabulated statement of the population of the State on or before July 20, and upon that statement the Governor is to base the representation of the several counties in the House of Delegates.

The list of the county enumerators follows:

Theodore Beckman, R. E. Friend, Charles A. Bender, Wm. J. Barnard, Fred. C. Ries, Nathan C. Browning, Richard F. Bartlett, John A. Hughes, Michael Cunningham, Thos. J. Garrett, J. T. Poland, Perry Broadwater, C. H. Pool, Richard H. West.

It is now generally conceded that the real snake in the new election law is in taking the recount of the State's population. Each enumerator is furnished with a certified list of the registered voters in his district; he will take this list and when he finds a voter absent from his domicile or place of abode he will make a note of the fact. When the census returns are all in those who are on the registration books and not found home by the enumerator will be struck off the books on the ground that he had removed from his home and thereby, according to the provisions of the new election law, lost his right to vote.

In this provision of the law there is a possibility of the cutting off of a number of Republican votes; for the presumption is that the enumerators will not miss counting a single Democrat who may be temporarily absent from his home, but they will not exert themselves to find the whereabouts of their Republican friends.

The plan of the Democrats is to cut off as many Republican votes as possible when the registration books are open. To defeat them will require yeoman service from every active Republican worker in the county.

A Very Remarkable Remedy.

"It is with a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction that I recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Druggist A. W. Sawtelle, of Hartford, Conn. "A lady customer, seeing the remedy exposed for sale on my show case, said to me: 'I really believe that medicine saved my life the past summer while at the shore,' and she became so enthusiastic over its merits that I at once made up my mind to recommend it in the future. Recently a gentleman came into my store so overcome with colic pains that he sank at once to the floor. I gave him a dose of this remedy which helped him. I repeated the dose and in fifteen minutes he left my store smilingly informing me that he felt as well as ever." Sold by all dealers.

A Sprained Ankle Quickly Cured.

"At one time I suffered from a severe sprain of the ankle," says Geo. E. Cary, editor of the Guide, Washington, Va. "After using several well recommended medicines without success, I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and am pleased to say that relief came as soon as I began its use and a complete cure speedily followed. This remedy has also been used in my family for frost bitten feet with the best results. I cheerfully recommend its use to all who may need a first-class liniment." Sold by all dealers.

Stops the Cough and Works off the Cold.

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 5 cents.

PREPARED FOR THE OPENING.

Nearly Everything in Readiness for the Pan-American Exposition.

The Pan-American Exposition was thrown open to the public yesterday. The Common Council of the city of Buffalo declared that day a civic holiday and the entire city turned out in recognition of this signal event which celebrates the Centennial of the founding of the city and which is the first great exposition to be devoted exclusively to the interests of Pan-America.

A new booklet, just issued for the Exposition, tells a very charming story of its history and creation and describes the beautiful city in which the festival has been developed and brought to completion. The booklet is embellished with many illustrations, including twelve colored plates of Exposition buildings and views. These will be sent free to applicants by the Bureau of Publicity so long as the edition lasts. All the principal buildings of the Exposition have been completed for some time. The installation of exhibits began many weeks ago, and the Exposition had a sandpaper finish on the first of May—a remarkable achievement, indeed, considering the unfavorable weather and the history of other expositions in this regard. Some of the afterthoughts, such as State buildings, will not be done till about May 20th, which is to be Dedication Day.

Every one who has visited the grounds of the Pan-American Exposition during the last few months has been astonished beyond expression upon beholding the magnitude and the exceptional beauty and novelty of the enterprise. It is very much larger than people have generally supposed, and it is apparent that the $10,000,000, which is the approximate cost of the Exposition as a whole, has been expended most wisely and with the happiest results. The particular novelty that is to be noted in this Exposition is discovered in the fact that in its exterior aspect it is a radical departure from former expositions. The buildings are arranged upon a harmonious and well-developed plan, producing court settings and vistas of very charming character. The use of molded staff work and decorative sculpture upon the buildings and at all salient points within the courts, the liberal employment of hydraulic and fountain features, the floral and garden effects, the exquisite colorings of buildings and architectural ornaments, and the illumination of the whole with more than 300,000 electric lamps, combine to make a picture of unsurpassed loveliness. The musical features are also of great importance and interest. The exhibit divisions are very complete and embrace the gamut of industrial,scientific and artistic activities of the people of the Western Hemisphere. The Midway, claimed to be the greatest in the world, has more than a mile of frontage The restaurant features are perfect and the Exposition, so far as human ingenuity and the wise expenditure of money can accomplish such a work, is complete to the last detail.

Buffalo, too, is an ideal city for an exposition, having a summer climate that is tempered by the breezes from Lake Erie and, therefore, the most comfortable in which one may enjoy his summer outing. The people of the city have prepared themselves in a most ample way to entertain millions of guests during the Exposition. The private dwellings throughout the city have been thrown open to the public and, in view of the ample accommodations, very moderate rates will prevail so that every visitor may have such accommodations as he is willing to pay for. He may have the palatial quarters of the fine hotels, or the quiet restfulness of a pleasant home. The average rate for accommodations near the Exposition grounds is about $1.00 per night for lodging, with 25 to 50 cents added for breakfast, it being expected that guests will take their other meals upon the Exposition grounds. A number of responsible companies have organized to find accommodations for visitors at any price they may desire to pay. The offices of these companies are centrally located and this system of management promises to bring very satisfactory results to all concerned.

To Tunnel the Mountain.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company has had under consideration for some time a project to tunnel the mountain in Maryland opposite Baird Station and thus shorten the route about seven miles between Baird and Paw Paw. Such a work would cost $2,000,000, and it is said it will be undertaken.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN.

BLOOMINGTON.

The Tichnell brothers, of Chestnut Grove, sold a flock of 110 sheep last week to James Laughlin, of Westernport. We understand the price received was more than fair.

Mr. Henry Barnard has about completed one of the finest and most commodious barns in this section of Garrett county. Henry is one of our best and most progressive grangers and is usually in the front rank so far as modern methods in farming are concerned.

Truman Warnick advertises as administrator for Henry Warnick's estate a sale of all the personal property on May 16.

District No. 4, from all accounts, proposes to be heard from in politics this fall. She will have three or four candidates in the field and will make a hot fight before the convention for one or all. Mr. Stump is out for sheriff and is working up his case for all it is worth.

We are unable to state what success Mr. John Shartzer had down here last week in the interest of Dr. Ravenscroft for Senator and his brother for sheriff. His buttonholing was warm and urgent for the support of his candidates.

Mr. Henry Barnard is just as fervent in his cause for commissioner as he ever was and it will be no fault of his if he does not knock the persimmon this time.

Mr. A. F. George, of Swanton, has always held a warm place in the hearts of the Republicans and laboring people of the district on account of his strong advocacy of the Miners' and Manufacturers' law, about the only protection the working man has in this county, and it is more than likely that Senator Ravenscroft may find himself the weaker man when this district casts its vote.

There are others just as good as those we have mentioned, who seem a little backward and modest in their aspirations, but none the less capable and efficient and not too old or antiquated by any means. They were present at the laying of the corner stone of the county, supported its institutions as large tax payers ever since, and probably know as well as any one, from their long residence and acquaintance in the county, just what our people require and how to go about obtaining it. In this connection we can mention Geo. L. Michael and Aden Duckworth. However, the political ball has just commenced to rotate and it is a little too early to prophesy what will come on top of the sphere between now and the time for primaries.

The surprise party at Mr. Walter Moore's given by the young folks of the place on the occasion of his moving into their new residence on last Friday evening was a very enjoyable affair.

We are sorry to note that Mr. and Mrs. William Brown contemplate moving to Pennsylvania.

Miss Daisy Benford, the accomplished pianist and music teacher of Piedmont, was in town Monday.

Mr. Scott Shreaves, of Deer Park, one of the best and most accommodating grocery clerks we ever had in Bloomington, was a visitor to friends on last Sunday.

The work at the mines of the Davis Coal & Coke Co. is considered more than unusually dull for this season of the year.

Mr. John Miller made a business trip to the county seat on Monday.

Mr. James Fazenbaker returned home last Monday afternoon. He was unable to be present at the death or funeral of his father, Mr. Geo. Fazenbaker, which occurred last week.

Mrs. John Collins had business at Oakland last Tuesday.

Mrs. Sol. Harvey, of Empire, was fined $10 and costs Wednesday morning by Justice Fazenbaker for assault on Mrs. Pritts, of the same place.

The contractor for the laying of water mains for the Piedmont water works from the mouth of Savage river to Deep-hole has brought a gang of colored laborers from Norfolk and Washington city and quartered them in the brick store, near the center of town. The citizens are not very well pleased over the affair as they regard it as a good breeding place for small pox.

Centennial Celebration, Church of United Brethren in Christ, Frederick, Md., May 10-15—One Fare Round Trip. Bultimore & Ohio Railroad.

For this occasion the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell tickets from all points on its lines east of the Ohio River, exclusive of Philadelphia, Pa., to Frederick, Md., at the low rate of One Fare for the Round Trip, good going on all trains of May 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th, valid for return until May 15th, 1901, inclusive.

For tickets and full information call on Agents Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

Their Powers and Duties Defined by State School Superintendent M. Bates Stephens.

OFFICE OF
THE STATE SUPERINTENDENT,
BALTIMORE, April 23, 1901.

To the County School Officials of Maryland:

The time for the appointment of the District School Trustees is almost at hand. The trustees are the representatives of the people in our school system and it means much to the efficiency of that system to have the best and most representative citizens of the community as trustees. They appoint the teacher, and the teacher will determine the character of the schools. In the selection of these important school officers I believe you will exercise the greatest care to select only those who are broad-minded enough to disregard personal, family, political and like considerations and select a teacher known for efficiency. In no other way can we elevate the standard of teaching and I feel confident you will co-operate in every way to bring about the attainment of this end. The present plan of trustees has its enemies, but before we consider a departure from it we should give it a fair test by appointing three of the best persons in each school district as trustees. There is a prevailing opinion in some sections that trustees have the right to grant the use of public school buildings. I am anxious for you to include in your notice of their appointment a copy of section 28 of the public school law: "No school house shall be used for any other purposes and school district meetings, unless by the consent of the Board of County School Commissioners, or a majority of them."

We cannot keep our school property in good condition unless we restrict its use to the intended purposes as named in the law. Entertainments by the school are allowable. It is well for our trustees to know that they have no power to grant the use of the school buildings for any purpose, and such permission must come from the County School Board by a written order signed by a majority of its members. Appropriations are limited for building purposes, and it becomes important to take every step to preserve our school property from unnecessary wear, such as results when used for purposes not specified in the law.

On behalf of and in the interest of the teachers, and with your permission, I ask that you suggest to your trustees the importance of determining at as early time as practicable whether or not the teacher will be continued for another year. If there is to be a change, the incumbent should have whatever benefit there can come from an early notice, that applications may be made everywhere.

I know you are often embarrassed with applications and petitions for new school districts. It is well for you to acquaint such petitioners with the following section (30):

"Contiguous portions of two or more school house districts may, with the consent of the Board of County School Commissioners, combine and form a new school house district; and when thus formed the said new school house district shall be invested with all the rights and powers hereinbefore set forth as pertaining to such districts, provided, that the new school house district thus formed, or said district from which it may be formed, shall not contain less than thirty-five legal resident voters."

Trusting these suggestions will be received in the same kind spirit in which they are offered, I am

Yours very truly,
M. BATES STEPHENS,
State Superintendent.

Announcement.

To the music-loving people of Oakland and vicinity:

Would say that for convenience, I have decided to open a wareroom in the Ravenscroft building, where,after May 1st, I will have on exhibition sample pianos and organs. They will be carefully selected from the stock of leading manufacturers—thoroughly up-to-date, reliable instruments, representing some of the best values in the market today. I represent the manufacturers and will meet any competition on goods of the same value. Instruments on easy payments. Special inducements to the cash trade.

For prices, terms, &c., &c., call on or write to

S. C. SMITH,
Oakland, Md.

New Postmaster for Mt. Lake Park.

A report has been circulated and apparently well founded that Mr. L. A. Rudiisll has been recommended to the Postoffice Department for postmaster at Mountain Lake Park. The report of his appointment has not yet been verified.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Shaw, the well digger,has put down six wells in the Park the last few weeks.

Miss Mollie Hamill will open "Glendale" this summer. This is the third season she has run this home.

The material for the four room addition to Capt. Hayden's home is being put on the ground. The Captain is going to put a large porch on the north side of his house.

Supt. London is very much improving the Mountain Lake Hotel grounds, and he knows how to do it. Quite a number of pine trees were set out last week.

J. L. Kendall, of Connellsville, Pa., has rented the Enlow cottage on D street.

The home of Col. George W. Bain, at Lexington, Ky., was destroyed by fire last week. Loss $5000.

Mrs, R. H. Jones, of Norfolk, Va., has rented the cottage now in course of erection by Judge Cuppett on Oakland avenue and G street.

Fifteen cottages will be occupied this summer by citizens of Fairmont. Six families from Clarksburg will have summer homes in our midst. Forty-two houses are owned or rented by West Virginians.

Claude Meeker, a banker, of Columbus, Ohio, has rented the Indiana cottage.

Saturday, June 1st, is opening day. At 7.30 p. m. a 20th century platform meeting will be held in the Methodist church. Short addresses will be made by President Weir, of the West Virginia Conference Seminary, Dr. Mills, of New York City, and others. It will be an interesting occasion. Those within reach of the Park should make a note of this meeting.

The Fairmont Free Press says: "Prof. T. C. Miller, State Superintendent of Free Schools, announces that the annual meeting of the West Virginia Educational Association will be held July 2, 3 and 4 at Mt. Lake Park, Md. A big attendance is expected, as there will be a larger number of able educators there to lecture than ever before. He has secured Mr. W. T. Harris, the United States Commissioner of Education, of Washington, and Dr. J. L. M. Curry, of Richmond, Va., the agent of the Peabody fund. Both are able men and educational treats are in store for all who attend. Other lecturers will also be on hand."

Mr. E. W. Williams and family, of Clarksburg, took possession of Mrs. Tates' cottage yesterday. They will move into the Pierce cottage June 1.

Miss Swan will have a neat four-room cottage for rent. It is on D street and is being put in shape for a tenant by S. E. Flowers, Sr.

Olive Branch, Castle No. 9, K. of G. E,, was instituted at this place on Monday by John Ault, Grand Chief Richard H. Johns, of Baltimore and Grand Sir Herald George S. Young, of Cumberland. The following officers were elected:

Past Chief—C. E. Duckworth.
Noble Chief—C. F. Dawson.
Vice Chief—H. B. Ferguson.
High Priest—J. S. Harvey.
Venerable Hermit—Thomas Callis.
Master of Records—H. E. Flowers.
Clerk of Exchange—F. P. Arnold.
Keeper of Exchange—T. J. Harris.
Sir Herald—J. G. Hayden.
Worthy Bard—L. Callis.
Worthy Chamberlain—C. Fisher.
Ensign—C. W. Harvey.
Esquire—Lee Hayden.
1st Guardsman—C. E. Michael.
2nd Guardsman—Lloyd Bittinger.

The Castle will meet in the N. U. hall

Married.

DELAWDER—BROWNING.—At the recently furnished residence of the groom in Oakland on Monday evening at 8 o'clock by Rev. John M. Davis, Mr. James H. Delawder and Miss Estella Browning. The groom is one of Oakland's mechanics and an industrious young man. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Browning, of near Crellin. The couple are housekeeping in the Daniel Chisholm property on Alder street. We join with their many friends in wishing them a long life of happiness and prosperity.

Beware of a Cough.

A cough is not a disease but a symptom. Consumption and bronchitis, which are the most dangerous and fatal diseases, have for their first indication a persistent cough, and if properly treated as soon as this cough appears are easily cured. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has proven wonderfully successful, and gained its wide reputation and extensive sale by its success in curing the diseases which cause coughing. If it is not beneficial it will not cost you a cent. For sale by all dealers.

Cows for Sale.

I have seven cows for sale, most of them being fresh. W. H. Chadderton, Deer Park, Md. 2t

Love Among the Savages

By Tighe Hopkins.

SAVAGES—even the lowest in the scale—are not insensible of the emotion of love; and savages in general are the most violent lovers in the world. If the young Englishman, or the young white man anywhere in creation, had to face certain of the ordeals which the young barbarian must submit to in seeking a maiden's hand, it is probable that he would forswear matrimony.

Many countries, many customs; and singular and fearful are the customs of courtship in some parts of the globe. In Borneo, for instance, a nice present from a youth to his sweetheart is a collection of heads which he has sliced off the shoulders of his enemies. Sometimes he has to slay a rhinoceros or some other big brute in order to show himself capable of defending his household from any beast of the field; sometimes he must bring the maiden great offerings of game, to prove how well he could support a family by the proceeds of the chase.

In savage countries the men are more liable to be left without wives than the women are to be left without husbands; whence arises a fierce spirit of rivalry among the young unmarried males. Often they fight for the women of their choice, as the males of most of the lower animals fight in certain seasons for the females. The most powerful combatant, or the craftiest, or he who can endure without complaint the greatest number of blows or cuts, wins the day—and the lady. Wrestling was a very ancient mode of deciding the claims of rival lovers, and it is not unknown at this day among the North American Indians. The Slave Indians have a curious practice of seizing one another by their long hair and dragging until one of the pair gives in. A pulling match of a different kind is or was common in remote parts of New Zealand. A girl having two suitors, and not knowing to which of them to give the preference, placed herself between them, and the girl's arms were dragged by each of the suitors in opposite directions, the stronger man being the victor.

A more formidable trial is for two suitors to strip to their waists and thrash each other with sticks, when the first who sinks to the ground is invariably rejected by the lady.

Duels of various kinds, from the British set-to with fists up to the combat with knives or bows and arrows, are still undertaken in the interests of love in sundry places of the earth. The Muras fight with their fists, some of the Mexican tribes use the cold steel, and at least one North American tribe relies upon bow and arrow. The people of Wadai, says Dr. Westermack, the great historian of marriage, "are notorious for their desperate fights for women; and among the young men of the Bagirmi bloody feuds between rivals are far from being of rare occurrence."

Among the Arabs of upper Egypt the youth who proposes for a girl must submit to a whipping at the hands of all her male relatives; and, says a dry narrator, "if he wishes to be considered worth having, he must receive the chastisement, which is sometimes exceedingly severe, with an expression of enjoyment."

Not infrequently it is the maiden herself who imposes the test. The Sakalava girls of Madagascar make their lovers stand at a short distance from a clever spear thrower and catch between the arm and side every weapon flung at them. If the youth "displays fear or fails to catch the spear, he is ignominiously rejected; but if there be no flinching and the spears are caught, he is at once proclaimed an accepted lover."

Worse than this is the trial enforced upon their suitors by the Dongolowee girls. When in doubt as to the respective merits of two rivals, the young lady fastens a sharply-pointed knife to each elbow; then, seating herself between her lovers, she drives the blades slowly into their thighs; and the hero who takes the greatest length of steel without a murmur wins the bride.

Maj. Mitchell, in his "Expeditions Into the Interior of Eastern Australia," says of the natives on the river Darling that all their ideas of fighting are associated with the possession of gins or wives, and that after a battle the wives "do not always follow their fugitive husbands from the field, but frequently go over, as a matter of course, to the victors." "None but the brave deserve the fair" is a maxim well understood of most barbaric races.

It is not only by feats of strength, daring or endurance, or by triumphs on the field of battle or the hunting ground, that the amorous savage seeks to win himself a wife. He goes through much trouble, and often through great personal suffering, for the sake of improving his appearance in the eyes of the sex. Savage maidens cherish various ideals of masculine beauty; and whatever these be, the young men must conform to them. Certain Australian women prefer their lovers with a few front teeth knocked out; hence, when the young bucks are of an age to marry, they promptly get rid of four front teeth in the lower jaw. In other parts of the country the ladies are satisfied if their gallants file their teeth to a point and stain them black.

Whatever the custom of the race or tribe may be, you must follow it when you are preparing to go a-courting. It may be necessary to run a stick through your cheeks or your nose, to carry a mass of bell metal in the form of necklets and anklets, to smear yourself inches thick in paint, to carve patterns on your chest or stomach, or to tattoo yourself from head to foot.

It is impossible to think without emotion of the pains which are cheerfully endured by the simple savage when competition is severe in the marriage market. One of the principal modes of self-adornment is tattooing, and to be properly tattooed is to suffer for days, weeks or even months (according to the style and size of the pattern) of the most excruciating torment. Yet this practice prevails over the larger portion of the globe, from the polar regions in the north to New Zealand in the south; and there is not a single visible portion of the human form, with the exception of the eyeballs, upon which the tattooer has not exercised his skill. It is a part of the business of courtship, and has to be put up with. A French traveler, Louis de Freycinet, has assured us that the Sandwich Islanders spare no part of the body; the crown of the head, the forehead, nose, eyelids, chin, neck, breast, back, arms, legs and even the palms of the hands and the tip of the tongue are submitted in certain circumstances to the tattooer's needle. When it is all done and the wounds are healed the scarified gallants are exhibited at a grand ball given in their honor. Now and then, however, a gallant dies in torment before the tattooer has quite finished with him.

Where tattooing is not much in vogue, paint, ochre, soot, grease and all manner of pigments are in great demand by the bucks of the tribe at that season when the fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love. They want feathers, too, and gewgaws and trinkets of every description, from glass beads to old teeth, bones and metal buttons. It is the beau's opinion that he cannot pile too much on, whether it be scalps, paint, yellow ochre, cutlery, pottery or brassware. He is especially particular about his hair, which he wears flowing down his back or rolled atop of his head with a ball of black cotton stuck in it to make it look bigger, or twisted into hundreds of little ringlets, or mop fashion, or in one long tail which trails behind him as he walks, or twisted and drawn out in front "till it looks like a horn projecting from between the eyes." In a word, there is nothing he will not do to make himself supremely ugly, to the end that the ladies may consider him supremely beautiful.

Savage man is almost everywhere a marrying man. Often he is a very much married man. He abhors the single state. Old maids and old bachelors are rare in all savage and barbarous communities. The rule is to marry early, and sometimes also to marry often. Here is one point of difference, and a notable one, between uncivilized and civilized societies. In the second volume of his "History of European Morals," Mr. Lecky points out that "in no highly civilized society is marriage general on the first development of the passions," and that "the continual tendency of increasing knowledge is to render such marriages more rare." The very opposite of this general rule, which is characteristic of most uncivilized peoples, finds expression in cases where children are pledged in marriage even before they are born; among the Talamanca Indians, where "a bride is generally from ten to 14 years old;" among certain other Central American tribes, where the parents "try to get a wife for their son when he is nine or ten years old;" among the Guanas, where, as Azara says, "the girls who marry latest marry at the age of nine;" among most of the Australian tribes, where "nearly all the girls are betrothed at a very early age;" among the Santals, where a lad marries, as a rule, about the age of 16 or 17, and a girl at that of 15;" and among the Kandhs, where "a boy marries when he reaches his tenth or twelfth year, his wife being usually about four years older." So strong, in short, is the sentiment in favor of marriage among uncivilized races that, according to Westermarck, a person who does not marry "is looked upon almost as an unnatural being, or, at any rate, is disdained." He cites many examples in proof of this assertion. Thus it is or was a matter of universal belief in Fiji that he who died without having been married was stopped on the road to Paradise by the god Nangganangga and "smashed to atoms." The Santals regard the obstinate bachelor as little better than a thief, and not at all better than a witch; and both sexes treat him with supreme contempt. In Kaffir kraals a bachelor has no voice. In Tlascala a man of full age who refused to marry "has his hair cut off for shame." In Corea, on the authority of Rev. John Ross, "the male human being who is unmarried is never called a man, whatever his age, but goes by the name of yatow, a name given by the Chinese to unmarriageable young girls; and the man of 13 or 14 has a perfect right to strike, abuse, and order about the yatow of 30, who dare not so much as open his lips to complain."

The modern Hindus—here we take leave of the savages—honor marriage so highly that no bachelor is ever consulted on any important affair, and the man who cannot be induced to marry is looked upon as "beyond the pale of nature."

In Japan, as in China, celibacy is both eschewed and tabooed; and in the latter country especially it is all but impossible to avoid marriage, be you "robust or infirm, well-formed or deformed." Indeed, if a Chinese be sick with a disease which is practically incurable, his parents will by no means suffer him to die until they have procured him a wife. "Nay, so indispensable is marriage considered among this people," observes Dr. Westermarck, "that even the dead are married." Thus the spirits of all males who die in infancy or in boyhood are in due time married to the spirits of females.—Chambers' Journal.

SERVING THE PEOPLE.

Mrs. Potter Palmer Thinks It Is a Duty Which Every Citizen Owes to His City and Country.

"I believe that a man who is 27 years old, has had a university training and the advantages of travel, and who has leisure to give to the public service, should help to remedy some of the evils of politics. My son has always been taught that it is his duty as a citizen to serve his city, as much as it is his duty to defend his country."

These words were spoken by that public spirited citizen, Mrs. Potter Palmer, in reference to the candidacy of her son, Honore Palmer, for an alderman's seat in the city council of

HONORE PALMER.
(Just Elected Alderman from Chicago's Twenty-First Ward.)

Chicago. That his candidacy should excite such widespread interest and demand an explanation, is, in itself, a singular comment on our indifference to public concerns. It ought to be taken for granted that young men of education, wealth, social position and leisure should give their time and influence to public service. Had the government of this country in its early years been left to self-seeking demagogues the states would never have been united into one compact, constitutional whole. For many years there has been a growing disposition among Americans of all classes to leave politics to professional politicians. In this way has come about corruption. Municipal reform associations have tried to arouse citizens to a sense of their public duty. The best of them, however, rarely go beyond depositing a ballot, and it would surprise most of them very much to be told that they should help select the candidates, and should even accept office if called upon.

This is the view taken by young Mr. Palmer. It is to be hoped, says the Little Chronicle, that he will have many imitators among young men, both rich and poor.

INDIAN IN THE NAVY.

Chapman Schenandoah, a Full-Blooded Oneida, a Member of the Crew of the Atlantic.

To the United States cruiser Atlanta belongs the distinction of having in its crew Chapman Schenandoah, the only American Indian in the navy. He is an Oneida, and was born on the reservation 29 years ago. He is the grandson of Schenandoah, "The Deer," who, in his day, was one of the most notable men of his tribe. At the age of 18 Schenandoah could

CHAPMAN SHENANDOAH.
(Only Full-Blooded Indian in the United States Navy.)

neither read nor write, but had a natural talent for mechanics, and after he had seen a steam engine for the first time he went to his home and built one out of such material as he could find. He became a student at Hampton institute and after seven years of work was graduated, but remained at Hampton as an assistant in the machine shop.

When the war with Spain broke out he enlisted in the navy and served at first as a fireman on the San Francisco and later on the New York under Capt. Chadwick. He was mustered out of the volunteer service when the war was over, but reenlisted at once and was assigned to the Atlanta, on which vessel he is at present.

The Indian sailor is described by his friends as a fine, stalwart fellow of whom his tribesmen have good cause to feel proud.

The Daily Mail of Big Men.

The pope (who at one time was a reigning monarch over the papal states) is credited with receiving no fewer than 20,000 letters and newspapers every day. The German emperor receives more than 700 letters a day. The prince of Wales, before his accession to the throne as Edward VII., was not very far behind that number, and as king he will in all probability exceed it. Among presidents, the United States president stands at the head with 1,200 letters a day, the president of the French republic coming next with 700 a day.

HUNDREDS OF FARMS

Owned by William Scully, Greatest of American Landlords.

His Largest Holdings Are in Central Illinois and in Bates County, Mo. —How He Makes His Land Pay Well.

William Scully owns a greater number of farms than any man in the United States. Their aggregate area is 200,000 acres. They are worth $10,000,000. They are located in central Illinois, western Missouri and Kansas. They represent the accumulation of 50 years of the life of their owner.

He is the richest farmer in the richest agricultural section in the world.

His wealth the New York World estimates at $25,000,000.

William Scully came to this country shortly after the Mexican war for the purpose of investing his money. He chose to put it into farming lands.

At that time he was William Scully, gentleman, of Ballecohey, Ireland. Now he is William Scully, American citizen, owner of the John A. Logan residence in Washington, and multimillionaire.

Ever since he came to America he has been either Lord or Viscount Scully, although he never gave anybody reason to believe that he held a title. He is not a lord. Neither is he a viscount.

In 1897 the Illinois legislature modified the alien land-owner law. This law necessitated Mr. Scully's removal to the United States and his naturalization prior to 1903.

When the Scully agents went to Bates county, Mo., six years ago to purchase farm land there, people became alarmed lest Scully import an undesirable tenantry. This criticism of Mr. Scully has covered a period of more than 40 years. Not one word of defense ever came from him. Criticism seemed never to touch the rich Irishman. His policy was silence.

WILLIAM SCULLY.
(Irish Landlord Who Owns Scores of Farms in the West.)

Meanwhile the Scully acres continued to yield great crops. Nobody ever heard of a sale of Scully land except a farm purchased in Sangamon county, Ill., by former Gov. Richard J. Oglesby. Nobody ever heard of a mortgage on a Scully farm.

At Butler, in Bates county, Mo., there are 125 Scully tenants, and they lease their lands for cash, paying from $1.25 to $2 an acre, and make their own improvements.

The Scully agents are particular about leases. The farmer who applies for one of them must be a practical farmer. His stock must look well fed. His machinery must show good care. He must have a good reputation, be temperate and industrious and pay his debts. He must not quarrel with his neighbors.

Three years ago Mr. Scully increased his holdings in Bates county, Mo., to 43,000 acres, all purchased in cash at from $27 to $35 an acre. None of this land is encumbered. William Scully has visited Bates county several times. He has inspected his farms and carried away samples of their soil in little paper sacks, leading his tenants there to believe he must have at his home samples of every piece of the land he owns.

A year ago the people of Bates county voted on a proposition to build a new courthouse at Butler. Mr. Scully's agent wrote to him and inquired to know what he would advise his tenants to do. Mr. Scully answered that they ought to vote for it The proposition carried.

This richest of American farmers is a modest man of simple tastes. He dresses simply in dark clothes, with an old-fashioned black bow tie. He does not drink or use tobacco. He is a member of the Episcopal church. He is slightly bald.

Mr. Scully spent several summers in Lincoln, Ill., on one occasion bringing his family. One of his sons married a Lincoln girl. The family lived very simply and became popular. Mr. Scully devoted his whole time to his lands and his books. He was never known to come to Lincoln or to depart from there without having with him an armful of books, principally devoted to agriculture.

Mr. Scully permits no detail of his business to escape him. He even sees that a new generation of scientific farmers will be on hand to take his place and the places of the men who work with him. He puts young men at work on the farms and then sends them to college at his own expense.

Trees in the Philippines.

In the Philippine islands there are about 400 species of trees. Of these only about 50 possess any commercial value.

TUESDAY EUCHRE CLUB.

It Was Late Because the Gowns of All of Its Swell Members Hooked Up the Back.

Mrs. Stanley's euchre party was scheduled to begin at 2:30 in the afternoon. Ten minutes after that time she rushed madly down the stairs to seek aid in the kitchen. Her silk gown opened in the back and no matter how supple and athletic a woman may be, she cannot hook up a gown that opens at the back. The second girl stopped spreading sandwiches when her mistress backed up to her. "Do hurry now, Martha," Mrs. Stanley panted, "it's past time and the people are liable to arrive at any minute."

Martha hooked up the waist by main force and then discovered that she had not begun right at the neck. Then she did her work over again and this time the two edges came out even at the belt. Then Mrs. Stanley hurried into the drawing-room, glanced into the mirror, pulled a curl in place and sat down, trying to look as if she had been serenely waiting for some time to receive her guests. It was three o'clock before Mrs. Murphy burst into the room in a feverish way, then looked around, surprised to see that it was empty save for her hostess. "I thought I was late," she gasped. "But I couldn't get a maid to hook up my dress. I sent a bell boy about forty times after one, and they didn't come, and I was afraid I would keep the whole party waiting. Isn't it awful to have clothes that open in the back?"

Before Mrs. Murphy had finished the tale of the troubles of a woman who lives alone in a hotel and has her waists button at the back Ella Wylie came in. Her usual aristocratic composure was sadly marred by a flush on her cheek bones and an angry spark in her eyes. "I hope I'm not late," she said, "but I'm just ready to kill my young brother. The maid had to go off to the dentist's to have a tooth pulled and mamma went to her club and, of course, papa is downtown at business, and I told George that he must be sure to stay around the flat this afternoon so I could have him button up my dress. He wanted me to dress before lunch so he could go over to the park to skate, but I wasn't going to sit around two or three hours before time. I did my hair and got all dressed and slipped on my bodice, then I put my head out of the door and called to George. He didn't answer. I called louder and louder, but he didn't come. Then I hunted all over the place—no George. Finally I saw him skating down on the sidewalk in front of the building with some other boys. I put my head out of the window and I commanded him to come upstairs and button my dress. He laughed and said he'd come if I promised him a quarter. I said I wouldn't pay him anything, then he raised his price to 50 cents. Of course I had to give in and he made me throw the money out of the window to him before he would come up. I was mad enough to eat him, but, of course, I was at his mercy, little imp!"

MARTHA HOOKED UP THE WAIST.

Other women came drifting in now. Most of them wore gowns that closed in the back and most of them had some difficulty in getting into them. Mrs. Gardner, who was incased in a princess gown which was buttoned from the nape of her neck to her heels, said that her nurse maid had just given her notice because of this gown. The nurse had struck after the fifty-sixth button and then the cook had been called in. The cook's hands had not been immaculately clean and a large grease spot marked the beginning of her labors. Mrs. Delaney then told of a man who had applied for a divorce from a wife who had all her gowns opened in the back and who insisted that he should stay home from business to close them for her. Madge Stern, whose father is a judge on the bench, said that she believed the man would be sustained on the ground that this was habitual cruelty.

By this time all the guests had come save Mrs. Blewett. The women sat about the tables with the cards dealt, only waiting for her appearance to begin the game. At 3:30 a cab was driven up to the door, Mrs. Blewett tumbled out, rushed into the hall, meanwhile tearing off her cloak and hat. She bolted into the drawing-room and began pouring out her apologies.

"I hope you'll forgive me, but I waited and waited for my sister-in-law to come home and hook my waist. She went downtown to do some shopping and I was alone in the house. I tried about forty times to hook my waist up, but I twisted my arms till I just about broke in two, but it didn't do a mite of good. I just couldn't reach the middle hooks. We haven't any near neighbors, so I telephoned for a cab and I started over—"

"Why, Mrs. Blewett, your dress isn't hooked up now!" Madge Stern said. She sat where she commanded a rear view of the belated guest.

"Why, no, of course not!" Mrs. Blewett answered. "I was just going to say that when the cab came I put my cloak on over my dress and thought I would get hooked up here. I couldn't think of anything else to do."

Mrs. Blewett was made presentable from both front and back view and in cross section, then the game of euchre was begun.—Chicago Daily News.

PUTS BABY TO SLEEP.

Combined Rocking Chair and Cradle Invented by a Philanthropic Canadian Genius.

Here we have an invention intended for household use, comprising a chair and cradle in one article of furniture, the two being combined in such a manner that the cradle telescopes into the under portion of the chair when not in use. Samuel S. Arnold, of Toronto, Canada, has been granted a patent on the idea. A third rocker is provided, which lies close to one of the main rockers when the chair only is in use. The cradle portion rests on slides attached to the front and rear legs of the chair, and is operated as easily as the pulling out of the drawer of a desk can be accomplished. When it is desired to use the cradle the end board is grasped in the hand and pulled outward until pins at the inner ends of the grooves strike the ends of the sides, thus preventing the cradle from becoming detached. The baby is then placed in position, and the nurse seats herself in the chair, in a convenient position to care for the child and at the same time devote her attention to reading or sewing. The inventor has also made provision for twins by designing a double cradle, which pulls out on either side of the chair, one telescoping into the other when closed up. The arrangement is simple and does not materially increase the weight of a chair, besides taking up much less space than the two articles would if separated.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

HAPPY COMBINATION.

A Smart American Idea.

The novelty-loving women derive infinite satisfaction from their postilion belts that happily can adorn waists of all ages and sizes. A smart American idea this postilion girdle is, and the strap that encircles the middle is wide or narrow, as the purchaser may select. A black silk or satin band, stitched to a state of desirable stiffness, edged with gilt or silver gimp, fastened in front with a stitched tongue and buckle, become a jaunty postilion by the simple device of fastening in the back a long or short, flat or fluffy, tail, made of the same goods as the belt itself. Sometimes the tail is trimmed with gimp to match the belt, but just as often it is left quite plain, save for a chaste design worked out in small gilt buttons.

Wow-Wow Sauce for Beef.

To make wow-wow sauce chop fine sufficient parsley to make two tablespoonfuls. Rub it on a plate with a spatula, adding a few drops of vinegar until it is like a paste, then add three pickled walnuts chopped fine, and three gherkins chopped fine; four olives, also chopped. Put a tablespoonful of butter into a saucepan; when melted add a tablespoonful of flour; mix; add half a pint of good stock. Stir until stock is boiling. Take from the fire; add a tablespoonful of vinegar, a tablespoonful of mushroom ketchup and let it simmer for ten minutes. Strain and add the parsley and hot mixture, and turn it into the sauce tureen. It is eaten on boiled or corned beef.—Ladies' Home Journal.

How to Polish the Windows.

The action of the sun, moisture and the carbonic acid in the air on the soda or potash in the glass produces an opaqueness more or less pronounced. To remove this wet the glass with dilute hydrochloric acid, and after a few minutes go over the glass with powdered whiting. Pour the acid slowly into the cold water, using four ounces of the acid to 12 ounces of water (one pint and a half). Polish with chamois or soft paper. It must be remembered that this acid will attack metals and should not be allowed to touch them, nor should the bottle be left open an instant longer than necessary, as the fumes are very destructive.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Narrow Margin.

"I came pretty near going to a swell reception to-night."

"How near?"

"Well, I wanted to go and wasn't invited."—Chicago Record.

LATEST HEALTH FOOD.

It Is Compressed Milk, in Which All Sorts of Lacteal Microbes Are Squeezed to Death.

After pasteurized milk, aerated milk, sterilized milk, peptonized milk, lactated milk and malted milk, there is now to be added a new kind of scientific hygienic milk.

It is compressed milk. By this new process the microbes that abound in cow's milk are squeezed to death, at least a part of them are, for there are 500,000 germs to every teaspoonful of raw cow's milk.

To investigate the effect of pressure on bacteria, an apparatus was devised which is remarkable for having produced what is probably the greatest hydrostatic pressure ever reached, over 450,000 pounds per square inch.

The particular object of these experiments was to determine whether the bacteria in milk might not be killed by hydrostatic pressure, so that it would keep a longer time without souring. Moderate pressures were first tried, but appeared to have no effect. The pressures were then increased and notable results were obtained.

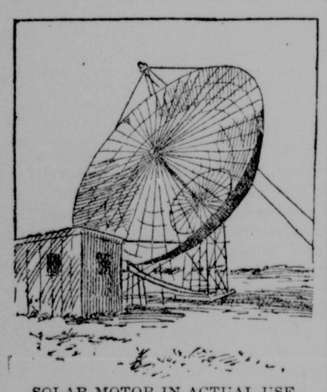
Milk subjected to pressures of 70 to 100 tons kept from 24 to 60 hours longer without souring than untreated milk. The degree to which the keeping qualities of milk were improved appeared to depend as much on the time for which the pressure was maintained as upon the actual pressure reached.

Pressures of 90 tons per square inch maintained for an hour delayed the souring of milk from four to six days. Complete sterilization of the milk, however, was in no case effected, even at the highest pressures, and the milk in many cases acquired peculiar tastes and odors on keeping, indicating that certain species of bacteria were killed while others were not.—Chicago American.

MONSTER SOLAR MOTOR.

Heat of the Sun Utilized to Run the Engine of an Irrigation Plant in California.

The first sun motor to be put to a practical everyday use is believed to be that recently installed at Pasadena, Cal. Its principle is as old as man. Its application is new. By means of a huge construction of mirrors, resembling an inverted umbrella on a large scale, the heat of the sun's rays is concentrated on a long cylindrical boiler, which without the application of any other heat furnishes sufficient steam for the running of a ten horse-power engine. The engine is at work pumping water from a well 12 feet deep. The best record it has made is the lifting of 1,400 gallons of water a minute, which is sufficient to irrigate 500 acres of trees or 200 acres of alfalfa. By the use of the sun motor the item of fuel is entirely done away with. Steam is raised on sunshiny days by turning the mirror frame until the proper focus is obtained on the boiler. The supply of water in the boiler and the working of the machinery are arranged automatically, so that little human labor is needed in connection with its use. The most immediate and important use of the new motor is expected to be the furnishing of a supply of water for irrigating the sandy deserts of the southwest, where the sun shines brightly for more than 70 per cent. of the days and fuel is almost impossible to obtain.



SOLAR MOTOR IN ACTUAL USE.

Fire Alarm for Buildings.

A new electric fire alarm is intended to announce the appearance of fire to passers-by outside the building in which it is placed. It consists of a metallic case containing a charge of pyrotechnic compound similar to a Bengal light, and surmounted by a small igniting fuse. The whole is made water-tight, and is arranged to be put in position on a cornice or other prominent part of the building. The fuse is connected through thermostats with a battery, so that a high temperature in the vicinity of one of the thermostats closes the circuit, explodes the igniting charge and lights the slow-burning compound, which gives a brilliant light, and this attracts the attention of people in the neighborhood.

Why Glass Holds Water.

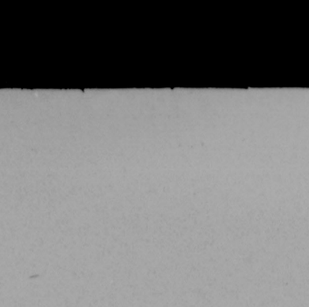
Utensils of glass will hold water because the globules of water are too big to squeeze through the glass, but glass is as full of holes as a sponge, and air blows right through it, because the specks or molecules of air are smaller than the holes.

NEW OPTICAL ILLUSION.

Unique Problem Contributed to Science by M. Henri Coupin, a Noted French Philosopher.

The following new and curious optical illusion is contributed by M. Henri Coupin to La Nature. He says:

"Our illustration represents a series of black squares placed at regular distances apart and separated by white bands crossing each other regularly at right angles. At least this is how the illustration has represented them. But in reality, in each of the places where the white bands cross we see a very plain shadow, or, more exactly, a sort of penumbra with indefinite boundaries. If the attention be fixed on one of these spots in particular it disappears at once, while the neighboring spots persist. This is evidently due to the fact that the phenomenon is produced only in regions of the retina distant from the 'yellow spot' (spot of most distinct vision)—regions where the sight is always a little confused. It would be interesting to vary the size of the squares and of their intervals to see at what moment the phenomenon would disappear. Optical illusions are a good deal more than mere amusements. Studied with care, they can do a good deal toward clearing up the problem of vision which is still so imperfectly understood."



INTERESTING ILLUSION.

WORN-OUT STEEL RAILS.

They Are Not Sent to the Scrap Heap, But Are Used for Sidings, Spurs and Branch Lines.

Several thousand miles of new and heavier rails are laid every year on railroads in the United States, and these renewals are made much oftener than the actual requirements of travel call for them, there being a steady substitution of heavy for light rails.

Nearly 90 per cent. of the track of all railways in the United States is now of steel. A steel rail will usually wear out first at the ends, owing to the wheels hammering over the open joints. The average life of an iron rail is six years, of a steel rail 12.

A 40-pound steel rail—40 pounds to each yard of length—would be taken up and replaced by one of 55 pounds; a 55-pound rail would be replaced by one of 70 pounds, and a 70-pound rail would be replaced by one of 85 pounds, perhaps. There is about one such change at the end of each four years, or three complete replacements of rail during the time one would serve in use.

The custom, general among American railroads, has given rise to the question: What becomes of the old steel rails, or rather those for which others were substituted? Any railroad man can readily give the answer: They serve, second-hand, the interests of the road, being used for sidings or spurs.

A siding, in railroad phrase, means a line of track on which a freight or accommodation train may be run while a through train is passing, or on which a train may be sidetracked before loading or unloading. A spur is an irregular line of track which connects a storehouse, wareroom, factory, mill, or ship landing with the main line, and the multiplication of these spurs has been of undeniable service to all roads in the development of their freight business.

The traffic on sidings is small; on spurs it is still less, and the deplaced steel rails may be in use on them for many years.—N. Y. Sun.

FUNERAL TROLLEY CAR.

Baltimore Street Railway Companies Have Had One Built at Considerable Expense.

Baltimore has a number of fine suburban cemeteries, all of which are reached by some division of the street railway lines, and the company found by putting in a few crossovers they could take a car from any part of the city to any one of the burying grounds. It was, therefore, decided to offer cars for transportation of funeral parties, says the Street Railway Review. The company built a special car well adapted for the purpose. The car is divided into two compartments, the smaller of which has running its full length another compartment or vault in which the casket is carried. A heavy plate glass door hinged to swing downward gives access to the vault from the outside. When a casket is to be placed in the car, the shelf is drawn out, the casket lifted upon it, and the shelf is then pushed back in place. The larger compartment has 12 cross seats in the center aisle, giving a seating capacity of 24; the smaller compartment has four seats. Heavy black curtains divide this section into two private compartments for the immediate family of the deceased. Floral contributions are piled upon the top of the vault, and can be seen from the street. The car is finished inside and out with black enamel with nickel-plated fixtures. The car has been named "Dolores," meaning sorrow, and it is rented at from $20 to $25 for each interment.

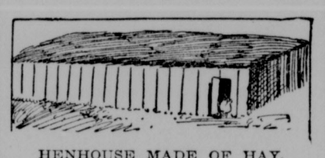
TEMPORARY HOUSES.

A Pennsylvania Poultryman Prefers Them to the Costly Structures He Used for Many Years.

I started 18 years ago with a well-built poultry house, which, while comfortable in winter, was too hot in summer. It finally became infested with vermin, which I could not keep rid of. I finally built sheds of poles and old hay, and have used them with the best results. These sheds are made 25x100 feet and ten feet high, with poles set in the ground six to eight feet apart. Use poles for the top pieces, put crosswise. Fence wire is stapled on top of the cross pieces lengthwise, about 14 inches apart.

About two feet of old hay is put on and tar paper laid evenly over the hay, with the ends projecting on the north about five feet. Six-foot small-mesh poultry netting is put on the sides all around the shed, and before stapling to place the wire is set in the ground about eight inches to keep out rats. Poles are then set about three feet from the sides all around the shed, with the exception of the south side, and a few strands of wire tacked to them to keep the sides in place. When the hay is put in it is tramped well until it is built up to the paper and the projecting laps laid over.

When cold weather sets in the south side of the shed is covered with heavy duck and slats nailed over the duck. For entrance a flap is left and a board tacked to the duck endwise. Loops of leather or wire are stapled to the board to draw taut. This will give the building plenty of light and will answer better than window glass. During the warm months the duck is removed and put away for future use. The sides on the north are also removed for ventilation. In the fall new sheds and runs are erected upon a new location, the poles removed, the old pile of hay burned and the ground plowed for a garden for the next season.



HENHOUSE MADE OF HAY.

During the winter when the weather requires it these sheds are heated with steam from two old steam cookers in a greenhouse, which is located about the center of this row of sheds. Two-inch pipe is laid through the sheds upon blocks of wood in a trench 20 inches deep. It is covered with boards and then dirt. The pipes through the shed are not covered, with the exception of slats over the trench. The steam does not return to the greenhouse, but is let out at the end of the last building. I breed fancy poultry altogether and was unable to get paying prices for stock and keep them in perfect order until I adopted this style of buildings.—Orange Judd Farmer.

POULTRY YARD HINTS.

The dust bath is still one of the necessities in the poultry house.

Make your buildings tight and warm for your fowls, and they will be better egg producers.

Green bone and meat scraps in winter take the place of bugs and worms that the fowls have during the summer.

A pullet is at her best as a show bird just before she reaches the laying point—as regards color, condition of plumage and general physical development.

If you have eggs to sell this spring it is high time you were advertising them. Get yourself before the public in time to get well acquainted before the egg season begins.

It is never wise to buy breeding stock at beginning of breeding season. Buy before, so that the stock will have become used to its new surroundings before breeding season commences.—Barnum's Midland Farmer.

Good Horses in Demand.

The breeding of horses, like all other kinds of live stock, will pay if the aim is to produce the very best. The greatest drawback to the business at the present time is the lack of good stallions of the different breeds throughout the country. So far as our observation extends there are fewer first-class stallions accessible at this time than ever before, and it will take some time to get them through the country. Those who have good mares of any breed and are in reach of the right kind of stallions are fortunate just at this time, and will make the rearing of horse stock a profitable branch of farming.—Farmers' Voice.

Planting Locusts for Posts.

The black, yellow and white locusts are merely varieties or forms of the same species, Robinia pseudacacia. The black and yellow forms are considered most resistant and are usually found in the driest places. If seeds or suckers can be had from these dark and dense-wooded types they would naturally be preferred for planting. All varieties of the common locust are attacked by borers, and a multitude of insect enemies. The honey locust, Gleditschia triacanthos, is not troubled by insects to so great an extent as the Robinia, but is much inferior in lasting qualities as fence material.—Rural New Yorker.

DAN GROSVENOR SAYS:

"Peruna is an Excellent Spring Catarrh Remedy---I am as Well as Ever."

HON. DAN. A. GROSVENOR, OF THE FAMOUS OHIO FAMILY.

Hon. Dan. A. Grosvenor, Deputy Auditor for the War Department, in a letter written from Washington, D. C., says:

"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from one bottle of Peruna. One week has brought wonderful changes and I am now as well as ever. Besides being one of the very best spring tonics it is an excellent catarrh remedy." Very respectfully, Dan. A. Grosvenor.

Hon. John Williams, County Commissioner, of 517 West Second street, Duluth, Minn., says the following in regard to Peruna: "As a remedy for catarrh I can cheerfully recommend Peruna. I know what it is to suffer from that terrible disease and I feel that it is my duty to speak a good word for the tonic that brought me immediate relief. Peruna cured me of a bad case of catarrh and I know it will cure any other sufferer from that disease."

Miss Mattie L. Guild, President Illinois Young People's Christian Temperance Union, in a recent letter from Chicago, Ill., says:

"I doubt if Peruna has a rival in all the remedies recommended to-day for catarrh of the system. A remedy that will cure catarrh of the stomach will cure the same condition of the mucous membrane anywhere. I have found it the best remedy I have ever tried for catarrh, and believing it worthy my endorsement I gladly accord it."

Mrs. Elmer Fleming, orator of Reservoir Council No. 168, Northwestern Legion of Honor, of Minneapolis, Minn., writes from 2535 Polk street, N. E.:

Mrs. Elmer Fleming, Minneapolis, Minn.

"I have been troubled all my life with catarrh in my head. I took Peruna for about three months, and now think I am permanently cured. I believe that for catarrh in all its forms Peruna is the medicine of the age. It cures when all other remedies fail. I can heartily recommend Peruna as a catarrh remedy."

The spring is the time to treat catarrh. Cold, wet winter weather often retards a cure of catarrh. If a course of Peruna is taken during the early spring months the cure will be prompt and permanent. There can be no failures if Peruna is taken intelligently during the favorable weather of spring.

As a systemic catarrh remedy Peruna eradicates catarrh from the system wherever it may be located. It cures catarrh of the stomach or bowels with the same certainty as catarrh of the head.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

POOR LITTLE JOHNNY! AND HIS "TUMMY"!

Small boys, and many times large ones, and occasionally girls, too, big and little, suffer terribly from convulsive pains or "cramps" in the bowels and stomach—pain so violent that it "doubles up" the ones attacked, and makes it impossible for them to stand up.

Some people call it colic, but most honest, plain-spoken people call it "belly-ache" and very properly, for the seat of the trouble is in the bowels, and caused by the violent efforts of the bowels to rid themselves of something which doesn't belong there. The small boy usually gets it from over-eating or from eating forbidden fruit, and suffers mostly in the summer time.

It's spring now, and "in times of peace, prepare for war." Let the boys and girls and the big folks, too, for that matter, clean out the clogged channels filled with winter bile and putrid undigested food, strengthen the 30-feet of bowel canal, liven up the liver, and "summer belly-aches" will have no terrors, because they won't happen. The way to make the body ache-proof is to use CASCARETS, gentle, sweet, fragrant CASCARETS, the perfect system cleaners and bowel strengtheners. For fear that anybody in the family should ever be attacked by belly-ache, keep a box of CASCARETS in the house always, and remember that all pains and troubles in your insides are

QUICKLY CURED BY

Cascarets

LIVER TONIC

BEST FOR THE BOWELS

10c. 25c. 50c.

ALL DRUGGISTS.

NEVER SOLD IN BULK.

CURE all bowel troubles, appendicitis, biliousness, bad breath, bad blood, wind on the stomach, bloated bowels, foul mouth, headache, indigestion, pimples, pains after eating, liver trouble, sallow complexion and dizziness. When your bowels don't move regularly you are getting sick. Constipation kills more people than all other diseases together. It is a starter for the chronic ailments and long years of suffering that come afterwards. No matter what ails you, start taking CASCARETS to-day, for you will never get well and be well all the time until you put your bowels right. Take our advice; start with CASCARETS to-day, under an absolute guarantee to cure or money refunded. 456

GUARANTEED TO CURE: Five years ago the first box of CASCARETS was sold. Now it is over six million boxes a year, greater than any similar medicine in the world. This is absolute proof of great merit, and our best testimonial. We have faith and will sell CASCARETS absolutely guaranteed to cure or money refunded. Go buy today, two 50c boxes, give them a fair, honest trial, as per simple directions, and if you are not satisfied, after using one 50c box, return the unused 50c box and the empty box to us by mail, or the druggist from whom you purchased it, and get your money back for both boxes. Take our advice—no matter what ails you—start today. Health will quickly follow and you will bless the day you first started the use of CASCARETS. Book free by mail. Address: STERLING REMEDY CO., NEW YORK or CHICAGO.

Any Doctor

is willing to treat you for rheumatism, if your credit is good or you pay his fee. But only one doctor will cure your rheumatism, and he charges nothing for advice.

This physician is Dr. Greene, the discoverer of Dr. Greene's Nervura. If you will write to him at 35 West 14th Street, New York City, he will tell you exactly how to get rid of rheumatism for good and all. It won't cost you anything to get his advice. Why don't you write to Dr. Greene to-day?

ENGINEER'S LICENSE. MECHANICS, ENGINEERS, FIREMEN, ELECTRICIANS, Etc. 40-page pamphlet containing questions asked by Examining Board of Engineers. SENT FREE. GEORGE A. ZELLER, Publisher. Room 546, 18 South Fourth St., St. Louis, Mo.

RHEUMATISM Van Buren's Rheumatic Compound is the only positive cure. Past experience speaks for itself. Depot 88 S. California Ave., Chicago.

MUSIC 50 COPIES sent for One Dollar. All different. All popular. Best ever published. Vocal and instrumental. E. A. SIEGEL, 320 Broadway, New York.

With rig to sell our Poultry Mixture; straight salary $15.00 per week and expenses; year's contract; weekly pay. Address with stamp EUREKA MFG. CO., Dept. 5, East St. Louis, Ill.

Dessert for To-Day.

You need not worry about it if you have Burnham's Hasty Jellycon in the cupboard. Only necessary to dissolve in hot water and stand away to cool to secure the most delicious jelly. Absolutely pure gelatine sugar and fruit flavors. Flavors: Lemon, orange, raspberry, strawberry, wild cherry, peach, also unflavored "calfsfoot" for wine and coffee jelly. Your grocer sells it.

A. N. K.—C 1861

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

THE REPUBLICAN.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Editor and Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

THE REPUBLICAN is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year	$ 1.25
One copy six months	.75
One copy three months	.40
One copy one month	.15
Single copies	.05

ADVERTISING RATES.

First insertion for square of ten nonpareil lines, $1; each additional insertion after first, 0 cents per square of ten nonpareil lines.

REMITTANCES:

Remittances made by money order, bank draft, registered letter or express order will be at our risk; if made otherwise, at the risk of the sender. Address,

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, MAY 2, 1901.

Political Announcements

The following rates for publishing political announcements in these columns have been fixed and will be charged to those who desire to make their wishes known to the voters of Garrett county. These charges are payable in advance of the first publication of notices:

For State Senator, $10; County Treasurer, $5; Sheriff, $5; Members of the House of Delegates, $5; County Commissioner, $5.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER.

At the solicitation of friends I announce myself as a candidate for the nomination for County Treasurer, subject to the Republican Nominating Convention, and most respectfully solicit the assistance and influence of all Republicans. Should I be nominated and elected I promise to give personal attention to the duties of the office.

JAS. W. WHITE,
District No. 14. Oakland.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the nomination of Sheriff for Garrett county, subject to the decision of the Republican Nominating Convention, and solicit the support of Republicans throughout the county.
Dist. No. 7. ANDREW SHARTZER.

FOR SHERIFF.

Newspaper Frauds.

"Non-partisan" papers, edited by partisans, are the most patent humbugs of the age. In commenting upon public matters they start out non-partisan, but wind up partisan. They are simply frauds. A partisan paper is the more to be admired. It sacrafices patronage for principle. It is more honest, for it does not play for both sides, and does not pretend to be anything than partisan. There is nothing antagonistic to honesty in being partisan, and there is every inducement to dishonesty in being non-partisan or independent. The most despicable object is a partisan who pretends to conduct a non-partisan or independent paper, and then by his acts endorses every principle and policy which his party espouses.—Westminster (Md.) Advocate.

IN THE matter of planting trees a practical question is raised. The wholesale destruction of woods and forests everywhere has attracted attention for many years, but the people have it within their power to plant new forests and thus secure new trees to take the place of those that are consumed for commercial uses. If every school child in the State should plant one tree each year Maryland would soon recover from the loss of its woods. The need of trees is obvious to those who are familiar with the subject. The removal of the forest have had a serious effect upon the streams everywhere, and the stories of floods told year after year are largely the result of the clearing away of the forests. A treeless country is a most desolate place. Not only as a matter of adornment are trees needed, but they are necessary in order to protect the small streams from drying up. In addition, the demand for wood is increasing every year as the supply decreases. The planting of several hundred new trees this year would mean just that many old trees of commercial value a quarter of a century later.

ABOUT the best thing published recently in the Terra Alta Republican is the subjoined editorial on the recent session of the Maryland Legislature:

A farce on high statesmanship has recently been enacted by the Maryland Legislature, and it was all done for political purposes. Of course a cheap and hollow pretense has been set up that it was all done for political purposes, for the public good and in imitation of Massachusetts. Massachusetts! In heaven's name don't talk about Massachusetts. The glorious old Bay State, with her Concord and Lexington and Bunker Hill and her war waged for a hundred years for intellectual and moral freedom would scorn your pretended subserviency. Massachusetts does things because they are right—not for political effect. Go to Massachusetts and find a Goebel law or a Nesbit law or a packed board of registration. Never. Massachusetts is American and Democratic, and believes, and practices such beliefs, in a government of the people, for the people and by the people and not in a government of rings, for rings and by rings. No, don't try to masquerade under your paint and veneer with Massachusetts. She would never own you. Her statesmen believe in truth and eternal justice. She makes her laws for the public good—not for partisan benefit—and she would scorn such infamies as "grandfather" laws and laws to be enforced by partisans. This latter is the iniquity of Maryland. It is the enforcement more than the law. There may be a show of reason for the ballot exclusion laws in the black belt—South Carolina, Mississippi, Louisiana, etc, but the outrage there is the unfair and inequitable enforcement of those laws. But that is just why the Maryland partisan made the law. He wants it to keep his tottering party in power. It is this animus that makes such a law an outrage on popular government. A law to encourage education and intelligence is one thing, but a law to be enforced in equitably by making classes in society, by establishing political and social castes, by stamping on the weak and helping the strong, is the very acme of undemocratic government. What does Bryan, the great Commoner, think of this? What kind of Jacksonian or Jeffersonian Democracy is it? Oh shades of the great dead! What unworthy scious have come to fill your places! Honor, equality, justice, righteousness, Democracy—all swept away for partisan gain.

Mr. Bryan's Lightning-Rod.

Mr. Bryan takes the public into his confidence in the last issue of the Commoner by saying that he is not planning for another nomination. It would be more gratifying to many of the adherents of one of Mr. Bryan's parties to hear him declare that he would not accept a third nomination if it were tendered him but Mr. Bryan stops far short of this position. Mr. Bryan makes the statement in the course of his disclaimer of the planning for a third nomination, "I have no enemies to punish, no matter what a man may have said or done against the ticket in 1896 or in 1900. That man becomes my friend the moment he accepts Democratic principles. Neither have I any disposition to reward political friends at the expense of our cause." Mr. Bryan talks of punishment and reward like a man who still hopes to be in position to punish and reward. In fact it seems that Mr. Bryan has thought it time to erect Mr. Bryan's lightning-rod. If Mr. Bryan succeeds in running the Democratic national convention again and prescribing what Democratic principles are Mr. Bryan will very probably be the nominee again. If not Mr. Bryan and his queer assortment of Democratic principles will give way to new dogmas, and Mr. Bryan will doubtless antagonize the Democratic candidate by the same right that he has been antagonized by those who did not regard him as a Democrat.

The New State Census.

The enumeration of the people of Maryland, ordered by the extra session of the General Assembly, begins this morning. In all parts of the State the enumerators—one to each voting precinct—will commence their work. It is to be completed in fifteen days from this time, and shortly thereafter the figures will be made public. In this work and its result the people of the State have a vital interest. Upon it depends, in a number of instances, the representation in the House of Delegates during the next ten years. Having this interest, the people should assist the enumerators by facilitating their work, as in no other way will it be possible to secure the accuracy that is demanded.

The returns, when finally made, will show how this work has been done. They will be a measure of its impartiality and nonpartisanship. If the State census varies from that taken by the Federal government to the extent of limiting representation in the supposedly Republican counties, while giving Democratic counties the basis of the increase, the work will be condemned, in spite of whatever its managers may claim for it. The inaccuracies in the Federal census are now known to be limited to one or two counties. Even in this small area they were sufficient to create a scandal; the Democrats should take care that they do not breed a worse scandal.

This advice is not given for the purpose of discrediting the State census in advance. The American hopes to see scrupulous honesty exercised in every branch of the work and will gladly commend it if it is discoverable. But all that has been done up to this time in this connection has borne the stamp of excessive partisanship. The whole census seems to have been devised solely for its effect upon the fortunes of the Democratic organization in the State. Only organization Democrats have been recognized in the appointment of workers, and some of the places have been given to men whose names are too well known to the people of Baltimore. The leaders of this organization have unblushingly directed the preliminary work, assuming the powers of the superintendent without so much as an "By your leave." Under these circumstances none save organization Democrats have reason to hope for material benefit for the census. If to the people it is to prove anything except a new scheme in the game of practical politics, the manner in which the work is done and its results must be looked to to remove the existing skepticism.—Baltimore American.

FROM the way boss Gorman is sticking his fingers in the State census business it would seem that he is the Superintendent, and not Col. Buck Schley. His presence at the opening of the office in Baltimore affords all the proof necessary to establish his indentity with the discreditable work.

An Expensive Luxury.

The State census is likely to prove a more expensive luxury to the tax payers of Maryland than was at first anticipated. The Baltimore American says "the actual cost of taking the census, which work will begin on May 1, will be $29,700, exclusive of office expenses, salaries of office enumerators, stationery, printing, etc., which items will about exhaust the appropriation exclusive of the cost of copying the registration lists."

Making copies of these lists, as required by the census law, will probably add five or six thousand dollars to the expense of taking the census, and the work of comparing them with the census reports will consume much time in the office of the superintendent. The chief enumerator has a salary of $10 per day and his assistant $6. There will probably be miscellaneous and incidental expenses which will swell the total cost to $50,000 or more, and leave a deficiency to be provided for by an appropriation by the legislature at its next session. It is doubtful whether the enumeration can be completed within the time limited by law and the large body of enumerators may have extra claims at $3 per diem each. And all this to help the Old Ring to a resumption of its arbitrary power in the State.

The Reform League.

At a meeting of the Reform League of Baltimore held on Tuesday evening Mr. Chas. J. Bonoparte discussed the acts of the recent extra session of the Legislature. He spoke of the determined opposition of the league to the call and said:

"Although the league's action did not prevent the passage of a bill to amend the Election law, it was far from fruitless; the bill introduced was much less mischievous than its real authors wished to make it, and as passed it was much less mischievous than as introduced. In fact it seems likely to prove, in practical application, more annoying than dangerous, and there is great doubt whether the unscrupulous men who planned the extra session will, as a last resort, derive any appreciable benefit from its enactment.

"Nevertheless, its adoption has been a very serious event in our local politics; it shows plainly that the same men now control the party in power who controlled it in 1895, and it shows further, and no less plainly, that these men are ready now, as they were then, to defeat by fraud or violence the people's will fairly expressed at the polls, if this be needful to prolong their power. For these men—men too readily and certainly recognized in this community to need mention by name—the abortive act of the special session will be but an entering wedge, if the people tolerate their continued prominence in our public affairs. Their purpose, in great measure now unmasked, is to so weaken those laws which protect the freedom and purity of the suffrage as to make again possible what was seen in 1875 and 1885 and what they intended and unsuccessfully attempted in 1895.

"We think it has been shown that the league must hold them and deal with them as irreconcilable enemies to its aims, and we believe it will be a wise, as well as a worthy, policy for the league to present this issue to the people promptly and plainly. To this end we advise that the executive committee to be chosen this evening have a well-considered bill prepared to repeal most of the provisions of the above mentioned recent act and to restore the law amended by these provisions, and, in the league's name, take the same course respecting this bill which we have suggested in regard to the bill to amend the Police law."

Consumption

is, by no means, the dreadful disease it is thought to be—at the beginning.

It can always be stopped—at the beginning. The trouble is you don't know you've got it; you don't believe it; don't believe it—till you succeed to. Then it is danger-ous.

Don't be afraid; but attend to it quick—you can do it yourself and at home.

Take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, and live carefully every way.

This is sound doctrine, whatever you may think or be told; and, if heeded, will save life.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists,
409 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

CREMATED ALIVE.

Aged Farmer Roasted to Death Trying to Save His Home.

Monday evening Samuel J. Miller, a farmer living three miles east of Barton, discovered forest fires near his home and summoned the members of his household for the purpose of fighting the fire, which was approaching the house very rapidly, by means of the dry leaves. His sons went with him and during the fighting against the flames they became separated from their father and finally, seeing the fire in the vicinity of where Mr. Miller had been, burning fiercely, they went in that direction and after considerable search to their horror discovered his body in the midst of the fire partly charred.

In consternation they ran to a neighbor's house and summoned aid, but after arrival of assistance it was some time before they were able to drag the body from the roaring furnace of timbers and brush surrounding it and by which time the body may be said to have been cremated, as it was completely charred, the legs dropping off when the body was lifted up.

Just how it happened no one is able to say as there were no eye witnesses to the occurrence, but it is supposed that Mr. Miller was overcome by the heat and smoke and while unconscious the fire crept upon him and he was roasted in this horrible way.

The deceased was aged about 78 years and leaves a family of thirteen children, all grown. The remains were interred at once.

BLOOMINGTON.

Piedmont Independent.

Mrs. Laura V. Johnson, accompanied by her son, Master Henry, was a visitor to relatives on Thursday.

Mr. Osborn, of Philadelphia, and County Surveyor Mason, of Oakland, were busy during the week, locating the lines of a property known as Key Stone, belonging to the Empire Coal Company.

John Kight, of Hampshire hill, was in town Wednesday. We also noticed from the same place Oscar Abernathy, John Foy and Lem Cole—all readers and admirers of the Independent.

Little Laura Tibbets, an 18 months old child of Mr. and Mrs. William Tibbets, fell from the front porch of their home on Wednesday and sustained painful injuries about the head.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton, of Philadelphia, are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Hamilton, of Hampshire.

Two car loads of water mains were side tracked at this point on last Wednesday. One of the contractors for the extension of the water system of the Piedmont water works was on hand early Thursday morning with two teams and a gang of laborers, busy unloading and hauling the material to the proposed site of excavation. The line, at present, will be constructed as far as Deep Hole and connect at its eastern end with the pumps at the pulp mill. To complete a gravity line that will supply the reservoir at Piedmont will necessitate the laying of three and one-half miles of water main from the mouth of Savage River. This would carry point of intake considerably above Everett's tunnel, and would, no doubt, insure the very best drinking water. The contractors have rented the brick store and commenced building bunks and sleeping booths on this Friday, for the accommodation of their employes.

Mr. George Fazenbaker, aged 75 years, who for the past five years has lived on the Henry Warnick farm, three miles from town, died last Sunday night about 12 o'clock. Mr. Fazenbaker was a veteran and belonged to the G. A. R. He was a stone mason by trade and was well known about Piedmont, Westernport and all along the line of the C. & P. R. R., where for the past 35 years he worked at his trade. He was buried in Philos cemetery, at Westernport on last Tuesday afternoon. A large number of friends, relatives and children were present at the funeral.

Miss Lotta Kemp, of this place, who was taken very ill at the Opera House, Piedmont, last Wednesday night at the close of the play, Quo Vadis, was brought home on Thursday morning, and is convalescing rapidly.

Miss Mills, of Hyndman, Pa., is the guest of the Kennels family, at Lochiel.

Irwin Warnick, administrator to the estate of Henry Warnick, has advertised a sale of personal property on May 16.

Squire Moody is again indisposed from rheumatism.

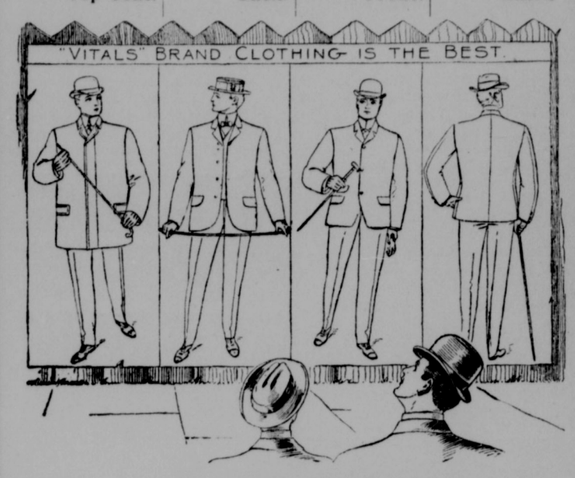
The extensive land slide that occurred at the mouth of the Buxton mine and the west end of the bridge across the Franklin plane, caused by the four or five days constant rain, took away about 75 or 100 feet of the county road between this place and Luke. This has necessitated a great deal of inconvenience to wagons and horsemen who have had occasion to use the road, as they are now compelled to travel by way of the Michael settlement. The County Commissioners of Allegany county viewed the slide on Tuesday, and, we understand, will erect a bridge over at that point instead of building masonry, as at first proposed.

Mrs. Fannie Phillips, of Keyser, spent a few days with relatives this week.

S. P. Specht, Deer Park, has just returned from the East with the best assortment of general merchandise ever brought to Deer Park, which he will sell very low for cash. 7 2t

H. C. Sincell & Co.

Spring Top Coat. | Four Button Sack. | Military Front. | Military Back.



Our Spring Stock of

Men and ... Boys CLOTHING

Is now complete in all the NEW STYLES & COLORS.

All Wool Suits at $7.50.

Style, Fit, Quality==Guaranteed.

H. C. SINCELL & Co.

Married in the Street.

Monday afternoon there was solemnized in the public street of Oakland a wedding ceremony, the contracting parties being Charles Henry Mitchell and Viola Hunsinger, of Aurora, W. Va. The minister performing the ceremony was Rev. T. S. Fike also of Aurora, who came down to Oakland that day in order to take a train for a point in Illinois. After procuring the necessary license the groom to-be accompanied by the bride-elect were walking down Third street ostensibly on the lookout for a minister when they met Rev. Fike at the corner of Third and Alder streets and in the shadow of the Lutheran church. A conversation of a few minutes took place between the parties when to a number of persons on the street it was evident that "something was doing," for the "man of the cloth" and the couple proceeded forthwith to lay aside their hats and stepping back from the pavement the ceremony of making the couple man and wife was gone through within a remarkably short time, much to the amusement of a number of persons who had congregated at the postoffice and along the street, who had been attracted by seeing the bride and groom being joined in such a novel place. As soon as the minister completed his duties he replaced his hat, caught up his grip and started for the depot. The bride and groom walked off as unconcerned as though nothing out of the ordinary had taken place.

For a stiff neck there is nothing better than a free application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It quickly relieves the stiffness and soreness, effecting a complete cure. For sale by all dealers.

Ice Cream.

Henry Lauer, in the Michaels building, has fitted up a room as an ice cream parlor and will serve that delicacy throughout the season. Families supplied with any quantity desired.

Taking the Census.

Yesterday morning the census takers of the State commenced their work which they are supposed to finish within fifteen days.

FOR SALE:—The Lutheran parsonage, located on the corner of Fifth and Green streets, in Oakland, near the court house. Contains 8 rooms, hallway, cellar and porches; excellent well of water. Will be sold cheap. Apply to or address Rev. George I. Uhler, Oakland, Md.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN.

A Great Improvement.

Clerk of the Court E. Z. Tower is making some extensive improvements to his recently acquired property on Oak street. He has had the building newly roofed, painted both inside and outside, new fences built and outbuildiugs repaired. In front of the house a massive wall of cut stone is being erected and as soon as it is completed a walk constructed of limestone screenings will be put down. This will solidify by the action of the weather and become equal to asphalt. The grounds are being graded and put down in grass. When all the improvements are complete Mr. Tower will have one of the best and handsomest homes in this section.

Money to Loan.

$4,000 to loan on first mortgage in in sums to suit upon town property or nearby farms.

EDWARD H. SINCELL.

The Country Editor.

Perusal of the columns of papers published in districts far removed from the bustle and every day excitement of the cities is liable to make the reader believe that the life of the country editor is "one grand, sweet dream," says the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette. Here, indeed, seems to be an individual who pursues the even tenor of his way, quietly gathering up the neighbornood gossip, scraps of information, and at all times keeping a watchful eye on the interests of the community. It is his aim to issue a paper of personal interest and therefore an epidemic of whooping cough, mumps, measles or grip furnishes him with opportunities to publish the names of most of his subscribers. With easy grace he mentions the smile on the face of the "happy father"—for some reason the happy mothers are rarely mentioned—and the passing away of an old citizen provides the occasion for an eloquent eulogy. The quilting bees, barn raisings, weddings and other events of similar importance call for sallies of wit and wisdom, a dog fight is given the prominence it deserves.

But the path of the country editor is not always strewn with roses. Many subscribers are forgetful, and reminders that they are in arrears are often in vain. There are times when even the subscribers who pay in firewood or farm produce fail to materialize. Hence the occasional appeals and wails from the sanctum and occasional suspension of a week's issue. The country editor who bumps up against such troubles is deserving of a better fate. He is one of the forces of civilization, and too often he is handicapped by adverse circumstances.

E W Grove

This signature is on every box of the genuine Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets the remedy that cures a cold in one day

TO CURE LAGRIPPE IN TWO DAY

Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE TABLETS. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature on every box. 25c.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

LOCAL AND OTHERWISE

Incidents and Events at Home and Nearby —Personal Mention, Etc.

Jacob Feik, Esq., of near Accident, was in the city a day or two this week.

Go look at Townshend & Son's line of ties and dress shirts. 8 4

Jasper Augustine, Esq., of Uniontown, Pa., was a visitor to Oakland last Thursday.

When in need of sewer pipe call at Naylor's. Just received car load of 4, 5, 6, 8 and 10 inch. 7 3t

Dr. John E. Legge returned Sunday from a few days' visit to Baltimore.

Dr. S. M. Hardman, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, Grafton, W. Va. Spectacles and artificial eyes fitted.

Services will be held in the Deer Park Lutheran church Sunday morning and evening, by Rev. G. I. Uhler.

Attorney Thomas J. Peddicord is in Hamilton, Ohio, this week on professional business.

George W. Kitzmiller, of Blaine, who is operating one of the mines in that section, was in Oakland Tuesday on business.

Don't fail to call at S. P. Specht's, Deer Park, and examine his great big line of fancy and working shirts at away-down prices. 7 2t

George Fulmer and daughter Miss May returned on Sunday morning from a pleasant visit of a few days to Baltimore and Washington.

Daniel Dorsey and sister, Miss Mary, of New Germany, arrived here on Friday. The former returned home on Saturday. Miss Mary is a student in the Normal.

Herman Creutzberg, Esq., has purchased the Nelson stand on Alder street and will open the place on Friday morning with a full line of choice Chicago beef, veal, lamb and mutton.

Yesterday Town Clerk Dunham issued licenses to merchants, saloon keepers, etc., doing business in Oakland. The proceeds from the sale of licenses amounted to nearly $1500.

The old court house at Leonardtown having been found defective, a contract has been entered into with the B. F. Smith Company of Washington to erect a new building at a cost of $19,500. It will be larger than the present building, and the offices will be fireproof.

The trout fishing season has opened in earnest. A number of local anglers have been out trying their luck with more or less success crowning their efforts. The heads of the small streams seem to be the best fishing grounds at present. Later, however, the fish will be found in deeper water.

Richard K. Maroney, one of Oakland's liverymen, was in Cumberland last Thursday attending a sale of horses where he purchased a match team of carriage animals. In bringing the horses home overland one of them slipped from the road near Piedmont and rolled down the mountain for quite a distance. Mr. Maroney was riding the animal and was painfully injured, his ankle being sprained and body bruised considerably.

The body of Troy P. Sliger, who was killed in the Philippines is expected in Terra Alta for final interment some time in the very near future. Upon arrival here it will receive military burial. Troy was well known and highly esteemed in this neighborhood and to the best of our knowledge was the only soldier furnished by our section to the Philippine war was to be killed in an engagement.—Preston Republican.

A horse belonging to Messrs. D. E. Offutt & Sons which was hitched in the delivery wagon of that firm on Monday became unruly and balked. After being detached from the vehicle it backed through the lot adjoining the store and getting upon the platform backed against one of the large plate glass windows of the store where it endeavored to lie down but was prevented from doing so by the driver and a number of persons who had been attracted to the spot.

The brilliant sunshine and the clear sky were very welcome Friday after the many dark and gloomy days. Although the weather was not inspiring and made life monotonous and depressing, yet it was not without its blessings. The cool weather gave the wheat a chance to grow and luxuriate as it has not done for many years. The moisture had an opportunity to penetrate the ground to the very bottom of the roots of vegetation. The fruit buds have advanced slowly and now that the danger of frost is past they are sufficiently hardy to stand any cold snap that may come during the next thirty days. The dreary weather will prove to have been worth thousands of dollars to the county and was, therefore, by no means an unmixed evil.

R. S. Jamison is having his building on Railroad street reroofed.

WANTED.—A girl to do general housework. Apply at this office.

The second story of the Offutt building is being plastered and finished up.

William Cleveland is having a neat house built on a lot in the east end of town.

Mrs. G. G. Wilson, of Chillicothe, Ohio, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Dixon.

Naylor has just received another car of fertilizers, good for crops of all kinds. 8 3t

Townshend & Son have a nice, neat line of plaids, percales, organdies, colored lawns, lace curtains, bedspreads, sheets, etc., away down.

Miss Lena Fuller, of Cumberland, who visited the family of J. N. Robinson, returned home yesterday morning.

J. H. Barlow has removed his cigar factory from the Ravenscroft building to the Michaels building on Railroad street.

There are a few packages of vegetable seed still on hand for distribution at this office. Come quick if you want any.

WANTED.—Four men for common labor and to drive team. Will pay good wages and hire by month. Apply to Chas. R. Savedge, Deer Park, Md. 3t

Mrs. W. E. Fazenbaker and Mrs. Joshua Turner, of South Cumberland, and Mrs. Daniel Cowen, of Piedmont, spent yesterday in Oakland.

Rev. Fisher, pastor of the Loch Lynn U. B. church, will preach in St. Mark's Ev. Lutheran church in Oakland on Sunday evening next.

The First National Bank is distributing a handsome memorandum and pocket book combined. The covering is of fine leather and is quite handy.

Miss Belle Browning left this morning for her future home at Winchester, Va., where she will reside with the family of her uncle, the Rev. Henry Hamill.

Prof. S. C. Smith has his musical instrument salesroom almost ready for opening. He has already received a large and varied assortment of pianos and organs. Others are yet on the way.

Assistant Fish Commissioner R. T. Browning brought several thousand trout fry to Oakland from the State hatchery at Baltimore last week and distributed them to the people of this community.

The excavations for the new Catholic church in Oakland are well under way. A cellar sufficient for a heating apparatus will be dug out and the construction of the building will be commenced as soon as possible.

Notices have been served upon property owners abutting upon Second street to lay pavements in front of their properties within thirty days. If the work is not done within that time the Mayor and Town Council will proceed to put down such pavements and collect the same from the property owners.

The new house of Mr. Chas. J. Newman which is under construction on a lot of ground near the forks of the road at the foot of King's hill south of Oakland, is being rapidly pushed to completion. The building is located in a delightful place and commands a broad view of Oakland and the surrounding country.

Work will soon be commenced at this office on Mr. O. F. Morton's new book, entitled "Winning or Losing." The book will be printed on a fine grade of white laid paper, and will be bound in cloth, will contain a number of half-tone engravings especially made for the work. There will be something over a thousand copies printed.

The extraordinary quickness with which the roads and streets have dried up under the rays of the sun during the past few days is a source of comment by those who travel them. A week ago it was almost impossible to drag an empty wagon over the majority of our highways owing to the great depth of the mud. Now, however, a fair sized load can be hauled with little exertion on the part of the draft animals.

Mr. George D. White returned from Cumberland Tuesday night where he had been for a few days visiting his family who are at present in that city. On Monday his son Harry was operated upon in the Western Maryland Hospital for a growth upon his face which appeared some years ago and which has been growing larger each year. The operation was performed by Dr. Koon and was successful. The young man will return to Oakland next week.

A small pox pest house is to be built near the Allegany county almshouse.

Complete line of ladies' and gents' summer underwear at Townshends.

Miss Susie Legge, who spent a few weeks in Washington with relatives, returned to Oakland Sunday night.

Miss Alice Kepler, who visited relatives in Cumberland for a few days, returned home Saturday evening.

A beautiful line of wash goods, silkalenes, piques, lawns, &c., just opened up at S. P. Specht's, Deer Park. 7 2t

Attorney Julius C. Renninger was at Aurora and Eglon on professional business several days last and this week.

Hon. Julius Scherr came down to Oakland Monday and left the same afternoon for Baltimore and other eastern points on business.

Did you see that line of summer goods, laces, embroideries, silks and velvets at Townshend & Sons? Cheaper than ever. 8 4

Justice Andrew B. Gonder has moved has moved his office from the opera house to the building corner Third and Alder streets.

This is the last week for the publication of the annual levy for 1901. The space occupied by it will be devoted hereafter to news items.

Clerk Tower and his deputies were kept pretty busy Tuesday and yesterday issuing licenses to merchants and others in the county doing business for profit.

Mr. Daniel Dorsey came here one day last week to meet his sister, Miss Carrie, who had been visiting in Cumberland. After spending the day with their friend, Miss Kit Dougherty, both returned to their home in New Germany, Md., in the evening.—Meyersdale Commercial.

Rev. T. D. Richards, of Germantown, Montgomery county, was here yesterday making arrangements for the early opening of Hotel Chautauqua, Mountain Lake Park, of which he is the owner. He will issue within a short time an illustrated booklet advertising the Park and the hotel. The printing will be done at this office.

T. P. Warnick, Esq., of Bloomington, was in the city yesterday on business. Mr. Warnick has recently completed the drawings for a perpetual calendar which he expects to place upon the market shortly. The arrangement of the months, days of the week and the years is unique. The calendar will be manufactured in large lots and sold at a reasonable price.

Judge Edward Stake has filed an opinion and order in the Chesapeake and Ohio canal cases, extending the period for the operation of the canal as a waterway by the trustees of the bondholders for four years and eight months. The petitioners asked for an extension of five years, but the order of the court will bring the question up the next time at the close of the canal season instead of at the opening thereof.

"Black Jack," a noted outlaw of the west who was hanged last week for murder and robbery at a point in Texas, and who was decapitated when the drop of the scaffold fell, was at one time in the employ of Walter E. Thayer, who was born and reared in this county, but who went west many years ago and located in New Mexico where he is a rancher. "Black Jack's" favorite pastime was shooting out the eyes of sheep, cattle, etc.

A bay mare belonging to Archibald Spiker, residing a short distance south of Oakland, was taken from the stable on Sunday night and on Monday Mr. Spiker came to town and notified the officials of his loss. Telephone messages were sent from this point in all directions, but the animal could not be located. Tuesday, however, the horse was found near Crellin, it having evidently been taken from the stable and ridden there by some one too tired to walk.

The largest catch of fish so far this season was made Tuesday by Attorney Norman S. Heindel and Rev. G. I. Uhler. After fishing all the afternoon in Broadford the two gentlemen walked along the stream to the dam at Mountain Lake Park where under the splash they beheld a school of fish. Casting their hooks they were disappointed in not getting a bite. Finding that the fish would not take the bait one of them jumped into the water and succeeded in throwing upon the bank forty fish, which upon examination proved to be red striped suckers. They measured from eight to ten inches each in length.

Two or three men have been canvassing this county for some weeks selling what they claim to be imported goods in the original bundles. A great many of these bales have been purchased by the farmers and others, the salesman asking for a small cash deposit and the execution of a note for the balance of the purchase money. The sales usually amount to $125 or a little less. The buyer is told that if he becomes dissatisfied with the goods the money will be refunded. In some instances the purchaser is dissatisfied but hides his chargrin by saying nothing about it. The moral is this: If you want goods the home merchant is the one from whom to purchase.

LEVY LIST, 1901.

Annual Levy for Garrett County, Maryland, levied on the 11th day of April, 1901, by the Board of County Commissioners for Garrett County, Maryland.

GENERAL ROAD LEVY.

Election District	No. 1, Swanton	$ 650 00
" "	No. 2, Selbysport	1,250 00
" "	No. 3, Grantsville	650 00
" "	No. 4, Bloomington	550 00
" "	No. 5, Accident	850 00
" "	No. 6, Sang Run	685 00
" "	No. 7, Oakland	1,110 00
" "	No. 8, Ryan's Glade	1,040 00
" "	No. 9, Johnson's	300 00
" "	No. 10, Deer Park	600 00
" "	No. 11, Elbow	500 00
" "	No. 12, Bittinger	550 00
National Road		600 00
Total		$ 9,355 00

CORPORATIONS.

Mayor and Council of Oakland	$ 600 00
" " " " Deer Park	100 00
Commissioners of Grantsville	80 00
Mountain Lake Park Community	200 00
Mayor and Council of Loch Lynn Heights	50 00
Total	$ 1,030 00

PUBLIC SCHOOL BONDS.

For redemption of bonds	$ 1,000 00
For interest on bonds	50 00

CLERK OF CIRCUIT COURT.

E. Z. Tower, use Garrett County Bank	$ 150 00
Same, use C. W. Friend	500 00
Same, balance	764 94
Total	$ 1,514 94

COURT FUND.

Estimate to pay court expenses for July, September and December, 1901, and March term, 1902	$ 3,607 50

ORPHANS' COURT.

Estimate to pay judges	$ 518 40
James W. White, register	84 25
Total	$ 602 65

SHERIFF'S OFFICE.

A. J. Oester, sheriff, use Garrett Co. Bank	$ 300 00
Same, balance	1,577 20
S. O. Wiley, warden to jail, use Garrett County Bank	50 00
Same, balance	315 00
Total	$ 2,242 20

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

To the Public School Commissioners, for support of schools	$12,000 00
To build new school houses	2,000 00
Total	$14,000 00

PUBLIC PRINTING AND PUBLISHING.

James D. Hamill, publishing, use Garrett County Bank	$ 100 00
Same, balance, use Garrett County Bank	65 00
Benj. H. Sincell, publishing, use Garrett County Bank	300 00
Same, publishing, use First National Bank	300 00
Same, balance, use Garret Co. Bank	250 00
Same, printing, use " " " "	75 00
Total	$1,090 00

ELECTION EXPENSES.

C. E. Ellithorp, supervisor's salary	$ 100 00
A. G. Sturgiss, supervisor's salary, scrubbing office and postage	103 00
Frank Welch, supervisor's salary, use Garrett County Bank	100 00
E. Jamison, clerk, use Garrett County Bank	50 00
E. L. Mitchell, attorney	50 00
F. C. Ries, supervisor, 1896 expenses, use J. E. Gnagey	35 25
Same, supervisor, 1897, expenses, use J. E. Gnagey	30 85
Estimate to pay rent for supervisor's office, subject to order	96 00
J. M. Litzinger, publishing and printing, use First National Bank	584 45
Benj. H. Sincell, publishing, use Garrett County Bank	386 50

District No. 1.

J. L. McRobie, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	36 30
J. B. Friend, judge and register	38 70
John Ashenfelter, judge, use First National Bank	5 40
John L. Fitzwater, judge	4 50
Wade H. Lohr, clerk	4 50
Joseph F. Friend, clerk	4 50

District No. 2.

Amos M. Umbel, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	48 40
Wm. W. Savage, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	48 11
Brison Welch, judge	5 10
A. M. Chisholm, judge	4 50
E. C. W. Ryland, clerk	4 50
G. W. Sterling, clerk	4 50

District No. 3.

James H. Bevans, judge and register, use Bradford Blocher	30 20
Christian C. Durst, judge and register, use Bradford Blocher	38 70
Sylvester H. Ryland, judge	4 90
Mahlon Miller, judge	4 90
John Custer, clerk	6 00
Gideon J. Gnagey, clerk	6 00
Mrs. E. O'Hanley, rent	10 00

District No. 4.

Fred O. Michaels, judge and register	40 20
Henry Barnard, judge and register, use D. E. Offutt & Sons	44 45
Peter Fitzwilliams, judge	4 65
Joseph Tibbetts, judge	4 65
Lawrence Garvey, clerk	4 65
Cookman Howard, clerk	4 65
Mary A. Clary, rent	10 00

District No. 5.

Martin H. Hoffman, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	35 53
Asa B. Friend, judge and register, use Bradford Blocher	32 70
Jacob E. Bowser, judge	4 50
Solomon Glass, judge	4 50
R. C. Resh, clerk	3 90
Delphy Glass, clerk	4 50
Susan Englehart, rent	10 00

District No. 6.

Nathan C. Browning, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	43 00
Samuel R. Savage, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	41 75
Joel J. Bender, judge	5 10
Thomas J. Lowderilk, judge	5 10
Wm. A. DeWitt, clerk	5 10
Hamill Casteel, clerk, use Garrett County Bank	4 80

District No. 7.

S. H. Ralston, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	32 40
F. P. Arnold, judge and register, use Garrett County Bank	27 00
Same, balance	3 00
Wm. Broderick, judge, use Bradford Blocher	4 50
W. S. Lantz, judge, use G. M. Mason	4 50
John W. Maroney, clerk	4 50
P. T. Lipscomb, clerk	4 50
A. S. Teats, rent	10 00

District No. 8.

James W. Mason, judge and register	27 30
Geo. D. Stahl, judge and register, use First National Bank	33 46
Samuel F. Miller, judge	4 90
Joseph Conneway, judge	4 80
John A. Hughes, clerk	4 80
Davis N. Murphy, rent	15 00

District No. 9.

Michael Cunningham, judge and register, use Bradford Blocher	44 70
Bradford Blocher, judge and register	45 48
A. J. Moore, judge	5 10
William Finzel, judge	5 45
Patrick Hoye, clerk	4 80
J. Richard McKinzie, clerk	4 80

District No. 10.

Michael J. Garrett, judge and register	29 70
Wm. M. Junkins, judge and register, use First National Bank	27 30
Joseph Lashorn, judge, use First National Bank	4 20
James L. Harvey, judge	4 20
Chas. M. Wilson, clerk	4 20
Wm. B. Miller, clerk, use Benj. H. Sincell	4 20

District No. 11.

Walter Warnick, judge and register	40 80
Same, rent	10 00
Daniel S. Wampler, judge and register	31 50
Albin Fazenbaker, judge	5 40
George Beeman, judge	5 40
John A. Merrill, substitute judge	12 00
J. T. Poland, clerk	5 10
Hugh McMillan, clerk	5 40

District No. 12.

Peter Opel, judge and register	37 20
Samuel D. Brenneman, judge and register	36 30
Elias Orendorf, judge	4 80
Simon Resh, judge	4 50
Perry Broadwater, clerk	4 50
Jacob Brenneman, clerk, use C. E. Ellithorp	4 50
John Conn, rent, use C. E. Ellithorp	10 00

District No. 13.

L. C. Hamill, judge and register, use First National Bank	30 00
W. S. Pew, judge and register	24 60
W. H. Pool, judge	3 60
James H. Wilson, judge	3 60
C. H. Pool, clerk	3 60
Geo. W. Kitzmiller, clerk	3 60
P. A. Schultz, " nt	10 00

District No. 14.

Wade H. Hinebaugh, judge and register	32 40
R.C. Townshend, judge and register	38 00
John F. White, judge, use D. E. Offutt & Sons	3 20
John A. Sowers, judge	5 30
J. O. Browning, clerk, use First National Bank	5 30
Samuel Lawton, clerk	5 30
Delia Parker, for scrubbing office, use S. L. Townshend & Son	2 00
Total	$ 2,920 08

NEW ROADS.

Road Case No. 147.

John Harned, surveyor and examiner	10 00
John T. Bowers, examiner	2 00
R. G. White, examiner	2 00
W. W. Welling, chairman	1 50
C. P. Martin, chainman	1 50
Joseph T. McKee, damages	1 00
Mt. Lake Park Association, damages	1 00

Road Case No. 148.

Thomas B. Welch, examiner	2 00
James Guard, examiner	2 00
John Stuck, examiner	2 00
Norval Speelman, surveyor	10 60
Albert Guard, flagman	1 50

Road Case No. 149.

Franklin P. Green, examiner and surveyor	14 00
Henry Barnard, examiner	4 00
W. O. Titchnell, examiner	4 00
James Titchnell, flagman	1 50
Otho Barnard, chainman	1 50
P. R. Titchnell, chainman	1 50
Martin L. Titchnell, axman	1 50
Davis Coal & Coke Co., damages	1 00
Empire Coal & Iron Co., damages	1 00
P. R. Titchnell, damages	50

Road Case No. 150.

James L. Harvey, examiner	4 00
P. T. Lipscomb, examiner	4 00
James Lish, examiner	4 00
John T. Harvey, chainman	1 50
James W. Wilson, chainman	1 50
Geo. W. Moon, flagman	1 50
Edwin L. Mitchell, surveyor	8 00
John P. Hubbard, damages	1 00
Geo. W. Moon, damages	1 00

Road Case No. 151.

Alexander C. Mason, surveyor	8 00
Wm. J. Wilson, damages	175 50
Louis Nydegger, damages	50
J. M. White, damages	50
Total	$ 278 00

BRIDGE ACCOUNT.

Estimate to build same	$1,000 00

SPECIAL ROAD APPROPRIATIONS.

Road Case No. 147, subject to order	$50 00
Road Case No. 149, Martin L. Titchnell, use Garrett County Bank	100 00
Potter road, subject to order	25 00
Road Case No. 150, subject to order	150 00
Road Case No. 148, subject to order	20 00
Road Case No. 151, subject to order	300 00
Watson & Co., work on road near J. Paugh's	33 13
Walter Warnick, work on road 141	303 60
Road Case No. 137, subject to order	100 00
Elder Hill road, subject to order	25 00
Road from Garey's gate to Hiram Humberson's house, subject to order	30 00
James L. Harvey, subject to order	10 00
Gordon road, subject to order	20 00
Roads in Friendsville, subject to order	100 00
U. S. Frazee, subject to order	15 00
Road from railroad to Andrew Friend's	40 00
August Bernard, subject to order	15 00
District No. 7	100 00
Frank Ashby, subject to order	20 00
District No. 3	250 00
Baker road	15 00
New road from river to Folly run road	10 00
New road from Savage river to Jos. Warnick's, subject to order	50 00
Pea ridge road, subject to order	30 00
Bear creek road (left fork) subject to order	25 00
Road from Folly run to Jos. Paugh's, subject to order	15 00
J. W. Harvey, subject to order	15 00
Christopher Koch, subject to order	15 00
James H. Wilson, subject to order	10 00
James Lish, subject to order	10 00
J. B. Friend, subject to order	10 00
Jos. Glotfelty, subject to order	10 00
	$1,921 73

MISCELLANEOUS ACCOUNT.

Dr. W. H. Ravenscraft, health officer, use Garrett County Bank	$100 00
Same, expenses to Bloomington	5 00
Same, physician to jail	100 00
W. L. Shaffer, services rendered Anna M. Gray, use Garrett County Bank	20 00
Thos. Harne, hauling, &c	3 75
Edward Parker, estimate to clean water closets at jail, sub. to order	100 00
Dixon & Kelso, goods furnished jail	11 85
The Oakland Electric Co., light	86 90
D. E. Offutt & Sons, electric lamps	5 25
A. G. Sturgiss, stationery and medicine for paupers	125 05
Paul & Falconer Co., blank books, &c	40 10
Wm. F. Murphy Sons Co., blank books	29 50
A. D. Naylor & Co., repairs at jail, &c	11 70
A. D. Naylor, repairs at jail and road machine	34 90
Geo. O. Miller, lumber, &c., for jail	6 09
J. H. Mediary & Co., blank books and stationery	90 63
J. M. Davis & Son, supplies furnished jail and court house	21 05
G. A. Shirer, repairs for stoves	3 75
Garrett County Telephone Co., use of line	10 00
Andrew J. Harne, digging pauper graves	8 50
Jos. E. Harned, medicine for paupers	33 90
M. W. Pendergast, expenses to Pa. to identify prisoners	13 60
Dr. H. W. McComas, pauper patients in hospital	230 00
John Scally, repairs at jail	1 75
D. E. Bolden, repairs at court house and coffins for paupers	92 50
S. L. Townshend & Son, supplies, &c., for jail	58 14
W. D. Collier, boarding prisoners	6 00
Geo. Geissman, coal for court house and jail	201 35
Dr. W. H. Ravenscraft, vital statistic returns	45 60
Total	$1,496 84

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE.

Estimate for County Commissioners	$800 00
A. G. Ross, clerk, balance	400 00
E. H. Sincell, attorney, use First National Bank	150 00
Wm. H. Walker, janitor, subject to order	200 00
Total	$1,550 00

ATTORNEYS' FEES.

F. A. Thayer, State's attorney	$828 86
Thomas J. Peddicord, 1 felony and 5 misdemeanors	26 66
Julius C. Renninger, 1 felony	10 00
Gilmor S. Hamill, ¾ felony and 1 misdemeanor	8 33
Edward H. Sincell, 1½ felony	15 00
Total	$888 85

TAXES IN ERROR.

W. C. Jones	$3 67
L. A. Rudisill	1 95
W. W. Broadwater	3 04
Total	$8 66

FOX AND CAT CERTIFICATES.

Estimate to pay same	$350 00

CONSTABLE FEES.

J. W. Schroyer, district No. 5, use Garrett County Bank	$1 50
C. H. Liston, district No. 2, use First National Bank	6 40
Doyle Burton (special) district No. 8, use Benj. H. Sincell	2 50
James Chisholm, district No. 8	29 00
Levi Echard, district No. 7	55 45
Samuel Peck, district No. 6	2 88
Jos. Glass, district No. 1	20 65
Geo. Geissman, district No. 14	6 90
Total	$125 28

MAGISTRATE FEES.

A. S. Teats, district No. 7	$11 85
Edward J. Hamill, district No. 13	4 60
Andrew B. Gonder, district No. 14	117 90
Peter Nathan, district No. 3	7 10
D. W. Fraker, district No. 6	2 80
Total	$144 25

OUTSIDE PENSIONERS.

Aaron Pritts, services rendered Hannah Spiker	$15 00
Jacob Beman, support Elizabeth Spiker, subject to order	25 00
Jacob Peck, support Theo. Simon, subject to order	25 00
Josephus Ferguson, support Catharine Strawser, subject to order	25 00
W. C. Jones, support Woods child, subject to order	25 00
Harry Leathan, support Wm. Bittinger, subject to order	25 00
Samuel Meese, support Henry Meese, subject to order	50 00
Caroline Frazee, support Ruth King, subject to order	85 00
Calvin H. Glotfelty, support Ester Glotfelty, subject to order	50 00
Amanda Moore, support of her helpless child, subject to order	12 00
George A. Bittinger, support Mary Durst, subject to order	40 00
Mariah Wabel, support of herself, subject to order	50 00
Estimate to pay same	200 00
Total	$627 00

ALMSHOUSE AND ASYLUM FUND.

Estimate for 1901	$1,200 00

MARYLAND HOSPITAL.

Estimate for 1901	$600 00

CORONERS' INQUESTS.

Body of W. A. Daily.

John T. Browning, juror	$1 00
John Shartzer, juror	1 00
Austin Brown, juror	1 00
John G. Robinson, juror	1 00
John T. Sincell, juror	1 00
E. J. Fringer, juror	1 00
Geo. D. White, juror	1 00
J. O. Browning, juror	1 00
Chas. S. Davis, juror	1 00
Samuel Lawton, juror	1 00
John F. White, juror	1 00
John W. Hart, juror	1 00
Dr. W. H. Ravenscraft	10 00

Body of unknown infant found in Yough river.

Austin Brown, juror	1 00
Samuel Lawton, juror	1 00
R. A. Orcutt, juror	1 00
J. O. Michaels, juror	1 00
Geo. D. White, juror	1 00
John Scally, juror	1 00
W. D. Dixon, juror	1 00
John T. Sincell, juror	1 00
Joseph P. Helbig, juror	1 00
Wm. Whorton, juror	1 00
James O. Cleveland, juror	1 00
Joseph M. Crim, juror	1 00
Jake Morrison, witness	33
Dr. M. C. Hinebaugh	5 00
Dr. J. E. Legge	5 00
Total	$44 33
Estimate to pay State witnesses before Justices of the Peace	$150 00

COUNTY TREASURER'S OFFICE.

Wm. M. Lohr, commission on State tax	$236 20
Same, commission on county tax	1,041 75
Same, 110 assessments	55 00
Total	$1,332 95
Contingent fund	$2,959 45

RECAPITULATION.

General Road Levy	$9,355 00
Corporations	1,030 00
Public School Bonds	1,000 00
Clerk of Circuit Court	1,514 94
Court Fund	3,607 50
Orphans' Court	602 65
Sheriff's Office	2,242 20
Public Schools	14,000 00
Public Printing and Publishing	1,090 00
Election Expenses	2,928 08
New Roads	278 00
Bridge Account	1,000 00
Special Road Appropriations	1,921 73
Miscellaneous Account	1,496 84
Commissioners' Office	1,550 00
Attorneys' Fees	888 85
Taxes in Error	8 66
Fox and Cat Certificates	350 00
Constable Fees	125 28
Magistrate Fees	144 25
Outside Pensioners	627 00
Almshouse and Asylum Fund	1,200 00
Maryland Hospital	600 00
Coroners' Inquests	44 33
Estimate to pay State Witnesses	150 00
County Treasurers' Office	1,332 95
Contingent Fund	2,959 45
Total	$52,087 71

To pay this amount it was ascertained that the taxable property as shown by the assessment books amounts to $7,234,405, which at 72 cents on the $100, will make the above amount for county purposes—$52,087.71. Deducting $287,199.00 for corporations paying direct to State treasurer, leaves the basis $6,947,206, at 17 cents on each $100 makes $11,-810.25, and this added makes the taxes for State and county purposes $63,897.96.

A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

House Burned.

The house of Cornelius Johnson, an old soldier, who resided near the mouth of Deep Creek along the Yough river, was burned on Saturday afternoon last about five o'clock. The fire was caused by a defective flue. Nothing was saved from the building except a few bed clothes. The family consists of Mr. Johnson, his wife and one unmarried daughter. Mr. Johnson receives a pension of $12 per month from the government—his only source of income, his health being such that he is unable to perform manual labor.

Brakeman Injured.

Yesterday afternoon a freight brakeman named Irons, of Cumberland, was knocked from his train at the station here by the pen stock. He was leaning from one of the cars of his train examining a hot box when he was struck on the head as above stated. The blow knocked him off the car, rendering him unconscious. He was picked up and taken to the McComas Hospital where his injuries were examined and dressed by Dr. Legge. Besides numerous cuts on his head his right arm was more or less injured.

Hurt at Crellin.

D. A. Vaughn, employed by the Preston Lumber and Coal Company at Crellin as conductor on the company's train, attempted to couple a car Monday when his hand was caught between the bumpers and seriously mashed. Dr. McComas treated him at the hospital here.

Biliousness is a condition characterized by a disturbance of the digestive organs. The stomach is debilitated, the liver torpid, the bowels constipated. There is a loathing of food, pains in the bowels, dizziness, coated tongue and vomiting, first of the undigested or partly digested food and then of bile. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets allay the disturbances of the stomach and create a healthy appetite. They also tone up the liver to a healthy action and regulate the bowels. Try them and you are are certain to be much pleased with the result. For sale by all druggists.

Try the new remedy for costiveness, Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Every box guaranteed. Price, 25 cents. For sale by all druggists.

THE REPUBLICAN.

BENJ. H. SINCELL. Publisher.

OAKLAND, : GARRETT CO., MD.

A BLIGHT THAT BLOSSOMED

By Elizabeth Pullen.

THAT winter it was the fad in a certain clique of young girls to take lessons in singing from M. Anatole Fleury. He was very elegant, almost too handsome, with great black eyes that seemed to express a whole past, and a mustache whose pensive droop was due either to disillusions or to artistic waxing. He had a delicious baritone, of what might be called "parlor-organ" size, and a trick of singing exclusively to any number of feminine individuals at once. He was rather amiable, or he could not have tolerated the vocalization of some of his pupils. Upon his left wrist he wore a slender gold circlet, padlocked. The girls wished that they had the key to that romantic mystery, when his fine linen cuff, pushed back in playing their accompaniments, displayed the bracelet. He declared that now—one thrilled to imagine what an abyss of grief the "now" might indicate!—now he lived only for art. This, however, did not prevent his asking and receiving prices equal to those of that noble ex-prima donna, Signora Stella, and of that expert discoverer and developer of voices, Mr. Bass, lately of London—to them very sincere compliments!

Among the best pupils of M. Fleury were Alice Broughton and Lily Vansittart, both extremely pretty, and both singing with great good will—Alice in a full but breath-clouded contralto, Lily in the thin-and-clear-horn-of-elfland type of North America high soprano. Naturally, Alice fancied herself in dramatic selections; while Lily had aspirations toward vocal feats on the high trapeze. Both were only daughters. Lily's father was rated at two millions of dollars; Alice's at three millions. Now you know which is the heroine of the story.

Alice, in fact, had two admirers—M. Anatole Fleury and her second cousin, young Fred Millard, assistant to that famous and dear old practitioner, Dr. —— Pardon! The name is lost in the ink bottle—pray supply that of your family physician, the foremost in New York

Before the advent of M. Fleury Cousin Fred had had a very good time; he, however, ought to have comprehended that Alice liked him too much to love him. There lacked the romance of perspective in their cousinly courtship. Their parents would have been well pleased if the young people had wished to marry.

Alice, accepting the subtly indicated devotion of M. Fleury, was yet not without anxieties. For Lily had a tormenting way of telling the praises given by the teacher to her light soprano, topless, a real Eiffel tower of notes in alt. But the cloud was dissipated when, during Alice's hour—11 to 12 Tuesdays and Fridays—he told her that the depths of sentiment, the tones that vibrate from and to the heart, were reserved for the grand contralto register.

"A voice of soprano, a thread of silver strung with pearls if you will—touches it the soul? Ah non! To make weep, one must have tears in the voice, the beautiful voice of the chest!"

And Alice felt herself consoled. In short, master and pupil were spinning a perfect idyl. Until one day Alice's mamma—who, though not understanding the rapid, conversational French, was always present at the lessons, as a dutiful chaperon ought to be—was called for a moment out of the room. She reentered so softly—being a graceful, light-footed creature, in some ways her daughter's junior—that her step was unheard. What a sight! M. Anatole Fleury on his knees, kissing with rapture the hand of Alice. "Mon ange! Ma belle fiancee!"

Tableau. Then exit M. Fleury by the street door; exit mamma, driving Alice before her upstairs. "I don't know what your father will say, Alice!"

If he was like the usual American father, he left his wife to do the most of the talking. But Alice was forbidden to see again M. Fleury or to hold any communication with him. The only alleviation of her lot was that the Frenchman was accustomed to pass every day at three in the afternoon, on the opposite side of the street, on the way to the club where he had been put up by some good-natured papa or brother of a pupil. But this would be little comfort; for Alice had given her word, and she was a loyal creature. Nothing could be done, she thought, as in solitude and despair she sat in her own room, all a bower of tender green and peach-flower silk hangings.

Then the idea, sublimely juvenile in its tragedy, emerged from her sorrowful mind. She could die! It is only in later years that we learn that life is not to be turned off at will, like a gaslight. She would die! And how? Very simply. A rapid pneumonia, a lingering consumption—either would make a touching end. She imagined it all, with her exuberant young fantasy; and sang, transposing the key to F minor, the sobbing staccato adieu in which the poor violetta regrets the smiling dreams of her past.

Then Alice went into her dressing-room and plunged her feet, with the dainty stockings of black silk and lace insertion, in hot water. Then running back to the larger room, tracking with wet footprints the pink-and-green carpet, she pushed an armchair near to a window, opened the sash, seated herself and, favored by the winter twilight, raised those charming and soaked extremities to the sill, laid back her head and closed her eyes to take, literally, her death of cold. There she sat for a long time, weaving who knows what wild dreams of love and death, until she could bear the chill no more. After which she rose, made a careful toilet, and went downstairs to dine with her parents and some guests. In fact, the Millard family. She was even more than usual gay, gentle, desirous to please everyone—proudly cherishing her secret of suicide.

But fate willed to make her ridiculous. The next morning, indeed, she felt the ill effects of the mad exposure. And how? Oh realism, what crimes against the poetic are committed in thy name! Truly, neither more nor less than a cold in the head; one of those colds which are a symphony in sneezes; when the eyes weep on their own account; when the lips are tumid and parched and apart, because one must breathe through the mouth if at all; the nose—and Alice's was charming, a delicate, thoroughbred little nose—becomes red, swollen, shapeless, unremittingly importunate in its demands for attention. What a state for a heroine! Figure to yourself the Tragic Muse with the snuffles! Poor Alice was utterly desolate. She detested her good lungs of a vigorous contralto, which had resisted the cold damps of the winter twilight; she hated still more the weak little nose that had succumbed. By force of habit she went, a few minutes before three, to watch for the passing of her dear Anatole. At the supreme moment her feelings got the better of her caution; she leaned forward to look at him; he glanced up, saw her and bowed. Then a derisive smile curled his mustache; his shoulders gave a true Parisian shrug, very expressive.

"MON ANGE! MON BELLE FIANCEE!"

Alice shuddered into a forlorn little heap; he had seen her so disfigured; that horrible nose had ended everything! Otherwise, at least he might have loved her. But how could he be expected to carry forever in his heart the image of that inflamed face? She had not been able to kill herself—only his love! Alice ran to the mirror, assured herself she was frightful, and wept bitterly.

Now appeared her mother, very tender to her ailing child, with Cousin Fred, who had answered a summons in place of his principal, out of town on an important consultation. It is possible that Cousin Fred understood something of the state of affairs. "How did you take your cold, Alice?" he inquired.

"I took it on purpose—there!" she burst forth. "Everybody is cruel. Let me die!"

"Impossible to oblige you, my dear little cousin. There is but one similar case on record where the patient died of sneezing, and his head had been previously sliced off with so sharp a sword that he didn't know it until he exploded a sneeze and his head flew across the room. You, my good Alice, have an acute coryza, which, being interpreted, is a bad cold in the head; and I suspect that the larynx, pharynx and epiglottis—in fact, the whole Latin quarter of your throat—may also be somewhat involved. But you will soon get over it. We get over all sorts of things, you know," said the young doctor, with an affectionate common sense which made Alice feel a little less forlorn.

The next day this assiduous physician came again, bringing a box of marshmallow caramels and the latest bit of gossip—the elopement the evening before of M. Anatole Fleury and Miss Lily Vansittart. A telegram had been received from the pair, wedded in New Jersey; Lily's father, in order to give the best appearance to the affair, had allowed it to be reported at once at the club. Alice blamed bitterly, in her heart, her impossible nose as the cause of the sudden defection of her adorer. "How could he?" she exclaimed, involuntarily.

"Why not?" rejoined Cousin Fred, cheerfully. "Sweet little soprano pipe, beautiful girl!"—

"Oh, do you think her so? To me she is hardly pretty."

"Prospective heiress of two millions. Come, M. Fleury, the humbug, has not done so badly for himself."

"I wish that he may have! He is detestable. And she, too!"

"However, the ultimate destiny of M. and Mme. Fleury need not concern us. Let us think of ourselves, Alice dear."

"How, ourselves?"

"Think whether you could care for the cousin who has always loved you and told you so as often as you would let him. Think, Alice, and tell me if you will be my wife."

"But I am so hideous! Look at my nose, Fred!"

"To me the dear little nose appears just now like a red beacon of hope. I will steer by it as long as I live."

According to classic legend, it was a fortunate omen for lovers when "Cupid sneezed from left to right." Somebody sneezed at that moment; it may have been Cupid, more probably it was Alice.

But young Dr. Millard and his wife have been happy ever since.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

Over $1,000,000 worth of Sumatra tobacco was imported from Holland into this country during the quarter ending September 30, 1900.

During the past year several remarkable reefs of fossil coral have been explored near Bainbridge, on the Flint river, in Georgia.

The meteorite which fell at Porto Alegre, Brazil, has now been measured, and the results are most astonishing. It measures 56 feet from the base and is 85 feet high.

A new cotton ginning machine enables two men to gin 4,000 pounds daily, and under the old system they could turn out less than a hundredth part in the same amount of time.

A marked rise in the level of the Dead sea has been noted. A broad lagoon has been formed on the north side of the Jordan delta. The water does not sink in summer, and it is surmised that the whole bottom of the Dead sea has been raised by volcanic action.

There exist in Mexico 10,234 mining titles to 25 different classes of mines distributed throughout 26 states and territories. Silver mines naturally lead, numbering 4,109. Gold mines number 958, while 2,220 are classed as gold and silver mines. The silver and lead properties number 1,510, copper 286, and mercury 113.

A submarine electric arc light will soon be experimented with to aid in the sponge fishery off the coast of Florida. At present, the sponges are obtained only from a comparatively small depth, as the sponge fishers at present can only see to a limited distance by the aid of a water glass, and if this distance could be increased, larger areas would immediately be opened up where sponges have been growing unmolested for years.

CITIES THAT GO ASTRAY.

Thirty-Three Lost Towns in the Old World That Have Been Recently Reclaimed.

The closing years of the nineteenth century were marked with many notable achievements in archaeology. On the site of ancient Ilium, on the plains of Persia, and in the mystery-haunted valley of the Nile reverent hands unveiled the long-hidden secrets of the past and added a wondrous illumination to our knowledge of the very dawn of history. In such a work it is gratifying to record that American bounty and enterprise and scholarship played a most honorable part, this youngest of the world's nations being foremost in making acquaintance with the relics of the oldest, says a London exchange.

Forty years ago Marquis De Vogue discovered that in that part of Syria lying back of the Antioch traces of an ancient civilization of a high order. He was able, however, to gain only a peep into the marvelous volume written in mighty monuments amid the desert sands. It was left for American enterprise in the last two years of the century to fully unfold the ample pages for the amazement and instruction of the world. No less than 33 long forgotten cities have been discovered and identified, some of them with architectural remains of surpassing grandeur and of exceptional interest as expositions of the civilization and the social order that there prevailed.

The admirable workmanship of ancient times and the climatic conditions of those desert uplands have served to keep these cities from decay, so that they stand there to-day substantially as they were 1,200 years ago, and the camera to-day lays before us scenes upon which Zenobia may have looked and across which Belisarius may have swept in triumph. The story is one that reflects high credit upon the American explorers who did the work, and upon the four Americans whose names are yet modestly withheld, whose generous bounty supplied the means through which alone the doing of the work was possible.

Unfair Proceedings.

Mr. Alonzo Columbus Jefferson has been much interested in a trial for murder which was being held in the city of his birth. On the day before the trial ended he met his pastor on the street.

"I suppose you'll feel it your duty and pleasure to go to the courtroom to-morrow," said the minister, who knew his parishioner's excitement over the matter. "I should like to be present on that occasion myself. It is conjecturable, Mr. Jefferson, that the judge's charge to the jury will be something extraordinary."

"Sah," gasped Mr. Jefferson, his mind emerging from its entanglement in the mysteries suggested by unfamiliar words, "does you mean to tell me dat after de time dose pore jury gen'lemen hab set in dat co't-room, sah, an' tried to keep awake an' go hungry, an' listen to all dat evidence, true an' sp-subburious, sah, dat dey's going to be a scharge made, an' dey got to pay it?

"Seems to me," said Mr. Jefferson, rolling his eyes heavenward with a pious but learned expression, "dat justice is a mighty 'spensive an' onreasonable business; it does so, sah!" —Youth's Companion.

A Perfect Ass.

The late Dean Burrgon caught himself one day when talking of the nature of man as distinct from the lower orders of creation. "Man," he declared, "is a progressive being; the others are stationary. Think, for example, of the ass! Always and everywhere it is the same creature, and you never saw and never will see a more perfect ass than you see at the present moment!" — Philadelphia Press.

THE BEST HE EVER SAW.

A Missourian Pronounces on the Farming Possibilities of Western Canada.

Just at present considerable interest is being aroused in the fact that a few new districts (of limited acreage) are being opened out by the Canadian Government in Saskatchewan and Assiniboia (Western Canada), and any information concerning this country is eagerly sought. Mr. W. R. Corser, of Higginsville, Lafayette Co., Mo., was a delegate there during last summer, and writing of his impressions he says:

"I found surprising yields of grain of all descriptions. One farmer I visited threshed of 175 acres:

"600 bushels of wheat from 15 acres, 40 bushels to acre.
"600 bushels of barley from 10 acres, 60 bushels to acre.
"15,000 bushels of oats from 150 acres, 100 bushels to acre.
"The samples were all No. 1.
"I also saw a considerable number of stock. Swine do well and there is no disease amongst them. They are a good source of income to the farmer. The cattle on the range beat anything I ever saw. Fat and ready for beef, fully matured and ripened on the nutritious grasses of the prairie. I am firmly convinced that this country offers better facilities for a poor man than any I have ever seen."

Information concerning these lands can be had from any agent of the government, whose advertisement appears elsewhere.

HER BABY BOY.

The One Suggestion That Struck the Boer Woman's Heart and She Showed It.

At a prosperous Boer farmhouse where Gen. Ian Hamilton requested shelter for the night, a bedroom and parlor were placed at his disposal, says the Youth's Companion. This was not very enthusiastically done, but at that no one could wonder. The general began talking with the old lady of the family, the farmer's wife.

He spoke through an interpreter, and her answers were given with so little grace that he relinquished the task. Only once had her stern face lighted; this was when he asked about her youngest fighting son, a boy of 14. Her lips quivered; emotion was not really frozen within her.

Next day the general had occasion to ride past the farm, and he called, for a moment, upon her.

"Tell her," said he to the interpreter, "that we have won the battle to-day."

They told her, and she bowed her head with some dignity.

"Tell her the Dutch will certainly be beaten.

No answer.

"Perhaps her sons will be taken prisoners.

Still no reply.

"Now, tell her to write down on a piece of paper the name of the youngest, and give it to my aide-de-camp. Then, when he is captured, she must write to me, and we will not keep him a prisoner. We will send him back to her.

At last her face broke into emotion. The chord had been struck.

Children Should Be Taught Thrift.

A savings bank account is a great incentive to thrift in children. If one is begun for the baby, even with a very small sum, and added to through childhood and youth with a certain proportion of the money that otherwise would be spent carelessly and thoughtlessly by the child, there will be a very respectable amount on the credit side of the ledger when the depositor is 18 years old. The habit of self-denial is not the least of the substantial benefits that follow a wise economy of money.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

"Here, young fellow, I'll give you a nickel if you'll go in and tell your sister that I'm here waiting for her!" "And what'll you give me if I won't tell dad?"—Heitere Welt.

Extra Inducement.

The Merchants' Review tells this story on a drummer for an Ithaca grocery house: The grocer recently sent out an energetic young man to canvass for new customers. He worked hard for the interests of his employer, and also somewhat wearied the good housewives whom he called upon. At one house he used up his whole line of argument and gasped for more, as the lady of the house still said she was perfectly satisfied with her regular grocer. Then a happy thought struck him, and he said: "Mrs. Jones, I wouldn't for the world say anything against the grocer you patronize, but let me ask you if you think he cares anything for you except your money? Do you think he intends to plant roses on your grave? Now, you just trade with my firm, and I guarantee they will give you entire satisfaction."

Best for All Concerned.

Comedy—I noticed you in the audience last night. What did you think of my part?

Criteek—It suited you.

"What did you think was the best thing I got off?"

"The stage."—Philadelphia Press.

Hardened to It.

"It is said of Stumper, the politician, who was shipwrecked on a desert island, that he never flinched when the cannibals put him in the fire."

"Of course, he didn't. Wasn't he used to being roasted?"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

A Poor Exhibition.

Stranger—The citizens must have felt very bad when they discovered they had lynched the wrong man.

Native—Terrible! Why, the man we strung up couldn't put up half the fight the real cuss could.—Chicago Daily News.

Somewhat Different.

Judge—Did I understand you to say that you consider the character of the defendant unimpeachable?

Witness—No, your honor. I said I considered it unbleachable. — Chicago Daily News.

The Difference.

Little Clarence—Pa, what is the difference between a professional and an amateur?

Mr. Callipers—Why, one does it because he has to, and the other because he doesn't have to.—Puck.

Change of Climate.

This is often necessary for those whose health is undermined, or whose blood is rendered impure by disease or unsanitary conditions. The following letter from Hannah G. Patten, of Cincinnati, Ohio, shows how it was unnecessary in her case. She wrote: "Palmer's Lotion has cured me of an exceedingly annoying and unsightly eruption from which I could obtain no relief, my physicians having recommended a change of climate as the only probable remedy." If your druggist does not have it, send to Solon Palmer, 374 Pearl Street, New York, for samples of Palmer's Lotion and Lotion Soap, which will be sent to you without delay.

On the Gas Man.

Bobbs—There goes a fellow who makes extravagant statements.

Dobbs—He looks respectable. Who is he?

"I don't know his name. He writes our gas bills."—Baltimore American.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. Cheney & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

A Play on Words.

Tess—I see a notice in the paper of the wedding of Mrs. Nubride.

Jess—Yes, I know her very well.

"Do you? What was her maiden name?"

"I suppose her maiden aim was to get married."—Philadelphia Press.

Remember the Date—July 6 to 10.

The above is the time of the annual meeting of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, at Cincinnati, Ohio. The Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern Railway has issued a handsome souvenir map and guide to Cincinnati which will be of much interest and value to all who contemplate a visit to the Queen City on the occasion mentioned. The map shows the principal churches, suburbs, resorts, railroads, street car lines, etc. This souvenir may be obtained from agents of the B. & O. S.-W. Ry., or direct from O. P. McCarty, G. P. A., Cincinnati.

One Good Thing.

"There is one good thing about this classical music," remarked Mr. Meddergrass. "You can start or stop anywhere you want to without spoiling the sense of the piece."—Baltimore American.

There Is a Class of People

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

Upon the advice of her "best friend," an Atchison woman discharged her hired girl for impudence. The "best friend" then hired the girl herself. The two women no longer speak.—Atchison Globe.

To California Cheaply and Comfortably.

Tourist sleeping car leaves Kansas City 9:05 p. m. every Tuesday via Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway; runs through without change to San Francisco, via Ft. Worth, San Antonio and Los Angeles. Sleeper rate, $5.00. Ticket rate Tuesdays in March and April, from Kansas City, $25.00. Forget not that it runs Tuesday, being date of sale of the low rate tickets.

Towne—"Poor Jagsby! How did he get down so low?" Browne—"Through his fondness for having a high old time."—Philadelphia Press.

Spring Cleaning Made Easy.

Much of the terror of spring cleaning may be avoided by good management. Settled weather should be selected for the work, and everything necessary provided beforehand. Ivory Soap will be found best for washing paints, floors and windows; it is harmless, and effective in making the house clean and fresh. ELIZA R. PARKER.

Tit for Tat.—He—"Such togs! Now a man never makes himself ridiculous." She—"He doesn't need to. Nature did that."—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

You Can Get Allen's Foot-Ease FREE.

Write to-day to Allen S. Olmsted, Leroy, N. Y., for a FREE sample of Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder to shake into your shoes. It cures chilblains, sweating, damp, swollen, aching feet. It makes New or tight shoes easy. A certain cure for Corns and Bunions. All druggists and shoe stores sell it. 25c.

"Going to get an automobile this spring?" "No." "Why not? Can't you afford it?" "Oh, yes. But I can't afford to let my wife know I can afford it."—Town Topics.

Coughing Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam will stop the Cough at once. Go to your druggist to-day and get a sample bottle free. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents. Go at once; delays are dangerous.

Some men rise in the world because they are light weight.—Ram's Horn.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund money if it fails to cure. 25c.

Wedlock often turns out to be a padlock.—Chicago Daily News.

Dyspepsia is the bane of the human system. Protect yourself against its ravages by the use of Beeman's Pepsin Gum.

Mistakes are the milestones in a man's life.—Chicago Daily News.

Don't Neglect a Cough. Take Some Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar instanter. Pike's Toothache Drops Cure in one minute.

In business three things are necessary: Knowledge, temper and time.—Feltham.

Lane's Family Medicine.

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

As She Understood It.

Boston Girl—Have you read Emerson?

St. Louis Girl—No, I guess not. Those red spots on my face are just common pimples.—Colorado Weekly Times.

Begin with the Baby

and give Hoxsie's Croup Cure for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and Pneumonia, go through the family ending with the grandmother.

"There are two acts yet," said the usher to the man who rather hastily started out of the theater. "I know. That's just the reason I'm leaving."—Philadelphia Times.

Piso's Cure is the best medicine we ever used for all affections of the throat and lungs.—Wm. O. Endsley, Vanburen, Ind., Feb. 10, 1900.

The individual who sits down and waits for the world to appreciate him will discover after the race that he was left at the post.—Chicago Daily News.

DO YOU FEEL LIKE THIS?

Pen Picture for Women.

"I am so nervous, there is not a well inch in my whole body. I am so weak at my stomach and have indigestion horribly, and palpitation of the heart, and I am losing flesh. This headache and backache nearly kills me, and yesterday I nearly had hysterics; there is a weight in the lower part of my bowels bearing down all the time, and pains in my groins and thighs; I cannot sleep, walk, or sit, and I believe I am diseased all over; no one ever suffered as I do."

This is a description of thousands of cases which come to Mrs. Pinkham's attention daily. An inflamed and ulcerated condition of the neck of the womb can produce all of these symptoms, and no woman should allow herself to reach such a perfection of misery when there is absolutely no need of it. The subject of our portrait in this sketch, Mrs. Williams of Englishtown, N.J., has been entirely cured of such illness and misery by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the guiding advice of Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass.

MRS. JOHN WILLIAMS.

No other medicine has such a record for absolute cures, and no other medicine is "just as good." Women who want a cure should insist upon getting Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when they ask for it at a store. Anyway, write a letter to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and tell her all your troubles. Her advice is free.

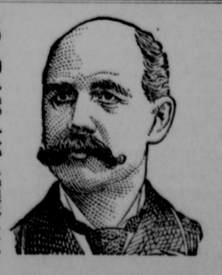
WHY GET SOAKED WHEN TOWER'S TRADE MARK FISH BRAND SLICKER BLACK OR YELLOW WILL KEEP YOU DRY IN THE HARDEST STORM!
ON SALE EVERYWHERE. LOOK FOR ABOVE TRADE MARK. BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. CATALOGUES FREE.
SHOWING FULL LINE OF GARMENTS AND HATS.
A. J. TOWER CO., BOSTON, MASS.

WHY WALK HOME?
When a tire punctures it generally happens ten miles from anywhere.
Therefore, what you want is a tire that you can repair anywhere.
That's the G & J. It's made detachable so you can get at the tube and apply a patch exactly on the punctured spot. No uncertainty about that kind of a repair.
For scorcher or comfort-seeker it's the only tire.
G & J TIRE COMPANY, Indianapolis, Ind.

In 3 or 4 Years an Independence Is Assured
160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE
If you take up your homes in Western Canada, the land of plenty. Illustrated pamphlets, giving experiences of farmers who have become wealthy in growing wheat, reports of delegates, etc., and full information as to reduced railway rates can be had on application to the Undersigned, who will mail you atlases, pamphlets, etc., free of cost. F. PEDLEY, Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada; M. V. McINNES, No. 2 Merrill Blk., Detroit, Mich.; E. T. HOLMES, Room 6, Big Four Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind. Special excursions to Western Canada during March and April.

PILES ANAKESIS gives instant relief and POSITIVELY CURES PILES. For free sample address "ANAKESIS," Tribune building, New York.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3 & $3.50 SHOES UNION MADE.
The real worth of my $3.00 and $3.50 shoes compared with other makes is $4.00 to $5.00. My $4.00 Gilt Edge Line cannot be equalled at any price. Best in the world for men.
I make and sell more men's fine shoes, Goodyear Welt (Hand-Sewed Process), than any other manufacturer in the world. I will pay $1,000 to any one who can prove that my statement is not true. (Signed) W. L. Douglas.
Take no substitute! Insist on having W. L. Douglas shoes with name and price stamped on bottom. Your dealer should keep them; I give one dealer exclusive sale in each town. If he does not keep them and will not get them for you, order direct from factory, enclosing price and 25c. extra for carriage. Over 1,000,000 satisfied wearers. New Spring Catalog free.
Fast Color Eyelets used exclusively. W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.



TWELVE THOUSAND BARRELS.

A few days ago a gentleman pointed out a bonded warehouse to me, and remarked that it contained 12,000 barrels of whisky. I began to think:

12,000 barrels of liquid woe,
Breeding anguish in its flow;
12,000 barrels of hell on earth,
Cursing the day of many a birth;
12,000 barrels of frenzied mind,
Scorning the laws of human kind;
12,000 barrels of blind deceit,
Snaring the paths of youthful feet;
12,000 barrels of sisters' tears
Rolling down through coming years;
12,000 barrels of brother's blight,
12,000 barrels of stormiest night;
12,000 barrels of heaviest sighs,
12,000 barrels of broken ties;
12,000 barrels of cunning lies,
12,000 barrels of orphans' cries;
12,000 barrels of pressing cares,
12,000 barrels o. widows' tears;
12,000 barrels made of staves,
12,000 barrels of drunkard's graves;
12,000 barrels of intense pain,
12,000 barrels of terror's reign;
12,000 barrels of impure thoughts,
12,000 barrels of broken hearts;
12,000 barrels of honor vain,
12,000 barrels of blackest stain;
12,000 barrels of bloody knives,
12,000 barrels of ruined lives;
12,000 barrels of—I'll say—well,
12,000 barrels of death and hell.

—Rev. U. G. Foote, in Holiness Review.

MARIA.

A True Incident Which Shows the Power of Love in Reclaiming a Slave to Drink.

It was only a simple story told in a simple way, yet the earnest truth of it stirred and stayed with me many a day.

I heard the old man cutting the grass and remembering I had promised him some papers to read I hurried downstairs just in time to hear him inquiring for me.

"Good morning, miss. A pleasant day, and you are busy with your pen as I am with my 'cutter.' Well, well, there is much to do everywhere. You are doing a grand work and I was thinking just now of a young lady who helped, too. It is a good many years ago, but I heard the other day her reward has come."

"I'LL TAKE HER UP THIS TIME."

"Tell me about your friend," I said. "I can rest while listening, and you can, too, while telling me the story."

The old man seated himself and began:

"Ah, I can see her now," said he. "Miss Julia was a beautiful girl. God had blessed her in so many ways. The lines had fallen to her in pleasant places. She was a trusty steward. Everybody loved her and never a day passed but she was doing a kindness.

"She lived with her mother and brother in the Woodleigh mansion. We called her mother Lady Bountiful. Please excuse me if I tell all this; it comes so plain to me."

"Go on," I said; "I am glad to hear of the lovely girl."

"Well," he continued, "I was the policeman—we didn't call it that then, but you'll understand better by that name—in our town. I saw so much sorrow as I went my rounds, mostly caused by the drink, the awful drink. Every time I look at your white ribbon I wish to goodness we had had in those days a W. C. T. U. in our town.

"There was a girl called Maria who would come in from the country. She was about 15 or 16 and real good looking. She lived with a farmer's family and was right smart in helping, except when she came to town. Then the drink would get her, and, poor thing, she would lie around, then sober up and go back with promises to do better. Do you know, miss, I just believe she got the love of liquor from her parents. Don't you study something about heredity in your society?"

"Yes," I replied, "we are making this subject a special one in our work, for we know many a child has come into the world stricken because of an inherited appetite."

"Oh," said he, "I wish folks had known this long ago, for Maria was a good girl but for the drink. One morning I was going my rounds and there in the gutter lay Maria. I was about to take her up and carry her off to the station house again, when down the steps ran Miss Julia, exclaiming, in excited tones: 'Oh, Mr. Stover, I'll take her up this time.'

"'No, Miss Julia,' said I, 'you couldn't do that. It's only Maria, and your fair hands are too pure to touch her.'

"'Well,' she replied, 'you have taken her up so many times and she falls again. Now she is right at our door and I want to try to help her.'

"I endeavored to persuade her not to attempt it, but she plead so earnestly, with such a kindly look in her beautiful eyes, that I finally carried Maria into the house and laid her on a bed in a clean, comfortable room. Just think of it, and she so dirty and drunk."

Here the old man stopped, wiped away a tear, then continued: "She was a king's daughter, for no one else would have done that.

"I cannot tell you the ins and outs, for it is too long, but for many a day Miss Julia watched by Maria, and when she came to herself she told her sad story—how she hated the drink but had no power to resist when she came in contact with it. She plead with Miss Julia to keep her and so she stayed in that sheltered home. There were many fierce battles. She told me about them, for I kept track of her; but with God's help and Miss Julia's patience and love—for it's love, miss, that does so much in this world—Maria was at last a free girl. Her place in the home was one of trust and help."

"I guess you were glad you yielded to Miss Julia's persuasion that day," said I.

"Indeed, I think I was," he continued. "It was the beginning of better days for Maria, and they have grown better all the time. She learned to read and write. Many times the call was: 'Where is Maria? she can do this or that.' The years went on, the mother passed to her heavenly home, the brother speculated and lost heavily; then trying times came to dear Miss Julia. The beautiful house was sold, luxuries became few, and finally the brother went into a far country. Miss Julia and Maria rented a tiny cottage and one kept house while the other filled a teacher's position. Faithfully Maria thought of the tender ways to lessen the burdens of Miss Julia. After a while—we all have our love chapters, don't we, miss?"—and the old man laughed heartily.

"So you have come to the point where Miss Julia met the prince, have you, and they all live happily afterwards?"

"Oh, no, no," he hastily answered, "not Miss Julia, for I tell you, miss, I never saw anyone quite good enough for her. She was a wonderfully good woman—and I thank God there are plenty more of them, too."

"So," I interrupted him, "you think wonderfully good women ought to have the same kind of husbands?"

"I certainly do," he said, as he rose to his feet, "but let me hurry on or I'll have to clip the grass pretty fast at the next place. Yes, yes; passing the house pretty often was a thrifty farmer, and it wasn't long before he asked Maria to share his home. They were married in a real pleasant fashion and Miss Julia was welcomed to Maria's home. I heard last week that now she teaches Maria's children, and oh, how they love her! Do you wonder, miss, she is having such a reward with the thought of lifting one life from the awful drink? God bless you, and all the others, too, who are trying to do the same. I'll read the papers and pass them on to the other folks. Good-by; I hope I haven't wearied you, but somehow I couldn't help telling you about Miss Julia."

The old man went slowly out of the gate, and as I returned to my desk I thought:

I'll pass it on to cheer some heart,
That others, too, may take a part;
To lift and lend a helping hand,
To save the girls in our fair land.

—H. Frances Jones, in Union Signal.

HIS TOAST OF DEATH.

Charles Koons in a Joking Way Takes an Ounce of Carbolic Acid While Drunk.

"Say, fellows, I want to give you a toast," said the short, stocky man who stood unsteadily at the bar in Rosen's hotel.

"Well, let's have it, Charlie," said one of the half dozen men who lounged at the bar.

"Fill up their glasses," continued the first speaker, who was Charles Koons. "Those who don't like what I'm doing can go to h—l!"

Koons drained his glass to the bottom, and the others, heedless of his words, followed suit.

"That's my last drink," said Koons. A strange silence fell over the group. "It contained an ounce of carbolic acid, and might well be called an eye-closer," continued Koons.

"Oh, you'll be all right when you get something to steady your nerves, old fellow," said one of the group.

"Oh, yes, I'll be all right," muttered Koons, as he sank back to the floor.

A physician was hastily summoned, but his skill was not needed, for Koons had, indeed, taken his last drink. Just 20 minutes after drinking that toast he was dead.

Koons was 42 years old. He lived at Kingston with his wife and three children. He was prosperous and seemingly happy in his home until last week, when, it is said, he quarreled with his wife. Since that time he had been drinking heavily.—Scranton (Pa.) Cor. Philadelphia North American.

NOTES OF PROGRESS.

Camden, N. Y., has gone no license by 72 majority after the most exciting contest in the history of the town.

The governor of Missouri has signed the anti-slot machine bill, which prohibits the use of the machines in the state.

The South Dakota legislature has a bill under consideration which makes intoxication a misdemeanor, fixing the maximum penalty at $20.

Judge Townsend, of the United States court, has decided that incorporated cities and towns in the Indian Territory may pass an ordinance prohibiting the introduction and sale of intoxicating liquor within their corporate limits, but must limit the fine to $25, and in addition the offender makes himself amenable to the United States statutes, which make this offense a felony.

VICTIM OF ALCOHOL.

Booth, Slayer of Lincoln, Was a Confirmed Dipsomaniac.

His Great Crime the Most Potent Temperance Lecture That Has Been Written in the History of Our Nation.

[Special Washington Letter.]

IN THE house of representatives there is not a man to-day who was a member of that body when Abraham Lincoln was assassinated. Senator Stewart, of Nevada, now a member of the senate, was a senator on that occasion, and he is the only senator now serving there who was a senator when Booth's crime was committed. There is a man now in the senate who was a member of the house at that time—Senator Allison, of Iowa.

Recently there have been published in many daily newspapers stories and allegations concerning the disposal of the body of the assassin; some writers saying that Booth's body was never shown to the public, because the officials doubted whether it was indeed Booth who had been killed. The writer found in Louis Dietrich, an elderly gentleman who resided in this city for half a century, a man who refutes these stories. He said:

"I have seen such stories, too, as though the writers believed the nonsense about which they write. But I can tell you that I was one of the very few who actually did see and touch the dead body of the murderer. I knew Mr. Lincoln and I knew the man who slew him. Booth was better known in Washington than Lincoln. I mean, of course, known to the general public. The president was seen on some occasions, and his pictures were seen everywhere, but the people did not often see him. But Booth was seen on the stage of Ford's theater and upon the public streets.

He was usually in some barroom, for he was a hard drinker, almost a dipsomaniac; and if it had not been for the excessive use of brandy he might not have been able to nerve himself to do the dastardly deed, which he hoped would make him famous, but which only made him infamous. He was almost as eccentric as his father, who was in many respects a crazy man. The elder Booth would go and put his body in pawn for liquor, and the theatrical managers were obliged to hunt him up and pay the money which he owed for liquor, in order to get him on the stage.

"John Wilkes Booth was very eccentric and drank to excess every night. He was a noted pedestrian, constantly taking long walks, and everybody in the little city of that day knew him by sight. He was called 'a ladies' man,' always flirting with women on the avenue who would permit him to do so. He was no stranger to the people, and I certainly knew him well and saw him often.

"When his body was brought here on the gunboat I wanted to see him, although it was well-nigh impossible to get a chance. I thought of all manner of schemes to get on board, and at last went to my friend Dr. Todd, of the army, and asked him how I should get to see the body. He said: 'We are going to make a post-mortem examination to-morrow, in the afternoon. You come to the gunboat and tell the guards that you have a message for me. I will be on board and will tell the guard that I am expecting you, and order them to send you to me.' I did so, and was allowed to go on board. Just before the post-mortem examination Dr. Todd lifted the big tarpaulin which covered the body on the upper deck and showed me the face of the dead man. It was as calm and peaceful as a baby's, and it was the face of John Wilkes Booth, the assassin. It is all nonsense to say that he was not there. I knew him well, saw him and touched his head. It was cold and dead. It was Booth. I know what I know, and I saw the man lying there, cold in death. The gunboat was anchored between the arsenal and the navy yard, but nearer the yard than the arsenal."

LIFTING THE TARPAULIN.

"What was done with the body after the post-mortem examination I do not know. It was generally understood at that time that the body was buried in the old penitentiary ground, where the arsenal now is; where the bodies of the other conspirators were buried, near the place where occurred the executions of Harold, Payne, Atzerodt and Mrs. Surratt. My impression was, as everybody here believed, that Booth's body was disinterred, ten years later, and laid beside that of his father in the family burying ground, near Baltimore. But those are only impressions and beliefs. As I said before, I do not know what was done with the body. But I do know that it was the face of John Wilkes Booth that I saw and touched on the gunboat in the eastern branch of the Potomac that afternoon."

During the revolutionary war, and subsequent thereto, after the commission of his crime, the relatives of Benedict Arnold were ashamed of their kinship, and no member of that family has ever since desired to have the kinship known. During the period following the dastardily deed of the tragedian assassin no member of the Booth family felt free from the disgrace of his tragic act. Those now living and those of subsequent generations will avoid claim of kinship. Because of this natural family pride, which must exist in every family, the great exponent of Shakespeare's plays, Edwin Booth, never came to Washington for a public performance, nor in a private capacity as a visitor. Edwin

THE LAST FAREWELL.

Booth gave exhibitions of his great histrionic genius everywhere else, but he never saw the national capital after that awful crime was committed.

Mr. Dietrich spoke of the assassin as a crazy man, and said that his father before him was on the borderland of insanity. It may be well for us all to take that charitable view, and believe that the deed was that of an unevenly balanced mind. The narrator saw and knew Guiteau, the assassin of the lamented Garfield; and he was undoubtedly a crazy man. We may well believe that no sane man would commit such a deed in a republic like this, where escape from the consequences is impossible.

James C. Lindon, who has lived in Washington until his sands of life are running through the hour glass which indicates 83 years, says: "I have been a temperance man and an advocate of prohibition for 36 years, although I had been a drinking man during the first half-century of my life. I used to say that 'every man is responsible only to himself and his family when he takes a glass of whiskey.' I resented all of the works of the early temperance people; and I hated John B. Gough and all others who talked against saloons. I knew John Wilkes Booth well, and often drank with him. He was what 'we boys' regarded as 'a jolly good fellof,' because he treated oftener than others, and always spent his money so freely.

"But when he went into that saloon, adjoining Ford's theater, fully half a dozen times and maybe oftener, to get his glass of brandy in order to nerve himself to commit that crime, I saw the folly of all my theories of individual rights. I saw that the man who takes alcoholic poison is responsible to the community in which he lives, and to the nation of which he is a citizen. Then I gave up my ideas of private rights, and I learned the power and necessity of respecting public rights. The assassination of Lincoln would not have occurred but for that saloon."

This expression was surprising. The few words thus spoken constitute the best temperance lecture ever delivered. The greatest crime of the past century was committed by a drunkard. There are many drunkards who carry on their business, and are not known by that obnoxious word; but they are drunkards, just the same. They are able to sober up over night, and appear all right during business hours; just as the drunkard-actor appeared nightly before crowded theaters. But they are drunkards, and should be known as such in their several communities. This may seem harsh and uncharitable, but it is simply a statement of fact, and there is some man in every community to whom the characterization will aptly apply.

Senator Stewart, of Nevada, the only member of the present senate who was a senator when President Lincoln was assassinated, says: "I was the last man in public life who saw and talked with Lincoln, and I received the last line ever written by him. I called at the white house that Friday night and sent up my card. It was returned to me with the penciled lines: 'Call to-morrow. Am going to theater with my wife.' I had a friend with me who wanted to meet Lincoln, and we stood on the front portico a few minutes, when the president came out. I introduced my friend to the president and his wife, and went away. Inside of two hours I knew that he had been killed. I was awake all that night, and so was everybody else in this city."

SMITH D. FRY.

Crushed by a Heavy Man.

A colored woman in Atlanta, Ga., has brought suit against a street railroad company for $1,000 damages on account of a peculiar accident. She was seated in a crowded car, when the vehicle suddenly started. A fat man, weighing about 200 pounds, who was standing, grabbed at a strap, missed it and fell into the woman's lap, temporarily crushing the breath out of her.

Changeable.

Yeast—I can always tell what the weather is going to be by my wife.

Crimsonbeak—Indeed! Is she as fickle as that?—Yonkers Statesman.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

Many Americans learned at Paris for the first time that we produce wines in some grades equal to the best imported varieties.

All things green have a hardy growth in England. The garden hedge there is compact and beautiful—more so than in any windy country.

The letter carriers of Canada are paid $30 a month at the beginning, with an annual increase of $2.50 a month until the carrier receives $50 a month, or $600 a year. This is subject to deductions for superannuated account.

Before the discovery of gold in California and Australia the world's supply of the precious metal was limited, production being restricted practically to small operations in the Ural mountains and in our Appalachian chain.

Records of the Irish Emigrant society show that 25,132 persons entered at the port of New York as emigrants in 1900. This is an increase of 2,037 over the preceding year. There were 11,677 males and 13,455 females, who brought $373,754.

A stage wedding of two members of a burlesque troupe was announced to be performed in a Washington theater, but the high contracting parties found it impossible to secure the services of a person competent to perform the ceremony.

Crowded though the ocean may be becoming, the iron four-masted sailing ship Afghanistan managed to make a seven months' voyage from San Francisco to Liverpool without being spoken by another vessel. Not a word was heard of her from her departure till she sailed up the Mersey, a few days ago.

It is thought by the officers in charge of the Yellowstone national park that there are about 50 bison in the park. Difficulty has been experienced in dealing with poachers, because of the fact that the northwestern boundary of the park is not clearly defined. To correct this an appropriation of $5,000 was made at the last session of congress for a survey.

FUNNY SCENE IN PARIS.

An Indignant Husband Punishes an Innocent Man for Familiarities by a Lobster.

Rather a risky substitute for a battle field is the top of an omnibus, but there have been not a few homeric struggles on "imperiales," as they are termed here. The latest adventure of the sort owed its origin to a very comical mistake. At a particular Parisian office there ascended to the summit of one of these vehicles an individual of very comfortable dimensions, who was speedily immersed in the study of his newspaper, a pretty and well dressed woman many years his junior, and an elderly man who looked like a retired officer. The omnibus had hardly started when the old beau began to cast glances expressive of intense admiration at his fair neighbor, and, although he received no encouragement, he continued to attempt to get up a flirtation with her quite unabashed. Suddenly the lady rose to her feet and screamed out: "You ruffian! Not content with making eyes at me, you are putting your arm round my waist." Most of the people on the top of the vehicle indulged in a merry laugh, but the individual who had been reading his paper so attentively was in no jesting mood. Crushing it up, he sprang in front of the lady, and shouting to her admirer: "What do you mean by insulting my wife?" dealt him a couple of sound boxes on the ear, relates the London Telegraph.

The luckless old beau had hitherto fancied that the woman was unaccompanied by an escort, and had, therefore, volunteered for that pleasant task. He denied that he had attempted to encircle her waist, but his explanation was vain, and a pitched battle ensued, which only terminated after the conductor, assisted by other passengers, had succeeded in separating the combatants, both of whom were decidedly the worse for wear. Then a shrill voice was heard to exclaim: "Why, it's all my lobster's fault." Everybody looked, and, sure enough, the speaker was engaged in a desperate effort to push back into a basket a big lobster which had half emerged from it, and had been amusing itself with sundry pinches of the taper waist of the heroine of this adventure. The husband and the wife were now profuse in their apologies, which the old gentleman finally accepted, but with a rather bad grace, and little wonder under the circumstances, as he will have to nurse his battered visage for some time, abstaining in the meanwhile from further attempts at conquest. He declares that he will loathe the sight and the taste of lobster to the end of his days.

Precious Stones.

The Sun reported the other day that Prof. C. H. Shaw has found in Arizona a necklace of turquoises of rare size and beauty which is supposed to have belonged to some very important personage who lived ages ago. A mining newspaper, commenting upon this find, says that turquoise mining in New Mexico is one of the oldest industries of the country, but the output is quite limited. The turquoise output is usually more valuable than that of any other precious stone found in this country, but the output is worth only from $40,000 to $50,000 a year. Some of the stones are used by jewelers, but most of them find their way into mineral cabinets and museums. The mining of precious stones in our country has never been a large industry and the annual product is worth only about $100,000 a year.—N. Y. Sun.

PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL.

Cardinal Martinelli is an Augustinian monk and was at one time prior general of the order.

The painter Makart, was sometimes as taciturn as Von Moltke, sat an hour one evening at dinner next to the soubrette, Josephine Gallmeyer, without volunteering a word. Finally the soubrette lost patience and exclaimed: "Well, dear master, suppose we change the subject."

Seven governors of Massachusetts were born on the 6th of March. They were Andrew, Boutwell, Butler, Claflin, Gardner, Rice and Talbot. All but two are now dead. Ex-Gov. Claflin, who lives in Newtonville, occupies a house that has been the residence of two other governors.

One of New York's most fashionable dealers in footgear has the word "bootmaker" on his window in large letters in approved British style. In England only the low-cut article is called a shoe, the ordinary laced, buttoned or gaiter varieties being known as boots. Hence the Gotham anglomaniac's window sign.

Sir Cavedish Boyle, the new governor of Newfoundland, began his official career in the London probate office in 1869, when he was 20, but five years later he took a magisterial post in the Leeward islands. He has since been colonial secretary of Bermuda and of Gibraltar, and for the last eight years has been government secretary of British Guinea, which office carries with it the lieutenant governorship of the colony.

Speaker Whitecotton, of the Mississippi legislature, is said to carry a toothpick in his mouth 23 hours out of the 24. The habit is so well known among his friends that they make wagers with the unsuspecting that the speaker will have a toothpick in his mouth on some special occasion, and they invariably win their bet. The speaker acknowledges that the habit has a firm hold upon him. He never chews the bit of wood; he simply holds it between his lips. At night he places a fresh one in his mouth and in the morning finds it there.

Until the German emperor was made a field marshal, no one but King Edward VII. himself was both field marshal of the British army and an admiral of the British navy. The number of British field marshals is now nine. They are the king, the German emperor, the duke of Cambridge, Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, Lord Roberts, Lord Wolseley, Sir Lintorn Simmons, Sir Frederick Haines and Sir Neville Chamberlain. The admirals of the fleet are the king, the German emperor, Sir Henry Keppel, the earl of Clanwilliam, Sir Algernon Lyons, Sir Frederick Richards and Sir Nowell Salmon.

GERMANS ON THE INCREASE.

Returns of the Last Census Show the Population of the Empire to Be 56,000,000.

The United States census office has received through the state department a consular report on the population of the German empire and its changes during the last century. The population is now about 56,000,000, larger than any other country in Europe except Russia, which has in Europe alone over 106,000,000 subjects, or nearly twice as many as Germany.

In 1789 the whole German empire had a population of about 26,000,000, and at the close of the Napoleonic wars in 1815 Germany, though somewhat reduced in size, had a population of something more than 30,000,000. In 1845, since which date the area has remained almost constant, Germany had 34,000,000; in 1865, 40,000,000; in 1885, 47,000,000, and in 1900, about 55,500,000, an increase during the century of about 30,000,000.

Since 1871, when the modern German empire was organized, the population of Germany has increased about 35 per cent., a growth extremely rapid for an old country, and for one sending out large and steady streams of emigrants. The Germans felt a natural pride in the rapid growth of their population, says the report, compared with that of their rival across the Rhine. In 1845 France had about 36,000,000 inhabitants and Germany 34,000,000. Now France has about 38,000,000, or only two-thirds the number in Germany.

The provisional results of the census of Vienna, taken December 31, 1900, have just been announced, and according to a report from the consul general at Vienna showed a population of 1,635,647, or nearly 63,000 less than there were in Chicago when the recent census of that city was taken.

These figures show Vienna to rank next after London, Paris and Berlin among the European capitals, while in this country only New York and Chicago are larger. During the last ten years Vienna has increased 21.9 per cent., or slightly faster than the average of the whole United States. Few large cities in this country do not show a larger rate. Of the two American cities larger than Vienna, Greater New York increased in ten years 37.8 per cent and Chicago 54.4 per cent.

In common with most large cities, the population residing in the central districts of Vienna is slowly decreasing and the most rapid growth is in the outskirts of the city.

Horses in Africa.

A South African bred horse keeps his condition best, as he will get his head down and nibble whenever you get off his back. He is less excitable, too, than most English horses. An imported horse, bred north of the equator, takes at least a year to get used to the change of seasons, not to mention the change of food.—Longmans'.

Never Decide a Bet.

Never decide a bet; the loser will hate you.—Atchison Globe.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[Special Correspondence.]

Secretary Gage was aroused from his financial studies in his office on Saturday by a flutter of skirts. He looked up in wonder and beheld a good, gray man from Boston leading a lot of very pretty young women. The callers, fashionably dressed and exhibiting a charming assortment of colors, ribbons, dimples and blushes, except the man, arranged themselves against the wall around the room. At a given signal there was a hush, and the gray man stepping forward, said:

"Mr. Secretary, these are the studends of La Salle Seminary For Young Ladies, Boston."

Forty dimples began to beckon to the secretary, red lips parted and white teeth appeared all around the room. The secretary looked at the row of rosy cheeks and merry eyes, and he appeared to be afraid. Then like a Pooh Bah, the dignified cabinet officer said:

"Howdy do! Glad to see you all."

His expression then seemed to say: "That will do. Thank you very much. Now run along, little girls."

The buds from Boston filed out, leaving the room bare and cheerless. As the gray haired man bringing up the rear, passed the secretary he said:

"I have been bringing my girls over here every year for forty years."

And the secretary looked startled, as if he was saying to himself:

"Goodness gracious, professor! Not these same girls?"

The prospective reduction of the United States naval force now on the Asiatic station is beginning to assume definite form. Thus far the matter has not been considered by the President, nor has Secretary Long had an opportunity to confer with Admiral Remey, but the naval bureau of navigation, which has charge of the assignment of ships to the various stations, has proposed that there be a reduction of the force on the Asiatic station. This has been based on a consideration of the needs of the navy and without reference to any political questions involved.

Should it be decided to reduce the force the homeward movement of vessels would probably not begin before summer. As yet no consideration has been given to the disposition of the ships when they are relieved from service in the far east. It is expected, however, that the north Atlantic squadron will be augmented by at least one or two ships, while the south Atlantic and the Pacific stations will also be reenforced.

A number of the ships will have to go out of commission, as they have seen long service in topical waters and will need a pretty general overhauling.

Among the government officials in Washington there is a good sized sporting contingent which is in evidence at the Benning race track daily. These "plungers from Uncle Sam's workshops" may be easily located because of the unusual energy and activity they inject into their work during the first half of the day they expect to "get off" to go to the races. Such hustling and bustling to dispatch urgent business as they indulge easily marks the "official sports." By 12 o'clock they have consulted the time table, studied the entries for the various events and "raised" a more or less modest amount of money to play such "tips" as they anticipate may bring them gratifying returns. Thus far the Benning meeting has not been profitable to the departmental sporting fraternity.

Secretary Wilson is engaged on plans under which a number of divisions of the department will be made bureaus on July 1.

The divisions of forestry, chemistry and soils will be made bureaus, and six other divisions, whose work has to do with plants, will be consolidated into one bureau, to be known as the bureau of plant industry. The grouping of the plant divisions, particularly the botany and pathology divisions, will secure economy by avoidance of frequent duplication of work.

Prof. B. T. Galloway, of Missouri, now horticulturist and superintendent of gardens and grounds and formerly chief of the division of vegetable physiology and pathology, will be assigned as chief of the bureau of plants.

Richmond P. Hobson, the naval constructor who sunk the Merrimac in the entrance of Santiago harbor and gave osculation a stimulus for awhile, is now a captain instead of a lieutenant, but he does not draw a naval captain's pay, which is $4,500. Mr. Hobson receives $3,200 and under the rules of the construction bureau his pay will be increased $200 a year every five years he remains in active service. When he came to Washington from his Alabama home some days ago, he trayeled with Judge Griggs, a Georgia Congressman. "All during the trip," said Mr. Griggs, "people, knowing I was just a common Congressman, came to me and begged me to introduce them to the hero."

Secretary Long has appointed a special board composed of Captain Chadwick, Lieutenant Powellson and Lieutenant Commander Hodgson to make a thorough inquiry into the subject of wireless telegraphy and its practical application to the naval service. The board will meet in Newport.

It has been understood that Senor Marconi, the Italian inventor whose name is identified with wireless telegraphy, has been in this country of late, but it is not known whether the Newport board has received from him any communications relative to the adoption of this system.

Notice to Trespassers.

This is to give notice that all persons are warned against trespassing upon the farm of the undersigned, lying in District No. 1, about seven miles northeast of Swanton and adjoining the lands of Daniel O'Brien, Buckner Mason and Ab. Murray. All persons found trespassing in any way upon the above land will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law. WILLIAM COLMER.

Swanton, Md., April 29, 1901. 8 3t

School Board Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
BOARD OF SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT COUNTY.
OAKLAND, MD., April 30, 1901.

The Board of School Commissioners will meet

MAY 14, 1901,

for the purpose of appointing Trustees for the various schools of the county.

By order of the Board,
E. A. BROWNING,
8 2t Secretary.

STATEMENT OF THE UNITED STATES BRANCH OF THE BRITISH-AMERICAN ASSURANCE CO. OF TORONTA, CANADA, Dec. 31, 1900.

Total Assets	$1,256,308 10
" Liabilities	798,429 25
" Surplus	457,878 85

STATEMENT SHOWING THE CONDITION OF THE CONTINENTAL INSURANCE CO. OF NEW YORK, Dec. 31, 1900.

Capital stock paid up	$1,000,000 00
Total assets	10,688,271 47
Total amount of all liabilities	5,127,736 15
Total unearned premiums	4,272,117 52
Bonds and stocks owned by the Company	8,085,830 00

State of Marvland, Insurance Department, Commissioner's Office, Baltimore, Feb. 13, 1901.

In compliance with the Code of Public General Laws, I hereby certify that the above is a true abstract from the statements of The Continental Insurance Company of New York, N. Y., and The United States Branch of the British-America Assurance Company of Toronto, Canada, to December 31, 1900, now on file in this Department.

LLOYD WILKINSON,
Insurance Commissioner.

ORDER NISI.

Isaac Bradburn vs. Jemima Mowrey.

No. 1097 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

Ordered, this 20th day of April, 1901, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, sitting in Equity, that the sale made and reported in the above cause by D. Lindley Sloan, attorney named in the mortgage, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary thereof be shown on or before the 17th day of May, 1901; provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 17th day of May, 1901.

The report states the amount of sale to be $620.60.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True copy—Test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Examiners' Notice.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned, appointed by the County Commissioners of Garrett county, to relocate the road leading from Birt Warnick's farm to the National Road and to view the lands through which the said relocated road is to be made (said location to leave the National Road at a point near U. M. Stanton's barn and running through the lands of U. M. Stanton and Birt Warnick to intersect the old road near Gnagey's water trough, a distance of about 1¼ miles, the object being to make an easier grade and get away from the railroad) and examine whether the said relocated road should be made, will meet on the 25th day of May, 1901, for such purpose, and to determine whether the public convenience requires the said relocation of said county road, and if so, to locate the same, and perform their duty in the premises.

G. W. BROADWATER,
JACOB S. MILLER,
DANIEL J. BRENNEMAN,
Examiners.

AUDITOR'S NOTICE.

W. Grant Paugh vs. Otho J. Paugh et al.—No. 1050. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

Notice is hereby given to the creditors of Louis F. Paugh, deceased, to file their claims, properly authenticated, with the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett county on or before May 30, 1901, as I will on that day proceed to state an audit distributing the funds in the hands of the trustee in said cause.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
Auditor.

MORTGAGEES' SALE
OF VALUABLE
REAL ESTATE

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage executed by Mary A. Kimmell and Samuel F. Kimmell, her husband, to James R. Bishop, bearing date the 8th day of September, 1899, and recorded among the mortgage records of Garrett county, and which said mortgage has been duly assigned to the undersigned, and as default has been made in the payment of the interest thereon, we will, on

Thursday, May 9, 1901,

at 3 o'clock p. m., at the front door of the court house in the town of Oakland, Maryland, offer at public auction and sell to the highest bidder the following described real estate, viz.: All that part of the

Isaac Kuykendall Place,

near Hutton, Garrett county, Maryland, which in the sub-division of said place is known and designated as Lot No. 7, containing more or less. Said place is mostly cleared, is improved by a good barn and small dwelling with necessary outbuildings, and also by a good orchard.

105 ACRES

TERMS OF SALE:—Cash on day of sale. Conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

U. G. PALMER,
FRED. A. THAYER.

I HAVE PURCHASED
THE OAKLAND COAL YARD
of Mr. D. L. Conneway and will continue the business. I will keep constantly on hand a large supply of
HARD AND SOFT
COAL,
KINDLING WOOD, Etc.

All orders will receive prompt attention. Leave orders with the weighmaster or at my residence, the Giessman Hotel.

35-2 GEO. GIESSMAN

Turnbull's

China and Japan Mattings, all weaves and colorings.

Porch and Lawn Furniture,

Iron and Brass Bedsteads,

Linoleums and Oil Cloths,

Carpetings.

JOHN TURNBULL, JR., & COMPANY,
16, 18, 20 West Baltimore Street,
BALTIMORE

THE SECOND NATIONAL BANK
of CUMBERLAND, MD.

Designated United States Depository.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.
BOXES FREE TO CUSTOMERS.

This Bank Pays Three Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Capital	$100,000
Surplus and Other Undivided Profits	250,000
Liability of Shareholders	100,000
Additional Security to Depositors	$450,000

LLOYD LOWNDES, President.
D. ANNAN, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

Lloyd Lowndes, O. C. Gephart,
James Clark, L. M. Shepherd,
John Sheridan, A. Hunter Boyd,
David W. Sloan.

VALUABLE
REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.

133½ acres coal land on Youghiogheny river, 7 miles north of Oakland.

The Andrews property in Oakland for sale.

House on 5th street, opposite the jail for sale.

A farm one mile from Oakland, containing 187½ acres; about 50 or 60 acres cleared and under cultivation; has been thoroughly limed. Balance of land well timbered. On this farm is one of the best dwelling houses in the county; also stables, wagon sheds, spring house and all necessary outbuildings; water within five feet of kitchen door. This property will be sold cheap.

New house containing eight rooms, cellar, etc., and 26½ acres of ground; barn, stable, and all other outbuildings, adjoining the town of Grantsville, Garrett county. This property is known as the Samuel J. Beachy property, and will be sold cheap.

A farm five miles from Oakland on the Aurora road, containing 200 acres, well watered, fenced, etc.; a good dwelling house, a new barn built last year cost $1,000, and all other necessary outbuildings. This property will be sold on easy terms.

A farm 2½ miles southwest of Oakland, containing ninety acres of ground, well watered and fenced; has been thoroughly limed, and is under a high state of cultivation. First-class dwelling house; new bank barn put up this year; stone spring house and all other necessary outbuildings. One hundred and twenty-five bearing fruit trees of choicest variety. This farm can be bought on easy terms.

A farm five and two-third miles north of Swanton, containing one hundred and ten acres of land, comparatively level, well watered and under fence; eighty acres cleared and under a high state of cultivation; twenty-five acres of good timber; an orchard which never fails to produce fruit, consisting of peaches, pears, plums and apple trees. The buildings on this farm consist of an elegant dwelling house, containing six rooms and a cellar; a bank barn 40x60 feet; a spring house and all necessary outbuildings. This farm can be bought for part cash and balance on time to suit purchaser.

A farm known as the "Swauger Mill Property," containing eighty-six acres of land, partly cleared and balance in hemlock timber. The buildings consist of a dwelling house, small storehouse, a water-power grist mill, stable and all other necessary outbuildings. Besides being well watered by a stream running from one end of the place to the other it has on it a lake, covering about seven acres, which has been stocked with 40,000 brook and rain bow trout. This property can be bought at a low figure, part cash and balance on time, to suit purchaser, at five per cent. interest.

I have also houses to rent and sell in the town of Oakland.

For further particulars apply to

JOHN T. SINCELL,
Real Estate and Insurance Agent,
OAKLAND, MD.

NOTICE TO Tax Payers!

This is to notify the tax payers of Garrett county that the annual levy for 1901 has been made and published, and to call their attention to the following abstract, Section 45, Chapter 566, Acts of 1890, relating to the discount to be allowed and the interest to be charged on all tax bills:

"All county taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of September next succeeding the date of the levy thereof, and on all county taxes paid on or before the first day of September a discount of 3 per cent. shall be allowed, and after the first day of January all taxes shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum until paid. The Treasurer shall take the discount from and charge interest on the tax bills for county purposes regularly in the manner aforesaid and shall note the same upon his books and upon the receipt given for taxes so paid. But the discount shall not be allowed unless the whole amount of State and county taxes are paid when same is made."

WM. M. LOHR,
Treasurer.

The Garrett County Bank

OAKLAND, MD.

Pays 3 Per Cent. Interest on Time Deposits.

Subscribed Capital,	$50,000.00
Liability of Stockholders,	100,000.00
Surplus Fund,	10,000.00

DIRECTORS:

DANIEL E. OFFUTT,
GILMOR S. HAMILL,
JOHN M. DAVIS,
GEORGE W. LEGGE,
JOHN T. MITCHELL,
JOHN M. FREELAND,
SCOTT T. JONES.

D. E. OFFUTT, President.
G. S. HAMILL, Vice-President.
S. T. JONES, Cashier.

Authorized Capital $32,000.

The First National Bank
OF OAKLAND, MD.

Now Open for Business

Offers to its patrons every advantage consistent with sound Banking, and which their balances, business and responsibility warrant.

3 per cent. Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

WE SOLICIT YOUR BUSINESS.

DIRECTORS.

Ed A. Browning, - Oakland, Md.
C. E. Ellithorp, - Bittinger, Md.
L. E. Friend, - Friendsville, Md.
Wm. Moody, - Bloomington, Md.
U. G. Palmer, - Hutton, Md.
R. A. Ravenscroft, Accident, Md.
E. E. Sollars, - Oakland, Md.
U. M. Stanton, - Grantsville, Md.
F. A. Thayer, - Oakland, Md.
M. N. Wilson, - Wilson, W. Va.

OFFICERS.

F. A. THAYER, - President.
M. N. WILSON, - Vice-President.
U. G. PALMER, - Cashier.
M. R. HAMILL, Assistant Cashier.

SEVEN DEVELOPED GOLD MINES.

60 ACRES OF GOLD ORE

THE ARENA
Gold Mining and Milling Company
CRIPPLE CREEK, COLORADO.

This Property is Estimated to be now Worth More than $10,000 per Acre and will be Worth over One Hundred Thousand Dollars per Acre, with Proper Development.

CAPITAL STOCK, $1,000,000,

Divided into Shares of $1.00 Each, Full Paid and Non-Assessable.

The Arena Company offers 50,000 Shares at 50 cents each in a Property that is Worth over $600,000

For the purpose of raising money to purchase the necessary machinery to make the mines produce daily fully THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN GOLD, thus enriching every individual shareholder according to the shares he holds.

YOU CAN BUY ANY NUMRER OF SHARES YOU WISH.

and make more money than can be made in any other line of investment. The gold ore is in these seven developed mines. There are 3,000 feet of ore in a vein, and these veins are true mother veins, held within walls of granite, placed there by nature. The Company has already developed this property to demonstrate that it is one of the largest gold properties of the Cripple Creek District which is the greatest gold-producing camp on earth, its output last year aggregating $24,000,000, or nearly double the amount produced in the whole State of California.

At 50 cents per Share the Company is giving you a discount of 10 cents per share to start with, making 20 cents on the dollar. As already stated, this is done for the purpose of raising $25,000 to purchase improved machinery, air-compressor drills and electric plant. We have two large hoisting engines on this property, a commodious shaft-house, office buildings, boarding house for the men, stables, a powder-house, a large quantity of tools, etc. The reports on these mines, made by one of the best mining engineers in the State, succinctly describe these improvements.

NAMES OF MINES.

AZTEC. 210 feet in depth, with shaft-house, boiler and engine for hoisting, well timbered all the way down.
BONDHOLDER, 260 feet deep, hoisting engine and boiler, large iron shaft-house.
MEXICO AND MANHATTAN, both over 100 feet deep, on same vein as the Aztec mine.
CRYSTAL, JASPER AND GREAT EASTERN, on the same vein as the Bondholder, and opened in depth of 100 feet, and developments already made show over 4,000 feet of ore.

If you want to make money out of nature, become a producer of gold out of her treasure-vaults. The Arena group of mines will do it for you.

We can furnish the best of references—bank and mining engineers—and our title in the property is perfect, coming as it does through a patent from the Government. With more improved machinery, from $8,000 to $5,000 per day will be a conservative estimate of the output of these mines.

Remember that only 50,000 shares of this stock are for sale at 50 cents on the dollar. Orders for the number of shares desired, accompanied by Draft, Money Orders, Express or Cash in Registered Letters, can be sent to

The Arena Gold Mining and Milling Company,
501 Equitable Building, DENVER, COLORADO.

Midget Harness Riveter.

Complete repair shop in one tool. Will not wear out. Punches the hole, drives and clinches at one operation. Every horse owner, liveryman, teamster will buy on sight. Does the work of any $25 machine. Complete outfit with big bog of rivets will be sent for

ONLY 50 CENTS.

Agents Wanted.

HANDY ADJUSTABLE LIFTER. Handiest article ever invented for lifting hot pans, stove lids, etc. 15c, postpaid.

S. T. WILSON & CO.,
Box 103. Wilson, W. Va.

J. B. WILLIAMS CO.
FROSTBURG, MD.
Cheapest place to buy
MONUMENTS
HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING
Send for prices

LAND FOR SALE!

I am now offering for sale in large or small quantities, 31,000 acres of a tract known as "Swanton," and better known as the "Anderson lands," situated in Garrett County, Md. This land is well timbered and underlaid with many valuable veins of mineral; also suitable for farming purposes and grazing.

All trespassing will be prosecuted to the utmost extent of the law.

Call on or address:
C. A. WILT, Agent.

Illinois Central R. R.

PERSONALLY CONDUCTED EXCURSIONS TO

CALIFORNIA
VIA NEW ORLEANS
AND THE SOUTHERN ROUTE.

VIA OMAHA
AND THE SCENIC ROUTE.

NEW THROUGH LINE OF

HOT SPRINGS, ARK.
BY WAY OF MEMPHIS.

E. A. RICHTER, T. P. A.
812 Park Building, Pittsburg, Pa.
A. H. HANSON, Gen. Pass. Agt., CHICAGO.

WILLIAM R. OFFUTT,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
OFFICE UPSTAIRS IN RAVENSCROFT BUILD'G.

Loans negotiated and Collections promptly made.
Practices in Courts of Maryland, West Virginia and Court of Appeals of Maryland.

Oakland Pharmacy
JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.
Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars Cameras and Photo Supplies

GEO. FLACK SANSBURY,
ARCHITECT,
Office 7 North Liberty St.
CUMBERLAND, MD.

NORMAN S. HEINDEL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
All business given prompt attention.
Office—Opera House,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

FRED A. THAYER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
OAKLAND, MD.
STATE'S ATTORNEY FOR GARRETT COUNTY.
Office in McComas's Building, Main St.
Will be assisted in all important cases by Benjamin A. Richmond of the Cumberland bar.

GILMOR S. HAMILL
ATTORNEY AT LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY
OFFICE ON ALDER STREET.
Particular attention given to Conveyancing, investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated. je14-1

JULIUS C. RENNINGER,
ATTORNEY & COUNSELLOR AT LAW
Office opposite Bank, OAKLAND, MD.
Will practice in the courts of Maryland and West Virginia.
Real estate and mercantile law given special attention. Collections and investments made for clients. 45—1yr

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett & Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia. '88 10

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas building, Second Street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work. 18-98-tf.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
Felty Building, Opposite Postoffice,
OAKLAND, MD
GAS ADMINISTERED. 50-97

DR. C. HINEBAUGH, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
OAKLAND, MD.
Office and residence, Alder St., west of post office.

DR. W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North 3rd Street.
Office in Shartzer's Block, Second Street

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Offers his services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Prompt attention paid to day or night calls.
Office at McComas' Sanitarium. 16-'99

DR. H. W. McCOMAS M. D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Office opposite Garrett County Bank.
Residence on Main Street, opposite Brown's Hotel.
Office hours, 8 to 10 a. m., 2 to 3 p. m., 8 to 9 p. m., from June to October and from October to June, 7 to 8.30 p. m.

DR. D. O. McKINLEY,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
SALISBURY, PENNA.
Will visit regularly through Garrett county, Md., and offers his services to those wishing Dental Treatment. Charges moderate
P. O. address, Elk Lick, Pa. 6 22 6.

E. J. FRANTZ,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER,
Residence and P. O. Address,
SELBYSPORT, MD.

ANDREW J. HARNE,
AUCTIONEER.
Will sell real or personal property.
Residence Oakland, Garrett county, Md
Oakland, Md., Feb. 21st, 1887.

W. McCULLOH BROWN,
SURVEYOR AND ENGINEER,
LAND SURVEYS PROMPTLY MADE.
Particular attention given to TOWN surveying, and the use of the LEVEL in laying out new roads, streets, water works, drains, and GRADE LINES generally, including tram ways and railroad work. Comparative elevations taken quickly by aneroid barometer. Address, box 41, Oakland, Md. 48 26t*

JONAS C. BEACHY,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER.
Will sell Real or Personal Estate.
Residence and post office address, BITTINGER, MD. 51-1yr.

ALEX'R C. MASON,
PRACTICAL SURVEYOR,
OAKLAND, MD.
Long experience enables me to locate tracts and military lots promptly and accurately. Being thoroughly familiar with the beginning corners of the most important surveys both in Allegany and Garrett counties. Plats, descriptions and estimates furnished. 40-1yr.

BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R. TIME TABLE IN EFFECT NOV. 25, 1900.

The following time table on the B. & O. went into effect on Sunday, Nov. 25, 1900. Trains now leave Oakland as follows:

GOING WEST.

No. 7.—Daily	3.40 A. M
No. 3—Daily	7.37 A. M
No. 71—Daily except Sunday	9.21 A. M
No. 55—Daily	4.47 P. M
No. 1—Daily	10.05 P. M

GOING EAST.

No. 8—Daily	5.50 A. M
No. 2—Daily	6.53 A. M
No. 46—Express, daily	4.41 P. M
No. 72—Accom daily except Sun	2.26 P. M
No. 12—Daily	8.30 P. M
No. 4—Daily	12.37 A. M

F. D. UNDERWOOD, General Manager.
D. B. MARTIN,
Manager of Passenger Traffic.
D. M. MASON, Agent.

WEST VIRGINIA CENTRAL AND PITTSBURG RAILWAY CO.
IN EFFECT NOV 25, 1900.

SOUTHWARD No. 3	SOUTHWARD No. 1	STATIONS	NORTHWARD No. 2	NORTHWARD No. 4
P. M.	A. M.		NOON	P. M.
3 15†	7 00† lv	Cumberland ar	†12 00	†7 00
3 43	7 29	Rawlings	11 31	6 31
4 06	7 52	Keyser	11 08	6 09
4 16	8 05	Westernport	10 58	5 57
4 20	8 09	W. Va. C. Junc.	10 51	5 50
4 39	8 35	Shaw	10 28	5 22
5 00	9 00	Harrison	†10 06	†5 00
5 45*	9 50* ar	Elk Garden	*8 10	*4 10
5 41†	9 35† lv	Gorman	†9 35	4 30
5 47	9 42	Bayard	9 29	4 25
5 59	9 54	Dobbin	9 19	4 15
6 02	9 58	Henry	9 15	4 11
6 27	10 27	Thomas	8 48	3 47
6 55	10 55 ar	Davis	8 05	3 05
6 31	10 34 lv	Coketon	8 41	3 40
6 39	11 01	Hendricks	8 10	3 10
7 02	11 04	Hambleton	8 07	3 07
7 05	11 07	Bretz	8 03	3 03
7 08	11 10	Parsons	8 00	3 00
7 45	11 45	Kerens	7 25	2 29
8 00†	12 00† ar	Elkins	lv †7 10	†2 15
	NOON
8 36*	12 45† ar	Beverly	lv*†7 20	†1 40
9 05*	1 10† ar	Huttonsville	lv *6 30	†1 15
P. M.				P. M.
	3 15* ar	Bealington	lv	*11 40
	P. M.		A. M.	A. M.

†Daily. *Daily except Sunday.

C. L. BRETZ, Gen. Manager. G. W. HARRISON, Gen. Pas. Agent

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 25. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, MAY 9, 1901. NUMBER 9.

THE REPUBLICANS SWEEP BALTIMORE.

They Carry the Day in Eighteen Out of Twenty-four Wards.

ALSO IN ALL THE DISTRICTS.

A Moderately Light Vote Was Polled. Democrats Admit That the New Ballot Law Had Much Effect in Turning Public Sentiment Against the Party.

BALTIMORE, May 9.—The councilmanic election today resulted in a sweeping victory for the Republicans. They carried eighteen out of the twenty-four wards for the first branch of the city council and all four of the councilmanic districts, in each of which a member of the second branch was chosen.

A moderately light vote was polled. The total vote polled was: For first branch, 66,332; for second branch, 64,673.

The Democrats carried the fourth, ninth, tenth, eleventh, twelfth and twenty-fourth wards by majorities ranging from 170, in the last named, where W. Starr Gephart, Democrat, defeated J. Hume Smith, to 463 in the tenth. The Republican majorities ranged from 22 to 761. For the second branch Moses N. Frank, Democrat, was defeated by 15 votes.

The total vote of the twenty-four wards was divided as follows: First branch, Democrats, 31,870; Republicans, 34,462. Second branch, Democrats, 30,598; Republicans, 34,075.

Democrats admit that the new election law had much effect in turning public sentiment against the party. What figure was cut by the illiterate vote will not be known until the returns can be analyzed.

THE NEW ELECTION LAW.

The election law is great (?)—
In Maryland, my Maryland,
We have to move back in the state
Of Maryland, my Maryland.
It makes no difference what you do.
If you're away a month or two,
You cannot vote, says Arthur Pue,
In Maryland, my Maryland.

So jump ye wand'rers back again,
To Maryland, our Maryland,
Take up your homes and this refrain,
In Maryland, our Maryland,
We'll move and vote for right and truth,
We'll mark our ballots in the booth,
And Arthur Pue will die, forsooth,
In Maryland, my Maryland.

The Democratic steal is seen,
In Maryland, our Maryland,
The Voters are not always green
In Maryland, our Maryland,
The ides of November will tell
They built their law almost Too Well,
They'll find they've lost, then hear 'em yell
In Maryland, our Maryland.

There'll be another Moving Day,
In Maryland, our Maryland,
Things will be coming all our way,
In Maryland, our Maryland,
Old Arthur P. and Jonsmith, too,
Will find they got the grand Razoo,
To them we'll bid a glad ADIEU,
In Maryland, our Maryland.

—WM. B. SEVERE, in Marlboro Times.

CORKSCREW PHILOSOPHY.

Selfishness is the first law of degeneration.

Selfishness and sin are convertible terms—they both mean the same thing.

Live and let live is a very good motto—but live and help to live is much better.

Never bother much in thinking about yourself,—better think about something worth while.

God's blessings are not always with the prosperous man,—the devil pays good wages too.

All life is action,—better be an active sinner than an idle saint: it is the willing worker that makes the wheels go round.

The true gospel of life is to be up and doing. Life is energy and energy is life. Every atom is imbued with the spirit of energy. When energy dies the world is done. Are you dead in the shell or merely taking a rest?

JACKSON.

What New Postage Stamp is Like.

The new postage stamp has made its appearance in Oakland and from an artistic standpoint is a decided improvement upon those which have been in use for the last few years.

The new stamp is of a delicate reddish color and oblong in shape. In the center is a picture of an express train going at full speed. Above the picture are the words "United States of America" and below "Fast Express."

At the bottom are the words "Postage: Two Cents," while in each of the lower corners is the figure "2." On each side of the train is the airly clad figure of a female.

Go look at Townshend & Son's line of ties and dress shirts. 8 4

A Plea for the Country Home.

We need not look far to see many proofs of a healthy reaction in favor of country life and rural pursuits. "God made the country and man made town" is a trite saying that will never lose its force. For there may, at times, be an unnatural influx of people to the cities, draining the country of youth and manly strength and productive energy, but a reaction is sure to come. When hard times prevail; when disappointment and despair seize the honest toiler on the farm, he begins to think he will have better opportunity for success in the city, and off he goes. In nine cases out of ten the change proves disastrous, and he who was once the independent worker in his own fields, as free and untrammeled as the air he breathed, becomes the humble employee of some soulless corporation—a service exacting in its demands, inimical to personal liberty and destructive of all the noblest aspirations of true manhood.

And then he who fled to the city to escape the horrors of the country longs for his old home. He remembers his joy as a boy rambling over the farm, listening to the song birds and the babbling brooks, making pets of the young animals, and enjoying all the many pleasures of the country boy. Much would he give to have his own children participate in the pleasures and enjoy the health-giving advantages of a home away from the bustling city's din. With his savings he buys a small suburban lot, builds himself a cottage, plants a few trees and vines in humble imitation of the rural home he holds in sweetest memory. If, perchance, the once country boy has met with commercial or professional success in metropolis, and amassed a fortune, his most natural impulse seems to be to have his sumptuous country home, to stock his farm with improved breeds of cattle, and lavish his wealth in adding to the beauties and blessings of nature.

Thus in every sphere of life man instinctively seeks the country. He may not care to make it always and at all times his home, but his life seems unsatisfactory, his joy incomplete, his recreation imperfect, unless he can get where the cows low and the lambs bleat; where noises sometimes cease, and where with unobstructed view he can see "the morn in russet mantle clad, walk o'er the dew."

With the advent of rapid and convenient transportation, the city is becoming more and more the place for business and the country the place for living. Every year marks the almost magic appearance on the hillsides and in the dales of hamlets where the restless population of the cities find a semi-rural condition of life. The near future is destined to bring a greatly increased demand for small farms, and with the small farms will come greater thrift, higher cultivation, more scientific methods, better roads and proportionate comfort and pleasure in living in the country. The day of the large plantation, requiring a force of laborers and a boss to superintend them is passed—certainly except in sections very remote from cities.

The small farm, fully equipped, thoroughly stocked, highly fertilized, with its permanent pasture lots and orchards, with improved appliances for the dairy and modern conveniences for poultry raising, with a bountiful garden, and, lastly but not least, with its attractive, commodious, convenient and comfortable cottage—makes the ideal home of which poets may sing and lovers dream. If the master of such a home is a practical farmer himself, fully informed, as he should be, in the minutiæ of crop raising, in horticulture, in the care of live-stock, he can with unskilled help conduct his business with success and pleasure. If he works with intelligence, thrift and frugality, he will always have something to sell, be thoroughly independent, and if in close proximity to a steam or electric road, his family can have many of the advantages of city life, while at the same time they enjoy the freedom, independence and healthfulness of their country home.

If the gentleman of the house has business that takes him to town daily, for a reasonable salary he can employ a competent man to superintend his farm work, and still participate in the keen pleasure which the lover of agriculture always finds in the bursting buds, in the ripening crops, and in the increase of flocks and herds. It is the soothing contact with nature that tends to develop the physical, mental and moral man to the greatest perfection. Statistics will show that the strong men in business and in the professions, whose careers adorn the annals of metropolitan cities, come, almost invariably, from the farm. Their development in youth is not warped by any of the conventionalities of the city. The associations and environments of the farm dwarf the artificial and magnify the natural side of life. Thus it is the country bred boy generally grows true to nature's standard.

And so in our plea for the country home, we would have you remember that it is the nursery where the fledgelings in human form can have the safest, the purest, the noblest and the truest development. Where the trees assume most graceful proportions, and the flowers are of richest hues and sweetest fragrance, there, too, will childhood blossom most perfectly and grow into the most beautiful maturity.

Senatorial and Otherwise.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Having no "axe to grind" and being an old citizen and taxpayer of Garrett county, and a life-long Republican, I regard it a privilege, if not a duty to express my humble sentiments through THE REPUBLICAN.

We have plenty of good senatorial timber, but only room for one, and the one we think should be selected for that important office has been mentioned by another. Being personally acquainted with the man, we know him to be well qualified for and highly deserving the office.

He is a man of strict integrity, an old citizen and an ardent Republican. He is a man of the people and has stood up nobly for their best interests. He has had considerable experience serving the public and no one has served us better, therefore, it is with much pleasure that we suggest the name of Hon. A. F. George.

Not long since there was much said about the rights of the people and the expenditure of a few hundred dollars of public funds for printing, publishing, etc. Whether the amount thus expended was excessive or not we will not stop to consider, but those same persons appear quite conservative if not silent in regard to the infamous acts of the extra session of our State Legislature. One hundred thousand dollars or more of the public funds of our State is being expended as a result of the uncalled for "session," while thousands of good honest taxpayers are further outraged by being disfranchised and robbed of an inalienable right that they hitherto enjoyed. The parties referred to above remind us of the "Blind guides which strain at a gnat and swallow a camel."

JUSTICE.

Rooster's Crower Cut Off.

Since warm weather has come and windows are open in the early morning sleepers are roused by noises on the streets. In the city of Washington many complaints are being received by the police about the crowing of cocks and cackling of hens kept by persons in the resident portion of the city. The police regulations prohibit the keeping of such fowls when they are an annoyance, and a fine on the owner may be imposed. Inquiry at police headquarters elicited the information that such complaints should be supported by the testimony of two witnesses from different houses to show that the noise is a nuisance.

In this connection a story was told of a man in the northwestern section who had a rooster whose crowing qualities were of the best and whose voice could be heard all over the neighborhood. Finally his neighbors thought they could endure the noise no longer and they hauled the owner of the rooster into court. Here he promised the bird should trouble them no more, and on that promise was released. The next morning the neighbors saw the rooster in the yard and held an indignation meeting. Calling on the owner they wanted to know why he had not kept his promise. He asked them if the bird was annoying anyone. It had not yet, but they thought it might. He thereupon pointed to the rooster, which was flapping his wings and going through all the motions accompanying crowing, but without a sound issuing from his throat, and informed them that he had taken it to a veterinarian, who had removed its vocal cords. It is said the antics of the dumb rooster while attempting to crow are most amusing.

Attention, Farmers!

I will have one day in each week at Deer Park, Mountain Lake Park, Oakland and Terra Alta to take up wool. Learn the day and get the money. C. S. MAY.

Stops the Cough and Works off the Cold.

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 5 cents.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN.

ABOUT RURAL FREE DELIVERY ROUTES

Pamphlet of General Information Has Been Issued.

The Postoffice Department has issued a pamphlet of general information in regard to rural free delivery. It tells how to obtain rural free delivery service and gives a form of application to be sent, properly signed, to the member of Congress or to one of the Senators, with a request that he endorse the petition. This application should set forth the nature of the country where delivery is desired, whether densely or sparsely populated, the average distance each person now travels for his mail, the principal avocations of the people and the character of the roads. The petition should give the length of the route, indicating the same by a rough map or plot, and should be signed by only heads of families. It should mention the number in each family over 16 years of age.

Good roads is an essential pre-requisite to an investigation. The routes which, under ordinary circumstances, must be from 20 to 25 miles in length, should be so arranged that the carrier will not travel over the same ground twice. Those desiring free delivery must put up at their own expense, appropriate boxes in accordance with the orders of the department.

The Postmaster General has designated a number of boxes as complying substantially with the requirements laid down by a commission appointed by him for that purpose. Before service will be established it will be necessary for the patrons to select one of these boxes for use on the route, the boxes on each route to be uniform. The prices of these boxes range from $1 up to a little over $3, including locks.

When a rural free delivery route has been uniformly equipped with boxes, the Department will consider these boxes entitled to the protection of the United States Statutes which provides severe penalties for wilful malicious injury to them or interference with their contents.

The carriers are not required to deliver mail to houses back from the road, except registered mail, special delivery and pension letters. The patrons are expected to assist in keeping the roads in passable condition.

Only packages weighing over three pounds or those otherwise unmailable may be delivered by the carrier without postage, provided their doing so does not interfere with the prompt handling of the mail.

The carriers are under the general control of the postmaster from whose office the service is established. They must give bond for $500 and receive a maximum salary of $500 per annum for a full route. They cannot sublet their work, but in case of sickness or when on leave of absence, their duties are performed by their regular substitute, who must also give bond for $500, and who receives the full pay of the carrier when on duty.

Carriers are required to take with them each day a responsible amount of stamps, postal cards and envelopes. Unstamped letters found in boxes accompanied by the proper amount of money will be stamped by the carriers. They are required to cancel the stamps on all letters collected by them. All letters collected by carriers are subject to the two cent rate of postage.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

C. F. Dawson has the contract for painting Mrs. K. E. Davis' four cottages.

S. R. Harmison, cashier of the Mechanics National Bank, Clarksburg, W. Va., was a visitor at the Park last Thursday and rented Mrs. Davis' cottage on the corner of E and Oak streets.

Miss Orange and niece, Miss Webb, of Cincinnati, expect to reach the Park today. They will occupy the Fullerton cottage for the summer.

Mrs. D. W. Smith is expected in a day or two to put Braethorn cottage in order for the summer.

Dr. Mills and wife, of New York, will be here the latter part of the month to spend a few weeks. The Doctor is to participate in the opening exercises June 1-2. You ought to hear him.

Samuel Lawton was at the Park Monday drumming up business for Naylor's plumbing establishment.

Call For Your Letters.

Mrs. Ella Milk, Miss C. W. Bush, Miss Blanche Browning, Miss Grace Pernoft, Miss Lydia Slaughbaugh, Mr. C. W. Armacort, Jas. A. Duckworth, Mr. Jas. H. Smith, Mr. H. Hesser, Mr. W. H. Trirruger, Mr. H. E. Thompson, Mr. W. Isaacs.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The Secretary of War has decided that the improved conditions in the Philippines will justify a reduction of the army in those islands to at least 40,000 men. There are now in the Philippine archipelago 50,000 regulars in addition to the volunteer regiments which have been ordered home. The surrender of the numerous Filipino leaders and the capture of Aguinaldo are held as sufficient justification by the War Department for this reduction. There are now in the United States about 9,600 of the ten new infantry and cavalry regiments recently organized. All of these troops are to be forwarded to the Philippines as soon as convenient. Their arrival and the reduction of the army to 40,000 men will permit 20,000 men to be sent home, who have seen two years service in the tropics.

The plans of the War Department are based on the theory that an army will be required in the Philippines for a prolonged period, and with that end in view it has been decided that troops shall not have more than two years service there, thus insuring them one year out of three in the United States.

The State Department has paid to the Mexican government, through the Mexican ambassador here, $2,000 as full indemnity to the heirs of Florentine Suaste, a Mexican citizen, who was lynched in La Salle county, Texas, in 1895. The payment was provided by Congress, out of humane consideration, and without reference to the question of federal liability. The Mexican ambassador has forwarded the amount to his government to be paid over to the heirs.

It is learned at the State Department that the President has made no statement through of any the usual channels to the effect that he should refuse to receive Paul Kruger officially or unofficially. The government has made no promise as to the character of his reception.

Consul General Guenther at Frankfort reports to the State Department that in consequence of the South African War horses are in great demand in England. Between October, 1899, and the 31st of January, 1901, 35,775 mares and geldings and 3,627 stallions were bought in the United Kingdom for South Africa; other countries furnished 36,314 mares and geldings and 45,516 stallions for the same purpose. The British horses, especially those from Ireland, are said to have been the most desirable, those from the United States and Canada following.

The Spanish treaty claims commission is likely to be overwhelmed with an avalanche of claims for damages sustained by members of the crew of the battleship Maine, that was blown up in Havana harbor. Some enterprising firm of lawyers in New York has already filed a couple of claims, and no doubt more will follow. It is regarded as rather a novel contention that the commission should take jurisdiction of claims of this kind, but the petitions are very carefully worded, and it is probable that the commission will have to hold a special meeting to pass upon the subject.

Baron Fava, the Italian ambassador, has arranged to sail from New York May 16. He is now in New York, but will return to make a farewell call at the State Department. The new Italian ambassador to Washington is still at Buenos Ayres, and will proceed to Rome before coming here to assume his duties.

New York harbor is to be defended by the most formidable gun in the world. In length it is 49 feet 3 inches, and weighs 130 tons. The bore is 16 inches. Five hundred and seventy-six pounds of smokeless or 1176 pounds of black powder will be used at a charge, and this will throw a projectile of 2370 pounds at the rate of 2300 feet a second. No battleship in the world could withstand the impact of such a mass. The gun's range is estimated at about 21 miles.

Col. Charles C. Bryne, assistant surgeon general of the army, was retired today on reaching the age limit. Col. Bryne is a graduate of the University of Maryland and a native of that State. He entered the army in 1860 as an assistant surgeon and reached his present rank December 4, 1893. He was made major and lieutenant colonel March 13, 1865, for faithful and meritorious service during the war. He was last stationed at Governor's Island, N. Y.

Wool.

C. S. May, of Swanton has eleven barrels of money to spend for wool this year. 4t

Naylor has just received another car of fertilizers, good for crops of all kinds. 8 3t

PEOPLE SHOULD HELP.

Streets May Be Kept Free From Waste By Citizens.

The following may be of interest and profit to our people who want clean streets. It is commended to their earnest attention. It is a notice which the mayor of Parkersburg has just issued. He says:

"I find that we are incurring a large annual expenditure in attempting to keep the streets clean and free from filth, and yet I find our merchants, business men and residents are daily filling our streets with paper, hay, garbage and other debris, expecting the same to be removed by the city at a large expense. The Chief of Police has been instructed that the city ordinances shall be strictly enforced—which makes it an offense for anyone 'to cast any earth, brick, stone, lime, mortar, shavings, ashes, coal cinders, straw, hay, paper, mud or other filth or annoyances into any street or alley or sidewalk'—a due observance of this ordinance will probably save the city an annual expense of one thousand dollars ($1000) per year. Our streets are today strewn with filth and debris of all kinds by the careless acts of its citizens—this cannot continue Merchants and other business houses should provide receptacles for paper and other refuse, located at proper points and when filled have the same removed, otherwise they must suffer the penalty imposed by the ordinance."

A Sprained Ankle Quickly Cured.

"At one time I suffered from a severe sprain of the ankle," says Geo. E. Cary, editor of the Guide, Washington, Va. "After using several well recommended medicines without success, I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and am pleased to say that relief came as soon as I began its use and a complete cure speedily followed. This remedy has also been used in my family for frost bitten feet with the best results. I cheerfully recommend its use to all who may need a first-class liniment." Sold by all dealers.

ACCIDENT.

Garden making and house cleaning is the order of the day among the town folk.

Farmers through sowing oats; preparing to plant corn.

A much needed rain would be appreciated.

Traveling salesmen and machine agents are about as numerous as flies in this section.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hartig and family, of Frostburg, arrived on Monday and are the guests of Mrs. H.'s parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zinkan.

Misses Martha Welch and Sadie Glotfelty, of the Normal, spent Saturday and Sunday at their homes at McHenry.

Mr. George Schevel has moved onto the farm recently purchased from Wm. Garringer.

Senator Ravenscroft and family are in Allegany county this week visiting.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Guthrie, of Blooming Rose, were guests of John P. Spiker.

Everett Dunham, of Friendsville, was seen on our streets Tuesday evening.

Dr. W. Ravenscroft is having a slate roof put on the Bellevue.

Mr. Aaron Boyer's residence is nearing completion. It is now in the hands of the painters. Messrs. V. Kahl & Son are doing the work.

Centennial Celebration, Church of United Brethren in Christ, Frederick, Md., May 10-15—One Fare Round Trip. Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

For this occasion the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell tickets from all points on its lines east of the Ohio River, exclusive of Philadelphia, Pa., to Frederick, Md., at the low rate of One Fare for the Round Trip, good going on all trains of May 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th, valid for return until May 15th, 1901, inclusive.

For tickets and full information call on Agents Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

An Old Landmark Sold.

Yesterday the Meyers grist mill was sold by the Misses Meyers, through their agent, J. Wilson Humbird of Cumberland, to Mr. Joseph Leith, of this borough. The old structure will at once be remodeled and improved, and the second and third floors utilized for manufacturing purposes. On the ground floor will be installed, by eastern capitalists, an up-to-date electric plant of immense capacity for both light and power purposes. This is the realization of the Commercial's dream of an electric road between here and Grantsville and intermediate points, a project for which it has labored so incessantly for years. Full particulars next week. Mr. Leith also bought from the same parties several lots on Second avenue.—Meyersdale Commercial.

Cows for Sale.

I have seven cows for sale, most of them being fresh. W. H. Chadderton, Deer Park, Md. 2t

THE REPUBLICAN.

BENJ. H. SINCELL. Publisher.

OAKLAND, : GARRETT CO., MD.

NOT TO HAVE BEEN.

People call me a pessimist, and if it is pessimism to think, with Sophocles, that "not to have been born is best," then I do not reject the designation.—Thomas Hardy.

If I had not been born to take
The place God gave me here—
To do my best for some one's sake,
To make my presence dear
To others who must fare along
To distant isles of rest,
To ne'er have heard a lover's song—
Oh, would it have been best?

The lark is singing on the bough
In honest ecstasy;
The world were poorer even now
But for his tuneful glee.
A rose is fastened in the hair
Of one whose heart is gay,
And by its fragrant gleaming there
Lends gladness to the day.

O am I less than rose or bird
That I should sit in doubt?
And have I ne'er by act or word
Spread happiness about?
Ah, mean his aim and base his lot
Who harbors in his breast
The feeling that if he had not
Been born it had been best!
—S. E. Kiser, in Record-Herald.

An Irish Gentleman

By Frank H. Sweet.

(Copyright, 1901, by Authors Syndicate.)

DENIS MACMURRAGH, newly arrived, was standing in front of the post office, near the corner of Nassau and Liberty streets, gazing about with bewildered indecision. Two weeks before he had left his quiet home in the north of Ireland, and since then his life had been an uninterrupted succession of wonderful surprises. But neither Belfast nor Liverpool, nor his long journey across the water had thrilled him as did this hurrying, intense, absorbed mass of humanity that was surging about him. It fascinated even while it caused him to draw back toward the building, as though he feared to be caught in its relentless grasp and borne away.

In his own home he had been accustomed to take off his hat to every woman he met on the country roads, and to wish them the "top of a morning," or the "luck of the day," or the kind protection of some especially benignant saint or fairy, but here women seemed to be only an unrecognized part of the confusing whole. They hurried past the men, and the men hurried past them, and they crossed and recrossed with absolute unconcern and apparent unconsciousness of each other's existence.

But even in this place of busy, heterogeneous humanity the crowd found time for more than one admiring glance toward the colossal, strangely appareled figure near the post office. Denis towered head and shoulders above most of them, and his strong, beardless face was inclosed by a shock of curling, yellow-brown hair which had seen little of brush and comb, save his fingers and the thorn of his native Fermanagh thickets. It was almost as if some wild god of the ancients were standing there, appalled and fascinated by the seething modern life around him.

"HOW'D YE LIKE TO BE ON THE FORCE?"

Presently there was a slight ripple in the stream, and some of the eddies wavered under the momentary impulse of curiosity. A hungry woman had filched an apple from a stand, and a policeman was dragging her along the sidewalk. But only a few steps, then a massive figure hurled itself through the crowd like a catapult, and a strong grasp fell upon the policeman's shoulder and sent him whirling out toward the middle of the street, twisting and turning and trying in vain to grasp something for support, until at last he fell prone upon the pavement. And after him roared an angry: "Ye graceless omadhoun! Let that tache yez to keep your sacrilegious hands off a woman!"

Back on the sidewalk Dennis was bending over the crouching, sobbing woman.

"Did the spalpeen hurt yez, ma'am?" he asked, gently.

The crowd snickered a little at the gentleness applied to the wretched, barefoot creature on the sidewalk, but their mirth was quickly checked by the blazing face which was turned toward them.

"No, sir; I—I was hungry, and—"

"Hungry!" the voice quivered with astonishment and indignation. "Hungry! wid all these people near yez wearin' kid gloves an' silks?" He rose to his full height and glared around, as though he would annihilate the entire crowd, then the blaze left his face and he laughed scornfully.

"Out upon yez for a pack of bloodless spalpeens! Here, ma'am," thrusting his hand into his pocket and drawing out a handful of small coins, "it's all I have, acushla, but ye're welcome to it. An' mebbe this'll be afther keepin' yez a bit warm," removing his coat and throwing it about her shoulders. "Now shall I be helpin' yez home?"

"No, no; thank you, sir. I—I have no home." She rose quickly and slipped into the crowd. He made a movement as though he would follow, but at that moment a vicious hand clutched his arm, and the red, angry face of the policeman scowled into his.

"Now ye'll be comin' wid me! An' mind yez! I'll shoot that rid head off, if ye resist," and the incensed officer's words were emphasized by the sharp click of a revolver.

Denis shook the grasp from his arm and loked down curiously.

"So ye've come ag'in, have yez?" he said, the color beginning to flame back to his face. "I tho't mebbe ye'd be havin' enough. Now, I've a good notion to thry an' bate a little dacency into ye. No man wid an Irish tongue ought iver to abuse a woman."

The policeman was a plucky fellow, but he drew back involuntarily from the storm he saw gathering on the face before him.

"It's an officer I am," he expostulated, "an' I must protict the law. I niver use the revolver barrin' it's nadeful, but ye must come wid me. The woman was sthalin', and ye interfered wid me duty."

Denis had listened impatiently, but the first wonder and incredulity had gradually given place to whimsical resignation.

"An' officer to protict the law," he repeated, and for the first time he seemed to notice that the man was dressed differently from the others around him. "Well, it's mesilf has no call to fight the law, bein' newly arrived. I'll go along wid ye, but mind, your hands must be kept off me."

"Ye're jist over, I take it?" the policeman said, as they moved down the sidewalk.

"From the ould counthry, yes."

"I knew it from your tongue. An' ye're from the north of Ireland, too, county Fermanagh. Why, mon! whin ye sent me whirlin' and twistin' out into the street, grabbin' the air for somethin' to clutch me tin fingers into, I was that mad I could have clubbed ye. But whin I heard the howl ye sint afther me, I tho't of the Enniskillen Fair an' the rale ould shindies the b'ys used to have there."

Denis stopped on the sidewalk, and oblivious of the pushing and elbowing of irate pedestrians, was regarding his companion with new interest.

"So it's a Fermanagh mon ye are," he said, more graciously. "From what part?"

"Ballygad. Michael Flynn's me name, an' it's cousin I am to the Bradys o' Kintal, an' they're cousins to the Cogans o' Erne, an' they're cousins to the MacMurraghs thimselves. A fine ould family the MacMurraghs, barrin' they've lost iverything an' have to work like common folks. But what part are you from?"

"Cloughshannon. I'm Denis MacMurragh."

He would have moved on, but Flynn caught his hand.

"MacMurragh! Tare an' 'ounds! An' I would have clubbed ye! Shure, it's mesilf should have known ye wid thim shoulders an' that head. But how come ye in the States?"

"Work," answered Denis, grimly. "We've sold the last cow an' bit of land. An' there's me ould father an' mother, an' a round dozen of brothers an' sisters to look afther. I'm wantin' to bring them up well, an' maybe to give thim a bit of learnin' an' a sthart out."

They were walking along the sidewalk now, and Michael Flynn was scratching his chin in deep thought. Suddenly he looked up.

"How'd ye like to be on the foorce?"

"The what?"

"The foorce—be an officer like me. It's a fine job, good pay an' aisy work, barrin' a bit of shindy now an' thin. It's money ye could soon be savin' up for the ould folks an' the childer."

Denis shook his head.

"It's mesilf couldn't be takin' up hungry women."

"Thin lave thim alone. There'd be plinty other work for ye. Why, mon, ye'd be aqual to a dozen common officers down on Water street. The sight o' thim big shoulders would sind ivery law breaker skurryin'. An' there'd be no trouble about gettin' yez the job. The inshpector married me own cousin, an' the captain himsilf is an Ulster mon. An' besides, they're always lookin' out for big, sthrong recruits. They'd snap ye up on sight. An' there's another thing, "lowering his voice, "the b'ys round here vote for the mon they like, an' there's plinty o' thim have heard o' the MacMurraghs. The foorce'll be a good place for ye to sthart from, but wid the b'ys behind there's no tellin' where ye'll bring up. A MacMurragh, wid the MacMurragh shoulders an' head an' sthrong ways an' tinder heart, could do anything wid the folks that knew him."

He hesitated a moment, and then went on with some constraint: "We'll say no more about arrestin' ye. It's me own person recaved the offinse, an' I've the right to settle it widout callin' in the law. But about the foorce. Shall I ricommend ye?"

Denis looked down at him thoughtfully.

"Yes," he answered; "but it's executin' the law in a dacent way I'll be doin'."

DRESSING THE HANDS.

The Proper Thing in Gloves for the Spring and Summer Seasons.

White gloves have been in regular fashionable standing for 12 years now, and by all signs and omens for reading the future they are good for another dozen years of modish patronage. Very heavy cream-white dogskin gloves are the choicest dress for the hands in the morning. These boast one button, not of the patent-clasp variety, and because they are of the shape and color and easy wrinkled fit of those worn by the small Jehus who adorn the boxes of handsome private carriages, they pass under the very descriptive title of coachman's gloves, says a fashion authority.

There is a gun-metal gray glace glove, stitched in white, or silk, of the same shade as the kid, and fastened with large silver buttons, that struggles with some success for recognition among the well-gowned shoppers, who call them coaching gloves. In reality, they are meant for wear on the box seat of a trap and because every woman does something more or less athletic these days, the morning gloves are as loose as the skin on a high-bred dog's back.

For afternoon and evening the spring modes in gloves have novel features. Pure white and very thin suede, embroidered elaborately in black or a color, is of the novelties novel. Embroidery is considered especially appropriate on the long gloves. The needlework begins at the back of the hand, goes wreathing gracefully around the arm and flowers out in a petal-shaped edging at the end, somewhere in the region of the shoulder. Some brave spirits are exploiting with their black evening gowns long black suede gloves brilliantly embroidered in silver, into the mesh of which an occasional rhinestone is woven.

With black gowns it is not at all out of the way to wear gants de suede in gun-metal color, enlivened by a dazzling row of rhinestone buttons, set in gun-metal frames and running from the wrist nearly to the shoulder. White gloves of this same type have been seen with little round bullet turquoise buttons, and on the arm a bracelet or two is worn, just to show the glitter of the jewels against the dusky kid surface.

DAINTY NAPERY.

What a Well Stocked Linen Closet Contained in Table Cloths, Etc.

A peep at the well filled shelves of a linen closet just stocked up with the newest of pretty table linen has disclosed some fascinating wonders for dainty housekeeping, says the New York Herald.

Of the six table cloths there to be seen, five were of sturdy, lustrous Irish linen and one of French linen damask, with an especially artistic design. All the cloths had a set of napkins to match and were designed respectively with the fleur de lys pattern, the walls of Troy and pansy together, the daisy and polka dot pattern, a close design of fan pattern, the shamrock and walls of Troy, and a rose pattern, which adorned the French set.

In addition to these were two round cloths with scalloped edges. These were shown with great pride by the young housekeeper as the most correct thing for the round table tea party.

A many-colored array of centerpieces, doilies and scarfs next came to view. Besides those embroidered with silks there were several centerpieces and small covers of the exquisitely Mexican drawn and wheel work. One piece of the fairylike wheel work, about half a yard in diameter, was prized at $50 by its owner. It looked almost fine enough to melt away.

There were several pieces of substantial Saxony drawn work upon the latticed linen of which heavy embroidery finds such a becoming background. Several scarfs and side table covers of this promised a most attractive showing on polished surfaces.

The lunch cloths and napkins were all giddy, giddy gay. They were the new "art" effects. Several colors were employed in the decoration of one cloth, and the flower designs were quite large. One was the hollyhock pattern, another the morning glory and a third the wide spreading lotus. These cloths, set off with cut glass and silver, are very attractive when they do not disagree with the color scheme of the rest of the room.

The three sets in this particular collection all managed to keep within the bounds required for them.

Rhubarb with Figs.

Wash half a pound of bag or pulled figs and cook in boiling water to cover until the water is nearly absorbed. Skin and cut a pound of rhubarb in one-inch pieces. Put a layer in a baking dish, sprinkle with sugar, add a layer of figs, repeat until all is used; put in one-fourth cup of hot water and bake in a slow oven until the rhubarb is soft. Dates or raisins may be used in the same manner.—Good Housekeeping.

Cut Flower Hints.

An authority advises that the ends of the stems of cut flowers should not rest on the bottom of the vase, and also that in the daily cutting of the ends, which prolongs the life of cut flowers, they should be snipped at right angles to the stalk. Cut flowers should never be placed in a draught or in the direct sunlight, and if they can be removed from the room in the evening, when the gas is burning, they will keep much longer.—N. Y. Post.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

Quoteby—"Art is long." Bigrox—"And it's high, too; I paid $10,000 for that picture."—Indianapolis News.

Stranger (at a professional theater)—"The young soubrette allows the leading man actually to kiss her!" Native—"O, that's all right! He is her son!"—Boston Gazette.

An Excuse.—Mistress—"Another breakage, Jane? And a wedding present, too! How ever did you do it?" Jane (sobbing)—"They al—ways break—when I—drop 'em."—Punch.

Jack—"No; I don't see May as much as I used to." Jill—"Really? Why, I heard you were engaged." Jack—"That's just it. It's dark in the parlor when I call now."—Philadelphia Record.

Hard Lines.—"Hard luck?" said the soubrette, earnestly. "Why, we hadn't been on the road two weeks before we had to pawn the magnificent diamond which was to be presented to the star by her admirers at every town."—Indianapolis Press.

"Do you believe in luck?" "Sure. Now, I had great luck to-day. On my way to work this morning I picked up a pin—." "For goodness' sake! You don't mean to say you believe in that old superstition?" "No superstition about it. This pin had a diamond in it."—Philadelphia Press.

A Logician.—"Little boy," said the kindly old gentleman, "you must not cry. You know it is a waste of time to cry." And the little boy who is from Boston dried his tears long enough to remark: "And it is also a waste of time to tell anybody it is a waste of time to cry."—Washington Star.

Caste.—The Heifer quivered as to her lips. "Once a scrub, always a scrub!" she sighed. "Oh, mamma!" "Yes, daughter!" said the cow, sadly. "The only way a scrub may become a thoroughbred, imported Jersey, so far as I know, is to be killed by the cars and have suit for her value brought against the company!"—Detroit Journal.

SAILOR AS A POLICEMAN.

Fails to Dispense with Seaman's Vernacular in Making an Official Report.

One was formerly a truck driver, but was promoted to the dignity of a gripman on a surface car, which may in a measure account for the fact that the driver of the express van, who had once been in the railroad business himself, ran pell mell into the car not far from the post office one morning. The pole of the express wagon made a wreck of the side of the car and one of the wheels of the wagon broke and another truck hauled her off to the junkshop, says the New York Mail and Express. The sergeant at a downtown police station was figuring up his life insurance policies when a tall, lank policeman, who was originally a sailor, walked in and handed this slip:

"Shortly before eight bells this morning a serious collision occurred on Broadway north of Rector street. A traction car with a full cargo of passengers bound south was run into by an express wagon, light, bound north. The wagon struck the car on the port side forward, the jibboom of the truck going through the side of the car. The upper works of the car were carried away for a distance of several feet, and, the wagon rebounding, the jibboom raked the car clear fore and aft. Some of the passengers were thrown to the deck and a panic was narrowly averted by the crew of the car. The forward propeller of the truck on the port side was carried away, and she careened by the head, throwing the pilot to the icy pavement. The truck was subsequently taken in tow by a passing vehicle under a verbal agreement as to salvage. There were no other casualties."

We were discussing the fitness of this report at police headquarters some weeks later, when an East side assemblyman, who was present, hauled a letter from his pocket and said:

"Well, I have a report that beats that all over. You remember McCann, who opened a gin-mill up town after he came from sea? He couldn't kep things going, so he went out with a western railroad. He married recently, the seventh time, I guess, and this is what he wrote me of the affair:

"'My wife is just as handsome a craft as ever left the millinery dry dock, is clipper built, and with a figurehead not often seen on small craft. At the time we were spliced she was newly rigged fore and aft, with standing rigging of lace and flowers; mainsail part silk and forestaysail of valenciennes. Her frame was of the best steel, covered with silk, with whalebone stanchions. This rigging is intended for fair weather cruising. She answers the helm beautifully and can turn around in her own length if handsomer craft passes her.'

"Well, it may be another story," remarked one of the inspectors, "but that craft is likely to run up against a pretty bad squall in marrying McCann. But, seriously, I know hundreds of members of the police force who were originally at sea, and who have a most trying time dropping their nautical lingo when discussing a subject. Easier for them to stop breathing than to drop their belays and avasts."

Wise Beyond His Years.

Anxious Mother — Tommy, your teacher says you are the poorest scholar in your class.

Tommy—That's nothing. It is only because I don't answer all the questions she is asking every day. It isn't wise to tell all you know to a woman, even if she does happen to be a schoolteacher.—Boston Transcript.

IDEAS OF HUMOR CHANGE.

Comicalities Relished a Generation Ago Are Now Regarded as Very Stupid.

There appears to have been a vast change in the pictorial work of the humorous periodicals in the last few years, so much so, in fact, that the humorous ideal seems to have been shifted. A few years ago the illustrations in a certain class of these papers were almost invariably of some artistic merit in a serious though often unmeaning way; now they are, for the most part, grotesque and broadly comic. Before the "joke" was to be found in the text beneath the picture. Now it is in the picture itself and often the text is dispensed with altogether. Most of the humorous papers still retain one or two artists whose work is of the finer order, as a connecting link between the old manner and the new and in order that he may furnish a slight counterpoise to the comic preponderance. But the man whose wares are most readily accepted and which command the highest figure is the caricaturist or the "original," who has discovered some distorted point of view of things. Their pictures amuse in themselves and the text, if text there be, is a factitious aid, says the New York Post.

A New York artist who used to command a comfortable living by drawing for the humorous papers comments rather ruefully on this change in style. "Have you observed," he said, "that the 'he and she' picture has gone the way of all flesh? There is no market for it now. I used to support myself doing 'he and she' pictures and nothing else. They would take as many of them as I cared to draw. All that I had to do was to put a man and a woman on a bench or a sofa or strolling down a shady lane, or sitting on the seashore, and their funny men did the rest. I would not know what joke was going with the picture until I saw it in the paper. The jokes were always 'He'—then his remark, and 'She'—and her reply. That is the way this type of picture got its name.

"Finally, however, the editors of these papers drew the artistic reins tighter. They said that there was nothing in the expressions of the 'he' and 'she' to indicate that they were saying the lines the funny man had given them. Sometimes, you see, I would have a man leaning carelessly over the back of a rustic seat smiling down at a girl, while, according to the lines, she was giving him the 'mitten.' The members of the 'he and she' school were gradually crowded out by the 'comics' and if they could not adapt themselves to the new style had to seek other fields. Of course I do not mean to say there are no more 'he and she' pictures in the comic papers. They will appear, but you will observe that they are not only very well done from an artistic point of view, but that the action in them squares with the sense of the lines beneath.

"What is the reason for this change in the humorous papers?" echoed the artist to a question. "Well, it would be hard to say. It is more than a fashion, I think. Call it rather an evolution. One reason, I believe, is the great improvement in the last few years of the illustrations in the serious monthlies and weeklies. The public sees so much excellent pictorial work in these nowadays that it would be surfeited if it found this work in the comic papers too. They turn to them for the 'funny' pictures."

A Test of Sanity.

A gentleman was once being taken over an idiot asylum. He asked an attendant how they knew when an idiot was considered to be sufficiently restored to sanity to be discharged.

"Oh," said the attendant, "it is easily managed. We take them into a yard where there are several troughs. We turn on the taps and then give the idiots buckets to bail out the water and empty the troughs. Many of them keep bailing away while the taps keeps running, but them that isn't idiots stops the tap."—Tit-Bits.

His Voiceless Grief.

Til'ets—Tyrder looked very sad when he heard that telephoning across the ocean is possible.

Crustham—I suppose he did, poor fellow. It will be an unhappy day for him when he cannot get beyond the reach of his wife's voice.—Harper's Bazar.

"Then what is your reason for marrying her?" "I have no reason. I'm in love."—Philadelphia Times.

The happiest life is that which constantly exercises and educates what is best in us.—Hamerton.

The man who is never idle has no time to be mean.—Chicago Daily News.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

"Dew all the good yew kin, but don't neglect yewr dewty ter dew it."—N. Y. Herald.

FRAGRANT
SOZODONT
a perfect liquid dentifrice for the Teeth and Mouth
New Size SOZODONT LIQUID, 25c
SOZODONT TOOTH POWDER, 25c
Large LIQUID and POWDER, 75c
25c
At all Stores, or by Mail for the price.
HALL & RUCKEL, New York.

Easy and Delicious Desserts.

Burnham's Hasty Jelycon makes delicious desserts. You have nothing to do but dissolve it in hot water and set it away to cool; it makes a delicious transparent and delightful jelly dessert. Flavors: orange, lemon, strawberry, raspberry, peach, wild cherry and unflavored "calfsfoot" for making wine and coffee jellies. Get a package today at your grocer's.

Sudden and Severe attacks of Neuralgia

come to many of us, but however bad the case
St. Jacobs Oil
penetrates promptly and deeply, soothes and strengthens the nerves and brings a sure cure.
TRADE MARK

DO YOU COUGH
DON'T DELAY
TAKE KEMP'S BALSAM
THE BEST COUGH CURE
It Cures Coughs Colds, Croup, Sore Throat, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Price, 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

How Straight Is a Chinaman?

A Chinaman is universally considered to be a liar. And so he is. But after a few years of initiation I have never found much difficulty in extracting the truth from any Chinaman, be he milkman or mandarin. Not only so. I have always felt great confidence in the truthfulness of my own servants, though they often popped out sundry lies. We have our own lies—divorce court lies, club lies, society lies, husband and wife lies, and so on. The distinction is that we lie with a different motive. * * * A Chinaman is thought to be a thief. * * * I always kept the safe locked, possessed no jewelry I had not always on, and I never locked up anything but money and important papers; particularly, I never locked up wine and cigars. During the whole course of my life in China (with one notable exception, when a thief at an inn walked off with me and my bed in my sleep, deposited me in a handy spot and extracted a valuable fur coat from underneath me) I was never robbed of anything.—"China, Her History."

You Can Get Allen's Foot-Ease FREE.

Write to-day to Allen S. Olmsted, Leroy, N. Y., for a FREE sample of Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder to shake into your shoes. It cures chilblains, sweating, damp, swollen, aching feet. It makes New or tight shoes easy. A certain cure for Corns and Bunions. All druggists and shoe stores sell it. 25c.

ABSOLUTE SECURITY.
Genuine
Carter's
Little Liver Pills.
Must Bear Signature of
Brent Good
See Fac-Simile Wrapper Below.
Very small and as easy to take as sugar.
CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.
FOR HEADACHE.
FOR DIZZINESS.
FOR BILIOUSNESS.
FOR TORPID LIVER.
FOR CONSTIPATION.
FOR SALLOW SKIN.
FOR THE COMPLEXION
Price 25 Cents
GENUINE MUST HAVE SIGNATURE.
Purely Vegetable. Brent Good
CURE SICK HEADACHE.

SEAFARING MEN
KNOW THE VALUE OF TOWER'S

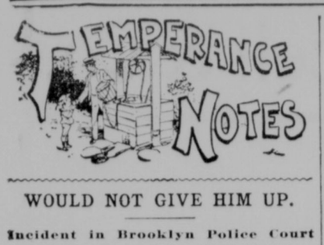
FISH BRAND
OILED CLOTHING
IT WILL KEEP YOU DRY IN THE WETTEST WEATHER
LOOK FOR ABOVE TRADE MARK
ON SALE EVERYWHERE
CATALOGUES FREE
SHOWING FULL LINE OF GARMENTS AND HATS.
A. J. TOWER CO., BOSTON, MASS.

RHEUMATISM Van Buren's Rheumatic Compound is the only positive cure. Past experience speaks for itself. Depot 88 S. California Ave., Chicago.



WOULD NOT GIVE HIM UP.

Incident in Brooklyn Police Court Which Showed Boy Had Right Stuff in Him.

"I won't leave my father when he's in trouble. I've been with him since he left mother. He's done the best he could for me, and I don't want to leave him now, your honor, please!"

The place was a Brooklyn police court. The speaker, a boy of 11, tried to keep the tears out of his eyes, and snuggled affectionately against the man in the dock, whose hand, trembling more from dissipation than emotion, caressed the lad's head.

The man had been the head of a happy household, but his appetite for drink had broken it up, and at last had led to his arrest. He realized the depths into which he had fallen, and cursed his weakness. He had even implored the judge to save him from himself, to sentence him for a time to some institution where he might be removed from temptation and regain, if possible, his lost self-control. It was then that the boy had spoken.

It came out that, after the wrecking of the home, the boy had clung to the father, going where he went and living where he lived, to "take care of him," he said. The scenes of degradation through which the miserable man had passed seemed to have left the boy's character unsullied, and now, in order to be with the miserable wretch whom he still called father, he was willing to undergo an ordeal from which most boys would have shrunk with horror.

The judge, perplexed as well as moved, finally remanded the father till

"I DON'T WANT TO LEAVE HIM NOW."

he could decide upon a satisfactory disposition of his case, and a spectator in the court, a man of means and influence, came forward and agreed to provide for the boy, and see that an opportunity was given him to become an honest and self-respecting citizen. "He has the stuff in him for that, and more," he said.

Here the story ends, so far as the newspaper reports of it go, but so far as the actors in the tragedy are concerned, it is far from ended. One cannot help hoping, not only that the spectator in the courtroom was right in his estimate of the boy's character, but that sooner or later such a love must have its influence on the poor wretch of a father, and call him back to the duties he has so long neglected. —Youth's Companion.

BREVITIES.

Speaking of rum and civilization, it seems to be a fact that the elimination of the bar would, in a sense at least, leave very little of barbarism.—Detroit Journal.

In southern France, where beer costs 26 cents and milk 15 cents a quart, new wine has been lately on sale in unlimited quantities at two cents a quart.

A recent order of the Belgium government prohibits either the sale or the drinking of intoxicants in the vicinity of the chambers during the sittings of the legislature, and hereafter the members will have to content themselves with tea, coffee and the like.

A celebrated physician says there has been a great increase of juvenile smoking in London, and other large cities of England, and he favors parliamentary dealing with this matter, for he says that the use of tobacco early in life must have a disastrous effect on the longevity of the race.

Mrs. M. Deckard, of Elnora, Ind., who objected to having her husband conduct a saloon, visited his place of business on February 26, armed with a hatchet, and completely demolished it. She has served notice on all the other saloon men of Elnora to quit the business or suffer the consequences.

Absinthe in Swiss Army.

Some sensational facts concerning the prevalence of absinthe drinking in the Swiss army have lately been published by Dr. Chatelain, a military doctor on active service. He states that out of the 200,000 men who have passed under his care within the last four years, 24,000 men were suffering from the effects of absinthe in a greater or less degree. Official statistics, he adds, also show that 12 per cent. of the male population over 20 years of age of the 15 largest towns in Switzerland are every year victims of absinthe, and the vice is spreading to an alarming extent. Dr. Chatelain advocates the passing of a bill for the control of the sale of absinthe.

GREATEST ROBBER ON EARTH.

The Liquor Traffic Arraigned and Found to Be Greatest Foe to Mankind.

The greatest robber on earth is that which deprives us of the most precious possession that a man or woman can have. And what is that? Is it a well-filled pocketbook, or a good bank account? No, for some of the poorest, most miserable souls on earth have fat pocketbooks and healthy bank accounts. Is it a luxurious home with all the modern adornments? No, for a gilded cage cannot make a happy bird, and in the most sumptuous home may dwell the most wretched of slaves—the slaves of vice and passion. Is it fame, reputation, power, glory? No, for the next wind of popular favor may dash these baubles to the ground and leave us reciting the lament which Shakespeare puts into the mouth of Cardinal Wolsey.

The most precious possession which any man can have is his own true, independent, selfrespecting manhood, and the greatest robber on earth is that which robs a man of that.

The most precious possession which any woman can have is her own true, tender, virtuous womanhood, and the greatest specific evil on earth is that which deprives women of that.

Monopolies are an evil which American people must grapple with; but even if all that the most eloquent "calamity howler" in the world has said be true, what is it that the monopolies rob us of? Money, goods, chattels; but not manhood. All the monopolies of all time can't rob one man of his manhood or one woman of her womanhood. Wall street can't do it; a Chinese wall tariff can't do it. "A man's a man for a' that." They may rob him of his home, rob him of his fair-weather friends, rob him of his money and turn him out a beggar and a tramp; but still "a man's a man for a' that," and if he stands by his own manhood it will stand by him.

There is, however, a robber that takes not only men's homes, their farms, their bank accounts, their reputation and their friends, but their manhood as well; which robs women not only of all the beauties and comforts of life, but of their womanhood as well, and which robs innocent little children of their childhood before they are out of their swaddling clothes. Who is that robber? There is hardly any reason to name him. Describe him, and the civilized world recognizes him at once as The Liquor Traffic—the greatest robber on earth.

There isn't a woe that all the other robbers can inflict that this chiefest of robbers is not inflicting to-day upon unnumbered thousands; and, in addition, he is inflicting far worse woes than any of the other robbers can inflict. He not only robs the people of this land of over one billion dollars a year—equal to $77 for every family—but there are two and a half millions of men and women in this land who have been robbed of their manhood and womanhood, robbed of their liberty, robbed of their self-respect, robbed of much of their ability as producers, and who are in a slavery worse than African slavery ever was, and the greatest robber on earth is responsible for it.—Rev. John F. Hill, D. D., in Presbyterian Banner.

SALOON SMASHING.

Some Supposable Cases Which Put Mrs. Nation's Work in a New Light.

Suppose we carry to its logical conclusion the following line of reasoning:

"First. A gentleman passes along a dark street at night. He hears commotion and excited voices as he approaches a residence. The window shades are up, permitting him to get a glimpse inside of a brutal, fiendish father holding a child in one hand and an upraised hatchet in the other, as if to brain the little one. The man on the street hurries to the house, batters down the door, which is locked, stays the hand of the criminal father, and saves the life of the child. While breaking and entering a building is a criminal offense in Iowa, as it is in all other states, no court of justice would convict the man who committed the offense under such circumstances.

"Second. A little child has gone out of doors on a bright summer day to amuse himself with play. He wanders into the road. The warm sunshine weighs the little eyelids with sleep and the child lies in the road, dead to any danger that might befall it. A runaway horse approaches. It is seen that the animal is blind in its madness and fright. It cannot be stopped by ordinary means. It threatens the life of the sleeping child. A man who is apprised of all the danger shoots the horse. Destroying the property of another in Iowa is a criminal offense, and yet no court of justice would award the owner of the horse damages. Human life is dearer than animal life. And are not 100,000 lives dearer than one life? Why not apply this reasoning to the saloon, which, though running legally, takes the lives of so many of our young men?"—Mrs. Ida W. Unruh, in an Interview in Iowa Newspaper.

Wine in Church Cookbooks.

A church at Newport, Ky., is all torn up over a cookbook, and it will be surprising if the cookbook itself does not meet a similar fate. It appears that the ladies of the church prepared a volume containing recipes and sold it for the good of the cause. It turns out that some of the recipes prescribed wine as one of the ingredients of certain dishes. About 2,000 copies of the book have been sold and 3,000 remain unsold. The pastor cannot recall all the sold copies, but he insists that in the unsold books all the wine receipts be marked in red ink as a warning to intending buyers.

WHITE-PLUMED ARMY

Louisville Will Welcome It with Genuine Hospitality.

Twenty-Eighth Triennial Conclave of the Knights Templar of America to Be Notable Social and Masonic Event.

[Special Louisville (Ky.) Letter.]

THE twenty-eighth triennial conclave of the Knights Templar of America will be held in Louisville August 27 to 30 next. It will bring together perhaps the largest number of members of this great order—the York branch of masonry—ever assembled. As the first meeting in the new century the Louisville and Kentucky Knights have determined to make it the most successful in other ways than attendance in the history of Templarism. They are backed by an entertainment fund of $100,000, one-fifth of which was subscribed by the city council.

Louisville had a long and hard fight covering a space of 12 years before being allowed the honor of welcoming the White-Plumed army, and only won at Pittsburgh in 1898 by 17 votes, defeating Milwaukee. It was at the Smoky City conclave that Right Eminent Sir Charles C. Vogt, of the Falls City, was chosen an officer of the grand encampment, the national governing body of Templary. He was elected grand captain of the guard, and although it will take 15 or more years for him to reach the highest position in the order, that of grand master, his home city considered the selection almost as great a reward as in getting the next meeting of the Knights. Mr. Vogt was therefore chosen president of the triennial committee and chairman of the executive committee, which have charge of the preliminary work of the twenty-eighth triennial.

One of his first appointments to a chairmanship of a standing committee was Col. J. T. Gathright, as head of the committee on hotels and accommodations. In this capacity Col.

INSIGNIA OF THE YORK RITE OF MASONRY.

Gathright has received every delegation of Templars that has visited Louisville to secure quarters for the conclave, and in this way has an acquaintanceship that extends in Templar circles into 35 states, this number of commonwealths having arranged to send large parties to the triennial. At the present time Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania are prettily evenly matched in the race for supremacy in largest state representation.

Col. Gathright believes that Louisville is prepared to care for a crowd of 150,000 during the triennial. There are 30 hotels, 250 boarding houses, a large number of the old southern homes for which Louisville is noted, a camp that will accommodate 4,000 and all the Pullman sidings for sleepers utilized as quarters, available for this purpose. It is thought from present indications that there will be 30,000 Knights and 10,000 ladies accompanying them. The rest of the crowd will come from the territory within a radius of 300 miles of Louisville.

COL. J. T. GATHRIGHT.
(Head of Louisville Committee on Hotels and Accommodations.)

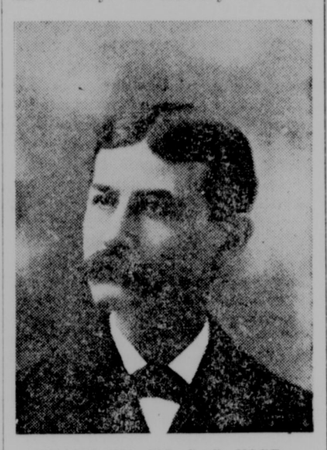
The programme for the week is not yet complete, but as far as outlined it shows that the attractions will be up to the standard, and in many instances innovations. The week will open with divine service at the Broadway Methodist church, conducted by Very Eminent Sir and Rev. J. C. W. Coxe, of Iowa, grand prelate of the grand encampment.

Monday will be devoted to receiving and escorting to their quarters all arriving commanderies. For this duty over 1,000 Kentucky Knights will serve on the committee. They will be organized according to military tactics, and no body of Templars will come to the city without being met at the depot by a squad or company of Knights and a brass band.

The big parade will be the feature for Tuesday morning. There will probably be 30,000 Templars—mounted and as infantry—in line and 125 bands, which will include some of the most famous musical organizations in the country. No military or semi-



RIGHT EM. SIR C. C. VOGT.
(President of the Louisville Triennial Committee.)

military pageant in the world approaches in magnificence these Templar parades. Every man is in uniform. Rich banners, valuable for their age as well as their original cost, will be carried. It will probably require five hours for the column to pass a given point.

On Tuesday afternoon there will be boat excursions up the Ohio river, exclusively for Knights and their wives and daughters. These will be repeated every afternoon and night of conclave week.

Tuesday night the crowd will divide between a reception at the Masonic Widows' and Orphans' home, the pioneer institution of the kind in the United States, and a southern darky entertainment at Confederate hall, under the special supervision of Col. Will S. Hays, the noted song writer. The latter will show the colored man in every walk of life, from the ragtime artist to the "nigger dude." On Wednesday morning the competitive drill will be held at Churchill Downs, where the famous Kentucky Derby is run every spring. This is the first Templar competitive drill since the San Francisco conclave in 1883. There will be five handsome sterling silver trophies awarded the successful contestants. One of these is offered to the best mounted commandery.

There will be a horse display at the Jockey club grounds on Thursday and Friday. Here will be shown the Kentucky king at home—on native turf—the trotter, the pacer and the runner in his best form. For this exhibit of the equine aristocracy of the Blue Grass state all of the prominent studs of the commonwealth will be drawn on.

The grand ball will be the event of Thursday night. It will be given in the horse show building, which will accommodate about 15,000 dancers and spectators. No ball in recent years in the south will compare with what the Louisville Knights expect to give. It will bring together the cream of American citizenship and the queens of American womanhood.

Other forms of entertainment are being discussed. There will be quite a number of private receptions. President McKinley, Rear Admiral Schley, Speaker Henderson and Hon. James D. Richardson are among the national characters that are expected, all having promised to attend if possible.

Between $35,000 and $40,000 will be spent in illuminations and decorations. Of the former there will be about 30 arches, the main ones being a quadruple and a floral. Something like 1,000 palms and other growing plants will be used on the floral arch, while the quadruple will require 5,000 incandescent lights, and cost $5,000. Four pillars, probably at the intersection of Fourth and Jefferson streets, will hold up an immense dome, on which will revolve a massive cross and crown.

R. E. HUGHES.

HOUSE CLEANING IN DETAIL.

Rules for the Guidance of the Uninitiated in This Important Work of the Home.

The washing of windows is one of the most important details of housecleaning, and there are many ways of doing it. First of all, see that the window sash is perfectly clean. Dust first, then wash, using warm water softened by a little ammonia. If there is dirt in the corners, dig it out with a wooden skewer. If two can work on the windows at once the work is better done, as well as easier, for it can readily be seen whether a spot is inside the pane or not, says Good Housekeeping. Before cleaning the windows take off the shutters and scrub with soap and water, finishing with a douche from the hose. Half the dirt that spatters a window with the first shower after housecleaning would not have happened if the winter dirt had been washed from the shutters. Use tepid water with ammonia and squeeze the washing cloth almost dry before beginning. The window on which a quantity of water is slopped can hardly be got dry and is very hard to polish. When the dirt has been removed, wipe with a dry rag until it grows damp. The best window polisher known to the writer is a handful of scraps of fine, clean chamois tied together on a string. Three or four of these can be used for years if cleansed and dried as soon as the job is finished. And the "must-have" for window cleaning is rags of the right sort, that do not shed lint, perfectly clean and plentiful enough to be rejected as soon as they grow damp. Mirrors need the same treatment as windows.

Do not touch polished furniture with water unless the furniture be absolutely dirty; then sponge it quickly and polish afterward with a mixture of oil and turpentine. Leather furniture requires wiping with a rag wrung from hot milk. Here is a recipe for a homemade furniture polish which may be used on leather or polished furniture: Set a pound of wax in a bowl in the mouth of a tea kettle and after it has melted beat in one pint of turpentine. Divide the polish into two parts. To one part add half a cup of alcohol. Bottle it and mark "furniture polish." To the rest add half a cup of paraffine oil, and that bottle label "floor polish."

How a certain mistress taught her servant to clean woodwork: She did not lay down hard and fast rules such as go in at one ear and out at the other. She took a strip of board painted white on one side and varnished on the other. Each side she touched with a rag wrung from hot water in which salsoda had been dissolved. Immediately the surface was left dull and rough. A pail filled with hot water left an unsightly circle on the varnished side. Immediately the mistress dropped on each spot a few drops of olive oil and rubbed it briskly into the wood. After a few minutes' hard rubbing the smooth surface was restored. It was a most effectual lesson on how carefully one has to use strong alkalis, such as ammonia, potash, soaps and salsoda. It also taught how, by quick action, a spoiled spot on the woodwork might be quickly restored to color and polish. Always begin at the top and work downward in washing paint. Have the wash cloth as dry as possible and never wet more than a yard square at once.

When the cleaning of the kitchen has been finished look to the sink pipes. Flush well with boiling water, then pour into them a strong solution of salsoda. Treat every pipe in bathroom, kitchen and cellar to a dose of this solution.

Give to the cellar the most thorough cleaning of any part of the house, for a healthy foundation means the health of the home. See that there is not a morsel of decaying vegetable or fruit left anywhere, and be liberal with whitewash. Leave the furnace coal and wood bins clean. Stop up mouse holes after filling them with chloride of lime. Modern cellars are built with a drain pipe in the cement floor, which allows of the whole interior walls and floor being flushed with a hose after a thorough sweeping and dusting. This is an excellent plan, only remember always to follow it with all the fresh air possible—perhaps even a wood fire in the furnace—else the cellar will grow damp and unhealthy.

Look well to the condition of the refrigerator before it begins its summer work. Use plenty of boiling water, salsoda and a wooden skewer to pick out any particle of dirt. Let it have a few hours of fresh air before closing it up. Bronzes must be carefully cleaned. Dust with a soft brush, then rub with a cloth moistened slightly with sweet oil. Rub dry with a soft rag and polish with chamois.

How to Treat Your Guest.

Remember, there is such a thing as overdoing the attention paid a guest. Do not feel that you must be forever at her elbow; do not think it necessary to plan something for every minute of her day. Nothing is more annoying. People, even when they are visiting, like to have moments to themselves. They like to go places where they feel at home, and no woman feels at home if her hostess is continually at her hand suggesting things for her amusement; nor does it conduce to her comfort if she feels that the whole household has been turned upside down because of her coming.—Alice I. Eaton, in Woman's Home Companion.

One Advantage.

She (at the museum)—I wish I were a two-headed girl.

He—And why, pray?

"Then I could wear two hats and tell myself if they were on straight."—Chicago Daily News

MALARIA AND MOSQUITOS.

Modern Science Holds the Insect Pest Largely Responsible for a Prevalent Malady.

L. O. Howard, chief entomologist of the United States department of agriculture, tells in Century the amazing story of the relation between "Malaria and Certain Mosquitoes."

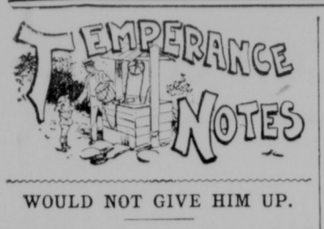
"As plain as this story is, the filling of all the gaps and the rounding out of all the details have taken years of patient work. Before Laveran's original discovery of the parasite became generally known, an American physician, Dr. A. F. A. King, of Washington, propounded the idea that malaria is transmitted by mosquitoes. His paper read before the Philosophical society of Washington was a masterly one, and summarized in an admirable way the arguments favoring such a theory; and the long-delayed proof now comes as a triumphant vindication of the views of this eminent American physician, views which were at first received with general incredulity. Even of late the "mosquito theory," as it has been called, has met with strong opposition on the part of conservative physicians and laymen. The point is often made by such persons that malaria exists in localities where there are no mosquitoes, that persons get malaria without having been bitten by mosquitoes, and, stupidly enough, that mosquitoes exist in numbers where there is no malaria. All opposition, however, has been forcibly met, and the consensus of expert opinion is now united in the conclusion not only that the agency of mosquitoes of the genus Anopheles is the only demonstated method of the transmission of malaria, but that it is perhaps, even probably, and some say certainly, the only method by which the disease enters the human body.

"In the United States many physicians in malarious neighborhoods have taken up the question with enthusiasm, and persons living in mosquito-ridden localities are organizing and beginning exterminative work. At the present time there is probably more intelligent work being done or being planned against mosquitoes in the United States than elsewhere in the world. The great brakish marsh of the Atlantic coast and the many inland swamps and pools have made many portions of the United States great breeding places for mosquitoes. The vast majority of our mosquitoes, however, are noxious only from their bite. Most of them belong to the genus Culex, and in the stomach of the mosquitoes of this genus the malarial parasite dies and is digested. Most mosquitoes breed everywhere in standing water. They are found not only in the brakish marshes, in the great swamps, and in all ponds in which fish are not numerous, but they breed also in horse-troughs, in rain water barrels, in water running slowly through open sewers, and even penetrate through the perforated sewer traps in large cities, and breed in the sewers below ground. A transient pool of surface water left by heavy rains will breed a generation of mosquitoes in a little more than a week. They will breed in the water collected in the hollows of old stumps, in old bottles or tin cans thrown on dumps or in vacant lots; in fact, wherever still water stands for a week or ten days in the summer time the females of some species of mosquito will lay their eggs upon it, and a generation will be produced. This water need not be perfectly uncovered, since a female mosquito, in her desire to find a place to lay her eggs, will enter through a very small orifice. Water tanks, therefore, not perfectly covered, afford such situations. Old wells or cesspools, with board covers in which there are cracks wide enough for a mosquito to enter, are often most prolific breeding places.

"The general question of mosquito control has been carefully studied. The writer conducted a large series of experiments a number of years ago, before the mosquito malarial relation was established, with a view to giving the inhabitants of mosquito localities some relief from the attacks of these pernicious creatures. The three main remedies are: the drainage of swamps and standing pools where this is possible; the introduction of fish, and particularly of certain voracious species, such as sticklebacks and the top-minnows, into fishless pools the water of which is used for watering live stock; and, third, the treatment of pools or ponds, or other bodies of water which cannot be drained, with kerosene. All these measures are efficacious. A combination of all is usually found necessary in any given neighborhood. Drainage of swamps as a community measure is highly to be recommended from every point of view. The use of kerosene where drainage is impossible is perfectly efficacious in destroying the wigglers, or larvae, of mosquitoes. The amount to be used is about one ounce for each 15 square feet of water surface, and the application should be repeated every fortnight. The kerosene not only kills the wigglers when they come to the surface to breathe, but kills the female mosquitoes when they alight upon the surface of the water to lay their eggs."

The Sumatran Widow.

In Sumatra, if a woman is left a widow, immediately after her husband's death she plants a flagstaff at her door, upon which a flag is raised. So long as the flag remains untorn by the wind the etiquette of Sumatra forbids her to marry, but at the first rent, however tiny, she can lay aside her weeds and accept the first offer she has.—Womanhood.



WOULD NOT GIVE HIM UP.

Incident in Brooklyn Police Court Which Showed Boy Had Right Stuff in Him.

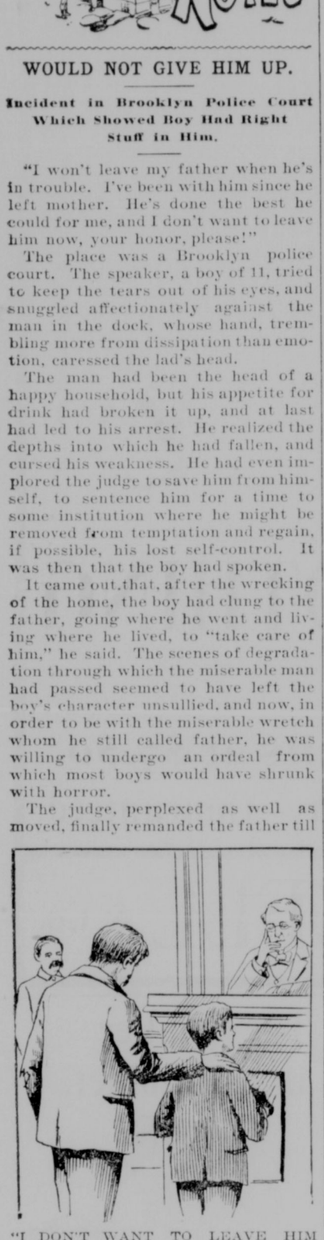
"I won't leave my father when he's in trouble. I've been with him since he left mother. He's done the best he could for me, and I don't want to leave him now, your honor, please!"

The place was a Brooklyn police court. The speaker, a boy of 11, tried to keep the tears out of his eyes, and snuggled affectionately against the man in the dock, whose hand, trembling more from dissipation than emotion, caressed the lad's head.

The man had been the head of a happy household, but his appetite for drink had broken it up, and at last had led to his arrest. He realized the depths into which he had fallen, and cursed his weakness. He had even implored the judge to save him from himself, to sentence him for a time to some institution where he might be removed from temptation and regain, if possible, his lost self-control. It was then that the boy had spoken.

It came out that, after the wrecking of the home, the boy had clung to the father, going where he went and living where he lived, to "take care of him," he said. The scenes of degradation through which the miserable man had passed seemed to have left the boy's character unsullied, and now, in order to be with the miserable wretch whom he still called father, he was willing to undergo an ordeal from which most boys would have shrunk with horror.

The judge, perplexed as well as moved, finally remanded the father till



"I DON'T WANT TO LEAVE HIM NOW."

he could decide upon a satisfactory disposition of his case, and a spectator in the court, a man of means and influence, came forward and agreed to provide for the boy, and see that an opportunity was given him to become an honest and self-respecting citizen. "He has the stuff in him for that, and more," he said.

Here the story ends, so far as the newspaper reports of it go, but so far as the actors in the tragedy are concerned, it is far from ended. One cannot help hoping, not only that the spectator in the courtroom was right in his estimate of the boy's character, but that sooner or later such a love must have its influence on the poor wretch of a father, and call him back to the duties he has so long neglected. —Youth's Companion.

BREVITIES.

Speaking of rum and civilization, it seems to be a fact that the elimination of the bar would, in a sense at least, leave very little of barbarism.—Detroit Journal.

In southern France, where beer costs 26 cents and milk 15 cents a quart, new wine has been lately on sale in unlimited quantities at two cents a quart.

A recent order of the Belgium government prohibits either the sale or the drinking of intoxicants in the vicinity of the chambers during the sittings of the legislature, and hereafter the members will have to content themselves with tea, coffee and the like.

A celebrated physician says there has been a great increase of juvenile smoking in London, and other large cities of England, and he favors parliamentary dealing with this matter, for he says that the use of tobacco early in life must have a disastrous effect on the longevity of the race.

Mrs. M. Deckard, of Elnora, Ind., who objected to having her husband conduct a saloon, visited his place of business on February 26, armed with a hatchet, and completely demolished it. She has served notice on all the other saloon men of Elnora to quit the business or suffer the consequences.

Absinthe in Swiss Army.

Some sensational facts concerning the prevalence of absinthe drinking in the Swiss army have lately been published by Dr. Chatelain, a military doctor on active service. He states that out of the 200,000 men who have passed under his care within the last four years, 24,000 men were suffering from the effects of absinthe in a greater or less degree. Official statistics, he adds, also show that 12 per cent. of the male population over 20 years of age of the 15 largest towns in Switzerland are every year victims of absinthe, and the vice is spreading to an alarming extent. Dr. Chatelain advocates the passing of a bill for the control of the sale of absinthe.

GREATEST ROBBER ON EARTH.

The Liquor Traffic Arraigned and Found to Be Greatest Foe to Mankind.

The greatest robber on earth is that which deprives us of the most precious possession that a man or woman can have. And what is that? Is it a well-filled pocketbook, or a good bank account? No, for some of the poorest, most miserable souls on earth have fat pocketbooks and healthy bank accounts. Is it a luxurious home with all the modern adornments? No, for a gilded cage cannot make a happy bird, and in the most sumptuous home may dwell the most wretched of slaves—the slaves of vice and passion. Is it fame, reputation, power, glory? No, for the next wind of popular favor may dash these baubles to the ground and leave us reciting the lament which Shakespeare puts into the mouth of Cardinal Wolsey.

The most precious possession which any man can have is his own true, independent, selfrespecting manhood, and the greatest robber on earth is that which robs a man of that.

The most precious possession which any woman can have is her own true, tender, virtuous womanhood, and the greatest specific evil on earth is that which deprives women of that.

Monopolies are an evil which American people must grapple with; but even if all that the most eloquent "calamity howler" in the world has said be true, what is it that the monopolies rob us of? Money, goods, chattels; but not manhood. All the monopolies of all time can't rob one man of his manhood or one woman of her womanhood. Wall street can't do it; a Chinese wall tariff can't do it. "A man's a man for a' that." They may rob him of his home, rob him of his fair-weather friends, rob him of his money and turn him out a beggar and a tramp; but still "a man's a man for a' that," and if he stands by his own manhood it will stand by him.

There is, however, a robber that takes not only men's homes, their farms, their bank accounts, their reputation and their friends, but their manhood as well; which robs women not only of all the beauties and comforts of life, but of their womanhood as well, and which robs innocent little children of their childhood before they are out of their swaddling clothes. Who is that robber? There is hardly any reason to name him. Describe him, and the civilized world recognizes him at once as The Liquor Traffic—the greatest robber on earth.

There isn't a woe that all the other robbers can inflict that this chiefest of robbers is not inflicting to-day upon unnumbered thousands; and, in addition, he is inflicting far worse woes than any of the other robbers can inflict. He not only robs the people of this land of over one billion dollars a year—equal to $77 for every family—but there are two and a half millions of men and women in this land who have been robbed of their manhood and womanhood, robbed of their liberty, robbed of their self-respect, robbed of much of their ability as producers, and who are in a slavery worse than African slavery ever was, and the greatest robber on earth is responsible for it.—Rev. John F. Hill, D. D., in Presbyterian Banner.

SALOON SMASHING.

Some Supposable Cases Which Put Mrs. Nation's Work in a New Light.

Suppose we carry to its logical conclusion the following line of reasoning:

"First. A gentleman passes along a dark street at night. He hears commotion and excited voices as he approaches a residence. The window shades are up, permitting him to get a glimpse inside of a brutal, fiendish father holding a child in one hand and an upraised hatchet in the other, as if to brain the little one. The man on the street hurries to the house, batters down the door, which is locked, stays the hand of the criminal father, and saves the life of the child. While breaking and entering a building is a criminal offense in Iowa, as it is in all other states, no court of justice would convict the man who committed the offense under such circumstances.

"Second. A little child has gone out of doors on a bright summer day to amuse himself with play. He wanders into the road. The warm sunshine weighs the little eyelids with sleep and the child lies in the road, dead to any danger that might befall it. A runaway horse approaches. It is seen that the animal is blind in its madness and fright. It cannot be stopped by ordinary means. It threatens the life of the sleeping child. A man who is apprised of all the danger shoots the horse. Destroying the property of another in Iowa is a criminal offense, and yet no court of justice would award the owner of the horse damages. Human life is dearer than animal life. And are not 100,000 lives dearer than one life? Why not apply this reasoning to the saloon, which, though running legally, takes the lives of so many of our young men?"—Mrs. Ida W. Unruh, in an Interview in Iowa Newspaper.

Wine in Church Cookbooks.

A church at Newport, Ky., is all torn up over a cookbook, and it will be surprising if the cookbook itself does not meet a similar fate. It appears that the ladies of the church prepared a volume containing recipes and sold it for the good of the cause. It turns out that some of the recipes prescribed wine as one of the ingredients of certain dishes. About 2,000 copies of the book have been sold and 3,000 remain unsold. The pastor cannot recall all the sold copies, but he insists that in the unsold books all the wine receipts be marked in red ink as a warning to intending buyers.

WHITE-PLUMED ARMY

Louisville Will Welcome It with Genuine Hospitality.

Twenty-Eighth Triennial Conclave of the Knights Templar of America to Be Notable Social and Masonic Event.

[Special Louisville (Ky.) Letter.]

THE twenty-eighth triennial conclave of the Knights Templar of America will be held in Louisville August 27 to 30 next. It will bring together perhaps the largest number of members of this great order—the York branch of masonry—ever assembled. As the first meeting in the new century the Louisville and Kentucky Knights have determined to make it the most successful in other ways than attendance in the history of Templarism. They are backed by an entertainment fund of $100,000, one-fifth of which was subscribed by the city council.

Louisville had a long and hard fight covering a space of 12 years before being allowed the honor of welcoming the White-Plumed army, and only won at Pittsburgh in 1898 by 17 votes, defeating Milwaukee. It was at the Smoky City conclave that Right Eminent Sir Charles C. Vogt, of the Falls City, was chosen an officer of the grand encampment, the national governing body of Templary. He was elected grand captain of the guard, and although it will take 15 or more years for him to reach the highest position in the order, that of grand master, his home city considered the selection almost as great a reward as in getting the next meeting of the Knights. Mr. Vogt was therefore chosen president of the triennial committee and chairman of the executive committee, which have charge of the preliminary work of the twenty-eighth triennial.

One of his first appointments to a chairmanship of a standing committee was Col. J. T. Gathright, as head of the committee on hotels and accommodations. In this capacity Col.

INSIGNIA OF THE YORK RITE OF MASONRY.

Gathright has received every delegation of Templars that has visited Louisville to secure quarters for the conclave, and in this way has an acquaintanceship that extends in Templar circles into 35 states, this number of commonwealths having arranged to send large parties to the triennial. At the present time Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania are prettily evenly matched in the race for supremacy in largest state representation.

Col. Gathright believes that Louisville is prepared to care for a crowd of 150,000 during the triennial. There are 30 hotels, 250 boarding houses, a large number of the old southern homes for which Louisville is noted, a camp that will accommodate 4,000 and all the Pullman sidings for sleepers utilized as quarters, available for this purpose. It is thought from present indications that there will be 30,000 Knights and 10,000 ladies accompanying them. The rest of the crowd will come from the territory within a radius of 300 miles of Louisville.

COL. J. T. GATHRIGHT.
(Head of Louisville Committee on Hotels and Accommodations.)

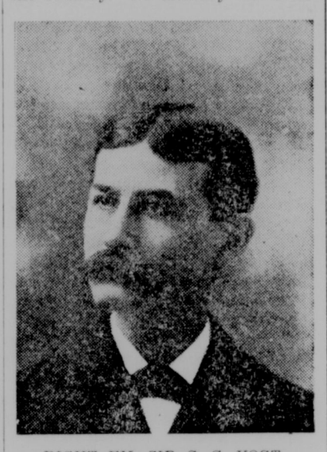
The programme for the week is not yet complete, but as far as outlined it shows that the attractions will be up to the standard, and in many instances innovations. The week will open with divine service at the Broadway Methodist church, conducted by Very Eminent Sir and Rev. J. C. W. Coxe, of Iowa, grand prelate of the grand encampment.

Monday will be devoted to receiving and escorting to their quarters all arriving commanderies. For this duty over 1,000 Kentucky Knights will serve on the committee. They will be organized according to military tactics, and no body of Templars will come to the city without being met at the depot by a squad or company of Knights and a brass band.

The big parade will be the feature for Tuesday morning. There will probably be 30,000 Templars—mounted and as infantry—in line and 125 bands, which will include some of the most famous musical organizations in the country. No military or semi-



RIGHT EM. SIR C. C. VOGT.
(President of the Louisville Triennial Committee.)

military pageant in the world approaches in magnificence these Templar parades. Every man is in uniform. Rich banners, valuable for their age as well as their original cost, will be carried. It will probably require five hours for the column to pass a given point.

On Tuesday afternoon there will be boat excursions up the Ohio river, exclusively for Knights and their wives and daughters. These will be repeated every afternoon and night of conclave week.

Tuesday night the crowd will divide between a reception at the Masonic Widows' and Orphans' home, the pioneer institution of the kind in the United States, and a southern darky entertainment at Confederate hall, under the special supervision of Col. Will S. Hays, the noted song writer. The latter will show the colored man in every walk of life, from the ragtime artist to the "nigger dude." On Wednesday morning the competitive drill will be held at Churchill Downs, where the famous Kentucky Derby is run every spring. This is the first Templar competitive drill since the San Francisco conclave in 1883. There will be five handsome sterling silver trophies awarded the successful contestants. One of these is offered to the best mounted commandery.

There will be a horse display at the Jockey club grounds on Thursday and Friday. Here will be shown the Kentucky king at home—on native turf—the trotter, the pacer and the runner in his best form. For this exhibit of the equine aristocracy of the Blue Grass state all of the prominent studs of the commonwealth will be drawn on.

The grand ball will be the event of Thursday night. It will be given in the horse show building, which will accommodate about 15,000 dancers and spectators. No ball in recent years in the south will compare with what the Louisville Knights expect to give. It will bring together the cream of American citizenship and the queens of American womanhood.

Other forms of entertainment are being discussed. There will be quite a number of private receptions. President McKinley, Rear Admiral Schley, Speaker Henderson and Hon. James D. Richardson are among the national characters that are expected, all having promised to attend if possible.

Between $35,000 and $40,000 will be spent in illuminations and decorations. Of the former there will be about 30 arches, the main ones being a quadruple and a floral. Something like 1,000 palms and other growing plants will be used on the floral arch, while the quadruple will require 5,000 incandescent lights, and cost $5,000. Four pillars, probably at the intersection of Fourth and Jefferson streets, will hold up an immense dome, on which will revolve a massive cross and crown.

R. E. HUGHES.

HOUSE CLEANING IN DETAIL.

Rules for the Guidance of the Uninitiated in This Important Work of the Home.

The washing of windows is one of the most important details of housecleaning, and there are many ways of doing it. First of all, see that the window sash is perfectly clean. Dust first, then wash, using warm water softened by a little ammonia. If there is dirt in the corners, dig it out with a wooden skewer. If two can work on the windows at once the work is better done, as well as easier, for it can readily be seen whether a spot is inside the pane or not, says Good Housekeeping. Before cleaning the windows take off the shutters and scrub with soap and water, finishing with a douche from the hose. Half the dirt that spatters a window with the first shower after housecleaning would not have happened if the winter dirt had been washed from the shutters. Use tepid water with ammonia and squeeze the washing cloth almost dry before beginning. The window on which a quantity of water is slopped can hardly be got dry and is very hard to polish. When the dirt has been removed, wipe with a dry rag until it grows damp. The best window polisher known to the writer is a handful of scraps of fine, clean chamois tied together on a string. Three or four of these can be used for years if cleansed and dried as soon as the job is finished. And the "must-have" for window cleaning is rags of the right sort, that do not shed lint, perfectly clean and plentiful enough to be rejected as soon as they grow damp. Mirrors need the same treatment as windows.

Do not touch polished furniture with water unless the furniture be absolutely dirty; then sponge it quickly and polish afterward with a mixture of oil and turpentine. Leather furniture requires wiping with a rag wrung from hot milk. Here is a recipe for a homemade furniture polish which may be used on leather or polished furniture: Set a pound of wax in a bowl in the mouth of a tea kettle and after it has melted beat in one pint of turpentine. Divide the polish into two parts. To one part add half a cup of alcohol. Bottle it and mark "furniture polish." To the rest add half a cup of paraffine oil, and that bottle label "floor polish."

How a certain mistress taught her servant to clean woodwork: She did not lay down hard and fast rules such as go in at one ear and out at the other. She took a strip of board painted white on one side and varnished on the other. Each side she touched with a rag wrung from hot water in which salsoda had been dissolved. Immediately the surface was left dull and rough. A pail filled with hot water left an unsightly circle on the varnished side. Immediately the mistress dropped on each spot a few drops of olive oil and rubbed it briskly into the wood. After a few minutes' hard rubbing the smooth surface was restored. It was a most effectual lesson on how carefully one has to use strong alkalis, such as ammonia, potash, soaps and salsoda. It also taught how, by quick action, a spoiled spot on the woodwork might be quickly restored to color and polish. Always begin at the top and work downward in washing paint. Have the wash cloth as dry as possible and never wet more than a yard square at once.

When the cleaning of the kitchen has been finished look to the sink pipes. Flush well with boiling water, then pour into them a strong solution of salsoda. Treat every pipe in bathroom, kitchen and cellar to a dose of this solution.

Give to the cellar the most thorough cleaning of any part of the house, for a healthy foundation means the health of the home. See that there is not a morsel of decaying vegetable or fruit left anywhere, and be liberal with whitewash. Leave the furnace coal and wood bins clean. Stop up mouse holes after filling them with chloride of lime. Modern cellars are built with a drain pipe in the cement floor, which allows of the whole interior walls and floor being flushed with a hose after a thorough sweeping and dusting. This is an excellent plan, only remember always to follow it with all the fresh air possible—perhaps even a wood fire in the furnace—else the cellar will grow damp and unhealthy.

Look well to the condition of the refrigerator before it begins its summer work. Use plenty of boiling water, salsoda and a wooden skewer to pick out any particle of dirt. Let it have a few hours of fresh air before closing it up. Bronzes must be carefully cleaned. Dust with a soft brush, then rub with a cloth moistened slightly with sweet oil. Rub dry with a soft rag and polish with chamois.

How to Treat Your Guest.

Remember, there is such a thing as overdoing the attention paid a guest. Do not feel that you must be forever at her elbow; do not think it necessary to plan something for every minute of her day. Nothing is more annoying. People, even when they are visiting, like to have moments to themselves. They like to go places where they feel at home, and no woman feels at home if her hostess is continually at her hand suggesting things for her amusement; nor does it conduce to her comfort if she feels that the whole household has been turned upside down because of her coming.—Alice I. Eaton, in Woman's Home Companion.

One Advantage.

She (at the museum)—I wish I were a two-headed girl.

He—And why, pray?

"Then I could wear two hats and tell myself if they were on straight."—Chicago Daily News

MALARIA AND MOSQUITOS.

Modern Science Holds the Insect Pest Largely Responsible for a Prevalent Malady.

L. O. Howard, chief entomologist of the United States department of agriculture, tells in Century the amazing story of the relation between "Malaria and Certain Mosquitoes."

"As plain as this story is, the filling of all the gaps and the rounding out of all the details have taken years of patient work. Before Laveran's original discovery of the parasite became generally known, an American physician, Dr. A. F. A. King, of Washington, propounded the idea that malaria is transmitted by mosquitoes. His paper read before the Philosophical society of Washington was a masterly one, and summarized in an admirable way the arguments favoring such a theory; and the long-delayed proof now comes as a triumphant vindication of the views of this eminent American physician, views which were at first received with general incredulity. Even of late the "mosquito theory," as it has been called, has met with strong opposition on the part of conservative physicians and laymen. The point is often made by such persons that malaria exists in localities where there are no mosquitoes, that persons get malaria without having been bitten by mosquitoes, and, stupidly enough, that mosquitoes exist in numbers where there is no malaria. All opposition, however, has been forcibly met, and the consensus of expert opinion is now united in the conclusion not only that the agency of mosquitoes of the genus Anopheles is the only demonstated method of the transmission of malaria, but that it is perhaps, even probably, and some say certainly, the only method by which the disease enters the human body.

"In the United States many physicians in malarious neighborhoods have taken up the question with enthusiasm, and persons living in mosquito-ridden localities are organizing and beginning exterminative work. At the present time there is probably more intelligent work being done or being planned against mosquitoes in the United States than elsewhere in the world. The great brakish marsh of the Atlantic coast and the many inland swamps and pools have made many portions of the United States great breeding places for mosquitoes. The vast majority of our mosquitoes, however, are noxious only from their bite. Most of them belong to the genus Culex, and in the stomach of the mosquitoes of this genus the malarial parasite dies and is digested. Most mosquitoes breed everywhere in standing water. They are found not only in the brakish marshes, in the great swamps, and in all ponds in which fish are not numerous, but they breed also in horse-troughs, in rain water barrels, in water running slowly through open sewers, and even penetrate through the perforated sewer traps in large cities, and breed in the sewers below ground. A transient pool of surface water left by heavy rains will breed a generation of mosquitoes in a little more than a week. They will breed in the water collected in the hollows of old stumps, in old bottles or tin cans thrown on dumps or in vacant lots; in fact, wherever still water stands for a week or ten days in the summer time the females of some species of mosquito will lay their eggs upon it, and a generation will be produced. This water need not be perfectly uncovered, since a female mosquito, in her desire to find a place to lay her eggs, will enter through a very small orifice. Water tanks, therefore, not perfectly covered, afford such situations. Old wells or cesspools, with board covers in which there are cracks wide enough for a mosquito to enter, are often most prolific breeding places.

"The general question of mosquito control has been carefully studied. The writer conducted a large series of experiments a number of years ago, before the mosquito malarial relation was established, with a view to giving the inhabitants of mosquito localities some relief from the attacks of these pernicious creatures. The three main remedies are: the drainage of swamps and standing pools where this is possible; the introduction of fish, and particularly of certain voracious species, such as sticklebacks and the top-minnows, into fishless pools the water of which is used for watering live stock; and, third, the treatment of pools or ponds, or other bodies of water which cannot be drained, with kerosene. All these measures are efficacious. A combination of all is usually found necessary in any given neighborhood. Drainage of swamps as a community measure is highly to be recommended from every point of view. The use of kerosene where drainage is impossible is perfectly efficacious in destroying the wigglers, or larvae, of mosquitoes. The amount to be used is about one ounce for each 15 square feet of water surface, and the application should be repeated every fortnight. The kerosene not only kills the wigglers when they come to the surface to breathe, but kills the female mosquitoes when they alight upon the surface of the water to lay their eggs."

The Sumatran Widow.

In Sumatra, if a woman is left a widow, immediately after her husband's death she plants a flagstaff at her door, upon which a flag is raised. So long as the flag remains untorn by the wind the etiquette of Sumatra forbids her to marry, but at the first rent, however tiny, she can lay aside her weeds and accept the first offer she has.—Womanhood.

THE REPUBLICAN.

BENJ. H. SINCELL, Editor and Proprietor

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:

THE REPUBLICAN is published every Thursday morning at the following rates:

One copy one year	$ 1.25
One copy six months	.75
One copy three months	.40
One copy one month	.15
Single copies	.05

ADVERTISING RATES.

First insertion for square of ten nonpareil lines, $1; each additional insertion after first, 50 cents per square of ten nonpareil lines.

REMITTANCES:

Remittances made by money order, bank draft, registered letter or express order will be at our risk; if made otherwise, at the risk of the sender. Address,

THE REPUBLICAN,
Oakland, Md.

THURSDAY, MAY 9, 1901.

Political Announcements

The following rates for publishing political announcements in these columns have been fixed and will be charged to those who desire to make their wishes known to the voters of Garrett county. These charges are payable in advance of the first publication of notices:

For State Senator, $10; County Treasurer, $5; Sheriff, $5; Members of the House of Delegates, $5; County Commissioner, $5.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER.

At the solicitation of friends I announce myself as a candidate for the nomination for County Treasurer, subject to the Republican Nominating Convention, and most respectfully solicit the assistance and influence of all Republicans. Should I be nominated and elected I promise to give personal attention to the duties of the office.

JAS. W. WHITE,
District No. 14. Oakland.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the nomination of Sheriff for Garrett county, subject to the decision of the Republican Nominating Convention, and solicit the support of Republicans throughout the county.

Dist. No. 7. ANDREW SHARTZER.

FOR SHERIFF.

Newspaper Frauds.

"Non-partisan" papers, edited by partisans, are the most patent humbugs of the age. In commenting upon public matters they start out nonpartisan, but wind up partisan. They are simply frauds. A partisan paper is the more to be admired. It sacrafices patronage for principle. It is more honest, for it does not play for both sides, and does not pretend to be anything than partisan. There is nothing antagonistic to honesty in being partisan, and there is every inducement to dishonesty in being nonpartisan or independent. The most despicable object is a partisan who pretends to conduct a non-partisan or independent paper, and then by his acts endorses every principle and policy which his party espouses.—Westminster (Md.) Advocate.

THE EFFECT OF TREACHERY.

Nothing is more apparent in the returns of Tuesday's election in Baltimore than the effect of treachery in politics. The ignominious defeat of the Democrats prove that it is impossible for a party to succeed when the conduct of its acknowledged leaders is perfidious and treacherous. Two years ago the Democratic party, under the leadership of the old and discredited bosses, donned the garb of reform and square dealing. The mask then worn aided the party to victory that year. But since that time the mask has been cast aside, the party has gone back to its former pernicious practices, and in Tuesday's election it stood a menace to the well-being of Baltimore and the State.

The unwarranted partisanship displayed in the work of the extra session, the subjection of the Democratic primary election to the worst forms of bossism, the revival of the odious methods of old placed the stamp of insincerity and insecurity all over the party's candidates. None could fail to be impressed with the fact that two years ago the Democracy was as a wolf masquerading in sheep's clothing. While Tuesday's defeat is cause for universal congratulation, the impression will prevail that it would not have been so crushing but for the treachery shown by the Democratic leaders toward the public and the decent element of their own party.

Upon these leaders the effect of this treachery will be most pronounced. It only needs a repetition in the fall election to forever extinguish the light of the local political boss as a power in Baltimore politics. Such a defeat can and should be administered. As for Mr. Gorman, this much only need be said: The possibility of his becoming a Senator of Maryland and his party's nominee for the Presidency in 1904 are materially lessened. He had a fair chance before; now he has practically none. The mistake made by Mayor Hayes in this contest was in ever putting trust in the promises of leaders he must have known would play him false sooner or later.

WE MAY expect to know just how it happened after we read the current issues of the Democrat and Journal—the Democratic organs of the county.

THE THIRD TERM BUGABOO.

The attempt of Democrats to make the country believe that President McKinley's transcontinental tour is the beginning of a third-term campaign is one of the most ridiculous things in politics. The boundless enthusiasm which has everywhere greeted the President, the expressions of good will and the manifold evidences of unparalleled prosperity which have been spread out before him as he has journeyed through the sunny Southland have inspired this third-term talk. It originates with men who cannot conceive that human ambitions have their limitations, and who, very sinisterly, credit the President with seeing in his reception an invitation to again become a candidate, and with accepting it on the spot. Needless to say, President McKinley is very different from the estimate put upon him by such Democrats. The third-term idea has certainly never occurred to him, and this tour is absolutely without significance in relation to his personal political fortunes.

President McKinley is undeniably a shrewd and able politician. His wonderful tact, wide acquaintance with men and intimacy with conditions and affairs enables him to play the game of national politics with as much ability as was ever shown by a ward leader. Such a man is never mistaken about the impossible. He knows his whole strength, and he will never risk defeat by going beyoud his strength. Nor will the President. There are no further honors to be gathered by him in this country. He has had all that he can ever hope to secure in politics, a fact with which none is more familiar than is he himself. His future hopes are clustered about his present term; according as it successfully rounds out the work he began in 1897 will his name endure in the history of the nation. He will never risk forfeiting the honor and esteem in which he now seems destined to be remembered by future generations by aspiring to a third term. He is not foolish enough to rush in where Washington feared to tread; even were he so disposed the lamentable case of Grant would restrain him. As things now stand, President McKinley knows the inextinguishable honor that will be his when he quits his high office; he is too shrewd in politics to sacrifice that for an ignominious defeat, which would come to him should he again stand for the presidency.

Democrats can, therefore, ease their minds. Their party lacks purpose; its organization is shattered, and it is without force to promote national policies, even if it were agreed upon them. But the President has no thought of taking advantage of this condition. He is now engaged in a very different mission. His present tour is primarily one of rest and recreation. Incidentally, Mr. McKinley is carrying certain important messages to the people of the country. In the fall of 1898 President McKinley traveled from Washington to Omaha and back, traversing the most populous sections of the country on a mission very similar to this one. During that trip he studied public sentiment—his ear was constantly on the ground. What he then learned confirmed him in the conviction that the new policy of territorial expansion would be approved by the people. Once more the President is taking the gauge of public sentiment. Before he returns to Washington he will have explained the administration's policies to the people in all parts of the country, and with his own eyes convinced himself of the attitude of the people toward these policies. According as the public approves or disapproves, the course of the administration during the next four years will be shaped. No President was ever more responsive to public sentiment than has been President McKinley, and his present journey will equip him to sustain this record during his second term. To enable him to do so, and thereby more securely entrench the Republican party in the favor of the people, is the political purpose of the tour. In this the President labors for the future of the party that has honored him, but without thought of realizing direct personal profit from his labors.—Baltimore American.

SPEAKING of extra sessions and vindications we will now hear from our neighbors, Messrs. Litzinger and Hamill.

PARTY RECORDS ON CUBAN QUESTION.

There are many Cuban annexationists in the United States, but annexation is certainly not the policy or purpose of the present administration. Undoubtedly President McKinley is in good faith endeavoring to promote the organization of a government by the Cubans themselves, which will be able to stand alone. He approves, however, of the action of Congress which binds Cuba to such constitutional action as will insure her proper attitude toward the United States in the future. The Cuban Commissioners who visited Washington last week were not left in doubt about the views of the administration on that point. They learned that the purpose of this government is to insist upon proper guarantees in the premises. They learned a good deal more than this, however. The record of the past attitude of parties in this country in relation to Cuban annexation was revealed to them and they learned that the Democrats were, as a rule, the annexationists, while their opponents were generally opposed to such a proceeding.

Mr. Jefferson, the Apostle of Democracy, was a strong annexationist and an expansionist as well. In a letter President Madison, written April 27th, 1809, less than two months after the beginning of the latter's first term as the National Executive, he argued in favor of the acquisition of Cuba by the United States. His views on the subject never underwent a change, for twice in June, 1823, he wrote to President Monroe to the same effect. He evidently regarded the acquisition of Cuba at that time as intensely desirable. The letters referred to were written June 11 and 23, respectively, and in that on the latter date he said: "Her (Cuba's) addition to our confederacy is exactly what is wanted to round out our power as a nation to the point of its utmost interest." He evidently regarded action looking to that result as not only desirable but urgent. In the same year John Quincy Adams, then President Monroe's Secretary of State, expressed the views of the administration as favorable to the acquisition of of Cuba. Mr. Monroe is claimed to have been a Democrat. President Polk, a Democrat, in 1848 instructed the American Minister at Madrid to propose the purchase of Cuba from Spain, an offer which was indignantly rejected as an insult.

The Sentinel has heretofore called attention to the Ostend Manifesto. This was a paper prepared in 1854 by the United States Ministers at London, Paris and Madrid, all Democrats, of course, in which they advised and urged the Secretary of State that a fair offer should be made to Spain for the purchase of Cuba, and that, if it were rejected, the island should then be taken by force. One of these Minister, Mr. Buchanan, became President of the United States in 1857, and in his second, third and fourth annual messages urged the purchase of Cuba and declared that the possession of the island would be of great importance to the United States.

The record of the opposition to the Democratic party on the Cuban question, while of less intent, is not less emphatic; but it is on the other side. For instance, Henry Clay, then Secretary of State, wrote to Edward Everett, in April, 1827, that if the acquisition of Cuba were desirable there was then "no reasonable prospect of effecting that object." The Cuban question was not referred to again by any anti-Democratic administration until 1869, when President Grant, in his first annual message, declared that the United States had no disposition to interfere with the Spanish ownership of Cuba, but hoped to see the island eventually become an independent power. Hamilton Fish, President Grant's Secretary of State, in February, 1874, asserted that "Cuba ought to belong to the great family of American republics" and that "the desire of independence on the part of the Cubans is a natural and legitimate aspiration." This aspiration, he said, was approved by the United States.

Thus far, it must be said and acknowledged, that no Republican administration has taken any other ground upon the question. During President McKinley's first term the United States delivered Cuba from the galling yoke of Spain, and this government is now employing its best efforts to establish an independent and self-governing nation upon the island. Whether the effort will succeed is problematical, but it will be given an honest trial. No other course could be pursued with honor by the United States, and charges of insincerity and ulterior motives made by the Democratic party, against the administration of President McKinley, are unjust and without foundation in fact. If Cuba ever comes to the United during a Republican administration, it will be by the voluntary action of her people.—Westminster Sentinel.

IT IS now in order for Mr. Gorman to call another extra session of His Legislature and pass a bill repealing the present ballot law and reenacting it with amendments.

HAVE you heard from Baltimore, Brother Democrat?

Fire Sweeps Jacksonville.

Jacksonville, Fla., was swept by an awful conflagration on Friday last. An epitome of the disaster is as follows:

The fire started at 12.45 p. m. and was gotten under control at 10.15 p. m.

The damage to property is estimated by the mayor of the city at $15,000,000.

Six lives are reported to have been lost.

The flames burned over a space two and a half miles long by half a mile wide, including practically all the fine buildings in the city. One hundred and thirty blocks and part of another were destroyed. Over 1300 hundred houses are in ruins.

The City Hall and the other municipal building were burned. Six hotels were laid in ashes. Ten thousand person were made homeless.

The Jacksonville military companies were called out and nearby cities sent help to fight the blaze. Dynamite was freely used to destroy buildings in the fire's path and prevent it from spreading.

The flames started from a wire falling into a fiber factory.

Has Been Appointed.

Mr. L. A. Rudisill has been appointed postmaster at Mountain Lake Park, notice of which was published in the Baltimore papers Monday.

FREDERICK BALLOT.

For Mayor of Frederick City:

WILLIAM H. RAMSBURG, Precinct No. 4	Republican
GEORGE EDWARD SMITH, Precinct No. 3	Democratic

For City Register of Frederick City:

EDWARD A. GITTINGER, Precinct No. 1	Republican
EDWARD C. SHEPHARD, Precinct No. 3	Democratic

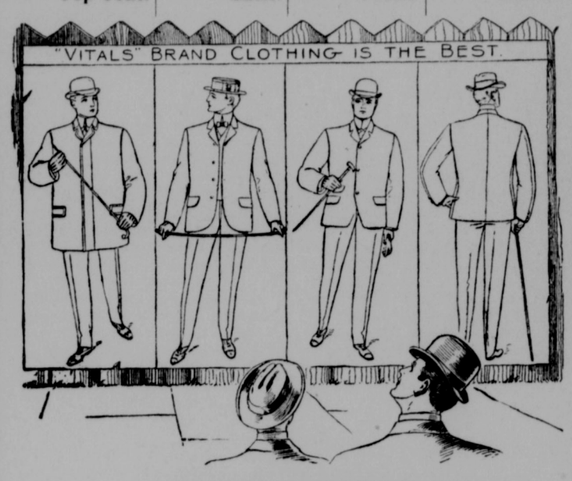
For Aldermen of Frederick City:

JOHN BAUMGARDNER, Precinct No. 3	Democratic
JONATHAN BISER, Precinct No. 4	Republican
S. ELMER BROWN, Precinct No. 3	Republican
ALBERT W. CONDON, Precinct No. 3	Republican
GEORGE W. KINDLEY, Precinct No. 2	Democratic
EDWARD C. LEASE, Precinct No. 1	Democratic
THOMAS C. MATENY, Precinct No. 1	Republican
JOHN L. MICHAEL, Precinct No. 1	Democratic
JOHN E. SCHELL, Precinct No. 4	Democratic
GEORGE H. ZIMMERMAN, Precinct No. 2	Republican

The above is a fac-simile of the official ballot as voted at the municipal election recently held in Frederick City, and the first election conducted under the reconstructed ballot law of 1901. We give this reproduction not only for its historic value, but in order as well that our readers may see the form of a ballot under the present election law. Much has already been printed about the operation of the new law, and the first practical test was given at Frederick, the results of which are fully known and have been fully discussed. However, those results are hardly a fair criterion for elections of larger scope, since there will be a much larger and consequently increased confusion for the illiterate or careless voter. Future developments are needed to clearly demonstrate the working of this law.

H. C. Sincell & Co.

Spring Top Coat. | Four Button Sack. | Military Front. | Military Back.



Our Spring Stock of

Men and ...Boys CLOTHING

Is now complete in all the NEW STYLES & COLORS.

All Wool Suits at $7.50.

Style, Fit, Quality==Guaranteed.

H. C. SINCELL & Co.

For Those Who Wore the Blue.

In accordance with General Orders, No. 4, headquarters Grand Army of the Republic, April 22, 1901, and General Orders No. 11, May 5, 1868, establishing the annual decoration of the graves of deceased comrads, Colonel John G. Taylor, of the Department of Maryland, has issued a general order directing that Thursday, May 30, next be observed as Memorial Day by the department. Posts of the department, in observance of established custom, are requested to attend divine service on the Sunday preceding Memorial Day. Whether or not the Post here will attend service on the Sunday preceding is not yet decided, but some years ago they attended in a body.

Decoration Day will be observed, however, in the usual manner, when the old soldiers will march in a body to the cemeteries and there pay a tribute to their dead comrads in arms. Each recurring Memorial Day marks the number of graves to be decorated as greater and the marchers fewer. The services, ritualistic in form, are nevertheless impressive and calls to memory the hard fought battles endured, the forced marches over heavy roads and through the woods, the bursting of shells and the whiz of bullets, the sharp commands of officers and finally the roll call at the end of each battle when the number of dead and missing is ascertained.

Judge Sloan Has Gone to the Seaside.

Judge David W. Sloan, who has been confined at his home for some weeks by illness, went to Atlantic City Monday morning on train No. 2, in a private car, placed at his disposal by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. He was accompanied by a number of friends.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod Liver Oil is the means of life, and enjoyment of life to thousands: men women and children.

When appetite fails, it restores it. When food is a burden, it lifts the burden.

When you lose flesh, it brings the plumpness of health.

When work is hard and duty is heavy, it makes life bright.

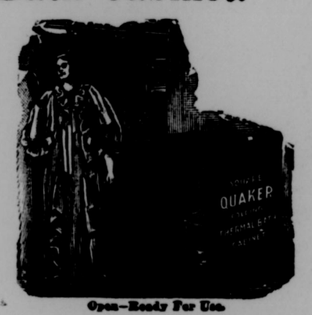
It is the thin edge of the wedge; the thick end is food. But what is the use of food, when you hate it, and can't digest it?

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the food that makes you forget your stomach.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists,
409 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

The Quaker Bath Cabinet.



Open—Ready For Use.

Recommended by prominent men everywhere and used by physicians, nurses, hospitals, sanitariums, beauty and massage parlors. Will benefit and cure every ailment. Even snake bites, hydrophobia, cancer and small pox no longer a terror to humanity.

No Disease Can Resist its Marvelous Power.

These delightful, remarkable Thermal Baths open the millions of pores all over the body and draw out the poison and impurities of the blood and entire system, cleanse inwardly and outwardly; are famous for producting a clear skin, brilliant complexion, preserving health, preventing Colds, Fevers, La Grippe and Disease. Cures bodily ailments, makes good, pure Blood, Strong Nerves, Clear Brain, Bright Eyes, Healthy Bodies. Fills you with new Life, Vim, Vigor of younger days. Marvelous power to overcome Sleeplessness and Insomnia.

Let us send you a "Quaker." Give it a trial, read the $2 book sent with each one, and if not found to be just as represented and does not do all that is claimed of it return it to us and we will cheerfully refund your money.

The price of the "Quaker" is $5—cannot be bought cheaper from the manufacturers (we pay cost of delivery)—with $2 book free to patrons.

A 16-page descriptive catalogue sent free upon request. AGENTS WANTED. Write for terms. Address all letters to

QUEEN CITY NOVELTY CO.,
General Agents, OAKLAND, MD.

Burlington Route

It costs no more to ride on this beautiful train than on any other.

Chicago-St. Paul Minneapolis Limited Express

It is electric lighted and heated by steam, carries a library-buffet-smoking car, a dining car à la carte and everything there is to make one comfortable.

Leaves CHICAGO 6.30 p. m. Daily

We sell through tickets, reserve sleeping car berths, furnish maps and time tables, and can, perhaps, be of service in other ways. Kindly write or call.

H. E. HELLER, District Passenger Agent,
632 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

LOCAL AND OTHERWISE

Incidents and Events at Home and Nearby —Personal Mention, Etc.

Fishing is the prevailing business of our local sportsmen.

C. S. May, at Swanton, will buy all wool this year for cash. See him before you sell. 4t

Mr. R. C. Campbell, of St. Louis, Mo., spent several days last and this week in Oakland.

C. T. Frantz has been appointed postmaster at Fearer, this county, vice A. M. Umbel, resigned.

When in need of sewer pipe call at Naylor's. Just received car load of 4, 5, 6, 8 and 10 inch. 7 3t

Wade H. Lohr, Esq., of Swanton, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Lohr, of Oakland, was in Oakland Tuesday on business.

Moses R. Hamill, Esq., has moved from the Gonder house on Second street to the residence of Hon. R. T. Browning on Liberty street.

WANTED.—Four men for common labor and to drive team. Will pay good wages and hire by month. Apply to Chas. R. Savedge, Deer Park, Md. 3t

Miss Belle Browning left Oakland on Tuesday morning for Winchester, Va., where she was to have gone last week but owing to a very seyere attack of tonsilitis, was detained.

Miss Sallie Merrill, who has been in Baltimore for some months attending a business school, returned to Oakland on Monday to remain during the summer.

For a stiff neck there is nothing better than a free application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It quickly relieves the stiffness and soreness, effecting a complete cure. For sale by all dealers.

Hon. A. F. George secured a day or two of vacation from his duties as postal route inspector and spent the time with his family near Swanton, visiting Oakland Monday and returning to work Tuesday morning.

The fields are donning a coat of beautiful green, the trees are coming out rapidly and there is a very decided air of spring everywhere. Vegetation of all kinds is taking on new life and while it has been backward no doubt now will make up for lost time.

FOR SALE:—The Lutheran parsonage, located on the corner of Fifth and Green streets, in Oakland, near the court house. Contains 8 rooms, hallway, cellar and porches; excellent well of water. Will be sold cheap. Apply to or address Rev. George I. Uhler, Oakland, Md.

"Jack" Scally made a trip to Wheeling and Pittsburg this week endeavoring to secure stone masons to assist him with a number of contracts he has on hand, but without success, as the men are busy in every section and command from $5 to $7 per day for their labor.

While the roads in the counry are now dry they are terribly rough in most places. This is the result of their having dried so rapidly. The travel has not been heavy enough to smooth them down as yet. They are expected to be all right in a short time however.

Postmaster Leslie E. Friend and George Kolb, Esq., of Friendsville, were in Oakland Monday and Tuesday. The visit of Mr. Friend to the county seat was the first made by him in ten years. He thinks the town has improved wonderfully in that time and was greatly surprised at the number of well constructed new buildings here.

